It is a position full of interest. Ryan, a Manchester boy, who is thrusting his way rapidly to the forefront, is a made-to-measure flyweight standing an inch over 5ft. broad, and very strong, with a tremendous punch, and those who support him believe that no man, including Kane himself, can stop his progress.

Jurich's Tribute

Obviously, when Kane fights for the British title he puts the world's crown at stake, since the conditions are the same.

At any rate, whatever the written conditions are when the match is made, Kane would lose his world's title if he were beaten.

He is eager to win the British honor, and he proved that he can still box 15 rounds at 8st. by beating a clever American, though many of his admirers are doubtful whether Kane at 8st. is any longer the deadly fighter of a year or two years ago.

Someone, incidentally, has tried to find an alibi for Jurich, and circulated a story of Jackie not being able to box properly because of toothache.

So that there shall not be any misunderstanding or dispute, here is what Jurich himself said: "Kane would have beaten me even if I had not had trouble with my teeth."

That seems to be final—and it shows what a great little sports man Jurich is.

Duke Vanquishes Wake Forest, 7-0

N.Y. Times

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Oct. 22—Duke's powerhouse struck quickly in the waning minutes of the opening period today to whip Wake Forest's scintillating sophomores, 7 to 0, in a Southern Conference game before 10,000 spectators.

It was fitting that Leonard Darnell, fleet Duke wingman, who is a Winston-Salem boy, should be the hero of his team's triumph.

With a matter of seconds to go in the first session, Darnell swept around the flank and took a pass from Welch, Duke quarter, on Wake Forest's 19, and sprinted across the goal line untouched. Tony Ruffa, a reserve guard, kicked a placement for the extra point.

Wake Forest threatened late in the final quarter with an inspired drive that started when Mayberry, substitute back, took a Duke punt on his own 26 stripe and ran back to his 42.

The march ended when Fuller fumbled and Perdue, Duke end, recovered on the 17.

Texas Christian Wins From Marquette, 21-0

N.Y. Times

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 22—Texas Christian, led by Davey O'Brien, great little quarterback who tossed passes all over the field, smothered Marquette's football team today, 21 to 0, before 14,000 fans.

Marquette was helpless as it tried to stop O'Brien's accurate tosses in the opening period. The T. C. U quarterback threw seven straight completed tosses which figured in two touchdowns before he retired to the sidelines at the end of the quarter, only to return in the final period to produce another marker.

The first score came after an 82-yard march, with O'Brien passing to Clark and Wilkinson. O'Brien scored on a smash from the 4. O'Brien passed to John Hall, a half-back, for the second touchdown.

The final tally came on a pass O'Brien to Earl Clark. O'Brien passed from his 32, Clark catching the ball on the Marquette 28 and out running every one. O'Brien kicked successfully for points after all the touchdowns.

The T. C. U. squad tried 25 passes completing 13 to gain 200 yards, and picked up 193 yards on running plays.

Marquette threatened only once late in the second period, when the Golden Avalanche got possession on a blocked punt, drove to the 7, but lost the ball at that point on a pass interception.

Until she was 45, Annie Smith Peck never had attempted to climb mountains. She then scaled the Matterhorn and began a series of assaults on the most rugged peaks of the Andes. Keio Wins All-Japan Hockey Title

A keen scrimmage as Keio University's eleven defeated the Kansai Club, one goal to nil (the score coming in the second half), at the new athletic field at Tsukijima, Tokyo, on Sunday afternoon. By virtue of the victory, Keio won its second straight title.

Keio's Improved Eleven Downed 33-7 By Waseda

By KOSHI MIYAZAKI

The championship bound Waseda University gridders put on a wild scoring splurge on Sunday at the Korakuen stadium to smother the University of Keio eleven 33 to 7.

A crowd of approximately 2,000 saw a close, hard-fought encounter turn out into a rout. Player-coach Richard Fukuda, former Honolulu Inter-scholastic all star center, and Kojack Naito, who won the most valuable player award last year, were the outstanding ball carriers for Waseda.

Kawashima, former Maroon halfback, took over the teaching position to give a play by play explanation of the game over the loud speaker to the interested Japanese sportsmen who are fast picking up this game.

Keio Improves

Keio's Coach, Ray Kunishima, University of Southern California graduate, deserves a big hand for the wonderful team he has built up in Mita. The Keio eleven is undoubtedly the best American football team in the league which is composed of all Japan-born boys only. The Keio ball totters played classy football and it was only a more experienced team that beat them.

The Maroons scored once in the first period, twice in the second and two more in the third quarter, with their tricky power plays and aerial attack. Keio's lone touchdown came late in the third period after left tackle Fukuda intercepted Shingu's lateral on the 16-yard line.

Coach Fukuda started the game with his first stringers and kept them in there until the end of the first half. The teamwork of these boys were unsurpassed. Every man cooperated to enable the backs to pile up a total of 11 first downs to only one by Keio. Also they scored enough touchdowns in the first half to relieve Coach Fukuda of unnecessary worries about the highly publicized Keio power line and flashy backfield, that he gave every man on the Maroon team a chance to play at least 15 minutes of the game.

The second stringers didn't do so bad either for although Keio really outplayed them, they allowed the hard hitting and speed Keio eleven to score only one touchdown. But Keio piled up a total of five first downs to only two by the Waseda reserves.

Penalty Leads to Score

The Maroons' first touchdown was scored after three minutes of play in the first quarter. Naito received Tamura's opening kickoff on his own 20-yard line. On the first play Nishioka circled right end of 12 yards. Then Naito went through off-tackle on the weakside for 20 more yards. Quarterback Noguchi then pulled off a quick surprise punt to Todo, who was downed on his own 15-yard line. Taking no chances, Todo stepped back and attempted to kick out of danger but the hard charging Moroon left tackle, Diamond Shimamura, rushed in to block the punt. Fortunately a Keio man recovered it. Again Todo stepped back and this time booted a beautiful one to Noguchi on the opponents' 40-yard line. Noguchi then flipped a pass over the right flank to Nomura for eight yards. On the next play Waseda was penalized 15 yards for clipping so the ball was brought back to the 47-yard line. Quarterback Noguchi called for another pass and threw a long one over the left flank to Fukushima but Todo blocked him and Waseda demanded a penalty but the Referee ruled Todo's blocking perfectly legal. But on the next play Noguchi shot another long pass over the right flank to Nomura and again Todo bumped into him. This time Todo was charged with interferring with the receiver and the ball was placed on the one-yard line. With first down one yard to the goal, Naito took the ball and jumped over center for the first touchdown. A pass from Noguchi to Fukushima added the extra point.

On the next kickoff Keio almost scored when "speed" Todo, an 11-flat man, made a beautiful 33-yard run around the left flank. He sidestepped all the would-be tacklers except Naito, who downed him on the 32-yard line. But from here Waseda put on a stone-wall defense and Keio lost the ball on downs. Waseda's ball on its own 32-yard line, Fukuda took the ball around left end and then lateraled it to the stalwart tackle, Diamond Shimamura, who romped 35 yards toward the goal, only to be overtaken by "Speed" Todo on the 35-yard line. Then Waseda made a vain attempt to break through Keio's powerful defense as the quarter ended. Score: Waseda 7, Keio 0.

Trick Plays Gain

The two touchdowns in the second quarter resulted after a grand march down the field with a succession of trick power plays and passes. Fukuda and Nishioka did most of the ground gaining but Naito crossed the goal for the first touchdown and Noguchi for the second with a quarterback sneak. Naito converted for the extra point with a center buck. Score at half time: Waseda 20, Keio 0.

The Maroons' last two touchdowns came in the early minutes of the third period. Halfback Gori Nishioka recovered Tamura's fumble on Keio's 40-yard line. Fukuda faked an end run and, seeing Nomura all open near the east sidelines, flipped a beautiful spiral pass to "Long-John" Nomura, who made a difficult catch. Again he was tackled by "Speed" Todo, on the 1-foot line. Naito crossed the goal on the next play through center. Conversion failed.

Nakayama kicked off to Todo again, who made a beautiful 15-yard return. But the Maroon power line was impregnable so Todo punted a high one to Fukuda on the 50-yard marker. Fukuda gained five yards through center and on the next play, Naito again took the ball through center, emerged untouched, then he side-stepped Keio's secondary defense and outran "speed" Todo for the last Maroon touchdown of the day. A spectacular 45-yard run. Captain Nakayama converted with a place kick.

Waseda, having won the ball on downs, on their own 20-yard line, prepared to march down the field. Relief Quarterback Yamada called for a lateral so Halfback Shingu received the ball from center and attempted to lateral it to Yamada. But left tackle Fukuda jumped in and snagged the lateral from the air to make it first down for Keio on the 16-yard line. Todo hit the line six times and finally tallied for Keio's lone touchdown, as the quarter ended. Tamura converted with a line plunge. Scores are third quarter: Waseda 33 Keio 7.

Keio Rallies

Both teams failed to score in the last 15 minutes of play but Keio had the better of that quarter. Todo's offtackles and end runs were good for a total of five first downs and the ball was mostly in Waseda's territory, but, Doc. Noguchi, the only first stringer remaining in the line-up, kept the ball away from his goal line with his beautiful long punts.

The most outstand lineman on the Maroon defense was Right guard Susumu Fujioka. He stopped many a Keio play behind the line of scrimmage. Diamond Shimamura, Nakadate, Fukushima, Miyamoto and Nomura also shared honors on the Maroon stonewall line.

Left Halfback "speed" Todo was undoubtedly the most outstanding player on the Keio line-up but Tamura, Takemura and Kuwabara also did fine work. On the line, Tomita, Fukuda, Motoki, Jodo, Yamataya and Watanabe played a bang-up game.

The starting line-up:

	Waseda	Keio

Keio Wins Soccer Title By Beating Teidai By 3 To 1

Keio defended its title as soccer champions of the Kanto University league by triumphing over the Tokyo Imperial University eleven, 3 goals to 1, in the final game Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium.

With both teams undefeated in four previous games, the season's largest crowd was on hand to witness the two teams battle for the title.

Keio's smashing attack in the first half was the deciding factor of the game as it produced the three winning goals. Its forward line pressed from the opening kick-off and kept storming the Teidai goal. The combination of Harima and Ninomiya functioned too well for Teidai.

Although outplayed in the first half, Teidai came to life in the second half. It not only held Keio to no score but accounted for the only goal during the half.

Keio Scores First

Keio broke the ice in the scoring column after 10 minutes of furious scrimmaging. With Center Forward Ninomiya leading the attack, Keio pressed. Goalie Gando of Teidai made a save but Outside Right Shinozaki was on top of the ball and booted it into the net from close range.

Two corner kicks gave Keio a chance to score during the next two minutes of play but Teidai put up a stellar defense. Keio tallied again in 17 minutes when Teidai's heading was ineffective. Ninomiya headed the ball toward the rear and Shinozaki in turn headed it into the goal.

Keio kept on pressing and Teidai never had a chance. With the ball continuously in Teidai territory, Keio registered another goal in 29 minutes. Ninomiya delivered down the field and it was Shinozaki who booted a goal from the left wing. Teidai stormed the Keio goal during the last few minutes of the first half but Goalie Tsuda effected a nice save.

Teidai Scores

Teidai came through with its only goal, and the only score in the half after 17 minutes of play after the interval. Penetrating the Keio defense in midfield Naoki booted a strong one down the field. Left Inside Otsuki worked it into scoring zone and Outside Left Matsumura finally scored from close range.

The lineups follow:

Keio: Shinozaki, Harima, Ninomiya, Obata and Inomata, forwards, Kasahara, Ishikawa and Takashima, halfbacks; Kuto and Miyake, fullbacks; Tsuda, goalie.

Teidai: Oya, Naoki, Abe, Otsuki and Matsumura, forwards: Tamura Kikuchi and Shoku, halfbacks; Tsukijima and Oyama, fullback; Gando, goalie.

The final standings follow:

Eventually, Why Not Now?

Sam, who was ambitious but penniless, desired to be a junk dealer. He went to the village banker to seek the necessary sum to start in business.

The banker sympathetically heard the Negro's story.

"But don't you think it could be done on less than the $100 that you ask?" queried the would-be benefactor.

"No, sih," replied Sam. "A horse and wagon would cost mos' of dat."

"Well, what guarantee can you give me for the money?"

Sam thought for a moment.

"Well, suh, Ah could have youah name painted on th' wagon."

His neighbors: "Now we can have peace for a few hours a day."

Meiji Gridders Rout Hosei By 74-0 Score At Korakuen

By BILL OMURA

Meiji's football team, gathering power and speed as the game progressed, swamped the Hosei eleven for a 74 to 0 victory in the first game of a doubleheader at the Korakuen Stadium, Sunday afternoon.

From the opening of the game till the final gun, more than 2,000 fans saw the Meiji gridders dominate their heavier opponents with their beautiful laterals, long gains via overhand and air intermixed with trick plays in convincing fashion. Once under way they completely outplayed their opponents and displayed their craft which makes them favorites to win the 1938 intercollegiate championship.

Hosei Tackled too High

Hosei eleven tackled too high, fumbled frequently and lacked running power and punch.

Yoshimoto, Wada, Omai and Yasuda, tallied seven of the eleven touchdown during the first half of the game.

Before the game was three minutes old, Yoshimoto leading the brunt of the attack, steam-rollered Hosei's line of defense for the initial score, adding the extra point by plunging through center. Omai, recovering his own fumble heaved over the goal to right end Toyama for the second touchdown. Yasuda, taking the ball on Hosei's 10-yard line, smacked through center for the third count. Wada, receiving quarterback Yasuda's lateral, ran wide around left end for the fourth. Following Machida's recovery of Ono's fumble on Hosei's 7-yard line, Wada carried the ball through center for the sixth. For the seventh touchdown, Powerhouse Omi, knifing through center and beautifully evading the secondary defense, ran 25 yards making the score 48 to 0 at the end of the first half.

Details of the second half follow:

Third Quarter

Yoshimoto kicked off for Meiji. Fujita returned the ball 20 yards to the 50-yard line. Fujita's intended pass for Yatagai was knocked down by Yasuda. Nakagami kicked to Yoshimoto who was downed on Meiji's 20-yard line. Following a series of play, Yasuda kicked to Fujita who fumbled and Toyama of Meiji recovered on the 50-yard line. Yoshimoto sneaked through center to Hosei's 40-yard line. On the next play Yoshimoto heaved a long forward pass to Machida who ran five yards for a touchdown. Conversion failed. Score—Meiji 54, Hosei 0.

Fujita of Hosei returned Yoshimoto's kickoff to Hosei's 40-yard line. Takamoto of Meiji messed up Hosei's triple lateral and threw Fujita for a 15 yard loss. Nakagami's attempted pass to Yatagai was intercepted by quarterback Yasuda of Meiji on Hosei's 20-yard line. On the initial play, Yasuda circled left end, then lateraled to Yoshimoto who carried the ball to score. Yoshimoto's place-kick was incomplete. Score—Meiji 60, Hosei 0.

Nakada took Yoshimoto's kickoff on Hosei's 25-yard line. Omai replaced Futa at half for Meiji. Wada substituted for Yoshimoto for Meiji. Hosei fumbled on the first play. Meiji recovered. Wada knifed through off-tackle and carried the ball to Hosei's 3-yard line. On the next play, Wada smacked center to score. Wada place-kicked for the extra point. Score—Meiji 67, Hosei 0.

Fourth Quarter

After a series of line-plays failed to gain, Nakagami kicked to Wada of Meiji who returned the ball to his own 42-yard line. Meiji was penalized for off-side. Failing to complete two passes, Yasuda kicked but the ball rolled out of bounds on Hosei's 40-yard line. Fumbling the ball behind the line of scrimmage, Yatagai was thrown for a loss of 10 yards by Meiji's left end, Machida. Ono attempted a pass on the next play but it was intercepted by Wada in midfield. Wada heaved to Toyama, good for a gain of 17 yards. Wada circled right end for 22 yards to score. Yasuda's pass to Machida completed for the extra point. Score—Meiji 74, Hosei 0.

Omai kicked-off for Meiji. Ono took the ball for Hosei who returned the ball to his own 35-yard line. Fujita recovered his own fumble but was thrown for a loss of seven yards. Hosei was penalized for off-side. Fujita's kick rolled out of bound on Hosei's 36-yard line. Machida took ball on the red Statue of Liberty play for a gain of three yards. Meiji was penalized 15 yards for clipping. Omai's attempted pass to Yasuda was downed by Fujita. Meiji was again penalized for off-side, and the gun ended the game. Final score—Meiji 74; Hosei 0.

The Bending Towers of the Golden Gate Bridge

Because of the uneven heating of the steel in the towers of the 8½-mile long San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, the towers bend away from the sun. On one occasion, before the cables and suspended structure were installed, the towers bent as much as six inches from plumb. The bending of the towers is explained by the bridge engineers as follows: the steel plates of which the towers are built expand when the sun shines on them. The expansion elongates the side in which the sun shines, thus forcing the tower to lean in the opposite direction. The bridge is built to compensate for stresses that cause the bridge to bend.

First Title In 7 Years

Rikkyo players storming the Waseda goal after five minutes of play in the first half in their game Monday afternoon which the former won, 48-40, to clinch the title.

Rikkyo Wins Cage Title, Beating Waseda, 48 To 40 In 2 Extra Period Battle

In a torrid contest that necessitated two extra periods, Rikkyo University's basketball team finally emerged victorious over Waseda, 48 to 40, Monday afternoon at the National Gymnasium at Hitotsubashi to win its first championship in the Kanto Intercollegiate league in seven years. It finished the season with 10 victories and one defeat. The schedule is not yet completed but Tokyo Imperial University's quintet has already suffered two defeats and Waseda, last year's titleholder, has been beaten thrice.

The standings follow:

	R	T	W	M	B	S	G	W	Pct.
R	x	2	2	2	2	2	11	10	.909
T	0	x	:	2	2	2	8	6	.750
W	1	:	x	2	2	2	10	7	.700
M	0	0	0	x	2	:	9	2	.222
B	0	0	1	1	x	2	12	4	.333
S	0	0	0	:	0	x	8	0	.000
Games lost	1	2	3	7	8	8

Key: Rikkyo (R); Tokyo Imperial (T); Waseda (W); Meiji (M); Bunrika (B); Shodai (S).

Having humbled Rikkyo, 37-36, for the latter's first defeat of their season in their second game of their two out of three series on Sunday (Rikkyo won the first 47-42 on Saturday), the Waseda five was a determined combination to win on Monday. And it was the offensive team as the game got under way with the Rikkyo quintet showing signs of nervousness.

Rikkyo Nervous

It might have been due to airtight defense put up by Waseda, the younger and less experienced Rikkyo players apparently lost their eye for the basket. Then they fell down heavily in their conversion of free throws, otherwise they might have had an easier time defeating Waseda.

The main reason for Waseda's defeat was the listless showing by Forward Yokoyama, the team's most highly reputed scoring ace, an Olympic player as well. He had been in a slump throughout the season, but he was even worse on Monday. He scored nary a point in the first half and on top of it was charged with three personal fouls. Consequently he was forced to play a more conservative game, and it naturally affected his effectiveness. He finally was discharged with four personal's.

Waseda suffered a considerable handicap toward the latter part of the second half with several of its players forced to continue play despite injuries, and with the necessity of having to send in a number of second stringers into the game.

Center Cho was the outstanding star for Rikkyo. He not only was the pivot man in the attack but was high scorer with 13 points.

The game was a nip and tuck fight from the first tip-off. Forward Takahashi of Rikkyo rang the first field goal of the game in four minutes but Munekata retaliated for Waseda. The game see-sawed with Rikkyo leading 18-17 at the end of the half.

Waseda got off to a flying start after the interval, goals by Munekata and Kameoka giving the team a 24 to 20 lead after eight minutes of play. Munekata came through with another basket to up the lead to 26-21 in 9 minutes. But Waseda suffered heavily with Yokoyama and Kuroda being thrown out of the game because of having committed the maximum of personal fouls. Rikkyo's attack began to function from this stage of the tussle and the score stood 28-all after 15 minutes of play. It was a see-saw affair that followed and the score was deadlocked at 32-all when the gun went off.

Rikkyo Rallies

Waseda led early in the extra session but Rikkyo rallied to forge into the lead. The former, however, tied in at 37-all just before the whistle to necessitate another extra period. Guard Kasahara and Forward Takahashi sank two timely goals for Rikkyo. Desperate, the entire Waseda team went down the floor in an attempt to score. But this proved a boomerang as Rikkyo took advantage of the vacated zone to increase its lead to run out the period by an 11-3 advantage, or a final score of 48 to 40.

AMES, Iowa, Oct. 22—Iowa State's high-stepping Cyclones made it three in a row in the Six Six Conference, today by vanquishing a stubborn University of Kansas football team, 21 to 7, before a homecoming crowd of 18,000.

In the first quarter Halfback Gordon Reupke fired a lateral to Everett Kischer, who tossed a forward to left end Chuck Heileman on the 19-yard line. Two plays later the Cyclones worked exactly the same play to Heileman standing in the end zone. Kischer kicked the point.

Two plunges by Fullback Hank Wilder in the second period resulted in another touchdown. Kischer again converted. Kischer plunged for the final score and again kicked the point.

Dick Amerine and Lynman Divens slashed the Cyclone line and ran the ends to feature the Kansas march down the field for a touchdown in the third period. Bunsen took a pass from Divens on the Cyclone 4-yard mark to set the stage for Amerine's line smash for the score. Gibbens was called in to kick the extra point.

Dartmouth Tops Harvard Eleven By 13-7 Count

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS

N.Y. Times

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 22—Dartmouth's line strength enabled the Green Indians from Hanover to subdue a gallant Harvard eleven today in a rousing football struggle that rightfully took its place among the thrillers unfolded in the Harvard Stadium this season. After being held scoreless in the first half, the heavily favored eleven from the North struck for two quick scores in the closing periods and conquered the game Harvard athletes by 13 to 7.

Although Harvard had lost all three of its previous games of the current campaign and was generally expected to fall before the undefeated Dartmouth team, the game gave promise of being a stirring contest and in anticipation of such a spectacle a crowd of 55,000 persons sat in on the proceedings. Form in the shape of a Dartmouth triumph, stood up, but when the program was over the invaders were well aware of the fact that they had been in a fight.

It was the vigilant and powerful forward line play of the Dartmouth aggregation that, in effect, encompassed the Harvard defeat. True, the big Green team, with such able running stars as Bob MacLeod, Bill Hutchinson and Colby Howe in its backfield, clearly overshadowed Harvard in the matter of ground gaining, but it was the fine play of stalwarts like Bob Gibson, Gregory Zitrides, Louis Young and Louis Highmark up ahead which, in the last analysis, made for the Dartmouth victory.

Puts Pressure on Backs

They opened up sizable holes for their ball carriers, afforded them splendid interference, and forced the Harvard secondaries rather than the Crimson linemen to do most of the tackling of the Green runners. And on the defense, save for only a few lapses, Dartmouth's shock troops handled everything that Harvard threw at them to a nicety, yielding only a minimum of gains to the Cantab runners.

To Howe and MacLeod went the honor of tallying the Dartmouth touchdowns, while Harvard's counter was registered by Ben Smith. Smith's score, however, came two plays from the end of the game, and did not in the least fill the Dartmouth sympathizers with fear of defeat.

Caprices of fortune were very much in evidence during the battle, as they most generally are in any meeting between two fairly evenly matched elevens. For a penalty against them deprived the Dartmouth athletes of one touchdown, when a run by MacLeod was ruled illegal, while a Harvard fumble deep in Crimson territory led directly to the Dartmouth counter which sealed the victory for the visitors.

Although their offensive strength gave them the edge in the first half, the Indians, except for the play by MacLeod that was nullified, could not make their way over Harvard's goal line.

MacLeod and Howe Excel

But immediately on taking possession of the ball at the second half kick-off the Hanoverians plowed their way through on a 60-yard march to tally. Only nine offensive moves, all on the ground, were needed by the Green warriors to make the score.

After MacLeod took Harding's kick-off on the Dartmouth 30 and made ten yards, Howe picked his way through the line to scurry to the Harvard 43. MacLeod then advanced to the 26, and from there he and Howe alternated at advancing until they reached the Crimson 4.

It appeared, for a short time, as though Harvard would make a successful goal-line stand, for MacLeod was held to two yards, and Howe was stopped at the 1-inch line. But Howe tried once more, and this time he stormed his way inside his own left tackle to carry the ball just far enough over the Cambridge line to effect a score. Hutchinson's attempt for the extra point went wide.

Harvard made a successful defensive stand for the rest of the period, and was in no further danger of yielding a score. But when the fourth quarter rolled around the Cantabs once more were forced to bow to the superior power of their foes' line and were pressed back 55 yards from Dartmouth's 15 on a succession of running plays by MacLeod and Hutchinson. The visitors then abandoned their ground attack and tried the air, but the move was costly, as they lost five yards and were forced to kick into the end zone.

Things then didn't look so bad for Harvard and Dartmouth's six points could conceivably be erased by a characteristically tricky Harvard offensive. So, on their own 20-yard line, the local athlete essayed a play which involved three men handling the ball.

The first two carried out their assignments perfectly, but the third had the misfortune to fumble on his own 15 and Charley Miller, Dartmouth's left end, recovered. Joe Cottone streaked to the four where he was thrown out of bound by Joe Gardella. Then, for having a back in motion, Dartmouth was penalized five yards.

MacLeod got back 4 yards on the next play and one of Dartmouth's two successful forwards followed with Hutchinson tossing to Parks who was stopped by Gardella on the Crimson 1. Then MacLeod struck through his own right guard to score, and Hutchinson followed by converting a placement for the extra point.

The unpleasant turn of events against them spurred the Harvard warriors to aggressive heights, and they thrilled their supporters by staging a 75-yard march to a touchdown. They came into possession on the kick-off when Foley was downed on his own 25. Three plays picked up 10 yards, whereupon Foley hurled a neat toss to Smith who ran to Dartmouth's 40.

A plunge by Foley and a pass, Foley to Green, saw Harvard move to the Green 25 for first down. After one rush was stopped, Foley threw a long pass to MacDonald, who amazed the onlookers by catching the oval with one hand and carrying it to the six. Smith and Foley pounded to the half-yard marker before Smith fell over the Indians' goal line for a score.

Less than a minute remained after Harding kicked the extra point and Harvard attempted an on-side kick to retain possession, but the ball went to Hutchinson on the visitors' 40. Hutchinson ran once from scrimmage for 5 yards and the game ended.

Great Passing Trio Discuss Aerial Game

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—Sammy Baugh is in town and by a strange prank of fate—or maybe just smart press agenting—he met up with Benny Friedman, the man from Michigan who was the greatest passer of the "Twenties," and Sid Luckman, the Columbia tailback who is the most talented college heaver of the year.

The trio warmed up fast. The tall, drawling Baugh, who looks like a cowboy, and Luckman, a quiet, unassuming boy who blushes when asked a direct question, started swapping experiences and business secrets, while Friedman, an all-America at Michigan when they were frisking about on sand lots, looked on and smiled.

"The receivers are better in pro ball," Sam told Sid, "but it evens up 'cause they rush you more. One thing, there aren't any soft spots anywhere. I've found that out with the Washington Redskins."

Not to Play Pro

Someone asked Luckman if he would play pro ball after college.

"No, not me, I'd like to go into business and do a little coaching on the side maybe, but no professional football," he said.

They started comparing grips and hands. Baugh has the longest hands and the strongest grip. He holds the ball with the lacing against the heel of his thumb. Friedman and Luckman, whose hands are broader and a touch smaller, hold it with their fingertips across the lacing.

"I don't tip the ball none," said Sammy. "If it's a long pass, I nose the ball up, but mostly I throw them flat—chest high. Downfield I try to get 'em a little ahead and a little higher. 'Course I always lead the receiver on flat passes."

"We throw some flat ones, too," Sid ventured, "I don't think we do it as well as you fellows, but we have a play almost like that pass you threw to Malone."

Benny laughed. "You should have seen the stuff we had. About three plays. And all the passes were spot stuff. When I started, passing was just a supplementary attack, now it's 50 per cent of the offense."

Poise Makes Passer

Queried as to what made a passer, each had the same answer—poise.

"I know a lot of linemen can throw the ball farther than a back," said Baugh. "In fact, I don't know just how far I could throw it if I tried and I bet these two fellows don't either. But that doesn't count. You've got to be able to stand back there with three or four boys crowding you and let it go right to your man."

The two others nodded approval.

"And when you have a guy that can do that," said Sam, "why you're just set, that's all. Look at these upsets you read about. Nine out of 10 happen because the winning team has a good passer. Boy, the pass is a great invention for a small college. They're all in the ball game now."

Santa Clara Tops Michigan State For 15 In Row

N.Y. Times

EAST LANSING, Mich., Oct. 29—By the margin of a point after touchdown, Santa Clara defeated Michigan State, 7 to 6, today to remain among the unbeaten and untied major football elevens of the nations. A crowd of 21,000 saw the Broncos run their string of consecutive victories to 15. Both teams scored in the second period.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Brancos ran in an entire new team at the start of second, but State drove to a touchdown. Pingel shot a pass to Budinski who was run out on the Santa Clara.

Then Pingel ran off tackle for the score. Leslie Bruckner's try for the point from placement was blocked.

Broncos Charge Back

Santa Clara, taking the kickoff, drove to midfield, lost the ball on State's 40 on an interception, got it back the same way and then lost it again on a fumble on the Spartan 35.

Smith, substitute Bronco tackle, then blocked Klewicki's punt, caught the ball in the air on the State 30 ran for a Santa Clara from placement to give the Broncos a lead which they never relinguished.

Spartans Hard Pressed

After a punt exchange State drove to the Santa Clara 15 in the third period on passes but a fumble stalled the march, but in the fourth Pingle booted a punt out of bounds on his 35 and almost immediately the Sparatans had to put on another stonewall defense to protect their goal line. Clarke passed to Anahu for 25 yards, but State held for downs on its own 9-yard line.

Notre Dame Downs Army, 19-7 As 79,000 Look On In Their 25th Meeting

By ALLISON DANZIG

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—Trailing by 7—6 going into the final quarter, Notre Dame struck twice in rapid succession with touchdown runs yesterday to gain a conclusive 19-7 victory over Army at the Yankee Stadium in their twenty-fifth anniversary football meeting.

The season's biggest gathering in the East, numbering 79,000 spectators, saw the West Point Cadets execute an electrifying march of 73 yards from the opening kick-off, only to falter before the greater reserve strength of Elmer Layden's hard-hitting team and take a bad physical beating in the second half.

So Notre Dame kept its winning streak intact and Army is still looking for its first victory since 1931 over its intersectional rival from South Bend, Indiana.

Reserves Sap Army Strength

Like all Army-Notre Dame games, this was a bruising, punishing battle-royal. After the first half the Cadets led by 7—0. But once the husky team from the Middle West had worked itself to a fighting pitch and the vast reservoir of its replacements had sapped Army's stamina, Captain Bill Wood's game eleven was helpless and hammered into submission.

The beautifully diversified attack with which Army had riddle Notre Dame's defenses through the air and along the ground to score on Charley Long's left-handed, weak-side pass into the flat from the 5-yard line in the first three minutes was stopped stone dead.

In the third quarter the cadets never got past their 40-yard line and in the final period they were bottled up inside their 30. After they had made three successive first downs in the first five minutes of the second quarter they never earned another until almost the last play of the game.

Victors Turn to Attack

The powerful Notre Dame forwards, who had checked Army's only other scoring chance of the day by recovering a fumble after they had risked and failed to complete a fourth down pass on their own 28 late in the second period, not only held their opponents' attack in chancery for the last forty minutes of actual play. They went to work with a berserk fury to give impetus to their own offense.

There was power and speed galore in the Notre Dame backfield and it erupted right after the start of the second half. Stevenson Thesing, Staggau, Sheridan, Piepul and Zontini constituted probably the finest collection of ball-carriers Layden has had under his command, and, spelling each other in an almost unending streak of substitutions, their effectiveness was enhanced all the more.

The dynamite in the Notre Dame attack had made itself evident right after Army's opening score as the powerful Piepul ran the next kick-off back 45 yards and the South Benders went 25 more by rushing before stalling on the Cadets' 27. It asserted itself again at the end of the opening quarter as Saggau and Thesing went 35 yards to Army's 20 after John Kelley had recovered Bill Mullin's fumble.

Great Stand by Soldiers

Army again rose to the occasion and took the ball at the 20 as Ken Due and Larsy Greene tumbled. Thesing a yard short of a first down. But there was no stopping the galaxy of big hard-running Notre Dame backs all afternoon. The pounding that the cadets were taking told on them, and Stella, Dobson, Sullivan, Little, Lotozo, Schwenk, Frontczak and all the other Army scrappers were unable to keep up the grand work they had been doing on the defense.

A 34-yard smash through center from short-kick formation by Thesing started Notre Dame on the way to victory at the start of the second half, and after a 2-yard gain, Saggau, taking the ball in short-punt formation again, cut loose a tremendous pass.

Earl Brown, left end, made a spectacular leaping catch on the 6-yard line, with Mullin alongside him, and ran across for a gain of 46 yard and a touchdown, Saggau's drop-kick failed, and so Army still led by virtue of Charley Long's placement for the extra point.

Notre Dame's on-side recovery of its following kick-off gave it the ball on its 41, but Thesing fumbled and Dobson recovered for Army. There followed two magnificent kicks by Mullin and Saggau for 65 and 74 yards, respectively, and late in the third period Notre Dame went 25 yards to the cadets' 31, from where Stevenson's try for a field goal from placement failed.

New Team Enters Game

Then came a break of the game that touched off the dynamite of the Notre Dame attack in earnest. Layden had sent in an entire new team, right after the touchback on the try for a field goal, and Army, unable to gain, went into punt formation on its 21-yard mark.

Sid Martin, in for Mullin, who had played most of the game in the injured Woody Wilson's left halfback position, kicked and the ball was partially blocked by Bill Kerr, substitute left end. Hofer caught it on Army's 49 and was tackled by Little Jack Little as he sought to return it.

Hofer fumbled and an Army man, who appeared to be Martin, recovered. But the umpire, Frank Burch, ruled the ball was dead when Hofer fumbled, and Notre Dame took possession on Army's 30 as the quarter ended.

The cadets argued about the decision to no avail.

In four plays after the start of the final period, Notre Dame had scored. Sheridan lost 5 yards as Lotozo tackled him and made up 4 of them on the second down. Standing in short kick formation which the South Benders were now using in preference to the box and single wing, the speedy Sheridan on the next play went around his right end as Army's defense fell back in expectation of a pass.

Blocking Is Savage

Notre Dame blockers, who were mopping up as fiercely as they were tackling on the defense, cut down every cadet who had a chance at him until he was brought down half a yard from the goal line. On the next scrimmage, in formation right, Sheridan went between Army's left tackle and guard to score.

It was only a few minutes after Morrison had failed to add the extra point with his placement that Notre Dame was breaking loose for another score. Taking the ball on their own 40, the Westerners again got across in four plays. After three of them had advanced it to Army's 48, the powerful running Thesing went through Army's short right guard, cut back to his own right and made a beautiful dash down the sideline, averting both Cadet tacklers and the chalk mark to score.

Zontini kicked the extra point, and that was the end of the scoring for the day, although the South Benders were threatening again as Army took desperate chances with passes deep to its own territory and had one intercepted.

It was a thoroughly beaten Army team that dragged itself from the field at the end, but it was a team that had fought its heart out against superior manpower and backfield speed and that had no cause to feel disgraced. So long as its strength lasted, it put up a battle that had the great crowd roaring.

Wilson's Help Unavailable

But Notre Dame's vastly superior reserve strength was more than it could cope with, and it had little service from its best ball carrier, Wilson, and none at all from its best center, the injured Gillis.

Probably Notre Dame would have won even without the advantage it enjoyed in being able to substitute entire teams, but the fact remains that as long as the Cadet regulars had their strength it was a fight every inch. In the first half the Cadets had a net gain of 44 yards by rushing to Notre Dame's 57, stayed even in first downs and gained 63 yards by passing to 36.

In the second half the Cadets were able to gain only 5 yards by rushing and 7 by passing.

Notre Dame as it played in the second half looked to be strong enough to meet any team in the country on even terms. Its blocking and tackling were little short of savage, and the fact that it was able to crush the hope out of a team as big as Army is evidence enough of the terrific punch it packs.

With a big scrappy line, led superbly by Ed Beinor at tackle, and a great array of big, fast backs, it heads for Navy and its remaining opponents with high hopes of going through its best season since Knute Rockne was at the helm.

The old master, who starred as a player in the inaugural game of this series on the Plains of West Point in 1913, would have been proud of this team. He would have been proud of its blocking and tackling, of its alertness in recovering fumbles and of the fighting fury with which it came back after Army had ripped it apart on the Cadets' magnificent opening march of 73 yards.

Tigers Out To Beat Giants 4 In Row

The third game of this year's four out of seven series for the championship of Japan's professional baseball circuit will be played Thursday at the Korakuen stadium here with the fourth and whatever remaining games necessary on the consecutive days at the same diamond.

The Osaka Tigers beat the Tokyo Giants in the first and second games at the Koshien stadium, near Osaka, by respective scores of 5-4 and 3-2, and are determined to make it four straight.

Last year's title also went to the Tigers, who clinched the pennant in the Fall season and triumphed over the Giants, who had won the gonfalon in the Spring season.

Georgia Tech Tops Auburn Squad, 7-6

N.Y. Times

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 22—It has been a good many years since Georgia Tech won a football game by a point after touchdown, but it happened today as the Engineers opened their Southeastern Conference campaign by defeating the Auburn Plainsmen, 7 to 6, before 20,000 fans. It was the forty-second renewal of the rivalry between the schools.

In the waning minutes of the second period Georgia Tech scored its touchdown. George (Buck) Shaw, a little-used quarterback, drop-kicked perfectly to convert the extra point that provided the victory margin.

Trailing, 7 to 0, with only twelve minutes of the fourth period remaining, the Plainsmen staged a spectacular drive of 80 yards, featured by a 36-yard pass from Dick McGowan to Max Harrison to cross the goal line. Grath Thorpe, a substitute guard, attempted the extra point, but Tech's Anderson leaped high to divert its course outside the uprights.

Georgia Tech's touchdown came shortly after Cayette had backed the Plainsmen to their 20-yard stripe with a 61-yard boot. Auburn tried three running plays that lost 14 yards and McGowan punted to Tech's Billy Gibson at the Auburn 37 and he ran it back to the 20.

After a series of line smashes, interminglied with several penalties Bobby Beers tossed a 19-yard pass to End Bob Ison over the Auburn goal. Shaw drop-kicked beautifully for the point.

Cambridge Meets Oxford In Soccer Game On Dec. 3

London Times

LONDON, Oct. 14—The first of the more important University contests will this year be the Association football match on December 3, and a lot can happen before that time. However, an early glance at Oxford's prospects in the six events discussed below suggests that their teams will be well up to the recent high standard. Last year Oxford won the Boat Race, the Rugby match, and the sports; Cambridge were successful in the Association match and at golf; and the hockey match was left drawn. Only six of last year's Rugy team have gone up again, but in each of the other five events at least half of those who played against Cambridge last year will again be available.

Rowing

Oxford won the Boat Race last April by two lengths and so recorded their second successive victory after a long losing run. J. L. Garton (Eton and Magdalen), who rowed bow last year, has succeeded J. C. Cherry (Westminster and Brasenose) as President. Three other old Blues, R. R. Stewart (Eton and Magdalen), H. A. W. Forbes (St. Paul's and Magdalen), and F. A. L. Waldron (Shrewsbury and Trinity), are also in residence again, but they will devote this term to work and will not take part in the trials. Waldron resigned his office as Secretary on this account, and G. Huse (Latymer Upper School and Oriel), who has yet to obtain his Blue, has been elected in his place.

The race is still some six months ahead—the challenge from Cambridge has not yet been received—and much may happen in that time, but at the moment it seems that the crew will be well up to the average of recent years. Several of those who took part in last year's Trial Eights race will again be available, including L. S. A. Jones (St. Edward's and Balliol), J. S. Stockton (Shrewsbury and Trinity), R. D Burnell (Eton and Magdalen), J. R. Bingham (Bedford and Pembroke), a stroke, A. G. Semeck (St. Edward's and St. Edmund Hall), G. Huse, and the cox, E. M. Pilkington (Worksop and Keble).

Little is known as yet about the Freshmen, but it is thought that they may be rather scarce this year. There would seem, however, to be plenty of material without them, at any rate for the present. Swivel rowlocks will be used again, for the third consecutive time, but as yet there is no news about the possible coaches. The Trial Eights race will be rowed on November 26.

Rugby Football

Oxford, it will be recalled, caused a big surprise when they beat Cambridge at Twickenham last December by 17 points to four. Much of the credit for that success went to H. D. Freakes (Rhodes University College, South Africa, and Magdalen), whose grand exhibition of tackling completely upset the much-praised Cambridge three-quarter line. Freakes will captain the side this season, and he will have to support him F. M. M. Forster (Wellington and Trinity), the full-back, I. H. Watts (Sutton Valence and St. Peter's Hall), the stand-off half; and three forwards in D. G. G. Coles (Clifton and Trinity), R. M. Marshall (Giggleswick and Oriel), and H. H. Pennington (Upholland and St. Edmund Hall). That leaves nine places to be filled, but Freakes is faced with a number of problems and little more than two months in which to solve them.

In the first place it is possible that the captain will go back to his original position at full-back—he was England's back against Wales in January—and if he does he will have to find a completely new three-quarter line. Last year's line of A. Obolensky (Trent and Brasenose), M M. Walford (Rugby and Trinity), Freakes, and W. N. Renwick (Loretto and University College) will take some replacing, but for the center positions there are two likely Seniors in R. Luyt (University of Capetown and Trinity) and T. J. Cowan (St. Bees and Trinity). There is also a Freshman of promise in D. F. J. Watson (Sedbergh and Brasenose). Another Freshman who has arrived with a big reputation is C. G. Hollis (St. Edward's and Christ Church); but he may be given a trial on the wing. Luyt and Cowan both played in some of the University's later matches last season.

The half-back positions may cause some difficulty on account of the galaxy of talent for one position. I. H. Watts is, as previously stated, in residence again; but two outstanding Freshmen have arrived in the persons of D. M. Strathie (Rugby and Trinity) and M. I. Davies (Bishop's, South Africa, and Trinity). The position of scrummage half-back will probably be taken, in the early matches at any rate, by T. R. Thomas (Llandovery and Jesus), who played for the University after Christmas. There has not yet been time to sort out the forwards, but there would appear to be plenty of good ones available. W. M. Jackson (Sedbergh and University College), for one, should get a trial as he too played for Oxford last season. On the whole the outlook is promising and the team, given reasonable luck in the matter of injuries, should be a good one.

The University match will be played at Twickenham on December 3.

Kongo To Take On Yasui In 8-Round Bout On Thursday

Iwao Kongo, protege of Kintaro Tsuda of the Usuda Boxing Club, will take on Eiichi Yasui, flyweight champion of the Kansai, in an eight-round bout Thursday night at the Hibiya Public Hall auditorium.

Kongo has been bowling over all opponents in the flyweight ranks, but Yasui has been staging a nice comeback, and the bout is expected to be a humdinger.

Toshio Yuki of the Usuda Boxing Club meets Taro Aizawa of Osaka in the semi-final event, also scheduled for eight rounds. Both are featherweights.

Fumio Miyahashi of Osaka takes on Takeo Kinoshita of the Nippon Boxing Club in the other eight-round bout of the evening. Both are bantamweights.

There are two other six rounders and two four-round preliminaries on the card.

Missouri Checks Nebraska, 13 To 10

N.Y. Times

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 29—Missouri's Tigers dented Nebraska's prestige today, gaining their first Big Six conference football victory of the year by edging out the Cornhuskers, 13 to 10, before a crowd of 30,000 homecoming fans.

Both teams gained through the line and around end in the first period, but Christman's pass attempts failed and the rivals battled on even terms throughout the period. A 73-yard run by Starmer carried the Tigers to midfield once, but a few minutes later Substitute Quarterback Knight got off a 75-yard quick kick to put the ball on the Tiger 13 as the period ended scoreless.

Plock Boots Field Goal

After a 41-yard punt return by wee Marvin Plock and a pair of passes, Plock booted a field goal from the 10 in the second period. One-and-three-quarter minutes later Christman let lose a series of aerials which carried the Tigers 68 yards to a touchdown. The try for point was good. The Huskers advanced with passes to the Tiger 15, where Christman intercepted as the half ended.

Herman Rohrig, squat Husker half-back, took the second-half kick-off on his 4-yard line and raced 96 yards behind fine blocking to a touchdown. He kicked the extra point. After see-sawing on punts, with the Tigers having the edge, Notowitz intercepted a Husker pass and ran 55 yards to the Husker 16. But the Tiger drive bogged down and the Huskers recovered a fumble on their 11-yard line as the quarter ended.

Again Takes to Air

The Huskers punted to midfield in the fourth, but Missouri again took to the air and Christman passed the Tigers to the 3-yard line. From there he plunged for the winning score. The try for point failed. The Cornhuskers tried to regain their lead with passes but Ewing spoiled their drive by intercepting a heave on the 12. A few minutes later he intercepted another on the Tiger 27, from where Missouri advanced to midfield as the game ended.

Northwestern Tops Minnesota, 6 To 3 As 47,000 Look On

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 29—A slashing eight-yard run by Bernard Jefferson, hard-driving Negro half-back, good for a final-period touchdown, gave Northwestern a 6-to-3 victory over Minnesota before 47,000 spectators who jammed Dyche Stadium today. The defeat left the Gophers with little chance to retain their Big Ten championship, since Northwestern and Ohio State, which tied each other, both are unbeaten in Conference football.

Minnesota entered the game unbeaten and untied. Northwestern, while still unbeaten, was scored on for the first time this season when Horace Bell, husky Negro lineman, kicked a field goal for the Gophers late in the second period.

Not since 1929 have the Golden Gophers won at Dyche Stadium, also the scene of the 1936 defeat which snapped a twenty-one-game winning streak. Nevertheless, Minnesota was a slight favorite, having had two weeks of rest and being at full strength, with Hal Van Every, whose passes beat Michigan, available again along with Wilbur Moore.

Seconds after Minnesota had received the kick-off, Moore broke away for 17 yards around left end. The Northwestern line braced, however, and Van Every punted. Hahnenstein took the kick on his 15 and streaked down the sidelines 50 yards before being stopped by Buhler. On three line plays Northwestern gained only 3 yards and the Wildcats punted out at the 3. Minnesota immediately kicked out.

Taking the ball at its 20 after a punt, Minnesota uncorked a crushing ground attack. Moore rounded left end for 12 and Buhler rammed center for 6, 8 and 3 yards. The Wildcat forwards then dug in and Minnesota, after two futile smashes and a pass which failed, punted dead on the Northwestern 8.

Guritz, big Northwestern lineman, intercepted a pass near the end of the period, returning the ball ten yards to his 40. Then Ryan shot a long pass to Daly, who was hauled down on the Minnesota 38 as the period ended.

Minnesota held the Wildcats to one yard on three line plays and Northwestern punted to the 13. The Gophers kicked out on the second play and Northwestern smashed from the Minnesota 43 to the 8, with Purtell, a sophomore, reeling off several nice gains.

Minnesota braced, however, to toss the Wildcats back five yards on the next play. Then Conteas' attempted field goal missed by inches and it was Minnesota's ball.

After an exchange of punts Minnesota had possession on its 44. A yard smash and a long pass, Van Every to Moore, drove the Gophers to the Wildcat 20. Buhler cracked to the 18, but Northwestern held for no gain on the next three plays and Bell then booted a perfect field goal from the 24-yard marker.

With forty-eight seconds to play, Ryan returned the ensuing kick-off sixty-eight yards and worked a pass to the Minnesota 20. Minnesota's secondary then batted down three passes and McGurn's try for a field goal was short as the half ended.

Taking the kickoff, which Hahenlerstein returned 32 yards to his 32, Northwestern smashed straight down the field with power plays. Hahenstein, who reeled off several nice runs on the march, finally was stopped on three plays and McGurn failed to gain on the fourth, Minnesota taking the ball on downs at its 26.

In the closing minutes of play, after several punt exchanges, Northwestern got a break in a fumble by Frank, reserve Gopher back. Voigts recovered for Northwestern on the Minnesota 31. The Wildcats, with a short pass and runs by Jefferson, Ryan and McGurn, drove to the 13. But McGurn fumbled, Bjorcklund recovered for Minnesota and the Gohpers kicked out of danger.

Early in the final period a poor punt by Van Every from his 10 put Minnesota in a spot. The ball was Northwestern's on the 20. A pass from Ryan, skipping off the fingers of three Gophers, was caught by Daly, who was nailed on the 5. On four plays Northwestern got only 2 yards, Minnesota took possession and kicked out of danger.

Northwestern threw another threat at the Gophers midway through the period. Taking possession at the Minnesota 32 after a punt, Northwestern drove to the 12 on passes to Jefferson and McGurn. But Ryan lost five on a fumble he recovered himself and, after failing to gain on two plays, Northwestern tried a fled goal, but Diehl's kick was short and wide.

Then Buhler fumbled and Method recovered for Northwestern on the Minnesota 20. Hahenstein made 12 yards on two plays and on the third Jefferson smashed left tackle and fought his way over a touchdown, McGurn's try for point failing when the ball hit the upright.

Northwestern was knocking at the door again as the game ended. Hahenstein intercepted a pass and returned 29 yards to the Minnesota 26, but the gun ended the battle seconds later.

Waseda Clinches Second Place In Cage League

Waseda University's basketball team clinched second place in the Kanto Intercollegiate league Monday afternoon at the National Gymnasium at Hitotsubashi by defeating Tokyo Imperial University, 51-30, in the third game of their two out of three series.

The final standings follow:

	R	W	T	M	B	S	G	W	Pct.
Rikkyo	x	2	2	2	2	2	11	19	.909
Waseda	1	x	2	2	2	2	13	9	.692

Shodai	0	0	0	0	0	x	10	0	.000
G. lost	1	4	4	7	8	10

Waseda's airtight defense bottled up the attack of the Teidai quintet, so much so that the latter had little oppertunity to shoot for the basket. The consequence was that Waseda led all the way in the scoring end of the game.

Waseda just about clinched victory in the first half, registering 20 points as against 10 by Teidai.

Desperate to overtake Waseda, Teidai's cagers became over-anxious in the second half. Taking advantage of this, Waseda's scoring plays worked even better and at 7 minutes, the lead was increased to 32-13. Teidai rallied for a time and cut the lead down to 35-18. But with furious scrimmaging toward the end of the half, Munekata and Yokoyama of Waseda went on a wild scoring spree to stretch out the Waseda lead again.

Alabama Beats Tulane, 3 To 0 On Late Drive

N.Y. Times

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 5—Repulsed at the goal line on numerous occasions, Alabama's Crimson Tide scored a field goal in the closing minutes to defeat the Tulane Green Wave today, 3 to 0.

For the second year in a row the victory margin was a goal from the field, Alabama winning from Tulane last November as Sandy Sanford kicked a 9-to-6 triumph with less than three minutes to play.

This afternoon Quarterback Vic Bradford stepped into the role of hero with slightly more than four minutes of play remaining. Bradford stood at the 17-yard line, with Herky Mosley holding the ball, and kicked it at dead center of the uprights.

Tulane Bottled Up

Tulane, the pre-game choice, was bottled up all afternoon. The Wave registered only two first downs to Alabama's twelve and only twice was able to cross midfield, and then just to the Tide's 45-yard line.

The Crimson Tide struck early after the opening kick-off with a drive that carried 66 yards to Tulane's 9, and from there on the Greenies were in the hole.

On three other occasions the Crimson Tide struck at the Tulane goal, only to be stopped by great defensive stands. In the second period, with Mosley connecting with a 20-yard pass to fullback Charley Holm, Alabama got to the 14.

Drive to 2-Yard Line

Early in the third quarter the Tide took the kick-off on its 34 and Mosley led an aerial assault with the aid of End Person Shoemaker and Bradford that ended on the Wave 2. A first-period drive also was checked at the 14.

The winning field goal followed an Alabama drive from its own 35 with Charley Boswell, a substitute back, providing the spark to carry the Crimsons to Tulane's 9-yard stripe. On fourth down, Bradford was rushed into the fray and produced the perfect kick.

Kentucky Beaten By Georgia Tech

N.Y. Times

ATLANTA, Nov. 5—Georgia Tech caged a rip-tearing Kentucky Wildcat, 19—18, today in as tense a football game as was ever lost by blocking a point-after-touchdown try.

The pay-off point of the game came after Tech's first touchdown when Carl Combs blocked Buck Shaw's drop-kick. But the alert sub snatched up the bounding ball and raced around end for the extra point.

The supposedly tamed Wildcats ripped the heretofore stubborn Engineers' defense for 350 yards by land and air, while Tech could go only 186.

Passes 27 Yards

Dave Zoeller started the first score from the Kentucky 15 and cashed in by passing 27 yards to Bill McCubbin, who scampered 3 yards more. Carnes's kick was wide.

A minute later Bartlett quick-kicked to the Kentucky 1, where Zoeller picked it up. Chivington smashed him, he fumbled, Page recovered and Bartlett bucked over on the next play. Shaw converted for the point that eventually carried the day.

Tech grabbed another break to go ahead soon after when Cushing recovered Combs' fumble on the Blue Grass 32 and the Engineers pounded over, Thrash going the last 14 on an end-around play. Anderson's kick failed.

Tech Widens Lead

It looked like a runaway in the second period when Tech took a punt at the enemy 40 and pounded down, with Gibson sparking the drive and Wheby going the last 3 yards.

But Gibson soon punted out short on the Wildcat 37 and Combs and Dameron Davis ripped to the 8, Ishmael smashing across on a bone-cracking buck. Davis' kick was low.

Kentucky kept Tech in hot water through the third and drove the home fans into a frenzy in the last standza by marching 86 yards on seventeen plays, Zoeller passing the last 17 yards to Shepherd, who snatched the ball from two defenders' hands on the goal line. But again Davis' kick missed and the chance for a tie failed.

Nebraska's Rally Halts Kansas, 16-7

N.Y. Times

LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 5— Taking advantage of two late breaks, the Nebraska Cornhuskers picked up 10 points and a 16-to-7 victory over the Kansas Jayhawks today before a crowd of 16,000. It was the first Husker victory in six starts.

Early in the game Jack Dodd, fleet Nebraska halfback, ran a Kansas punt 60 yards for a touchdown. The fourth period was young when Dick Amerine of Kansas made 16 to the Husker 3 and Cadwaladar went over for the tying score. Chester Gibbens dropkicked the extra point, giving Kansas a 7-6 lead.

A recovered fumble and a pass soon put the Huskers on the Kansas 14, and from the 8 Bill Andreson kicked a field goal to put Nebraska ahead again. Bunsen of Kansas ran back to his 8 to pass and before it got off his fingertips Bob Mills, Nebraska tackle, grabbed it and went over. Andresen's kick was good.

40,208 See Packers Stop Bears, 24-17

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, Nov. 6—Green Bay stopped a last-minute Chicago Bear threat on its own 7-yard line today to win, 24 to 17, and maintain its position atop the Western Division of the National Football League. A crowd of 40,208 saw the game.

The Bears marched 73 yards in a desperate effort to score and retain their slim title chance, but a fourth-down pass slipped from the fingers of Les McDonald as he was hit at the goal line and championship hopes were blasted.

The Packers, outgained in first downs, sixteen to seven, and in total yardage, 274 to 178, took advantage of three Bear fumbles and employed an effective passing attack to gain their seventh triumph in nine starts.

Twice in the first three minutes of play the Packers recovered fumbled kick-offs. After the first, Bobby Monnett passed 16 yards to Clarke Hinkle for a score and a minute later passed 19 yards to Don Hutson for another. A third-period miscue led to a field goal booted from the 35-yard line by Hinkle and Eddie Jankowski plunged over for the other Packer touchdown.

Jack Manders scored eleven of the Bear points on one touchdown, two points after touchdowns and a field goal. Bill Karr made the other touchdown, taking a pass over the goal line.

Rutgers Waits 69 Years To Beat Princeton, 20-18

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW BRUNSWICK N. J., Nov. 5—For the first time since that historic day, sixty-nine years ago Princeton met here on the gridiron in the initial game of American football, the Scarlet beat the Tigers in an unexpected feature of the opening of the new million-dollar Rutgers Stadium today.

A fourth-down forward pass in the final quarter spun off the fingers of Arthur Gottlieb into the outstretched arms of John (Moon) Mullen on the goal line. The Rutgers back wheeled around into the end zone and the Scarlet had beaten the sons of Old Nassau after thirty-four rebuffs over that long sixty-nine-year span.

The majority of a crowd of 22,500 that overflowed the pretty little stadium went into raptures of delight that carried on long after the game was over. The new goal posts on the new field came down with splintering crashes. Rutgers had vanquished Princeton, 20 to 18.

Yields Scores on Breaks

No one had dreamed that such an event could transpire. The Tigers were overwhelming favorites but this Scarlet team was not one which studied the form charts and believed what it read. It yielded two touchdowns on breaks but was quick to take advantage of the about-face of capricious fortune which made possible the winning tally.

Twice Rutgers came from behind to take the lead and the last time was the pay-off. A fumble by Bob Jackson gave the New Brunswick hosts the ball on the Princeton 12-yard line. Twice the red-jerseyed carriers were hurled back by an enraged Tiger team until it was third down on the 22.

But then the marvelous pitching arm of Gottlieb swung into action. He rifled a strike to Bill Tranavitch on the 13 and then fired to Mullen on the goal line. Walt Bruyere's conversion was an anti-climax because Leon Cooke's placement after the first touchdown had been the margin of victory.

Kick Is Blocked Early

Rutgers won on a break, it is true, but that was merely the law of averages making amends for some shoddy treatment to the lads from the banks of the Raritan. A blocked kick in the opening minutes had virtually handed Princeton a touchdown in the first quarter when the Tigers received the ball only seven yards from the goal line.

After one play had lost 3 yards Jack Daniel whirled wide on an end-around dash for 10 yards and a counter. When Dick White failed to convert, this seemed a minor item that would go unnoticed once Princeton opened the scoring floodgates.

But this Rutgers team refused to be overawed. Gottlieb ran back the next kick-off 40 yards to the Nassau 40. Four plays later Rutgers was over the goal line. The big space-eater in this drive was a 33-yard pass, Gottlieb to Parker Staples. Then Tranavitch worked up to the 1 and streaked inside tackle for the touchdown. Cooke converted and Rutgers, incredible as it seemed, was ahead, 7 to 6.

Before the first quarter was over Princeton had started to roll. A march that extended into the second quarter covered 71 yards but a very strange sort of play ultimately resulted in the touchdown.

Stan Pearson slammed a 20-yard pass to Daniel, who made a beautiful catch on the 5. As he started to run, however, the ball popped out of his hands and rolled into the end zone. Dick Purnell, Princeton end, was a self-appointed reception committee to greet the errant pigskin. He fell on it for a tally.

This was a heart-breaking misfortune for Rutgers, but its woes were not over. The Tigers struck for 50 yards immediately afterward, with a Pearson-Daniel pass producing 40 of those yards. Pearson bucked over from the 1 and Rutgers appeared hopelessly beaten. The score was 18 to 7 at this stage.

There was something about this Rutgers team today, though, that was different. Adversity seemed to weld it into greater unity and strength. The Scarlet took on fire and fury. It bent but did not break.

Greif Plunges Across

From the disheartening setback of that third touchdown it came back a better and a sounder team. Sixty-two yards it marched, along the ground and through the air. Seconds from the end of the quarter it had a first down on the 1-yard line. Twice Herman Greif passed into the end zone. Twice he missed. Then, as if completely disillusioned by such shilly-shallying, he plunged across on a weak side play. The half ended but Rutgers was within striking distance at 13 to 13.

During the intermission came the dedication ceremonies. President Robert C. Clothier of Rutgers, President Harold Willis Dodds of Princeton, Governor A. Harry Moore of New Jersey, William H. J. Ely, Democratic candidate for United States Senator, and Robert Allen, State Director of the WPA, spoke.

As play was resumed Rutgers took command. Only once in the second half did Princeton get beyond midfield. The Scarlet worked up to the 15 but lost the ball on downs. The New Brunswick blocking had gained crispness and sureness between halves. Its tackling was harder and more compact. Its all-around play was far better than that of a Nassau combination that was fading slowly but surely.

The pressure was on Princeton as the pro-Rutgers crowd gazed in total disbelief. And Princeton could not stand it. When Mullen punted to Jackson, the sophomore back took the ball on the 7 but could not find the handle. The ball dropped out of his hands and Doug Hotchkiss fell on it on the 12.

Tranavitch was thrown for a 1-yard loss. Mullen, on a reverse, was pinned by Jim Worth and Dick Bokum for a 9-yard loss. But along came Gottlieb with his two forwards to bring about the victory.

A Triumph at Last

A deliriously happy Rutgers crowd tore down the goal posts at the end, a sixty-nine-year wait ended. High up in the press box sat George H. Lange of Rutgers, one of the competitors in the original game in 1869. He had waited a long time for a Scarlet victory and it had come at last. Across the field, threading his way among frenzied New Brunswick rooters, came Tad Wieman, Princeton coach. First he congratulated Coach Harvey Harman on his victory and then on his birthday. Both came today.

The stars of this game were, for Rutgers, Gottlieb with his passing, Mullen with his receiving and Tranavitch with his defensive work and his ball-carrying in the backfield, and Cooke, Paul Bednard and Hotchkiss on the line. The Princeton standouts were Pearson with his passing, Ashby Harper with his blocking, Jackson and White with their running and Howie Stanley, Daniel and Bob Tierney on the line.

Missouri Downs Michigan State By 6 To 0 Seore

N.Y. Times

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 5—The University of Missouri's Tigers cracked a battered Michigan State defense for a touchdown in the fourth quarter and weathered a stormy last minute Spartan attack to gain a 6-0 victory today in their intersectional football game.

Approximately 10,000 spectators saw the Missourians open the fourth period touchdown drive that gave them their first victory over the Spartans in three straight years of rivalry.

Paul Christman, the Tigers' sophomore aerial artist, started Missouri's touchdown attack with a long pass from his own 29-yard line to Stillman Rouse, who caught the ball on his 43. As Spartan tacklers pulled him down, he lateraled to Orf, who carried to Michigan State 30.

Counsil and Cooper Aid

From that point Miron Counsil, Clay Cooper and Christman drove and passed to the 7-yard line to set the stage for Christman's touchdown plunge. Les Pieper's place-kick was wide.

The Spartans came back with a desperate rally that carried the ball to the Missouri 20. Passes by John Pingel failed to function and the Tigers took the ball on their own 4 and moved it out of danger.

Most of the first half was played in Michigan State territory with a brilliant Tiger running offense consistently breaking through the Spartan line. One drive from the Missouri 18 ended on the Spartan 6.

Spartans Stage Rally

The Spartans came back strong in the third with a running and aerial attack sparked by Gerald Drake, substitute 65-pound half-back. A weak punt by Christman placed the ball on Missouri's 29. Drake peppered two passes to Bruce Blackburn that netted a first down on the 13-yard mark. Drake plunged to the 10, but on the next play Jim Starmer intercepted a pass to end the threat.

Passing of both teams fell far below the standard they chalked up in previous games this season. The Tigers completed only four passes out of thirteen and the Spartans six out of twenty-four.

Jimmy Foxx Named For 3rd Time As The Most Valuable Player

Editor's Note: The following story is of interest as Jimmy Foxx was a member of the All-American professional baseball team brought to Japan several years ago by the Yomiuri Shimbun. George Herman (Babe) Ruth was the biggest drawing card. Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, was manager.

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—Jimmy Foxx, slugging first sacker of the Boston Red Sox whose spectacular comeback provided one of the highlights of last season, has been chosen the most valuable player in the American League for 1938, it was announced yesterday by the Baseball Writers Association of America, whose committee recently completed its annual poll for The Sporting News Trophy.

The round-faced, popular Double-X, who thus becomes the first player in either major league to win the award three times, scored a smashing victory, compiling a total of 305 points of a possible 336. Bill Dickey, redoubtable catcher of the Yankees, placed second with 196, and Hank Greenberg, the Tigers' home run champion, finished third with 162.

Another Yankee, big Red Ruffing, was ranked next with 146, followed by Buck Newsom, star right-hander of the lowly Browns, who finished with 111.

DiMaggio Sixth on List

Joe DiMaggio, the Yankees' "wonder player" of 1937, who placed second to Charlie Gehringer last year, dropped to sixth place with 106 points. Gehringer, however, took an even more pronounced tumble, polling only 27 points.

By carrying off top honors Foxx also becomes the first Boston player in either league to gain the prize since the practice was instituted in 1922. In his two previous triumphs, in 1932 and 1933, the one-time Maryland dairy farmer was a member of the Athletics.

Making the same revision in scoring rules as in the National League poll, the writers' committee this year consisted of twenty-four members, three from each city, and each committee ranked ten players with an additional "honor list" of ten which did not count in the scoring.

Foxx's victory was far more decisive than Ernie Lombardi's in the National loop, for where the Cincinnati catcher received only ten first-place ballots, Foxx headed nineteen of the twenty-four ballots in the American League poll. Of the five who failed to pick him for first, two ranked him second and one each placed him third, fourth and fifth.

Cronin Gets 92 Points

The only others to receive first-place ballots were the two Yanks Dickey and Ruffing, the former being named on top three times and the latter twice. However, the score of these two along with DiMaggio and the fact that, all told, eight members of the world champions received a scattering of votes, enabled the Yanks to carry off team honors with 489 points, as against 411 for the Red Sox, whose manager, Joe Cronin, placed just below DiMaggio with 92.

The honorable mention list for 1938 is headed by Harlond Clift of the Browns, who was named on twelve ballots. Gehringer, Bob Johnson of the Athletics and Rudy York of the Tigers were named on eleven.

The complete list of players receiving one or more votes in the balloting follows:

Keio Swamps Rikkyo, 32 To 0 At U.S. Football

Keio's much improved American football team routed Rikkyo, 32-0, at the former's grounds at Hiyoshi Tuesday afternoon.

The winners scored a touchdown in the first quarter, two more in the second, and one each in the third and fourth quarters as they held their opponents completely at bay.

A long forward pass from Todo to Yamakata put the ball on Rikkyo's 20-yard line to pave the way for Keio's first touchdown. Speedy Tamua sneaked off right end for a big gain and Tazawa plunged through center for touchdown. The extra point was converted on an off-tackle play.

End runs and power plays accounted for Keio's two touchdowns in the second period.

Left Tackle Fukuda blocked a Rikkyo punt in the third quarter and Mitsuyoshi fell on it for touchdown.

With Todo and Takemura bearing the brunt of the attack, Keio worked the ball down the field and Takemura finally crossed the final stripe through left guard. Todo went around right end for the extra point.

Keio's line put up a stonewall defense against Rikkyo. On top of it, the Rikkyo ball totters were tackled time and again behind the line of scrimmage. Rikkyo also suffered from a small number of substitutes.

The line-ups follow:

The Living Fur Piece

Jeanne Lorraine's pet toy collie can relax so completely when she places him about her neck, that he looks an inanimate fur piece. So realistic is the impersonation that Miss Lorraine successfully "smuggled" the dog into England despite the 6-months quarantine regulations; she simply placed him about her neck and walked past the customs guards. He remains immobile for an hour at a time.

The Swimming Lily

The goldfish with the lily growing out of its head was one of a common species kept by Mrs. J. Z. Solomon of Dothan, Ala. It is believed the fish attempted to swallow a small lily bulb, which lodged in its mouth and sprouted. After watching the lily grow for several days, Mrs. Solomon removed the fish to another jar, and it died the following day.

Facing Major Test Sunday

Meiji's forward wall and (top) the Waseda line, upon whose performance depends the championship of the Tokyo Intercollegiate American football league when the two teams clash on Sunday at the Korakuen stadium.

Meiji Gridders Determined To Down Waseda On Sunday

By BILL OMURA

Meiji and Waseda, traditional rivals ever since the birth of American football in Japan, will meet in the nightcap of a doubleheader Sunday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium for the championship of the Tokyo Intercollegiate league.

More than 5,000 fans are expected to witness this, their fifth battle. Meiji held the championship for three consecutive years, only to be defeated for the first time last season 13-7 by Waseda, and tied by the latter for the title the season previous, the score between the two teams being 6-6 in the final game.

So far this season, Meiji stands as the only undefeated, untied and unscored upon eleven. Waseda is also undefeated but was tied by Y.C.A.C. in its non-league game earlier in the season.

Evenly Matched

The combat should be a nip and tuck affair with plenty of action. Manifestation of crafty plays, long gains via overland and air should add to the excitement of the spectators.

Coach-captain, Paul Kurokawa, his sixth year of action for Meiji, is a mixture of doubt and optimism.

"Having become victims of overconfidence, we lost to Waseda last season," he says. "This year the Maroons not only possess a faster team but will outweight our line 10 pounds per man or more, but you can bet your money on the Meiji boys not to give up, till they have retrieved the crown."

Leading performer of the Meiji backs is "Terry" Yoshimoto, who starred for Waseda last season, but is seeing action for the Purple and White this year, and should give his former running mate Naito of the Maroons a stiff competition in open field running. Rated one of the fastest collegiate backs in the Tokyo league, Yoshimoto has become the most valuable Meiji ball carrier.

Working with him is a group of unusually capable players. Jimmy Wada, playing his first year of college football, has earned a regular berth. Wrestling kept Omai, veteran of five seasons, from the previous games, but he proved himself well in condition with his power drives, when Meiji walloped Hosei 74-0 two weeks ago.

"Chuck" Fujika, the "dependable," when it comes to backing-up, the line will be back after a three-week rest. On offensive, Fujika is not the flashy type but he is the leader who makes the backs click. He merely blocks, he never misses a block and always picks the right man to hit.

Wada and Omai both specialize in line-bucking and have the niftiest pair of arms when they take to the air. "Min" Yasuda, is an excellent kicker and the most competent of the quarterbacks. He thinks of the right play when a chance to score comes along. Yasuda is no slouch at heaving himself, so the Meiji boys will probably take to the air on Sunday.

The team was minus the service of brawny Bob Ohama, left tackle, and Shigemori Fukushima, right tackle, in the past two games. Ohama, Los Angeles High "All Star" tackle, suffered a broken rib against the Kansai University eleven earlier in the season, and Fukushima, "All Maui" (Hawaii) Interscholastic tackle, has been hampered by an operation. "Both will be available for the forthcoming encounter," says Coach Kurokawa. "With Ohama and Fukushima back on the line, the line will be well balanced."

Against Waseda, Toyama and Machida will be stationed at the flanks. "Sabo" Sakamoto, the best of the charging lot will start at center. Sakamoto holds the record for the most punts blocked in the league this season, adding another to his string of glory in the previous game with Hosei.

Coach Kurokawa and the impregnable Hanaoka will hold down the guard positions. The names of five of those seven forwards are familiar—Toyama, Machida, Hanaoka, Sakamoto and Kurokawa. They are veterans with two or more years of intercollegiate experience, and between them they have done a great job of bringing glory to Meiji.

Strong in Reserves

The reserve situation is the brightest side of the whole situation to Coach Kurokawa for he is well loaded with experienced backfields as well as stalwarts for the line.

Tackle, "Moosa" Takamoto, heads the list of substitutes. Takamoto displayed potency in messing the opponents plays behind the line of scrimmage on numerous occasions, breaking through Hosei's stellar line. Thus did he win his spurs as first string alternate tackle.

For the opener, the powerful Y.C.A.C. eleven will clash with a lighter but faster team the Tokyo Old Boys for the second time. The foreigners took to the air and won a hard fought tussle by a narrow margin of 6-0 when they fought three weeks ago.

With Rasbury, Harris, Ross and Hamsher working behind the stellar linemen, the Club Boys hold a proud record of three wins, one tie, and one defeat for the season. They scored 64 points in five games as to 19 by their opponents.

But the quartet that have done so well will be minus the service of "Speed" Bucky Harris this Sunday. Harris is sailing for his home in America Friday.

Tsunemi Kasahara, former Meiji rugby player, and an actor of the Nikkatsu Studio, will again be called upon to take the brunt of the attack for the Old Boys with his beautiful running plays, aided by Obayashi former Waseda star, concentrating on his specialty, line plunges.

The Line-up:

Pos.	MEIJI	WASEDA
L.E.	Machida	Nomura
LT.	Watanabe	Shimamura
L.G.	Kurokawa	Fujioka
C.	Sakamoto	Nakayama
R.G.	Hanaoka	Nakadate
R.T.	Ohama	Nishioka
R.E.	Toyama	Fukushima
Q.	Yasuda	Fukuda

Dengis, 37, Wins A.A.U. Title For Marathon

By JOHN RENDEL

N.Y. Times

YONKERS, N. Y., Nov. 6—Pat Dengis, 37-year-old Welshman who designs airplane tools for a living and wins marathons for fun, today became the National A.A.U. champion for the second time by running a starting field of seventy-six ragged.

It was in the annual Yonkers marathon, conducted by the Chippewa Club, which this year was expanded to a national event, and the lean Baltimore plodder not only regained the crown he held in 1935 but made it two in a row over the Yonkers course.

Half a mile back of Dengis, standard-bearer for the Millrose A.A., as they finished on the Empire City race track was Gerard Cote, French Canadian from St. Hyacinthe Quebec, who seems destined always to be in the runner-up role, for this was the third time that he had finished second at Yonkers. Then came Mel Porter, the defending champion, beaten by Dengis for the third time this year over the full route, which ought to make it conclusive.

Fit for Twenty More Miles

"I could have gone another twenty miles," declared the victor in his rich brogue when it was all over, and he looked it, too. Chipper, fresh-looking, sure of himself and three pounds lighter, he seemed no more exhausted than a park stroller. Once, climbing the last grade on the way to the hilltop track, he looked over his shoulder and shouted: "These hills will get 'em," and laughed as he trotted along.

But, for all his light-heartedness, Dengis missed Johnny Kelley's three-year-old course record for the 26 miles 385 yards by a minute, even though he was three minutes ahead of his own time of a year ago. He took 2 hours 39 minutes 38 2-5 seconds for the distance, as compared to Cote's 2:43:30.

For the most part the race went remarkably true to form. After the first nine and one-half miles the leaders were Bill Agee, Tarzan Brown, Dengis, Kelley, Cote and Leslie Pawson, top-notchers all, while the rest were swallowing the exhaust smoke of the motorcade far behind.

Sets a Blistering Pace

Brown and Agee had taken a sizable lead as they whirled around the mile racetrack before hitting the roadways. At two and a half miles Agee stepped out, fast and furious, to leave Brown, the Indian from Bradford, R. I., a hundred yards behind. Agee kept up the blistering pace for seven miles more, while Brown gradually dropped back into the pack of more conservative runners.

At Ardsley Circle, Agee had shot his bolt and a two-mile hill up ahead finished him, so that he dropped from sight and finished fifteenth. At the top of that hill and for a couple of miles afterward Dengis, Brown, Kelley and Cote were leading the parade, bunched so closely that a small blanket could have covered all of them. At fifteen miles Brown established a definite lead and it looked as though he might win for he was moving easily.

But another mile and a half further up on Central Avenue finished Brown and Kelley. Right on the Yonkers city line Kelley began to fade and soon afterward Brown clutched his side, stopped, walked a few paces, started again and again stopped. He was through, although he made his way to the racetrack, a beaten Indian.

Drops Out Near End

They had to go four times around the track before about 6,000 spectators to finish and Brown dropped out entirely with three laps to go.

Dengis and Cote meanwhile had the race all to themselves, with Cote following right in the winner's footsteps, in the leeward berth, so to speak, for a moderate wind had popped up. But that last climb to the hilltop was too much for Cote and he lost ground steadily, entering the track a half mile behind and staying there. The hill started at the twenty-mile mark. Dengis having taken an even two hours up to that point.

Though beaten, Cote nevertheless led the Marathon A.A. of Montreal to the team title with 11 points, with the Millrose A.A. second, a point behind.

A five-mile team race on the track while the marathon was in progress went to Millrose, led by Victor Dyrgall.

Unsung Player Aids Fordham To Top St. Mary's

By ALLISON DANZIG

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Nov. 6—With two minutes left to go in the first half of a bruising defensive battle, an unsung substitute got up from the bench on which he has worn his football pants thin for three years to kick Fordham to a 3-0 victory over St. Mary's yesterday as 44,000 looked on at the Polo Grounds.

Wilbur Staton, senior tackle from Malden, Mass., was the hero of this unexpectedly close and punishing game, in which the Ram was played off its feet for the first quarter by one of the fiercest charging lines it has ever gone up against, but it held the upper hand for the remaining forty-five minutes.

With the ball on St. Mary's 9-yard line, whence it had been brought by Fordham's only sustained running advance of the day from its own 44, Leonard Eshmont was thrown for a net loss of 3 yards on three successive plays.

Touchdown Out of Question

It was fourth down and the goal line to go, and it was obvious from the way in which the dynamic Gael forwards were breaking through to smother the Rams' most dangerous ball-carrier before he could take two steps that it was useless for the New Yorkers to try to get across by rushing. The forward pass did not offer any hope, either, for the only one Fordham had attempted in the half had been intercepted.

It was a difficult decision for any quarterback to have to make, but Jimmy Crowley came to Butch Fortunato's aid. Here was the spot made to order for Fordham's kicking specialist, whose game experience in three years has hardly amounted to two minutes but who booted the extra point that earned the Ram victory over Texas Christian U. last year.

At the signal from Crowley, Stanton jumped from the bench, seized a headguard, which, it was obvious to all familiar with the history of his career, was superfluous and rushed on the field. Standing on St. Mary's 22-yard line and with Fortunato snapping the ball down just to the right of the goal posts, the big fellow from Malden sent a beautiful placement kick straight over the cross-bar 32 yards away.

Stubborn Battle in Vain

A tremendous cheer split the air as the ball split the uprights and an even greater outburst greeted Stanton as he instantly left the game in favor of Martin Petroskas. In that lone effort he had succeeded against a game, powerful St. Mary's line and secondary that had checkmated all of Fordham's other devices and mainstays and which continued to do so for the rest of the afternoon.

That field goal, the first made by Fordham at the Polo Grounds since Andy Palau kicked one against Purdue in 1936, constituted just about an equitable margin of superiority in this furiously fought game, which marked the Ram's third successive victory over the Californians and broke the 3-3 deadlock in the series.

Largest Stomachs

The giant tanks in a corn refinery duplicate precisely the digestive processes of the human stomach. In the tank, corn starch is chemically treated and is changed into dextrose (corn sugar). Human digestion makes the same conversion, translating all starches and complex sugars into dextrose, which is the form in which they are utilized by the body for energy.

Waseda Rarin' To Go Against Meiji On Sunday

By Koshi Miyazaki

It looks like the Meiji University gridders will have a real battle on their hands next Sunday afternoon when they tackle the Waseda University Maroon ball toters at the Korakuen stadium for the last game of the Tokyo Intercollegiate American Football league, which incidentally is going to be a championship clash.

All this week Coach Richard Fukuda, of the Maroons, has been holding hard drills for his team, teaching them a couple of newly imported trick-plays and, with Meiji reported doing the same, the expected crowd of 15,000 spectators will be treated to a game of real classy football.

Both Meiji and Waseda have sailed through their games leaving a long trail of yardage behind them. While the former players have produced touchdowns by virtue of their speedy and tricky corps of ballcarriers, the Maroons have been relying mostly on team-work and power to keep their offense moving.

Yoshimoto Watched

Meiji's mainstay, the fleet-footed Terry Yoshimoto, will find it difficult to get around the two big Maroon ends, Nomura and Fukushima, for these two boys have been watching Yoshimoto very closely in the past games and they know Terry's style of running well enough, not to be fooled by his sudden cutbacks and side-stepping.

But, that Coach Fukuda fears Meiji's passes was quite evident from the way he has been tuning up the Maroon aerial defense. All the defense drills have centered around Meiji's dangerous passing threat headed by Wada and Yoshimoto. He lined up the secondary groups and had them drill on interceptions, most of one afternoon on Thursday. Line bucks by Oumae, Yasuda and Fujika are not being overlooked too and the powerful Maroon central front wall, composed of hard hitting tacklers like "Diamond" Shimamura, "Hammer" Nakadate, "Bear" Miyamoto, "Silenced" Fujioka and Captain Nakayama were seen drilling seriously.

Coach Fukuda

In fact it seems something has gotten into these boys for they were showing no end of vim or vigor throughout last night's practice session. The line dished out more of the same vicious blocking and charging that they have displayed, much to everyone's delight, in the past couple of games, and the backs were hitting like nobody's business.

Last night's practice showed just how seriously the players are taking the Meiji game. There was no horseplay as the squad went through another long, hard drill. The players showed more spirit through the varied workout than they have at any other time this year.

During the dummy scrimmage, for instance, they tore into the apparatus as though the game depended on each block. The careless ball handling that cropped out occasionally during other practice sessions was gone.

Change in Line-up

A slight change has been made in the first string line-up. Halfback Kujimoto, who had been limping all last week with a leg injury, is back in shape and will be ready to start again. Also, left guard Miyamoto, who played brilliantly against Keio two weeks ago, was promoted to first string guard and will be seen in the starting line-up.

No other changes have been made in the first string line-up and the boys who will start against Meiji are: ends, Nomura and Fukushima; tackles, Shimamura and Nakadate; guards, Fujioka and Miyamoto; center, Captain Nakayama. Quarterback, "Doc" Noguchi; halfbacks, Gori Nishioka and Larry Kunimoto; fullback, "Kojack" Naito.

Meiji's Hope To Down Waseda

Upon the performance of this quartet will depend Meiji University's football team's ambition to unseat Waseda as champions. Left to right: Left Half Hamasaki, Right Half Yoshimoto, Quarterback Yasuda, and Fullback Fujika leading the interference. The two teams meet in the second game of a double-header Sunday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium.

Royal Air Force And Oxford Play 1 To 1 In Soccer

London Times

LONDON, Nov. 11—Oxford University should have every reason to feel pleased with their performance yesterday, when they played a drawn game of one goal each with the Royal Air Force at Uxbridge, for the side which the R.A.F. put into the field against them was stronger than that which so easily beat Cambridge on Saturday. If one was ever rash enough to predict the outcome of such a complex thing as a University match one could not help feeling that, at the moment at least, the advantage seems to rest with Oxford.

The introduction of one or two new players during the last fortnight has improved this Oxford side, for it now possesses a certain mobility and rhythm in attack which it lacked previously. C. N. Ward-Perkins, who now plays at right half-back, is an excellent foil to H. A. Davies in his mid-field work, and together they form a most effective link between the defense and the attack, which is so necessary if a side is to be successful. H. A. S. Disney has moved to left back from the half-back line, and it is in this position that his defensive qualities are best appreciated. This was particularly noticeable during the last half-hour, when A. H. Gibbons, who plays for Brentford, began to turn the screw, and the R.A.F. forwards gave the Oxford defence a lot to think about. In the circumstances it was all the more pleasing to find that this pressure was met with the sternest of fronts by the Oxford defense, and apart from one or two strong shots by Gibbons himself, which were excellently covered by J. W. Naylor, the R.A.F. never seemed likely to win the match.

The Oxford forwards played really well at times, keeping the ball moving along the ground with first-time passes and often changing the point of attack cleverly, but when it came to finishing off their movements they failed, and on this point H. S. Seaford must taken a large share of the blame. He does not possess the speed of thought and movement to beat a defensive center half-back, and it was noticeable that when he changed places with L. L. de P. Gardner toward the end things ran more smoothly for himself and for the line as a whole.

An Early Lead

Oxford were soon into their stride and took the lead within five minutes. Just before they actually scored Gardner sent Sturdy away on the right wing, and his center passed across the R.A.F. goalmouth with no one to apply the finishing touch, but in the next minute, when the move was repeated, Gould cut in from the opposite wing and headed the ball past Young. This was a great start by Oxford, but if they had entertained any hopes of building up a lead these were soon to be crushed, for Gibbons wormed his way through the defense on the left and centered to Finlay, who beat Naylor with a rising shot. There was no more scoring in the match, and for the rest of the half Oxford called the tune. A delightful reverse pass by Sturdy sent Gardner away, only to shoot wide, while on another occasion Sturdy himself hit the crossbar with a terrific shot. There were so many narrow escapes and so many good movements that, of necessity, one must paint the picture with rather a broad brush, but let it be said that when half-time came Oxford should have been leading.

In the last half-hour Ward-Perkins rather lost Gibbons, and small wonder, for the Brentford player began to do his work more quickly. The R.A.F. now took the initiative, but Oxford held firm and, indeed, very nearly won the match, for, with only 10 minutes left, Davies turned solid defense into swift attack. Binch, who played excellently all through, received a long pass and, catching the R.A.F. defense off its guard, went through the middle, only to shoot wide as the goalkeeper advanced to narrow the angle.

The teams were:—

ROYAL AIR FORCE—Cpl. F. Young, goal; A. C. R. B. Ward and Sgt. N. Gibson, backs; A.C. R. J.T. Heereman, A.C. A. Hay, and L.A.C. J. Lancaster, half-backs; F. Officer D. O. Finlay, L.A.C. S. Lewis, L.A.C. H. S. Genner, A.C. A. H. Gibbons, and A.C. E. Stanley, forwards.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY—J. W. Naylor (Ashburton and Exeter), goal; I. K. Parry-Jones (Llanrwst and Jesus) and H. A. S. Disney (Winchester and B.N.C.), backs; C. N. Ward-Perkins (Winchester and New College), S. Schofield (Bolton G.S. and B.N.C.), and H. A. Davies (Bradfield and B.N.C.), half-backs; R. G. Sturdy (Jamaica and University), L. L. Le P. Gardner (Bradfield and Pembroke), H. S. Seaford (Repton and Oriel) (captain), J. H. Binch (Mansfield G.S. and B.N.C.), and E. R. Gould (Victoria College, Jersey, and Exeter), forwards.

Kyoto Imperial Picked To Top Rikkyo Quintet

Kyoto Imperial University and Rikkyo University will clash Saturday and Sunday nights at the National Gymnasium at Hitotsubashi, Kanda, in the eighth annual East versus West series for the national collegiate basketball championship.

Kyoto Imperial's combination, which defeated Waseda last year and won the title for the Kansai for the first time, is favored to win.

The tip-off is slated for 7 p.m. on both evenings.

Huskies Tumble U.S.C. Eleven By 7 To 6 Score

N.Y. Times

SEATTLE, Nov. 12—The University of Washington Huskies, who couldn't beat anybody a few weeks ago, tripped the mighty University of Southern California football team, 7 to 6, on a slippery field today before 18,000 fans.

The Huskies' triumph was just as convincing as it was amazing, and sent the Trojans spinning into a tie with the California Bears for the conference lead. It was Southern California's first conference defeat of the season and its fifth successive loss to the Huskies.

Conditions Handicap Trojans

Southern California no doubt was handicapped by the wet field, the cold wind and rain in the third period, and spent most of the game fighting off Washington threats. The Trojans never did get their vaunted power into high gear.

Both touchdowns were made on long, electrifying dashes, the first a 52-yard ramble by Jimmy Johnston, Washington halfback, in the opening period; the other a 72-yard punt return by Granny Lansdell, Trojan quarterback, a minute after the second period had got under way.

Washington's margin came on a perfectly booted place-kick for the extra point by Don Jones, substitute for the injured Al Cruver, regular fullback. It marked the first time Jones tried a place-kick under fire.

Gaspar's Placement Fails

Southern California's attempt to tie the count fizzled when Phil Gaspar's kick from placement after Lansdell's sensational run was low and wide.

After Jones had split the uprights with what proved to be the winning point, Washington came close to scoring two more touchdowns in the first period, and was stopped inches short of the goal line in the fourth.

Washington rolled up 10 first downs to Troy's 3, rushed 167 yards to 77, and collected 45 yards more through the air, while the visitors failed to complete a pass.

Notre Dame Gets Another, Beats Minnesota, 19-0

N.Y. Times

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 12—Notre Dame's unbeaten football forces overwhelmed Minnesota today, 19 to 0, before 56,000 astonished spectators.

The Fighting Irish, superb in open field running, passing and blocking, opened the floodgates of their scoring power in three quick thrusts to achieve their seventh straight victory of the season.

The first was an 84-yard gallop by Lou Zontini, fleet Notre Dame halfback, within six minutes after the opening kick-off. The other two were touchdown passes, hurled through the Autumn air by Bob Saggau, sensational 18-year-old sophomore halfback from Denison, Iowa.

Minnesota could not get past Notre Dame's 25-yard line, so stanch was the Irish defense. The Gophers tried twice to score with goals from the field in the first period, failing in both instances.

Trick Play Gains 39 Yards

The most spectacular high spot in their attack came as the seconds ticked off the second period, when they exploded a tricky triple lateral pass, Christiansen to Buhler to Faust, who struggled to Notre Dame's 28 before he was brought down.

The play covered 39 yards, and this was the only time the Gophers had a chance to get a runner into the clear. Notre Dame tacklers, however, swarmed all over Faust, and Minnesota never was dangerous after that. The Gopher backs appeared to be altogether too sluggish for their speedier and higher spirited foes.

Strangely enough, the Irish were able to chalk up only two first downs, one on a double offside penalty, the other on a pass. The Gophers, meanwhile, rolled up six first downs, mainly through the efforts of Larry Buhler and Halfback Wilbur Moore. Notre Dame tried only five passes, with Saggau tossing three of them, two for touchdowns and the other for 17 yards.

The issue in the game never seemed in doubt after Zontini broke away during the first few minutes on his 84-yard dash to start the Notre Dame rooters screaming with excitement. Breaking through tackle from his 16, Zontini ran behind superb blocking, veered to the right of the field, picked up more blockers, and sped toward the Minnesota goal.

The only Gopher tackler who had a chance to bring him to earth was Harold van Every, but Steve Sitko, Notre Dame quarter, raced him off.

Saggau's thrilling two touchdown passes were hurled in the second and the fourth periods. Notre Dame had not tried a pass until the second period when Saggau, in a surprise maneuver, hurled a 33-yard shot to Brown, who took the ball behind the Minnesota secondary and ran 15 yards to score without a Gopher laying a hand on him.

With 40 seconds of the game remaining, Saggau fired a 13-yard pass to John Kelly, who caught the ball on the run behind the Minnesota goal line to make the score 19 to 0.

Even in the remaining fleeting seconds the Irish were giving the Gophers more trouble, for Burnell, an Irish substitute half, had snatched Van Every's pass and raced sensationally, twisting and dodging, to Minnesota's 15-yard line as the game ended.

Minnesota's field goal scoring attempts in the first period were desperate measures. Bob Faust, Gopher quarterback, tried one from the 34 and it sailed wide. Then Horace Bell, the giant Negro guard, tried a placement kick from the 45. It fell short by about 5 yards.

It was a bruising battle. The players were slowed down to exhaustion and battered by the vicious play until they had to be replaced. Faust, Buhler, Franck and Moore of the Gophers were minor casualties.

For Notre Dame, Ben Sheridan, Sitko, Busso and McGoldrick were the victims of hard play. Sheridan, who scored the winning touchdowns against the Army and Navy, was in the game for just one thrust and then had to be led to the sidelines limping.

The line-up:

All Set For Sunday's Classic

Coach-Player Richard Fukuda (center) of Waseda talking it over with Captain Nakayama (right) and Manager Shingu for Sunday's big game against Meiji for the 1938 championship of the Tokyo Intercollegiate American football League. The game is slated for 2 p.m. at the Korakuen' stadium.

Waseda Has Good Chance To Retain Grid Title Against Meiji Sunday

By KOSHI MIYAZAKI

As was the case last year the pennant will be at stake when the Waseda Maroons and the Meiji Ramblers clash in the last game of the Tokyo Intercollegiate American Football League at the Korakuen stadium at 2 p.m. Sunday. To the winner will go the league trophy and if the Maroons win, they will probably take home the trophy for keeps, for they will have won the championship for the third consecutive year. Neither Waseda nor Meiji has been beaten this year, but

Naito

Meiji can boast of an uncrossed goal-line.

Some Favor Meiji

Rumors are rife, among football fans and the second generation group in Tokyo and Yokohama, that the Meiji University gridders will topple the Maroons by about two touchdowns. "The Ramblers have a super line and the fastest backfield combination in the league," they say, "also judging from the score book, the Ramblers have a record more brilliant, than that of the Maroons." But, putting all rumors aside, football fans have a big treat in store for them as the best game of the year will be played with both teams playing their best.

The Maroons main forte is in its big and rugged line. Sport observers say that the Maroons have the most powerful line in the league, with men like "Long John" Nomura, left end, who stands 5 feet 8 inches and weighs 165 lbs. He is playing his fourth year as a Maroon, having represented Waseda on the all-star team that invaded America two years ago. He was awarded first string honors on the all-conference all-star line-up last year and is a strong candidate again this year. Left end Fukushima is the heaviest man on the team, hitting the scale at 185 lbs. and towers 5 feet 7 inches. In spite of his weight he goes down fast on punts, which is the most important qualification for an end, and also is a dependable pass snagger. He will vie against Toyama of Meiji for first string honors on the all-star list. He was pretty badly injured in the game against Keio, two weeks ago, but he has completely recovered now and great things are expected of him.

Left tackle "Diamond" Shimamura, last year's first string all-star tackle, has no rival. It is behind his perfect interference that the Maroon ball toters have made most of their ground gaining. He stands 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighs 165 lbs. Right tackle "Hammer" Nakadate, who is playing his first year as a Maroon, carries around 155 lbs. of flesh and measures 5 feet 7 inches. He is a dangerous man both on offense and defense, using his size to great advantage. He too is a strong candidate for the all-star berth.

Right guard "Silence" Fujioka, although he is only 5 feet 5 inches in height and weighs 140 lbs., is the most outstanding lineman in the league so far. On defense he is very alert and shifty and is credited with having nipped many an opponent's play behind the line of scrimmage. Left guard "Bear" Miyamoto, the smallest man on the Maroon front wall stands only 5 feet 4 inches but hits the scale at 140 lbs. This is his first year as a Maroon but he has shown so much improvement in the previous games that he was promoted to first string guard. Great things are expected of him.

Nakayama At Centers

Captain Tama Nakayama will take over the center position. He is one of the few Japan-born boys who have developed into first class footballers. He played quarterback last year, but was shifted to center because he is one of the most cool headed players and a hard man to take out on deferse. He is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 150 lbs.

This comprises the Maroons' first string powerline. And if in case this set-up fails, according to Coach Fukuda, he himself will go in and play on the line. Also, he may shift Nakadate from tackle to guard and shift Nishioka to his old post at tackle. This will make the Maroon front wall even stronger and heavier.

The Maroons' backfield is a wholesome combination of power, speed and brains with old faithful, "Doc." Noguchi at quarterback. "Doc." who is 5 feet 7 inches tall is the lightest man on the team, weighing 135 lbs., but his keen judgment and cool headedness is a valuable asset to the Maroon eleven. He is the leading candidate for the all-star berth. "Doc's" former roommate, Larry Kunimoto, who did not play against Keio due to a leg injury, will be back in the line-up for the game. He is one of the best blocking halfs in the league and has a sharp eye for intercepting passes, which will be a particularly valuable asset as Meiji has a strong aerial attack. Kunimoto is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 145 lbs.

"Gori" Nishioka, who means business and doesn't like to fool around, will occupy the other half position. He was all-conference first string tackle last year but was shifted to halfback because of his powerful leg-drives. He will be called upon to do most of the ball-toting through the line. He averages five yards through line plunges and seven yards on end runs every time he carries the ball. He carries 160 lbs. of beef and muscle and is 5 feet 8 inches tall. He is vying for first string honors on the all-conference honor roll.

Waseda's Triple Threat

The Maroons' ace triple-threat, Kojack Naito, will be seen in his favorite position at fullback. Last year he won the league's most valuable player award and is again the strongest candidate for that honor, for he has played brilliantly throughout this season. The Maroons' fighting spirit is centered around this 150-pounder fullback, who towers 5 feet 8 inches and he will bear the brunt of attack in today's game.

The Maroons' greatest drawback is in the lack of good substitutes. But Coach Fukuda expects all the first stringers to be prepared to play the whole game. Player-Coach Fukuda himself will go in and replace the first man who shows any sign of off-days or exhaustion. Fukuda is undoubtedly the best and most dangerous utility player in the league. He 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighs 155 lbs. He is capable of playing any position from center to quarterback. His favorite position though, is at center, having won all-star honors as center in the Honolulu Interscholastic league, during his high school days at McKinley. Fukuda well displayed his ball carrying ability in the game against Keio two weeks ago. He showed complete mastery of the ball and was an outstanding player in the Maroon backfield.

Kitamura, who is as good as any first stringer, will be ready to replace anybody on the line. He is a small man but has plenty of speed and fight. Cho is also a promising end who may see action in Sunday's game. Umeda and Yamada may also see action in the backfield. Other substitutes are: Yaneda, Sai, Kaji, Doi, Fujii and manager-Shingu.

Nagoya Noses Out Dolfins By 3 To 2

Nagoya nosed out the Nagoya Dolfins, 3-2, in the first game of their second annual series for the baseball championship of Nagoya Friday afternoon at the Naruto grounds.

Pitcher Matsuo chucked good ball and held the Dolfins to four scattered hits.

Nagoya scored the winning run in the last half of the ninth when Nakayama of the Dolfins lost control and walked four men to force in a run.

Florida Holds Georgia Tech To Scoreless Tie

ATLANTA, Nov. 19—A bedraggled but determined Florida Alligator found Grant Field's mud to its liking today and fought a favored Georgia Tech football team to a scoreless tie.

The much-beaten 'Gators weren't able to churn the sticky mud in any serious offensive threats but they showed 5,000 chilled and rain-soaked fans some old-fashioned back-to-the-wall defensive courage.

Tom Walker, end, paced the spirited defense that reached a great climax in the fourth period when it hurled back the Engineers in two field-goal attempts after the home club had marched to a first down on the Florida 6.

Earlier, the 'Gators stalled another attack on their 18 and smothered all other Tech bids effectively, although Josh Cody, coach, used only fourteen players—eleven playing nearly the whole way.

Taking a punt on the Florida 45 early in the fourth frame, Tech staged the only sustained drive, Thrash, Wheby and Gibson contributing runs of eleven, twelve and thirteen yards that brought a first down on the 6.

Blalock batted down Gibson's pass, Battista smeared Gibson for a loss of a yard, Thrash made only fourth down Farmer Ramsey blocked Anderson's field goal try and fell on the ball on Florida's 24.

Florida's only semi-serious thrust into Tech territory came in the second period after Battista had recovered a fumbled punt on Tech's 45 and Walton passed twelve yards to Blalock, but Taylor slipped and fell for a five-yard loss.

Nagata Of Teidai Picked On Quintet To Play In Manila

Tetsuya Nagata of Tokyo Imperial University has been selected to take the place of Hisakazu Mitsuta of Kyoto Imperial University on the All-Japan basketball team to compete in the Philippine Carnival at Manila in January. Inability of Mitsuta to make the trip was the reason.

Nagata is a forward of the Teidai quintet that finished third in the Kanto Intercollegiate league. He is strong in the offense and a tower of strength on the defense as well.

With Coaches Ashida and Omura, the team is scheduled to leave Kobe on the Atsuta Maru on December 16. Five Chosenese players from Chosen will join the team at Nagasaki.

Stanford Bows To California Eleven, 6 To 0

N.Y. Times

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov 19—The University of California cashed in on its only scoring opportunity to defeat a surprisingly strong Stanford University eleven, 6 to 0, before 82,000 fans today in the forty-fourth renewal of one of football's greatest rivalries.

The touchdown came on a bullet-like forward pass, thrown by Vic Bottari, left halfback, California's field general, to Reggie Reginato, left end, a senior who had been unable most of the season to decide whether he wanted to play guard or end.

Reginato finally chose to learn the end assignments because of a scarcity of material at the wings, and this choice put him in position to catch Bottari's pass and complete a twenty-one-yard scoring play.

Catches Pass on 5

Bottari pitched from the 21-yard line, and Reginato, crossing from left to right, caught the ball on the 5. Although surrounded by red-jerseyed Stanford defense men, he pivoted and ran into the end zone without any one touching him. Bottari's attempted drop-kick for the extra point bounced off Stan Anderson's chest to limit California to the 6 points Reginato's touchdown had gained.

The score came after forty-eight minutes of play, and it followed the only break the well played game offered to either team.

Stanford had just stood off a sixty-yard California advance, the only Golden Bear drive of the day, and had taken the ball on its 20.

Freddie Ledeboer, right halfback, pierced the California line on the left side and fumbled. The ball rolled to the ground where Louie Smith, right halfback of California, recovered on the Stanford 27.

Three plays later California scored, giving the Bears their sixteenth victory of the series and assuring them of at least a tie for first place in the Pacific Coast Conference. The victory kept alive the California chances to win the Pasadena Rose Bowl bid for the New Year's Day classic.

The victory was too close to comfort the thousands of California rooters who formed a major part of the largest crowd ever assembled in the California stadium for this game.

Stanford, showing exceptional strength in its running attack, threatened to score four times, twice getting inside the California 5-yard line and twice missing placement goals from inside the 40-yard mark.

The Stanford superiority on attack was exemplified in the first downs totals, which showed the men from Palo Alto with twelve and California with ten.

The line-up:

Pos.	California (6)	Stanford (0)
L.E.	Dolman	Clark
L.T.	Devarona	Zagar
L.G.	Plasch	Pool
C.	Breeden	Calvelli

Cambridge Beats Dublin Ruggers By 19-11 Score

London Times

LONDON, Nov. 11—The University beat Dublin University at Cambridge yesterday by two goals, one penalty goal, and two tries (19 points) to one goal and two tries (11 points). In spite of the fact that the Cambridge side was composed almost entirely of reserves, with Chadwick, Bruce-Lockhart, and Newton-Thompson the only old Blues, they were just good enough to defeat their visitors, who played with much of their traditional bustling spirit, but were not quite clever enough to outwit the home side. Newton-Thompson was playing his first match since he injured a shoulder nearly four weeks ago, and he appeared quite fit, but it was rather unfortunate for Cambridge to lose Juckes from the pack after 15 minutes' play in the second half on account of a head injury, as the Dublin forwards were a heavy lot, and it required all the skill of the home forwards to get the ball in the tight.

There were some failings in the Cambridge side, but after gaining a useful lead in the first half they held on well and in the end deserved their success, although the game as a whole was not of such a high standard as in some previous years. Both full backs played soundly and found good length with their kicks. After the first half Bruce-Lockhart went to the right wing and Knapp played inside Swanson. The half-backs were not quite up to the best Cambridge standard and Chambers at the base of the scrummage was rather overshadowed by Doyle. The Dublin three-quarters were not so fast as those of Cambridge, although they backed each other up well. The best player on the field was Bruce-Lockhart and he was responsible for at least two of the Cambridge tries. It was mainly due to him that Paul opened the scoring five minutes from the start. Cowan's goal kick struck an upright and fell over the bar. Dublin then set up a sustained attack and from a few yards out Doyle beat Chambers and scored behind the posts for Carry to add the goal points. Both sides then attacked strongly in turn, but lost their advantage by being penalized, and after a lot of loose play Knapp cross-kicked and Chambers, getting possession, passed to Swanson, who ran strongly to cross the line near the corner. Another fine sprint by Bruce-Lockhart paved the way for Juckes to get over between the posts. Cowan kicked the goal and shortly before half-time he also landed a penalty goal, so that at half time Cambridge lead by 16 points to 5.

In the second half Dublin forced Cambridge to defend, and within five minutes Carry went through a gap and Andersen dashed over near the corner flag. Cambridge, however, were soon back again, and a passing movement all along the line ended in another run by Swanson, who just got over. At this point Juckes left the field. Knapp deserved to score after a clever run, but his pass near the line was not taken. Dublin continued to fight hard, and from close quarters Doyle scrambled over, but for the remaining 12 minutes Cambridge had rather more of the play, and there did not appear to be much chance of Dublin getting on terms.

The teams were:

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY—P. S. Cowan (Oundle and St. John's), back; E. R. Knapp (Cardiff High School and St. Catharine's), R. B. Bruce-Lockhart (Edinburgh Academy and Corpus Christ), J. W. B. Paul (Weymouth and Selwyn), and J. C. Swanson (Fettes and Clare), three-quarter backs; R. Dobson (Newcastle Grammar School and St. Catharine's) and J. L. Chambers (King William's, Isle of Man, and St. Catharine's), half-backs; W. O. Chadwick (Tonbridge and St. John's), W. McGrath (Colcraine, R.M.A., and Pembroke), M. G. Webber (St. Andrew's, South Africa, and Caius), P. R. Spencer (Stowe and Clare), T. R. Juckes (Marlborough and Pembroke), F. A. Way (Clifton and Caius), C. L. Newton-Thompson (Diocesan College, South Africa, and St. John's), and C. M. A. Bathurst (Beaumont and Queens'), forwards.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY—D. C. McNair, back; M. K. McConchy, T. P. Harvey, N. J. Hogan, and P. St. J. Anderson, three-quarter backs; E. A. Carry and D. A. Doyle, half-back; J. O'N. Donnellon, C. W. Bradfield, W. Houston, B. Harvey, J. Slatery, G. F. Anderson, A. J. MacFarland, and T. F. Roche, forwards.

One Reason Why Meiji Swamped Waseda

Right Tackle Ohama of Meiji about to smear Fullback Naito of Waseda on an attempted sweep of Waseda's right flank in Sunday's American football game at the Korakuen stadium. Right behind Ohama is Fullback Oumai, and coming up in the rear of Naito is Machida, jersey No. 33, Meiji's left end. The effective play of the Meiji's forwards was a high feature of the game, which Meiji won 26 to 0.

Meiji Routs Waseda, 26-0 To Win U.S. Football Title

By LESLIE NAKASHIMA

Meiji University's hard fighting football team upset all expectations for a nip and tuck battle and routed Waseda, 26-0, Sunday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium as 5,000 fans shivered from the cold. Thus did Meiji win back the title of the Tokyo Intercollegiate American Football league which it had split with Waseda in 1936 and lost to the latter last year. Its record for the season is an impressive one—unscored upon and untied.

Scoring the first touchdown within the first five minutes of play, Meiji counted again early in the second period and then pushed over two more touchdowns in the third period to account for Waseda's only defeat of the season. So thoroughly did Meiji outplay Waseda in all departments of the game that the latter never had a single chance to score throughout the afternoon. As a matter of fact, the ball was almost continuously in Waseda territory. Never was Meiji pressed with the ball within its own 30-yard line.

Waseda Sluggish

There was something decidedly lacking in Waseda's play. The team appeared slow and sluggish in its offense. It was particularly so with the backfield. Only one or two occasions did its laterals work and this only with the ball deep in Waseda territory. So far as its aerial attack was concerned, it was a flop. Its line was supposed to be a better one than Meiji's but the honors went to the latter's linemen. Waseda's running plays and line bucks were smashed time and again by Meiji's forwards when yardage was sorely needed.

But for the great defensive work of Player-Coach Richard Fukuda, who did most of the tackling after the Meiji backs had penetrated the line of scrimmage, Meiji's score might have been bigger. Another outstanding player for Waseda was Right End Fukushima. He was in the thick of the play throughout the game.

Meiji's sweep around the ends and offtackle bucks stole the show. Yoshimoto, wearing jersey No. 44, reeled off long gains on end runs and picked his way nicely through the line. He was injured in the second period and was sent to hospital on an ambulance, but Wada, who replaced him, proved a more than able substitute. Like Yoshimoto who paved the way for the first touchdown, it was his timely gain through the center of the line that was responsible for the second. Fullback Oumai was most effective with his spinners and he was off to a long gain time and again. It was this play that put over the first touchdown when Waseda had made a game stand withstood three Meiji charges on the 1-yard line. Quarterback Yasuda was a good strategist and he proved a sharp-shooter with his passes. Left Halfback Hamazaki was a tower of strength with his fine punting, which proved to be a powerful factor in the team's offense.

Good Quick-Kick

As a matter of fact, it was one of these punts, a quick-kick by Hamazaki, right after the opening kick-off that put the Waseda eleven off gear for the rest of the afternoon. Waseda had kickoffed to the Meiji 36-yard line. That quick-kick caught the Waseda players completely off their guard and the ball rolled over the goal line to put Waseda in the defense at the outset of the game. A poor pass from center and Waseda was further set back to the 9-yard line. Waseda punted out to its own 33-yard line. With Oumai bearing the brunt of the attack through the middle of the line, Meiji made it first down to the 24-yard line. Oumai attempted a pass in the end zone but it failed. The ball did not go to Waseda under the new rules for 1938. It merely counted as a down. Yoshimoto pulled off his first long run of the day, a sweep around left end for first down to the 6-yard line. He then hit through center to the 1-yard line. He was given the ball again but made only half a yard. Then it was Oumai who tried to plunge over for touchdown but he was held for no gain. When it seemed as if Waseda would take the ball over on downs, Oumai spun around, from right to left, and sneaked through a hole for touchdown. Right Tackle Ohama place-kicked for the extra point, the ball hitting the bar and going over.

Waseda had its first chance in the afternoon to show its stuff when it recovered a fumble on the Meiji 41-yard line shortly after that first Meiji touchdown. But it lost the ball on a fumble after a forward pass had been completed and it was Meiji's ball on its own 23-yard line. Another quick-kick was effective putting the ball on the Waseda 35-yard line.

A beautiful punt, out of bounds on the Waseda 29-yard line, by Hamazaki, followed by a 15-yard penalty against Waseda for unnecessary roughness, started Meiji on its way to its second touchdown. The penalty came on Noguchi's punt to his own 32-yard line, which set the ball back to the 17-yard line. Wada, who had just substituted for Yoshimoto, went through center for eight yards, and Oumai bucked the line for first down on the Waseda 6-yard stripe. He made four yards as the first quarter ended. On the first play after the teams had changed sides, Wada steam-rollered through the center of the line for touchdown. Ohama kicked the extra point to give Meiji an impressive 14-0 lead so early in the game.

Meiji Threatens

Meiji threatened again in the second quarter when Yasuda intercepted a pass by Fukuda and romped 30 yards to the Waseda 3-yard line. Here the Waseda stalwarts put up a stonewall defense. Wada was stopped on two plays. Fukuda knocked down a pass. And Oumai attempted a place-kick from the 12-yard line but it was wide. A gain of nine yards by Fukuda on a sweep toward the right flank and a plunge through center for two yards by Naito registered Waseda's first down of the game. But once again, Waseda lost the ball on a fumble and Toyama recovered for Meiji on the Waseda 21-yard line. Waseda stiffened and took the ball over on downs. Then it was that Naito picked his way through right tackle for 12 yards but it was only to his own 35-yard line. But Waseda was penalized five yards for backfield in motion and its offense fizzled. Its forward passes failed. Naito checked Meiji from registering another touchdown when he intercepted a forward pass on his own 5-yard line. Waseda was pressed back within the shadow of its goal posts again when Wada punted out of bounds on the 5-yard line.

The Waseda team reeled off two more first downs, one of them on a beautifully executed triple lateral pass play, just before the gun went off in the second quarter. And the indications were that the 1937 champions might hit their stride in the second half and wipe off Meiji's 14-0 lead. But the Meiji eleven would stake no gamble and clinched the game right at the outset of the second half. Meiji kicked off to the Waseda 35-yard line. The latter, desperate to score, resorted to a pass on the very first play and Right End Toyama of Meiji intercepted it and returned it to the Waseda 26-yard line. Oumai failed to gain but Wada dropped back to his 35-yard line, and passed to Machida, who needed but to run five yards for touchdown. The try for the extra point on a place-kick failed.

Wada Gains 12 Yards

It was Wada again who romped 12 yards to the Waseda 32-yard line to pave the way for Waseda's second touchdown in the third period, the last in the game. He then shot a pass to Toyama for first down on the Waseda 15-yard line. Yasuda came through with a sweep around right end for 14 yards to the 1-yard line. Wada went over for touchdown. Conversion failed. Score, Meiji 26, Waseda 0.

Meiji kept the ball in Waseda territory throughout the fourth period but lacked the necessary punch to score. Waseda resorted to the air but in vain. Fukuda and his team-mates never gave up fighting but the best they could do was to register two first downs.

Meiji registered a total of ten first downs, contrasting with seven by Waseda.

Before the game got under way at 2:40 p.m., the two teams lined up in midfield, turned in the direction of the Imperial Palace and bowed in respect, then toward the Yasukuni Shrine and offered a minute's silent prayer. The spectators joined in the ceremony.

Y.C.A.C. Beats Tokyo Old Boys By 25-13 Score

By BILL OMURA

Boasting a proud record, the Yokohama and Athletic Club American football team wound up the season with a 25-13 victory over the Tokyo Old Boys in the opener of the doubleheader Sunday at Korakuen Stadium.

More than 5,000 fans witnessed the foreigners dominate the game, unleashing an aerial attack that completely submerged their powerful opponents during the first half with a lead of 19-0.

But the Old Boys, playing bang-up football, came back strong in the second half with Kasahara, Obayashi, and Matsumoto, working behind perfect blocking, twice steamrollered their heavier opponents with their touchdown parade. The charging line headed by "Chick" Honda, Keio's baseball star, "Chuck" Fujika, and "Kay" Miura, had the Yokohama eleven resorting to the air game.

Harris Completes Pass

The first touchdown came after Harris received a pass from Ross, bringing the ball to the Old Boys' 4-yard line. Followed by a series of line plays, Ross finally plunged over center from the 1-yard stripe. Ross's dropkick failed to tally for the extra point.

When the Old Boys forward wall stiffened, early in the second quarter, following a 30-yard drive with Cooke and Harris taking the brunt of the attack, bringing the ball to the Old Boy's 3-yard line, Y.C.A.C. again took to the air, with Rasburry heaving the ball to Smith for a completed pass over the goal. Try for extra point failed.

Fullback Chiwa of the Old Boys got off a long punt but rolled out of bound on the Y.C.A.C. 35-yard line. On the first play Rasburry passed to Hamsher on the Old Boys 25-yard line, Ross taking Hamshers lateral carried the ball to the 12-yard line for a total gain of 48 yards.

Hamsher again snagged Rasburry's pass, this time over the goal for the third touchdown. Cooke plunged through center for the extra point.

In the third quarter, Y.C.A.C. scored but once for the Old Boys got under way and completely outplayed the Yokohama eleven. Ross kicked off to Hara of the Old Boys who returned the kick 27 yards before he was finally brought down on his own 30-yard line.

Brilliant runs by Obayashi and Kasahara, plunging through center off-tackle and end runs marched 40 yards before they were stopped on the Y.C.A.C. 30-yard line. On the next play, Quarterback Matsumoto threw a beautiful forward pass to Left End Fujika who ran the remaining two yards for a touchdown. Try for extra point failed.

Obayashi Scores

In the fourth quarter the Old Boys again steamrollered their opponents forward wall. Quarterback Nii of the Old Boys took Ross's punt and returned the ball to midfield. With Kasahara and Obayashi again leading the attack with their power plays, the Old Boys made four first downs in eight plays. With the ball on the Y.C.A.C. 5-yard line, Obayashi knifed through center, dragging three men across the goal line for their second counter. Kasahara converted for the extra point.

Kasahara kicked off to Ross who was tackled on his own 35-yard line. Harris failing to gain through the line, Rasburry attempted a pass to Hamsher but failed to complete. Ross kicked high on the next play which rolled out of bounds on the Old Boys' 43-yard line.

Matsumoto, fumbling a poor lateral from halfback Kasahara, was smeared for a loss of 18 yards. Unable to gain yardage, Kasahara quick-kicked, but the ball rolled out of bounds on his own 49-yard line.

On the first play, Harris broke through center of the line for 13 yards. On the next phy Ross from his own 40-yard line heaved a long pass to Harris who had been playing dead on the far end of the field, which completely took the Old Boys by surprise. Harris ran the remaining 10 yards for a touchdown. Try for extra point failed as the gun ended the game.

Kyoto Defeats Rikkyo Cagers In Second Game

A field goal by Forward Mitsuta a split second before the final whistle gave Kyoto Imperial University a 50 to 48 victory over Rikkyo University Sunday night at the National Gymnasium at Hitotsubashi, Kanda, to put their two out of three game series for the national basketball championship on a 1-all basis. The two teams were scheduled to play the final game at 4:20 p.m. today at the same courts.

The Kyoto cagers, out to redeem themselves from their 51 to 42 defeat on Saturday night, went on a wild scoring spree in the first half and led 32 to 23. But Rikkyo, the Kanto champions, rallied after the interval and deadlocked the count at 42-all after 15 minutes of play. Thereafter it was a nip and tuck affair.

When it seemed as if an extra period might be necessary with the score standing at 48-all, Mitsuta, who had worked himself under the Rikkyo basket, took a pass from an out of bounds play and sent it through the hoop for the winning tally.

An outstanding factor for the Kyoto quintet's victory was the effective guarding of Matsui, who concentrated his efforts on stopping Kasahara, the high scoring ace of Rikkyo. At that, the latter registered 15 points, and was second only to Mitsuta of Kyoto with 18 points.

The line-ups were:

Won Collegiate Cage Title

Members of the Kyoto Imperial University basketball team which defeated Rikkyo University, 47 to 45, Monday afternoon at the National Gymnasium at Kanda and annexed the national collegiate championship.

Kyoto Imperial University Tops Rikkyo For Cage Title

By dint of airtight guarding, Kyoto Imperial University's five nosed out Rikkyo University by a 47 to 45 score Monday afternoon at the National Gymnasium at Hitotsubashi, Kanda, in the third game of their two out of three series and thereby clinched the national collegiate basketball title for the second straight year. The score at half time was 24 to 20 in favor of the visitors.

The game was a battle royal from the opening whistle. Both teams resorted to close guarding tactics and there was not a single goal registered in the first five minutes of play.

Ren In Good Form

Center Ren of Kyoto was in exceptionally good form and his excellent pivot work was one of the primary factors for his team's victory. The Rikkyo combine, on the other hand, suffered heavily from the absence of its lanky center, Kishi, and had to depend on Cho. The latter, apparently too anxious for victory, failed to station himself underneath the basket time and again on plays that called for him there. Then there was Captain Matsui of Kyoto, who hung on to Kasahara, the Rikkyo high scoring guard, and did such a good job at it that it proved a smashing blow to the Rikkyo team's morale.

It appeared as if the Rikkyo players were playing too conservatively, in other words they were stressing too much attention on defense when they should have resorted to a dashing game on the offensive. The result was that Ren and Captain Mitsuta, whose basket just before the final whistle had won for Kyoto on Sunday night, were able to penetrate the Rikkyo defense time and again to score. Mitsuta was high point scorer of the evening with 18 points.

Rikkyo Rallies

Rikkyo rallied after the interval and field goals by Kasahara and Kin Sei put the score on a 31-all basis after five minutes of play. Baskets by Mitsuta and Takiguchi put Kyoto into a 36-31 lead at seven minutes and then another field goal by Mitsuta accounted for a 38-31 lead at eight minutes. Rikkyo called for time out at this stage to recover from Kyoto's smashing attack. Kyoto suffered heavily when Takiguchi was discharged from the game on his fourth personal foul at nine minutes and Ren too followed suit at 11 minutes. Here was a chance for Rikkyo to score but Kyoto put up an airtight defense and goals by Mitsuta and Matsui increased Kyoto's lead to 47-40 at 18 minutes. Then it was that Mitsuta, himself, was thrown out of the game on four personal fouls. Kasahara converted a free throw and two timely field goals by Kin Sei cut Kyoto's lead down to 47-45. All efforts by Rikkyo to win were cut off by the final whistle.

Michigan Routs Ohio State, 18-0, Before 67,554

N.Y. Herald Tribune

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 13—Herbert O. (Fritz) Crislers first University of Michigan football team swarmed over Ohio State, 18 to 0, before 67,554 spectators today to climax Michigan's return as a major gridiron power.

Tom Harmon, one of the year's outstanding sophomore halfbacks, battered his 194 pounds from the one-foot mark in the second quarter for the first Michigan touchdown against Ohio State since 1933 to begin the rout of the Bucks.

The versatile sophomore from Gary, Ind., threw a fifteen-yard pass to Edward Fruitig for the second score in the fourth quarter and Fred Trosko, reserve back, completed Michigan's return to glory with a thirty-eight-yard sprint in the waning minutes of the game.

The defeat blasted Ohio's chances of sharing the Big Ten championship and completed Michigan's initial season under a new coaching regime with only one setback, 7 to 6 at the hands of Minnesota.

Michigan Tackles Savagely

Until today, Michigan had failed dismally in four previous meetings with its traditional Scarlet and Gray rivals since Francis Schmidt brought his razzle-dazzle magic to Columbus in 1934. But the vengeful Wolverines, pounding forward for every extra yard and tackling savagely, decisively punctured the Schmidt jinx this afternoon. Only three times did the Bucks venture beyond midfield on offensive thrusts and Ohio never penetrated inside the Wolverine 20.

Ohio tried seventeen passes but completed only three, for thirty-six yards. The Bucks gained only seventy-two yards on the ground against 205 for the Wolves. Michigan completed six of thirteen aerial attempts for seventy-three yards.

A poorly executed lateral pass from Jim Langhurst, Ohio's sophomore star, set the stage for the first touchdown. Wally Hook, who performed brilliantly throughout the game, recovered on the Ohio 16. Hook, Paul Kromer and Harmon took turns battering the heavy Buckeye forward wall and rammed to the 1-foot mark from where Harmon went over.

Michigan Drive Stopped

An earlier Michigan threat in the quarter halted on the Ohio 18 when Harmon's pass over the goal line was knocked down by Mike Kabealo.

The second half was barely under way before the Wolves again knocked at the touchdown door. Again they gave up the ball on downs when Charley Maag, Ohio center, knocked down a Kromer pass tossed from the Ohio 11.

Late in the third period Harmon intercepted a pass on the Ohio 48 and ran to the 41. After two plays Harmon rifled a long pass to Fruitig for first down on Ohio's 13. Howard Mehaffey plunged to the 5 and Harmon went over on the next play but the score was nullified by a penalty. A line play lost five yards and set the ball on the 15 for a loping touchdown pass, Harmon to Fruitig.

The Bucks began to throw passes frantically and Louis Levine, substitute Michigan quarterback, intercepted one on his 5-yard line. Norma Purcher plunged to the 38 and then Trosko streaked away for the third touchdown.

Seabiscuit Tops War Admiral Smashing Mark

By BRYAN FIELD

N.Y. Times

BALTIMORE, Nov. 1—Seabiscuit defeated War Admiral today. Amid scenes of frantic enthusiasm, created by a record crowd of 40,000 persons, that simple fact stood high and alone and it will leave its impression on the American turf. Historic Pimlico never had seen anything like it.

Smashing the track record, beating War Admiral at his own game, the phlegmatic ugly duckling with the lame leg from the Pacific Coast did all, and more, than the son of Man o' War. There was glory enough for the two, but to Charles S. Howard's champion son of Hard Tack and grandson of Man o' War went the distinction and an honor that probably no other thoroughbred in this equine generation will earn.

Thousands rushed the unsaddling enclosure after the finish and all but upset Matchmaker Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, owner Howard and the veteran trainer Tom Smith. Answering the pleas of hundreds, Smith grasped a single chrysanthemum for himself, and then thrust the enormous bow of flowers into the reaching hands. In a twinkling ferns, leaves, flowers and even petals were wrenched apart as cheers still rolled forth from the souvenir hunters.

Loser Goes Unnoticed

Virtually unnoticed, blanketed and hooded, out on the middle of the track, War Admiral walked alone toward his stall. But not quite alone the hot favorite of a few minutes before, who had been made a 1-to-4 shot with the thousands in the stands, still had the faithful Trainer George Conway watching his stride. Scanning his charge's every step for any sign of ailment, Conway then went his way alone.

It was a hard, bitter and punishing race. Until the last furlong it had the thousands on their feet. The time of 1:56 3-5, lowering Pompoon's record by a fifth of a second, surprised few. Both horses were going all out from the fall of the starting flag to the finish and it was Seabiscuit who led, for all except a brief span, when War Admiral tried and failed.

At the end of the mile and three-sixteenths the margin was three lengths, and if they had gone farther the margin would have been greater. The $15,000 which went to the winner brought Seabiscuit's total to $340,480, moving him from fifth to second place among the world's money winners and placing him within striking distance of Sun Beau's record of $376,744. And this sort of a horse was neglected in the betting, returning $6.40 for $2, or 11 to 5.

Although both horses appeared to come out of the race in excellent condition, future plans for War Admiral were thrown into confusion. It is possible that he may race again instead of being retired to the stud immediately. Seabiscuit will continue racing, with the Riggs Handicap here Saturday his next start.

Howards Are Congratulated

Mr. and Mrs. Howard were overwhelmed with congratulations as cameras clicked. Police, friends, hostlers and society well-wishers joined in a frenzied outburst produced perhaps by racing only. The Howards hardly had a chance to do more than bow and smile, but the San Franciscans at last got free and paid tribute to Samuel D. Riddle, owner of War Admiral, and Conway.

Smith, asked for a statement, declared: "I said mine on the track!" George Woolf, shouted at and queried before he could even dismount, had his first thought for Red Pollard, Seabiscuit's injured and regular jockey, who heard, the race from a hospital bed by radio.

Charlie Kurtsinger, who handled War Admiral, congratulated Woolf, and was able to muster a grin after a finish that must have been as much of a shock to him as to most others. He offered no alibi, nor did any one else. It was the kind of a race in which there could be no alibi.

While all the uproar was going on about him, Seabiscuit stood stolidly. A few minutes before his legs had flown, doubtless as they never had flown before, but now he was at ease. Even flashlight bulbs exploded right under his muzzle caused only a slight toss of his head. And the knee that had forced Smith to scratch him from the $100,000 special at Belmont Park last Spring looked as good after as it had in the race.

Trainer and Jockey Praised

While the plaudits of the great crowd were for Owner Howard, he was the first to acknowledge his debt to Smith and Woolf. Smith, an old cowhand from the Northwest, who learned the horse business the hard way, bought Seabiscuit as a 3-year-old for $8,500, when the handicap champion virtually was a discard from the Wheatley Stable.

Most of the horse's earnings have been garnered since because Smith has been able to keep in training and at his fittest, a thoroughbred campaigned up and down the country, from coast to coast, at strange as well as familiar race tracks. Always Seabiscuit has run gamely under heavy weight.

The impost today was 120 pounds for each, and it must have seemed light to the horse who now at 5, is the outstanding thoroughbred in America. As for Woolf, he won the race by taking the track from War Admiral. The wiseacres had said this could not be done.

Woolf accomplished it by whipping Seabiscuit away from the starting post. Turning on a tremendous burst of speed that must have caught Kurtsinger by surprise, Seabiscuit jumped a length in front under the sting of the lash.

Passing the stands the first time, Seabiscuit was well enough in front to be able to cross over from the No. 2 post position and take the rail from War Admiral. Then Woolf put in a shrewd touch. Coming to the first turn he deliberately slowed Seabiscuit, so that his mount's churning quarters were right in front of War Admiral's nose. This served the double purpose of giving Seabiscuit a bit of a breather and forcing Kurtsinger to check somewhat to prevent War Admiral from running on the heels of the horse in front.

Around that first turn and into the backstretch Woolf eased his mount a trifle wide, forcing War Admiral wider. These were the same tactics Kurtsinger had worked with War Admiral against Pompoon when those two clashed in the memorable Preakness of 1937 that War Admiral won.

Coming into the backstretch Kurtsinger, always cool and collected, knew that he was getting the worst of things and decided to ask War Admiral for his best in the long, straight run that stretched away to the far turn. He turned loose his holds and slashed with the whip. The Man o' War colt went forward with a bound. Within thirty yards the two were head and head as the deafening roar billowed from the crowd: "There he goes!"

For another furlong the two were head and head. Then War Admiral's nose showed in front. Now Woolf slashed with the whip, and the nose of War Admiral showed no more.

But neither could Seabiscuit draw away. The two went to the far turn as one horse, went around that bend as one horse and headed for the top of the homestretch still with nothing between them.

The Better Horse Wins

Kurtsinger, who stated before the race that he never had had to ask War Admiral for his best, asked now. With all the power that has made him one of the country's first-flight riders he drove forward with War Admiral. Again and again the black-clad arm with the yellow bars rose and fell, but War Admiral could do no more. He had met a better horse.

Woolf, too, was driving. He knew that final turn into the stretch was the last try of the horse justly called Man o' War's greatest son. He, too, flung everything into the drive.

Smith, grizzled and tight-lipped, must have wondered how Seabiscuit's knee was standing the twisting, as well as the pounding, that a turn produces. It is on turns that thoroughbreds' knees give way, when hearts do not.

But Seabiscuit's knee did not give and his courage had been proved in many a racing war. Through the last furlong it was a procession, with the horses speeding like vivid but silent phantoms as the waves of cheering from the stands submerged and overwhelmed the pounding thud of the hoofs.

In all, $754,807 was bet on eight races, $76,811 being wagered on the Special. Of this total, $54,898 went in on War Admiral and $21,913 on Seabiscuit.

The fractional times follow: 0:23 3-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:11 44-5, 1:36 4-5 and 1:56 3-5. Although it did not count, the time for the mile was almost a second faster than the track record of 1:37 3-5, made in 1923 by June Grass.

Four 10-Goalers On U.S. Team To Play Britain

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Nov. 2—When early next June the United States and Great Britain meet on the historic turf of International Field at the Meadow Brook Club, it will be possible for this country to place in the field the highest handicapped team in the history of international polo. This became known yesterday with the announcement by the board of governors of the United States Polo Association of the raising of Michael G. Phipps from 9 goals to 10. This was the most interesting part of the new handicap list made public by the board.

This means that the United States has four 10-goal players, for Phipps joins Tommy Hitchcock, Stewart Iglehart and Cecil Smith at the top of our handicap rating and creates the possibility of a 40-goal team for the international matches. Not since 1925, when Hitchcock, Devereux Milburn, Malcolm Stevenson and Watson Webb, who had been successful in the 1924 international contests, were rated at 10 goals each, has this country had four players at this figure. The country has never had four in an international match.

Lists Effective Nov. 15

The new lists, which become effective Nov. 15, have not changed the position of many of the high-goal players. Raymond Guest, who turned in an excellent game at back for the Aknusti team in winning the Waterbury Cup this year, has been lifted from 7 goals to 8 and three other players seen in action during the September tournaments have been moved up. C. V. (Sonny) Whitney, captain and back of the national champion Old Westbury team, goes from 5 goals to 6 as does William G. Reynolds, who played with the Ramblers. Lewis Smith, the hard-hitting Buffalo youngster who rode with Aurora, has been lifted from 4 to 5.

There have been some reductions among the high-goal men. Billy Post has been lowered rom 8 to 7, Cyril Harrison, E. A. S. Hopping and James P. Mills from 7 to 6. Among the younger players, interesting changes include the raising of Charley von Stade and Mott Woolley of Meadow Brook from 3 to 4 and of Peter Perkins, son of the veteran Arthur Perkins, from 3 to 5.

The adjustments leave eleven American players on the lists handicapped at 7 goals or more. There are the four men at 10 goals, Eric Pedley of California and Raymond Guest at 8, Elmer Boeseke Jr. of California and G. H. (Pete) Bostwick, Winston Guest, Ebby Gerry and Bill Post at 7.

Played Game at Yale

Phipps, whose rise in polo has taken place in the past four or five years, is one of the younger group, 28 years of age. He is a graduate of Yale, where he played the game, and first came into the international picture when he was chosen to go with this country's team to England in 1936. Though he has played most of his polo at No. 1, he yielded that position on the team that season to Eric Pedley, the Californian, and rode at No. 2 in the two games at Hurlingham which kept control of the trophy.

His play at No. 2 stood him in good stead afterward, rounding out his No. 1 work so that he found it possible to come back into the game and make scoring opportunities for himself when the ball failed to come up on passes. His rise in handicap was expected, for he played very well throughout the past season.

Raymond Guest, one of the game's most powerful hitters, is also a graduate of Yale and his present rating is the highest he has yet attained. He has concentrated on the back position in recent years, where his great strength has been of offensive as well as defensive value. His play in the last two games of the high-goal season, when his team defeated Greentree and Old Westbury in the Waterbury Cup, was outstanding.

Pioneering

I will not be responsible for any debts made only by myself after Jan. 5, 1938.—Charles J. Patteet, 225 Segur.—Adv. in the Toledo Blade.

Sounds like a good idea. You might let us know how it works out. —New Yorker.

Harvard Beats Yale, 7-0 As MacDonald Snares Pass In End Zone In 4th Period

By STANLEY WOODWARD

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 19—Thwarted for three periods by a furious Yale defense and a steady rain which mired the field and slimed the ball, Harvard's slick football team came on in the fourth period to march eighty yards for the touchdown that beat the Blue, 7 to 0, before 62,000 drenched and bedraggled enthusiasts in Yale Bowl this afternoon.

Torbert Macdonald, Harvard right halfback, scored the touchdown with a circus catch of Frank Foley's forward pass in the Yale end zone. Macdonald and Ray Anderson, Yale sophomore quarterback, leaped together and Macdonald came down with the ball clutched against his chest.

In this way was won a game that was reminiscent of the tussles of 1923 and 1924 when Ducky Pond, present Yale coach, and his mates stamped through the muck to victory in Harvard Stadium and this same bowl.

Throughout the afternoon the rain soaked players and spectators alike.

Scores in Downpour

At first it was a drizzle. Then it increased in volume. Finally, at the very moment when Macdonald clutched the clinching pass, it came down in driving sheets. When Chief Boston, Harvard second-string quarterback, place-kicked the extra point the huddled customers couldn't even see the ball.

For three periods, with the aid of the rain, football's great equalizer, the under-dog Yale team played Harvard even. The Blue stymied Harvard's attack with a shifting, slicing defense in which Joe Stack, the center, was the key man, and actually outgained the Crimson with power drives against the line and short passes to the wings.

Harvard was repulsed deep in Yale territory in the second period and again in the third when the Cambridge entry recovered a fumble on Yale's 20. Yale's olny threats sandwiched the Harvard touchdown.

Yale Battles Valiantly

The Crimson scoring drive began after Johnny Miller missed an attempted field goal from place-kick in the early fourth period when a Yale drive penetrated to the 18. The boys in blue closed the game with a courageous surge and reached the 14-yard line before Harvard held for downs.

Miller's attempt to kick a field goal was low and to the left of the goal-posts. It was a touchback, giving Harvard the ball on its own 20-yard line. From there Harvard got itself going by means of a play which did not come within the limits of conservatism.

Two runs had been macerated by the good Yale line. Foley went back, apparently to kick. He carried out the fake convincingly, stepping forward with the ball poised for a punt.

Then he stopped and passed to Macdonald. The latter had pretended to block the Yale right tackle, then slipped out into unprotected territory. He caught the ball in stride, and galloped along to the Harvard 40, where the Yale secondaries ganged him.

That was the third play of the scoring march. Harvard needed only ten to get over.

Macdonald Gets Loose

Foley made another first down on an in-and-out end run around Yale's left. Joe Gardella bucked for three yards and then the rapid Macdonald got loose again, this time on a reverse play. Taking the ball from Gardella, he swung off Yale's right tackle behind heavy and fast-moving interferers. Don Daughters, right end, dynamited the Yale right halfback. Macdonald veered out and went thirty-three yards before Anderson drove him out of bounds on the Yale 10.

Foley, the Harvard signal caller, wasted only one play running against the tough Yale line. Then he called the crucial pass. He started as if to run off Yale's left tackle, then faded back two or three steps and lined the ball into the right flat zone. Macdonald had run wide from his wing-back position. Anderson had him blanketed, but he got the ball. The Harvard men pounded his mudstained back as he lay in the end zone.

If Harvard's hadn't put on that last drive, it would have been convincingly outstatisticked by Yale. As it was the boys in Blue made nine first downs to Harvard's five and rushed the ball 114 yards to Harvard's ninety-four.

It was in the department of forward passing, a subdivison in which Yale was supposed to have the edge, that Harvard excelled, gaining seventy valuable yards to Yale's forty-three.

Foley's handling of the slippery ball in the clutches was the competitive miracle of the damp and dreary afternoon. The non-competitive miracle was the hardihood of the 62,000 soaked spectators through nearly three hours of bitter struggle.

At times the drizzle was so opaque that it was difficult to make out what was going on in the arena. In the third period it was so black that it looked as if the players would finish in total darkness. In the fourth, after it had started to pour in earnest, the atmosphere seemed to brighten but a chilly northeast wind sprung up and made the customers even more uncomfortable.

In spite of the dreadful weather, the rival factions went bravely on with the show. The bands marched and rendered carefully, rehearsed medleys with tuba players blowing for their lives to keep the water out of their instruments.

At the finish, the Harvard host swamped on the field and marched through the goal-posts behind the band, waving red flares. Carrying out a preconceived plan, the Crimson cohorts left the goal-posts standing foregoing the ancient prerogative of turning them into splintered souvenirs.

Harvard's Fourth Straight

It was Harvard's second successive victory over Yale. Foley threw one touchdown and scored the other in the sunlight of Harvard stadium last year. It was Harvard's fourth consecutive victory of the season. The Crimson dropped its first four games, then started to mow down all opposition. This victory, combined with the earlier subjugation of Princeton, makes Harvard the Big Three champion.

Although Yale finished on an heroic note with the fury of its efforts to beat an enemy that was favored at 2 and 3 to 1, the game capped the most unsuccessful season since Pond and Greasy Neale took over the coaching. Victories over Navy and Brown were the only bright spots in a dismal campaign.

Yale supporters probably would have regarded a scoreless tie with Harvard as a satisfactory outcome, and practically every one in the stadium had decided that was what was going to transpire when the fourth period began.

Here Yale, which had kept Harvard successfully at bay, reached out for victory. Passes from the game sophomore, Anderson, to Bill Snavely, the fullback, brought two first downs and planted the ball on Harvard's 20-yard line.

A buck and two unsuccessful passes left Yale with eight yards to go on fourth down and Anderson went back to try his place kick. It was a long hoist and a bad angle. When it went wrong Harvard seemed to regain its offensive poise.

Harvard Halted in Second

The only other Harvard drive of the afternoon came at the start of the second period when the Crimson traveled from its own 31-yard line to the Yale 10, where Anderson extricated Yale by intercepting a pass. A brilliant forward pass play with an extemporaneous lateral on the end carried Harvard forty-two of the fifty-nine yards the march covered.

Austin Harding, Foley's predecessor at left halfback, fired a short one to Bobby Green, Harvard captain, who crossed over from left end. The latter ran fifteen yards and flipped the ball to Macdonald when he was tackled. The latter finally was run out of bounds ten yards from the goal line.

Harvard had another chance at the start of the third period when Yale's Al Wilson fumbled when Harvard's Cliff Wilson tackled him and Harvard's Harding recovered. The Crimson couldn't moves a foot against the tough Yale defense.

Yale got a chance to tie the game in the closing minutes when Gardella fumbled after scooping a bounding punt and Yale's captain, Bill Platt, recovered. A penalty against Harvard for defensive holding had an earned first down put the ball on the Harvard 22. Yale gave it up on downs eight yards nearer the Crimson goal line and Harvard froze it for the balance of time, introducing the time-consuming double shift for the first time in the game.

Texas Christian Crushes Rice By 29-7 Count

N.Y. Herald Tribune

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 19—Striking through the air and over the ground with stunning force, Texas Christian's unbeaten and untied football team crushed Rice Institute, 29 to 7, today, for its ninth straight victory of the season.

A crowd of 28,000, the largest football gathering in Houston history, saw Texas Christian, sparked by the dynamic little sharpshooter, Davey O'Brien, rush across four touchdowns for 27 points in the first half.

The winners picked up their final two points on a safety seconds before the game ended when Ernie Lain, burly Rice back, stepped over the end zone in an effort to get away a pass.

The crippled Rice team, defender of the Southwest Conference title, never had a chance.

Even when the Owls scored on a sensational fifty-five-yard forward pass and run in the second period, to cut T. C. U's lead to 14 to 7, no one in the stadium thought they would win.

Texas Christian might well have doubled the score had it played its first team throughout the game. But only two regulars—O'Brien and Ki Aldrich, mighty center—saw service in the second half as Dutch Meyer gave all of his squad a taste of competition.

T.C.U. Scores Quickly

Customers still were looking for their seats four minutes after the opening whistle when the Christians bagged their first touchdown. It was accomplished with ridiculous ease, eight plays carrying the ball fifty-six yards for a score.

O'Brien threw three of the eleven passes he completed during the afternoon in this march and then kicked the extra point. Looney was the scorer on an O'Brien pass.

The second period was a spectacular scoring affair with T. C. U. banging across three tallies and Rice one. T. C. U's second touchdown march carried sixty-three yards and was accomplished in eleven plays, with little O'Brien the passing and running spark.

The touchdown came when O'Brien, surrounded by Rice tacklers on the 38-yard line, drifted a high one into the end zone. There, Art Clark outjumped two defenders and came down with it. O'Brien again converted.

The thousands of Rice backers got their only chance to cheer a few minutes later when Doug Sullivan, the best of the Rice back, faded to his own 35-yard line and whipped a pass to D. Y. Steakley, who took it on the run on the T. C. U. 25-yard line. A track man, Steakley outran his pursuers and crossed the line without a hand touching him. Schuehle converted.

O'Brien Scores for Change

This surprise score nettled the big and burly Texas Christians and they answered with a blazing show of power. Scorning the forward pass, and relying on might up front, they moved sixty-eight yards for a score. In just seven plays, all on the ground, the Christians tore the Rice line apart for a touchdown.

O'Brien climaxed the drive with a scoring plunge from the 1-yard line. This time Davey's try for the point was blocked.

The final T. C. U. touchdown was a gift from Lady Luck. On fourth down O'Brien threw a long pass toward the Rice goal line. It was battled down by Rice's Taylor. But the ball bounced into the hands of Durward Horner, T. C. U. end, who needed to take but a step to score. The handy O'Brien kicked the point to make the score T. C. U., 27; Rice, 7.

From then it was Rice against the Christian substitutes and it was an even, if dull, battle. Just before the game ended Ernie Lain, throwing from behind his own goal line, stepped out of the end zone and T. C. U. was awarded an automatic safety.

Rice Hit by Injuries

Rice, with many of its best men on the sidelines with injuries, fought gamely but never was in the ball game. Its efforts were as water is to wine compared to the power, finesse, speed and savvy of the really great Texas Christian eleven.

O'Brien, with a better passing record than Sammy Baugh, threw strikes all afternoon, completing eleven of eighteen tosses. And when Davey's arm grew tired he and his backfield mates ran almost at will behind a strapping, mobile line, headed by the tireless Aldrich.

Waseda Will Hold Winter Training For Baseball Team

Waseda University's baseball team will be the only member of the Tokyo Six University league to hold Winter training, from December 20 to 30, at Shizuoka, it was learned today.

A slash of 30 per cent in the teams' shares of the gate receipts by the Education Ministry, averaging about ¥4,000 per team, is said to be one of the reasons for the cancellation of the annual practice by Keio, Hosei and Meiji. Rikkyo and Tokyo Imperial University have not held such sessions.

Waseda originally had been scheduled to go to Manila this Winter but the trip was prohibited by the Education Ministry. The Winter training is being held because of the necessity of filling up a number of positions lost through graduation of players, it is said.

Washington U. Loses, 3 To 0, To Oregon Eleven

N.Y. Herald Tribune

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 19—Oregon, defeated in four major games this season, turned up rejuvenated today to down the Washington Huskies, 3 to 0, before 20,000 fans. The Huskies, favorites because of their 7-to-6 victory over the University of Southern California last week, were deep in their territory most of the second half and at no time seriously threatened the Webfoot goal line.

Jim Nicholson, called to the colors as a second-period halfback reserve, lighted the fuse which shot Oregon from its own 23-yard line to the Washington 4, from where he kicked a field goal from placement. His pass to Dennis Donovan, quarterback, was good for thirty-three yards. He snagged a pass from Bob Smith, halfback, and then with Marshall Stenstrom churned through the Husky forwards into position for the decisive kick.

Washington presented considerable midfield power in the first half but fought out from behind its goal line four times in the third and fourth periods. Its passing attack was futile.

Duke Annexes Southern Title, Unbeaten, Untied

N.Y. Herald Tribune

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 19—Duke's unbeaten and united Blue Devils marched through their eighth consecutive game today without being scored on as they defeated North Carolina State, 7 to 0, before a crowd of 11,000 in Duke Stadium. The victory gave Duke the Southern Conference title.

Wallace Wada, coach, looking forward to next week's final game of the season against Pittsburgh, kept his regulars on the bench most of the time and rushed them in only when state threatened.

Tipton Leads Blue Devils

Eric (The Red) Tipton, Duke's powerful halfback, guided the Blue devils to their lone touchdown late in the second period. The score was play and twiste dthrough the State fumbled and recovered on his 1-yard line and then punted out to his 46.

Tipton took the ball on the first play and twisted through the State line for a first down on State's 34. Three line plays took the ball to the State 30 and then Tipton passed to Jap Davis who shook off a pair of tacklers and made a first down on the 18. Tipton cracked tackle twice and placed the ball on the 3. Then he chose left end as the spot for the kill and ran over for a touchdown. Tony Ruffa, a 205-pound guard, was rushed into the game and he kicked the extra point.

State played a wide-awake game although its anticipated "wide open" attempt to break Duke's perfect record failed to materialize. The red shirted wolfpack howled at the Duke door near the end of the first period. That happened when Ed (Fy) Coon, big tackle, recovered a fumble on the Duke 18 two minutes before the period ended.

Duke Sends in Regulars

Duke sent in its first team and the attack was battered down in the second period. Andy Pavlovsky and Rooney had carried the ball to the Duke 6 where it was first down when the first period ended.

Pavlovsky smashed left guard for three yards, and it looked as if Duke at last was going to be scored on. But the Duke regulars, warmed up by this time, turned back the attack. On the second try Pavlovsky was stopped at the line by a solid wall of Hill, Ribar and Bailey. Rooney and Sabolsky then lost two yards each. Duke took the ball on downs and kicked out of danger.

The same thing almost happened again in the third period when, with seven minutes to play, Duke had to call in its first team again when State recovered a fumble on the Duke 14. State drove to the 11 but lost the ball.

Duke made thirteen first downs against four for State. Duke threw seven passes and completed three for thirty yards. State completed one out of five for thirteen.

California Tops Stanford, 6 To 0 On Forward Pass

N.Y. Times

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 19—The University of California's Golden Bears, making a last-ditch stand for a chance at the Pacific Coast Conference football championship and the Rose Bowl bid, scored a fourth period touchdown and a 6-to-0 victory today over their oldest football rivals, the Stanford Indians.

The victory assured the Bears of at least a tie for the Conference title.

Some 82,000 fans, the largest crowd in the nation for the day, saw the Bears snatch at a sudden break in the last quarter. It was a fumble by Fred Ledeboer, Stanford left half. Louis Smith, California's right half, grabbed the ball 27 yards from the Indians' goal.

Try for Point Blocked

Three plays later California turned what had appeared to be a scoreless battle into glorious victory. Vic Bottari, left halfback and clever field general for the Bears, whipped the ball to Angelo Reginato, substitute end. He caught the ball, sidestepped one tackler and crashed over the line. The winning touchdown pass and run gained 21 yards. Bottari's drop kick for the extra point was blocked.

As the game ended, the Bears were charging toward another touchdown, following a pass interception as Stanford took to the air in a futile rally to turn impending defeat into a last-minute victory or tie.

Stanford's doughty gridiron warriors went down fighting in the forty-fourth annual meeting between the two schools. For three periods they outplayed their rivals.

Fay Fumbles Near Goal

Twice they lost the ball within the shadow of the California goal. Two times field goal attempts failed, and once a Stanford touchdown drive ended six inches from the goal line. California's kick was short and the Indians went from the 19 to California's 2 before halfback Pete Fay fumbled. Fullback Dave Anderson recovered for the Bears and Stanford's scoring threats were ended.

It was California's third straight conquest of its ancient foe. The history of the game, founded in 1892, still finds Stanford in front with 20 triumphs against 16. Eight games were tied.

Tokyo Fan Picks All-Star Elevens

Dear Sport Editor:

Football season in Tokyo has ended with Meiji University taking the championship. Last year Meiji and Waseda were co-champions. This year Meiji has played wonderful football with its goal line uncrossed.

Since the season is over I like to take this opportunity in selecting my first and second all-star teams. I have been selecting all-star teams from 1936 to develop finer football players. After the season is over each football player thinks to himself, have I made a good showing to land on the all-star team?

I'd be very happy to see my all-star selections appear again in your sport page this year.

Oklahoma Tops Iowa State, 10-0; Stays Unbeaten

AMES, Ia., Nov. 19 (UP).—The University of Oklahoma today defeated Iowa State College, 10 to 0, to win its first Big Six football championship and remain in the select list of the nation's untied and undefeated teams.

The Sooners' 1938 record embraces eight straight victories over Rice, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, Tulsa, Kansas State and Missouri. The weather was perfect and 21,500 fans turned out, the biggest crowd in Iowa State history.

The Sooners did not allow a point to be scored against them in their five Big Six games. Only one other team in the history of the ten-year-old league was able to equal this record and that was Nebraska, in 1936

A stout defense and a bone-crushing attack mixed with timely passes, enabled Oklahoma to topple Iowa State from the undefeated ranks. Most of the game was played in Iowa State territory and because of this Everett Kischer, State's quarterback, was unable to throw his customary number of passes. But even with the handicap, he completed eight out of thirteen for a net gain of seventy-eight yards.

Oklahoma pushed over a touchdown in the first period and added a field goal in the third period. A fumble halted an Oklahoma goal-line march when the game was only a few minutes old but the Sooners got their break when Heileman threw a wild lateral which John Shirk, Oklahoma end, recovered on Iowa State's 36.

McCullough passed to Bill Jennings, a substitute back, who raced to Iowa State's 2-yard line behind perfect blocking. Seymour hit right tackle for a touchdown and Boudreau kicked the extra point.

A sixteen-yard punt return by Seymour started Oklahoma on the way to its second score. With the ball on State's 44, McCullough drove through the line for nine yards and then passed to Earl Crowder, who caught the ball on the 30 and ran to the 13 before he was stopped. Three plays lost a yard. Then, standing on the 21-yard line, McCullough place-kicked perfectly for three points.

The final period found Iowa State making its only serious threat, but a fumble by Gordon Reupke was recovered by Oklahoma on the latter's 31-yard line to stop the drive.

Japan To Dispatch Tennis Players To Manila Tourney

The Japan Lawn Tennis Association has decided to accept as in past years the annual invitation from Manila to dispatch Japanese players there to compete in the All-Comers tournament to be held from January 26 to February 4.

The association is expected to announce the selection of players soon. They are scheduled to board the Kitano Maru from Yokohama on January 24.

Competing last year were Takeo Matsumoto of Hosei University and Yasuo Tsuruta of Keio University, who won the doubles title. To Matsumoto went the singles championship.

Americans Win In Overtime At Toronto, 2-1

N.Y. Herald Tribune

TORONTO, Nov. 19—The New York Americans moved into a tie for second place in the National Hockey League standings tonight when they downed the Maple Leafs, 2 to 1, in an overtime game. The victory placed the Dutton men even with their intracity rivals, the New York Rangers.

A crowd of 12,120 fans, largest of the season here, saw the New York "keep punching" boys come from behind to hand the local forces their third defeat of the campaign. Sweeney Schriner, who started the play for the Americans' first goal, was the hero of the contest, scoring the winning marker.

After 3:52 of overtime, Hooley Smith made a smart play down the right boards. He slipped the puck over to Lorne Carr, who relayed it to Schriner, and the big left winger gave Turk Broda, Toronto goalie, no chance.

It was the second meeting of the two clubs this season, the Leafs winning the first, 1 to 0, in New York Thursday night. Nick Metz gave Toronto an advantage in the opening session when he deflected Pep Kelly's shot into the cage in the first period.

The Americans did not draw even until early in the third. Tommy Anderson scored, batting down Schriner's shot, while Broda strove vainly to prevent a tally.

Michigan State Triumphs Over Temple, 10 To 0

N.Y. Herald Tribune

EAST LANSING, Mich., Nov. 19.—A brilliant individual performance by Johnny Pingel gave Michigan State a 10-to-0 victory over Temple University today.

Temple outcharged and outgained the Spartans, but Pingle's work in the pinches gave his team the victory. The Owls twice threatened State's goal line, but the Spartan line stiffened and Pingle twice kicked far out of danger. Playing his last game Pingel averaged forty-nine yards in ten punts.

As in other games this year, "Pop" Warner's lads made the better showing in statistics. The Owls outgained the Spartans, 276 yards to 156. They piled up thirteen first downs to five for Michigan State, but their punters averaged only thirty-two yards.

Eddie Pearce, right halfback, made the touchdown early in the second period when he skirted his left end for seven yards. Temple had opened the quarter by punting from its own 5-yard line to Allen Diebold, who returned the ball ten yards to the Temple 38. Pearce passed to Ralph Bennett, end, who in turn lateraled to Usif Haney, fullback, for a first down on Temple's 20.

Haney smashed to the 7 in three plays and from there Pearce, eluding four tacklers, ran into the end zone without any one touching him. Les Bruckner, quarterback, converted.

State scored again in the fourth period when Bruckner made a place-kick from the 14-yard line.

The two Temple threats came in the first and third periods. Opening the first, the Owls marched from their own 48 on spinners and reverses to State's 12. The Spartan line braced and Pingel punted magnificently to the Temple 20.

Facing a Spartan reserve team, Temple made its final drive in the third period. Behind the passing of John Kovacecich and Berrier, the Owls drove to the Spartan 23. Berrier hit center for a first down. Alarmed, the Michigan State coach, Charley Bachman, etrurned his first team to the battle.

George Horochic, Temple fullback, smashed the State 4, but a fourth down pass was grounded by Pingel to give the Spartans possession. Pingel, for the second time, kicked from behind his own goal line to midfield and out of danger.

Notre Dame Rally Defeats Northwestern Eleven, 9-7

N.Y. Times

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 19—Notre Dame's Fighting Irish, striving for national championship honors they last achieved under the late Knute Rockne in 1930, cleared the semi-final hurdle in their path by conquering a stubborn Northwestern eleven, 9 to 7, today before a sell-out crowd of 48,500 in Dyche Stadium.

Only Southern California, to be met in Los Angeles Dec. 3, remains ahead of Notre Dame in the championship drive, with eight straight victories already achieved by the Irish.

The name of Willard Hofer, a 22-year-old second-string, unheralded quarterback of Rock Island, Ill., where his mother and father run a restaurant, must be gloriously written in the victory. In two smooth maneuvers, typical of the Irish rise to football emergencies, young Hofer scored all the points that whipped Northwestern.

In the second period, Hofer intercepted a pass and ran it back 65 yards for a touchdown. In the third period, with Notre Dame trailing, 7 to 6, he kicked a goal from placement squarely between the uprights from the 20-yard line to give Notre Dame victory by its closest margin of the year.

The nine points young Hofer scored were enough to offset the touchdown that Jack McGurn, Northwestern fullback, made in a 2-yard plunge after the Cats had marched 49 yards.

It was young Hofer's biggest day of his career. He is a senior. Previous to this season, he was third-string quarterback and he didn't even win a letter last year.

The savagely played game was typical of the Irish-Wildcat rivalry that has existed for forty-nine years. For longer moments than Notre Dame cohorts care to remember, Northwestern dominated the first half, gaining 205 yards to 77 for Notre Dame, and registering 11 first downs to 4.

The Irish carried the ball into Northwestern territory only once, and then only to the 48-yard line, while the Wildcats had no fewer than five chances to score.

In the first half the Wildcats staged marches of 37, 38, 48, 26 and 49 yards. On the last assault they managed to score and take the lead when Nick Conteas kicked the extra point after McGurn had plunged 2 yards for the touchdown.

Reserves Furnish Fireworks

The first teams failed to score in the first period. At the start of the second, Coach Elmer Layden rushed in his second string outfit. So did Coach Waldorf of the Wildcats and the fireworks began to pop.

The Wildcat youngsters, sparked by Paul Soper, marched to Notre Dame's 10 but failed to score. The Irish punted to their 47, from which point young Hofer swung into action.

On second down, Soper hurled a pass intended for Ted Grefe. Hofer cut in ahead of the Wilcat end, snatched the ball and started to dig his way through pay dirt.

The huge crowd jumped to its feet. Down the right side of the field Hofer tore behind perfect blocking. Ahead of him was Jay Laskay, Northwestern fullback, the only man between him and the goal line. But Paul Morrison, Notre Dame substitute back, plunged into Laskay, knocking him flat, and Hofer tore on unmolested. Morrison's try for goal was wide, making the score 6 to 0.

Northwestern's first team came racing back on the field. McGurn returned the kick-off 23 yards and the Wildcats were on their way. Then the Notre Dame first team returned to the fray, but could not stop the Cats.

Conteas Kicks Point

With Bernie Jefferson, Northwestern Negro half, Ollie Hahnenstein and Jack McGurn smashing and passing, the Wildcats registered a first down on the 2-yard line. McGurn went over on first play. Conteas kicked the goal and the Wildcats led, 7 to 6.

In the third period, the Irish marched 29 yards to the Wildcats' 10. Three times the Notre Dame backs plowed into the Northwestern line without gaining. On fourth down Hofer, rushing back into the fray, put the game on the end of his toe, booting a field goal from placement from the 20 with Bob Saggau holding the ball, to give the Irish a 2-point edge.

After that, a tight Notre Dame defense checked and bottled alll attempts of the Wildcats to score. Outstanding in a losing battle was Jefferson, playing his last intercollegiate game, who gained more ground than any other back. He played brilliantly on defense and punted sensationally.

Hehnenstein, playing in place of the injured Jack Ryan, also sparkled for the Wildcats. Zontini, Saggau, Sheridan and Thesing were great ball-carriers for the Irish, but they never were able to get into the clear for long runs.

Nebraska Beats Iowa By 14-0

N.Y. Times

IOWA City, Iowa, Nov. 19—Nebraska's Cornhuskers, none too successful themselves this Fall, put a drab finish on an already dismal football season for Iowa today by handing the Hawkeyes a 14-to-0 defeat before approximately 14,000 fans.

The loss was Iowa's sixth in eight starts, the Hawkeyes having beaten only Chicago and tied Purdue. It was a welcome victory for the Cornhuskers, who had won only one game, lost five and tied one in previous engagements.

Contest Bitterly Fought

Although most of the contest was bitterly fought through the airlanes, it was Nebraska which produced the scoring punch on drives through the line when opportunity beckoned. Herman Rohrig of the Cornhuskers slammed across from the 4-yard line late in the first quarter and Substitute George Porter added the final touchdown late in the fourth period on a drive from the 2-yard line.

With Nile Kinnick and Frank Balazs doing the throwing, Iowa completed 15 of 34 aerial attempts for a net yardage of 220 yards. The alert Cornhuskers, however, intercepted nine Hawkeye shots into the air and batted down others when danger as imminent.

Interceptions Yield 118 Yards

Statistics disclosed Iowa made 14 first downs compared with three for Nebraska, but the Cornhuskers totaled 118 yards by returning intercepted passes, Coach Biff Jones' lads also had much more power in their land attack than the Hawkeyes. They made 135 yards by rushing compared to Iowa's impotent 61.

One aerial drive in the third period brought the Hawkeyes to the Husker two-yard line, but a fourth-down pass sailed harmlessly into the end zone.

Late in the same period the Hawkeyes used their aerial weapons to get to the Nebraska four-yard line, but once again a fourth-down pass failed to connect.

Panthers Rout Penn State, 20-0

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 19—Dick Cassiano, fleet-footed junior from Albany, crossed the goal line three times this afternoon by brilliant open-field running and led the Pitt Panthers to a 20-to-0 victory over Penn State.

A drizzling rain held the attendance to 14,000 and brought on an avalanche of fumbles in the last home game of the Panthers this season.

It was the final home appearance of eighteen Pitt seniors, but they were overshadowed by the spectacular playing of Cassiano, the Junior. His first touchdown came in the first period on a sixteen-yard run; then in the third period he scored twice, on nineteen and twenty-eight-yard runs. Robert Thurben, a sophomore, made the fourth touchdown in the final period, going over from the 7-yard line.

Undoubtedly slowed by the chilly, rainy weather, the Panthers did not show the usual Pitt power except for a few minutes in the third period when two touchdowns were rushed over. Marshall Goldberg started the fireworks by taking the ball on his 3-yard line and racing fifty-three yards to State's 44, where he stumbled and Lloyd Ickes, last man between Goldberg and the goal posts, brought him down. The Pitt backfield advanced the ball to State's 19, and there Cassiano cut back over left tackle on a reverse from Goldberg and scored. Daddio added the extra point.

A few minutes later, Cassiano scored by racing twenty-eight yards around left end.

The slippery condition of the ball brought on the fumbles and two of the Penn State slips paved the way for the two other Pitt touchdowns. In the first period, Stephen Petro scooped up Ickes's fumble and went to State's 46. Cassiano sped around left end of State's 21, added five yards later and then ran sixteen yards for the score. Daddio made the extra point.

On the last play of the third period, Pitt recovered a State fumble on State's 21. From there, the Pitt backs pushed the ball to State's 2 and Thurbon ran outside left tackle for the score. Larry Peace's try for the extra point was blocked.

Harvey Annexes Heavyweight Boxing Crown

Domei Tsushin

HARRINGAY ARENA, London, Dec. 2—In the British heavyweight championship to take place in England since March, 1937, Len Harvey, weighing in at 181½ pounds defeated Eddie Phillips, who weighed in at 190½ pounds, in the fourth round last night.

Phillips was disqualified through a low blow.

Harvey, who already holds the British lightweight championship, thus holds two titles through his victory over Phillips.

The British heavyweight championship was vacant prior to the contest last night.

After two quiet rounds, in which Harvey, with a strong left, piled up points in swift succession, there was plenty of action in the third round, in which the referee cautioned Phillips.

The fourth round opened dramatically, with Harvey adopting watching tactics, and doing little offensive work.

Phillips went down, but struggled to his feet after a count of nine, and rallied strongly towards the end of the round, with Harvey trying vainly to land a knock-out blow.

Phillips, getting stronger every second, then appeared to land a blow low enough to entitle him to disqualification, but despite the fact that Harvey was obviously in great pain, and was hardly able to hold up his hands, the referee signalled to him to box on.

Almost immediately afterwards, with Phillips hitting Harvey all over the ring, the referee disqualified Phillips, giving Harvey the verdict.

There was an attendance of 11,000 at the contest.

Army Halts Princeton, 19-7 For First In 5 Meetings

By ALLISON DANZIG

N.Y. Times

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 19—Army carried its objective today in its first invasion of Palmer Stadium as the cadets overpowered their foe in rain and the mud to register their initial victory over the Tiger in nine meetings. The score was 19—7.

A game, thoroughly drenched crowd of 43,000 spectators saw the West Pointers establish their superiority beyond question as the teams resumed relations on the gridiron after a thirty-year interlude.

It would be difficult to visualize more atrocious conditions than obtained in the final period, when the sky became so black that it was impossible to see the field of play, and a cloudburst trapped the throng in their seats.

The game, however, had been clearly won and lost before the elements made it difficult for the mud-caked players to keep their feet or hold the slippery ball.

Tiger Tamed by Elements

Conditions from the start militated against Princeton in the reduction of the threat of Dave Allerdice's passing arm, although the Tiger scored its only touchdown on a 9-yard pass from Allerdice to Captain Tom Mountain in the end zone, and the cadets took command through their superiority in the line and the greater weight of their running attack.

Led by Art Frontczak, whose bull-like smashes through the middle could not be stopped either by Princeton scrap or the slippery footing, Army demonstrated at the very start on which side the heavier artillery lay. From the opening kick-off, Captain Bill Wood's team went 67 yards to the 5-yard line, and though it was stopped there, it had too much strength and versatility along the ground and through the air to be checked more than momentarily.

Princeton had no sooner halted that opening assault on which the brilliant Charley Long threw a 20-yard pass to Riggs Sullivan, who was playing today in the blocking back position, than Army got its first score. Mountain, standing in the end zone, brought his foot up to punt, but the instant the ball left his toe, John Samuel was on top of him to block the kick.

Stella's Block Important

Little Jack Little, who had come into the game after the first scrimmage to relieve the injured Tom Davis, outraced a swarm of Tigers and fell on the ball in the end zone for a touchdown as Harry Stella, one of the season's finest tackles, blocked Jack Daniel.

The kick played an important part also in Army's second touchdown. It came immediately after Princeton had tied the score early in the second quarter on Allerdice's pass to Mountain, following a 30-yard run by the Tiger captain on a statue of liberty play.

Captain Jim Schwenk ran back the ensuing kick-off to his 46, and after three rushes had netted only 7 yards, Wilson, another of Army's valiants, punted. The ball was brought back, however, and Princeton penalized for running into the kicker, Jim Aubrey being the alleged offender.

Taking the ball and a first down at the Tigers' 42, the cadets went straight on to score. Wilson heaved a long pass to Samuel, who caught it in the pit of his stomach, with his back to the goal line, for a gain of 31 yards, and on the next play Wilson went from the 2-yard line to score through Princeton's left tackle.

Long Makes Long Run

That touchdown was enough to end any doubt about the outcome, but Army went 38 yards in the third quarter for another score after Long had made an amazing 23-yard run-back of a kick on which he reversed his field after being hemmed in.

Frontczak again was the big gun in the attack, with Samuel contributing 15 yards on a tricky end-around play that began with Frontczak bucking into the line. On fourth down, with the ball on the 3-yard mark, Wilson again shot through left tackle to score and the doom of this game but outplayed Tiger eleven was sealed.

After that the rain ruined whatever chance Princeton had to cut its opponent's lead through passes, and the final quarter might just as well not have been played.

Army had the ball on Princeton's 12-yard line after recovering a fumble at the 19, but the cadets were not interested in piling up points and chose instead to freeze the ball and pull the regulars out of the game rather than run risk of losing them for the all-important battle with Navy in Philadelphia next week.

Losing Battle for Nassau

It was a disappointing finale for Princeton after its great comeback against Yale, but the Tiger was up against a more experienced and harder-hitting team and, under the conditions, with its passing attack spiked, it was facing a losing battle from the start.

Apparently not conceding the hopelessness of its cause, the Tiger fought furiously to the last, but the crowd sensed from Army's opening march that the cadets had the heavier guns to operate in the mud and, particularly, that they had the superior line.

Army's line showed its caliber in ripping Notre Dame apart for an opening touchdown march of 73 yards at the Yankee Stadium several weeks ago. Today the cadets played the same kind of football, only this time they played it all the way, without weakening as they did against Notre Dame's greater manpower.

Stella was the keystone of the line, throttling the fast Princeton backs who fought with such spunk to break loose and would have been extremely dangerous in the open. Gillis at center, Dobson and Samuel at the ends, Mather at the other tackle and Little also did yeoman work.

As a consequence, Mountain, McCormick, Daniel, White, Harper and Van Lengen were bottled up, except for the 30-yard run by Mountain on the Statue of Liberty play, on which Jim Worth did a fine piece of blocking.

Losers' Attack Smashed

How completely Princeton was stopped in the second half is evidenced by the statistics. The Tigers had a net loss of 3 yards in that half. They never got past their 37-yard line and made only one first down, on the last play of the game.

Minnesota Tops Wisconsin, 21 To 0 To Retain Title

N.Y. Times

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 19—Minnesota's mighty men, with a devastating running attack that produced three touchdowns and a second straight Big Ten championship, exploded Wisconsin's long-cherished dream of a football empire today.

Before a crowd of 39,000 spectators in Randall Stadium the Golden Gophers routed the bewildered Badgers, 21 to 0, achieving the spectacular triumph with a bruising, rushing game that stunned thousands of Badger fans who had hoped to see Wisconsin win its first conference title in twenty-six years.

Minnesota's decisive victory gave it a conference record of four victories and one defeat. Michigan's defeat of Ohio State aided the Gophers toward undisputed possession of the title.

Exactly ten years ago Minnesota beat Wisconsin out of a gridiron title with a hard-fought 6-to-0 victory. Today the Gophers again wrecked the Badger hopes, this time with a smooth, yet relentless and machinelike performance that left Wisconsin few openings.

Badgers Threaten Once

Only once did the Badgers threaten seriously, driving to the Minnesota 6 in the final period. Then a pass interception ruined the hope of avoiding a shutout.

Minnesota failed to score in the opening period only because Wisconsin's line held Gopher back to only 4 yards on as many plays to give Wisconsin possession on downs at its own 1. But the Minnesota power offensive, with Gopher forwards slashing big holes in the Badger line, was not long to be denied.

With less than three minutes of the half remaining, Minnesota took possession at the Wisconsin 27 after a short punt. On the first play Larry Buhler smashed through left tackle, cleverly sidestepped the Wisconsin safety man and raced across the goal line. After a scoreless third period which saw Buhler injured, the Gophers turned the game into a rout.

With sophomore Bob Paffrath streaking 18 yards to highlight the march, Minnesota drove 33 yards to the Badger 12. Then George Franck, speedy halfback, knifed through left tackle for a touchdown, carrying two Badgers on his back in his final stride.

Christiansen Plunges Across

Again, with less than three minutes of the game remaining, Minnesota scored again. A long pass, Harold Van Every to George Nash, carried the Gophers to the Wisconsin 17. Frank got 5 at tackle and then Marty Christiansen, who had replaced Buhler, crashed 12 yards through center to score, getting great blocking, which featured Minnesota's game all afternoon.

Minnesota's superiority was reflected by the statistics. The Gophers made 12 first downs to 7 for Wisconsin and piled up 251 yards by rushing to Wisconsin's 118. The victors tried only three passes, but completed two of them as Wisconsin made good on five of 19, most of them in midfield territory.

Howard Weiss, ace Wisconsin fullback, played brilliantly, making the longest Badger gain of the day as he sprinted 38 yards after taking a short pass in the third period.

Rangers Conquer Canadiens, 2 To 1 For 4th In Row

By JOSEPH C. NICOLS

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—Ably meeting the heaviest charges of their victory-starved rivals, the New York Rangers added to their unbroken string of triumphs by defeating the Canadiens of Montreal, 2 to 1, in a National League game at Madison Square Garden last night. The visitors, who waged a brand of hockey that seemed hardly in keeping with their poor record, fought savagely all through the 60 minutes, but their best efforts were capably handled by the New York skaters.

The defeat was the sixth straight suffered by the Montreal sextet, while for the Rangers the success marked their fourth in a row. The Blue Shirts have yet to meet with a setback and the Canadiens have not, thus far, been able to slip into the victory column.

A record crowd for the young New York season, more than 15,000, of whom 14,256 paid, sat in on the proceedings.

The Canadiens revealed a new goal tender in Claude Bourque. Recently brought up from the Verdun (Quebec) amateur team to replace Willie Cude, Bourque made his professional debut, and his performance was creditable indeed.

Crowd Cheers Goalie

True, the Habitant defense men accorded their neophyte net-minder especial protection, and he was called on to stop fewer than the average number of shots. But the drives that did come his way were cleanly played, and several of his efforts caused the crowd to cheer him roundly.

Both shots that got past Bourque were virtually impossible to stop. He yielded the first to Lynn Patrick when the latter got in alone, well in the clear, and the second was fired by Phil Watson after short drives in rapid successions by Bryan Hextall and Dutch Hiller had been repelled.

Patrick scored early in the first period, giving the Rangers the advantage until the second chapter was one-quarter over. Then Louis Trudel whipped a fast, short shot past Davey Kerr to put the Frenchmen on even terms.

The tie was broken late in the same session by Watson's goal, which, although nobody knew it then, decided the issue.

The Canadiens attempted to carry the play when the game began, but were forced to switch to the defensive shortly, since the Rangers were possessed of the same aggressive bent and were able to organize their rushes more effectively.

Both Teams Short-Handed

When the teams were reduced to five men each, because of penalties called against Alex Shibicky and Paul Haynes for trading a few punches, the Rangers took advantage of the comparatively little populated ice to send home their first goal.

Bill Summerhill and Dillon fought for possession of the disk in mid-ice, and Summerhill got it. Before he could move forward, however, he saw the rubber taken from him by Lynn Patrick, who quickly skated into Montreal's ice, which was completely unprotected. The Ranger forward sped along the left alley, aimed carefully and drilled the puck past Bourque's open side in 6:32.

In the second frame the Northerners put all the power at their command to bear, and at length drew even. Summerhill and George Mantha combined in a speedy rush to the New York backboard, from where Mantha made a precise pass-out to Trudel, who swept the disk into the cords in 6:57.

This success fired the Habitants and Kerr was hard put to defend his cage. As the period drew to a close the Rangers assumed the attack, with Bourque called on to repulse his first big league bombardment of real consequence.

Goal Made From Rebound

He appeared on the way to escaping unscathed until Hextall and Hiller bounced hard drives off his stick. The net-minder could not brace to meet Watson's drive on Hiller's rebound and he had to watch the disk slip past him in 16:21.

The third period was marked by a series of bitter Canadien bombardments, and more than once it looked as if the Habitants would break through. But Kerr fought off the visitors capably.

Murray Patrick and Art Coulter were clean shaven. The beards worn on their last appearance here were shorn at the request of Manager Lester Patrick, when his mail was flooded with letters from feminine fans who disapproved. As a compromise, Art and Murray received $100 apiece from Lester, who had promised them $500 each if they would go through the entire season thus adorned.

Nango Consents To Head Kodokan For Next 7 Years

The Kodokan, supreme judo organization in Japan, will be guided by Rear Admiral Jiro Nango, retired, as successor to the late Professor Jigoro Kano, who died last Spring while en route home from the International Olympic Committee's meeting at Cairo.

Acceptance of the post which was offered to the Admiral last August shortly after the death in gallant action of his son, Lieutenant-Commander Shigeaki Nango, the Navy's outstanding flier to date over Nanchang, was made known to the Kodokan's committee, comprised of high ranking judo experts, Friday afternoon by Admiral Nango.

Not only is the Admiral a nephew of the late Professor Kano, who was instrumental for the organization of the Kodokan in 1882, he was the 24th to enroll as a student at the Kodokan, whose list now runs to 100,000 throughout the country.

Admiral Nango's term will be seven years.

Florida Fights Favored Georgia Team To 0-0 Tie

N.Y. Times

ATLANTA, Nov. 19.—A determined Florida eleven found Grant Field's mud to its liking today and fought a favored Georgia Tech football team to 0-0 tie.

The Gators weren't able to make any serious offensive threats but they showed 5,000 children and rain-soaked fans some old-fashioned back-to-the-wall defensive play.

Tom Walker, end, paced the spirited defense that reached a climax in the fourth period when it hurled back the Engineers after the home club had marched to a first down on the Florida 6.

Earlier the Gators stalled another attack on their 18 and smothered all other Tech bids effectively, although Coach Josh Cody used only fourteen players, eleven playing nearly the whole way. Coach Alexander used nearly two full teams.

Taking a punt on the Florida 45 early in the fourth frame, Tech staged the only sustained drive, Thrash, Wheby and Gibson contributing runs of 11, 12 and 13 yards that brought a first down on the 6.

Blalock batted down Gibson's pass, Battista smeared Gibson for a 1-yard loss, Thrash made only one on an end-around and on fourth down Farmer Ramsey blocked Anderson's field goal try and fell on the ball on Florida's 24.

Florida's only thrust into Tech territory came in the second period after Battista had recovered a fumbled punt on Tech's 45 and Walten passed 12 yards to Black. Taylor slipped and fell for a 5-yard loss and the threat died.

New York Giants Topple Green Bay Packers, 15-3 As 48,000 Fans Look On

By ARTHUR J. DALEY
N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—In a magnificent game of teethrattling line play and backfield brilliance, the New York Giants toppled the Green Bay Packers, 15 to 3, at the Polo Grounds yesterday before the enraptured gaze of 48,279 spectators. The Giants twice grasped opportunity by the forelock and that was the ball game.

One Packer threat after another was turned aside by the blunt shield of Giant indomitability and Giant courage. Green Bay could gain almost at will, it seemed, but when the chips were really down the New Yorkers swept in the pot. Only twice in a thrill-packed battle did the pupils of Stout Steve Owen have touchdown opportunities. They shook loose a tally from each.

In the third quarter, when the Maramen were trailing by 3 to 2 in what appeared to be a gridiron version of a pitching duel, Tuffy Leemans wormed his way through a hole that a magnifying glass could not have detected. True to their trust, Giant blockers sprang up all around him, with Jim Poole blotting out the last Packer defender as Tuffy raced 75 yards to a touchdown.

That Ward Cuff added the extra point was merely incidental. The indelible Giant imprint had been made on the game.

Then, on the first play of the last quarter, final hopes of victory fled from the Packers. Cecil Isbell spun a floater of a pass into the left flat. It never reached its mark. Mel Hein reached up with a pair of brawny arms at midfield, plucked the errant toss out of the crisp November air and fled an even 50 yards for another touchdown.

Clear Sailing From the 25

Again it was a stellar bit of individual work, but like the Leemans play that preceded it the entire team had to share in the credit. The blockers grew all over the turf. Every man did his job and did it well. When Frank Cope flattened the Packer defensive left half at the 25 there was clear sailing for the rest of the way. Cuff missed the conversion, but that no longer mattered.

The Hein interception cost Stout Steve $10, because the Giant coach had promised such a bonus to any of his players who scored on an interception. No man ever paid a debt more gladly than Owen. The New York captain probably could have received double wages had he thought to ask.

After that Green Bay had a hopeless task. There was nothing left except pass after pass. Some gained and some didn't, but the damage to the Curly Lambeau troupers was beyond repair.

As far as the standings of the teams were concerned, the game meant little to the Giants. Unless the Pirates upset the Redskins next Sunday and the New Yorkers down Brooklyn on Thursday, the Giants still will have to beat Washington at the Polo Grounds a week from Sunday to win the Eastern title and a place in the National League play-off. Their hold on first place was strengthened, however, with the Redskins idle.

The Packers finished their regular season and now will have to await the result of Detroit's two remaining games to see whether they tie with the Lions for the Western laurels or win outright.

Statistics Prove Misleading

The statistics might indicate that the Packers should have captured this battle with plenty of points to spare. That, however, is hardly the truth. Many were their scoring opportunities, but they just did not have the punch at the right time.

Their sallies beyond midfield were awesome. In every crisis, though, some Giant was ready to check the huge Packers. Here is what Green Bay did: Hit the 22 and had a pass intercepted, the 12 and missed a field goal, the 27 and had a pass intercepted, the 20 and was held for downs, the 12 and made a 22-yard field goal, the 33 and missed a field goal, and finally the 18 and was held for downs.

Always was Green Bay threatening—more so in the first half than the second—but the Giants were superb when they were in the shadow of their goal posts. Flaming spirit as well as hard, sure tackling won this game.

It was scoreless for two periods.

Then came that football rarity, a safety. Cuff kicked off Clarke Hinkle caught the ball on the 4-yard line and lost the handle. It popped out of his hands and when he regained control he circled into the end zone to avoid being trapped.

A wave of red-jerseyed tacklers swept down on him. Hinkle attempted to cut through the wave like a surf diver, but it was no use. Johnny Dell Isola had him by the ankles and Nello Falaschi, Cuff and all, the rest were gleefully piled aboard. It was two points for the Giants, the first of the fray.

Three Plays Stopped Cold

Shortly afterward the Packers stormed back, infuriated. They touched the 12 for a first down. But the Giants, scenting victory, were just as aroused. Three times the Packers slammed the line. Three times they were stopped cold. Then Tiny Engebretsen, 240-pound guard, stepped back and booted a 22-yard field goal.

That made the count 3 to 2. "Who's pitching now?" some one asked. Leemans was. Tuffy slipped into the tail-back slot and cut off the Packer left tackle. The Giant blocking was gorgeous. Leemans burst into the secondary, cut to his left and reversed his field again. People put on the blocking clincher and three New Yorkers, still looking for Green Bay defenders, escorted Leemans the rest of the way.

The blocking was just as clean and crisp for the Hein interception, starting the fourth quarter. Isbell passed to the flat, a risky play at any time. The Giant captain took the ball on the dead run and sped over the turf like a Jesse Owens. Fear of pursuit put wings on his feet. Mel never had run so swiftly in his life as he flashed for the touchdown. Once more a telling block at the right spot—this time by Cope—eliminated a potential tackler.

Those were the scoring plays that sent the biggest professional crowd of the season into raptures of delight. For this show was as spectacular as one could wish, and then had the Giant victory giving it an added fillip.

At half time a Packer triumph seemed probably. Yet the 61-yard drive they put on the 22 was, in the final analysis, their only real march. Isbell, with his superb running and passing, and Joe Laws, with his reverses, were the key men.

The huge Packer line was smothering everything the Giants had to offer. Ed Danowski threw four passes with only one completion, which shows how stalwart the Green Bay operatives were. In the second half the Maramen, being in front, restricted their aerial display, pitching only one in the entire last two quarters. That necessarily cut the New York yardage, although the Giants outgained the Wisconsin troupe along the ground.

Tokyo Giants Fete 5th Anniversary, Winning Twinbill

The largest crowd ever to jam the Korakuen stadium since its construction two years ago, filling the lower and top bleachers of the main stand and the outfield bleachers as well, for a total in the neighborhood of 30,000, saw the Tokyo Giants win both ends of a doubleheader staged to celebrate the team's fifth anniversary.

Impressive opening ceremonies were held. After the national emblem had been hoisted aloft the center field flag post, the competing team worshipped in the direction of the Imperial Palace and the Yasukuni Shrine. Auditor Tanabe of the Giants team and Managing Editor Shibata of the Yomiuri Shimbun made brief speeches. Including a Japanese style drum from the Yomiuri, various souvenir gifts were presented to the club from the Nagoya, Nagoya Dolfins, Eagles and Senators teams. Yoshiye Fujiwara, famed Japanese tenor, made the concluding speech, reminiscing of the time he saw the Tokyo Giants in action while on their barnstorming tour of the United States several years ago.

A two-run rally in the last half of the eighth inning won for the Giants against the Nagoya All-Stars in the first game by a 3-1 score.

Pitcher Mochizuki of the Tokyo All-Stars yielded but three hits but the Giants won by a 3-1 count in the nightcap.

Lombardi Named Most Valuable In National Loop

By JOHN DREBINGER

NEW YORK Nov.—Ernie Lombardi, ponderous backstop of the Cincinnati Reds, was voted the most valuable player in the National League for 1938, it has been announced by the Baseball Writers Association of America, whose committee conducted the annual poll.

With a new system of scoring prevailing, the hard-clouting 30-year-old catcher from Oakland, Calif., gained top honors with 229 points of a possible 336. Bill Lee, the Cubs' ace right-hander, finished second with 166 points, and Arky Vaughan, the Pirates' star shortstop, was third with 163.

Mel Ott, the Giants' leading run driver, placed fourth with 132, only two points ahead of Frank McCormick, the Reds' sensational freshman first baseman. Another first-year man, Johnny Rizzo of the Pirates, finished next with 96.

24 Members Vote

Departing from custom, the writers' committee, instead of consisting of one representative from each city in the circuit, was composed of twenty-four members. As before, each member ranked ten players, in addition to naming ten more on an honorable mention list.

Lombardi, who led the National League hitters with an unofficial mark of .342 and who was regarded chiefly responsible for lifting the Reds from their 1937 last place to a first-division berth last season, was chosen first on ten of the twenty-four ballots. He got five ballots for second, three for third and one each for fourth, fifth, sixth and ninth.

Lee and Vaughan each drew five first-place votes, while Ott, McCormick, Mace Brown, the Pirates' relief hurler, and Gabby Hartnett, the Cubs' manager and catcher, each received one first-place ballot.

Joe Medwick, winner in 1937, took a decided tumble, placing no better than eleventh, with 55 points. Hartnett, whose spectacular work in the closing weeks proved a big factor in the triumphant pennant drive, likewise failed to impress the critics, who were asked to judge a player on his full season's work. Gabby, recipient of top honors in 1935, placed tenth with 61.

Traded by Dodgers

Lombardi, brought up from the Pacific Coast League in 1931 by the Dodgers, came to the Reds in 1932 in a deal which also sent Babe Herman to Cincinnati for Tony Cuccinello and Joe Stripp. Although slow of foot, the 200-pound catcher hit steadily above the .300 mark and improved so greatly in the mechanics of backstopping that he was chosen to catch against the American League last Summer in the All-Star game.

The honorable mention list was headed by Ival Goodman, another member of Bill McKechnie's surprising Reds, who was picked on thirteen ballots. Lee Handley and Pep Young of the Pirates were second with twelve votes apiece.

The vote for the most valuable award follows:

Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati	229

Such Is Fame

Demetrius Phalereus, orator, statesman, philosopher, poet and governor of Athens (345-283 B.C.), had 360 bronze statues all like the illustration in my cartoon erected in his honor in his lifetime. Within 10 years they were all destroyed except one, which is now in Palermo. As honors were heaped upon him by a cringing populace, he remarked upon the ticklessness of public favor.

A Perfectly Polished Ball

If a perfectly polished ball could be enlarged to the dimension of the Earth, its surface would show higher and more rugged mountains than the mountains of the earth. Conversely, if the earth could be reduced to the size of a ball, its surface would be smoother than that of the perfectly polished ball.

By BILL OMURA

With Meiji University again in possession of the Tokyo Intercollegiate American Football crown as a result of its triumph over Waseda last Sunday, only one thing remains before Japan's budding gridiron aggregations will lay the pigskin away for the season—the annual all-star game between the Kanto and Kansai which will take place at the Meiji Jingu Stadium on New Year's Day.

The selection of the all-star team which will represent the Kanto lies in the hands of the Tokyo Intercollegiate American Football League Council, which is expected to announce the line-up shortly. The Council can be relied upon to pick the strongest possible combination for the yearly contest, but to indulge in a little prognostication the writer has decided to pick a team of his own.

Picks Six Meiji Players

In our opinion, Meiji—the champions—should place six men on the Big Five All-Star Team, Waseda four and Keio one. On the second-string line-up, Meiji should again place six, Keio two, Waseda one, Rikkyo one and Hosei one. This reflects the results of the league season in which Meiji won victories of 27-0 over Keio, 14-0 over Rikkyo, 74-0 over Hosei and 26-0 over Waseda, a total of 141 points to their opponents' nothing. The runner-up Maroons meanwhile won three, scoring an aggregate 85 points to their opponents' 39.

Meiji lands four on the line, and two in the back on our first team. In playing Coach-Captain Paul Kurokawa, the Purple and White had one of the most reliable guards. Last season he saw action for the Kanto "All Star" team that walloped the Kansai "All Star" eleven by 21 to 0. The season prior he sailed with the "All Japan" team, invading America for the first time.

In Toyama, Meiji had the most dependable end in its history. Toyama weighs only 136 pounds, yet he played through every game of the year. He has the distinction of playing sixty minutes of every game except the last against Waseda, when three minutes before the final gun he was taken out after having acquired cramps in both legs.

Meiji's speedy "Terry" Yoshimoto, lands the left halfback position over his teammate Jimmy Wada. Both are triple-threaters when they are on the offensive, reeling off long gains with their line plays and aerial attacks. But Jimmy lacks the blocking ability when he is not carrying the ball.

The tackles in Bob Ohama, and Shigemori Fukushima of Meiji are undoubtedly the best in the league. However, having been hampered with injuries early in the season, thus placing them on the "no play" list during the breather against Kansai University, Fukuda of Keio, Keio's only contribution on the right side of the line, and "Diamond" Shimamura of Waseda rates first team honors. Ohama and Fukushima played so well against Waseda, the Maroons found an impregnable forward wall in Meiji, and were thus forced to resort to the air.

It is really tough to leave Hosei's versatile Nakagami off this team. But he cannot qualify over "Mr." Yasuda of Meiji at quarterback. Yasuda's competency in calling the right plays when a chance to score came along, resulted in Meiji's overwhelming victory; nor did Nakagami show better Naito in the contest for the right half. He certainly cannot rate over Richard Fukuda as a tailback.

Naito Good Blocker

"Kojack" Naito was far and away the greatest blocking back of the Maroons and one of the best in the Big Five. Times when Waseda did any gaining on the ground against Meiji was when Naito had paved the way. Meiji's Jimmy Hamasaki, is another half tough to leave off the first team. Jimmy did some grand kicking all during the season even when the wind was against him.

Playing-Coach, Richard Fukuda of the Maroons, who played fullback against Meiji, wins the job over Tamura of Keio and Omai of Waseda. Had it not been for Fukuda's timely tackling after Meiji's back had penetrated the forward line, Meiji's score might have been bigger. Omai started the season a little too late to qualify for the "All Star" honor, but without doubt he may be booked as an all-star.

"Sabo" Sakamoto, Meiji, takes center over Clarence Shima, Rikkyo. Shima is a pivot man, shifted to the backfield when Rikkyo found her opponents line holding. Sakamoto's potency of breaking through the line of scrimmage, credits him as the best of the charging lot, holding a proud record for most punts blocked in the league.

Hanaoka and Kurokawa of Meiji hold the guard positions without opposition, with Watanabe, Meiji, No. 3, "Silence" Fujioka, Waseda, and Mitsuyoshi, Keio tops at guards, with Oguro, Rikkyo, on his showing against Meiji following in that order.

Fukushima, Waseda, 5 feet 7 inches, gets the left flank over Seiji Machida of Meiji. Although he carries 185 pounds of beef, he is fast on covering punts. Yamagata, Keio, and "Long" John Nomura, Waseda have tremendous potentialities. Nomura weighs 165 pounds and stands 5 feet 8 inches, the tallest end in the league.

Most Valuable Players

Fukuda, Maroons playing-Coach, who can bark signals, plays any position on the line and most competent as a fullback, is our choice for the most valuable player for Waseda.

Rikkyo did not show up so well this season but would have had a worse year had it not been for Clarence Shima's precise defensive work in backing-up the line. Shima is a threat to any team when he is on the attack.

Hosei's versatile Nakazami is without opposition the most valuable man on his team. Equipped with a deadly-firing arm, plus his all around ability he aided Hosei to tally points against the strong Waseda Maroons.

For Keio, fullback Tamura wins the honor over halfback Todo. Todo is flashy when he carries the ball, but without Tamura he is at a loss.

It is difficult to pick the most valuable player for Meiji, for Meiji is one team that has worked so well as a team. But Yoshimoto rates over Yasuda for his spectacular running ability, resulting in his long string of touchdowns.

Matsumoto, Matsuoka Picked To Compete In Manila Net Play

Takeo Matsumoto of Hosei University and Katsumi Matsuoka of Keio University will represent Japan in the Philippine All-Comers tennis tournament to be held at Manila from January 26 to February 4.

The selection of the players was announced by the Japan Lawn Tennis Association late Monday, the invitation from the Philippine authorities having been accepted recently.

Matsumoto competed in the same tournament last year and won the singles title. Paired with Yasuo Tsuruta of Keio University, the two captured the doubles championship as well.

Oxford Defeats Teddington At Hockey, 3 2

London, Times

LONDON, Nov. 28—Oxford University won a close game against Teddington on Saturday at Bushy Park by three goals to two. Their hitting was cleaner and harder than that of Teddington, and they made every use of their wing players, though at times in the first half they played far too much to the right wing. A. P. D. Montgomery returned to the forward line after several weeks' absence because of injury, and V. L. Cornish again took his place as partner to R. A. E. Cheales at back, to bring the side to full strength.

Oxford's Forwards Better

Oxford's forwards were far better together as a line than those of Teddington, but Teddington were certainly handicapped through R. T. Read, the outside-right, straining a muscle early in the game.

A feature of the game was the struggle between E. D. R. Eagar, the Oxford outside right, and A. J. Stuart, the Teddington left half. There are few forwards who can outpace or outwit Stuart, and although he checked Eagar many times there were several occasions, two of which resulted in goals to Oxford, when Eagar outpaced and out-maneuvered Stuart.

Oxford's first goal came through Eagar, who cut in quickly behind Stuart and scored cleverly after about five minutes' play. Play was fairly even until well in the second half, when Stuart erred in to tackle R. C. Fletcher. The ball was slipped out to Eagar, who outpaced Stuart, and although Stuart reached the circle when the center came across, he failed to intercept it and G. E. L. Graham gave L. W. Childs, the Teddington goalkeeper, no chance. This was Oxford's third goal. Montgomery scoring the second just before half-time from what appeared to be a distinctly offside position. J. R. Laird had previously equalized for Teddington with a fine goal.

Teddington Tires

In the second half the Teddington forwards appeared to tire a little, and both Cornish and Cheales frequently spoiled their efforts by their quick interceptions. The Teddington second goal, about 10 minutes from the end, came from a penalty bully awarded against the Oxford goalkeeper. A high center from the right, which is almost invariably penalized as dangerous play, was going across the goal-mouth, and Merz raised his stick above his head to stop it. Merz nearly succeeded in beating Lindsay in the bully, but unfortunately slipped up as the ball was almost out of the circle, and Lindsay hit into the empty goal.

Although only holding a lead of a goal after this, Oxford never looked like losing their superiority, and almost scored a fourth when Fletcher just shot wide from another fine run and center by Eagar.

The teams were:—

TEDDINGTON—L. W. Childs, goal; E. A. Knapp and L. C. Barrett, backs; A. Brown, N. B. Thompson, and A. J. Stuart, half-backs; R. T. Read, J. C. Dodd, J. R. Laird, H. A. Lindsay, and V. G. Jenkin, forwards.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY—H. Merz (Trinity), goal; R. A. E. Cheales (St. Peter's Hall) and V. L. Cornish (Exeter), backs; J. F. C. Shaw (Brasenose), A. C. B. Lloyd (Oriel), and D. F. G. Walker (St. Peter's Hall), half-backs; E. D. R. Eagar (Brasenose), R. C. Fletcher (University), G. E. L. Graham (Brasenose), A. P. D. Montgomery (Balliol), and H. G. Jelf (Exeter), forwards.

Oxford Beaten By Amateur F.A. At Soccer, 2 To 0

London, Times

LONDON, Nov. 23—Playing their last match but one before they meet Cambridge on Saturday week, Oxford lost to a strong Amateur F.A. XI at Oxford yesterday by two goals to none. There was nothing discouraging in the defeat, but the University did not play as well as they have been doing of late and looked to be a trifle stale. They seem temporarily to have lost that speed in midfield which was so large a part of their strength and their shooting was not of the kind which wins matches.

Unquestionably the side has talent, and an occasional off-day is to be expected. The defense is well organized and S. Schofield has developed into a most effective center half-back. The wing half-backs, however, were not so useful in linking up with their forwards as they have been in some matches and the forwards, threw chances away by erratic shooting and failure to take up their correct positions in their anxiety to break through a well-ordered defense.

Like all scratch sides, the F.A. XI took some time to settle down. The team played indifferently in the first half but afterward, with L. C. Thornton at his best, it gave the Oxford defense a busy time, some of the passing and changing of position being really clever.

Oxford attacked at the start and, from a clever through pass by E. R. Gould, J. H. Binch sent in a stinging shot which H. F. Read did well to save. L. C. Thornton sent in the first shot for the F.A., and then J. W. Naylor seemed to misjudge his distance in running out to meet A. C. Griffiths, but he just managed to get to the ball a second before the center-forward, and so prevented a goal. D. C. Walker was given two chances to put the F.A. XI ahead after R. Cater and A. C. Griffiths had made an opening, and on the second occasion, when he beat H. A. S. Disney, he sliced his shot. The University forwards, among whom J. H. Binch and H. S. Seaford worked hard, seemed unable to get together, their chief failures being a lack of pace and ill-directed passes. There was no score at half-time and, actually, neither side deserved a goal.

Early in the second half L. C. Thornton worked his way through the University defense and his pass came perfectly to D. C. Walker at inside-right. Disney was a fraction late in going into the tackle, and Walker's shot beat J. W. Naylor. For a time the University were forced back on defense. During this period the University defense was excellent and their quick tackling and smart covering threw the attack out of its stride. The Oxford forwards were not idle, but E. R. Gould stepped on the ball when he was favorably placed for a shot and, although J. M. Lomas made one good shot, he attempted to score too often from rather impossible positions.

Toward the end of the F.A. XI took the initiative again and, after Naylor had made two good saves from A. J. Breagan and A. C. Griffiths, he was beaten a second time by D. C. Walker, who deserved his success, if only because he was the best forward on either side.

The teams were:—

OXFORD UNIVERSITY—J. W. Naylor (Ashburton G.S. and Exeter), goal; I. K. Parry Jones (Llanwrist G.S. and Jesus) and H. A. S. Disney (Winchester and Brasenose), backs; P. R. Crompton (Charterhouse and Brasenose), S. Schofield (Bolton G.S. and Brasenose), and H. A. Davies (Bradfield and Brasenose), half-backs; R. G. Sturdy (Munro College, Jamaica, and University College), H. S. Seaford (Repton and Oriel), E. R. Gould Victoria College, Jersey, and Exeter), J. H. Binch (Mansfield G.S. and Brasenose), and J. M. Lomas (Charterhouse and New College), forwards.

F.A. XI.—H. F. Read (Casuals), goal; G. S. Burchell (Homford) and A. W. Nichols (Leytonstone), backs; R. Cater (Leytonstone), J. S. Paviour (Romford), and A. Randall (Moore Green), half-backs; A. J. Breagan (Golders Green), D. C. Walker (Romford), A. C. Griffiths (Tooting and Mitcham), L. C. Thorton (Kingstonians), and L. Joseph (Leytonstone), forwards.

Illinois Downs Chicago, 34-0 As Season Ends

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, Nov. 19—Bob Zuppke's University of Illinois eleven blasted Chicago's last chance to win a Western Conference football game this season by routing the hapless Maroons, 34 to 0, in the season's finale today for both schools.

Three of the Illinois touchdowns came in the final period as Chicago rained passes from deep in its own territory in desperate scoring maneuvers. Another came in the second period, following a Chicago fumble. The first was in the opening quarter after Illinois's first scoring thrust had backed the Maroons to their goal line.

In gaining their second triumph in five conference starts, the Illini rolled up 285 yards from running plays, compared to 31 by Chicago. The Maroons, meanwhile, resorted to their only effective scoring medium, the forward pass, and completed 10 to 27 for 85 yards. Their nearest approach to the Illinois goal line was the 35 in the third period. A penalty and an incomplete fourth-down pass checked the advance.

Chicago stopped Illinois inside its 3 in the opening session, but yielded to the next thrust, Mel Brewer plunging over after Cliff Peterson had passed 24 yards to George Rettinger.

A fumble recovered on Chicago's 21 led to Ralph Bennett racing 13 yards for the second score. Bennett also made the final marker, taking a lateral from Paul Govedare, who caught Chuck Purvis's short pass on the 8. A pass interception on Chicago's 28 had set up the opportunity.

Another interception, in which George Rettinger ran the ball back 36 yards to Chicago's 6, paved the way for Johnny Thistlewood's touchdown run on the next play.

A 65-yard march, featured by Thistlewood's sprint of 19 yards, accounted for the first score of the fourth period, Merlyn Burris circling end for the last 2 yards. Illinois made sixteen first downs and Chicago 8

Oklahoma Tops Iowa State By 10-0 Count

N.Y. Times

AMES, Iowa, Nov. 19—Oklahoma's football powerhouse, short circuited on the ground by the brilliant defense play of Iowa State eleven, took to the air today and scored a 10-to-0 victory which gave the Sooners their first Big Six championship.

A record crowd of 21,500 saw the Southlanders end their conference campaign unbeaten and untied; while the gallant Iowans suffered their first defeat in eleven starts.

Figured as only mild opposition for the Sooners, the Cyclones checked threat after threat with vicious line play, but saw their own slim chances wafted away by mechanical errors.

Score in First Period

The Sooners scored a touchdown in the opening period and sewed up the game in the third with a field goal. The rest of the time they were butting their heads against a stone wall.

Late in the first period, shortly after little Everett Kischer had sent Cyclone fans into a frenzy by galloping 24 yards around his right end to the Iowa State 33, a Cyclone dazzle-play backfired.

Kischer made a short behind-the-line pass to Heilman, who tossed the ball back toward Kischer. Kischer wasn't there and Long John Shirk, Sooner end, smothered the ball on the Iowa State 36.

Hugh McCullough then shot a flanker pass to Bill Jennings, who picked his way through a broken field to the Cyclone 1. On the next play Bob Seymour drove over the goal and Raphael Boudreau booted the extra point.

Returns Punt 17 Yards

In the third period, McCullough made a pretty 17-yard punt return to the Iowa State 44. Another flanker pass, McCullough to Earl Crowder, advanced the ball to the Iowa State 14, where the Cyclones dug in to pile up running plays and slap down passes. On fourth down McCullough dropped back to the 20 to boot the place-kick which ended the scoring for the day.

The Oklahoma line weathered its most severe test since the opening game with Rice. The Cyclones rushed 87 yards, approximately 50 yards more than the average of the other Sooner opponents.

Iowa State made nine first downs, to seven for the Sooners. Oklahoma, however, had a slight edge in yards by rushing, 91 to 87, and a substantial margin in passing gains, 111 to 78.

The line-up:

Pos.	OKLAHOMA (10)	IOWA STATE (0)
L.E.	Shirk	Heileman
L.T.	Duggan	Morin

The Marble House

This small home in Dayton, Ohio, has the distinction of being marble-sheathed. When a scale company discontinued using marble slabs on their scales, the builders of the house bought the entire stock of slabs and attached them to the outside of the first floor of the shingle house. The porch floor and sidewalk also are of marble.

Sallie Henry

Whenever Sallie Henry of Verona, Miss., made a purchase at the DaLee Store she weighed on the store scales. For fifty years she tipped the scales at 500 pounds. Three generations of the DaLee family weighed her.

60 Nations Are Invited By Helsinki To Participate In 12th Olympic Games

Olympic News Service

HELSINKI.—On October 19, the chairman of the XII Olympic Games Organizing Committee, J. W. Rangell, signed the official invitations to the local Olympic Committees of sixty nations to participate in the 1940 Helsinki Olympics.

Finland, which in 1936 at Berlin ogered to arrange the 1940 Games, was granted the honor as late as July of this year by the International Olympic Committee. A hurriedly assembled mixed commission composed of State and Capital City representatives decided, after a painstaking review of available resources, that, despite the uncomfortable shortness of the time at its disposal, Finland could and would stage the Olympics.

Immediately following the International Committee's final decision in Finland's favor (18th July, 1938), the Olympic Games Organizing Committee was formed, and now, with the official invitations to participate heralded abroad, it is for the first time in intimate touch with athletic circles the world over. Besides its chairman Mr. Rangell, who is also chairman of Finland's Gymnastics and Sports League and a member of the board of directors of the Finnish Bank, the new committee includes: E. von Frenckell, a director of the City of Helsinki and chairman of Finland's Ball Club; J. Helo, a director of the City of Helsinki; U. Kekkonen, member of President Kallio's cabinet and chairman of the Athletic League of Finland; E. Krogius, Finnish Consul and member of the International Olympic Committee; M. Pekkala, noted manager; and Lieutenant-General Osterman, commander-in-chief of the Finnish army.

Preparations Under Way

Preparations for a successful world athletic meeting are well under way, including the building program and the choice of sites for the various competitions. The most important single feature, enlarging the great athletic stadium, is already in the hands of builders. The Host Committee is gratified with the wholehearted support it is receiving from the entire Finnish people. Every possible effort is being made, high and low, to prove to the world that Finland is worthy of the trust bestowed upon it in making it responsible for the staging of the noblest and most famous of athletic games.

The Ministry for Foreign Affairs has, according to Olympic custom, been requested to inform, through its diplomatic representatives, the governments of foreign nations that invitations have been duly sent to all national Olympic committees. The Finnish Government has, moreover, given its Ministry for Foreign Affairs the pleasurable task of bringing to the attention of foreign governments the ardent hope of all Finns that the invitations will be without exception heeded . . . that, in short, at the XII Modern Olympic Games the pick of the youth of the whole world will gather together in brotherly trials of strength and skill.

Invitations have been sent to all countries with national Olympic committees: Afghanistan, Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Bermuda, Bolivia, Brazil, Bulgaria, Canada, Central American countries with national Olympic Committees, Ceylon, Chile, China, Colombia, Costa-Rica, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Eire, Egypt, Estonia, France, Germany, Great Britain, Greece, Guatamala, Haiti, Hungary, Iceland, India, Italy, Jamaica Japan, Latvia, Liechtenstein, Luxemburg, Malta, Mexico, Monaco, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Norway, Palestine, Paraguay, Peru, Philippines, Poland, Portugal, Rumania, Salvador, South Africa, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, United States of America, Uruguay, Venezuela, Yugoslavia.

Stadium Completed

Building operations on the Helsinki Stadium were commenced in 1934, and completed by the Spring of 1938. The first athletic contests were held there on June the twelfth.

Situated in the Toolo district of the western part of Helsinki, and in the so-called Elaintarha Park, the Stadium is a mere fifteen minutes walk, or five minutes by bus or tram from the center of the town.

Accommodating approximately 30,000 spectators at the present time, work in connection with the enlargement of the Stadium, which is to commence this Autumn, will result in provision being made for some 63,000 spectators by August, 1939.

The oval running track is of red powdered brick, and has a length of 400 meters to the lap. Its breadth, which is 8.5 meters, permits of seven runners participating in the shorter distance races at one and the same time. The straight sides of the track are each 96 meters long.

The arena faces north and south, the grand stand being on the western side. The inner side of the track nearest the stand is reserved for the Long Jump and Hop, Step and Jump events.

At the southern end of the Stadium provision is made for the High Jump and Pole Vault, while such contests as Hammer Throwing, Weight Putting and Javelin Throwing will be decided at its northern extreme.

The large and well-kept grass plot occupying the center of the arena is, when required, used as a football ground.

Excellent arrangements have been made for press representatives in the covered grand stand, and exactly in line with the winning post. The Stadium tower and the rooms fitted with plate glass for broadcasting purposes are near the seats reserved for journalists, and provide an uninterrupted view of the entire Stadium.

Good training grounds are available at the Toolo football grounds, just outside the towering Stadium walls. The fields, at present being used for football, are to be reserved during the Olympic Games for preliminary "warming-up," jogging etc., purposes.

The nearest properly equipped training ground to the Stadium will be the well-known Elaintarha sports arena, where all athletic festivals and international contests were formerly held. Its 400-meter cinder track has gained the reputation of being the fastest in the world. Elaintarha has been the scene of many outstanding performances, including Lauri Lehtinen's phenomenal world-record of 5,000 meters in 14.17.0, made in 1932 and still unbeaten.

A training field has already been provided just outside the Elaintarha ground and only about 400 meters from the Stadium for athletes engaged in weight-putting and hammer throwing.

The Kallio sport ground, less than a mile from Elaintarha, is also well fitted for training purposes.

Light and Sunny

Careful investigations carried out over several years have proved that July is the warmest month in Helsinki. July is also the month of slight rainfall and long days. Before the middle of this month darkness does not come at all, and even in the early part of August there are 16 hours of daylight out of the 24. Apart from this darkness does not come abruptly with the sinking of the sun: the day gently fades into twilight and complete darkness does not come until well over an hour after sunset.

Investigations carried out over the period 1881—130 show that the average temperatures in Helsinki during the Summer months are follows:

	7 a.m.	9 a.m.	3 p.m.	8 p.m.	9 p.m.	Mean temp.
June	12.9	14.8	15.8	14.2	12.2	13.0
July	16.6	18.4	19.6	17.8	16.7	16.8
Aug.	14.2	16.2	17.4	15.4	14.6	15.0

It should be noted that in July the temperature is high even late in the evening owing to the fact that the sea extending on almost every side has had time to warm the city. The end of July and beginning of August were exceptionally warm in 1938. During the Finnish championship held in the Helsinki stadium on 6th, 7th and 8th August, a temperature of about 25—26° was recorded. A few days earlier the noon temperature even reached 30°.

The Japanese athletic team training during the whole of July in Helsinki for the 1936 Olympic Games as their experts considered the climate excellent.

During their participation in the competitions held in Helsinki in July 1938, the Hungarian athhletes stated that they were never able to compete under such favorable climatic conditions in their own country.

Auburn Defeats Georgia, 23-14 As Fans Shiver

N.Y. Times

COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 19—In the cold, dismal setting of Memorial Stadium, Auburn and Georgia produced heart-warming football fireworks for a shivering crowd today, but the Plainsmen from Alabama fired too many barrages and won handily, 23 to 14.

Georgia drove quickly to a pair of touchdowns in the first period and a half-time lead of 14-13, but Auburn's speedy eleven reeled off 10 points in the third period for the decision.

Auburn was sparked by the flashy running of halfbacks Spec Kelly and sophomore Ross Dean.

Score Made Quickly

With a cold rain dampening an estimated 12,000 fans, the fireworks began almost from the opening gun when Georgia scored quickly on an 88-yard drive.

Sophomore Earl Hise raced 46 yards to Auburn's 42. Hise fired an aerial to Carroll Thomas, who caught it at the 16 and raced across. Knox Eldredge place-kicked the extra point.

The Plainsmen scored in eight plays. From the Georgia 18 Kelly passed to Oscar Burford over the goal. Captain Bo Russell missed the extra point.

Georgia marched 69 yards to a second score, Jim Fordham crashing across from the 1-foot line. Ned Barbre booted the extra point.

McGowen Kicks Point

Early in the second period Hise got off a weak punt and Auburn tallied again. Substitute Carl Happer raced 19 yards to score, Dick McGowen kicking the point.

Tackle Bill Nichols blocked a punt in the third period and Malvern Morgan recovered at the Georgia 46. Auburn took the lead when Kelly sprinted the last 8 yards. Russell kicked the extra point. Russell kicked a field goal from the 13 in this period.

It was the forty-third meeting between the teams and the series count is now 19-all. There were five scoreless ties between the traditional rivals.

Borotra Beaten By H.G.N. Lee On Wood Floor

London Times

LONDON, Nov. 26—H. G. N. Lee beat J. Borotra yesterday on a wood floor in Torquay, and Borotra is still the champion at this type of play. Nor was Borotra noticeably below himself, as is always said when a famous player loses; Lee simply hammered away with his piercing forehand drive, and his success in advantage games of the third set brought relief to a series of British defeats in the postponed contest between the International Clubs of France and Great Britain. At the end of the long day the French team were leading by six victories to two, and with seven matches to be decided today they seem sure of success.

Fans Thrilled

Watchers from miles round filled the gallery of the Palace courts, and Borotra and Lee certainly gave them something to remember. Lee may have been sent sliding down the ranking list, but he has rarely played a better match than this, either for the pace and length of his one attacking stroke or for his subtlety. The court was slower than any which Borotra is used to in Paris or at Queen's and it may be that he groped for some of his smashes in the glare of unfamiliar floodlights. The high volley that cost him the match was off a sitter, but long before that he was leading by 4—2 in the third set, and no one dreamed he could be beaten. Whether he then became too confident in the domination of his volleys cannot be judged. He is usually too good a match player to relax in a crisis, but against the service he certainly began to play Lee from the back of the court and to lose the points. Those surging volleys of his were still there, so were Lee's swift service returns and passing shots on the forehand that were constantly being whipped to openings that not even Borotra could cover.

It looked like the end when Lee missed a fine chance of leading with Borotra at 15—40 in the 11th game. Yet Lee was full of fight still. He won Borotra's service next time with a forehand cross-drive, and, though Borotra now came storming in and volleyed his way to 40—15 and another game point, Lee had him in the end with a lob. This sudden turn of events says nothing of all the grand strokes that had gone before—streaking volleys and pick-ups of the real Borotra brand, and any amount of clean, hard hitting to a length from Lee, who so handsomely reaped the reward of the brave. For Lee has no volleys, or rarely chooses to use them, and face to face with Borotra on wood the odds were heavy against him. Lee's driving in taking the first set was excellent; later on he began to use a longer drive in the rallies and his little cross-shots on the backhand were far less innocent than they looked.

Butler, Beating

Before this happened D. W. Butler, the latest of English captains, had narrowly lost an almost equally tense encounter with C. Boussus, whom he beat in the open at Bournemouth last Spring. He might have done so again, but for a tendency to fall on the defensive when his chances were there. The most remarkable of these was when Butler, having made a run of seven aces from 3—5 in the third set, needed only one more to draw level. But he stayed back. Boussus came in and went straight out with five clean winners well worthy of his delicate skill. It took 16 games to settle the first set, and here again Butler held back after winning Boussus's service. Yet there was little enough in it, for Butler's fleet feet were making up for his lack of a real finishing stroke, and here, curiously winner on the run than when he is enough, he is more likely to hit a firmly planted. As for Boussus, he still has the low drives and wide angles that made a delight of the game. That was 4—1 to France and it needed Lee to come to the rescue.

In the morning R. K. Tinkler, with his crisp, studious game, had been far too strong for A. Gentien, but H. Bolelli, crashing down his service from a great height, was even severer against E. R. Avory and G. H. M. Cartwright, in French colors, delivered a nasty opening blow against F. L. Riseley, the chairman of the British Club, who used to win doubles at Wimbledon. In the evening G. P. Hughes and H. Billington was a tremendous set of 34 games against Boussus and Gentien, but they lost the other two in double quick time.

The results were:—

J. Borotra (French I.C.) lost to H. G. N. Lee (3–6, 6–2, 6–3).

C. Boussus (French I.C.) beat D. W. Butler (9–7, 3–6, 6–4).

H. Bolelli (French I.C.) beat E. R. Avory (6–2, 6–3).

A. Gentien (French I.C.) lost to R. K. Tinkler (1–6, 4–6).

R. Rodel (French I.C.) beat Colonel A. R. F. Kingscote (6–1, 6–4).

Major G. H. M. Cartwright (French I.C.) beat F. L. Riseley (10–8, 6–2).

Borotra and Bolelli (French I.C.) beat Butler and F. H. D. Wilde (6–4, 3–6, 6–4).

Boussus and Gentien (French I.C.) beat G. P. Hughes and H. Billington (6–2, 16–18, 6–2).

Oxford Vanquishes Blackheath Harriers In Cross-Country Run

London Times

LONDON, Nov. 28—Oxford University fielded a strong side against Blackheath Harriers in their cross-country match on Saturday and won by 24 points to 63. Only B. Wilkinson and B. Walker ran at all prominently for Blackheath, and when the Oxford leaders made their effort J. K. Hawkey and P. D. Marrian left the pack to arrive home abreast in 45 min. 45 sec. Wilkinson finished fourth in 46 min. 28 sec. and was Blackheath's first scorer.

The results were:—

J. K. Hawkey (University College), 45.45, and P. D. Marrian (Trinity), 45.45, equal 1; F. D. Shirreff (Oriel), 46.0, 3; B. Wilkinson (Blackheath), 46.28, 4; J. Wyatt Smith (Wadham), 47.28, D. R. Martin Balliol), 47.28, and E. P. Dewar (St. Peter's Hall), 47.28, equal 5; H. Pickup (St. Peter's Hall), 48.34, 8; B. Walker (Blackheath), 48.44, 9; E. L. Evans (Keble), 49.29, 10.

Philippine Volleyball Team May Get Bid Here

A Philippine volleyball team may be invited to Japan next Spring as a forerunner of a home and home series between teams of the two countries.

Volleyball circles in Japan are said to be of the opinion that the series may pave the way for the holding of a Far Eastern championship meet by the Far Eastern Athletic Association which was founded at Manila four years ago but which has yet failed to do anything.

More Captures Squash Rackets Title At London

London, Times

LONDON, Nov. 28—Squadron Leader J. W. C. More won the Squash Rackets Championship of the Royal Air Force for the third time when on Saturday, in the courts of the Kensington Country Club, he beat Squadron Leader R. G. Shaw in the final tie by three games to two (1-9, 5-9, 9-3, 9-4, 9-0), 33 aces to 25.

The match, which was well up to the standard of finals in this event, proved a triumph for stamina and persistent return over stroke play. By this it is not meant that More has not plenty of strokes in his repertory, but rather that he relies on his return and wonderful powers of retrieving to wear down his opponent before he puts these strokes into action when they are, of course, far more effective. Shaw on the other hand is essentially a stroke player, going out for his winning shots from the very start of the match and making them with a delightful delicacy of touch. He is, however, rather a three-game than a five-game match player, as his touch weakens in the concluding stages of a hard-fought match, and is inclined to make mistakes at the easy ball and so to beat himself. More's three wins do not constitute a record in this championship, for F. L. Robinson won the title four times, thrice as Wing Commander and once as Group Captain. More has won it as Flying Officer, Flight Lieutenant, and Squadron Leader, and it will be interesting to see if he can still do so in a higher rank.

Shaw, as he had done in the semi-final, started at a tremendous pace, and with many fine drop and angle shots, combined with some accurate volleying when he had drawn his opponent far up the court, made a run of seven aces in his second hand, which took him to 8—1, game-ball. More, who had made some unexpected mistakes, then settled down, and several very long rallies of between 40 and 50 strokes followed, and seven blank hands were played before Shaw won the game with a drop shot which was simply perfect. Continuing to play in most spectacular fashion and making some lovely drop shots on the half-volley, Shaw led at 4-0 in the second game, but More then began to assert himself and drew level at 4 all. A series of long rallies and blank hands followed before Shaw got away again—his opponent hitting two consecutive shots out of court—to win the second game at 9-5.

Though two games up one could not fail to see that the long rallies were telling on Shaw. His drop shots were going a little higher above the board and More was able to get up to them, instead of just failing to do so. The latter gradually established a lead in the third game at 4-2 and later at 5-3. The length for his hard hit cross shots improved, and though he made no long sequences of aces, he won the game fairly comfortably. By this time the pendulum had begun to swing in More's favor and its momentum increased with each volley. The fourth game was a short one, for Shaw's drop shots went either too high or too low, and More won it in four hands. In the final game the original picture was exactly reversed. Here More made winner after winner, while Shaw was always on the defensive and fully occupied in returning the ball. A run of five aces in More's first hand practically settled matters, and the end came two hands later.

Weight of Vinegar

By actual experiment it was found that a gallon jug of vinegar (4 per cent acetic acid) weighed 134½ ounces at 80 degrees Fahrenheit and 135½ ounces at 40 degrees. The one-ounce difference is accounted for by contraction of the vinegar at the lower temperature so that the jug held slightly more vinegar in winter.

300,000 See Games Staging Fight For English Cup

Canadian Press

LONDON, Nov. 26—Soccer's major attraction,the fight for the English Cup, proved as popular as ever today. Sixty-eight clubs, including twenty-seven minor professional and amateur teams, battled in the first round proper of the tournament, providing 300,00 spectators with rousing football and the usual surprising results.

While forty-one of the forty-four squads in the third division were engaged in cup ties, major teams played league fixtures. Derby County stretched its lead in the first division to three points by winning, 4—1, at Leeds. Everton, the County's chief rival, lost ground through a scoreless draw at Stoke.

Maintains Scoring Pace

League scoring honors went to Douglas Hunt of Sheffield Wednesday. Following his splurge a week ago when he netted six goals, the Wednesday sharpshooter got three more against Luton Town, defeated, 5—1, on its own ground.

In the cup round's abundance of goals, Widdowfield of Halifax Town and Chadwick of Ipswich Town led with four each.

Two outstanding matches saw Gainsborough Trinity and Yeovil and Petters, minor league teams, emerge victorious over Gateshead and Brighton, higher-ranking clubs. Gainsborough gained a 2-1 decision at the expense of the strong Northern squad and the little Somersetshire team overcame Brighton by the same score.

Conquer Stubborn Rivals

Although the Glasgow Rangers are leading the Scottish League parade, they are by no means having an easy time with low-placed club. Competition in the circuit this year has been exceptionally tough and the Light Blues, Celtic and Hearts have had many hard fights to hold the first three spots in the championship standing.

The leaders turned in victories today, but in each case their victims were glorious in defeat.

The scores:

Florida Beats Auburn, 9 To 7, With A Safety

N.Y. Herald Tribune

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 26—Florida's football team struck today with all the fury stored up through a disappointing season and downed Auburn, 9 to 7, in a major upset.

A blocked punt, converted into a fourth-period safety, offset Auburn's superior offensive showing. The Gators held a defensive edge throughout.

Approximately 5,000 persons, huddled together in Jacksonville's coldest weather of the season, saw the deciding break late in the game after Auburn had surged serval times into scoring distance. Three times Bo Russell, Auburn's tackle and captain, who closed out a brilliant career, missed place-kicks for field goals.

Bud Walton put the Plainsmen deep into their own territory with a lengthy punt. The fleet Spec Kelly dropped back to punt with the ball on the 21-yard line. Battista knocked the ball down into the end zone. Tom Walker knocked it off the field for the safety.

Auburn jumped to a 7-to-0 lead early in the second period. Dick McGowen, sophomore and the best back the Plainsmen had today, found a hole at right tackle and sprinted seventy-four yards for a touchdown. Russell place-kicked the point.

The Gators came right back with a touchdown which was called back. The officials ruled Walton was less than five yards from the line of scrimmage when he passed to Ted Taylor on the goal line.

Walton ran back Kelly's punt eighteen yards to the 27. Walton and Tex Hanna smashed to the 3. On fourth down, Walton flipped to Jack Blalock who stumbled over. Walton place-kicked the tying point.

Duke Will Battle Trojans, Jan. 2 In The Rose Bowl

Christian Science Monitor

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29—It's Duke, the rock of the Southern Conference, and Southern California, survivor of a better grid campaign along the Pacific, in the Rose Bowl battle January 2.

Concluding in six hours negotiations that usually take a week or more, Southern California last night invited the Blue Devils of Durham, N. C., to play its Trojan warriors in Pasadena's annual post-season game, and Duke lost no time accepting.

There is joy in the hills of North Carolina today, for never before in the 23-year-old history of the Far West classic has one of its teams played in the Rose-bordered Bowl.

Other Candidates

But just as there is celebrating in North Carolina, so is there gloom in Bluebonnet State of Texas and a wail for every rebel yell echoing over the rolling countryside of Tennessee, for Texas and Tennessee had unbeaten, untied Rose Bowl candidates, too, in Texas Christian and the University of Tennessee.

Sentiment was high here in favor of Davey O'Brien and his T. C. U. Horned Frog mates; Tennessee had a growing delegation of hopeful backers, and disappointment was keen within the two factions when the Iron Dukes came up with a rush over the week end and won the invitation.

Duke's supporters in Southern California were legion, however, and no one could criticize its 1938 team or its record of nine straight victories with never a touchdown, never a point, surrendered.

Southern California drew a tough assignment in Duke, the team that tossed back the challenges of Pitt, Colgate, Syracuse, and other strong elevens of that caliber, and, in addition, a team coached by a man, Wallace Wade, who brought three Alabama teams to Pasadena and left with two victories and one tie for a near-perfect record.

Trojan Record

Against this is the Trojan record of never having been defeated or tied in four Rose Bowl games, three of which saw Howard H. Jones, who spent a year coaching Duke in 1924 before coming out here, at the helm of S. C. grid forces.

Whether the present twice-beaten warhorse of Troy, which dropped decisions to Alabama and Washington is as good as the one that kicked over Pitt, 47 to 14, in 1930, or Tulane, 21 to 12, in 1932, remains to be seen. An idea can be gathered next Saturday when S. C. winds up its regular season schedule against Notre Dame.

The Trojans have come a long way since Alabama set them down, 19 to 7, last September. They still have a long way to go before they attain the acclaim of yesteryear.

Nango Is Installed As Kodokan President

Rear Admiral Jiro Nango, retired, was formally installed as president of the Kodokan at impressive ceremonies Sunday morning. The Kodokan is the highest organization of judo, Japanese art of self-defense, in the country and its membership runs into several hundred thousands.

The Admiral succeeds Professor Jigoro Kano, who died last May aboard the Hikawa Maru while homeward bound from Cairo where he attended the general meeting of the International Olympic Committee. He is a nephew of the late Professor Kano, and farther of Lieutenant-Commander Motoaki Nango, flying ace who died in gallant action over Nanchang last August.

Texas Christian Routs S.M., 12-0 To Capture Title

DALLAS, Nov. 26—Unbeaten Texas Christian ended its regular season today by routing Southern Methodist, 20-7, to win the Southwest Conference title.

Tenth victim of the Christians, S. M. U. was the most difficult on the list, but gave up after sending 24,000 fans into a dither in the closing period.

Little David O'Brien showed his passing wizardry only occasionally, but he personally led a ground game that netted two touchdowns and 231 yards.

Immediately after the game the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association, sponsor of the annual New Year's Day post-season classic at Dallas, issued an invitation to the Christians. A reply was not expected for several days.

Methodist Line Holds

Southern Methodist, undefeated in Southwest Conference play until today, scored its only touchdown in the last period. A swarm of Methodists, led by Jack Sanders, big tackle, poured in on Connie Sparks as he attempted to kick from his 32. The kick was blocked and Bob Collins, reserve end, caught it and ran 18 yards for the touchdown.

Three times the Christians drove deep into S. M. U. ground for what seemed more touchdowns, but the Methodist line stiffened and held them on the 6, 7 and 17 yard stripes.

Only ten minutes after kick-off the Christians fell in behind O'Brien and marched 36 yards on fourteen plays for the first touchdown, using only one of their famed passes. Sparks plunged across.

Rangy Don Looney, left end, who crushed S. M. U. running plays all afternoon, threw in a tackle that set up the second Christian score. He slammed Mallouf on the Methodist 36 after he had bagged Sparks's long kick and the Methodist dropped everything, including the ball.

On the first play, O'Brien shot a 25-yard pass that Hall snagged on the 10 and took across for the score.

The Christians tallied their third touchdown early in the third period, starting from the Methodist 38 after O'Brien had squirmed back 18 yards with a punt return. In six running plays they reached the 1, from where Sparks carried over for his tenth touchdown of the season.

O'Brien missed the kick, which is strictly news. He has made twenty-eight successful boots in ten games.

All-Chosen Stars Win Tri-District Soccer Tourney

The All-Chosenese team triumphed in the tri-district soccer championships Sunday at the Koshien stadium, near Osaka, by defeating the All-Kanto representatives by three goals to nil.

Using the stiff back wind from the ocean to good advantage, the Kanto soccerites resorted to long passing and threatened the Chosenese goal from the outset of the game. But the breaks were not for the Kanto team. Fullback Oyama booted one but the ball hit the cross bar. The forwards lacked teamwork and the Chosenese worked the ball down the field and scored in 15 minutes when Kinsei received a pass on the 25-yard line, dribbled twice and booted the ball into the net.

The Kanto forwards began to click after the interval but poor shooting kept the team from scoring. And luck was not with the team. Forward Ninomiya took a pass from Kawamoto and booted one that seemed a sure ringer but the ball again hit the cross bar. The Kanto members kept pressing but the Chosenese lads put up a stonewall defense. On top of it, they scored two more goals to clinch the game.

The line-ups were:

All Chosen: Kinsei, Hi, I., Kinyo and Kinki, forwards; Bokumei, Riyu and Bun, halfbacks; Bokukei and Gen, fullbacks; Cho, goalie.

Kanto, Kato, Kawamoto, Ninomiya, Harima, Shinozaki, forwards; Kasahara, Nakajima, Tsukasa, halfbacks; Yoshida and Oyama, fullbacks; Tsuda, goalie.

Harvard's Crimson

In telling how Harvard University's color came to be crimson, Charles W. Eliot, later president of the institution, indicates that but for his personal preference, the color might have been yellow or blue. When he went to purchase six Chinese kerchiefs for the 1858 varsity crew to wear about their heads, the salesman showed him yellow and blue ones as well as the crimson ones he finally selected.

Mark Twain's Typewriter

In his autobiography, Mark Twain asserts that the manuscript for "Tom Sawyer" was the first typed manuscript ever submitted to an editor. He used the machine only a short time, beginning in December, 1874, but he did use it long enough to establish his claim to making "the first application of the type machine to literature." The machine is on exhibition at the Mark Twain Museum, Hannibal, Mo.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—Cornell's Ivy League champions and the Pitt Panthers place three men each on the eastern all-star football team compiled today by The Associated Press.

Jerome (Brud Holland, at end, Bill McKeever at tackle and Sid Roth at guard—the entire left side of Cornell's powerful forward wall—were chosen for first team berths as were Louis Vincent (Bill) Daddio, end; Steve Petro, guard, and Marshall Goldberg, great Jewish back, all from the strong Panther array.

Sharing the other first team berths were two representatives each from Holy Cross and Dartmouth and one from Columbia. "Bullet Bill" Osmanski, smashing fullback, and Joe Delaney, big tackle, were the Holy Cross choices. Bob MacLeod, ace back, and Bob Gibson, center, represented Dartmouth. Sid Luckman, of course, was the Columbia standardbearer.

Holland, Goldberg, Luckman and Osmanski all are carry-overs from the 1937 team. Roth and MacLeod both were named to the second team a year ago.

The most violent argument developed over the ends where John Wysocki, Villanova's crack wingman, and Henry Jacunski, steady Fordham veteran, pressed Holland and Daddio closely.

There could be little argument over the backs. Goldberg, although shifted to blocking duty and hampered by injuries late in the season, fully lived up to his all-America reputations. Luckman played a heroic role as passer, kicker and runner for Columbia's oft-beaten Lions. MacLeod was the key man in Dartmouth's powerful backfield and Osmanski had no superior as a line smasher.

Tennessee Ends Perfect Season With 47-0 Score

N.Y. Herald Tribune

MEMPHIS, Dec. 3—Tennessee's all-conquering Volunteers unleashed their full power today and smashed through the final barrier to an unbeaten and untied season by burying Mississippi under seven touchdowns, 47 to 0.

The Vols wasted no time in pounding downfield behind George Cafego, and before the game was many minutes old the sell-out crowd of 22,000 knew it was only a matter of how large the score would be.

Boyden Wyatt, Vol captain, kicked off to Mississippi to start the game, and the Rebels were forced to punt after making one first down on a couple of five-yard runs by Parker Hall.

Then Cafego took charge. Starting from his own 31, he passed nineteen yards to Wyatt and then tossed another to George Hunter for fifteen more. Len Coffman smashed through center for seven and then Cafego made a first down on the Mississippi 20. Coffman plunged again and picked up three and then Cafego streaked off tackle, reversed his field and brushed off Rebel tacklers until Johnny Whittington finally knocked him off his feet on the 3-yard line.

Cafego Plows Through

That made it a first down, but it mattered little. The hardy West Virginian plowed through a wide hole that was opened up by a guard, Bob Suffridge, and the rout was on. Wyatt kicked the point.

Five minutes later the Vols were knocking on pay dirt again, and this time Coffman lugged the ball across from the 1-yard line. This drive started from the Mississippi 46 after Bob Foxx, who once planned to give up football because he was a Seventh Day Adventist, intercepted one of Hall's passes at midfield and ran it back five yards.

Cafego made eight and Coffman drove five. Babe Wood came in as a substitute for Foxx and made seven, and Cafego ripped off eleven. Cafego ran fourteen more, then Coffman drove across.

Bill Luttrell, a Knoxville boy, charged through from his tackle position in the second period and blocked Hall's punt, and then recovered it on the Mississippi 1-yard line to set up the third touchdown. Cafego made it over center and also place-kicked the extra point.

This Tennessee team has been called Major Bob Neyland's greatest and it appeared as much today. Its line held the previously oncebeaten Rebels to a net gain of fifty-six yards by running and five yards by passing. Its offense was good for 330 yards on the ground and 60 through the air.

Four Scores in Second Half

The Vols made the rout complete in the second half when four more touchdowns rolled across. Coffman scored one on a beautiful fifty-two-yard run that started as a smash over guard; but found him breaking into an open field and stepping down the left sideline for the score.

Three plays later, after Tennessee kicked off again, Wyatt intercepted a pass and ran thirty-one yards for a touchdown. And then, late in the period, Bob Sneed reeled off the longest run of the game when he took a Mississippi punt on his own 15, squirmed past two tacklers, sidestepped another, picked up his blockers and raced eighty-five yards for a score.

Sneed scored the final touchdown in the last period with a six-yard dash off tackle.

The line-up:

Hawaii Defeats San Jose Eleven By 13-12 Count

By DON WATSON

Honolulu Star Bulletin

HONOLULU, Dec. 5—Displaying a defense that none suspected they could produce, the University of Hawaii Rainbows shoved the San Jose college Spartans off the "undefeated and untied" pedestal before 18,000 fans at the Honolulu stadium Saturday afternoon.

The Hawaii lads started with a flurry that brought them one touchdown in the first quarter and another in the second to register a 13-12 victory.

There were many moments filled with worry for Coach Otto Klum and other Hawaii backers during the balance of the game, however, and only the smartest of defensive football during the final quarter staved off defeat.

If ever a team went down fighting it was the San Jose aggregation. The Spartans were in there pitching every moment, and there were times during the dying moments of the game that Hawaii's chances of staying on top could have been purchased at about a dime a dozen.

The game was played for the benefit of the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children, and the stunts staged by the Shriners before the game and between halves were rivaled in colored and spectacular hue only by the sensational play put on by the two teams.

The Spartans ran up against a brand of line play the likes of which they had not seen before this season. The Hawaii forwards are deserving of all the praise that can possibly be showered on them.

From the opening whistle the Rainbows checked the San Jose running attack, and it was only through resorting to an aerial attack that the Spartans stayed in the fell game.

Passes Effective

Hawaii has been weak on defense against passes all season, and they were still short in that department Saturday. As a matter of fact they sacrificed a defense against an aerial attack to stop the highly touted San Jose running attack. In the end this maneuver proved worth while, but it must be admitted that there were times when the Hawaii backers were shaky in their boots.

The Hawaii team lined up on defense with an eight man line until San Jose shifted. The center and fullback then dropped back off the line, swinging to the side toward which the Spartans shifted.

The only time the visitors were able to gain much with a running attack was when they shot plays toward the weak side, but even then the Hawaii ends did a very good job of shoving the ball carriers into the arms of the secondary.

The two backs who lined up behind the line on defense played very close to the line—too close at times—with the result that the passes were completed by the visitors much too often.

Stop Running Attack

The Spartans learned early in the fray that they would have to play a wide open game if they were to go places. They took the ball on the opening kickoff and were held without gain on three running plays.

The next time they got the ball the Spartans turned to the air and made two first downs on passes, completing one for 25 yards and another for 19 to make it first down on the Hawaii 27. On the second down, however, Stranske intercepted a pass and ran 12 yards to his own 37.

On the first play after getting possession of the ball Joe Kaulukukui, who was a pain for San Jose all afternoon, broke loose around end and raced 42 yards to the San Jose 21 yard line.

Nolie Emith lost two yards trying to go through center and then gained three yards at tackle. On third down Kaulukukui tossed a forward pass to Cockett for a touchdown. The try for point failed. Neither team threatened to score during the balance of the first quarter.

Spartans Advance

Early in the second quarter the Spartans made two first downs in succession to advance from the 50 yard line to the Hawaii 20, but Kaulukukui then intercepted a pass in the end zone for a touchback.

Hawaii punted out but the Spartans then completed a pass to make a first down on the Hawaii 30. On first down Zimmerman's pass was intercepted by Kaulukukui who started straight down the field, then cut toward the mauka sideline and raced 88 yards for a touchdown. Cockett kicked goal from placement to give Hawaii a 13-0 lead.

Hawaii seemed to have a letdown after scoring the second touchdown—or perhaps San Jose came to life. At any rate, the Spartans shoved over two touchdowns before the half gun sounded.

Spartans Score

Their first touchdown came two minutes after Hawaii's second. Manoogian took the kickoff and started to run back, then lateralled to Cook who was finally downed on the Hawaii 48 after a 45 yard runback. Rocchi circled end for a first down on the Hawaii 31. On the next play Manoogian passed to Zimmerman who lateralled to Manoogian, and the latter ran for a touchdown. The try for point failed.

San Jose scored again with only a minute or so in the first half. Bob Titchenal, San Jose center, blocked Kaulukukui's punt and fell on the ball in the end zone for a touchdown.

There was plenty of action during the last half of the game but no scoring. The Spartans were deep in Hawaii territory twice in the third quarter, but each time the Rainbows held for downs and punted out of danger.

Both Threaten

Both teams threatened in the fourth quarter, but neither was able to push over the goalline.

San Jose made two first downs in succession to advance from their own 29 yard line to the Hawaii 15. Lee then intercepted a forward pass and ran 68 yards to the San Jose 25. The Spartans then held for downs.

While San Jose made a number of passes complete for big gains, forward passing proved the downfall of the visitors. The locals intercepted passes at critical moments to pull themselves out of bad holes.

The game ended with the ball in Hawaii's possession near midfield.

Oklahoma Halts Aggies, 19 To 0, For 13th In Row

N.Y. Herald Tribune

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 26—Oklahoma's Sooners, unbeaten champions of the Big Six traveled the air lanes when their ground attack bogged down and whipped the Oklahoma Aggies, 19 to 0, before 9,000 fans today.

The Sooners took to the air to set the stage for two touchdowns in the second period and added an end-zone pass for the final counter in the last quarter. The Aggies never got as far as the 50-yard line and spent most of the afternoon scratching their backs on their own goal posts.

Led by C. B. Coffey and Ralph Foster, the Aggie forward wall, throttled the Sooner ground attack through a scoreless first period, but when Hugh McCullough and Otis Rogers, the Sooner big guns, opened up with deadly accuracy the Aggie defense cracked.

The first touchdown came on the third play of the second period when Bob Seymour drove over from the 6-yard line. Two passes, McCullough to Frank Ivy for seventeen yards and McCullough to Dick Favor for twenty-one, late in the first quarter, set the ball in striking distance.

Later in the same period the Sooners took the ball at the Aggie 47 after a punt exchange and Rogers tossed two passes to Gene Corrotto, one or five yards and one for twenty-nine, which carried them to the 8-yard stripe. Rogers went over from the 4-yard line on third down and Raphael Boudreau kicked the extra point.

Early in the final period the Sooners drove to the Aggie 3-yard line, but the Aggies held. Bill Cowling got off a wobbly kick that went out of bounds on the 22-yard line and a penalty took the Sooners to the 17.

Three plays, two of them attempted passes, failed, but on fourth down Rogers shot a pass to Jennings, running wide open in the end zone.

The victory was the thirteenth straight for the Sooners, who still have Washington State to play next week.

Yamagishi Ranked No. 1 In Students Tennis For 1938

Jiro Yamagishi, Japan's No. 1 tennis player, is ranked No. 1 in Japan's intercollegiate competition for 1938, according to rankings announced by the Japan Students Tennis Federation on Monday.

Two teams are ranked No. 1 in the doubles—Jiro Yamagishi and Yasuo Tsuruta of Keio University, and the same Tsuruta and Kokichi Kagitomi also of Keio University. The reason is that while Yamagishi and Tsuruta won the national doubles championship, they failed to compete in a sufficient number of tourneys, much of this being due to Yamagishi's absence while engaged in Davis Cup matches abroad.

The most outstanding advance was made by Katsumi Matsuoka of Keio University to fourth ranking place when his name was not within the first ten last year.

102-Yard Run Helps Temple Down Florida

N.Y. Herald Tribune

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Dec. 3—Jimmy Powers's 102-yard touchdown run from kick-off set the pace for Temple today Pop Warner's Owls trounced Florida, 20 to 12, in an intersectional football game.

Temple took command from the outset, marching sixty-eight yards for a score after the opening kick, and never was headed by a Gator eleven that uncorked a strong attack of its own.

Approximately 8,000 persons saw Powers's brilliant jaunt at a crucial moment in the second period. Powers backed up under the kickoff two yards behind the goal, and let his interference form.

He barged through several players on the 20 and broke out into the clear on one of the year's longest touchdown dashes. John Kovacevich place-kicked the point.

Tricky single and double reverses baffled Florida for the first few minutes and the Owls made their only sustained advance. Al Juralewicz flashed around end on a reverse for the final nine yards to climax a drive in which the entire Owl backfield took part. Stevens place-kicked the point.

Late in the second period John Berry, Florida center, blocked a punt and Tom Walker, Gator end, recovered on the Temple 26. Bobby Johnson and Tom Scott moved to the 20. Ernest Cody shot a pass to John Piombo on the 1. Johnson plunged over. Paul Eller missed with his place kick.

In the third period Bud Walton took a punt on the Florida 40 and lateralled to Jack Blalock, who went to the Temple 36. Walton flipped to Watson Ramsay for fifteen yards. Taylor smashed over from the 2. Walton's place kick was no good.

The Owls struck again soon afterward. George Honochick circled end on a fifty-six-yard jaunt to the Florida 18. John Berrier passed to Dick Fox, who went over the goal. Stevens's place kick was partly blocked.

The line-up:

Norwegian Skiers In London Show

Observer

LONDON, Dec. 17—It is a truism that wonders never cease ,but indoor Winter sports in real snow are something completely new in Europe. "Winter Cavalcade" opens in the vast arena at Earls Court on Tuesday, and audiences of ten thousand people may watch crack Norwegian ski-jumpers come hurtling down a snow-clad "mountain" that towers to the roof a hundred feet above them.

Indoor skiing has been very successful in New York and Boston, though never on the present scale, which is made possible by the size of the Earls Court building—the largest of its kind in the world. The snow, produced by special ice-flaking machinery and drained into the swimming pool beneath the arena, will fall in flurries at each of the two daily performances when the variety artistes and dancers give way to the skiers.

For Winter Cavalcade is much more than an exhibition of skiing. A spectacular revue produced by M. Jacques-Charles to represent, broadly, the Spring, Summer, and Autumn seasons, will work up to the climax of Winter on a typical Alpine slope. One hundred British dancers, under the ballet mistress of the Follies Bergere and drawn mostly from Continental troupes, have a month's hard drilling for eight hours a day behind them. No stage in the world, part from film sets, could hold anything like the number; what with the snow, the costumes, and the newest lighting effects, the beauty of the spectacle may be imagined.

After the show the ski-run, concealed by a huge curtain, will come into view, with its Alpine scenery and fir trees, and the floor of the arena will be carpeted with a foot of snow. Arrangements may be made for the run to be used by expert skiers during the morning in preparation for the Winter sports season.

At the same time a Winter sports and travel fair will illustrate the advantages of holidays in the snow.

101,000 See Trojans Defeat Notre Dame 13-0 At Los Angeles

N.Y. Herald Tribune

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3—Capitalizing on two Notre Dame errors with savage brilliance, Southern California's football Trojans thundered to a 13-to-0 victory over Notre Dame today, shattering the Irish dream of a national championship and the first perfect season since Knute Rockne's time.

Before the mightiest football gathering in the history of the Far West—101,000 persons who packed the giant Memorial Coliseum from turret to turf—the Trojans struck with touchdown marches in the second and fourth periods to achieve one of the year's biggest upsets.

On the short end of the betting at the start, the inspired Trojans one and all of them, played with such flawless precision, such terrific lift, that Notre Dame, scourge of the Middle West, never had a chance. Not until late in the final period, when the score was 13 to 0, did the Notre Dame team, which had ravaged eight powerful foes, seriously threaten to score.

Boner Helps Trojans

Southern California went into the game as just another football team that was lucky to get the Rose Bowl bid after defeats by Alabama and Washington. It came out of the game, which was as bitterly fought as any the turf of the coliseum has ever seen, a great eleven, and one that promises to give Duke a tremendous afternoon in Pasadena on January 2.

Notre Dame, known as the smartest eleven in the United States and one which had been winning games almost on sheer brainwork, paved the way for Southern California's first touchdown with a mental lapse that would have discredited a high school team.

With but forty-five seconds to play in the first half, Notre Dame was deep in its own territory. On fourth down, with eighteen yards to gain, Steve Sitko, normally a canny quarterback, called for a running play on the gamble that shifty Bob Saggau could catch the Trojans unaware and make the first down. The Trojans expected a kick, yes, as did every person in the stands, and they were temporarily fooled, but not enough. They halted Saggau and took the ball on the Irish 38-yard line. Elmer Layden, Notre Dame coach, gave a one-man show on the sidelines as the ball was turned over to Southern California.

Score in Last Five Seconds

Duly appreciative of this lift, and fully aware that there were only a few seconds to play, the Trojans got hot. Oliver Day picked up seven on a line plunge, which was followed by a five-yard penalty against the Trojans. A long pass failed, but Day was not discouraged. With five seconds left, Oliver faded back to midfield, took a true aim, and let fly with one that Al Krueger, sophomore end, picked out of the air on the 5-yard line. Al stumbled the rest of the way for a score.

Phil Gasper missed the try for the extra point, but his failure was scarcely noticed as the Coliseum was temporarily turned into an outdoor madhouse by the deliriously happy Californians.

The third period was dull, with Southern California's backs willing to freeze the ball and allow their valiant comrades of the line to smother any Irish offensive efforts. For fifteen minutes the big and hard bitten lines worked away at one another with neither yielding a single first down.

Jones Recovers Fumble

The final quarter was but a few minutes old when Notre Dame made its second error, and this time it was a physical one in the form of a fumble by Milton Peipul, fullback. He dropped the ball on a thrust through center and Jimmy Jones, Trojan halfback, recovered on the Irish 35.

In ten plays, nine of them stunning power thrusts, the Trojans slashed to a score, and this time Gaspar kicked the extra point. Jack Banta and Mickey Anderson, working over guard, center and tackle, carried the hod after a pass, Anderson to Jones, had gained eleven yards. Banta and Anderson, with bone-crushing swipes that could be heard in the farthermost reaches of the coliseum, banged to a first down on the 3. Notre Dame gave out there, and Anderson reared back, took off, and hurled his 190 pounds over the middle for a touchdown.

Beaten now, but still game in the best Irish tradition, the South Benders unloosed their finest offense of the afternoon. Sitko took the kick-off back to his 33, and then Saggau, on a brilliantly conceived and executed hidden-ball play, swept alone around his right end to make twenty yards. Tonelli picked up six, more, and then Saggau passed to Sitko for first down on U. S. C.'s 28. Tonelli, unstoppable now, plowed to a first down on the Trojan 16.

On fourth down, Jones leaped high, intercepted an Irish pass on his 3-yard line and ran it out to the 31. That was the ball game. The Trojans punted, and a minute later the gun went off, and what seemed all of California poured down on the field to start celebrating the first U. S. C. victory over Notre Dame in five years, or since Layden took charge at South Bend.

Today's unexpected triumph was U. S. C.'s fifth in thirteen games with the Irish.

Southern California barely missed making the score 16 to 0. In the middle of the second period the Trojans marched from their own 31 to Notre Dame's 22, where Gaspar's attempt at a field goal was wide by a few yards.

Actually the closest Notre Dame came to scoring was on the kick-off that followed U. S. C.'s first touchdown. Bob Saggau took the kick-off near his own goal line, and with a beautiful display of broken-field running had put all the Trojans but one behind him at midfield. But as he crossed into U.S.C. territory, Day came across the field and nailed him near the sidelines.

Both Notre Dame and U. S. C. used nearly all the men they had. It would be unfair to nominate an outstanding star for the winners, but Harry (Blackjack) Smith, All-America guard, was a tremendous figure in the line, as was Krueger. Granny Lansdell, the U. S. C. ace quarterback, went out with a leg injury early in the first period, but Anderson and Day were mighty replacements.

Notre Dame's failure to carry on its winning streak can be laid to the two errors it made, and the superiority of the U. S. C. line.

There was a rumor tonight that the Notre Damers would demand that the Trojan war horse, supposedly a slightly spavined animal, be given the saliva test.

Tokyo Teidai Defeats Kyushu Ruggers, 46-3

Tokyo Imperial University's rugby team ran roughshod over the Kyushu Imperial University fifteen by 46 to 3 Tuesday afternoon at the Hanazono grounds Kyoto.

Duke Places Five On All-Southern All-Star Eleven

RICHMOND, V., Dec. 2—Duke University's Rose Bowl bound Blue Devils, who completed their nine-game schedule without a defeat, tie or point recorded against them, won five berths on the 1938 Associated Press all-Southern Conference football team.

The honor squad represents the composite selections of 76 sports editors and coaches in North and South Carolina, Virginia, Maryland and Washington. If the some 400 varsity players in the 15 loop schools were placed at the disposal of the experts for a game, the starting lineup would be:

Ends, Willard Perdue, Duke, and Gus Goins, Clemson; Tackles, Ed (Ty) Coon, N. C. State, and Steve Maronic, North Carolina; Guards, Fred Yorke, Duke, and Louis Trunzo, Wake Forest; Center, Dan Hill, Jr., Duke; Backs, Eric Tipton and Bob O'Mara, both of Duke; Paul Shu, Virginia Military Institute, and George Stirnweiss, North Carolina.

Tipton, the Blue Devils' co-Captain from Petersburg, Va., whose amazing kicking was a highlight of Duke's 7-0 victory over Pittsburgh, led the balloting to captain the all-Star group.

Tentative Sites For World Skiing Are Established

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 5—Tentative assignments for the 1942 Federation Internationale De Ski (F. I. S.) Championships, in the event they are awarded to the United States at the world organization's congress in Poland next February, were made yesterday by the National Ski Association in convention here.

The bid of the Central U. S. Association for the special jumping was accepted, 20 to 16, over the bid of the U. S. Eastern Association, with the event going to the Norge Ski Club of Chicago on its Cary, Ill., hill.

Jumping at Utah

The Utah Ski Club of Salt Lake City received the combined jumping and cross-country event, also 20 to 18. The downhill and slalom events were assigned to the Sun Valley (Idaho) Ski Club without opposition.

Lawrence Maurin, association official, said, however, that the United States would be "extremely fortunate" to receive the 1942 world championships and permit these assignments to go through.

These 1940 National events were definitely assigned:

National combined ski championships (Jumping and 18 kilometer cross-country, the latter to carry the National cross country championship) to the new Gateway Ski Club of the Land O'Lakes (area), Wis.

Sun Valley Club

Official National downhill and slalom, and combined downhill slalom championships (men and women, separate events) to the Sun Valley Club.

Official international downhill and slalom tournament, to Salt Lake City.

The territories of Hawaii and Alaska were added to the National Association, Hawaii being assigned to the California Association and Alaska to the Pacific Northwestern.

The Canadian American Ski Association, represented by Secretary Ross Larway, of Toronto, extended its support in obtaining the international events in 1942. In order to not interfere with titles, the Canadian Association will call its events "North American" and the U. S., the "National." The National Association voted to be represented at the Canadian meeting, at Ottawa, next May.

Facilities Improved

Ray E. Bassett, Washington, D. C., representing the National Forestry Service, announced that skiing facilities were being improved in 175,000,000 acres of the United States' forests—nearly a tenth of the entire National acreage.

All officers were re-elected, including: Roger Langley, Worcester Ski Club, Barre, Mass., President; Lloyd C. Ellingson, Menomonie, Wis., Secretary; Marthinius A. Strand, Salt Lake City, First Vice-President; Peter H. Hostmark, Seattle, Wash., Second Vice-President; Julius P. Blegen, Minneapolis, Treasurer.

The Executive Committee was revised to include Dr. R. S. Elmer of Bellows Falls, Vt.; Arnold W. Weber, Placerville, Calif.; Arthur J. Barth, Milwaukee, and Roland Palmedo, New York.

The 1939 U. S. ski team eastern trials were awarded to Lake Placid, N. Y., and the western to Salt Lake City. Dates remain to be set.

Golden Jubilee Recalls Growth Of Amateur Body

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—On the Golden Jubilee of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, marked by the opening today of that organization's 50th annual convention, a backward glance over the history and files of the A. A. U. shows a remarkable growth.

On Jan. 21, 1888, with 13 athletic clubs as charter members, the A. A. U. adopted a constitution and by-laws and set out to clean up an amateur sport situation that was getting completely out of hand.

One year later it had become so powerful that its only rival, the National Association of Amateur Athletes of America, gave up the fight for control and brought its members into the A. A. U.

By 1891 the Union had grown so appreciably that its original set-up no longer could cope with its membership. Under the direction of Col. A. G. Mills, the A. A. U. was reorganized, the plan of an association of clubs was discarded, and in its place was substituted a national board controlling five sectional associations, each of which had "home rule."

While the set-up basically remains the same, those five associations have mushroomed into 39, all represented at this convention. The 3,000 competing athletes of 1888 have become literally millions of competing athletes of 1938, and the A. A. U. now is the most powerful sports governing body in the world. It has control over 17 sports, and is affiliated with 35 national organizations, including Great Britain's Amateur Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

During its growth, as part of its work, the A. A. U. has fostered the development of playgrounds, encouraged athletics in the major industrial plants, and has had a considerable share in the organization and success of the American Olympic Association.

Today's convention program called for 33 committee meetings, the most important of which were to approve records and decide on sites for the 1939 championships. The general sessions will begin tomorrow.

Anderson Picked For Second Time On All-Star Team

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2—The Associated Press's fourteenth annual all-Pacific Coast football team, announced today, combines a big extremely mobile line and a backfield embracing both speed and tremendous power.

It averages 203 pounds on the line and 184 pounds in the backfield.

Alvord Wolff, University of Santa Clara tackle, was the only non-Pacific Coast Conference player to win a first team position. Coaches, officials, and sports writers from all sections of the Far West participated in the consensus vote.

University of California, co-champion of the Conference with Southern California, placed the most men—three. Southern California, the University of California, the University of California at Los Angeles, and Washington each contributed two players and Oregon State College, one.

For the first time in several years, a sophomore, 17-year-old Jay McDowell, an end, of Washington made the mythical varsity team.

Dave Anderson, California fullback, was the only player to win all-Coast recognition for the second successive year.

Famous Ski School Moved To Quebec

Christian Science Monitor

ST. JOVITE, Quebec—Ski scoop for the 1938-39 season goes to this little French-Canadian village in the foothills of the Laurentian mountains, north of Montreal. Due to political uncertainties in central Europe, the famous Hans Falkner Ski School has been transferred from Ober-Gurgl, Austria, to St. Jovite, one of Quebec's most popular Winter sports centers.

Hans Falkner, long regarded as a leading instructor, will be assisted by Hermann Gadner and Josef Gstrein, two of Europe best-known ski professionals.

The Marchioness of Londonderry donated a magnificent trophy for an international race to be conducted annually by Falkner Ober-Gurgl. The world's leading amateur and professional skiiers were to be invited to the first race, scheduled for late April this year. But political disturbances caused the race to be canceled. Permission has been granted to initiate this trophy competition in Canada, and Falkner has chosen the thrilling Kandahar run down the steep wooded slopes of Mt. Tremblant near here as the site.

Hermann Gadner won the Swiss 50-kilometer Dauerlauf at Le Brassus in 1934 and the Austrian 50-kilometer Dauerlauf at Villach early this year. Josef Gstrein won the world's fastest ski race—the Marmolata—in Italy last year. He has represented Austria in numerous F. I. S. world championship competitions.

Oklahoma Tops Wash. State For Perfect Season

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NORMAN, Okla., Dec. 3—Undefeated and untied Oklahoma started marching in the second half today and battered over Washington State, 28 to 0. It was the first time since 1921 that a University of Oklahoma team has finished its regular season with a perfect record.

Held scoreless during a listless first half, Oklahoma cleared its way to an Orange Bowl game with Tennessee on January 2 by scoring three touchdowns in the third period and adding a final one in the fourth quarter.

It was Oklahoma's tenth consecutive victory of the season, its fourteenth triumph in a row over a two-year period and the most decisive setback on points that Washington State has suffered all year. The Pacific Coast Conference team made only one first down and that came in the fourth period on a pass.

The Oklahoma line handcuffed Washington State all the way, but the victory was costly for Oklahoma. Bill Jennings, spectacular sophomore halfback, suffered an ankle injury in the second quarter and physicians feared that he might not be able to play against Tennessee. Howard McCarty, another backfield mainstay, was lost to Oklahoma in last week's game with the Oklahoma Aggies. He suffered a broken thigh.

Hugh McCullough made two of the Oklahoma touchdowns. Bob Seymour plunged for the third, and Martin was on the receiving end of a twenty-four-yard pass from Clark for the final score. The line-up:

Pos.	Oklahoma (28)	Wash. State (0)

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT" - by Ripley

The Tallest Horse

Pat, a pure-bred Suffolk Horse, stands 9 feet high to the top of his head, and is said to be at least 4 inches taller at the shoulder (the usual measuring point for comparing horses), than other claimants for the honor. He is owned by Mr. R. J. Conner of Phelps, N. Y.

Plant That Drills Through Ice

Each spring thick beds of blue Soldanella Alpina blossoms appear to be rooted in ice because of the peculiar ability of this plant. In the fall the leaves of the Soldanella are thick and fleshy, packed with starch and protoplasm that will generate heat when the first waters of the melting ice and snow trickle through to the roots. The heat generated by the plant tissues melts the ice about the uprising flower buds, which soon penetrate the surface and burst into bloom with the roots still surrounded by snow. Soldanella is a native of the Swiss Alps and thrives along the margins of the mountain ice sheets.

Rugby Is Most Popular Sport In South Africa, Cricket Coming Next

LONDON—South Africa has been very much in the sporting news here. What with the return of the British Rugby Football team from an arduous and enjoyable tour in that country, the departure of England's cricket side to play a series of test matches there, and the projected visit to South Africa in the New Year of a "mixed" English lawn tennis team, comprising Rosemary Thomas, Valerie Scott, D. W. Butler, R. A. Shayes, and E. J. Filby. Kay Stammers was invited to go, but she found herself unable to accept and, at the time of writing, nobody was named to fill the vacant place on the squad.

At one time there appeared to be, also, the high possibility of a track and field athletics team from England making a trip to South Africa this Winter. An invitation was received by the Amateur Athletic Association here, but this controlling body felt obliged to refuse—with many regrets. You see, the crack runners have been having an unusually strenuous time. Especially those who went to Australia for the Empire Games last Winter.

There is a close affinity between sporting interests here and those in South Africa. The most popular games in each land being cricket and Football. Or, as South Africans would say, Football and cricket. Since Rugby Football is the game with first place in their affections. Rather curious, is it not, that in a country where there is Summer weather for nine months of the year, the most popular game should be one designed for the British Winter?

To some extent, the adaptation explains why the South Africans play Rugger so exceedingly well. Their grounds are hard and dry, and the ball, in consequence, is hardly ever greasy. The result is that the "Springboks" have developed pace, accuracy of passing and kicking power to an extent which the player who is trained on muddy fields in the British Isles can rarely hope to equal.

The 'Springboks' Victorious

How else can one account for the success of South African Rugby teams? The entire white population of the country today is not one sixth of the population of London; yet as far back as a quarter of a century ago, South Africa sent to Britain a team which defeated the national sides of England, Ireland, Wales and France, and lost only to that of Scotland.

Not that it is in the least necessary to go back a quarter of a century for evidence of the South Africans' Rugger strength. Last Summer is quite far enough. For the South Africans then defeated their British visitors by two "test" matches to one. The last of those games is described as probably the finest Rugger battle ever seen in South Africa. Altogether, the tourists played twenty-three games—nearly all on grounds like concrete and in the blazing sunshine—and they won seventeen of them, losing all the other six. They scored 407 points against 272. The "Lions" (to give them their nickname) struck their top note, absolutely, in the third test, and, when they won by 21 points to 16, they became the first British team to beat South Africa at Capetown since 1891.

Really Representative

Now, the 1938 British Rugger team—with several of the brightest stars of the game here unable to make the tour—was not accounted really representative. In which respect it offers contrast to the English cricket side at present engaged in matches prior to the first of the five "tests," which are listed to commence on December 24 at Johannesburg; December 31, at Capetown; January 20 at Durban; January 18 at Johannesburg, and March 3 at Durban. W. R. Hammond and his men are held to constitute the strongest combination that the English selectors could have assembled.

The Englishmen's full program consists of five four-day test matches (the last of them will be played right out if the difference in the rivals' totals of victories be not more than one) and fourteen games against the States of the Union. And, in engagements completed before these words were written, the tourists lived well up to their reputation of being one of the most powerful and best balanced teams ever seen in South Africa. Only three of the party had had previous experience of play on South African wickets, but it was obvious that most of the others were settling down nicely to strange conditions.

The 'Test' Situation

On the cricket pitch, as on the Rugger field, South Africa's national side is always a very formidable proposition. But it has to withstand a particularly resolute invasion this Winter, because Hammond's expeditionary force is bent upon reversing the result of the last series of matches between the two countries. That took place in 1935. The South Africans then beat England on English soil for the first time.

Since Anglo-Australian "tests" were instituted, fifty-nine have been played, 21 in England, 38 in South Africa. And England's total of successes is 28 against 12, with 19 drawn.

South Africa comes second in seniority on the list of British Empire countries accorded what may be termed "test match" status for cricket against England, the home of the game. Australia comes first. And before the World War, the only international cricket matches described as "tests" were those in which these three countries played, one against the other. Since 1919, the West Indies, New Zealand and India have all been accorded the same standing.

Baseball Advances

By comparison with cricket, Baseball, America's national game, is a newcomer to South Africa. But, as in England and Australia, it is gaining round quite considerably. Folk have played Ball in Johannesburg, more or less, principally the latter, since 1896, but there has been a spectacular advance in the past ten years. A South African Baseball Association was founded at Bloemfontein in 1934, and enthusiasts now declare that, with the schools as keenly interested as they are, the game has a big future in the Union. Maybe the time will come when Baseball players will be going on tour in South Africa, as the Rugger men, cricketers, lawn tennis stars, golfers, bowlers and so forth do right now.

The interchange of visits among sportsmen of various countries is, by common consent, a matter of real social significance. For it gives the "men in the street" an opportunity to get together on common ground. Controversies may arise from time to time, but, taken by and large, rest of the world has not learned the code of the Amateur Athletic Union. Europe has yet to cultivate the true spirit of the amateur. Asia has yet to comprehend the ideals of sportsmanship.

"Fair play on the athletic field breeds fair citizens and just nations.

Calls America Fortunate

"Fortunate indeed are we of America, where we have such organizations as yours to nurture and cultivate amateur sports, physical exercise and the ideals of fair play and good sportsmanship. In the army we recognize your splendid service toward building up the physique of American manhood and womanhood and of inculcating the ideals of amateurism in all athletic competitions."

Johnson said America has made many records in sports.

"Our ideal, however," he asserted, "is not merely to develop a few record-breakers. We want a strong and healthy race of men and women capable of carrying on the arduous demands of modern life. We want a nation of sport lovers, with an appreciation of the moral spiritual value of playing the game according to the rules of life. We want a people, a whole people, of sound minds and healthy bodies."

Johnson told the A. A. U. delegates that "you have performed a great public service in maintaining standards for amateur athletics in America. May you continue your useful work in promoting ideals of fair play."

Horiguchi Will Fight Chosenese Boxer, Jan. 4

Chin Sogyoku, Chosenese fighter who returned recently to Japan after action in rings in Manila, Singapore and Hawaii, will take on Tsuneo (Piston) Horiguchi, featherweight champion of Japan, in a 12-round bout on Wednesday night, January 4, at the Kokugikan bowl.

Horiguchi, who recently scored a smashing knockout victory over Goro Kikuchi, will be out to add another K.O. to his string of victories.

A.A.U. Asks National Week For '39 Sports

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—The Amateur Athletic Union approved today a proposal for a national sports week.

Jack Rafferty, of Houston, Tex., chairman of the organization's social welfare committee, won adoption of a resolution embodying an idea he first presented at the Pittsburgh convention in 1933. Samuel E. Hoyt, A. A. U. president, appointed Rafferty head of a special committee to work out details of the proposal, which will be submitted to President Roosevelt in an effort to get his indorsement. The committee also will ask the cooperation of state organizations and the smaller groups within them.

Others appointed to the special committee were Jack Elder, a delegate from Chicago and vice-president of the strong Catholic Youth Organization; William Leonard, of Schenectady, N. Y.; Harry Berman, of Baltimore; Walter Hakanson, of Denver; Theodore Bland, of Kansas City; Judge Fred Hoffman, of Cincinnati; Al Sandell, of San Francisco, and F. Marvin Plake, of St. Louis.

Hockey to New Haven

The convention awarded the ice hockey championships to New Haven Conn., after short-lived opposition from Boston delegates.

Approval of separate associations for Iowa, Indiana and Kentucky raised the number of sectional associations from thirty-nine to forty-one.

The record committee was involved in the day's most complicated bit of legislation over Ben Johnson's application for an American indoor record of six seconds flat for the sixty-yard dash, set in the Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden, New York, February 5.

That record was rejected by the committee on a claim by two delegates that Johnson had "beaten the gun." The rejection was approved by the convention. The Metropolitan Association representatives on the record committee, however, were not present when the application was turned down, and at their insistence the committee reconsidered the application, listened to new evidence and finally decided to withhold any action pending further study of the evidence.

If accepted, Johnson's time will supplant the present standard of 6.2 seconds, shared by a number of sprinters.

Girl's Record Accepted

Among more than 100 records and noteworthy performances approved by the convention was the time of 2:55.4 for the 200-yard breast stroke swim turned in by Miss Patty Aspinell, of the Indianapolis A. C., in the Purdue University pool at Lafayette, Ind., November 26. The Indiana girl, only twelve years old, is the youngest competitor ever to hold an American record.

President Roosevelt congratulated the A.A.U. in a message from Warm Springs, Ga., for having "achieved a record of which all who assist in its work can indeed be proud."

"The promotion of wholesome sports," Mr. Roosevelt said, "is a constructive service second to none in the work of upbuilding the youth of the land, of guaranteeing a sound mind in a sound body. These two go together and straightforward and honorable sport promotes each."

Louis Johnson, Assistant Secretary of War, credited the Amateur Athletic Union with much of the "great freedom" enjoyed by the citizens of this country as opposed to the "many restrictions imposed by European countries."

In a speech prepared for delivery at the A.A.U.'s golden jubilee banquet at the Willard, he said:

"Why is there such a contrast between the Old World and the New? Why do we enjoy such great freedom and why do European countries impose so many restrictions? Were we not all created in the same image? Are not all of us motivated by similar principles of right and wrong?

"I believe I have the answer. The rest of the world has not learned the code of the Amateur Athletic Union. Europe has yet to cultivate the true spirit of the amateur. Asia

Liverpool Plays 2-2 Draw With Derby County

LONDON, Dec. 3—Everton regained a point lost to Derby County, English Football League leader, a week ago by Whipping Chelsea, 4 to 1, today. The County, now two points ahead of the Toffee Makers, was held to a 2-to-2 draw in a home match against the powerful Liverpool squad.

Three teams—Charlton Athletic, Leeds United and Liverpool—are now joint occupants of third place, but seven points separate them from Everton. The Charlton eleven lost, 2 to 0, to Aston Villa at Villa Park, and Leeds United went under, 3 to 2, at Grimsby.

Supporters of Arsenal were encouraged by the Gunners' 3-to-1 triumph over Birmingham at Highbury, the losers slipping back to the bottom of the table along with Manchester United, which played a scoreless draw at Portsmouth. A tight game at Griffin Park saw Brentford improve its position through a 2-to-1 decision over Middlesbrough.

High-placed Scottish football clubs scored convincing victories against leadership challengers. The league-leading Glasgow Rangers smashed Queen of the South, 4 to 1; Celtic, runner-up, edged out a 5-to-4 decision over the Hibernians, and Hearts, in third place, defeated Kilmarnock, 2 to 1. The three victorious clubs now are well ahead of the rest of the field. The Rangers, with 30 points, have a four-point margin over the Celts, who lead the Edinburgh challengers by 1.

A 4-to-2 verdict over Third Lanark put Partick Thistle in a tie with Kilmarnock for fourth place, ahead of the Hibernians and Motherwell. The latter had its colors lowered, 2 to 1, at St. Johnstone.

Waseda Ruggers Rout Kwansei Gakuin, 74-0

Its swing play working to perfection, Waseda University's rugby team routed the Kwansei Gakuin fifteen, 74-0, Wednesday afternoon at the Hanazono grounds in Kyoto.

Excepting the substitutions of Araki for Sai in the front row, Ozawa for Izawa in the back row, and Uyeda as fullback for Nishida, Waseda used the same combination that it had put up recently against Meiji, but which the latter had won.

The winners scored 37 points in each half.

Iowa Celebrates Golden Grid Year With New Coach

Christian Science Monitor

IOWA CITY, Iowa—Its Golden Anniversary of football will be observed by the University of Iowa in 1939 by a squad coached by Edward N. Anderson, M. D., whose Holy Cross College teams won 87 per cent of their games.

Anderson officially announced Monday as the thirteenth Iowa coach since A. E. Bull of Pennsylvania came here as the first paid coach in 1896, achieved remarkable success at the Worcester (Mass.) College.

The native Iowan, who has coached every year except one since his graduation from Notre Dame in 1922, developed teams which compiled a winning percentage of .870 during the past six seasons. His 1935 and 1937 teams were unbeaten.

From a student body of 1,200 men, Anderson selected players who outscored their opponents exactly 1,000 points, while winning 47, losing 7, and tying 4. Holy Cross scored 1,306 best scoring record in 1935 when nine of 10 games were won with a total of 260 points to 191.

Included among the victims of the Crusaders were such teams as Harvard, Carnegie Tech, Brown, Colgate, Georgia, Temple, Manhattan, and Boston College. Only teams which won were Detroit, Boston College, Colgate, Carnegie Tech, and Temple, and the Crusaders earned an edge in series with all except Temple.

His 1938 team won eight of nine, losing only to Carnegie Tech, the conqueror of Pittsburgh, 7 to 6. A week after Colgate beat Iowa, 14 to 0, the Raiders were routed 21 to 0 by Holy Cross.

Nornay Saddler Is Best Again In 39th Show

By ARTHUR E. PATTERSON

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3—The happy ending of his 1938 show ring career was celebrated at Convention Hall tonight when Champion Nornay Saddler, the most successful dog in the history of American kennels, once again went best in show, this being the thirty-ninth such victory, in the forty-fourth annual Philadelphia Kennel Club show.

Clement Burnhome, Boston sportsman and fancier, made the decision in favor of the sound little smooth fox terrier tonight. It was a close thing, he thought, between Saddler and Mrs. C. Hyland Jones's grand dachshund, Champion Herman Rinkton, but there was no denying the entry from the Wissaboo Kennels of James M. Austin, of Old Westbury, L. I.

Condition Deciding Factor

"You just cannot get away from that terrier," said Burnhome later. "I judged him in the Summer and I find him now just as sound. His head is absolutely correct. He moves splendidly and he is showing all the time. But in the final analysis tonight it was a matter of condition which was the margin in which he beat the little 'dach.' I must say, however, I love that dachshund."

Even before Saddler stepped into the ring at the end of the leash held by able Len Brumby, Austin announced that this was his final show for the year. He is skipping Newark and the Bronx next week and will not enter Saddler again until the Westminster in February at Madison Square Garden. If best-in-show victory No. 40 arrives on that occasion it will write "finis" across his great record. If not, he will continue through Boston, Chicago and Morris and Essex and then retire.

Miss Wynsum Wins Again

High class dogs rounded out the final sextet on which Burnhome passed. The terrier had been sent along by Harry Lumb, the 'dach' by William L. Smalley. Joseph Quirk moved up the German shepherd, Giralda Farm's Champion Giralda's Geisha, as the working dog representative; S. Wyman Tyler selected Herman E. Mellenthin's cocker, Champion My Own Brucie, as sporting dog winner; Clarence N. Grey found the new toy sensation, Arthur Mills's Yorkshire, Miss Wynsum, as best in that group and in an abreviated three-dog non-sporting group the winner was Charles Squire's Boston terrier, Duneland Duke, put up by Alf Delmont.

The story within today's story, however, was in the defeat of Mrs. Sherman R. Hoyt's poodle, Champion Blakeen Jung Frau, by Mrs. Milton S. Erlanger's Champion Dame's Choice. Tied at thirty member groups with the dachshund, Herman Rinkton, in the American Kennel Club's competition for the year's outstanding American-bred show specimen, Jung Frau, therefore, lost the evening opportunity of winning in an easy non-sporting group, the dach going one up with two shows to go.

Dame's Choice in Fine Coat

Demont judged poodles and made what probably will prove to be the vital decision. Said he of Mrs. Erlanger's victorious poodle, Dame's Choice:

"She was put down in marveious condition, excellent coat. She is a good, short backed one, possessing rare good feet and legs. Naturally, she moves well and she was showing all the time in there today. I thought the other poodle Mrs. Hoyt's Jung Frau) was a bit out of coat."

It is for the prize won by another poodle, Mrs. Erlanger's Champion Pillicoc Rumpelstiltskin, last year that Jung Frau and Herman Rinkton are waging this stretch drive.

290-Hole Golf Marathon

James Michael Curran, 58, is track coach at Mercersburg Academy, Mercersburg, Pa. On Friday, August 19, 1938, he started to play golf at 5:00 a.m. At 7:30 p.m., only 14½ hours later, he had completed 290 holes of play over the academy course. He gave the marathon exhibition to show what an aging man could do—and played the last round at a dog-trot between strokes.

Captains In New Year's Game

Hanaoka (left), star guard of Meiji University, who will lead the Kanto All-Stars against the Kansai All-Stars, led by Okamoto (right) of Kansai University, in the second annual East-West American football game at the Meiji Shrine stadium on New Year's day.

East And West Gridders Ready For New Year's Tilt

By BILL OMURA

Determined to retaliate for its 21-0 defeat last year, the Kansai All-Stars team will again invade the metropolis for the second annual East-West gridiron classic on New Years Day at the Meiji Shrine Stadium. The opening ceremony will begin at 1:30 p.m. with the kickoff slated for 2:00 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased at the Midzuno Sporting Goods Shops or the Play Guides in Tokyo.

Kansai Stars

The invaders will consist of playing Coach Hiromu Hata, Manager Tokusaburo and 24 players. Of the twenty-four, sixteen have been selected from Kansai University, three from Kobe Foreigners, two from Meiji O.B., two from Kansai, O.B., and one from Keio O.B. They are scheduled to arrive in Tokyo early in the morning the day before the game.

The Kansai gridsters are hampered by lack of competition, with but two teams playing American football in their district the Kansai U., and the Kobe Foreigners K. R. A. C. Nevertheless, Kansai boasts a proud record tying Rikkyo, 6-6, losing to Keio 6-0, drubbing Hosei 55-8, and losing to Meiji the Kanto champions, 32-0, when the latter invaded the West late Spring and early fall of this year.

Many former players who saw action in the Tokyo League during their college days, are now working in the Kansai and will see action with the West this year. Among them will include, Meiji's former coach-captain, Hiromu Hata. Hata has accepted to coach the Kansai All-Stars and will alternate at the signal barking position with Iwai, former Keio star. Shimizu, another Kanto player who will see action for the Kansai, played guard during his three years with Meiji, and will play the same on New Year's day.

Tsuboi, of Kansai U., Iwai, of Keio O.B., Fujii, of Kansai U., and Tarr, of Kobe Foreigners, can run and pass. But the power of the West is generated by Hata, two years All-Japan star and member of the team that invaded America two seasons ago, and Yamanouchi, a blocker from Kansai U.

Tsuboi Is Passer

Tsuboi will be in there working on his passing attack. His excellent punting ability in getting off quick-kicks should not be overlooked. And Hata may continue to show the style which made him an outstanding ball-carrier two years ago.

Kanto is rich in material this year, and the six members of the council in Fowler, of Rikkyo, Fukuda, Waseda, Sakaguchi, Rikkyo, Nakagami, Hosei, and Yasuda, Meiji, selected to choose the All-Stars had a difficult time holding space open for Coach-Kunishima's Keio's nominations.

Southpaw Nakagami's passing rates him with Yasuda, of Meiji in view of the fact that the latter did his passing with a winning team. The passing burden on a losing team is heavier, since the opponents can set their defense. Nakagami passed well against all defenses, beating Keio and Rikkyo with his pegs and being stopped by only one team, Meiji. As a runner, Nakagami also was exceptional, though underrated in this department because of his excellent passing. But on Sunday the ball-carrying burden will be handled by powerhouse Obayashi, Waseda O.B., "Min" Yasuda, Meiji, and "Bucky" Harris, Y.C. and A.C.

Kanto Favored

The Eastern team has size, speed, brains, and finesse and all the defensive and offensive weapons needed to come out on top. It will be strengthened with 180 pounds of Vorobioff, a wrestling champion who will play guard. Meiji's impregnable Hanaoka, who will captain the East, will hold down the right guard position. Tackles, "Diamond" Shimamura, and Shigemori Fukushima, are rough and tough and seldom run over. Fukuda, at right tackle is truly a great player, a newcomer who played stellar ball on the Keio eleven. "Sabo" Sakamoto at center, is far ahead of the rest of the field. He distinguished himself as the best punt-blocker of the Big Five.

Meiji's Seiji Machida, a sixty minute man, is just about as good an end you would find on any team. He may get the opportunity to show unsuspected talents when he lines up for the Eastern All-Stars. In the past seasons, Machida did most of the things you would expect of an end. He covered his position on running plays, hustled down-field on kicks and did better than a fair job of blocking out the defensive tackle.

In an effort to determine just how good Hosei's Nakagami is, Kanto will pit Richard Fukuda of the Maroons at the receiving end. Fukuda played in the backfield most of the time this season, but he can play any position on the line equally as well.

The backfield has blocking, punting, passing and power. Yasuda is on his second all-star team and because of his extraordinary blocking talent, he goes as a blocking half. Obayashi, the hardest hitter on the team was the Tokyo O.B.'s offense and defense, and can kick and pass with the best of them.

Japan Wins, 37-29 From Army Five On Manila Floor

Japan's all-star basketball team won its first game on its current tour of the Philippines Wednesday night at Manila by defeating the United States Army McKinley Regiment quintet by a 37-29 score.

Japan started with a team, composed entirely of Chosenese players, but it failed to function smoothly and an all students team of Japan proper was sent in. The score at half time was 20 to 14 in favor of the winners.

New Yorkers Rout Washington, 36-0 In Pro Football

By ARTHUR J. DALEY
N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—The weather was warm yesterday, but the Giants were warmer. In fact, the New Yorkers were ablaze as they crushed the Washington Redskins, 36 to 0, before the fascinated gaze of a crowd of 58,061 at the Polo Grounds. With that terrific blow the pupils of Stout Steve Owen dethroned the capital players as the Eastern champions of the National Football League and won the right to meet the Green Bay Packers at the Polo Grounds next Sunday for the World title.

It was a gorgeous exhibition that the Giants gave. It was utterly impossible for them to make a mistake. They had the Midas touch and everything turned to gold. Three times they intercepted Washington passes and eventually converted them into scores. Twice they did the same thing with recovered fumbles. The Redskins were perpetually toying with boomerangs and were smitten in the back of the neck with their own weapons.

For the New Yorkers this was the crowning touch to a season that saw them returned to the Eastern crown, their fourth in six years, as they finished their regular campaign the top-ranking team in the league with a higher rating than the Packers, the Western kings. And as revenge for the 49-to-14 shellacking they received from the Indians in this same game a year ago, they found this a particularly tasty tidbit. The margin then was 35 points. Yesterday it was 36.

Gates Ordered Closed

The huge crowd, second largest in professional football history, enjoyed it all to the full. Only the Red Grange-attracted gathering in 1925 tops yesterday's figures, which even exceed last year's outpouring for the same game that a recheck revealed to be 55,933 instead of the 58,285 originally announced. The fans stormed the gates in such numbers that the Fire Department ordered them closed, much to the regret of the clan Mara.

This was the kind of game where thrill piled upon thrill until the spectators were emotionally exhausted at the finish. However, they still had enough strength left to tear down both goalposts in frenzied exuberance.

What a game this was! It started at a mad pace and held it all the way.

Late-comers must have missed the first touchdown. Ward Cuff intercepted a pass and carried the ball back 37 yards to the Redskin 13. Then, on the next play, Hank Soar went off the Washington left tackle, hesitated just long enough for the blockers to block with the fiendish precision they were to show all day, and cut in sharply to go the rest of the way for a touchdown—only four minutes after the opening kick-off.

With that psychological push the Giants simply scalped the hapless Redskins from the capital. They did about everything except strip them of their uniforms. The New Yorkers recovered a fumble on the 29 and drove for another tally, this one by Bull Karcis. The Indians truly were the vanishing Americans after that.

Lull in Second Period

Here was a championship game and the Giants had a 14-point lead before any one could take a deep breath. Considerately the New Yorkers held off in the second quarter but they slammed back in the third. Cuff place kicked a 36-yard field goal by way of variety, but that young man had not finished his activities.

Shortly after this the Washingtonians let go with their only sustained march of the occasion. Mainly through the air they whirled to the 10 in a 70-yard advance.

Frank Filchock was the sharpshooter in this march and the ex-Pirate let go with the touchdown pass. But it was not the kind he expected. The omnipresent Cuff plucked the ball from the air on the 4 and calmly galloped 96 yards.

This was an individual effort in many respects, a superb weaving, twisting dash down the sideline. But like everything the Maramen did, it had the full Giant stamp of approval. The blocking he received simply had to be seen to be believed. A mowing machine could not have a better job.

Then in the fourth quarter the Giants slashed 58 yards down the gridiron in the only march that was strictly on their own momentum. The pay-off play was a forward pass that Tuffy Leemans hung on a peg in the end zone. Chuck Gelatka's arms encompassed the ball.

Just Another Boomerang

The crowd had not done much more than settle back when Filchock passed again—another of his touchdown heaves with reverse English. Gelatka started to rush the tosser but floated back and, lo and behold, he intercepted the ball on the Washington 7-yard line and was across without a hand put on him.

Stout Steve, who pays $10 for each intercepted pass that results in a touchdown, directly or indirectly, said mournfully afterward, "The boys hit me today as if I were the jackpot."

But Steve was not a bit sad about it. He never paid any debts more willingly.

Tennis Players Not Competing In Manila Tourney

Takeo Matsumoto of Hosei University and Katsumi Matsuoka of Keio University will not go to the All-Comers tennis tournament at Manila scheduled for the latter part of January and the first part of February.

Cancellation of the invitation received from the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation was announced Thursday by the Japan Lawn Tennis Association. The reason was that the Federation recently asked the Association to send another player in place of Matsumoto, who had won the singles title and with Yasuo Tsuruta of Keio University, clinched the doubles crown as well in the Manila tornament this year. And there is not sufficient time to complete arrangements for a substitute before the scheduled date of departure.

Questioned for a statement Thursday night, Tamio Abe, captain of Japan's Davis Cup team this year and an official of the Japan Lawn Tennis Federation, said:

"The ordinary practice in tennis tournaments is to invite the defending champions, and I can't understand the reason for the Philippine Federation's request for a substitute in place of Mr. Matsumoto. Inasmuch as there is little time before the scheduled sailing date, and it requires considerable red tape for permission from the respective school and the Education Ministry as well for another student to go, we have decided to decline the invitation."

EAST RUNS ROUGHSHOD OVER WEST

An East side ball toter ripping through the West's defense in their second annual American football game on New Year's Day at the Meiji Shrine stadium. The East won, 63 to 0.

EAST ROUTS WEST, 63 TO 0 IN 2ND ANNUAL GRID GAME

By BILL OMURA

Turning loose a squad of well-drilled football players on the Meiji Shrine Stadium gridiron on New Year's Day, the Eastern all-stars swamped the invading Western all-stars under an avalance of touchdowns, defeating the latter 63-0 in their second annual New Year's Day American football game.

Touchdowns came in each period except the fourth, with two in the first, three in the second, and five in the third. They were credited three to Kasahara, Tokyo Old Boy's, two to Richard Fukuda, Waseda Maroons, and one each to Tamura, Keio, Ross, Y. C. A. C., Chiwa Tokyo Old Boy's, Yasuda, Meiji U., and Sakamoto, Meiji, U.

The quick starting Eastern squad assisted by the good work of the forwards in handling the heavier rivals ahead of them, made the game pretty much a continuous march.

EAST SCORES EARLY

Hitched to a quartet of stars in "Min" Yasuda, Fukuda, Tamura, and Todo, the East nearly chased the West out of the stadium by jamming two fast touchdowns across the goal line in the first nine minutes of play.

The Western All-Stars, however, dug their cleats deeper into the turf and made an interesting battle of it during the remaining time. They threatened to score in the final quarter, when Yamanouchi snagging a pass from Quarterback Hata, ran 33 yards before he was tackled on the opponents 20-yard mark. Hata again repeated to Miyuki by air who carried the ball to the East 5-yard line.

Although Fukuda and Kasahara were the backfield stars, of the East, the other ball handlers played just as well.

East's blocking and interference on offense was good to watch and it was effective. On defense, the East's speed covered much ground as the expected West's aerial game was throttled.

6,000 BRAVE COLD

Braving the cold, a huge crowd of 6,000 fans witnessed the players on a frost-bitten ground. Every person present had some direct interest in the two teams.

Taking the initial kickoff the West moved the yardstick from their own 20-yard mark to the 36. Following a series of line plays, West fumbled on their own 30-yard line, which was recovered by the East. On their first play, Fukuda plowed through center for the first touchdown. Try for extra point failed.

Nine minutes from play with the ball on the West's 40-yard line, Tamura on the third play, romped wide around right end, sped down the West's sidelines and scored the second down standing-up. Try for extra point failed leaving a score of 12-0 for the East.

The third touchdown came when Ross from his own 28-yard line heaved a long one to Left End Nomura who caught it on the West 25-yard line and ran to the 5-yard mark. With Kasahara and Ross carrying the ball. Ross finally rolled over the goal line to tally. Ross passed to "long" John Nomura for the extra point. Score East 19, West 0.

Masuda, receiving Kasahara's quick on his own 2-yard line, found the ground too wet to side-step the fast charging Eastern eleven, and ran out of bounds on his own 4-yard line. Determined to play safe, Tsuboi elected to kick, but Sakamoto, who had been hailed as the best punt-blocker in the Big Five league, broke through the West's forward wall and blocked Tsuboi's attempted kick, which Machida recovered for the East. Taking advantage of the break, East took the ball on the West 3-yard mark. Chiwa on the first play plunged through center for touchdown. Ross's pass to Nomura for the extra point failed. East 25, West 0.

FUKUDA RUNS 70 YARDS

Three minutes before half-time, Richard Fukuda received Tsuboi's kick on the East 30-yard line, and following behind the fine protection given him, romped 70 yards to the goal. East 31, West 0.

That the East dominated the game could be seen by the fact that they had the ball twice as long as the West in the 48 minutes of play. Of the 101 running plays in the game East had the oval for 68 of them, leaving 33 for the West.

West attempted 16 passes, making but five good. East used nine passes, clicking one which paved the way for a touchdown.

East threatened again in the third quarter, when Yasuda, recovered West's attempted kick, again blocked by Sakamoto and ran 20 yards to score. Kasahara plackicked for the extra point. East 38, West 0.

Following the kickoff, Sakamoto again broke through center and blocked another of Tsuboi's attempted kick and ran over for a touchdown. Kasahara converted. East 45, West 0.

Kasahara, back in running form, circled West's left end, lateralled to Fukuda who ran to the opponents 22-yard line from the 33-yard line. On the second play, Fukuda circled right end and lateralled to Kasahara, who neatly side-stepped his would be tacklers and ran over for a touchdown. Kasahara failed to convert. East 51, West 0.

East's sweeps around end, and Sakamoto's beautiful punt-blocking ability stole the show. Fukuda and Kasahara's combination lateralled their way for two of the avalance of touchdowns. Sakamoto blocked three of Tsuboi's attempted kicks which paved the way for the scores.

East's final touchdown came at the end of the third quarter, when Tsuboi kicked to Kasahara who received the ball on his own 30-yard line, shook himself loose and galloped 70 yards down the field, crossing the goal line standing-up. Ross attempted a pass for the extra point but failed to tally. East 63, West 0.

WEST THREATENS

The West's showing was not exactly a disappointment, the team looked highly promising in the fourth quarter when they completely dominated the East with their passing game. Quarterback Hata, heaved a long one to Yamanouchi from his own 22-yard line, who ran to East's 20-yard line. Hata chucked one to Miyuki on the next play, who completed on the East 5-yard line. But the East's aerial defense tightened, forcing West to lose the ball on downs.

The East's charging line was too fast for the West's backfields to get started on wet ground. Given a little more time to smooth out their teamwork, the west might have fared better. The outstanding star of the West was playing-coach, Hiromu Hata, who halted many a East's trust, and on offense, caught the eyes of the spectators with his passing and running plays.

Kasahara and Fukuda carried the heavy work for the East. They came through nicely with their own field running and scored five of the ten amongst themselves. Probably the outstanding line star of the game was Shigemori Fukushima, the Big Meiji-tackle, who halted many a West plunge.

WASEDA BEATS DOSHISHA, 6-5 IN RUGBY TILT

Waseda University's fifteen, runner-up in the Kanto Intercollegiate league, nosed out the Doshisha University team, 6 to 5, in a hard fought game Tuesday afternoon at the Hanazono grounds in Kyoto. It was a case of Waseda's offensive game.

The victory marked Waseda's 12th victory against two for Doshisha, with one game a draw, in their series.

Waseda led 3 to 0 in the first half with a try by Ikeda after 31 minutes of play on a three quarter pass.

After furious scrimmaging, Waseda increased its lead to 6-0 in 27 minutes in the second half when Sotoyama passed to Tanaka for a try. And as Waseda once again threatened, Fujii of Doshisha intercepted a pass and scored a try right square under the goal posts. Conversion followed to cut Waseda's lead down to 6-5. But there was no further opportunity for the Doshisha fifteen.

The line-ups follow:

Waseda: Yamaji, Murayama, Sat, Otagaki, Okura, Onishi, Izawa and forwards; Matsumoto, Endo and Kakutani halfbacks; Ikeda, Igawa, Sotoyama and Tanaka, three-quarters; Nishida, fullback.

Doshisha: Takada, Kuriyama, Matsukawa, Yoshida, Kizaki, Enomoto and Ogawa, forwards; Kizumi, Namura and Sato, halfbacks; Shimizu, Chiyoma, Fujii, Omote, three-quarters; Kurokawa, fullback.

U.S. AIMING FOR OLYMPIC HOCKEY CROWN

Christian Science Monitor

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—America's Olympic Hockey Committee yesterday made plans to comb the country to secure the best possible amateur hockey team to represent the United States in the 1940 Olympics at St. Moritz, Switzerland.

In order that no player of exceptional ability shall be slighted—no matter from what part of the country he comes—the Committee broadcast an appeal to hockey coaches and officials throughout the United States to inform the Committee about any player they encounter who has outstanding hockey ability.

Upon each such report, the American Olympic Hockey Committee will send a representative to see the player perform or in some way get an accurate report on his ability.

The American Olympic hockey squad for 1940 will be chosen this Winter, it was announced yesterday by John Thomas, former Yale athlete, who is Secretary of the Committee.

At the close of the current season, a squad of about 20 players will be selected. The squad will report for practice about Jan. 1, 1940. From this group the final team will be selected. It will sail for the Olympics two weeks later, about Jan. 15, 1940.

The Committee will follow no pre-determined method of picking the squad of 20. As the present hockey season develops, it will follow what appears to be the best and fairest method of selecting the best possible squad.

Individual players from all parts of the country may be selected, or the committee may hold play-offs and take the winning team of an intersectional play-off as a nucleus and add other outstanding individuals. The Committee, which will welcome reports on possible Olympic players, consists of:

Joseph Wirtz, 38 Kimberly Avenue, East Haven, Conn.; Charles Gorman, 8 Westcott Street, Dorchester, Mass.; Ray Saucier, Knights of Columbus, Lewiston, Maine; Walter Wright, 1003 City Hall, Chicago, Illinois; Walter A. Brown, Boston Garden, Boston, Massachusetts; Edward Stanley, Clinton, New York; Albert I. Prettyman, Hamilton College, Clinton, N. Y.; Louis F. Keller, University of Minnesota Minneapolis, Minn.; John A. Thomas, Rm. 5500, 20 Exchange Pl., New York, N. Y.; L. K. Neidlinger, Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H.; Arnold Eddy, University of Southern California, Los Angeles, Calif.; Lt. M. S. Carter, U.S. Military Academy, West Point, N. Y.; Rufus J. Trimble, Federal Reserve Bank, 33 Liberty Street, New York.

EDINBURGH TOPS GLASGOW AT RUGGER, 16-9

London Times

LONDON, Dec. 5—Edinburgh beat Glasgow by 16 points to 9 in a game which showed how valuable it can be to have a pack of forwards who scrummage strongly and give a clean heel. It was ability to do so that decided the issue, even allowing that each side only scored one try.

Glasgow were easily the more formidable side in midfield, but bad heeling, occasioned by the forwards being unable to offer sufficient resistance to the opposing eight, gave I. E. Dawson scant chance of opening up the game satisfactorily. Sometimes his passes were very badly directed, and more than once they were intercepted. In the circumstances his partner, W. C. W. Murdoch, played brilliantly. No matter how the ball came to him he made contact, and if he did not open up the game he prevented Edinburgh getting an advantage. The Eastern side were also handicapped in a similar position, but there was no good reason why E. Anderson should not have provided the men behind him with better scoring opportunities.

Of the full-backs A. S. Nicholson was more impressive than C. Roberts. R. W. Shaw and E. T. Gollogly were outstanding in their respective sides, but A. A. S. Scott and W. G. Biggart often held on to the ball too long, and several times they might have passed with advantage. The wings were but moderately good, and taken as a whole the selectors can have seen little to encourage them. The Edinburgh forwards were good in many ways, but had no one to compare with P. L. Duff. He was easily the finest forward afield.

GLASGOW—A. S. Nicholosn (Hillhead H.S.F.P.), back; A. P. Fairlie (Shawlands' Academy F. P.), R. W. Shaw (Glasgow High School F. P.) (captain), W. G. Biggart (Glasgow Academicals), and J. M. Sinclair (Glasgow University), three-quarter backs; W. C. W. Murdoch (Hillhead H.S.F.P.) and I. E. Dawson (Hillhead H.S.F.P.), half-backs; R. C. Graham (Hillhead H.S.F.P.), I. E. Wilkie (Hillhead H.S.F.P.), J. D. Niven (Hillhead H.S.F.P.), J. McClure (Ayr), V. G. Weston (Kelvinside Academicals), forwards.

EDINBURGH—G. Roberts (Watsonians) (captain), back; J. B. Craig (Heriots F.P.), E. T. Gollogly (Royal High School F.P.), A. A. S. Scott (Edinburgh Wanderers), and W. N. Renwick (Edinburgh Wanderers), three-quarter backs; A. Reid (Watsonians) and E. Anderson (Stewarts F. P.), half-backs; J. B. Borthwick (Stewarts F.P.), G. Wilson (Watsonians), I. C. Henderson (Edinburgh Academicals), D. W. Deas (Heriots F.P.), D. H. Dewar (Watsonians), G. N. Gallie (Edinburgh Academicals), D. K. A. Mackenzie (Edinburgh Wanderers), and G. B. Hendry (Watsonians), forwards.

NO ROSE BOWL GRID GAMES FOR BIG TEN

CHICAGO, Dec. 3—Western Conference faculty representatives quickly tipped over the Rose Bowl idea today—and then set one up "on the house" in the form of a free evening meal for Big Ten football players.

With a decision to reaffirm their standing of years against post-season gridiron contests, the faculty advisers turned thumbs down on a plan which would have made the Rose Bowl game an annual contest between a Big Ten team and one from the Pacific Coast Conference.

The faculty representatives, pointing out that no formal proposal for such a reciprocal arrangement ever had been received from West Coast authorities, adopted this motion:

"In view of the wide publicity given to the matter of prolonging the football season so as to permit the playing of post-season games, it was moved and carried that the Conference reaffirm its ruling against such extension of the playing season."

OFFICIALS SILENT

Little discussion, it was learned, preceded adoption of the motion, and the decision was practically unanimous. On the West Coast official silence greeted the Big Ten action. Some were reported favoring such a plan, with others opposed on the ground it would wreck national interest in the game, which on January 2 will send Southern California and Duke into action.

Authorization of the training-table plan was speedily achieved. Schools will be permitted to furnish the evening meal daily to players throughout the gridiron season. Heretofore players have been furnished meals until the opening of classes.

Conference "B" football teams were voted permission to play Friday games and the faculty members decided that John Mariucci, Minnesota junior end, is eligible for another year of varsity competition. Mariucci played varsity ball one year for Hibbing (Minn.) Junior College while a freshman at the institution.

YEAR'S PLAY NOT COUNTED

It was decided that junior college varsity competition while the player is a freshman at the college does not constitute a year of varsity competition against the player should he transfer.

Track coaches decided to hold the central collegiate indoor meet at Notre Dame March 10 and 11 and the outdoor meet June 2 at Marquette University, Milwaukee. Gymnastic coaches carded their conference meet for March 11 at Illinois.

Baseball coaches, formulating their 1939 schedules, decided to play games regularly on Fridays and Saturdays throughout the season and that each team should play every other Conference team within a five-year span.

Japanese Five Beats Philippines 'U'

The Japanese all-star basketball team now touring in the Philippines took the measure of the Philippine University, 44 to 27, on New Year's Day at Manila for its third straight victory in as many games, according to a Domei dispatch.

Using the five-men and zone defense systems alternately to perfection, the Japanese ran away, 22 to 7, from the Philippine collegians in the first half.

Mack Is Opposed To Curbing Players' Rights in Winter

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—Connie Mack, baseball's "Grand Old Gentleman," spoke out today in opposition to suggestions that the liberties of baseball players in the off season be curbed.

Mack, who will observe his 76th birthday late this month, commented on discussions that have followed the tragic case of Monte Stratton, Chicago White Sox pitcher.

"I am not in favor putting in contracts any more clause about the personal comings and goings of the ball players," said the tall, lean leader of the Philadelphia Athletics.

"I believe in letting the boys have as much freedom as possible.

"Suppose we did tell the players they couldn't go gunning, flying, or go over Niagara Falls in a barrel? In the end the player would rise up and ask: "What am I? A slave, bound hand and foot? My life isn't my own by any standard.'"

"We might put all kinds of clauses in their contracts," he added, "but they'd probably do what they want anyway."

CAMBRIDGE BEATS OXFORD 5 TO 3 IN SOCCER CLASH

London Times

LONDON. Dec. 5—Form once again was impudently upset in the University match on Saturday on the Dulwich Hamlet ground, and Cambridge beat Oxford by five goals to three. This result makes the Universities level in the record, as each has won 26 out of the 61 games which have been played.

It was in many ways a memorable match. It was played on a Saturday, on a ground accustomed to amateur football, before a crowd which could not have been far short of 10,000, and the team who drew level after having had three goals scored against them in the first half-hour were decisively beaten. Once Oxford, in the opening minutes of the second half, had drawn level, it seemed natural to expect that they would go on to victory. They had the wind in their favor, and the psychological advantage was undeniably with them, but those who were present must still have felt that it would be Cambridge who would have the last cheer. It is a grave thing to lose a lead of three goals, but it is a far graver one to lose confidence as the goalkeeper picks the ball out of the net, and Cambridge were never in the smallest danger of doing that. They were, from first to last, quicker in their tackles and more resolute on the ball. They had, too, strength where strength is most needed—in the half-back line. N. W. Beeson, at right half-back, played the kind of game frequent in dreams than on the realistic occasion of a University match, and the two other half-backs, if not quite so brilliant, were rather too much for a forward line too inclined to keep the ball close on a ground that was heavy and not altogether to be trusted for the smooth running of a short pass. What is more, the Cambridge backs covered each other surely, and in their center-forward, R. W. Lees, they had a splendid and unselfish footballer. His name does not appear among the goal scorers, but his influence on the game was profound, and his intelligent distribution of the ball helped materially to tip off its balance a defense palpably upset by the scoring of a goal before spectators had time to open their programs.

SUSPECT DEFENSE

It is true that Oxford seem, on paper, to have recovered admirably from that very early reverse and so, up to a point, they did. But even while the Oxford forwards were scoring goals, the insistent doubt as to the soundness of the defense remained. It was as though a batting side, which had every reason to consider itself good, lost two quick wickets to a bowler of whom it had never thought much and, in spite of some 4's off the middle as well as the edge of the bat, never really recovered its confidence. The Oxford defense as a whole was never as well coordinated as that of their opponents, and a great mistake was made in not making more use of the wing forwards, R. G. Sturdy and J. M. Lomas. Both showed that they deserved to see a lot of the ball; they did not, and it was not altogether the fault of H. S. Seaford. He showed considerable cleverness in his ball-control, and it was not so much his failure as it was the glory of the Cambridge defense that so few Oxford movements got properly into their stride. It remains to be written that the considerable crowd seemed thoroughly to enjoy itself and that it got rather more excitement than it could have had any right to expect. It was, taken all through, a memorable game and there was some good football mixed up with some robust fun.

Once again the weather was extremely pleasant, although there was a wind and a ground which was obviously going to be tiring before the end. Almost before the ball was in play Cambridge had scored. There was a raid down the Cambridge left wing, and although J. W. Naylor, who was not to be blamed for four of the five goals scored against him, beat the ball out, he could not beat it far enough, and L. D. Hollins was able to shoot high into the net from close range. Sturdy once broke through, but his final shot went just wide, and then after 12 minutes' play Cambridge went further ahead. The ball was crossed to A. F. Lindley, and although Oxford fought back and Lomas forced a corner, Cambridge soon scored their third goal. Naylor, in punching, gave away a corner which, it seemed might have been averted and which, in the event, proved fatal. Two minutes later Oxford destroyed the not unnatural feeling that the game was already lost and won. Lomas crossed the ball over to the right, it was returned, and Seaford got his foot to it before the Cambridge defenders. A few minutes later, after a Cambridge attack, Sturdy broke away and finished off a long run with a grand scoring shot from a difficult angle. The game was very much alive, but the excitement was not enough to eclipse appreciation of the sound work F. E. Templer was doing at right back for Cambridge. He is not fast and he is not spectacular, but on Saturday he was very, very sound.

TWO DECISIVE GOALS

Oxford, with the wind behind them, lost no time in equalizing—J. H. Binch made the opening for Seaford—and every platitude was ready for a further Oxford triumph. Iron should be struck while it is hot, hay should be made under a shining sun, and so on, but Cambridge did not allow either the iron or the sun to rise above temperate heat. In plainer language Cambridge refused to surrender the initiative, and after another five or six minutes had been played E. S. Washington scored two goals in as many minutes. First, some rather vague heading in the Oxford goalmouth left Washington with the easiest of tasks, and then, after Hollins had done the bulk of the work, the same player had a chance of shooting through from an acute angle. Oxford went on fighting hard, but four corners fell to Cambridge in a short space of time, and although Templer once had to clear off the line and a long pass out to Lomas showed what might have happened had Oxford followed the Cambridge example of swinging the ball about, Cambridge kept to their lead and deservedly won a match they were expected to lose.

The teams were:—

CAMBRIDGE—R. L. Lowcock (Repton and Emmanuel) goal; *F. E. Templer (Bradfield and Trinity) and G. G. K. Parsons (London University and St. Catharine's), backs; *N. W. Beeson (Malvern and Clare), W. Germany Enters 1940 Olympiad

SCOTLAND TOPS HUNGARY, 3-1

London Times

LONDON, Dec. 8—Scotland, even with a man short all through the second half, proved far too good for Hungary at Ibrox Park, Glasgow, yesterday, and won by three goals to one. Black, the Scottish inside-left, fractured his collar-bone in a tackle shortly before the interval.

The Hungarians began smartly, keeping the ball on the ground and finding each other accurately, but as the game wore on Scotland settled down to strong play and once they took the lead the result was never in doubt.

Although the Continental side were second best for most of the time they never left off trying and on occasion showed weaknesses in the Scottish defense. This appears an important matter for Scotland as they have to find a team to meet England at Hampden in April. Baxter, while working hard, was not quite so effective as in the match with Wales at Tynecastle, but Shankly was the complete half-back. Gillick was the best forward and McSpadyen played well enough to deserve further chances. Dawson was seldom tested but once he was lucky to save his goal when he dived to a fast low shot and just managed to scramble the ball away. The Hungarians caused Scotland some trouble in the closing stages, during which they scored from a penalty, and the 10 Scotsmen left were never allowed to take things for granted.

In the 19th minute Black was upset in going through and the referee had no option but to award a penalty kick. McCulloch, as it happened, had already put the ball into the net, but the kick was taken and Walker gave Szabo no chance with a strong drive. Scotland quickly pressed home their advantage and in another 10 minutes they were three goals up. Black collected the ball from a clearance by the Hungarian goalkeeper and from 30 yards out he fired in a powerful shot. The third goal was the result of another defensive error. Szabo ran out after his right back had blundered and Gillick walked the ball in. Scotland, without Black, held their own easily in the second half and a score from a penalty kick by Sarosi after half an hour did little to relieve a rather subdued period.

The teams were:—

SCOTLAND—Dawson (Rangers), goal; Anderson (Heart of Midlothian) and Beattie (A.) (Preston North End), backs; Shankly (Preston North End), Baxter (Middlesbrough), and Symon (Rangers), half-backs; McSpadyen (Partick Thistle), Walker (Hearts), McCulloch (Derby County), Black (Hearts), and Gillick (Everton), forwards.

HUNGARY—Szabo, goal; Polgar and Biro, backs; Koranyi, Túray, and Dudas, half-backs; Cseh, Sarosi, Toldi, Titkos, and Gyetvay, forwards.

LUCKY LARSON TO COACH NAVY IN '39 SEASON

N.Y. Times

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 10—Navy placed its 1939 football hopes today in the knowing hands of Captain Emery E. (Swede) Larson, a marine renowned throughout the service for the good fortune that always has followed his coaching efforts.

Captain Larson's appointment as head coach to succeed Lieutenant H. J. (Hank) Hardwick was announced by Captain E. W. McKee, director of athletics at the Naval Academy. He becomes the first marine officer to coach a Navy football team.

In appointing Larson, present commander of the marine detachment at the Naval Academy, the Navy stuck to its graduate-coach policy. Hardwick, it was announced, will return to sea duty at his own request. No other changes in the coaching staff were made.

AN AIR-MINDED TEAM

Hard luck has been Hardwick's lot in the past two years. His teams lost to Army and fared badly against other major opponents. This year he produced an air-minded team that outgained nearly every opponent, but won only one major game.

Good luck, on the other hand, has always followed Larson. His success as a service coach at stations from Parris Island, S. C., to Shanghai has been pronounced and "Larson Luck" has been a by-word since he led three Navy teams to victory over Army as a middy center.

In 1935 and 1936 the U.S.S. Pennsylvania teams he coached won two successive fleet championships. Ten years before that he had coached the All-Navy team in Hawaii. In 1928 he was line coach at the University of Hawaii.

NAMED BY WALTER CAMP

Larson was varsity center on the 1919, 1920 and 1921 Navy teams that defeated the Army, and named in 1921 on Walter Camp's second-string All-America eleven. An All-America lacrosse player, he received the Thompson Trophy for athletic achievement upon his graduation in 1922.

After coaching the Sixth Marine Corps football team in Shanghai, Larson was assigned to the Naval Academy this year, but did not assist the squad.

He will have the same civilian staff that aided Hardwick—E. E. (Rip) Miller, line coach; Keith Molesworth, backfield coach, and as assistants Frank Froster, Ray Swartz, Johnny Wilson and Henry Ortland.

LAZZERI SIGNS DODGER CONTRACT

N.Y. Times

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10—Tony Lazzeri, who obtained his release from the Chicago Cubs a few days ago, announced today he had accepted terms to play second base for the Brooklyn Dodgers next year.

Lazzeri telegraphed to Larry MacPhail his acceptance of a one-year contract after telephone negotiations with the Brooklyn official yesterday.

He declined to disclose salary terms, but expressed satisfaction with the deal. He said he was most happy over the fact he will get back into player's harness.

He emphasized he was joining Brooklyn with the agreement he was to play second base regularly.

"Mr. MacPhail and I were in complete accord on the matter," he said. "He understood what I wanted and I told him I was certain it could produce for him. This is the break I have been waiting for."

Star of many world series while playing for the Yankees twelve years, Lazzeri drew his release and signed this year with the Chicago Cubs as utility player and coach.

After the season, he said he would not rejoin the Cubs because he "wanted to play, not warm the bench." He asked for and received his release from the Cubs last Tuesday, saying at that time he was considering several offers.

Lazzeri, despite his long service in the majors, said he thought he was "good for many years as a player."

U. C. L. A. Draws, 6-6, With Oregon State

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10—The Pacific Coast Conference football wars came to an end today as the Bruins of the University of California at Los Angeles and Oregon State's Beavers struggled to a 6-to-6 tie before a disappointing crowd of less than 10,000.

The Uclans rolled up 23 first downs to 3 and gained 388 yards to 114.

Oregon State scored in the first two minutes. Hal Higgins, 170-pound Beaver halfback, took the opening kick-off and ran 84 yards to the 6. Jim Kisselburgh plunged to the 3, and then Higgins carried the ball over the goal line.

Twice before the half ended the Bruins pounded within Oregon State's 1-yard stripe, but both times were tossed back by the Beaver forward wall. Near the end of the third period Kenny Washington, Negro star, and Fullback Bus Sutherland ran and passed deep into Beaver territory. In the fourth period they continued to the 7, from where Washington passed over the goal to Jim Mitchell, substitute end.

The line-up:

RANKINGS OUT FOR SUMO TOURNEY SOON

The rankings for the "Spring" tournament of the long-haired Japanese wrestlers at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku were announced by the Japan Sumo Association at 6 a.m. today.

Grand Champion Futabayama, who has won four championships in a row and hung up an all-time record of 66 consecutive victories, is again in the highest seat of Grand Champion (Yokozuna) on the East side.

NAME MISSED

Absent from the standings, a factor of great regret on the part of the fans, is the name of Grand Champion Tamanishiki who died from a brief illness last December in Osaka.

Burly and strong Nayoroiwa, stable-mate of Futabayama, has won a promotion, having been shifted as "Sekiwake"—third ranking from grand champion—from the West to the East side.

Ayanobori, one of the smartest wrestlers in the sport and a favorite among the fans, has been elevated from "Komusubi"—fourth ranking from grand champion—to "Sekiwake" on the West side.

Tamanoumi, now the leading wrestler in the Nishogaseki Camp which was managed by the late Tamanishiki, has been promoted to "Komusubi" on the West side.

Among the up and coming wrestlers, winning considerable promotion is Akinoumi of the Dewanoumi camp, who hails from Hiroshima prefecture. From 10th position in the list of "Mayegashira"—first ranking wrestlers—he is now in third position.

KASAGIYAMA

Kasagiyama, former Waseda University student, is back again in No. 1 position of the "Mayegashira" on the West side.

Banjaku, he of the great protruding belly, who had the tough luck of injuring his leg in the last tournament in May in a torrid bout with Tamanishiki, has been demoted from "Sekiwake" to No. 1 "Mayegashira" on the West side.

The Empty Grave That Never Will Be Filled

In the Panteon Nacional at Caracas, Venezuela, where the national heroes of Venezuela are buried, there is an empty grave to commemorate General Francisco Miranda (born in Caracas 1765, died in prison at Caracca, Spain, 1816). He is the hero of three revolutions in South America, North America and France. The grave will remain unfilled forever, because the mortal remains of the hero were thrown into a common ditch with the bodies of other prisoners and has been lost forever. On the side of the empty tomb, there is an epitaph to the effect that "Venezuela weeps because of her pain at not being able to find the remains of General Miranda, lost in a common ditch of the prison in which this great martyr of American liberty expired.

CAMBRIDGE SCORES, 8 TO 6 WIN OVER OXFORD FIFTEEN

London Times

LONDON, Dec. 7—It was the turn of Cambridge to confound some confident opponents and pretentious prophets in the University Match and, sure enough, at Twickenham yesterday they achieved both of these things by scoring one goal and one penalty goal (8 points) to two penalty goals (6 points).

The Cambridge victory was not so brilliant or so surprising as that of Oxford last year, but it was enough that a supposedly formidable Oxford pack were well held in the tight and in the loose, for this reduced a moderate attack to impotence and, according to the treacherous law of probabilities, made it quite likely that one or other of two match-winning backs like J. G. S. Forrest and R. B. Bruce-Lockhart behind the Cambridge scrummage would pull a close match out of the fire. As it happened, the two of them combined to do so, for Forrest made the run and Bruce-Lockhart did the backing-up in scoring the only try.

But what about the penalty goals? At one time it looked as if Cambridge would be overwhelmed by penalties, and perhaps even Oxford were not satisfied with a lead of six points gained in this way. The whistle, however, was far from leaving the Oxford misdemeanors alone, and before the interval a Cambridge penalty kick made the score read 6—3. Cambridge, having recovered to this extent, made an even more determined effort in the second half. Their try came early, and by converting it into a goal with a splendid kick from a wide angle, K. I. Geddes, who previously had landed the penalty, could claim to have done more than any one man to win the match. Excellent as he was, however, Geddes was not so obviously the great player as H. D. Freakes, the Oxford captain, at the other end of the field. As the game went, Freakes may well have regretted his decision to play at full-back instead of center, where last year his tackling alone was decisive, while his part in an attack which scored four tries was considerable. Now he accomplished some grand tackling, but had the vexation of watching the Oxford players, both in midfield and on the wings, as easily held and knocked over as those of Cambridge in 1937. Both sides tackled magnificently, but even in this respect Cambridge were rather better than Oxford on the balance. It cannot be said that, as a rule, Cambridge looked any more dangerous than Oxford—slow heeling alone prevented that—but this time they had the backs with the best ideas, and one of them came off.

THE DECIDING FACTOR

The scrummaging of both packs at least supported the previous form—it was definitely poor. Still, Cambridge, packing 3—2—3, did more for their backs than Oxford, packing 3—4—1, in the enemy half of the field and frequently—3—2—3, so far as one could see, when on the defensive. Neither pack really made things comfortable, much less easy, for their scrummage half-back, and no doubt this excused to some extent the general subjugation of the stand-off players and centers. The irony, of course, was that this time the Oxford midfield players, even I. H. Watts, showed so little imagination compared with those of Cambridge. The Cambridge passing even might have had better results if there had been more pace on the right wing. Their punting ahead, which at first merely presented Freakes with opportunities to display his prowess as a touch-finder of unusual length, did eventually improve and worry their opponents.

But, when all was said and done, it was the way in which Cambridge held the Oxford pack in the loose and mauls, which surprised most people. The holding was so complete that one hardly saw the great R. M. Marshall except at grips, while H. H. Pennington as a winger and follower-up had hardly a chance. It was I. W. Sutherland who worried that excellent player, J. Parsons, the most, and D. G. G. Coles, who alone, showed up at all in the open. Cambridge undoubtedly owed a great deal to W. O. Chadwick, their captain, who kept his men together splendidly. He could not make them first-class scrummagers, but at least they were better in this respect than Oxford, while as battlers and rushers they did much more than one was entitled to expect of them. The Cambridge forward effort, in fact, really was the deciding factor.

THE PENALTY GOALS

As usual, it was a fine day at Twickenham, and what little favor there was came from the wind, a diagonal and deceptive force. Oxford appeared to benefit most from it in the first half, when they played with the open South stand at their backs. The crowd was up to the modern average in both size and sound. An Oxford mark foiled the Cambridge kick-off, but the first incident of real note occurred when Geddes failed with a penalty kick at goal from 45 yards range, well within his compass for all the wind. Then Oxford began to press fairly hard and once Forrest got Percy by the legs in the nick of time. In support, too, of a clever touch-find by Thomas, the Oxford forwards, in scrummages and lines-out, kept Cambridge defending their goal-line for a number of critical minutes. Neither they nor their backs, however, showed any real signs of breaking loose. Forrest again held Percy, and one observed that Cambridge took scrummages whenever they could. A long drop at goal by Freakes, who in this way might have punished a bad defensive kick, and a 50-yard penalty kick at goal by S. Pether, which went short, threatened chiefly to end the Oxford series of attacks.

Cambridge did, in fact, clear their lines by passing, only for the attack to break down as usual, and, this time, present Watts with the chance to show his remarkable dexterity as a dribbler. This counter-attack was pulled up some 20 yards short of the posts, but the w[illegible] sounded a deadly note and Watts, after all, completed his effort by easily kicking a penalty goal. This occurred in about the seventeenth minute. Cambridge played up with excellent spirit after this setback, but their hardest rushes were pulled up well, their heeling remained fatally slow and once at least robbed the backs of a clear chance to press home a passing movement. An interception by Thomas cut short this period of Cambridge pressure in a lively manner and led to Cambridge being penalized some 45 yards from their own goal-line. The range was not nearly safe enough. Watts sent the ball well over the crossbar, and truly the match had taken a strange—some might have thought lamentable—turn.

Strange and lamentable or not, these penalty points happily did not spoil the match. Cambridge again played up with a good heart and, after a clever combined effort by K. D. Downes and Bruce-Lockhart—which reached the full-back and was foiled only by Thomas from behind—Oxford were penalized for foot up on their "25" line and Geddes kicked a goal from an angle more or less under cover of the West Stand. A few more minutes remained before half-time, and the play included a drop at goal by P. Sherrard and some exciting rushes and breaks-away by both sides.

Cambridge continued their recovery in the second half and, inside 10 minutes, had actually taken the lead—a winning, if precarious, lead of 2 points as it proved. A 50-yard penalty kick at goal by Geddes soon gave the Oxford supporters an anxious moment, but Freakes replied to a failure in a proper spirit, and, instead of touching down, set up a counter-attack in which Pennington was the last man pulled down, well inside the Cambridge half. Nor must one forget a grand tackle by Freakes which alone stopped Forrest from dashing over the goal-line far out on the left wing. This had preceded the penalty kick at goal.

THE CAMBRIDGE TRY

But not even Freakes could stop the next attack, in which Forrest was a prominent figure. Passing was started well from a scrummage, and Forrest showed a rare turn of speeding in rounding Percy and racing right away. Approaching Freakes he cleverly punted ahead inside of the full back, and, though it remained touch-and-go whether attack or defense won, the close backing-up of Bruce-Lockhart entitled that player to the glory of a touch down after a scramble on the goal-line. Even so, it required a great place kick by Geddes to place Cambridge in front, with rather more than half an hour still to go.

That long concluding period brought no definite results to either side, but, once, Geddes went dangerously near with a 50-yard penalty kick at goal; and, if few of the passing movements or rushes promised very much, it was grand tackling that stopped them and always there was a grim intensity about the forward play which held one's attention. Cambridge introduced the short punt ahead into their attack, and, on one occasion, Forrest covered 40 yards from a hand-on by Parsons. Percy, however, had his revenge and tackled him. The Oxford attacks promised rather less until Freakes moved up and joined in, but a hopeful period of pressure came to an end when a pass from Thomas went astray and Cambridge rushed clear.

There were then 10 minutes to go, and, though there was, of course, always the chance that someone would make a fatal mistake or someone else reach the heights on his own, the issue now seemed to belong to Cambridge. It was above all noticeable that the Oxford pack showed no signs of being able to do more than their resolute opponents. Cambridge held on to their two points and once more upset all calculations.

The teams were:—

OXFORD.—H. D. Freakes (captain) (Grahamstown, South Africa, and Magdalen), back; H. R. G. Percy (Uppingham and Brasenose), R. E. Luyt (Rondebosch, South Africa, and Trinity), T. J. Cowen (St. Bees and Trinity), and G. A. Hollis (St. Edward's, Oxford, and Christ Church), three-quarter backs; I. H. Watts (Sutton Valence and St. Peter's Hall) and T. R. Thomas (Llandovery and Hertford), half-backs; W. M. Jackson (Sedbergh and University), H. Muller (Pretoria University, South Africa, and University), D. G. G. Coles (Clifton and Trinity), H. H. Pennington (Uppingham and Brasenose), R. M. Marshall (Giggleswick and Trinity), forwards.

CAMBRIDGE.—K. I. Geddes (Loretto and Caius), back; J. C. Swanson (Fettes and Clare), R. B. Bruce-Lockhart (Edinburgh Academy and Corpus Christi), K. D. Downes (Rydal and Christ's), and J. G. S. Forrest (Strathallan and St. Catharine's), three-quarter backs; P. Sherrard (Stowe and Magdalene) and J. Parsons (Rydal and St. Catharine's), half-backs; J. H. Steeds (St. Edward's, Oxford, and St. Catharine's), W. O. Chadwick (captain) (Tonbridge and St. John's), P. J. Leishman (Oundle and Corpus Christi), C. L. Newton-Thompson (Diocesan College, South Africa, and St. John's), P. A. R. Lindsay (Harrow and Clare), T. R. Parry (Llandovery and Clare), M. Dods (Rugby and King's), and T. R. Juckes (Marlborough and Pembroke), forwards.

U.S. FOOTBALL GAME IN PARIS DRAWS 25,000

N.Y. Times

PARIS, Dec. 10—The first American football game played in France in many years drew 25,000 spectators to the Parc des Princes Stadium today and caused French critics to call the sport a combination of Rugby, soccer and basketball added to wrestling and bullfighting.

So great was the curiosity of the French to watch a game new to them that the turnstiles could not handle the crowds fast enough, and and 2,000 persons who had meant to pay admission grew impatient and resolutely "crashed the gate."

The occasion was an exhibition game between former United States collegians, including some All-America players, who, for the day, had split into two camps, calling themselves the "All-Stars" and the "New York Selection."

After the regulation four quarters, played in a downpour of rain on a muddy field, the former won, 25 to 14. The public, comprising mostly soccer or else Rugby fans, gave the game a most kindly reception, wildly applauding some of its most spectacular phases. Whether the game stands a chance to take on here remains to be seen. Still it has a better chance of becoming popular in France than baseball ever had, in the opinion of Parisians.

Before returning to the United States aboard the liner Washington at the end of the month the team will play four other demonstration games in the French provinces, including one in Marseilles. The star players include George Bell, Purdue center; John Michelosen, 1937 Pitt quarterback; Nat Pierce and Ed Franco, former Fordham linemen.

The squad is coached by Jimmy Crowley of Fordham and his assistant, Glen Carberry.

Budge Tops Vines Again in 3 Sets

Domei Tsushin

BOSTON, Jan. 4—Playing the same spectacular brand of tennis which won for him the major tennis titles of the world last year, Donald J. Budge, who last November turned professional, tonight made it two straight over Ellsworth Vines.

Budge had little difficulty in sweeping through to victory in three straight sets, 6-3, 8-6, 6-4. The lanky California redhead made his debut as a professional last night at the Madison Square Garden in New York by whipping Vines convincingly in straight sets.

12,000 WITNESS ICE, SNOW SHOW IN N.Y.

By FRANK ELKINS

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—Madison Square Garden's third annual ice and snow extravaganza, the North American Winter Sports Show and International Ski Meet, closed with a flourish last night as a capacity crowd of more than 12,000 watched the concluding performance of the five-day stand. Four thousand spectators, many of whom were children, attended the matinee.

Commencing with the colorful opening ceremony, the grand entry of contestants, with the unit of the first ski platoon from the Manlius School serving as color escort, the crowd got into the spirit of the setting by joining the band in singing "Jingle Bells" and a medley of popular Winter sports tunes.

Throughout the varied program, which included exhibitions and competitions in skiing, snow shoeing, figure skating and dog-sledding as well as an assortment of trick and comedy acts on skis and skates, the onlookers were spontaneous with their enthusiasm. So it was little wonder that the cast of athletes from Europe, Canada and America's foremost snow capitals turned in their most outstanding exploits of the carnival.

SOME ARE OVERANXIOUS

Once again the ski jumpers commanded most of the attention as they came soaring through the flood-lit arena for lengthy and stylish flights. Several of the talented "riders" apparently were too anxious to get more distance than the eighty-five-foot high hill's prone would permit and consequently landed in a heap almost on the very bottom of the 151-foot long run.

In general, however, the jumping was of an unusually high standard. The crowd was most liberal in its applause as such stars as Anton Lekang, Strand Mikkelsen, Billy Pulaski, Herb White, John Holmer, Clarence Oleson, Clem Curtis, Chuck Warren, Ottar Satre, Johnny Ericksen, the Swiss duo of Willy Bernath and Heinz von Allman and the Canadian Jack Miller came roaring down the snowpacked in-run and took off for spectacular leaps. Some of them were unable to stop their speed after landing and plunged into the padded end arena wall.

DRAWS MUCH APPLAUSE

It remained for Norway's virtuoso on wooden runners, Tomm Murstad, to gain the most acclaim. This 23-year-old Scandinavian has been a hit of the show for the past two years with his versatility. His jumps carried him virtually to the dip of the incline, while his thrilling downhill and slalom dashes were marvelous in execution. And when Tomm attempted his forward somersault, the most difficult feat of the program, the crowd gave him a tremendous hand for his courage.

The two girl ski jumpers, who have been improving with each performance, the 17-year-old Miss Ella Gulbrandsen of Norway and 16-year-old Miss Dorothy Graves of Greenfield, Mass., won many admirers with their efforts to duplicate the stylish performances of their male rivals. Although not getting the distance and grace in their flights as the men, the Misses Gulbrandsen and Graves negotiate steady leaps. When they joined the men in a series of double and triple jumps, the courageous girls were cheered to the rafters.

The instructive phase of skiing met with approval. While the Arlberg technicians, Benno Rybizka, Toni Matt, Otto Tschol and Franz Koessler, went through the various maneuvers, starting with the elementary snowplough and progressing to the highest degree of ski proficiency, the pure and parallel Christiania, the spectators watched with interest. The Sun Valley group as well as the Swiss representatives also gave their interpretations of the correct ski technique.

As an interlude to the skiing program came the figure skating, with the 13-year-old English girl, Miss Hazel Franklin, once again endearing herself with the crowd. Despite the limitations imposed by the reduced mirror-like rinks, this mite of a girl whirled her eighty pounds around with the versatility and technique of a more experienced skater. Through her difficult repertoire of spins, jumps, dance steps and double Salchows she skated. Needless to say she was called out several times.

The snowshoe races involving Chief Bright Sun and Douglas Eaton of Canada and Benny Richman and William Wallace of this country had the crowd in an uproar. Eaton, a consistent winner, captured the afternoon race of three laps in the best time of the meet, 1:43.2. After Dr. Beverly Sproul and Dave Irwin, known as "Irwin of the Arctic," gave dog-sled demonstrations, the spotlight was turned back to the skiing program.

A DIFFICULT COURSE

The downhill technique exhibitions, with some of the greatest names in the skiing world exhibiting their "vorlage" and fast "Christies," were exciting, but for thrills the slalom race and ski jump against time could not be surpassed. Arthur Schlatter set out an extremely difficult slalom course with a pair of flags, a "flush," on the hill's bottom proving too difficult for many of the skiers to pass through. Friedl Pfeifer, coach of the American women's skiing team abroad the past two years and one of the world's most daring and capable racers, was clocked in the phenomenal time of 0:10.3 in taking the afternoon slalom. Toni Matt, his Austrain compatriot, was second with 0:10.7. Murstad and Bernath followed.

In the jump against time, Murstad, who has dominated this event, gave another clean-cut exhibition, winning with a spectacular performance of 0:13.9, five-tenths of a second better than the time of Switzerland's most versatile skier, Heinz von Allman, who was runner-up. As usual, Murstad's long leap enabled him to gain precious time.

In the night competition Matt gave a remarkable demonstration of speed and technique in winning the slalom in the best time of the week, 0:07.9, one-tenth of a second better than that of the previous record-holder, Pfeifer, who was runner-up.

Murstad repeated his afternoon victory in the ski jump against time, winning in the record-equaling time of 0:13.3, two-tenths better than Bernath's clocking. The snowshoe race again went to Eaton, who finished in 1:41.3.

The crowd went wild just before the program ended when Murstad successfully completed a forward diving somersault, landing faultlessly on the transition slope for a perfect run-out.

The flag throwing by the Swiss ace, Franz Hug; the comedy skating exhibitions by Alf Trenkler of Vienna and the ski mimicry of the Seiler brothers, Lou and Jay, also enlivened the night program.

For spectacular feats the quintuplet jump, first time ever attempted either outdoors or indoors, with the talented Oleson, Mikkelsen, Lekang, White and Kenneth Suhl comprising the flying combination, was in a class by itself. Suhl's buffoonery on barrel staves gave the spectators plenty of laughs. The military maneuvers by the Manlius ski patrol and the finishing stream jumping and downhill running of the entire cast were other highlights of the fast-moving program.

ICE HOCKEY TITLE IS WON BY TEIDAI SIX

Tokyo Imperial University's sextet won the title of the fourth annual Four Imperial University Ice Hockey championship tournament Thursday at the Hosoo outdoor rink at Nikko by defeating Kyoto Imperial University's stick wielders by two goals to one in the final.

The Tokyo skaters clinched victory by scoring their two goals in the second period. Forward Sato took advantage of a miss by an opposing defense player and sent the puck into the net for the first score. Matsuda registered the other goal with a brilliant shot.

A goal by Forward Furuzawa of Kyoto Imperial cut the lead to 2-1 but thereafter there was no scoring on either side.

The line-ups follow:

Tokyo Imperial: Totsuki, Sato, Senishi, Matsuda and Takahashi, forwards; Dazai and Kobayashi, defense; Nonaka, goalie.

Kyoto Imperial: Iwata, Komatsu and Furuzawa, forwards; Suzuki, Okamura and Funazaka, defense; Hayashi, goalie.

The Gate of Paradise

Pakpattan or Ajudhan is a little town in the Montgomery District of the Punjab, India. It is famous for containing the shrine of Farid ud Din, a Mohammedan saint who died here in 1255. Farid purified himself, it is related, by a dint of continual fasting, until he could eat stones which turned into sugar in his mouth.

Pilgrims from all over India, Afghanistan and Central Asia flock here during the month of Moharram. On the principal afternoon and night of this festival, 60,000 people try to enter the shrine through a very narrow door in the adjoining wall. The door is known as the Gate of Paradise, because of the belief that whoever can force his way through the narrow opening during the prescribed hours, is sure of a free entrance into heaven. The crush is very great, and severe injuries result from the great crowding.

48,000 SEE N.Y. GIANTS WIN PRO FOOTBALL TITLE

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—The Giants and the Packers delved into the realm of fiction for a story-book football game at the Polo Grounds yesterday. In fact, fiction almost seemed too tame a medium for the thriller that the Eastern and Western champions of the National Football League staged for the world title to the delirious delight of a record play-off crowd of 48,120.

Right to the final seconds of a rousing battle of gridiron titans the tension was such that something seemed bound to snap. But when the final gun cracked the New Yorkers had conquered the ponderous Packers from Green Bay, 23 to 17.

Perhaps there have been better football games since Rutgers and Princeton started the autumnal madness sixty-nine years ago, but no one in that huge crowd would admit it. This was a struggle of such magnificent stature that words seem such feeble tools for describing it.

The Giants, opportunists to the end, blocked two punts for a 9-0 advantage. Back came Green Bay to make the count 9 to 7. The Maramen surged to a 16-7 advantage only to have the Packers reduce that lead to 16 to 14 at the half. Then the mastadons from Wisconsin flashed ahead in the third quarter, 17 to 16, but back came the Giants for 7 more points and the clincher.

FINAL PERIOD SCORELESS

The last quarter was scoreless, but no one dared leave the park. The Packers were hammering along the ground and through the airways, applying terrific pressure to the doughty defense of the pupils of Stout Steve Owen. One long pass could win the game for them, and the Green Bay Monsters were eternally shooting for that tally.

The clock showed a scant five seconds remaining and still the crowd refused to head for the exits. A touchdown was possible, late in the fray as it was. The ball spun through the arc-lighted field in a final desperate attempt for a tally. It missed its target and the Giants were the new champions, the first team in the history of the play-offs to win twice.

At the end the spectators were too emotionally exhausted even to try to rip down the goal posts. These stood untouched, silent sentinels of a magnificent football game.

What a frenzied battle this was! The tackling was fierce and the blocking positively vicious. In the last drive every scrimmage pile-up saw a Packer tackler stretched on the ground. Oddly, however, not one of them really was hurt physically, although the battering their spirits took was tremendous. As for the Giants, they really were hammered to a fare-thee-well.

Johnny Dell Isola was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital with a spinal concussion that just missed being a fractured vertebra. Ward Cuff suffered a possible fracture of the sternum.

HEIN RETURNS TO GAME

Mel Hein, kicked in the cheekbone at the end of the second quarter, suffered a concussion of the brain that left him temporarily bereft of his memory. He came to in the final quarter and finished the game. Leland Shaffer sustained a badly sprained ankle.

The play for the full sixty vibrant minutes was absolutely ferocious. No such blocking and tackling by two football teams ever had been seen at the Polo Grounds. Tempers were so frayed and tattered that stray punches were tossed around all afternoon. This was the gridiron sport at its primitive best.

In the first quarter the Giants were as perfect a team as ever had been assembled, a smooth, coordinated machine that made no mistakes. But in the second session the Packers, fired by a 40-yard touchdown pass, caught that same spark and it was hammer and tongs the rest of the way.

The Giants were ready for this game. When the chips were down they had everything. Quickly they fashioned 9 points in the first quarter when Jim Poole and Jim Lee Howell gave one of the finest exhibitions of end play ever seen. They smothered Packer rushes at every turn and then when Clarke Hinkle, an all-league fullback if ever there was one, attempted to punt Howell flashed in, blocked the kick and then caught the ball before it hit the ground.

DANOWSKI'S PASS SHORT

It was a first down on the Green Bay 7-yard line. The Giants gained a yard in two rushes. Ed Danowski's pass to Cuff was short and the one-time intercollegiate javelin-throwing champion dropped back to the 13 and booted a field goal.

Hardly had the crowd settled back when the harried Packers attempted to kick again. Cecil Isbell was back to punt, but Poole whirled in to block it and Howell made the recovery on the 27. In four plays the Giants were over the goal line. A Danowski-Tuffy Leemans pass picked up 5 yards. Leeman went up to the 6 on an off-tackle dash and then cut back once more off the Packer left tackle for a touchdown with a defender hangling to his jersey. Johnny Gildea missed the extra point.

But the thrills were not ended. In the second quarter Tiny Engebretsen intercepted a Giant pass that he carried to the Green Bay 49. In two rushes Andy Uram went to the New York 40 and then Arnold Herber dropped back and sailed a floater of a pass right down the middle. Carl Mulleneaux plucked the ball out of the air on the 1-yard line right between the goal posts as Gildea missed batting it down. Mulleneaux stumbled across and when Engebretsen booted the extra point the score was 9 to 7.

Not long afterward Hein recovered a fumble at midfield and the Giants were off to town again. The critical play was a pass that Leemans spun to Len Barnum. The Giant freshman caught the ball and fumbled it, but it went out of bounds safely. It was a first down for the Owen men on the 22, although the Packers stormed and raved that Barnum never had gained possession.

Barnum cracked tackle to the 29 and then Danowski, whose passing touched the heights of perfection at the right time, flicked one to Hap Barnard in the end zone for a touchdown. Cuff converted.

Then sensation piled on sensation as Isbell shot a short spot pass to Wayland Becker. He was in the clear when Soar came whirling up to nail him from behind on the 17 after a mad 66-yard gain. Five times in a row Hinkle slammed inside the tackles until he scored from the 2-foot line on a weak-side plunge. When Engebretsen converted again the Packers were back in the ball game.

Tension mounted during the intermission and when play was resumed a 34-yard off tackle romp by Bob Monnett was the backbone of a 63-yard drive that finally was stymied by the Giant defense on the 5. So Engebretsen booted an easy 15-yard field goal to give Green Bay the lead for the first time.

MARCH COVERS 62 YARDS

Aroused, the Giants stormed back in all their fury, a relentless advance of 62 yards. The clincher was a beautiful pass from Danowski to Soar. The ball was wafted through the air to the 6-yard marker, where Soar, Poole and two Packer defenders leaped for it. But Hank came down with the ball. He had a Packer defender hanging to one leg as he dragged himself across for the last big batch of points. Cuff converted.

Still the dizzy pace of this thriller was not to end. The infuriated Packers struck back, reaching the 32 before Danowski intercepted. In the fourth quarter Green Bay reached the 38 and then the 33. The next play was a Herber-Becker pass that was caught on the 17.

But Cuff flattened the Packer end with such a teeth-rattling tackle that the ball popped out of his hands, Kayo Lunday recovering. The break of the game came soon afterward. A Herber-Gantenbein aerial clicked, but Green Bay was using a spread formation and the flanking back had edged up so much that Gantenbein no longer was eligible.

To the intense dismay and violent chagrin of the Packers a successful play immediately was nullified and it was New York's ball at the point of the foul, the Green Bay 43. So enraged were the ponderous youths from Wisconsin at this ruling that they piled up on the next play to incur a further 15-yard penalty for unnecessary roughness. Cuff finally missed a 36-yard field goal and the Packers had only two chances left.

They fled 38 yards to the Giant 43 before yielding the ball on downs. Then, as the hands of the clock crawled toward the end, the Packers moved 40 yards to the Giant 40 before the gun cracked for the grand finish of a grand game.

Giant heroes were too numerous to mention. There were Poole and Howell at the ends, Widseth, Parry, Cope and Mellus at the tackles, Dell Isola and the hard-working Orville Tuttle at the guards and Hein, magnificent as always, at center. Cuff, Soar, Leemans, Danowski and the rest were great backs.

As for the Packers, they had their stars in Bud Svendsen at center, Buckets Goldenberg, Engebretsen and Will Letlow, guards; Gantenbein and Becker, ends; Hingle, Herbe Monnett and Joe Laws in the backfield.

The line-up:

Vines Finally Gets Match From Budge In Third Meeting

Domei Tsushin

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5—Ellsworth Vines, considered the world's greatest professional tennis player, tonight came back into his own and defeated J. Donald Budge in three sets, 6-3, 6-3 and 6-4 in their third match.

Budge, first player to score a grand slam by winning the French, Australian, British and American singles championships in one year—he did it in 1937 and 1938—made his debut as a professional a few days ago and defeated Vines. He repeated it in their second meeting.

KYOTO MEETS OKAYAMA GIRLS IN CAGE FINAL

The Sanyo Higher Girls School and the Kyoto Prefectural First Higher Girls School teams entered the finals of the ninth annual All-Japan Women's open basketball championships Friday afternoon at the National Gymnasium at Hitotsubashi, Kanada. The two teams were scheduled to meet at 4:30 p.m. today for the title.

The former did so by defeating the Yamagata Omei Club team in the semi-finals by 27-15 while the latter downed the Niigata Higher Girls School quintet, 26 to 23, in a game that required an extra period.

The Niigata Higher School girls were on the shy end of a 12-6 score at half-time but they came to life after Kyoto had forged into a 17-11 lead in the second half. Resorting to a strong defensive game, the Niigata girls rallied and with Miss Ono, center, leading the attack, they led 18-17. The score then went to 20-all and to 22-all to necessitate an extra period. Both teams registered a free throw in the first minute of play in the extra session. Miss Narahara, center, won the game for Kyoto by coming through with a field goal in 2 minutes 40 seconds and converting a free throw as well.

The results of the third round games were:

Sanyo Higher Girls (Okayama) defeated Niitsu Higher Girls (Niigata), 28-26.

Yamagata Omei Club (Yamagata) defeated Kyoto Prefectural Second Higher Girls (Kyoto), 39-19.

Niigata Higher Girls (Niigata) defeated Fukuoka Higher Girls (Fukuoka), 36-24.

2 EVENTS ADDED TO I.C.A.A.A.A.

By JACK CUDDY

PALM SPRINGS, Cal., Dec. 16—Under the blazing sun of this desert retreat a blond boy who at 23 is almost an old man in his chosen sport was laying the framework for a last—and deadly serious—attempt to win the tennis championship of the world. This time he thinks he can do it.

His name is Gene Mako and wherever the game is played he is known as one of America's truly fine doubles players. But he has tossed that reputation into the ash can and said that from here on out he will campaign strictly on his own—in singles. Doubles will be only a sideline.

"I almost lost track of singles after Don Budge and I teamed up seven years ago," he explained, after two hours of strenuous practice at the racquet club. "In doubles my job, first, last and always, was to hold up my end of the combination. So I didn't take singles as seriously as perhaps I should have. But my attitude changed completely in just a week."

He entered the American nationals at Forest Hills last Fall.

"I knew at the time there was an even chance that Don would turn professional when he quit. I intended to quit, too, and go into music. I've always played the drums and for two years I've wanted to organize an orchestra of my own. A week before the nationals I walked into a New York agency and began lining up a band. I figured it would be my last important tournament."

STARTED PLAYING

Then he relaxed and started playing good tennis.

"You remember how I went straight to the finals, where Don beat me in four sets. Don wasn't going easy on me, either, and I'm proud of the battle I gave him. Under the circumstances he could not go easy on anybody, he had too much to lose. Everybody, including myself was surprised by my showing.

"So I started thinking and decided that if I could play that well in the nationals maybe I could play better at Wimbledon next Spring. And Wimbledon is the world championship. The only drawback was my serve, which was weak."

Now he is taking care of the service.

"I've been taking lessons for two months from Les Stoffen, and Les knows all there is to know about serving. I'm improving rapidly but I still have the fault of slipping back into the old groove when I press. Last week I won a match easily. Then my opponent and I put a dollar on a second match, and even though the stake was trivial, I pressed and my service broke down. However, I think I can cure that habit by constant practice."

After the service is whipped he will be ready for Wimbledon.

"I'm not cocky about my chances but I believe they're as good as anyone's. Bobby Riggs will be awful tough. So will the Austalians and Germans. With Henner Henkel continually improving and the chance that Gottfried von Cramm may play again, Germany is going to be hard to whip in the Davis cup next year. But I think I can do it. At least it's worth this one more try."

With that Mako went back to the court and started again to work on the service.

MEIJI'S SKATERS LEAD IN RACES

Meiji University's skaters just about won the seventh straight speed skating title in the 14th annual All-Japan students championships Friday at Datenoumi, near Kamisuwa, by sweeping through the first three places in the two events, the 1,500-meter and 5,000-meter events on the opening day. The result was that Meiji scored a total of 30 points for a 20 point margin over Waseda in second place. Keio registered two points. Rikkyo and Hosei failed to score.

1,500-meter race: 1. Ahn Ju-ki (Meiji); 2. Sai Ka-shu (Meiji); 3. Ri Jin-gen (Meiji); 4. Kunio Nando (Waseda); 5. Shoichi Sugiura (Waseda); 6. Katsuhisa Yamashita (Waseda). Time: 2 mins. 33.9 secs.

5,000-meter race: 1. Cho Yu-shoku (Meiji); 2. Jin Kan-shoku (Meiji); 3. Sadayoshi Izumiya (Meiji); 4. Nakakusu (Waseda); 5. Fukai (Keio); 6. Otsuka (Waseda). Time: 9 mins. 21 secs.

JAPANESE BEAT SAN JOSE, 4-2 AT WRESTLING

Domei Tsushin

SAN JOSE, Jan. 5—The visiting Japanese amateur wrestling team tonight defeated the San Jose State College grapplers, considered the strongest on the Pacific Coast, four matches to two before 2,000 spectators.

Captain Eiichi Kazama of the Japanese team took the measure of Emilio Bruno, welterweight champion of the United States, in the main bout of the evening. Thus did he establish for all time his superiority over the American. Kazama first defeated Bruno in the Summer of 1937 when the latter was a member of the first American wrestling team to invade Japan under Coach Roy Moore. Then last Summer Bruno went to Japan again with another American team and failed to revenge his defeat of the previous year.

Fortune Masdeo, featherweight, who performed in Japan in 1937 and 1938 along with Bruno, decisioned Hayashi, and Rush, a welterweight, won the other bout for the San Jose team on a fall in five minutes from Kusubayashi.

The results were:

Flyweight: Ota (Japan) won on fall from Lacy, 13 minutes.

Bantamweight: Michiaki (Japan) won on fall from Albright, 3 minutes; Matsuuchi (Japan) won on fall from Fiebig, 8 minutes.

Featherweight: Masdeo (San Jose) decisioned Hayashi.

Welterweight: Rush (San Jose) won on fall from Kusubayashi, 5 minutes; Kazama (Japan) decisioned Bruno.

MAKO AIMING TO COP WORLD'S TENNIS CROWN

Two important program changes—the addition of the 1,000-yard run to the indoor championship meet and inclusion of the mile relay in the outdoor meet—were ratified by the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A., governing body of track and field for the leading Eastern colleges and several prominent "outlanders," in a special convention at the Hotel Roosevelt recently at New York.

There long had been agitation for these two events, particularly the former, which was deemed necessary by many to create a better balanced program for the indoor meet. With the 1,000, the I. C. A. A. A. A. indoor games, which have lagged behind the big invitation meets as an attraction largely because of program deficiencies, take on added color.

FIVE FIELD EVENTS ON CARD

Now they will include individuals running tests at all the standard indoor distances—60 yards, 600 yards, 1,000 yards, one and two miles—as well as a 60-yard high hurdle race, one and two mile relays, and five field events, the high jump, pole vault, broad jump, 16-pound shot-put and 35-pound weight throw.

Besides filling a gaping hole in the track part of the program, the 1,000 will open up the meet for a better team battle by adding five more scoring places. In past years supremacy often went to colleges which had little balanced team strength but whose few talented individuals rolled up points in the field events, which to many track-minded persons seemed to have too great a bearing on the final outcome.

The outdoor meet until now was composed wholly of individual events, consisting of the standard running races from 100 yards to two miles, the high and low hurdles and the seven traditional field tests. The mile relay will give some of the less talented middledistance runners a chance to break into the scoring.

KIRBY'S PROPOSAL APPROVED

A proposal that coaches be allowed to vote as representatives of their colleges was defeated, Gustavus T. Kirby's compromise motion, whereby the Track Coaches Association be granted two voting representatives at meetings and also two votes on the board of directors, being approved in its place. The association voted to give member colleges the option of naming one graduate and one undergraduate or two undergraduate delegates to all conventions and to permit graduate delegates to cast votes in the absence of undergraduates.

Randalls Island was approved as the site for the 1939 outdoor championships, May 26 and 27 being set as dates. Thus the meet will remain in New York for another year at least. After disappointing crowds here in 1937 and 1938 there was talk of returning it to some campus site, Penn or Harvard, its old alternate homes, or Princeton.

A motion that the maximum number of starters allowed from one college in the varsity or freshman cross-country run be increased from the present limit of seven to nine was defeated, although the proposal retained the current provision that only the first five of one team to finish be counted in the scoring.

WON WOMEN'S CAGE TITLE

The Kyoto Prefectural First Higher Girls basketball team which won the national championship Saturday at the National Gymnasium at Hitotsubashi, Kanda, by beating the Sanyo Higher Girls School quintet, 19-16, in the final. Holding the trophy at left, kneeling, is Captain Hisako Narahara, who was the outstanding star for her team.

KYOTO GIRLS BEAT SANYO, 19-16, TO WIN CAGE TITLE

By LESLIE NAKASHIMA

One side must lose for there can be no two winners in a game but every time that I see the finals of a national women's basketball championship tournament, I wish for that impossibility. For the members of both teams, in most all cases still students in the girls high schools, try so very hard to win, fighting to the last ounce of their energy, and the losers are so disappointed. And when victory had been so close, say by the slim margin of two or three points, nobody can blame the girls for breaking down in tears. The worst part of it all is that both teams are made to line up in the center of the court immediately after the final whistle for the ceremony of the presentation of trophies. The losers try their best to keep a smiling front while the winners are awarded one trophy after another. To the losers, in most cases a mere certificate for runner-up honors.

Such was the championship game between the Sanyo Higher Girls School of Okayama Prefecure and the Kyoto Prefectural First Higher Girls School of Kyoto—finalists of 19 teams—Saturday afternoon at the National Gymnasium at Hitotsubashi, Kanda. The Kyoto girls won by scoring three points to nil in the extra period of three minutes, the final scoring being 19 to 16.

KYOTO GIRLS OLDER

The Kyoto girls were a bit older than the Sanyo representatives, accordingly heavier and taller, though in Miss Mineko Waji, center, and Miss Tokiko Nogami, the latter had two tall players. But the two forwards, Misses Sumiko Misawa and Chimaki Ishii, were very young and short, and Miss Toshie Nakajima, captain and guard, was about the smallest players on the floor. But there was no doubt about it that she was the fastest of them all and the most efficient handler of the ball. She is a good shooter too, and it is this writer's opinion, that the victory might have been Sanyo's had she elected to take more chances at the basket.

With the score standing at 15-14 in favor of Kyoto with less than four minutes to go in the second half, Miss Nakajima dribbling down the middle of the court sent a long shot clean through the basket. This would have put Sanyo into a 16 to 15 lead but a double foul was called and the field goal disallowed. Miss Ishii of Sanyo missed the free throw but Miss Tamaki Higuchi of Kyoto converted to put her team into a 16-14 lead.

The girls of both teams were giving all their worth to wind. With two minutes to go, Miss Higuchi of Kyoto fouled Miss Waji, Sanyo center, in the act of shooting. It was her fourth and she was omitted from the game. Two free throws were allowed. Miss Waji rose to the occasion by sinking both through the basket to put the score on a 16-all basis. Both teams tried desperately to register the winning basket but the ball spun around the hoop and bounced back and time was up to necessitate an extra period.

EXTRA PERIOD

Sanyo took the ball on the tip-off to start the overtime session. When the team should have continued to pass the ball around to work for an opening, it resorted to long distance shooting, too eager to score, and lost the ball to Kyoto. Sanyo put up an airtight defense and Kyoto too was guilty of long shooting. It was Sanyo's ball again under the Kyoto goal but Miss Kimiko Waji, who had substituted for Miss Misawa at forward, fouled Miss Hisako Narahara, the Kyoto captain with less than a minute to go. The latter converted to put Kyoto into a one point lead. Miss Kimiko Waji came pretty near redeeming herself but luck was not with her. An excellent shot by her looked like a sure basket but it spun around the hoop and fell into possession of the Kyoto team. Miss Fujinaga of Kyoto clinched victory by scoring a field goal just before the gun.

The Sanyo girls, who had appeared on the floor 45 minutes before game starting time at 4:30 p.m. and gone through an impressive workout, outplayed the Kyoto girls in the first half and led 8 to 7. Miss Waji, the center, had scored all points for Sanyo. One of her three fields goals was a sensational one-handed toss. Miss Narahara of Kyoto did likewise to show the excellent brand of playing.

SANYO ERRS

Sanyo erred heavily by turning to a conservative game with resumption of play when it should have continued its all-offensive tactics. For it sported a better passing attack. Kyoto took advantage of it and with Miss Narahara and Miss Higuchi unleashing a strong combination, Kyoto forged into a 13-9 lead but Sanyo rallied and cut it down to 14-13 at 10 minutes or two minutes after the third quarter.

New York Learns Schmeling Will Try To Regain Crown

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—Contradicting the suspicion that Joe Louis knocked him into retirement when he stopped him in 2 minutes 4 seconds of fighting last June at the Yankee Stadium, Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion of the world, is contemplating a resumption of his ring career.

From no less an authority than Billy McCarney, who once shared with Joe Jacobs the management of Schmeling, comes the word. In a letter under date of Nov. 22, received here yesterday, "the old professor," as McCarney is affectionately known to intimates in the boxing game, writes as follows:

"I met Max Schmeling ten days ago in Berlin and he told me he is going to fight again. Max will take two fights over here and, if he is satisfied with his condition, will go to America and try for another fight with Joe Louis. Max is confident he can beat Louis if given another chance."

Those who saw the German battered down without striking a blow in his own defense last June might question the advisability of another American visit, although it would not be surprising if he fought his way to one or two good purses. Whether he could beat Max Baer, Tommy Farr or the promising Lou Nova is another matter.

BIG LEAGUES MAY ADOPT SAME BALL

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—Having completed their preliminary tune-ups while standing on the sidelines during the recent convention of the minors in New Orleans, baseball's major league club owners are advancing on New York today to stage this week their biggest oratorical display of the year—the annual Winter conclaves of the National and American circuits.

Both leagues will sit in separate sessions on Tuesday and Wednesday at the Waldorf-Astoria and on Thursday the magnates of the two loops will hold a joint session at the Roosevelt with Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis presiding.

Once again the game's most vital implement, the ball itself, will come up for discussion. Radio also is expected to rear its head and invite pointed remarks. Practically all of the amendments to the complex major-minor agreements, adopted last week by the minors in New Orleans, will be ratified, and a spirited discussion among the major leaguers to increase their player limit from 23 to 25 also is in prospect.

And while these momentous matters keep the magnates engrossed behind locked, soundproof doors, the lobbies as usual will be buzzing with field managers, business managers, coaches and scouts, all straining arches and vocal organs to the breaking point in their all-absorbing pursuit of swinging trades.

GRIFFITH LEADS MOVEMENT

Action on the ball is to be confined to the American League, where a determined movement, led by President Clark Griffith of the Senators, is understood to be under way to curb the home run proclivities of the Yankees by making the ball less lively. To this, of course, the world champions are violently opposed and in this they are believed to have some support from clubs which, while in accord with certain modified changes, are just as firmly opposed to tinkering with the insides of the present ball.

The solution likely will be found in the adoption by the American Leaguers of the ball now in use in the National. Tests last Summer revealed that the resilient qualities of the two balls were practically the same, the only difference being in an extra strand of stitching and a slightly thicker cover which enabled National League pitchers to obtain a better grip.

Inasmuch as the Yankees have already intimated that the National League ball would be acceptable to them in the nature of a compromise, its adoption seems most likely.

The only time the two circuits have ever been in accord on the ball was during the 1936 and 1937 seasons, when both used the present American League sphere. A year ago at the Chicago meetings, however, the National decided this ball had proved a little too lively and adopted one which, while remaining unchanged inside, offered the pitchers a better hold.

LEAGUE CHIEFS IN ACCORD

Both of the league presidents, Will Harridge of the American and Ford Frick of the National, are understood to be in favor of restoring the 25-player limit which was in vogue before the era of depression and retrenchment forced a reduction to 23.

Although still bristling over what they term a direct violation of an agreement on the part of Larry MacPhail when he announced the Dodgers would broadcast their home games at Ebbets Field next season, the Giants and Yankees are not likely to make much headway even if they elect to launch a formal protest.

Inasmuch as all other clubs already are definitely committed to radio, it is unlikely the two New York clubs will get any support in that direction and the upshot of it all probably will be that the Dodgers will go right ahead broadcasting, leaving their two neighbors to do as they see fit. It is even considered likely that, if inducements are finally boosted to where they simply cannot be ignored, the Yanks and Giants will fall in line.

Although the trading mart at New Orleans drifted back to the whisper and rumor stage after Bill Terry's spectacular three-for-three deal with the Cubs, a decided pick-up is in prospect this week. Terry himself has indicated he is far from through.

The Giant skipper is still gunning for a first baseman and a second baseman and possibly a pitcher. In fact, the way has been cleared whereby Zeke Bonura, Washington first sacker, may now escape the American League waiver chain and land in the Giant net. Definite action on this transaction is expected today.

Meiji Routs Kyoto, 26-3, to Clinch Japan Rugby Title

Meiji University's ruggers won the national championship Saturday at the Hanazono grounds in Kyoto by taking the measure of the Kyoto Imperial University fifteen by 26 to 3 points.

The Kanto collegians scored five tries to lead 15-0 at half-time. They registered two tries and one goal in the second half as against one try by Kyoto Imperial after resumption of play.

Only Two Points Separate Leaders In Hockey Scoring

MONTREAL, Dec. 13—Only two points separate the leader and runner-up in the close National Hockey League scoring race with Johnny Gottselig, the Chicago sharpshooter, holding top position with 15 points and Tommy Anderson, of the New York Americans second with 13.

Gottselig picked up two assists over the last week of play according to statistics released last night by the league. Anderson failed to add to his six goals and seven assists, good enough to tie Gottselig for the lead a week ago.

The Black Hawks' star is tied for the lead in goals with Toe Blake of the Montreal Canadiens. Each has seven. Bill Cowley of the Boston Bruins has a clear lead in assists with nine.

Blake, Cowley and Nels Stewart and Eddie Wiseman are tied for third place in the scoring with 11 points each. Alex Levinsky, although he stayed out of trouble last week, still is top man in penalties, the Chicago player has spent 22 minutes in the penalty box.

Meiji University won its seventh straight title in the 14th annual national intercollegiate speed skating championships Saturday at Tadenoumi, near Kamisuwa, by making a clean sweep in the 10,000-meter race of the three events closing the meet. The final scores were: Meiji 60 Waseda 32, Keio, 7 Rikkyo 0, and Hosei 0.

Kasuhisa Yamashita of Waseda won the 500-meter race in 44.9 seconds for a new intercollegiate record.

Cho Yu-shoku, the Meiji star, captured the 10,000-meter event in 18 minutes 58 seconds.

The Waseda team of Nakamura, Higuchi, Yamashita and Nando won the 2,000-meter relay in 3 minutes 3.5 seconds.

Patty Berg Picked No. 1 Woman Athlete In U.S.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—Patty Berg is the overwhelming choice of the nation's sports experts as the No.1 woman athlete of 1938.

Forty-five of the 67 sports critics who participated in the eighth annual Associated Press poll selected Miss Berg as their first choice on the basis of a sensational golf campaign that led the young Minneapolis girl to the National championship.

It was not a race at any stage. With the addition of second and third place ballots, Miss Berg rolled up 164 points to leave her closest competitors, Helen Wills Moody and Katherine Rawls Thompson, far behind.

Mrs. Moody, whose dramatic tennis comeback was climaxed by victory over Helen Jacobs in the all-England finals at Wimbledon, finished in a tie with Mrs. Thompson, unquestionably the country's greatest allaround swimmer.

Mrs. Moody gained a 10-4 margin over Mrs. Thompson in first places, but the great swimmer, selected as the No. 1 woman athlete in the 1937 poll, was given wider support in seconds and thirds.

Alice Marble, who regained the women's singles tennis championship, finished a strong fourth with 52 points.

All told 18 athletes figured in the balloting with golf and tennis monopolizing 11 places. Tennis, placing three in the first nine, made the best showing although outnumbered by golf, six to five. The complete tabulation:

	First	Tot. Pts.
Patty Berg, Golf	45	164
Helen Wills Moody, Tennis	10	58
K. R. Thompson, Swimming	4	58
Alice Marble, Tennis	5	54
Helen Jacobs, Tennis	0	9
Sonja Henie, Skating	1	9
Mrs. Lela Hall, Trapshooting	1	3
Stella Walsh, Track	0	3
M. Babe Didrikson, All-Around	0	3

Two points each: Margot Lamb, tennis and squash racquets; Molly Tyson, outboard motorboating; Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite, golf; Marjorie Gestring, diving; Janet Shock, golf.

One point ach: Anita Lizana, tennis; Mrs. Dan Chandler, golf; Marion Miley, golf; Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, golf.

YAMAGISHI AGAIN HEADS TENNIS RANKING

The Japan Lawn Tennis Association's ranking committee, headed by Ryuki Miki, had no trouble ranking Jiro Yamagishi of Keio University, Davis Cup star, as No. 1 player for the men's singles in 1938. Rankings were released Monday after they had been approved at a meeting of nation-wide directors of the association on Sunday.

Together with Yasuo Tsuruta, also of Keio University, Yamagishi was picked a member of the No. 1 doubles team for 1938.

TAKAMUKU SHOOTS UP

The biggest advance in the rankings was made by Tetsuo Takamuku of the Koshien Club, from third to second place, in the singles, outstepping Fumiteru Nakano and Yasumine Kuramitsu, members of last year's Davis Cup team. As a matter of fact, the committee saw fit to leave the latter two players out of consideration on the ground of insufficient competition. Takamuku opposed Yamagishi in the finals of the national tourney. He also won considerable fame by beating Franjo Kukuljevic, the Yugoslav star, while the latter was on a visit here last November.

Tsuruta, Yamagishi's doubles team-mate, was ranked third in the singles, rising two notches higher than the 1937 rankings.

Miss Toyoko Kimata of the Koshien Club was ranked No. 1 for the women's singles for the second successive year.

Top ranking place in the women's doubles went to Mrs. Hara and Mrs. Oura of the Denyen Club.

Ward Renominated By Tennis Group

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—Holcombe Ward of New York City will head the United States Lawn Tennis Association for the third successive year, if the report of the nominating committee is confirmed at the annual meeting of the Association in New York City, Feb. 4.

A large majority of the other officers also have been re-nominated, the only change being the selection of Gordon E. Small of Cincinnati to succeed Ralph W. Westcott of Chicago as secretary. Others who will come up for election again include Joseph W. Wear, Philadelphia, and Lawrence A. Baker, Washington, as first and second vice-presidents, respectively, and Russell B. Kingman, Orange, N. J., as treasurer.

To fill the four regional vice-presidents positions created at this year's meeting, the committee nominated: Frank S. Sulloway, Concord, N. H., North Atlantic Division, William P. Jacobs, Clinton, S. C., Southern Division; Chester C. Johnson, Chicago, Central Division, and Dr. Sumner Hardy, San Francisco, Pacific Division.

Rikkyo won 9 goals to one. Waseda swept through Meiji, 6 goals to one, in the other game.

FULL-TIME PRO ELEVENS FOR U.S. COLLEGES PROPOSED

N.Y. Times

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10—Professional full-time football teams for universities unable to reduce their present scale of competition were suggested today by Dr. Clement C. Williams, president of Lehigh University, in a speech at the annual meeting of the Middle Atlantic Collegiate Athletic Conference.

Asserting that the big universities "apparently have cast their policies irrevocably along the lines of high-power athletics," he contended that leadership in cleaning intercollegiate sports of subsidization and attendant evils must come from the small colleges.

But, he went on, if the universities "with high-powered athletes" should wish to "restore their competition to normal student teams," they might "authorize strictly professional, full-time teams to carry their representative colors and furnish spectacular holiday exhibitions just as professional baseball and football teams represent cities."

"With popular pressure removed," he said, "the intercollegiate competition might then return to the character of student sports."

Under present conditions, Dr. Williams declared, the large universities "can no more reduce their scale of competition than can the major powers of Europe, under their pressures of prestige and commercial demands, scale down their armaments."

"The large investment in plant and staff, together with the demands on the part of alumni and constituencies, will probably prevent any radical departure toward an experimental program on the part of the large urban universities," he added.

The smaller colleges, however, Dr. Williams suggested, by seeking improvement in the athletic situation, "have an opportunity to be restored to the dignity of educational institutions instead of serving as management bureaus for crack athletic teams."

He offered three suggestions, namely:

"1. Small colleges should generally compete within their own athletic classes.... rated by the seating capacity of their football stadium, the annual budget of the athletic department and the enrollment of undergraduate men.

"2. A further development of supplementary teams for competition, involving additional teams. Classes according to weight should be encouraged.

"3. If practicable, I should like to see the relative athletic prowess of schools determined in part by the representative or average performance of the entire student bodies."

Dr. Williams warned that "so long as there is a lack of candor pervading athletic circles and the cunning circumvention is countenanced by coaching associations, and so long as a coach is esteemed according to his proportion of victories regardless of his practices, just so long will the lament of dishonesty in college athletics continue."

Delegates reminded the conference that Johns Hopkins already had eliminated all admission charges to games and guarantees to visiting teams and that Swarthmore College had virtually done so. Mark McIntosh, athletic director at Swarthmore, said admission there was charged only to football and basketball games and that the revenue from them was slight. He added: "Student fees amount to approximately $5,000, while we get $24,000 annually from the college. In effect, Swarthmore thus spends $85 per student each year for athletic education."

Colonel Nelson A. Kellogg of Lehigh, president, and other officers of the conference were re-elected.

PRINCETON OUT FOR SWIM TITLE

N.Y. Times

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec.—Coach Howie Stepp of Princeton is not hesitant in announcing that he is optimistic over the Tigers' chances of winning the Eastern Intercollegiate Swimming League title this season. A wealth of capable material is on hand to inspire his enthusiasm as he prepares the team for its debut early next month.

This enthusiasm is shared by all who have seen the natator's drills in Brokaw Pool two floors below street level. Princeton's chief cause for hope is the fact that it has the national intercollegiate record-holding medley relay team, each of whose members is one of the country's leading swimmers in his event.

In addition, there are four promising sophomore sprinters, who set national intercollegiate yearling standards last year, as well as a good supply of veteran and sophomore talent in the other events. So Coach Stepp does not feel he is overconfident in making his claims, because his optimism is based on past performances of his charges.

The only worry of the mentor is the fact that Captain Dick Hough, intercollegiate champion in the 200-yard breast-stroke and member of the medley trio, is still on the inactive list. But that concern is expected to pass in time for the season's opened and almost certainly by Feb. 11, when the league curtain raiser will take place with Navy.

Hough recently was hurt in a touch football game and has been walking on crutches. Although he has not completely recovered, his condition is not serious. The team's only weak spot is expected to be in the fancy dive.

With Hough on the medley team are Al Vande Weghe, intercollegiate champion and record holder in the 150-yard back-stroke, and Hank Van Oss, free style expert. This combination was timed in 2:53.6 in the league's championships last March at Harvard.

Much is expected from the sophomore, Ed Parke, holder of the national freshman marks in the 100, with 0:54.4, and in the 220, with 2:18.2. Parke, with Norman Cosby, Art McClure and Hugh Bell, all of whom have returned, was a member of the 400-yard relay team which achieved a record 3:45.9 a year ago. Other sophomores counted upon are Sheffield Halsey in the distance swims, Scott Scammell in the back stroke and Jim Green in the sprints.

O.O.C. TO CLOSE OFFICE JAN. 25

Following a small "sayonara party" to be given around January 20, the Olympic Organizing Committee, which is established in the South Manchuria Railway Company's building at Toranomon, Tokyo, will go out of its existence officially on January 25, according to Domei.

The Committee, soon after the Government's decision last Summer to abandon the Olympiad, has been preparing pamphlets in Japanese, English and French explaining why Japan decided to decline the honor of holding the games in Tokyo. Posters and five-ringed banner designed for the use of the Tokyo games were sent to the Finnish Olympic Organizing Committee in Helsinki, while other posters and pictures collected by the Committee will be preserved by the Japan Athletic Association. About 30,000 copies of pamphlets reiterating the spirit of Olympiad were also distributed to elementary and secondary schools all over the country by the Committee.

The regatta course in Toda and cycling grounds in Shibaura are the remnants of the unfinished Olympiad in Tokyo.

ALL-STAR FIVE PICKED FROM GIRLS' TOURNEY

Both the Kyoto Prefectural First Higher Girls School and Sanyo Higher Girls School teams, champions and runners-up respectively, have placed two players on the all-star team selected of the 19 teams that competed in the 9th annual All-Japan women's open basketball championships last Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the National Gymnasium at Hitotsubashi, Kanda.

The selection was made by a committee of the All-Japan Basketball Association on Monday.

NARAHARA AT CENTER

Captain Hisako Narahara, who led the Kyoto quintet to a 19-16 victory over the Sanyo team in the finals last Saturday, has been placed at forward instead of center, the position she played throughout the series.

Miss Tamaki Higuchi, whose excellent combination with Miss Narahara was a potent factor for the guard positions. She was a tower of strength for Kyoto on the defense and equally dangerous on the offense.

The pivot position was won by Miss Mineko Waji, the Sanyo center. Single-handedly she scored 10 of the 16 points for Sanyo in the game against the Kyoto quintet and was high scorer. She can toss them in almost as well as any male star.

Captain Toshie Nakajima of Sanyo, light and small in stature, was awarded the other guard position. A game fighter, fast and an excellent shot, there is no better player in the country.

The other forward position went to Miss Yuki Ono of the Niigata Higher Girls School.

SECOND TEAM

The following were picked on the second team:

Forwards: Miss Chimaki Ishii (Sanyo Higher Girls School) and Miss Masuko Nakamura (Kyoto Prefectural First Higher Girls School.

Center: Miss Kimiye Arakawa (Niitsu Higher Girls School).

Guards: Miss Shinako Ichiyanagi (Aichi Second Higher Girls School) and Miss Masako Fuse (Niigata Higher Girls School).

Picked as utility players were the Misses Sumiko Misawa (Sanyo Higher Girls School), Tamiye Yamamoto (Niigata Higher Girls School) and Iku Fujinaga (Kyoto Prefectural Higher Girls School).

MEIJI WINS ICE EVENTS FOR THIRD YEAR

By capturing second, third and fourth places, Meiji University's team unseated Keio, titleholder for the last ten years, as champions in the figure skating competition of the 11th annual national intercollegiate ice championships Tuesday at the Shibaura rink.

By virtue of this victory, plus its triumph in the speed skating events last week near Kamisuwa, Meiji won the combined ice championship for the third straight year.

MEIJI'S FIRST TITLE

It was Meiji's first title in the figure skating competition. Hasegawa of Keio won first place with a total of 1,386.9 points, but he owed his victory to his performance in the school figures on Monday. For Arisaka of Meiji, who placed second, registered the high score of 591.1 points in the free skating on Tuesday as contrasted to 548.4 by Hasegawa.

Rikkyo University's sextet displaced Waseda as champions in the ice hockey competition by winning three goals to two Tuesday night at the Shibaura rink.

The game was a battle royal all the way but Rikkyo's passing attack was superior to Waseda's and in the long run was the winning factor. The forward combination of Sunada, Tanaka and Onikura kept the Waseda sextet on the defense during the greater part of the contest.

Sunada registered the first goal of the game after two minutes in the first period with a brilliant long shot. But Waseda retaliated without loss of time when Goalie Yamamoto's stick failed to stop the puck which had caromed from the wall. Rikkyo forged into lead at 10 minutes. Sunada dribbled through the Waseda defense and then passed to Tanaka, who attempted a shot for the net. The puck swerved to the left and bounced from the wall. But Onikura was Johnny-on-the-spot and pushed the puck into the net for goal.

RIKKYO SCORES

Rikkyo scored a beautiful goal in the second period to lead, 3-1. After five minutes of scrimmaging, Onikura penetrated the Waseda defense and passed to Sunada in front of the Waseda goal. A reverse shot by Sunada split the net.

Waseda scored the only goal in the third period, resorting to a five-men attack. Nakagawa pushed the puck into the net after a furious scrimmage in front of the Rikkyo goal in 12 minutes. Waseda was only a goal behind but failed to come through.

The line-ups were:

Rikkyo: Forwards: Tanaka, Sunada, Omura, Goto, Takahashi and Onikura; defense: Tani and Naito; goalie: Yamamoto.

Waseda: Forwards: Yoshijima, Onikura, Nakagawa, Shimazu, Shichida Kawanishi; defense: Ichikawa and Suzuki; goalie: Onoda.

TAKAMUKU ENTERS MILITARY SERVICE

Tetsuo Takamuku of the Koshien Club, who has been ranked No. 2 player in the men's singles for 1938 and is one of Japan's best hopes for the Davis Cup, entered military service at Fukuoka on Tuesday. He is in a certain aviation corps.

Education Minister General Sadao Araki sent a special message of felicitation to the tennis star, it is reported.

Another athlete entering military service on Tuesday was Sunao Ishiharada, Meiji graduate and star swimmer at the 11th and 12th Olympic Games. He is with a certain heavy artillery company.

Two Olympic Posts For Mrs. Cromwell

Christian Science Monitor

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—Drs. Doris Duke Cromwell yesterday agreed to become chairman of two American Olympic Committees. In a cable from Honolulu to the American Olympic Committee, Mrs. Cromwell accepted the chairmanship of a committee of 100 women who will organize to raise funds for the participation of the United States girl swimmers in the 1940 Olympic Games at Helsinki, Finland.

Mrs. Cromwell also accepted the position of Honorary Chairman of the Olympic Women's Swimming Committee. This committee will determine the time, place and method of holding tryouts to determine the Olympic Team, and will have jurisdiction of the team after its selection.

Mrs. Cromwell's acceptance of the two posts came after she had held a conference in New York with Mrs. Ada Taylor Sackett of the American Olympic Committee shortly before leaving for Honolulu. She is very much interested in the sport of women's swimming and has been a generous contributor to the Olympic fund in the past.

Going, Going, Gone

Up in Maine the railway station had been displaced by an old passenger coach.

The man from New York looked at it with disdain and finally approached the ticket agent. "Is this the best depot you can offer the traveler?" he asked.

"Guess you're about right," answered the agent. "We used to have a real good depot here years ago. But the boys—well, they just naturally whittled her down."

PROOF OF A SPORT 5,000 YEARS OLD

Not much different from Japan's indigenous sport of sumo (wrestling), participated in by those long haired giants twice a year at the Kokugikan Bowl at Ryogoku, Tokyo—the Spring season will start on January 12—is this as shown by a small copper group discovered at Khafaje, in Mesopotamia, by a joint expedition of the Pennsylvania University Museum and the American School of Oriental Research. Few products of craftsmanship in high antiquity have a more modern touch than this little group, in copper, representing a pair of wrestlers. As pointed out by Mr. P. Delougaz, director of the excavations at Khafaje, the identity of attitude in the two wrestlers suggests a sport with precise rules, rather than a free catch-as-catch-can type of contest. Regarding the large vessels on the wrestlers' heads, Mr. Delougaz raises the question whether they formed a feature of the sport, or were added by the artist for some practical purpose connected with temple ritual. If the latter view is correct, there are many modern analogies, such as lamp-holders, ash-trays, and other types of ornament for desk or toilet-table. BONURA SIGNS WITH GIANTS; SHIFTS FROM A.L.

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—Zeke Bonura, for the last five years one of the American League's hard thumping first basemen, will train his guns on National League pitching in 1939, for he is now a member of the Giants.

The deal, rumored in the making for several days, was closed yesterday when the Senators, having obtained waivers from the seven other clubs in the Will Harridge loop, sold the first sacker to the New York club for two players and a sum of money which, while not revealed, is understood to be about $25,000.

The players the Giants have given up are Tom Baker, young right-handed pitcher whom Manager Bill Terry obtained from the Dodgers in the deal that sent the veteran Freddie Fitzsimmons to Brooklyn in 1937, and Jim Carlin, a rookie first baseman who was out on option with Richmond last season.

GIANT MACHINE OVERHAULED

The transaction, coming almost on the eve of the major league meetings which open at the Waldorf-Astoria tomorrow, was seen as the forerunner of spirited action in the trading mart this week. It also marked the second major operation to be performed by the Giants' wily old colonel upon his machine, which, more because of physical incapacitation than for any other reason, tumbled out of the National League pennant race last September.

The first, completed at New Orleans last week, brought Billy Jurges, Frank Demaree and Ken O'Dea from the Cubs in exchange for Dick Bartell, Gus Mancuso and Hank Leiber.

Although it had been predicted freely for several days while efforts were being made to waive Bonura out of the American League, closing of the transaction between Owners Horace C. Stoneham and Clark Griffith while they attended the Giant-Packer football game at the Polo Grounds nevertheless was a surprise to local observers. For it reveals Terry, hitherto a stickler for fine defensive play, in an entirely new light as he revamps his Giants with a clouter of renown but a first baseman whose fielding still leaves much to be desired.

MANAGER AT CONFERENCE

Terry, who arrived in the city yesterday and also attended the conference that closed the deal, was highly elated over the move.

"I know all about his fielding," he said, "but we're prepared to worry along on that. What counts most is that we've finally got somebody who I am sure will give that ball plenty of riding."

On this, at least, records hold exceptional promise. A native of New Orleans, Henry L. Bonura, who was 30 years old last Sept. 20, broke into the American League in 1934 with the White Sox after five seasons of apprenticeship with New Orleans, Indianapolis and Dallas.

A right-handed hitter, with 200 pounds of power behind him, Zeke soon commanded attention with his clouting despite the fact that spacious Comiskey Park in Chicago has never been regarded as a haven for home-run hitters. He batted .302 that season and drove in 110 runs. In 1936 he boosted his mark to .330 and drove in 138 tallies, while in 1937 he finished fourth in the American League batting averages with .345, only a point behind the Yankees' Joe DiMaggio.

SLOW START THIS YEAR

At the close of that season he was traded to the Senators for First Baseman Joe Kuhel, a deal that for weeks after the start of the 1938 campaign had both sides ranting in despair. For both players slumped horribly.

After mid-season, however, Bonura finally found himself, and, though still hitting in a long-range park, Zeke finished the season with a record of 22 home runs, 113 runs driven in and a batting mark of .291.

Experts are predicting he will smack more than thirty-five homers at the Polo Grounds and thereby solve a first-base problem that has perplexed Terry over since the old Colonel himself stepped down from active service after the 1933 world series.

Although Terry still has Johnny McCarthy and Sambo Leslie, with whom he has been struggling along the last two seasons, the Bonura deal is seen as the end of the Giant trial for faithful Ol' Sambo. However, McCarthy, on whom Terry has not given up entirely, doubtless will be retained to spend most of the Summer with Jersey City.

Japan Is Invited To Henley Regatta

An invitation to compete in the centennial races of the Henley Regatta on the Thames, for eight days starting on July 5 next, has been received by the Japan Rowing Association.

According to information received, plans are being made by the Regatta Committee to make the 100th anniversary of the races a most spectacular event. Accordingly, invitations have been dispatched to the leading rowing countries. The British King and Queen will honor the races with their presence.

A decision is expected to be reached shortly by the Japan Rowing Association, which is keen on accepting the bid, especially in the interest of promoting friendly British-Japanese relations.

HELEN MOODY STANDS OUT IN '38 COMEBACKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—Heroine of the outstanding sports comeback of 1938 is Helen Wills Moody.

The talented San Francisco tennis player earned the No. 1 bracket in a close race with Jimmie Foxx, clouting first baseman of the Boston Red Sox.

Twenty-four of the 70 sports critics participating in the eighth annual Associated Press poll cast their first-place ballots for Mrs. Moody and her achievement in winning the Wimbledon championship after a three-year lapse. Twenty-four other first-place votes went to Foxx for recapturing the American League batting crown for the first time since 1933—and that after a poor season in 1937. But second and third place support swung the decision to Mrs. Moody, who rolled up 113½ points against 97 for Foxx.

Points were awarded on a 3-2-1 basis with each expert naming three comebacks in the order of his choice.

The result marked the second time in four years that Mrs. Moody figured prominently in the "comeback" section of the poll. In 1935, when she emerged from a two-year retirement to defeat Helen Jacobs for the Wimbledon title, Mrs. Moody finished second.

Jerome Herman (Dizzy) Dean, who followed a late-season comeback with a well-pitched, though losing, game in the world series, took third place in the final standings by a narrow margin.

The poll covered a wide range of "comebacks," 42 in all.

The tabulated results:

BUDGE VOTED BEST ATHLETE IN U.S. IN '38

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—For his unprecedented achievements on the tennis court, Don Budge remained at the top of the list as the country's foremost athlete of 1938, the first to win that distinction twice since the poll was started in 1931.

In a nation-wide poll conducted by The Associated Press, the red-thatched Californian received top ranking from twenty-six of the sixty-three participating sports writers and enough seconds and thirds to roll up 122 ponits on a basis of 3 for first, 2 for second and 1 for third. During the year the lanky tennis ace won the Australian, French, British and American amateur titles before turning pro for $75,000.

Budge's triumph, however, was not as great as last year when he was selected almost to the exclusion of all others. This time he had a battle right down to the final ballots with Henry Armstrong, great Negro fighter, who likewise created history by holding the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight championships at the same time.

EIGHT WRITERS NAME PITCHER

The Pacific Coast boxer polled 19 first-place votes and finished with 104, only 18 points back of Budge. There was a big gap between Armstrong and Johnny Vander Meer, Cincinnati southpaw who hurled two successive no-hit, no-run games for another record. Johnny was the first choice of eight writers and altogether polled 37 votes for third place.

Glenn Cunningham, whose 4:04.4 clocking at Hanover, N. H., set a new world indoor mile record, received three first-place votes, but Davey O'Brien, Texas Christian's All-America quarterback, coupled enough seconds and thirds with his two No. 1 votes to beat the veteran track star for fourth.

Single first place ballots were received by Ralph Guldahl, winner of the National Open Golf championship for the second straight year; Sam Snead, golf's leading money winner; Hank Greenberg of the Detroit Tigers and Jimmy Foxx of the Boston Red Sox.

BASEBALL SETS PACE

Baseball led all other sports in the number of nominees, being represented not only by Vander Meer, Greenberg and Foxx, but also by Fred Hutchinson Seattle pitching sensation; Bill Lee, Chicago Cubs' right-hander, and Joe Gordon, Yankees' second baseman. Golf ranked second with Guldahl, Snead and Charley Yates, British amateur champion as representatives.

The tabulated results:

	Firsts	Points
Don Budge, tennis	26	122
Henry Armstrong, boxing	19	104
John Vander Meer, baseball	8	37
Davey O'Brien, football	2	28

Ralph Guldahl, golf	1	14
Sam Snead, golf	1	13½

Jimmy Foxx, baseball	1	6

Three Points Each—Hank Luisetti, basketball; Marshall Goldberg, football; Fred Hutchinson, baseball.

Two Points Each—Wiliam B. Woodsent to Beaumont; Tommy Armour, professional golfer.

The Mountain-Crossing Ship

To celebrate the completion of the Bonneville Dam, the Ocean Freighter Charles L. Wheeler, Jr., on July 9, 1938, sailed from the Pacific Ocean up the Columbia River about 200 miles to the new inland seaport of The Dalles, Oregon. In order to do this, the vessel had to pass through two mountain ranges, the Coast Range and the Cascade Range.

CAMBRIDGE TOPS OXFORD, 7.5-4.5 IN CHESS MATCH

The Times, London

LONDON, Dec. 17—The annual match between Oxford and Cambridge "Past" was played at the City of London Chess Club on Saturday. This is always one of the most enjoyable "friendly" matches of the year, and it has an atmosphere all its own. The games are played with proper seriousness, but nobody minds very much about the result. Cambridge won this time by 7½ to 4½. This gives Cambridge a total of 12½ points since the War, against 5½ for Oxford.

Cambridge had an imposing-looking team, headed by the British champion. In the absence of an ex-champion, W. Winter, G. E. Smith, who came in as a substitute, won a fine game against that formidable veteran E. M. Jackson. Smith may only play one game a year, but it is almost always a good one, as Oxford have reason to know. Oxford also had a good team, headed by two internationals, but they were not quite so strong on the lower boards.

The full score of the match was as follows:—

Cambridge 'Past'
1. C. H. O'D. Alexander (King's)	½
2. P. S. Milner-Barry (Trinity)	1
3. G. E. Smith (St. John's)	1
4. J. M. Bee (St. Catharine's)	½
5. Dr. M. Benger (Corpus Christi)	0
6. P. Reid (St. Catharine's)	1
7. Dr. J. Bronowski (Jesus)	½
8. R. L. Mitchell (Trinity)	½
9. E. A. Coad-Pryor (Trinity)	0
10. L. Illingworth (Trinity)	½
11. D. B. Schultz (Magdalene)	1
12. V. A. Coates (Sidney Sussex)	1
Total	7½
Oxford 'Past'
1. T. H. Tylor (Balliol)	½
2. G. S. A. Wheatcroft (New Col.)	0
3. E. M. Jackson (New College)	0
4. A. R. N. Cross (Worcester)	½
5. R. H. Newman (Worcester)	1
6. F. G. T. Collins (Balliol)	0
7. W. E. B. Pryor (Pembroke)	½
8. P. W. Sergeant (Trinity)	½
9. J. F. P. Deller (Lincoln)	1
10. W. A. Perkins (St. John's)	½
11. A. H. Crothers (Queen's)	0
12. B. Bleaney (St. John's)	0
Total	4½

Oxford had White on the odd-numbered boards.

The game on the top board between Alexander and Tylor was well worthy of the occasion. It was a spirited cut and-thrust affair with both sides vigorously attacking the enemy's king. Tylor missed one winning chance, but Alexander might possibly have won the end-game with best play, and a draw was a fair result.

Wheatcroft outplayed Milner-Barry in the opening, but then made an unnecessary and unsound combination which left his opponent with a passed pawn on the Q R file. Apart from this Milner-Barry's position was still much inferior. He staked everything on advancing the pawn, which bore a charmed life. It survived many complications, and eventually won him the game.

Smith gave up his queen for two rooks in the middle game, and though there seemed little in it for some time, he eventually worked up a fine attack. Jackson made an ingenious counter-attack, but there were too many threats and the verdict went against him on the adjudication.

Cross won a pawn against Bee after a hard fight. At the adjudication it was very difficult to demonstrate a win in the end-game, and since the result could make no difference to the match, Cross gracefully conceded his opponents a draw.

Benger played the enterprising but unsound Albin Counter-Grambet against Newman, and gave up two pawns for an attack. He was only able to recover one of them, and Newman won the ending after staving off the attack.

Reid won nicely with a vigorous attack against Tims Collins, but both players were agreed that the Black defense was indifferent. On the seventh, eighth, and 10th boards three hard-fought games were drawn; Mitchell was a pawn up against P. W. Sergeant, but could not win the minor piece end game. Oxford won well on board nine, but Cambridge scored on the last two boards; on the 11th the Oxford player lost a piece by mistake, and on the 12th he sacrificed one for an attack which proved unsound.

The following games was played on the first board:—

Otherwise the main threat is 38. . . Kt×B and 39. . . B×P. and there is no draw by perpetual check if White goes to the eighth rank with his queen.

13-DAY SUMO TOURNAMENT STARTS AT 3 A.M. TODAY AT RYOGOKU

The 13-day professional sumo (Japanese wrestling) tournament started at 3 a. m. today with the beginners engaging in a virtual free for all competition.

What an unearthly hour some may think, but it was specially set at that time to serve entertainment to the rabid fans who had stood in line all night to get their tickets. Except for the boxes, all seats are sold at a flat rate of 50 sen, first come first served, on the opening day. At the previous tournament in May last year, it had been boosted to 70 sen but the Japan Sumo Association put it back at 50 sen.

The regularly scheduled bouts started at 7 a. m. and were expected to end by 7 tonight. The contestants are extra careful on the opening day all anxious to start auspiciously with a victory, the result of which many of the bouts go to the maximum starting time allowed of 10 minutes for the top-notchers. It is five minutes for those right below them, and none for those down in the ranks. But the bouts are started in quicker time each day as the tourney progresses that the last bout is over by about 5:30 p. m.

Approximately 300 wrestlers appear in competition each day.

Biggest interest in the tourney is whether any wrestler will be able to put a stop to the winning streak of Grand Champion Futabayama, who in winning his fifth straight championship last May hung up his 66th consecutive victory in the titular bouts.

Two grand champions are missing from the tourney—Tamanishiki, the only one with almost an even chance of beating Futabayama, died from a brief illness last month, and Musashiyama is resting because of an injured arm—and so Futabayama is a hot favorite to clinch his sixth straight championship and go through the tourney with another undefeated record.

MACK IS 76 BUT WILL TRY AGAIN FOR TITLE

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17—Connie Mack, ranked by some with Billy Penn and Ben Franklin as Philadelphia's all-time leading citizen, celebrates his seventy-sixth birthday two days before Christmas with the hope Santa Claus will bring him a winning baseball team in 1939.

He has won more world championships than any other manager and hopes to win still more.

Connie is the oldest man in baseball, but refuses to be old. He goes in for the youngest players and the newer ideas and declares annually he won't retire until the rocking chair or a sick bed get him.

So Connie approaches his seventy-seventh year with vigor and the same optimism that he had at the start of his baseball career fifty-six years ago. Although his teams have been in or near the cellar since 1932, "the grand old man" sees no reason why he can't enjoy another run of triumphs such as that which gave him nine American League pennants and five world championships.

WILL OBSERVE DAY QUIETLY

He will observe his birthday quietly, without fuss or feathers. If he follows the routine of past years, he will go to his office in Shibe Park, dictate to his secretary, eat his invariable milk-and-crackers lunch, chat with sports writers and and return to his Germantown home for dinner with his wife and children.

The panorama of Mack's life is the panorama of American baseball. At twenty-two, he caught for the Meriden, (Conn.) team and later for Hartford in the Connecticut League. Then he went to Buffalo, Washington and Pittsburgh. He was rated one of the cleverest catchers in the game. During forty-five years as a manager he has been ejected from a ball park only once—for disputing an umpire's decision while managing Pittsburgh.

Connie started the present Philadelphia Athletics in 1901 and won a pennant the next year. He became famous as a wrecker of baseball teams as well as builder. In 1914, after Boston defeated the A's in a world series in four straight games. Mack scattered players to the four winds, selling the cream of the crop for huge prices. He did it again in 1931. His success stopped abruptly but he goes on hoping.

McGRAW BUILT SYMBOL

When Connie put his first Philadelphia team on the diamond, John McGraw snorted, "The American League has a white elephant on its hands."

So Connie adopted a white elephant as his team symbol and proceeded to give the lie to his fellow-Irishman, whom he rated as baseball's greatest manager since the turn of the century.

The aging dean of baseball managers still attends every game he can. A sober business suit and a "Hoover collar" are his uniform. He sits in the dugout, tabbing each play on a score card, signaling advice to players. As testimony to his youthful ideas, he recently supported night baseball. Many of his players are recruited from college teams.

Other than baseball, Mack has few interests. He doesn't care for alcohol, tobacco, profanity or big parties. He used to play golf frequently, but is seldom seen on the links nowadays. He likes the theater, films, and Dickens.

GOT BOOK AWARD IN 1930

In 1930 Cornelius McGillicuddy, the name Mack got from his parents, poor Irish immigrants, was given the Book Award as the man who had done the most for Philadelphia in the last year. His team had won a world championship and was on the way to another.

It was a long stride from the Massachusetts shoe factory bench where the wiry Connie—"Slats" his playmates once called him—worked to support his brothers and sisters.

And some day Philadelphia may replace the giant William Penn statute atop City Hall with one of Connie Mack, wagging a score card. That is the way millions of big league fans have seen him for more than half a century.

REICH ENTERS DAVIS CUP PLAY FOR 1939

Domei Tsushin

BERLIN, Jan. 10—Germany today formally announced her intention of participating in the Davis Cup series for the coming year.

Germany will have a mighty good chance of winning the Davis Cup this year if Baron Gottfried von Cramm, who was out of competition last year because of a year's imprisonment slapped on him, competes. Having released from prison recently, he has not yet made up his mind about the Davis Cup, it is said. Another report recently said that he had written to his friend, J. Donald Budge, now a professional, that he had decided to drop out of Davis Cup competition.

With von Cramm as No. 1 man plus the presence of Roderick Menzel of Czechoslovakia and Henner Henkel, Germany would have a formidable team.

The defender, the United States, will sorely miss Budge. Whether Robert Riggs, the rising young star, will be able to fill his shoes is a moot question.

Many experts figure Australia as the winner of the Davis Cup this year with John Bromwich and Adrian Quist, reputed the world's best doubles team.

RED CATCHER LEADS HITTING IN NATIONAL

By RUD RENNIE

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—It was no secret, but the National League batting averages, published today, make it official: Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati's catcher and big bomber, is the league's leading batsman this year with an averageof .342.

Lombardi, appearing in 129 games and coming to bat 489 times made 167 hits for a total of 256 bases, including thirty doubles, one triple, and nineteen home runs. This record is his best in a major league career in which he has fallen below the .300 mark only twice in eight years.

Lombardi did not make any sacrifice hits, nor did he steal any bases. He just pounded the ball, beating out Johnny Mize, the St. Louis first basemen, for the batting championship by five percentage points.

SECOND CATCHER TO LEAD

Lombardi is the second catcher since 1900 to win the batting championship. Oddly enough, the only other catcher to gain this honor was also on the Cincinnati club, Eugene Hargrave was the first catcher to be top hitter. He led the league in 1926 with an average of .353.

Lombardi is thirty years old. In addition to gaining the leadership in batting, he was named as the National League's most valuable player

Of the 258 players who participated in games last season, only fifteen were .300 hitters. The top five are Lombardi, Mize, John McCormick, of Cincinnati; Joe Medwick, of St. Louis, and Arky Vaughan, of Pittsburgh.

The Cincinnati Club, finishing fourth, had a notable season if for no other reason than one of its members led the league in hitting and another, McCormick, a first baseman, was the only player in the league to make more than 200 hits.

McCormick, in his first full year in the league got 209 hits. He came to bat most times, 640; and made most singles, 160. He and Harry Craft, a teammate, also were the only players in the league to participate in every one of their team's games.

OTT SCORED 116 TIMES

Among the Giants, Mel Ott, outfielder, infielder, and perennial slugger, was outstanding. Ott scored 116 runs, which was the most scored by any one in the league last season. He also is the league's home-run king with thirty-six. And he had the most valuable player committee men scratching their heads to decide whether he or Lombardi was the more valuable man to his team.

This is the second time in Ott's career that he has won the home-run championship of his league. It also was his seventh year to make thirty or more homers. He now has a life-time total of 342 of those things.

With Ott leading the way, the Giants, for the second year in succession, led in making most home runs with a team total of 125. They have now led the league in this department sixteen times.

Mize, a big, powerful left-handed batter, battled Lombardi right up to the last day for batting honors. In so doing he hit for most total bases (326) and led the league in triples with sixteen. He also hit three home runs in one game twice within a week.

FORTY-SEVEN DOUBLES FOR MEDWICK

Medick, an outfielder, and a famous batter and player, the last of the old Gashouse Gang, batted .322 and led in making doubles with forty-seven.

Ott, Harry Danning and Joe Moore were the only Giants to bat .300 or better. Ernie Koy, the speedy outfielder acquired from the Yankees in the other league, was Brooklyn's leading hitter with .299.

Stanley Hack, third baseman, and Carl Reynolds, outfielder, were the only members of the pennant-winning Chicago Cubs who finished in the .300 class.

The St. Louis Cardinals led in batting They also made most runs, most hits, most total bases and, for the third consecutive year, led the league in making doubles with 288.

The Brooklyn Dodgers made most three-base hits (seventy-nine) and stole most bases (sixty-six).

The Clubs established a record by making twelve runs in the eighth inning of a game with the Phillies on May 5.

Del Young, of the Phillies, was the most successful bunter, laying down fifteen sacrifices.

Hack, of the Cubs, was the league's leading pilferer, with sixteen stolen bases.

Gil Brack, of the Phillies, tied a record when he hit two doubles in one inning of a game with Pittsburgh.

HE BEAT THE 'INVINCIBLE' FUTABAYAMA

FUTABAYAMA IS DEFEATED FOR FIRST TIME IN 3 YEARS

Grand Champion Futabayama was defeated Sunday in the fourth day's bouts of the 13-day Spring Sumo tournament at the Kokugikan. It is destined to be the biggest sports story of the year.

The stalwart that put an end to Futabayama's winning streak from the seventh day of the Spring tournament of 1936—an all-time record of 69 consecutive victories in the official bouts—was 25-year old Akinoumi, who hails from Ujina, Hiroshima prefecture.

Akinoumi's victory was not altogether a surprise, for he had been considered among the 10 wrestlers that had a possible chance of defeating Futabayama. And it was the first time the two had met as Akinoumi, having received considerable promotion because of his fine performance in the last tournament in May last year, is taking on the big fellows for the first time.

Itsutsushima, a stable-mate of Akinoumi, when questioned before the opening day of the current tournament about his chances against Futabayama, for instance, said he had no chance and that the only wrestler with any sort of a chance was Akinoumi. He virtually predicted Akinoumi's maneuvers that won him the scintillating victory on Sunday.

FUTABAYAMA CALM

As usual, Futabayama was calmness itself in the "shikiri" or process of getting started. He stood up on Akinoumi's signal after nine false starts. Akinoumi attacked with his right hand at Futabayama's throat, intent on thrusting his left through Futabayama's defense for a grip on the latter's girdle. Futabayama retaliated and shoved Akinoumi back and slipped in his right. Akinoumi promptly did likewise with his left. Grasping the back of Akinoumi's girdle with his right arm, instead of his favorite left, Futabayama resorted to his usual tactics of pulling it with the view to forcing Akinoumi to an upright position and then attempting a throw. But in doing so, Futabayama had his left foot a bit too much in the front. The alert Akinoumi did not let the opportunity slip by. Promptly he hooked his right leg onto Futabayama's left, called the "Sotogake" or "outside hook" in Sumo parlance, then attempted a body throw with his left arm and down went the mighty body of Futabayama to throw the bowl into a bedlam. The invincible Futabayama finally had been beaten.

Cushions came flying into the ring. One spectator, too worked up by the unexpected defeat of Futabayama, fell from the gallery on the third floor and was seriously injured.

Futabayama, forced to leave the ring as the defeated without receiving the declaration as victor from the referee for the first time in three years, maintained his poker face as he left for the dressing rooms. Akinoumi, overwhelmed by the victory that had been the ambition of all the wrestlers, sobbed, overcome with joy.

THANKS TEACHER

First thing Akinoumi did after changing his clothes and escaping from his admirers was to go to the Tokyo Hospital at Shiba to thank his teacher and benefactor, Fujishima, the former Grand Champion Tsunenohana, who signed him as a pupil while on a visit to Hiroshima in 1931 and saw that he became a member of the Dewanoumi Camp. Then he wired to his mother in Hiroshima of his victory.

Far from being grief-stricken was Futabayama. Sunday night, beaming, this usually poker-faced grand champion said he was relieved from the heavy strain he had been under of trying to maintain his undefeated record. "I knew all the time I might lose any day, and it has happened," he said. "Akinoumi is young and a strong wrestler. Why did I lose? I'm going to study it carefully."

It was a bad day for the high ranking wrestlers, Mayedayama, a champion, was defeated by Banjaku after a torrid bout. Once they grappled each other on equal terms, Banjaku's giant belly proved too much for Mayedayama. Kasagiyama, the former Waseda student, outsmarted the veteran champion, Kagamiiwa.

The young Ryuozan turned the tables over Nayoroiwa, Futabayama's stable-mate and considered a future champion. And Komanosato, Tokyo born and not a bit flashy, shoved the strong Tamanoumi out of the ring for victory.

MINANOGAWA WINS

Grand Champion Minanogawa won his fourth straight bout by handling the up and coming Kashimanada without trouble.

The results of the bouts after the intermission follow:

Matsuragata defeated Katsuragawa.
Yamatoiwa defeated Takanobori.

YANKEES JOIN GIANTS IN BAN ON NIGHT BALL

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—Even though more teams than ever before will engage in night baseball games next year, the Giants and the Yankees will take no part in it.

Horace Stoneham president of the Giants, said positively yesterday that the Giants would not play night baseball at home or abroad.

Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the world-champion Yankees, was equally definite. "The Yankees," he said, "will not play any night games."

The colonel also revealed that there was no agreement, oral or written, on this united stand taken by the two New York clubs.

When Stoneham made his announcement he did not know what the Yankees intended to do. So he added:

"Of course, if the Yankees play night games in the Stadium, we may have to follow suit."

YANKEES STICK TO DAYLIGHT

But the Yankees feel that they can get along all right in daylight and refuse to take part in the rush now that the barriers against night ball in the American League are down.

It was believed that the Yankees might play one night game in Cleveland, where a record gate would be almost certain in the huge Municipal Stadium. But even the prospect of a record gate does not move the colonel from his stand.

With lights already installed in Cincinnati and Brooklyn and planned for Shibe Park, where the Phillies also play in Philadelphia, and a greater number of night games likely to be played next year than in any previous year, the Giants may be the only National League team which will not schedule at least one game under lights.

The Giants' decision not to play at night will be especially interesting to Larry MacPhail, general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, the lamp-lighter who brought this antidote for failure into the major leagues.

MacPHAIL'S HOPES DASH

MacPhail had hoped to get the Giants for a night game in Brooklyn.

How long the Giants and the Yankees can stand firm against the encroachments of night baseball remains to be seen. Meanwhile, more power to them!

The Yankees have not decided what they will do about permitting radio broadcasts of their games in the Stadium. Presumably, they are in the same boat with the Giants who will permit broadcasting if they can get enough money for the radio rights. "Enough" to the Giants means "a lot." If they can get $200,000 for the radio rights they will permit broadcasting. If they won't bother with it.

Meanwhile the Dodgers stand for progress. They have lights, radio everything—everything but a pennant-winning ball club.

YANKS PICKED LEADING TEAM IN U.S. IN '38

NEW YORK, Dec. 14—By a margin as decisive as their American League and World Series triumphs, the New York Yankees were named today as the outstanding sports team for 1938.

Joe McCarthy's stars who created a new all-time record by beating the Chicago Cubs, four games to none, for their third successive world baseball championship, were named at the top of the heap by 61 of the 67 sports editors participating in the eighth annual Associated Press poll. Three other sports editors picked the Yankees for the No. 2 spot and three for No. 3, thus giving the baseball titleholders a total of 192 points out of a possible 201. Points were awarded on the basis of three for No. 1 ranking, two for No. 2 and one for No. 3.

Football gained the next three places with Texas Christian's unbeaten Horned Frogs as runner-up to the Yankees with 45 points. Close behind came Notre Dame and Duke whose unbeaten, untied and uscored on Blue Devils will play Southern California in the Rose Bowl Jan. 2.

Notre Dames' high finish came as a surprise in view of its defeat by Southern California on Dec. 3, but could be explained partly by the fact that a considerable number of ballots were cast prior to that date. The support given Notre Dame in early ballots probably otherwise would have been split by Texas Christian and Duke.

Navy's oarsmen, Poughkeepsie champions, landed in fifth place, just a jump ahead of the U. S. Davis Cup tennis team.

All told, 24 teams in 11 sports figured in the balloting with football far out in front with eight. Summary of the vote:

Team	First	Total Pst
New York Yankees, Baseball	61	192
Texas Christian, football	2	45
Notre Dame, football	1	43
Duke, football	2	35
Navy, rowing	0	22
U.S. Davis Cup team, tennis	0	20½
Chicago Black Hawks, hockey	0	6
Harvard, rowing	0	5
Stanford, basketball	0	4½

Four points: Tennessee, football.

Three points: Edmonton Grade, basketball.

Two points each: Carnegie Tech, football; Southern California, track; U. S. walker Cup team, golf; Texas Tech, football; Kilian and Vopel, bike riders; Seattle badminton team.

One point each: Don Budge and Gene Mako, Tennis; Oklahoma A. and M., wrestling; Temple, basketball; Southern Methodist, football; British Walker Cup team, golf; Southern California mile relay record holders; Green Bay Packers, pro football.

America's First Undisputed Cage Champion Sought

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 14—The National Collegiate Athletic Association's plan to select America's first undisputed college basketball champion advanced a step today as H. G. Olsen, Ohio State University's cage coach, named eight district committees which will select one entrant each for the post-season title series.

Dates and sites for the games have not been determined. Olsen said, but he indicated the four-team clash East of the Mississippi would be held March 10-11 or March 17-18 at New York or Philadelphia, with the Western teams meeting on the same dates at Kansas City, Denver or Los Angeles. Winners of the sectional frays will meet the following week for the crown.

Of the 205 teams affiliated with the N. C. A. A., one from each district is eligible to the post-season series. Districts may hold playoffs to name their entrant, Olsen said, but such playoffs are not "necessary or desirable."

The district committees, with the eligible teams and the states in their area, include:

No. 1—(26 teams, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut) Wesley Fesler of Harvard, chairman: Sumner Dole, Connecticut State College; Osborne G. Cowles, Dartmouth.

No. 2—(47 teams, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and West Virginia) William M. Barber, New York, chairman; Everett Morris, New York Herald Tribune; H. Jamison Swarts, U. of Pennsylvania.

The general committee includes Olsen, Ohio State, chairman; H. H. Salmon, Jr., New York City; W. S. Chandler, Marquette University, John Bunn, Stanford University, and Dr. F. C. Allen, University of Kansas.

Japanese Mermen Win All Firsts In Manila Meet

The Japanese swimmers made a clean sweep of first places in the All-Philippines swimming championships held on Saturday and Sunday at Manila, according to Domei reports.

Takeshi Sasaki won the 100-meter freestyle in 59.5 seconds; Tetsuo Hamuro, 1936 Olympic champion, captured the 200-meter breaststroke in 2 minutes 45.7 seconds; and Tomikatsu Amano took the 1,500-meter freestyle in 20 minutes 6.1 seconds on Saturday.. All three were new Philippine records.

On the concluding day of the meet on Sunday, Amano won the 400-meter freestyle in 5 minutes 4.8 seconds while Toshihiro Taniguchi captured the 100-meter backstroke in 1 minute 9.8 seconds for a new Philipine record.

Decision to Scratch From Davis Cup Competition Seen

Japan will not compete in the Davis Cup competition this year, according to a Yomiuri story.

The reason is difficulty being encountered by Jiro Yamagishi, Fumiteru Nakano, Tetsuo Takamuku and other stars of the first water to be available for play. Yamagishi, one of the top ranking players of the world upon whom Japan's hopes rests, will have to take his medical examinations for military service in the Spring.

The Japan Lawn Tennis Association's decision to the foregoing effect is expected to be reached at its meeting on January 22, says the Yomiuri.

MICHIGAN TOPS NOTRE DAME FIVE

Chicago Tribune

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Dec. 15.—Notre Dame and Michigan renewed basketball relationships before 5,000 tonight after a fifteen year lapse and they unleashed a decade and a half of pent up enthusiasm in as wild a game as the gymnasium here has ever seen. Michigan won, 40 to 38, after leading, 21 to 20, at the half.

It was Earl Brown night, and the Irish captain received a suitcase and an electric razor from admirers from Benton Harbor, Mich., his home town.

IRISH MISS TWO SHOTS

Danny Smick, 6 foot 5 inch forward, who got 16 points, took a pass from Jim Rae, 6 feet 4 inch center, a moment later to score Michigan's 40th point. Eddie Sadowski of Notre Dame dropped in a long one with only fifteen seconds left to play, but after Notre Dame had missed two more attempts, Smick regained the ball and held it as the game ended.

The score was tied eight times. Notre Dame led six times and the Wolverines four. Eddie Riska, Chicago sophomore, led Notre Dame with 19 points.

After Michigan had pulled ahead, 11 to 3, the Irish took the lead, 16 to 11. Mike Sofiak, sophomore, paced a counterattack which sent Michigan ahead at the half.

LEAD CHANGES RAPIDLY

Brown's set shot opened the second half and sent Notre Dame ahead, but Thomas tied it at 22-all with his free throw. Pink and Riska traded field goals, then Riska and Smick swapped shots.

Ducharme sank a field goal and a free throw to offset Smick's shot. Riska then put Notre Dame ahead, 31 to 28. Thomas dribbled in for an easy one and Smick scored on a side shot. Pink added a free throw.

Riska's short shot tied it at 33-all and Smick's sleeper was countered by Sadowski's set shot to make it 35 each. Rex Ellis, who replaced Mark Ertel at center swapped free throws with Pink to make it 36-all with four minutes left. Three minutes later Brown fouled Pink. Lineups:

Notre Dame (38)	B	F	P	Michigan (40)	B	F	P
Sadowski, f	2	0	3	Smick, f	8	0	3
Riska, f	7	5	1	Thomas, f	3	2	1

Brown, g	3	1	4	Beebe, g	0	1	1

HE DID IT TOO

FUTABAYAMA LOSES AGAIN; MINANOGAWA WINS 5 IN ROW

Grand Champion Futabayama, who was defeated for the first time in three years Sunday by Akinoumi, lost again Monday in the fifth day's matches of the 13-day Spring Sumo tournament at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku.

The winner was Ryogoku, like Akinoumi of the Dewanoumi Camp. It was Ryogoku who almost stopped Futabayama's winning streak on the ninth day of the Spring tournament a year ago. There was an argument for a near half an hour on the claim by a second that Futabayama's right foot had fallen outside of the ring before he threw Ryogoku, and hence the victory was the latter's. The final decision was that it was called a no-bout. As they went against each other anew, Futabayama litfed Ryogoku high into the air and deposited him outside the ring for an easy victory. Thus did he register his 49th straight victory which he ran up to the 69th before his defeat by Akinoumi on Sunday.

After only four false starts and Futabayama and Ryogoku were at each other Monday, Ryogoku quickly thrust his right through Futabayama's defense for a firm grip on the latter's girdle. Futabayama retaliated with his left and started pushing. He had Ryogoku at the edge of the ring, and needed one more push to win but Ryogoku put all his strength into his two powerful arms, and with his belly as lever, threw Futabayama over his shoulders out of the ring for victory.

Akinoumi, who became a national hero overnight Sunday with his victory over Futabayama, was defeated by Shachinosato.

Grand Champion Minanogawa, the biggest of all wrestlers, used his height and size to good advantage in virtually crushing Banjaku, with a great protruding belly but who is short in stature, to defeat. It was his fifth straight victory in as many bouts. And it was Banjaku's first defeat of the tournament.

It was another bad day for the top-notchers. Champion Mayedayama suffered his second straight defeat, this time at the hands of Kasagiyama, one-time Waseda University student. Kasagiyama won with a beautiful throw.

Kagamiiwa, the veteran champion, fell by the wayside to Asahigawa after a furious bout. Ayanobori of the Dewanoumi camp and one of the cleverest wrestlers in competition, lost to Onami, who pushed him out of the ring from the rear.

THOSE UNDEFEATED

Only wrestlers without a defeat as yet in the "makunouchi" or first ranking circle are Dewaminato, Hishuzan and Grand Champion Minanogawa.

The results of the principal bouts after the intermission follow:

Katsuragawa defeated Yamatoiwa.
Dewaminato defeated Ayanishiki.
Tomoegata defeated Ichiwatari.
Dewanohana defeated Takanobori.
Hishuzan defeated Tsurugamine.
Jinmuyama defeated Aobayama.
Fujinosato defeated Toshuzan.
Ayawaka defeated Hatasegawa.
Kaneminato defeated Taikyuzan.
Fujigadake defeated Wakashima.
Tatekabuto defeated Yamatonishiki.
Ryuozan defeated Kaikozan.
Komanosato defeated Ohshio.
Shachinosato defeated Akinoumi.
Tamanoumi defeated Kojimakawa.
Haguroyama defeated Itsutsushima.
Onami defeated Ayanobori.
Nayoroiwa defeated Kashimanada.
Asahigawa defeated Kagamiiwa.
Kasagiyama defeated Mayedayama.
Minanogawa defeated Banjaku.
Ryogoku defeated Futabayama.

GALENTO RATED NEXT TO LOUIS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—The National Boxing Association in its quarterly ratings today ranked Tony Galento next to Champion Joe Louis among the world's heavyweight fighters.

Lou Nova, the up-and-going Californian who defeated Tommy Farr last week, was rated second among the challengers and Max Baer, the former champion, third.

Lieut. Col. Harvey L. Miller, chairman of the ratings committee, said Joe Triner, a committeeman from Illinois, dissented from Galento's ranking.

The N. B. A. rated other heavyweights in the following order: Willie Reddish, Roscoe Toles, Arturo Lovell, Clarence (Red) Burman, Buddy Knox, Gus Dorazio and Tony Musto.

Honorable mention went to Alex Kettles of Chicago, Farr and Wild Bill Boyd of Birmingham.

PASTOR NOT RATED

The committee said it declined to give Bob Pastor a rating because he was under suspension in N. B. A. territory as a result of his failure to "fulfill a New Jersey contract against Red Burman."

In the controversial middleweight division, the association recognized Solly Krieger of Brooklyn as champion and Freddie Apostoli as ranking challenger.

The committee also recommended three matches which it said would clear up conflicts of opinion regarding the featherweights, bantamweights and flyweights.

Miller said the committee recommended that within sixty days a title match take place between Leo Rodak and Petey Scalzo or Joey Archibald and that the winner be declared world champion featherweight.

SECOND MATCH SUGGESTED

Such a match, the committee added, should be fought with the contractual stipulation that the winner meet the third fighter not later than May, 1939.

Sixto Escobar, who has not defended his bantamweight title within the required six months, was ordered to fight Johnny Morgan, Henry Hook or Georgie Mace within the next sixty days.

In the flyweight division, the N. B. A. recommended that the winner of a fifteen-round fight between Little Dado and Small Montana be declared the American titleholder and that Peter Kane of England meet the winner for the world title.

"The N. B. A.," says Miller, "cannot recognize Kane as the champion of the world on his win over Jackie Jurich, as Montana, the ex-champion and Dado—who has never lost a contest in his life—were ignored for consideration for a title match."

However, Triner voted to recognize Kane.

John Henry Lewis, light-heavyweight champion, advised the committee that should he defeat Joe Louis he intended to relinquish the light-heavyweight title, but that he has no such intention now.

PLAYER LIMIT RAISED TO 25 IN BIG LEAGUES

By JOHN DREBINGER
N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Employment for thirty-two additional ball players in the major leagues next Summer was assured yesterday when the sixteen club owners of the National and American circuits, in joint session before Commissioner K. M. Landis at the Hotel Roosevelt, voted to increase their player limit from twenty-three to twenty-five.

Actually, it was the commissioner who brought about the decision, inasmuch as the two leagues on the first ballot brought the matter to a deadlock. The eight clubs of the American League voted solidly against the measure while the National Leagues went unanimously in favor of the increase.

The meeting closed the three-day convention of the majors and provided little else that is likely to have a far-reaching influence upon the conduct or outcome of next year's pennant races.

The player limit rule was also amended to become effective thirty days after the opening of the championship season. In the past May 15 was the deadline when all clubs had to reduce their squads. The limit before that date and after Aug. 31 remains at forty as heretofore.

NOTICE TO LANDIS REQUIRED

It is also now stipulated that when a club puts in a waiver claim on a player whose acquisition would put that team over the player limit, notification must be given immediately to Commissioner Landis of the player that is to be removed from the roster to make room for the one to be acquired. This must be done even if subsequently the claim is withdrawn.

Clark Griffith, one-time pitching star and venerable owner of the Senators, whose pet movement to add hurlers resulted in a modification of the rule on pitching delivery, did not draw such luck on several other of his ideas.

His annual effort to ban "synthetic" Sunday double-headers was voted down, so that clubs may continue booking such twin bills in all cities after the third Sunday of the playing season except in St. Louis, where double-headers may be aranged after the second Sunday.

The real bombshell which Griffith had prepared in his amendment limiting major league ownership in the minors to one franchise in each classification did not explode at all. The amendment was withdrawn just as it had been in the separate meetings of the two leagues on Tuesday and Wednesday.

No action on the proposal, aimed as a staggering blow against the vast chain-store system of the Yankees, was taken because ill health prevented Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the world champions, from attending the meetings and talking against the measure.

BONUS BAN BEATEN

Griffith's third proposal, eliminating bonuses for signing contracts, was voted down. This, however, applies only to the American League as the National for some time has prohibited all bonus clauses in its contracts.

Inasmuch as both leagues are now in accord on the matter of radio and night baseball and have adopted a uniform ball for next season, these matters did not even come up at the joint session, which concluded with the annual appropriation of $20,000 for promotion of the American Legion's baseball program.

At the conclusion of the meeting Christy Walsh, director of sports of the New York World's Fair, appeared before the magnates to discuss proposed baseball exhibits at the fair next Summer and presented the folloiwng letter, which he had received from Colonel Ruppert.

"I understand that Judge Landis has extended you the courtesy of addressing the joint baseball meeting at New York on Thursday of this week regarding a proposed baseball exhibit at the World's Fair.

"As chairman of the World's Fair Sports Committee, you may say that I am extremely anxious to see baseball occupy a conspicuous place in the program of the World's Fair and of course I would particularly like to see baseball dominate all other sports with an outstanding exhibit in the Academy of Sport.

"The combination of Cooperstown and the New York World's Fair offers us an opportunity to celebrate the 100th anniversary of baseball in magnificent fashion.

METHODS SUGGESTED

"The moving pictures produced by the two major leagues could be the basis of a baseball exhibit, strengthened by the continued personal appearance of baseball stars and the distribution of literature and souvenirs.

"The matter of financing such an exhibit is a matter to be decided by the commissioner and the league, but I believe we should not miss this opportunity to promote baseball to millions of New York World's Fair visitors."

The matter was referred to the major league advisory committee for further action.

Later in the day the rules committee of the two leagues reported that it had redrafted the rule governing pitching deliveries to provide for the change voted by the owners on Wednesday.

The trapped infield line drive with runners on first and second or first, second and third with none or one out also has been eliminated and henceforth cannot be converted into a double play.

Both leagues signified a willingness to hold next December's meeting in Cincinnati.

Thoughtful

Judge: "And why do you think I should be lenient with you? Is this your first offense?"

Prisoner: "No, your honor; but it's my lawyer's first case."

Musical Note

"How do you sell your music?"

"We sell piano music by the pound and organ music by the choir."

Keio University's skaters defeated their archrivals, Waseda, three goals to one in their eighth annual ice hockey game Monday night at the Shibaura rink. It was Keio's first victory in five years. The record now stands five victories for Waseda and three for Keio.

Keio scored a goal in each period as against one by Waseda in the third period.

The line-ups were:

Keio: Mekari, Tsutsumi, Kimura, Inaba, Kosuga, Narusc, forwards; Kagatani, Fujioka, defense; Ono goalie.

Waseda: Nakagawa, Onikura, Kichijima, Shimazu, Shichida, Kawanishi, forwards; Ichikawa, Suzuki, defense; Onoda, Ota, goalie.

MID-SURREY TOPS NAVY AT HOCKEY BY 2-1 SCORE

The Times, London

LONDON, Dec. 15—Mid-Surrey beat the Royal Navy at Richmond Athletic Ground yesterday by two goals to one, at hockey. The Navy were the first to score, but the strength of Mid-Surrey's half-back line told in the long run, and in the later stages they dominated the game to such an extent that their forwards, though seldom agreeing in mind or method, were able to score one goal, to which Jeffrey, the left back, added another.

In one respect the Navy will be well served this season; Schoolmaster Lawrence, the old English international, has returned to this country, and, playing at center-half, did not suffer by comparison with T. L. Rowan, of Mid-Surrey, who was England's center-half last season.

Lawrence covered the center of the field so well that the Mid-Surrey inside forwards, Smith and Bruce, were seldom able to get the ball through to their center, F. R. Brown, and as the Mid-Surrey wings were not in form, this meant that the attack was most effectively dislocated. But if Mid-Surrey were held, so were the Navy. They had a very fast man on the left wing, Sub-Lieutenant Aldous, and their center-forward, Lieutenant Alexander-Sinclair, was not slow, but whatever striking power these players possessed was lost to them for lack of an experienced man to hold the ball and make the opening. What progress the Navy did make was on their left, for Waddilove, the best player on either side in this match, had the other wing completely tied up.

There was no score in the first half, Mid-Surrey having three corners to their credit and one promising forward movement which ended most unluckily in an infringement. The Navy had been within shooting range several times, but only one shot got as far as Poter. Early in the second half the Navy forwards twice swept down the hill, and the second time, Surgeon-Lieutenant Fitzpatrick hit through a press of players and scored.

For a while they held on to their lead, but after many fruitless attempts Mid-Surrey equalized. For once Dobson, their outsider-right, managed to shake off the attentions of Lieutenant Wildish, and, turning in toward goal, sent in a shot. Wainwright saved it, but before the ball could be cleared Saville, running in from the other wing, made a second and successful shot. The winning goal resulted from a penalty corner. Jeffrey took the corner shot, and though his first was stopped, he scored with his second.

The teams were:—

MID-SURREY—G. A. Potter, goal; R. Ogley and A. Jeffrey, backs; C. P. Scott, T. L. Rowan, and D. G. Waddilove, half-backs; L. S. Dobson, P. B. Smith, F. R. Brown, J. A. Bruce, and P. G. Saville, forwards.

ROYAL NAVY—Lieutenant Wainwright (H.M.S. Excellent), goal; Lieutenant (E) Milne (R.N.C., Greenwich) and Lieutenant-Commander Stileman (H.M.S. Dolphin), backs; Lieutenant Davies (H.M.S. Excellent), Schoolmaster I. D. Lawrence (R.N.C., Greenwich), and Lieutenant (E) Wildish (H.M.S. Pembroke), half-backs; Lieutenant Cardiner-Brown (R.M., Eastney), Lieutenant Michell (H.M.S. Dryad), Lieutenant Alexander-Sinclair (R.N.C., Greenwich), Surgeon Lieutenant Fitzpatrick (H.M.S. Durban), and Sub-Lieutenant Aldous (R.N.C., Greenwich), forwards.

A Cat's Vision

A German professor in 1931 established the actual sensitivity of a cat's vision in the dark as being 40 times that of man. That means that a cat's eyes are sensitive to the light that reaches us from the stars of the last magnitude, light so faint that it would make no impression upon the most highly sensitized photographic plate.

FUTABAYAMA'S DEFEAT CEASES TO BECOME NEWS IN TOURNEY

Grand Champion Futabayama's defeat has ceased to become news. Invincible since the Spring tournament of 1936 with a string of 69 consecutive victories up to Sunday, he was beaten for the third consecutive day Tuesday afternoon in the sixth day's bouts of the 13-day Sumo tournament at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku.

The winner this time was the short but stout Kashimanada, some 20 pounds heavier than Futabayama. He had the jump on Futabayama, and the latter was unable to check the former's charge to be shoved out of the ring. Futabayama might have demurred in starting because there was still time left: plenty of it, in the time allowed of 10 minutes. But like a true grand champion who should always be willing to take on his opponents, he rose to do battle. Without a question, Futabayama is really not in the best of physical condition. There in the ring, in the intervals between the "shikiri" or process of getting started, he seemed to lack vigor.

CONTRACTED DYSENTERY

Having contracted dysentery while on an exhibition tour to Manchuria last Summer to console the soldiers, Futabayama had been inactive until a few weeks before the opening of the current tournament. Many were the friends that urged him not to compete but with the death of Grand Champion Tamanishiki in December, Futabayama felt it obligatory on his part to enter the championships as a responsibility to the sport and also not to disappoint the fans. Another Grand Champion, Musashiyama, had not entered because of an ailing arm. And so absence from the tourney of Futabayama would have dealt a heavy blow.

In compliance with the urgent plea of his admirers, Futabayama was to take a physical examination at the Keio Hospital today. But he said Tuesday night, the only thing that would stop him from competing would be a broken arm or leg.

Among letters of encouragement received by Futabayama Tuesday was one from Kikugoro, Japan's leading Kabuki actor.

Futabayama himself could not explain the cause for his consecutive defeats, when questioned Tuesday night. He said he felt no different from the ordinary, but he was exasperated at his own weakness in that day's bout against Kashimanada.

MINANOGAWA WINS

But to get back to the bouts on Tuesday. Grand Champion Minanogawa won his sixth straight bout without a defeat by making mincemeat out of Akinoumi, who had started Futabayama on his losing streak. Akinoumi dashed out against the far bigger Minanogawa with the intent of getting a hold on to Minanogawa's girdle. But the latter, though usually slow of foot, sidestepped. And as Akinoumi checked himself from running out of the ring on his own strength, Minanogawa caught hold of him with his giant arms and shoved him out easily for victory.

Only other wrestler within the first ranking grapplers without a defeat is Dewaminato, who took the measure of Aobayama. The up and coming Hishuzan had been running neck and neck with Minangawa and Dewaminato but he suffered a setback at the hands of the lanky Takanobori.

Champion Mayedayama's attack with both hands proved too much for the strong Ryogoku, who had downed Futabayama on Monday. Incidentally, Mayedayama rallied from a two-day losing streak.

Haguroyama, who has the most powerfully built body, revenged his defeat of last year by throwing Champion Kagamiiwa right in the middle of the ring.

Nayoroiwa, who like Haguroyama is a stable-mate of Futabayama, vanquished Banjaku in the feature match of the day. Each grasped the other's girdle to be on even terms. But Nayoroiwa, the younger of the two, was the aggressor. Twice he pushed Banjaku to the edge of the ring but the latter checked. Then finally, Nayoroiwa attempted a body throw and down went Banjaku's great body.

The results of the principal bouts after the intermission follow:

Ayanishiki defeated Ichiwatari
Dewaminato defeated Aobayama
Yamatoiwa defeated Toshuzan
Dewanohana defeated Tomoegata
Fujigatake defeated Jinmuyama
Takanobori defeated Hishuzan
Katsuragawa defeated Ayawaka

2 Records Shattered In Annual Skating

Two national records were broken in the opening day's events of the 10th annual All-Japan speed skating championships Tuesday at Tadenoumi, near Kamisuwa.

Cho Yu-shoku, Meiji University star, hung up one with an 8 minutes 47 seconds performance in the 5,000-meter race for men. The other record was set by Miss Kiyo Nakagawa of Hokkaido when she negotiated the 3,000-meters distance in 5 minutes 55.6 seconds.

Miss Nakagawa also won the women's 500-meter race in 51.9 seconds.

Saburo Takabayashi of Meiji captured the men's 500-meter race in 44 seconds flat.

REPUTATION OF U.S. GOLFERS DROPS IN BRITAIN

LONDON (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—The reputation of America's amateur golfers declined in England this year despite the victory of Charlie Yates of Atlanta in the British Amateur Championship.

British critics from scholarly Bernard Darwin to Henry Cotton believe 1938 saw the end of the era of great swingers from the United States.

This opinion is based on the play of the American Walker Cup team in the British Amateur Championship at Troon and in the Walker Cup matches at St. Andrews.

Yates won the amateur by defeating Cecil Ewing of Ireland, 3 and 2, but Britain won the Walker Cup for the first time since the competition started in 1922. The score was 7-4.

Nobody over here has anything but praise for Yates' accomplishments at Troon and St. Andrews. He has been credited generally with displaying the greatest putting exhibition in the recent history of British golf

In 11 rounds of golf at Troon and St. Andrews, he was only one over fours. This record over two of the severest courses along the Scottish coast against wind and rain and on his first attempt in this country must be one of the epics of international golf.

Yates' accomplishment is, in the eyes of British critics, magnified by two other facts: on his way to the amateur title he beat Johnny Fischer—considered over here the finest amateur golfer in the United States—and Hector Thomson, who is generally regarded as the finest swinger in British amateur golf.

But in spite of this liberal personal praise, the critics are disappointed in the ability of the American amateurs as a whole.

They were particularly disappointed in the play of Johnny Goodman, whom they now fear has not enough length to win against the wind of the seaside courses.

They also were disappointed in the play of Reynolds Smith, Ray Billows and Fred Haas, though Haas showed them something like the old flowing swing they expect from Americans.

It is perhaps well to remember that these same critics were convinced that Marvin Ward was also a mediocre player until he rolled around the Old St. Andrews course in 67 and beat the English champion Fred Pennink in the Cup matches, 12 and 11.

Billiard Group Plans Tourney

CHICAGO, Dec. 21—Three-cushion billiards gained a new "angle" yesterday as the National Billiards Association drafted plans for a nationwide world's championship tournament to be played in 10 different cities.

Previously, championships of the scientific, angular game have been determined through a week or so of play in one city. Confident of reaching more fans and increasing spectator interest in the widely played sport, the Billiards Association will sponsor a tournament which will open early next month and run 12 weeks.

Several of the game's greatest stars will be included in the field of 10 players. The eligible list of cue experts contains such names as Welker Cochran of San Francisco, winner of the last world's tourney, held here in 1937; Johnny Layton, the pink-checked veteran who has held the title 11 times; Jay Bozeman of Vallejo, Calif., one of the brighter lights among younger players; Charles McCourt of Cleveland; Art Thurnblad of Kenosha, Wis., Allen Hall, Chicago, Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia and Tiff Denton of Kansas City.

C. A. Storer, Secretary of the National Billiards Association, will direct the tournament. While no definite date for the start of play has been determined he said preliminary plans call for a total of about 180 games, with each player playing four games with every other competitor.

"We expect to have each contestant playing 36 games in the city he represents," Storer said, "with perhaps five games a week going on in each city after the tourney gets under way. There are thousands of three-cushion fans who never have had the chance to watch top-flight stars, and they'll have that opportunity with the tournament played in 10 centers."

Storer said prize money would total $12,000, and that eight cities have been selected as playing sites, with two others to be named soon. Billiard academies in these cities already have been signed: Kansas City, Chicago, Kenosha, Wis., Detroit, Cleveland, Philadelphia, New York City, and Buffalo, N. Y.

CANADIENS LOSE TO BRUINS, 1-0

MONTREAL, Dec. 15—A third-period goal by Ralph (Cooney) Weiland gave the Boston Bruins a 1-0 victory tonight over the Montreal Canadiens, stretched the Bruins' victory strong to five straight, and gave Goalie Frank Brimsek his fourth shut-out in his last five National Hockey League games.

It was the sensational work of the youthful Brimsek, made regular goalie after the Bruins sold Tiny Thompson to the Detroit Red Wings that gave Boston its second victory of the season over the Canadiens.

Until Weiland scored his goal early in the third period, the game, played before a crowd of 7,000, was too close-checking to be spectacular.

Since the rookie goalie went into the net with Boston he has scored two shut-outs over the Chicago Black Hawks and one over the New York Rangers. The one tonight put him ahead of all other National Hockey League goalies with perfect games.

The line-up:

Boston (1)		Canadiens (0)
Brimsek	Goal	Bourque
Portland	Defense	Wentworth
Shore	Defense	Evans
Schmidt	Center	Haynes
Dumart	Wing	Gagnon
Bauer	Wing	Blake

Spares

Boston—Sands, Clapper, Getliffe, Weiland, Conacher, Pettinger, Hollett, Hill, Crawford.

Canadiens—Siebert, Buswell, Drouin, Lorrain, Cain, Summerhill, Mantha, Brown, Ward.

Scoring

First period: None. Second period: None. Third period: 1, Boston Weiland, 3:30.

Penalties—Hill, Wentworth, Evans, Hollett, Cain (2 minutes each).

NEW YORK, Dec. 14—The Green Bay Packers and New York Giants, winners of the Western and Eastern Division titles, respectively, each placed three men on the 1938 All-League team selected by vote of the 10 coaches of the National Professional Football League it was announced today. Only four players who made last year's honor team retained places on this year's team, but for the first time in three years no first year men were given first team rating.

The Green Bay stars honored on the first team were Clark Hinkle, league-leading scorer named at fullback for the third consecutive season; Don Hutson, fleet end who was second in scoring and pass receiving and tied his own mark of nine touchdowns scored in one season; and Russ Letlow who earned a guard position for the first time in the three years he has played in the National League.

HEIN AT CENTER

Mel Hein, center; Ed Widseth tackle, and Ed Danowski, halfback, were the New York Giants players who made first team. Hein was selected for the pivot post for the sixth consecutive season. Widseth received 46 points, the highest polled by any player this year. Danowski, leading passer of the circuit in 1938, received 25 points for halfback, and also got 16 points at quarterback, the second highest number for that position.

In addition to Hinkle and Hein, who repeated their 1937 performances, Joe Stydahar, Chicago Bears tackle, and Gaynell Tinsley, Chicago Cardinals end, were also named to the first team again in 1938. Other 1938 first team selections were Danny Fortmann, Chicago Bears guard; Ace Parker, Brooklyn Dodgers quarterback, and Lloyd Cardwell, Detroit Lions halfback.

Hutson, Widseth, Fortmann and Danowski were all on the second team in 1937. Bill Hewitt, Philadelphia end; George Musso, Chicago Bears guard and Turk Edwards, Washington tackle, all of whom made the first team last year, dropped to the second team this season. Letlow, Parker and Cardwell did not make either the first or second team last year, but each were named to first positions in 1938.

WHITE ON SECOND TEAM

Although no first year men made the first team, three were chosen on the second team. They are Bruiser Kinnard, University of Mississippi tackle, now with the Brooklyn Dodgers; Byron "Whizzer" White, Rhodes Scholar, All-America halfback from Colorado, who ended his first and last season of major league football with Pittsburgh as the league's leading ground gainer; and Cecil Isbell, Purdue halfback, now one of the league's leading passers and ground gainers with the Green Bay Packers.

Milt Gantenbein, Green Gay end, and Frank Bausch, Chicago Bears center, were second team choices of 1937 who repeated this year. Jim Karcher, Washington guard; Riley Smith, Washington quarterback, and John Drake, Cleveland fullback, didn't make either the first or second team last year but were chosen on the second team this year.

PATE MAY QUIT AS CAPTAIN OF DAVIS CUP TEAM

NEW YORK, Dec. 23—As though the loss of J. Donald Budge were not a sufficiently crushing blow to America's Davis Cup future, it now appears likely that Capt. Walter Pate also will be missing next Summer.

The little Wall Street lawyer who coached and counselled the boys to victory in the past two years, has asked President Holcombe Ward of the U. S. L. T. A. to appoint another captain, for Pate needs to get back to his law practice.

"I'm simply worn out," he confessed today, "and so are my wife and my partner. I can't blame them much either. I've been away from home and out of this office for about three months in each of the last four years. I've enjoyed every minute of it, but now I feel like it's somebody else's turn."

NOT AN AVERAGE CAPTAIN

It is not customary to attach much importance to a Davis Cup captain, possibly because the average captain doesn't do much except share in the plaudits for victory and hand out the official alibi in defeat. But Pate has not been an average captain, and he deserves about as much credit for having returned the big tennis trophy to American as anybody else including Budge.

When Pate took hold of Budge four years ago, the coast redhead was only a hope and a promise, with a forehand that any public parks champion would scorn. It was Pate who persuaded him to change to his present "Eastern" grip.

Pate made a close friend and confidant of his boys, especially of Budge and Gene Mako. When there was clamor for another doubles partner for Budge, Pate said nothing doing. He always insisted that Mako was a greater tennis player than anyone thought, and Gene proved it for him last season.

WOULD EXPECT TOO MUCH

"I guess one reason I want to quit is that I dread the task of putting together another Davis Cup doubles team," he said. "After watching Budge and Mako gradually develop into the greatest pair in the world, I'm afraid I'll be expecting too much of their successors."

Pate was so conscientious about his captaincy that when he took the team to London for its victorious challenge two Summers ago he wouldn't let Mrs. Pate go along. When he got there he didn't explore Mayfair or make the customary round of luncheons and dinners.

He and the boys moved into an apartment out near Wimbledon, and they stayed there. They went to no parties. They rose early, practiced hard and appeared to enjoy themselves. Pate didn't seem to mind much even when Budge and Mako, the "World champion jitterbugs," played their pet phonograph for hours on end. He simply wanted the boys to be happy and in condition."

To be honest, it wasn't quite like that in two previous years that this reporter saw an American Davis Cup team come to London and eventually get knocked out. The boys managed to get around in those days, and there even was one captain who wanted to play on the doubles team, himself.

All of which might indicate why Pate deserves an equal share of the credit, and why his services really will be missed if he induces Ward to accept his resignation.

Canadians Hope King and Queen Will View Game

WINNIPEG, Dec. 21—King George and Queen Elizabeth during their Canadian visit this Spring will be guests at a soccer game between a representative Scottish team and a Canadian team if hopes of the Dominion Football Association are fulfilled.

Sam Davidson, Secretary of the C.F.A., yesterday said arrangements towards having their majesties attend one of the Scottish team's games were being discussed. The visiting Scots arrive at Montreal May 13 or 14 and will be touring Canada while the King and Queen are here.

"We are getting in touch with the Dominion Government head who will have to make the arrangements with the King and Queen," Mr. Davidson said. "We have not learned the Royal Party's complete itinerary and until this is known plans will not be completed."

It is hoped to have the Scottish team appear in some Canadian city at the same time as the Royal Party. The Scottish team will remain on this side of the Atlantic until June 25, and besides appearances in Canada will play several games in the United States.

NOTHING WRONG PHYSICALLY

Grand Sumo Champion Futabayama leaving after his medical examination Wednesday, pronounced fit and well. His three successive defeats on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, after a winning streak that stretched to 69, worried his admirers who prevailed on him to see a doctor. Futabayama regained his winning stride Wednesday afternoon.

DEWAMINATO ONLY UNDEFEATED CONTESTANT IN SUMO TOURNEY

Dewaminato, once high up in the ranks but now far down the list of the first ranking wrestlers, won his seventh straight victory Wednesday afternoon to be the only undefeated contestant in the 13-day Sumo tournament at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku. His victim was the tough Tatekabuto.

Grand Champion Minanogawa tasted his first defeat of the tourney when Tamanoumi, ace pupil of the late Grand Champion Tamanishiki, proved too smart for him and forced him out of the ring with a shove at the belly.

FUTABAYAMA WINS

Grand Champion Futabayama, who had lost three days in a row, stepped back into the winning column but only after a tough match with Kasagiyama, former Waseda University student. Twice the latter charged and forced Futabayama to the edge of the ring, but the latter checked the drives and finally attempted a body throw which sent Kasagiyama down on to the sand.

One of the best matches of the day was that between Nayoroiwa, stablemate of Futabayama, and Akinoumi, who stopped Futabayama's winning streak over the past three years at 69 on Sunday. Akinoumi was the aggressor and nearly threw Nayoroiwa with a body throw but the latter remained on his feet, although he almost went over. Knowing his disadvantage if the match should not be over in quick time, Akinoumi began pushing. At this juncture, Nayoroiwa resorted to a body throw and succeeded.

SEVENTH FOR HAGUROYAMA

Haguroyama, another stable-mate of Futabayama, won his fifth victory out of seven bouts by proving too strong for Ayanobori. The latter devoted too much attention in slipping his right arm through Haguroyama's defense.

The results of the principal bouts after the intermission follow:

Mutsunishiki defeated Katsuragawa.
Ayanishiki defeated Dewanohana.
Tomoegata defeated Fujigadake.
Hishuzan defeated Kaneminato.
Tsurugamine defeated Jinmuyama.
Hatasegawa defeated Ichiwatari.
Fujinosato defeated Kaikozan.
Ayawaka defeated Toshuzan.
Aobayama defeated Taikyuzan.
Dewaminato defeated Tatekabuto.
Wakashima defeated Takanobori.
Ryuozan defeated Shachinosato.
Ryogoku defeated Onshio.
Kashimanada defeated Orami.
Asahigawa defeated Itsutsushima.
Yamatonishiki defeated Banjaku.
Haguroyama defeated Ayanobori.
Nayoroiwa defeated Akinoumi.
Kagamiiwa defeated Kojimakawa.
Mayedayama defeated Komanosato.
Tamanoumi defeated Minanogawa.
Futabayama defeated Kasagiyama.

Canadian Family Seeks World-Wide Renown in Rowing

TORONTO.—Oarsmen by family tradition, two sons of Lou Scholes, first Canadian winner of the Diamond Sculls, are training for the 1940 sculls and the Olympic Games in Finland.

Seeking the world-wide renown won by their father in 1904, Lou, Jr., and John F. Scholes work out daily at the Argonaut Rowing Club where Joe Wright, Jr., second Canadian to win the Diamond Sculls, trained for his 1928 triumph. John, 26, and Lou, 22, rowed on Lake Ontario until Dec. 10, weeks later than other Toronto oarsmen.

Coached by their famous father, himself son of a ranking international sculler of the Ned Hanlan-Jake Gaudaur period, the two receive the benefit of two generations' experience in rigging a boat and conditioning themselves. Each has won novice races at club regattas and earned the right to step up to open competition.

Persistent training for condition and style is a major point in their father's program and he drives his boys especially hard because they fall a little short of the usual championship standard in poundage. Both weigh about 165 pounds, compared with 178 for Lou, Sr., and 200 for Wright at the time of their victories.

Two Australian-made shells were purchased from Evans Paddon, the Australian professional champion. John and Lou, Jr., plan to attend leading regattas in the United States next Summer as well as the Canadian Henley, sculling in both singles and doubles competition.

MICHIGAN TOPS CORNELL FIVE BY 42-27 SCORE

By LOUIS EFFRAT

N.Y. Times

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 22—A 14-point spurt in the closing minutes of the first period while the opposition was shut out gave the University of Michigan basketball team a 27-13 edge over Cornell at half-time tonight, and thereafter the Wolverines romped to a 42-27 victory before 5,000 persons at the Westchester County Center.

Unbeaten this season, the Wolverines now boast a five-game winning streak, made up of triumphs over Michigan State, Notre Dame, Rochester and Syracuse in addition to Cornell.

The 6-foot 4-inch Jim Rae's great individual work played an important part in the latest Michigan conquest. Following a slow start, he was all over the court and he finished with 19 points. It was his basket less than five minutes before the intermission that snapped a 13-13 tie, and it was his sharpshooting throughout the second half that widened the gap between the teams.

TEAMS MOVE SLOWLY

For the greater part it was a battle between two slow-moving teams. The Wolverines aided their cause by recovering the ball more frequently than did the Ithacans, and the fact that they were the better marksmen provided the difference.

At the outset it appeared that Cornell was on the way to upsetting Michigan, for the count soon became 5—0 as the Wolverine set shots failed to find the cords. However, it wasn't long before the Big Ten representatives improved, and shortly afterward it developed into a close affair.

Michigan pulled up to a 9-all tie and the quintets continued at even terms, with the count deadlocked also at 11 and 13. At this point Rae's lay-up shot sent the Wolverines ahead for the first time, never to be headed, and in the final four minutes Michigan piled up a big enough margin to insure the triumph.

THIRD GAME FOR CORNELL

For Cornell it meant the season's initial setback in three starts, but after the first fifteen minutes there remained little question concerning which team was superior.

The Ithacans employed the pivot play with some degree of success in the early part of the fray, but thereafter were unable to match Michigan's steadiness or its shooting accuracy.

Ministry Will Decide Later on 1940 Games

The decision whether or not a delegation will be sent to the 12th Olympic Games in Helsinki next year will be deferred for sometime yet by the Welfare Ministry, according to the vernaculars.

There are two schools of thought. The one that it is no time to dispatch a team to Finland when Japanese soldiers are fighting in China at the risk of their lives. The other is that there is no better medium than the Olympic Games to promote friendly relations with other countries, and that funds of ¥100,000 or ¥200,000 would be quite sufficient to send a representative delegation.

Riggs Figures U.S. Has Chance To Keep Davis Cup

CHICAGO, Dec. 17—Bobby Riggs, America's top-ranking amateur tennis player since Don Budge turned pro, has but one burning ambition these days: keep the Davis Cup in the United States.

And he thinks it can be done if the first flight candidates for the Cup team "get into perfect condition and make every effort to reach their peak for the international matches."

"I think," Riggs said, "that we have an even chance to retain the Cup even if Budge is gone, but I wouldn't say our chance is better than 50-50.

"We should be able to round up a good team from the candidates. I rate Sid Wood, Elwood Cooke, Frank Kovacs, Gene Mako, Bitsy Grant and Joe Hunt as definite Cup possibilities in the singles, but I don't know whether all are available.

"In the doubles, the only thing to do is give all tandems an ample chance to show their stuff, then pick the one with the best record. The United States is bound to miss Budge and Mako in the doubles, but Mako may be able to find another partner who can carry on with him. I hear he's planning now to play with Jack Tidball of Seattle."

Riggs, whose initial invasion of the East three years ago brought him 4th place in the national rankings at the age of 18, plans to skip most of the Winter meets this season and conserve his energy for a strenuous Summer.

"I've been wanting to go to Europe for two years, so I'm going over next year for my first try at the French and Wimbledon titles," he said, adding that he would also take in several eastern tournaments and, of course, the national singles competition.

Asked if pro tennis might eventually claim him, Riggs said:

"I haven't any ideas about pro tennis at all. All I'm interested in right now is keeping in trim to do my best in helping this country hold onto the Davis Cup."

STRIKING UPWARD TREND NOTED IN PRO SPORTS IN U.S. IN '38

NEW YORK, Dec. 20—The striking increase in attendance and interest in professional sports, particular pro football, was singled out today as the outstanding sports trend of 1938.

More than 50 separate trends were noted by the 70 sports editors participating in the eighth annual Associated Press sports poll, but the main emphasis was placed on the growth of professional attractions with pro football as the bell-wether.

GAMES FASTER

Better showmanship was credited with at least a share in the upward move in attendance not only for football, but also for baseball. Rules changes, it was noted, had speeded up such other games as hockey, basketball and college football with beneficial results at the box office. A sharp increase in the number of women fans helped baseball attendance, and both baseball and football were aided by the increase in night games.

Oddly enough the general attendance rise in spectator sports has been accompanied by a remarkable growth in such participation sports as skiing, skating, bowling, badminton and soft-ball, although one observer thought the last-named sport was on the downgrade.

A long series of trends, largely technical were noted in football, especially the college brand. Among these were the trends toward heavier scoring, more field goals, greater use of the forward pass as a consistent gainer, increased use of sideline punting, a sharp let-down in lateral passing and other forms of "razzle dazzle" in favor of less risky offensive maneuvers, and heavy increased use of the reverse.

BETTER BALANCE

Although one observer felt there was less recruiting and subsidizing in college football, others remarked on a general easing of the official bans on such practices. Several made a point of the tremendous growth of six-man and 150-pound football, as well as increased interest in the high school brand. Others noted a better balance between small and large college football, indicating less concentration of football material in the big schools.

The New York Yankees' complete domination of major league baseball and the efforts of their rivals to match the world champions in sheer power was noted.

Lower golf scores were accompanied by decreased interest in tournament golf in the opinion of several sports editors. Others commented on the decline in boxing and wrestling, especially the latter.

Other trends noted included: increased emphasis on the team rather than the individual; increased capitalizing on sports reputations by outstanding stars; the wide-spread hiring of minor league figures as major league managers, and the over-balance of the offense in almost every sport.

HOKKAIDO GIRL WINS SPEED SKATING TITLE

Setting another new national record with a 1 minute 48.4 seconds performance in the 1,000 meter event, Miss Kiyo Nakagawa of the Tomakomai Higher Girls School of the Hokkaido captured the women's title as the 10th annual speed skating championships came to a close at Tadenoumi, near Kamisuwa. She scored a total of 234.786 points. Miss Tayeko Otaka, a teammate, was second with 239.677 points, and Miss Kiyo Sakamoto of the Tomakamai West Higher Girls School third with 241.820 points.

By winning the 10,000-meter race on Wednesday in 20 minutes 10.6 seconds, Sadayoshi Hatakeyama of Meiji University captured the men's title for a major surprise. His total score was 211.073 points. Kunio Nango of Waseda University was second with 213.870 points, and Cho Yu-shoku of Meiji third with 214.232 points, to show the battle royal among the three for first place.

In the two other races on Wednesday, Miss Otaka won the women's 5,000-meter race in 10 minutes 58.1 seconds. Miss Mitsuko Nozawa of the Tomakomai West Higher Girls School was second and Miss Nakagawa third. Nango of Waseda clinched first place in the men's 1,500-meter race in 2 minutes 27.3 seconds. Second was Kin So-ritsu of Meiji and third was Reikichi Nakamura of Waseda University.

CAREERS OPEN FOR U.S. YOUTH IN PRO BASEBALL

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Start swinging that bat and oil up the old glove, youngsters—for yours is the greatest chance in baseball's history to carve a career.

That's the advice handed the nation's sports-minded boys today by William Harridge, president of the American League. Never before, he said, have youngsters had such an opportunity of correctly learning how to play the game, and never before have they had brighter chances of working their way from the lowliest of the bush leagues to major league heights and stardom.

"Formation of the new Class E Leagues, schools for baseball and the American Legion program offer youngsters marvelous opportunities to learn the game from former major league stars," Harridge said. "Previously no one took much interest in the boy who seriously wanted to learn the sport, but today it's a different and more gratifying story.

918 TEAMS IN THIS STATE

"The American Legion's baseball program enjoyed a great season in 1938. Under the direction of H. L. Chaillaux, head of the Legion's National Americanism Commission, thousands of boys played the game with expert instruction. In Illinois there were 1,855 teams and New York State had 918.

"The Kellogg School had 220,000 boys, between the ages of 10 and 16 learning the game from such teachers as Harry Heilmann, Lew Fonseca, Tris Speaker and Jack Coombs. As the result of these programs, high school coaches are becoming more baseball-minded, taking time to properly instruct boys to take care of themselves and play the game fairly."

Thirty graduates of American Legion baseball, Harridge said, now are in organized baseball, and major league clubs generally are building on players brought up slowly from the minors.

CAUTIONS OF RUSHING

"The New York Yanks, Detroit Tigers and Boston Red Sox, among othes, have developed young players with success," Harridge continued. "They don't rush the boys. When they do reach the majors, the clubs are pretty certain they'll stay there."

The two major leagues each give the American Legion $20,000 annually to aid its junior diamond program. Harridge believes it is money well invested and that with the new Class E Circuits, authorized this year, more and more boys will step on that lowest rung in baseball's ladder and climb to the top.

The Greatest Man Eaters

The record of these two lions, known as the man eaters of Tsavo, is the most remarkable in existence, according to no less an authority than President Theodore Roosevelt himself.

When the British Government commenced the construction of the Uganda Railway in 1896, the line got only as far as the town of Tsavo (Kenya) when it was halted by the depredations of two lions who carried off from their tents and devoured a total of 135 laborers within a period of 9 months. The construction was not resumed until J. H. Patterson of England finally slew the man eaters, but in the meantime the Prime Minister of England acknowledged in Parliament that two lions were powerful enough to halt the construction of a British Railway.

DEWAMINATO KEEPS WINNING; FUTABAYAMA IS BACK IN FORM

Dewaminato yet is to taste defeat in the current 13-day Sumo tournament at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku. Before another packed house Thursday in the eighth day's bouts, he threw Shachinosato, reputed the handsomest of all competing wrestlers, with a beautiful body with clever use of his arms.

Grand Champion Futabayama apparently is back in form for he triumphed over Banjaku, he of the great protruding belly, for his second straight win after his continuous setbacks on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday to the consternation of his supporters. No doubt his doctor's advice that there was nothing wrong with him physically and that it was only a case of nerves has helped him considerably.

MINANOGAWA WINS

Grand Champion Minanogawa, who suffered his first defeat on Wednesday at the hands of Tamanoumi, had little trouble disposing of Ayanobori, who has fallen into a slump.

Champion Kagamiiwa, near 40 and the oldest among the contestants, won a scintillating victory by defeating Nayoroiwa, considered a coming grand champion, in a humdinger of a match. They each grasped each other on the girdle with their left arms. On equal terms, Nayoroiwa started pushing and forced Kagamiiwa to the edge of the ring. The latter effected a turn to maneuver himself out of danger and turned the tables on his opponent by shoving him out of the ring.

Champion Mayedayama registered his sixth victory out of eight starts by proving too strong for Akinoumi, the stalwart that had stopped Futabayama's winning streak at 69. Akinoumi started off auspiciously by thrusting his left arm through Mayedayama's defense for a firm grip on the latter's girdle. But Mayedayama in turn grasped Akinoumi's girdle with his right arm from above, and began a drive that crushed Akinoumi outside the ring.

In what was a major surprise, the up and coming Hishuzan outpushed Tamanoumi for victory for his seventh win.

HAGUROYAMA SHINES

Haguroyama, stable-mate of Futabayama, impressed the spectators with his powerful arms in his victory over Kasagiyama, former Waseda University student. No sooner had they stood up than Haguroyama grasped Kasagiyama's girdle from the front, his favorite hold. Kasagiyama attempted to break this hold but Haguroyama began charging even more furiously. Then he attempted a body throw. Kasagiyama checked this but lost his balance and Haguroyama with one push with his powerful right arm, sent Kasagiyama sprawling outside the ring.

The results of the principal bouts after the intermission follows:

Matsuuragata defeated Ichiwatari.
Banshinzan defeated Toshuzan.
Fujigadake defeated Tsurugamine.
Katsuragawa defeated Jinmuyama.
Aobayama defeated Fujinosato.
Ayawaka defeated Kaikozan.
Takanobori defeated Taikyuzan.
Tomoegata defeated Wakashima.
Dewaminoto defeated Shachinosato.
Ohshio defeated Dewanohana.
Itsutsushima defeated Hatasegawa.
Kaneminato defeated Yamatonishiki.
Ryuozan defeated Tatekabuto.
Onami defeated Ryogoku.
Kashimanada defeated Kojimakawa.
Komanosato defeated Asahigawa.
Haguroyama defeated Kasagiyama.
Mayedayama defeated Akinoumi.
Kagamiiwa defeated Nayoroiwa.
Futabayama defeated Banjaku.
Minanogawa defeated Ayanobori.

RANGERS BEAT AMERICANS, 6-2 AT ICE HOCKEY

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 24—The New York Rangers broke their tie with the Americans to gain unchallenged possession of second place in the National Hockey League last night by trouncing the Detroit Red Wings in a free-scoring battle at Madison Square Garden. Lester Patrick's charges showed no mercy to the cellar occupants from the Automobile City and subjected them to a 6-to-2 beating.

Aiding the New Yorkers no little was George Allen recruit left wing playing in his first major league game. Allen was conscripted from the Blue Shirt's farm, the Philadelphia Ramblers of the International-American League, as a replacement for Lynn Patrick, who underwent an operation yesterday afternoon to correct an injured knee condition.

The erstwhile minor leaguer signalized his "big-time" debut by scoring two goals against Tiny Thompson, veteran cage guardian for the Red Wings, and he came within an ace of the hat-trick when Thompson robbed him in the dying moments with a remarkable save. Allen's work was the feature of an otherwise dull struggle, and he was roundly cheered by the 8,000 fans when the final siren sounded. Besides his two goals, Allen received credit for an assist on a counter by Cecil Dillon.

BACK-HANDER CONNECTS

Virtually from the outset, the Red Wings were forced to trail the fast-skating New Yorkers. For in little more than a minute MacColville beat Thompson with a back-hand drive. This margin was maintained by the Rangers through the first period, but in the second chapter they increased their lead by two goals before the Wings could tally.

Alex Shibicky and Allen came through with scores in the middle chapter before Alex Motter of the visitors beat Davey Kerr. The Rangers nullified this achievement on a tally by Neil Colville.

In the final session Allen and Dillon added to the Wings' woe with successful shots, but the invaders managed to fashion a score late in the game, when Sid Howe netted the puck.

The Rangers sprang to the attack with the starting signal. Babe Pratt advanced over Detroit's line and passed to MacColville. The latter released a back-hand shot from the center alley, intended more as a means of getting rid of the puck than anything else. The disk flew true to the net, however, and caught Thompson completely by surprise in 1:08.

DEFENSEMEN AID KERR

Through the rest of the period the Wings attacked, but the Ranger guards gave Kerr splendid protection.

In the second session the Colville brothers seized the disk after the opening face-off and maneuvered into Detroit ice, where Shibicky seized it and drove into the cords in 1:40. Shortly afterward, in 4:15, Allen snared his first goal, taking a precise pass from Art Coulter and banging the puck into the cage from a point just outside the crease.

The Wings strove mightily to cut the advantage, and succeeded at length in 7:42, when Motter converted a pass from Pete Kelly in 7:42. In 14:41, with Ott Heller of the Rangers in the penalty box, Neil Colville interrupted a Detroit attack, seizing the puck and scoring unassisted after a short dash.

Detroit massed its skaters in Ranger territory through the third period, but was forced to yield another score when Clint Smith stole the rubber and transferred to Allen, who counted in 11:55. In 12:48, Allen and Smith combined to set the disk up for Dillon, who caged it in 12:48.

A concerted drive resulted in Detroit's second tally, which Howe made in 19:00 on passes from Herb Lewis and Marty Barry.

The line-up:

Pastor Vanquishes Shucco in 10 Rounds

N.Y. Times

BOSTON, Dec. 21—Bob Pastor, young New York heavyweight, won a unanimous decision from Tony Schucco, veteran Boston heavyweight, in ten rounds on the Goodwin A. C. card tonight at the Boston Garden.

Buddy Knox, young Dayton, Ohio, heavyweight, launched a blistering attack in the last two sessions to gain a divided decision over Al McCoy of Boston in another ten-rounder. A crowd of 9,198 watched the fights.

Pastor, who weighed 184, had a difficult time gaining the winning margin. The Bostonian's bobbing and weaving tactics caused his rival to miss many punches.

Shucco, at 181½, showed surprising footwork and rated himself wisely, with the result that they were battling toe to toe at the final bell.

Pastor concentrated most of his attack on Shucco's body. Tony used a left jab and right uppercut to advantage and held off Pastor every time he tried to land a decisive blow.

BIG BILL LEE BEST PITCHER IN NATIONAL

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 24—Big Bill Lee, whose powerful right arm literally catapulted the Cubs into their sensational penant victory last Fall, was the National League's outstanding pitcher for 1938 by almost any standard of measurement, according to the official averages announced yesterday. For not only does Lee top the list in effectiveness with the lowest earned-run average among the hurlers to take part in ten or more complete games, but he turned in the most victories and the highest winning percentage as well.

Lee carried off the honors for effectiveness with an average of 2.66 earned runs per nine-inning game. Paul Deringer, who made a surprisingly fine comeback with the Reds, rates second with 2.93, and next comes Danny MacFayden, bespectacled veteran of the Bees, with 2.95.

On the whole, pitchers seemed to have a far more trying time of it last season, for these are the only three to finish with marks under 3, whereas in 1937 there were no fewer than seven who placed under that average.

KLINGER THE BEST ROOKIE

Freshman stars also had their troubles, for where the first-year hurlers Jim Turner and Cliff Melton ran one-two in 1937, the first rookie to appear on the 1938 list is Kob Klinger of the Pirates, who is rated fourth with an ever 3.00.

The veteran knuckleballer, Freddie Fitzsimmons, who was cast adrift as through by the Giants in 1937, makes a surprising fifth-place appearance for the Dodger with a 3.01 average, while Carl Hubbell, despite the fact that he had to be shelved with an arm ailment in August, again shows up remarkably well. The veteran screwball maestro placed sixth with 3.067.

In gaining the highest winning percentage, Lee won twenty-two games and lost nine for a .710 average. His total of victories was also the highest in the loop. In fact, there was only one other twenty-game winner, Derringer recording twenty-one triumphs against fourteen defeats.

PITCHING RECORD

The outstanding pitching achievement of the year, of course, was Johnny Vander Meer's feat of hurling two successive no-hit, no-run games. In all, the Reds' sensational left-hander pitched 21 2-3 consecutive hitless innings, thereby bettering the record of 17 1-3 innings set by Dazzy Vance in 1925. His two successive no-hitters also erased Vance's record of allowing only one hit in two games, as well as James F. Galvin's mark, made with Buffalo in 1884.

In addition, Vander Meer had the season's longest winning streak in the league, winning nine in a row. Inversely, Bill McGee of the Cardinals gained the unsolicited distinction of turning in the longest losing streak. He dropped nine.

Lee pitched the most shut-outs, nine, and, with Derringer, tied for starting most games, thirty-seven. Derringer faced most batsmen, 1,263; allowed most hits, 315; pitched most innings, 307, and hurled the most complete games, twenty-six.

OLD MARK IS TIED

By pitching four consecutive shut-outs Lee tied the National League record held jointly by Ed Ruelbach of the Cubs in 1908 and Grover Alexander of the Phillies in 1911.

Mace Brown of the Pirates and Dick Coffman of the Giants tied for taking part in most games, 51, while Brown, by pitching in 51 games, none complete, surpassed by one his own record of 50 incompleted games in 1937. Coffman, by finishing 35 games, displaced the former league record of 31 set by Jack Quinn with the Dodgers in 1932.

Clay Bryant of the Cubs carried off the league's strikeout title by fanning 135. However, he also allowed the most bases on balls, passing 125, and the most sacrifice hits, 21. Hugh Mulcahy of the Phillies lost the most games, 20; allowed most runs, 162, and most earned runs, 137.

Three pitchers tied for hitting the most batsmen, these being Claude Passeau of the Phils, Forest Pressnell of the Dodgers and Tex Carleton of the Cubs. Each hit 8, while Carleton also unfurled the most wild pitches, 12.

MCGILL CAGERS BEATEN, 77-39 BY L.I.U. FIVE

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 22—In command all the way, Long Island University's basketball team easily subdued McGill University of Montreal, 77 to 39, at the Brooklyn College of Pharmacy gymnasium last night to remain in the undefeated group.

Shuttling in and out of the contest in batches, the Blackbirds packed too much power and finesse for their Canadian rivals and bagged their sixth verdict.

In registering its second largest score of the current season L. I. U. boosted its point total to 406. However, McGill, paced by Neville Wykes, had the consolation of recording the highest tally made against Coach Clair Bee's pupils thus far.

The Blackbirds rolled up points in machine-like style through the first half and at the intermission were in front, 32 to 5. Although lacking in reserves, McGill flashed improvement in the final stanza and held its own during a large portion of the second half.

Wykes distinguished himself for the invaders, accounting for 19 tallies. Teammate Dave Kingston followed with 14, while Captain Irving Torgoff topped L. I. U. with 12.

CARLETON SOLD BY BRUINS TO MILWAUKEE

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, Dec. 21—The Cubs and White Sox participated in a mild flurry of baseball trading today, with the Cubs selling a veteran pitcher and the White Sox obtaining Eric McNair from the Red Sox in a straight trade for Lou (Boze) Berger. Both Berger and McNair are infielders.

Continuing the reconstruction program promised by Manager Gabby Hartnett after his Bruins had lost four straight to New York in the world series, the Cubs sold right-hander Tex Carleton and a young catcher, John Bottarini, to Milwaukee of the American Association. The Cubs recently signed a working agreement with the Brewers.

CUBS HAVE BIG HURLING STAFF

The disposal of Carleton, troubled with a sore arm in 1938 when he won ten and lost nine, still left the Cubs owning about fifteen hurlers. Several are minor league youngsters whom Hartnett believes he can mold into major league talent.

One of them, Julian Tubbs, a right hander who won eleven games and lost eight with Selma of the Southeastern League last season, was optioned to Birmingham of the Southern League for 1939. The Cubs also returned Joe Cavosi, outfielder with Moline in 1938, to the Three-I League club on option for another season.

The Berger-McNair trade virtually was made in a hospital room. The sore knee which gave McNair trouble this past season, when he appeared in only forty-six games, was examined by the White Sox physician. When he found the veteran in good shape, Sox officials immediately signed McNair to a contract. He hit only .156 in 1938 to Berger's .217 in 118 games, but had a good season in 1937, batting .292

McNAIR TEN-YEAR MAN AT 29

A ten-year man in the majors, McNair is 29 years old, plays either second base or shortstop and is a right-handed batter. He was with the Boston club three years, going there from Philadelphia.

General Manager Eddie Collins said Boston intended to use Berger as a utility man.

There were rumors that Manager Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox would use McNair as bait in an attempt to get Catcher Frank Pytlak from Cleveland. Vice-President Harry Grabiner said, however, he believed Dykes would develop his young backstops and use McNair in a relief role.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 21—Jimmy Jordan, former second baseman for the Dodgers, has signed to manage the Hutchinson (Kan.) Club in the Western Association, which operates under a working agreement with the Pirates, the National League club announced tonight. Jordan succeeds Hugh McMullen, veteran catcher, and will likely play for the Larks also.

MONTREAL, Dec. 21 (Canadian Press).—Sale of Outfielder Paul Dunlap to Birmingham of the Southern Association was announced today by the Montreal Royals. He became the eighth player sold by the International League club within a month.

First Act of a King

King Henry VI (1421-1471) became king of England at the age of 9 months (Sept. 1, 1422). His first official act of government was the appointment signed with the king's thumbprint of Dame Alice Butler as his own nurse "to attend our person with license to chastise us reasonably from time to time." This is the only infant in history who selected his own nurse to administer punishment with the victim's own approbation.

FUTABAYAMA DEFEATED AGAIN, THIS TIME BY TAMANOUMI

Grand Champion Futabayama's two victories on Wednesday and Thursday after his three successive defeats on the preceding three days had given the Sumo world an impression that he had come back into form, but apparently there is something wrong with him. For he was defeated again Friday in the ninth day's bouts of the 13-day Spring tournament at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku.

The winner was Tamanoumi, ace pupil of the late Grand Champion Tamanishiki, and it was a scintillating victory as Friday was the 49th day since Tamanishiki's death, which according to Buddhists marks the final date before a human's entrance into the beyond. First thing Tamanoumi did after the bout was to return to the Nishogaseki training house, which was headed by Tamanishiki and which he now supervises, to report his victory to the tablet, symbolical of his late teacher's soul. Present at the rites were the widow and daughter of the late Tamanishiki.

FUTABAYAMA GOOD SPORT

Grand Champion Futabayama showed himself a good sport by being the first to congratulate Tamanoumi. They met later in the evening at a restaurant where a celebration party was being held for Tamanoumi and engaged in friendly conversations.

The bout itself was all Tamanoumi's. No sooner had they stood up than they grasped each other's girdle to be on even terms but Tamanoumi took the offensive by starting a drive. He forced Futabayama to the edge of the ring. Futabayama put up a strong defense but he was finally shoved out.

Among the interested spectators was His Imperial Highness Lieutenant-General Prince Yasuhiko Asaka, member of the Supreme War Council, who received Shimadagawa, Sumo man now back home after being wounded on the China front, at the Imperial box. The Prince inquired after the former wrestler's health. The latter, overwhelmed with the honor given him, showed the Prince a picture in which he is with His Imperial Highness Lieutenant-General Prince Higashikuni on the China front when received on the occasion.

Admiral Osami Nagano, former Navy Minister and Commander of the Combined Fleet, was an ardent spectator.

The best match of the day was that between Haguroyama, a stablemate of Futabayama and a candidate for Champion ranking, and Champion Mayedayama. Haguroyama, who has the most powerfully built shoulders of them all, proved too strong for Mayedayama and after a torrid scrimmage, lifted the latter into the air and deposited him outside the ring for victory.

MINANOGAWA WINS

Grand Champion Minanogawa continued to be a candidate for the championship honors by defeating Champion Kagamiiwa without much trouble. One shove with his powerful arms and down went the veteran Kagamiiwa sprawling on to the sand. He has lost only one bout to date, to Tamanoumi.

Dewaminato registered his ninth straight victory by disposing of the lanky Fujigadake to be the only undefeated wrestler among the first ranking wrestlers. But he was expected to have a difficult time of it today against the strong Haguroyama.

Hishuzan kept running neck and neck with Minanogawa for highest honors by forcing out Kojimakawa.

Kagamiiwa, as a second, protested against the referee's decision in favor of Nayoroiwa over Kasagiyama, but the judges disallowed it. It seemed as if they had fallen together on to the sand after a furious bout.

The results of the principal bouts after the intermission follow:

Ichiwatari defeated Takanobori.
Dewaminato defeated Fujigadake.
Tomoyegata defeated Fujinosato.
Hatasegawa defeated Jinmuyama.
Dewanohana defeated Kaikozan.
Kaneminato defeated Ayawaka.
Taikyuzan defeated Katsuragawa.
Aobayama defeated Wakashima.
Tsurugamine defeated Yamatonishiki.
Itsutsushima defeated Toshuzan.
Hishuzan defeated Kojimakawa.
Ryuozan defeated Onami.
Shachinosato defeated Komanosato.
Akinoumi defeated Onshio.
Kashimanada defeated Asahigawa.
Tatekabuto defeated Ayanobori.
Nayoroiwa defeated Kasagiyama.
Haguroyama defeated Mayedayama.
Minangawa defeated Kagamiiwa.
Tamanoumi defeated Futabayama.

"Ye did not, ma'am. I enquired about a milkmaid at the dairy."

RANGERS SCALP CANADIENS BY 5-2 COUNT

N.Y. Times

MONTREAL, Dec. 22.—The New York Rangers strengthened their hold on second place in the National Hockey League tonight by defeating the Montreal Canadiens, 5 to 2, for their third straight victory over the flying Frenchmen.

Alex Shibicky paced a Ranger attack that hit its peak in the last minutes of the third period by scoring three goals, while Mac Colville got one and Clint Smith the other. Babe Siebert, burly defenseman, scored both Montreal goals which came in the final period.

It was the fourth defeat in a row for the Canadiens and left them in the league cellar.

Bourque did not have a stop to make in the first five minutes, as the Canadiens carried the attack but were unable to break through to cause much worry to Kerr. At the six-minute mark, however, Hextall was right in on Bourque, but the Montreal netminder made a beautiful play to kick out the shot.

CAIN DRAWS PENALTY

Shortly after the halfway mark in the period Cain drew a penalty for holding and Bourque had to be sensational to stop a shot that Dillon fired from just outside the crease.

Play was fairly fast in the opening minutes of the second period with the Rangers carrying a slight attacking edge. The Hiller-Watson-Hextall line overshadowed the Blake-Haynes-Gagnon trio and Hiller twice was in for hard shots at Bourque.

A neat passing play sent the Rangers ahead at 5.26, when Mac Colville finished off a tricky maneuver with his brother Neil and M. Patrick by lifting the puck over Bourque, who was sprawled on the ice.

A minute later the Rangers had another tally as again their passing completely fooled the Canadiens and Shibicky scored. The goal came at 6.30 with the two Colvilles drawing assists.

Bourque made a smart feet-first sliding stop early in the third period on a shot from Neil Colville. A minute later Prat twas penalized for tripping Gagnon as the Canadien wingman tried to skirt the New York defense.

SIEBERT TALLIES AT 4:05

Pratt hardly had taken his spot on the penalty bench before Siebert took a pass from Blake and backhanded a terrific shot past Kerr at 4:05.

Summerhill was pounded to the ice by the Ranger defense and because the officials didn't stop play immediately a person in a box seat hurled his chair to the ice. The chair narrowly missed the heads of the Ranger spares sitting along the rinkside and one of them threatened to climb into the box after the spectator.

Shibicky got his second goal at 14:39 as Coulter and Neil Colville set him up by drawing Bourque far from the net. Hardly a half-minute later Gagnon hit the post with a shot that had Kerr beaten all the way, but the Canadiens made up for the bad luck as Siebert tallied his second goal at 15:46 on passes from Haynes and Gagnon.

The Rangers put the game away with two tallies near the close of the period, Shibicky getting the first at 17:52 and Smith the second at 18:08.

The line-up:

PARKER MADE MORE YARDAGE THAN ALL OTHERS

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 22—The final official National Football League individual statistics released yesterday make it clear that Byron (Whizzer) White of Pittsburgh was the leading ground-gainer and that Ed Danowski of New York was the most efficient forward passer, but they do not indicate quite so plainly that Ace Parker of Brooklyn was, in reality, the big offensive gun of the pro circuit in 1938.

The "one-man team" of the Dodgers, a Duke graduate of 1937, led all the 100-odd backs listed in the matter of making yards from scrimmage for his team. Taking both running and passing into consideration, Parker accounted for a total of 1,118 yards.

PASSES NETTED 865 YARDS

The Brooklyn field general, one of the lightest of the regular back in the league who nevertheless kept going at top speed for nearly sixty minutes of almost every contest, picked up 253 yards in ninety-three attempts on running plays and added another 865 yards to his total with sixty-three passes that hit the mark.

On this basis of calculation, Cecil Isbeli, the brilliant Green Bay recruit from Purdue, whose play seemed to be unhampered by the chain that bound his left arm close to his side to prevent a trick shoulder from slipping out of joint, was close behind with 1,104 yards. The Packers' ace made 445 yards running and 659 yards passing.

DANOWSKI BROKE RECORD

The veteran Danowski, who set a league efficiency record with 70 of his 129 passes completed for an average of .542, was the only other to exceed the 1,000 mark in total scrimmage yardage. Big Ed, more of a ball-carrying threat this year than ever before, added 215 ground yards to the 848 his passes gained for a total of 1,063.

The "freshman" White, like Parker a real workhorse, made 960 yards for the lowly Pirates, 567 by running and 393 by passing. Sammy Baugh of Washington, with 888 yards (all except 335 by passing); Dave Smukler of Philadelphia, with 837; Bernie Masterson of the Chicago Bears, with 832; Jack Robbins of the Chicago Cardinals, with 790; Robin Hartman of Washington, with 753, and Tuffy Leemans of the Giants, with 712, rounded out the first ten.

U.S. Five Defeats Japanese at Manila

Japan's all-star basketball team was beaten 33 to 27 by the American players now touring in the Philippines at Manila on Thursday, according to a Domei dispatch.

Overcoming the height advantage on the part of the Americans, the Japanese cagers led 16 to 15 at half-time and was out in front up to 14 minutes in the second half. Three consecutive field goals gave the Americans a 5 point lead, and stalling on the part of the latter turned the Japanese back.

NOTRE DAME BEATS NORTHWESTERN, 48-30

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 22—Notre Dame, after losing to two other Big Ten basketball teams, finally found itself tonight against Northwestern and walloped the Wildcats, 48 to 30.

The defeat was the worst Notre Dames has given Northwestern in twelve years on the court. The schools will play another game New Year's Eve at Evanston. Notre Dame, which has won two games this season, lost to Wisconsin and Michigan before tonight.

Some 4,000 saw the Irish get away to a 7-to-2 lead in the first five minutes of play and hold an advantage of 5 points or more for the rest of the game.

Sophomore Ed Riska led scoring with 15 points and Paul Ducharme got 12. Bob Koble was high for Northwestern with 7.

MISS INADA TRIUMPHS AGAIN IN FIGURE SKATING MEET; RIKKYO WINS HOCKEY TITLE

Miss Etsuko Inada of Osaka, who as a 12-year old star was the youngest to compete in the women's figure skating competition in the Fourth Olympic Winter Games at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, in 1936 and placed tenth out of a field of some 20 contestants, retained her national championship Sunday at the Shibaura rink.

She scored 200.78 points in the school figures on Saturday and 150.92 points in the free skating on Sunday, for a total of 351.70 points with place number of 5. Some of the experts believed her performance lacked the variations of movements which won her fame in the past, attributing it to that fact that she was a cautious, having gained considerable weight. She attempted a rather small number of jumps. But this she made up in poise that she had lacked previously. She outscored even the men for the third straight year.

Miss Kinuko Nakamura, also of the Osaka Skating Club, was second with 252.18 points with place number of 10. She was credited with 137.38 points in the school figures and 114.80 points in the free skating.

Miss Michiko Yano of the Tokyo Skating Club was third with 227.42 points with place number of 15, registering 138.66 points in the school figures and 88.76 points in the free skating.

A new champion in the men's figure skating competition was crowned in Hiroshi Kanda of Kobe, who scored a total of 297.70 points with place number of 6. He won 171.98 points in the school figures and 125.72 points in the free skating.

By a scintillating performance in the free skating, Takasuke Arizaka of Meiji University almost beat out Kanda for the championship. He scored 132.72 points in this part of the competition as contrasted to 125.72 points by Kanda. In the end, he was only 3.67 points behind. His total was 294.04 points with place number of 9.

Fujimaru Azukishima of the Osaka Skating Club was third with a total of 277.56 points with place number of 15, having resistered 149.32 points in the school figures and 128.24 points in the free skating.

RIKKYO WINS TITLE

Rikkyo University's team won the ice hockey championship by defeating the Waseda University sextet, 4 goals to 3, in the finals Sunday night at the Shibaura rink. A better passing attack won for Rikkyo. Both teams scored a goal each in the first period but Rikkyo clinched the game by outscoring Waseda, 2 to 1, in the second session.

The line-ups were:

Rikkyo: Tanaka, Sunada, Onikura, Omura, Goto and Takahashi, forwards; Tani and Naito, defense; Yamamoto, goalie.

Waseda: Nakagawa, Onikura, Shichida, Kichijima, Shimazu, Morimoto and Kawanishi, forwards; Ichikawa and Suzuki, defense; Onoda, goalie.

Rikkyo and Waseda entered the finals by beating Meiji, 1 to 0, and Keio, 2 to 0, respectively in the semi-finals on Saturday.

BUDGE PLACES RIGGS FIRST IN 1938 RANKING

N.Y. Times

New York, Dec. 24—Robert L. Riggs tops the ranking of the country's lawn tennis players as compiled by J. Donald Budge and announced yesterday.

Budge, who makes his bow as a professional against Ellsworth Vines at the Garden the night of Jan. 3, leaves himself out of the ranking, although it is a foregone conclusion that he will head the official list of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Sidney Wood gets the No. 2 position in the Budge ranking and is followed by Gene Mako, who was finalist at Forest Hills against Budge. Both players had a big year and Budge was hard put to decide between them. Another difficult decision for Budge to make was between Bryan Grant and Joe Hunt for No. 4. He finally gave the call to Grant because of his victory over Adrian Quist of Australia at Forest Hills.

Wilmer Allison, former champion, who staged a brilliant comeback but did not play in the national tournament; Elwood Cooks Jr., Frank Kovacs, Frank Parker and Frank Shields complete the first ten, in that order.

Budge also gives his idea of what the ranking will be a year hence. It follows: Riggs, Wood, Mako or Cooke, Grant, Jackie Kramer, Wayne Sabin, Hal Surface, Donald McNeill and Frank Shields.

DUROCHER BEST 1938 SHORTSTOP IN SENIOR LOOP

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 24—Although believed to have slipped well over the hill when he moved from the Cardinals to the Dodgers a year ago, Leo Durocher, now manager of the League's ranking shortstop for 1938, according to the official fielding averages released for publication today.

Lippy Leo tops the regular short fielders in his circuit with a mark of .9661, beating Arky Vaughan of the Pirates, who is second with .961. Billy Jurges and Dick Bartell, who next season change Cub-Giant uniforms, ran neck and neck for third-place honors, Jurges finishing with .953 and Bartell with .952.

The Dodgers bagged another individual title in the outfield, where Goodwin Rosen leads the picket men who took part in 100 or more games with an average of .989.

TODD HEADED CATCHERS

The Cubs also have placed two men at the top of the individual averages, Jimmy Collins leading the first baseman with .9956, and Billy Herman heading the second basemen with .981.

Joe Stripp, who divided the season between the Cardinals and Bees and since then has traded back to the Dodgers, shows the best mark among the third basemen with .971. Al Todd, recently traded by the Pirates to the Bees, leads the catchers with .9851, while Ernie Lombardi of the Reds for the fourth consecutive year had the most passed balls charged against him, his 1938 total being nine.

Twenty-two pitchers fielded for a perfect 1.000, the leadership going to Jim Turner of the Bees, who handled 89 chances without a misplay.

Vaughan and Pep Young, the Pirates' keystone combination, participated in five double plays each in a game against the Cubs on Aug. 14 to tie the record for shortstops and second basemen held by many players.

NEW RECORD BY SUHR

Gus Suhr, Pirate first baseman, established a new record for his position by taking part in 150 double plays in 145 games, thereby displacing the old mark of 149 for 152 games, made by Jim Bottomley while with the Cardinals in 1927.

Still another individual mark fell to a Pirate when Bill Brubaker committed four errors at third base in a game against the Reds on April 30. That set a new league record.

Harry Gumbert of the Giants made 10 assists against the Pirates on May 23 to tie a record held by three other pitchers, while Claude Passeau of the Phillies equaled another pitchers' mark by making a double play unassisted. A similar record for catchers was tied by Virgil Davis of the Phillies.

Still another individual fielding mark for pitchers to be equaled was that of making three assists in one inning, Vance Page of the Cubs tying the record shared by three other hurlers.

TEAM MARK FOR CUBS

The Cubs, for the third consecutive year, took the team-fielding honors, their average for 1938 being .978. The Pirates have the next best mark, .974, while the Dodgers and Giants made it necessary to carry the fight out to four decimal places to decide third position. The Dodgers shaded their arch rivals, .9731 to .9725.

The Cubs, by carrying their percentage to four places, also established a new team record, their mark of .9779 topping the best previous average of .9778, set by Boston in 1933.

Still another mark fell to the Chicagoans when they made only 135 errors. This bettered their own best previous record of 137 misplays in 1934.

The Reds, with only one assist against the Dodgers on Aug. 6, tied a record set by the Cubs in 1932.

Japanese Beaten, 37-31 By U.S. Five At Manila

Japan lost again to the American basketball team at Manila in their second game last Saturday night at Manila, according to a Domei dispatch. The final score was 37 to 31.

Using the Chosenese players to good advantage, Japan led 17 to 9 at half-time. But the Americans rallied, puncturing the basket time and again with long shots, and forged into the lead in the last minute of play in the second half.

CARDINAL STAR WON SLUGGING HONORS IN 1938

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 24—Johnny Mize, hard-clouting first baseman of the Cardinals, and his renowned team-mate, Joe Medwick, carried off the major slugging honors in the National League for 1938, according to the official averages announced yesterday.

By amassing a total of 326 bases on his hits in 531 times at bat, Mize compiled a slugging percentage of .614, a margin of 31 points over Melvin Ott of the Giants, who is placed second with .583. Medwick finished third with .536, closely followed by two of the Reds, Ival Goodman and Ernie Lombardi, who averaged .533 and .524 respectively.

To Medwick goes the signal distinction of having driven in the most runs in his league for the third consecutive year. The Card outfielder's total for last season was 122.

LEADERS IN PRODUCING RUNS

Only four other players drove in 100 or more tallies. These were Ott with 116, Johnny Rizzo of the Pirates with 111, Mize with 102 and Dolph Camilli of the Dodgers with an even 100.

Camilli received the most bases on balls, 119, just topping Ott who, with 118, brought his record for 100 or more passes during a season to six years. Ott was also hit three times by Pitcher Jim Tobin of the Pirates on Sept. 15, thereby tying a record set by Roy Evans with the Cardinals in 1910.

Vince DiMaggio of the Bees, brother of the Yankees' Jolting Joe, for the second successive year struck out the most times, 134, this figure establishing a new league record. The previous mark was 119, set by Camilli while with the Phillies in 1935. Jimmy Brown of the Cards fanned the fewest number of times, 9, among the players who took part in 100 games or more. Goodman was the season's most inviting target for pitchers, getting hit 15 times.

HIT INTO 30 DOUBLE PLAYS

Although Lombardi was the league's batting champion for the year, he gained another distinction of which he doubtless cannot feel quite so proud. Hitting into 30 double plays, the Reds' heavy-footed catcher set a new league record, displacing his own mark of 24 which he made in 1934.

Johnny Hudson of the Dodgers, by hitting into a double plays in the second game of a double-header with Cubs on Aug. 25, tied a record held by many players who very likely do not care to be reminded of the feat any more than does Johny.

Thanks to the combined efforts of Mize and Medwick, the Cardinals carried off team-slugging honors with a mark of .407, with the Reds placing second with .396. The Bees and Phillies were the two weakest clouting clubs in the circuit, it requiring four decimal figures to determine the poorer. The distinction goes to the Phils with .3330, while the Bees averaged .3333. The Cards drove in the most runs, 680.

The Cubs, by hitting into 157 double plays, established a new league record, displacing the old mark of 146, set by the Bees in 1936. The Dodgers received the most bases on balls, 611, and struck out the most times, 615.

The Giants for the third consecutive year had the most batters hit by pitcher, 33, while the Reds, by having 4 batters hit in the second games of a double-header on July 19 against the Bees, tied a modern league record set by the Giants on Aug. 1, 1903.

Japan Will Compete Again in Davis Cup

Dispelling prevailing rumors of non-entrance, the Japan Lawn Tennis Association Davis Cup Committee, at its meeting on Sunday, voted for participation again this year in the American zone.

Jiro Yamagishi, Japan's No. 1 player, and Fumitcru Nakano of Hosei university, were selected as members of the team. They both played against Canada and Australia last year.

Entrance in the American zone will be formally made known to the United States Lawn Tennis Association shortly.

Babe Didrikson Married To Pro Wrestler

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 23—Two stars of the athletic world—Mildred (Babe) Didrikson, the versatile Beaumont, Texas, girl who sky-rocketed to fame in the 1932 Olympics, and Geoge Zaharias, the wrestler, were wed late today.

Their marriage was a culmination of a romance which began on a golf course, when they were paired together in the Los Angeles open tournament a year ago.

After a wrestling match for the 29-year-old bridegroom here next week, the couple plan to go to Beaumont for a short stay, and then journey to Australia for a seven-month honeymoon.

Miss Didrikson, who is now 24 years old, gained fame on the track, but she since has starred as a football player, a baseball pitcher, basketball trouper, a boxer and now as a golf pro.

Zaharias, whose real name is Theodore Vetoyanis, is from Pueblo, Colo. He has been wrestling professionally for eight years.

DEWAMINATO GETS 11TH, BEATS TAMANOUMI

Dewaminato just about assured himself of a spotless record and the championship in the 13-day Spring Sumo tournament at the Kokugikan bowl by defeating Tamanoumi, his biggest obstacle, Sunday afternoon in the 11th day's bouts before a packed crowd of more than 20,000 fans.

Tamanoumi, ace pupil of the late Grand Champion Tamanishiki, had downed Grand Champion Minanogawa, the latter's only defeat up to Sunday, and Grand Champion Futabayama as well, and so it was believed that Dewaminato would have very little chance against him. But Dewaminato, previous to the Spring tournament last year, had been a "Sekiwake," the third rank from grand champion the highest, and if experience is considered, he has had more than Tamanoumi and his victory Sunday should not be considered in the light of too much of an upset.

Dewaminato had surprised his warmest admirers on Saturday by disposing of Haguroyama, who has made the quickest rise in the Sumo world. Sunday, in the most looked forward to match of the day, he triumphed over Tamanoumi with as beautiful body throw as has been seen in the Kokugikan ring.

His opponent today was to be "Human Bullet" Temoegata, short and stout, but with caution on Dewaminato's part, victory is more than 75 per cent his. Tomoegata's only chance for victory is to get the jump on Dewaminato and shove him out of the ring.

Dewaminato's opponent on Tuesday, the final day of the bout, will be either Kaikozan, who has yet to win, or the short but crafty Kaneminato, or perhaps the lanky Takanobori. Dewaminato should have no trouble winning, if he does not lose his head.

A victory today and Tuesday and Dewaminato will be the first wrestler to win the championship, other than a grand champion, champion, "sekiwake" and "komusubi," fourth rank from the top, since 1930 when Yamanishiki (the present Minanogawa) turned the trick.

Plenty of happiness apparently is in store for Dewaminato. His life size portrait seems bent on being attached to the steel frame dome ceiling of the bowl, symbolical of the championship. And then he is to be married shortly after the tournament.

SOMETHING NEW

Something new in Sumo history was written down when Champion Kagamiiwa and Banjaku both refused to go on after they had retaken their bout, electing to give each other the victory, saying they were too exhausted to start anew. They engaged in a torrid bout and it was called a draw, the two to wrestle again after the two succeeding bouts. But when they did so, neither could throw the other, and the referee separated the two. The upshot of it was that a defeat was charged to both wrestlers.

Minanogawa again impressed the spectators with his herculean strength by virtually crushing the strong Haguroyama on the sand.

Hishuzan, up and coming wrestler, defeated Onami for his tenth victory and like Minanogawa still has a chance of tying Dewaminato for the top honors.

Futabayama had little trouble defeating Ayanobori, who is in a bad slump.

The results of the principal bouts after the intermission follow:

Tsurugamine defeated Ichiwatari.
Dewanohana defeated Toshuzan.
Jinmuyama defeated Takanobori.
Fujigadake defeated Ayawaka.
Shachinosato defeated Fujinosato.
Wakashima defeated Katsuragawa.
Hishuzan defeated Onami.

Dewaminato defeated Tamanoumi.
Kagamiiwa and Banjaku (both charged with defeats).

LIKE A TRUE CHAMPION

Grand Champion Futabayama, right, lifting Champion Mayedayama out of the ring for an impressive victory in Monday's Sumo bouts at the Kokugikan bowl.

DEWAMINATO HAS BEST CHANCE TO WIN SUMO CHAMPIONSHIP

A victory late today over Banjaku, he of the great protruding belly, and Dewaminato will have won the championship of the 13-day Spring Sumo tournament in its last day. For he won his 12th straight victory Monday afternoon by defeating the short but stout Tomoegata. But Banjaku is one of the strongest of the wrestlers in competition today, and Dewaminato is in for a tough bout. At that, his cleverness may be his salvation.

Grand Champion Minanogawa kept right on the heels of Dewaminato for the championship honors by winning impressively over Nayoroiwa, strong stable-mate of Grand Champion Futabayama. He has lost but once but this afternoon, he was to take on Futabayama in the climaxing bout of the tournament, and many are conceding victory to Futabayama, who apparently has regained his form.

MINANOGAWA WINS

No sooner had they stood up than Minanogawa thrust his two powerful arms through Nayoroiwa's defense and started pushing. Nayoroiwa, much the shorter of the two in height, made a gallant stand at the edge of the ring. He maneuvered himself back into the center of the ring but Minanogawa started a drive again. As Nayoroiwa attempted a body throw, Minanogawa with sheer strength beat him to it with a throw, using his right arm, and down went the heavy Nayoroiwa.

Hishuzan, too kept in running for the title by defeating the large Ohshio for his eleventh victory.

If Dewaminato loses today and Minanogawa wins, the latter will have won the championship honors by virtue of his higher ranking.

Futabayama, title holder in the last five tournaments, showed that he is back in his own after four setbacks in the current tourney, by taking the measure of Champion Mayedayama after a torrid bout. The two grasped each other on even terms, and though Mayedayama tried desperately to lift the heavier Futabayama out of the ring, the latter checked his attack. They then stood there in the center of the ring without moving, cautiously waiting for an opening. Time was called to allow them a breathing spell. No sooner had time been called in than Mayedayama tried a body throw but Futabayama was on his guard. Gradually forcing Mayedayama to the edge of the ring, with one heave, Futabayama lifted him high into the air and threw him outside of the ring for an impressive victory.

RYUOZAN IS FAST

The up and coming Ryuozan was too quick for Tamanoumi, who had vanquished Minanogawa and Futabayama, grasping his leg and defeated him in a royal upset.

The result of the principal bouts after the intermission follows:

Banshinzan defeated Ichiwatari.
Dewaminato defeated Tomoegata.
Dewanohana defeated Tatekabuto.
Wakashima defeated Toshuzan.
Hishuzan defeated Ohshio.
Onami defeated Taikyuzan.
Itsutsushima defeated Tsurugamine.
Kojimakawa defeated Yamatonishiki.
Hatasegawa defeated Ryogoku.
Komanosato defeated Aobayama.
Fujigadake defeated Kashimanada.
Kaneminato defeated Akinoumi.
Ayawaka defeated Asahigawa.
Shachinosato defeated Kasagiyama.
Haguroyama defeated Banjaku.
Ryuozan defeated Tamanoumi.
Kagamiiwa defeated Ayanobori.
Futabayama defeated Mayedayama.
Minanogawa defeated Nayoroiwa.

Japanese Five Beaten Again By U.S. Cagers

The All-Japan basketball team suffered its third straight defeat at the hands of the American contingent now in the Philippines Sunday night at Manila by a 43-28 score, according to a dispatch to the Asahi.

The Americans led 18-13 to half-time and widened the gap between the two in the second with excellent shooting.

The Japanese team left Manila at 9 p.m. Monday homeward bound on the N. D. L. liner Gneisenau.

McGILL CAGERS BEATEN AT N.Y.

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 24—City College's fast and clever basketball team routed McGill University of Montreal, 43 to 28, last night in the C. C. N. Y. gymnasium. It was the fourth meeting between the rivals.

The aggressive Beavers, with better passing and presenting an efficient defense which forced the visitors to resort to long-range shooting, led most of the way as they kept City's record in the McGill series unblemished.

Drawing ahead early in the initial half of this first court meeting between the teams in more than a decade, the Lavender held command thereafter. C. C. N. Y. was in front by 24 to 13 at the intermission.

In the waning minutes, when all doubt as to the outcome had been removed, Coach Nat Holman inserted the third-stringers to carry on the good work of the regulars and the seconds. This group entered with the score at 40 to 22 and yielded only two field goals in the final three minutes as the Canadians outscored them by 6 to 3.

Although meeting its second setback as its three-game visit to this State was concluded, McGill had the contest's high scores, Neville Wykes, who made 11 points, 8 on field goals. The City College stars were Lou Lefkowitz and Dave Siperstein with 10 apiece.

HARVARD WINS TOP HONORS IN CHESS PLAY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 24—Harvard chess players, in making a clean sweep in the annual series of team matches against Dartmouth, which bowed by 4—0; Princeton, which the Crimson defeated by 3—1, and Yale, over which it prevailed by 2½—1½, for a team total of 9½ out of a possible 12 points, came through yesterday with another merited success in the competition for the Stephens-Belden Trophy at the Marshall Chess Club.

Only one game was lost outright, three were drawn and all the rest won, and this briefly tells the story of the consistent record which led eventually to the fourth consecutive triumph of the Crimson in these Christmas holiday contests. One more victory, a year hence, would entitle the Cambridge players to permanent custody of this contribution to the sport by two Princeton graduates.

HEWLETT A NEW ENTRANT

Much credit for the triumph must go to the steadiness of Clarence W. Hewlett, '42, of Schenectady, a section winner at the State meeting at Cazenovia, who, playing in this event for the first time, won every game. Substantial support was lent to young Hewlett's efforts by John J. Fernsler, '40, of Flushing and Leonard K. Nash, '39, of New York, neither of whom suffered defeat, both turning in scores of 2½—½.

Meantime, a close struggle was on between Yale and Princeton for second place, and two players, one from each of these colleges, were still bending over the boards long after most of the others had gone.

Yale was particularly anxious to take this match as well as the one against Dartmouth, inasmuch as that would bring about a reversal of the result of last year, when Princeton was the runner-up. To T. L. Niles, '41, of New York, fell the distinction of bringing Yale victory, and he was surrounded by handshaking friends.

ADJOURNED GAME DECIDES

Dartmouth had been defeated in the second round by the Blue, 2½—1½, but in the final Yale had to yield to Harvard by the same figures. The game on which the all-important placing of these two teams depended was one that had been adjourned from the first round. Jules A. Marcus, Yale, '40; Lawrance Lieberfeld, Yale, '39, and Stephen P. Diliberto, Princeton, '42, finished with plus scores. Niles and Diliberto were left to fight it out.

Niles had then won one game and lost one, and S. Weiss, fourth board, had scored ½. Diliberto, on the other hand, was proud of the fact that no one had won from him, and he was fighting tooth and nail to prevent such a possibility. However, he was forced to resign to Niles after forty-six moves had been recorded. The former's score was 1½—½

All told, the Dartmouth players gathered only 2½ points, and their figures were precisely the reverse of those of Harvard.

ENGLISH SCHOOLBOYS VANQUISH SCOTCH FIFTEEN BY 3-6 SCORE

The Times, London

LONDON, Dec. 31 — Arguments have raged for years as to the proper description of the rugby match between teams of English schoolboys and Scottish schoolboys, an annual affair, which was played at Richmond yesterday. The glamorous way has been to call it England v. Scotland. Actually, the teams have been selected all along by two clubs, Richmond and London Scottish, but made as represesntative as possible. In any case, the match has never failed to be well worthy of watching and description, and for quite a number of the players it has proved an introduction to the highest honors in senior Rugby. Yesterday it was "England's" turn to win, though with little to spare, by two goals and one penalty goal (13 points) to two tries (6 points).

The two sides were well matched, except perhaps at half-back, where the Stowe pair, and especially P. R. H. Hastings in the stand-off position, were infinitely the more dangerous in attack. Both scrummage halves were inclined to be slow in opening up pthe play, but whereas this was fatal to D. Yellowlees at stand-off half, and the Scottish centers, Hastings was so hard to stop and so well backed up by his fellows, that, even if the latter themselves had few chances to get the ball out to the wings, they at least were "better together," as the saying goes, in attack. None the less, it was a pity that the game was not opened up more generously by Hastings, for J.K.P. Lyle was a midfield player of the highest promise and both wings had plenty of power and speed. E.J.H. Williams already has scored a number of tries for Moseley, as well as for the Rest of England Schools. S. D. Pearce, of Uppingham, was one of the two old hands left over from last year. It seems fair to add that A. G. Way, the scrummage half, was injured early in the game and this may have slowed down his passing.

The Scottish centers, W. N. White and D. A. Yellowlees, were fast, but apt to tie themselves up in a knot. Admittedly, more experienced players would have found it difficult to overcome the slowness of the opening gambit. J. S. Pinkney, on the right wing, had a fine turn of speed, and he at least watched Williams well. At full back "Scotland" had a splendid stopper but moderate kicker in E. Ogilvy. The English full back, F. R. Wilson, not only was tall and exceptionally fast, but as likely as not to be found up on the flank of any passing movement. Several times he nearly scored a try in this way. He also was an excellent kick.

A GOOD SCOTTISH PACK

Of the two packs of forwards one preferred—as a pack—the Scottish boys, certainly during the second half. Then, their quickness in getting down to it in the scrummage, their low packing and solid shove generally gave their side an advantage which should not have been wasted in the way it was. They also heeled out cleanly from the loose. R. D. Macdonald, the captain, led his fellows well, and C. McLay and B.A. Stewart were splendid front-row players. For England, P. T. M. With was a notably hard worker, and R. M. Oppenheim, D. L. Murison, and C. S. F. Powell were very quick in the loose.

Several breaks away by Hastings early in the match rather pointed to an English victory, but when Way, who also was none too easy to stop, was injured and had to leave the field, the odds turned well in favor of Scotland. Way returned after a while, but with a tendency to limp. Meanwhile, Oppenheim was a fairly efficient scrummage worker. The English boys, one should add, were the heavier team, and this undoubtedly contributed toward their victory.

It was a powerful, diagonal run by Pearce from right to left which led up to the first try, but it required an exceptionally good piece of close backing up by Williams, which brought the first try after 23 minutes' play. The Scottish full-back, as usual, pulled down his man but Williams took the ball at such close range that he was away before the defense realized what had happened. Williams himself converted the try into a goal, and shortly before the interval, kicked a penalty goal.

Meanwhile, the Scottish centers several times had shown considerable pace and dash, though without the necessary finish, and it was left to G. H. S. Rome on a wing, to open the scoring for his side in an unusual manner. The incident quickly was the result of bad marking in the line-out. Rome reached the goal-line without a hand being laid on him, and so startled was he when he found the referee close alongside that he stopped as if he was the villain instead of the hero of the piece. Everyone else was a spectator. Incidentally, Rome touched down when he could have run round behind the posts, and some thought he did not even touch down at all—properly. At any rate, R. G. Bell, the place-kicker, could not add the goal points.

Shortly before the interval Scotland scored again when one of White's best runs enabled D. A. Yellowlees, his fellow center, to score a second try, which again Bell failed to convert into a goal. D. A. Yellowlees had entered the team at the last moment owing to the withdrawal of D. J. H. Vass, the captain. There were thus two D. Yellowlees—not brothers but cousins—in the side, the center coming from Stowe and the stand-off half-back from Merchiston.

LOST CHANCES

In the second half, though one greatly admired the scrummaging of the Scottish forwards and more than once could imagine their backs helping to pull the match round, something always went wrong with the attack, even when two or three men reached the open behind the main English defense. Sveral times a player turned the wrong way or hung on to the ball too long, the chief fault also of the English half-backs when they effected the break through and four men up in support of them. The English forwards, on the other hand, were splendidly keen in the loose and eventually, too, Hastings justified himself as an outstanding individualist by scoring the try which, made into a goal by Williams, left the Scottish boys seven points behind, with about 20 minutes to go. Ten minutes from no-side Bell missed a penalty goal by inches, and, really, if the game had been drawn at two tries all no one could have complained, though, on the whole, the English backs were the better.

The teams were:—

ENGLISH SCHOOLBOYS—F. R. Wilson (Oundle), back; E. J. H. Williams (Bromsgrove), J. R. E. Evans (Taunton), K. A. N. Spray (Oundle), and *S. D. Pearce (Uppingham), three-quarter backs; P. R. Hastings (Stowe) (captain) and A. G. Way (Stowe), half-backs; C. S. F. Powell (Bed-ford), D. L. Murison (Marlborough), R. M. Oppenheim (Rugby), P. W. G. Phillips (Cheltenham), P. T. M. With (Whitgift), F. L. Coleman and *P. R. Masters (Haileybury), forwards.

SCOTTISH SCHOOLBOYS—E. Ogilvy (Dulwich) back; G. H. S. Rome (Rugby), W. N. White (The Leys), D. A. Lellowlees (Stowe), and J. S. Pinkney (Worksop), three-quarter backs; D. Yellowlees (Merchiston Castle) and J. W. K. Herbertson, (Glenalmond), half-backs; C. McLay (Edinburgh Academy), B. A. Stewart (Stowe), *R. D. Macdonald (Fettes) (captain), J. S. L. Levack (Edinburgh Academy), W. F. Sormack (Merchiston Castle), R. G. Bell (Loretto), G. T. L. Scott, (Glenalmond), and J. B. Fowler (Glasgow Academy), forwards.

Referee.—Flight Lieutenant J. Lawson.

NO WONDER HE IS HAPPY

Dewaminato and giant silver trophy awarded him late Tuesday for having won the championship of the 13-day Sumo tournament.

DEWAMINATO CAPTURES TITLE IN 13-DAY SUMO TOURNAMENT

For the first time in six years, a wrestler below the first four ranks has captured the championship honors in the official Sumo tournaments at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku. Turning the trick Tuesday afternoon as the 13-day Spring season ended was Dewaminato, 32-year-old stalwart of the Dewanoumi training house, who outsmarted the burly Banjaku for his 13th victory without a defeat.

Incidentally Dewaminato will be the seventh "mayegashira" or wrestler in the top flight below the first four ranks, "yokozuna" or grand champion, "ohzeki" or champion, "sekiwake" and "komusubi," to have his life-size portrait hung up the steel frame top of the bowl, symbolical of the championship, since the building of the bowl.

BOWL JAMMED

Every standing space was taken by rabid fans, who overflowed the bowl, eager to take in the match between Dewaminato and Banjaku. The latter was in considerably higher ranking but in the Spring tournament of 1937, it was vice versa with Dewaminato high up as a "sekiwake." So it was that with his fine showing from the opening day, Dewaminato was favored by many to be the winner. An excellent arm throw at the right time sent Banjaku sprawling on to the sand. The entire assemblage cheered Dewaminato but there was no throwing of seat cushions or sake cups as was witnessed on the fourth day of the tournament when the mighty Grand Champion Futabayama was thrown for the first time in three years. Prohibition by the police was respected.

Dewaminato was awarded a trophy almost his equal in size, the championship pennant and other prizes during the closing ceremonies after the final bout of the day when Grand Champion Futabayama defeated Grand Champion Minanogawa in a humdinger of match. To Terukuni went the championship for those immediately below the first ranking circle with 11 victories and two defeats.

The season closed with Director Tachinami leading in three cheers of Banzai for His Majesty the Emperor, and then finally with the traditional clapping of hands.

Among the interested spectators in the box seats for dignitaries were Yuan Chen-tse, Manchoukuo Ambassador, Eugen Ott, German Ambassador, and Mayor Itta Kobashi.

Futabayama gave the fans the impression that he has completely recovered from the shock of his first defeat in three years by taking the measure of Minanogawa. No sooner had they stood up than they grasped each other by the girdle. Minanogawa, who had lost all chances for the championship when Dewaminato had beaten Banjaku earlier in the afternoon, started a drive that forced Futabayama to the edge of the ring. When it seemed as if he might be showed out, he executed an arm throw and out went the large body of Minanogawa.

CALLED A DRAW

Tamanoumi and Haguroyama engaged in a torrid bout that was finally called a draw when both could not continue because of sheer exhaustion. Neither was strong enough to beat the other.

The results of the principal bouts after the intermission follow:

Hishuzan finished the tournament as runner-up to Dewaminato, with only one defeat by vanquishing Tomoegata.

Kaikozan and Toshuzan, both of the Nikashogaseki training house, managed by the late Grand Champion Tamanishiki went through the tourney without a victory.

Mutsunishiki defeated Ichiwatari.
Banshinzan defeated Dewanohana.
Hishuzan defeated Tomoegata.
Takanobori defeated Fujinosato.
Katsuragawa defeated Kaikozan.
Ayawaka defeated Aobayama.

Skaters, Hockey Team Off To Manchoukuo

An aggregation of 35, including speed and figure skaters and a hockey team, left Tokyo Station by the Express Sakura at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday en route to Manchoukuo for dual competitions.

Miss Etsuko Inada, Japan's leading figure skater, was a member of the group.

Endless Game

A man mortgaged his home to buy an automobile. Then he went around and tried to mortgage the car to get money to build a garage.

"How are you going to buy gas?" curiously inquired the man of whom the loan was asked.

"Well," replied the other slowly, "if I own a house, a car, and a garage, I should think any dealer would be willing to trust me for gas."—Wall St. Journal.

DONALD BUDGE, ALICE MARBLE, RANKED ON TOP

Christian Science Monitor

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—Unless your memory goes back to 1926, when Vincent Richards became a tennis pro, you probably won't be surprised to learn that a couple of prominent young entertainers, J. Donald Budge and Alice Marble, have been given the No. 1 rankings for 1938 by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

A dozen years ago Richards was easily the No. 1 American player in a year which saw the home forces take plenty of lickings from French stars. But when the rankings were made out at the end of the year, Vinnie's name was not listed. He had joined up with the pros early in the Winter, and the tennis fathers ruled he automatically had forfeited his place. Their theory then was that the rankings were made only for guidance in seeding players during the next season.

RECOGNITION

The change in attitude toward the pros that has come about since 1926 is reflected in Budge's being ranked at the top for the third straight year. He's signed up with the pros—in fact, Walter Pate, Davis Cup team captain helped him conduct the negotiations—but he is given the No. 1 spot in recognition of his great performances.

While Budge won't make his pro debut until Jan. 3, Miss Marble already has embarked on a career in a different branch of the entertainment field, one which doesn't endanger her amateur status. She's a successful singer in a big New York hotel restaurant.

While the two top-ranking players completely dominated their fields during 1938, the rankings, including a number of changes in the "first-ten" lists, reflect a broad basis of selection. Bobby Riggs of Chicago, who bowed out of the national championships rather unceremoniously in the fourth round, again was placed second to Budge. His performances the rest of the season earned him that place. Third place went to C. Gene Mako, Budge's doubles partner, who sprang a distinct surprise by reaching the final of the nationals while comebacking Sidney B. Wood, Jr., of Los Angeles was given the next spot. Mako was eighth a year ago and Wood unranked. Frank Kovacs, also unranked in 1937, jumped into the No. 10 position, while Elwood Cooke, of Portland, Ore., vaulted from 28 to 7, and Gilbert Hunt, Jr., of Washington, D. C., from 19 to 9.

MRS. FABYAN SECOND

In women's singles Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Cambridge, Mass., sixth in 1937, was given the No. 2 ranking while Dorothy May Bundy of Santa Monica, Calif., retained third place. Three players unranked the previous season, Dorothy Workman of Rosemont, Calif.; Margaret Osborne of San Francisco and Virginia Wolfenden of Berkeley, Calif., moved into the first 10 at sixth, seventh and ninth places. Barbara Winslow of Hollywood, Calif., advance from 11 to 4 in the ratings.

No fewer than five of the most prominent women stars, Helen Wills Moody, Helen Jacobs, Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn, Carolin Babcock Stark and Bonnie Miller Blank, were unranked because of "insufficient data." That doesn't mean the U. S. L. T. A. doesn't know how good they are—not when the two Helens were finalists at Wimbledon—but that the court rulers believe they didn't play enough tournament tennis during the past year to earn high places.

MACK HOPES TO LIVE TO 100

N.Y. Times

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 23—Connie Mack, whose great ambition is to turn out one more great baseball team, hinted tonight at another goal—to live to be 100.

Celebrating his seventy-sixth birthday, the white-haired manager of the Athletics, knee-deep in a stack of greetings, observed:

"I never felt better in my life. If I feel this well at 76, it's good to think what I'll be like at 100."

Back-slapping friends and a tub-ful of telegrams greeted him when he arrived at 9:30 a.m.—as usual—at his Shibe Park office. Those who wanted to make something of a birthday for him were discouraged years ago by Connie, although the Philadelphia Sports Writers Association got him out today for lunch.

OLD DAYS RECALLED

He gave a little talk, punctuated by laughs and hand-clapping, about the old days of baseball, which he likes to remember but doesn't want back. Baseball today is a greater game than ever to Connie Mack. Of 1939 at Shibe Park, he said:

"We'll probably be a better ball club, but we have a hard row to hoe. We need a few more players to fill out our team, but it's harder to find them than it was to get the guarantee money in Pittsburgh."

This reference was to an earlier remark by Connie indicating that "holdouts" are up against something when they threaten him. He chuckled:

"In 1902, as manager of a professional football team, I held out the whole team at Pittsburgh until the money was on the line. I don't believe I ever told that one here before."

A FIRST CITIZEN

The luncheon was the nearest thing to a civic celebration for the man Quakertown rates right along with two other famous Philadelphians, Billy Penn and Ben Franklin.

For one thing, after the handshaking and exchanging of well wishes at his office, it took Mack until lunch time to go through the greetings. It was back to work after lunch. And tonight was just another evening at home.

Mack was a day late getting around to the birthday observance. Cornelius McGillicuddy was born in East Brookfield Mass., Dec. 22, 1862. But Connie said several years ago he always thought it was the 23d, and so it remained.

FOXX LED WAY IN BATTING IN AMERICAN

By EDWIN RUMILL

Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, Dec. 31.—Official 1938 American League batting averages, released today, emphasized once again the shifting of offensive power from the outfield to infield. For the seventh successive season the title-holder plays an infield berth, shattering the ancient belief that a team's run-making strength generally lies in the grassed area beyond the base paths.

Jimmy Foxx, in a sensational comeback drive, hit a robust .349 for the Boston Red Sox in 149 championship games. It was his second crown. In 1933, wearing a Philadelphia uniform, he posted a .356 average for the leadership. The promising young Cleveland rookie, Johnny Heath, chased Foxx home with a .343 figure.

OUTFIELDER FIRST

From 1907 through 1931, outfielders practically monopolized American League hitting championships. Over that period the count was 22 to 3, in favor of gardeners. But in more recent campaigns the trend has gone in reverse. In successive years Dale Alexander, Foxx, Lou Gehrig, Buddy Myer, Luke Appling, Charley Gehringer and Foxx again have topped the list of regulars and all wear infielders' gloves.

Sharing the spotlight last season with Foxx was Hank Greenberg, Detroit first baseman. The Bronx boy hit a peak of 58 home runs, threatening Babe Ruth's all-time fourbagger record right down to the final day.

The Red Sox placed six regulars in the .300 class—Foxx, Ben Chapman, Manager Joe Cronin, Joe Vosmik, Pinky Higgins and Roger Cramer—and took the team batting title away from the Detroit Tigers. Along with those six regulars, Boston also placed Moe Berg, Jim Tabor and Johnny Peacock among the select, and saw Gene Desautels soar to .291. The Sox hit .299, six points up on the Washington Senators.

YANKEES SIXTH

Believe it or not, the world champion Yankees were almost out of sight on the team list. Following Boston and Washington were Cleveland, St. Louis, Chicago and then—New York. Only the Tigers and lowly Athletics were below the champs. The catch, of course, is apparent in the total base and extra base hit columns. The Yanks had 174 home runs and 2411 total bases, far exceeding all rivals.

As a unit, the American League duplicated its 1937 batting average of .281. The home run total leaped from 806 to 864, a new record. The circuit also established a standard by hitting 37 four-baggers with the bases loaded, surpassing the 1929 National League mark of 30.

The Yankees led the league in winning games both at home and abroad, with the Red Sox second on each table. New York took 55 out of 77 at the Stadium and 44 out of 75 on the road.

DETROIT LEADS

Official fielding averages, released yesterday, give Detroit first place with a .976 figure. The Tigers outpaced the St. Louis Browns by the slender margin of a single percentage point. Cleveland was a point behind the Browns, and the Yanks another point behind the Indians.

Zeke Bonura, Washington, led first basemen; Myer, Washington second basemen; Clift, St. Louis, third basemen; Kress, St. Louis shortstops; Fox, Detroit, the outfielders; York, Detroit, the catchers, and Chandler, New York, the pitchers.

Yankee Frank Crosetti broke the league standard in double plays at shortstop with 120. Lou Gehrig, who was anchor man on a majority of Crosetti's twin plays, shattered the record for first basemen with 157. Foxx took part in 153, also breaking the old mark of 150.

Briefs . . . Joe Gordon, of the Yankees, participated in five double plays in the first game of a doubleheader at St. Louis July 26, equalling the standard for second basemen. . . . Nineteen pitchers fielded for 1,000, but Chandler headed the list with 68 perfect chances. . . . Dick Siebert, Athletics, played 46 games at first base without an error. . . . Pinky Higgins, Red Sox, had only one assist in the May 8 game with Cleveland, tying a league record.

BRITISH PLANNING ALREADY FOR POLO GAME IN AMERICA

By R. MAILLARD STEAD

Christian Science Monitor

LONDON—Elaborate, methodical and well ahead of time are the plans that I propose to reveal to you today for the most intensive pony polo campaign ever launched by Britain against the United States. Not until June 4, 1939, will the invading force ride onto the field at Meadow Brook, U.S.A., for the first of three battles against the best men that Uncle Sam can muster in defense of the Westchester Cup. But right now the invaders are preparing for that day, fully determined to win out in next year's series and so to recapture a cherished sporting trophy which has been in American hands since 1921.

Now, the first step toward selecting the best possible side was to select the best possible selectors. And that (or something very like it) has been done by calling upon young Lord Cowdray as chairman and non-playing captain; Lieut-Col. E. G. Atkinson; Maj. R. Benson; Lieut.Col. C. H. Gairdner; Maj. J F. Harrison; Col. V. N. Lockett; E. H. Tyrrell Martin, and the man chosen to be captain of the 1939 team—Gerald Balding. Four of these gentlemen have themselves figured in international polo—Lockett, Atkinson, Martin, and Balding—and all are acknowledged to be wise in the matter of players, ponies, and the proper preparation of both for the highly exacting test of skill and fitness that modern international polo has become.

LONG PREPARATION

As polo conditions in the United States are very different from those in Britain, the Selection and Management Committee above named (chosen by the Council of the Hurlingham Polo Association) urged the importance of making America the scene of at least three months' intensive preparation. Hence the decision to assemble the team and reserves at the Del Monte Polo Club next February and to work through a series of exhibition matches in California until early April, when some of the players will go to Aiken, S. C., prior to the reassembling of the whole outfit in Long Island for final practice at the beginning of May. Some of the ponies will winter at Aiken.

This is clearly a good plan for bringing the British players to the top of their form by June. But it is a scheme not without difficulties in regard to keeping, say, 20 ponies fresh for the Westchester Cup battles. To make sure of doing this, most of the practice in the West will be upon mounts that may not have to be ridden in the representative matches. Such a course has involved the acquisition of some 60 ponies. About half of them are the property of the Hurlingham Polo Association, some belong to the players, others are on loan. And I understand that the supply may be augmented in the Spring by some ponies sent to Aiken from India. In charge of the mounts and all appertaining to them is Maj. N. W. Leaf, who is already busy on the job in the United States, where most of the Britishers' animals are now safely stabled. At the conclusion of the Westchester Cup Series, the ponies belonging to the Hurlingham Polo Association are to be sold in America, to help out on the financial side of the campaign.

THE CAST

Thus is the stage set for the first rehearsal call. The next move is to assemble the cast. Namely, Gerald Balding, E. H. Tyrrell Martin, Aidan Roark, H. Hesketh Hughes, Capt. H. P. Guinness, R. Skene, and J Lakin. And there will be available, also, Capt. C. T. I. Roark and Ivor Balding, both of whom will be playing polo in California at the same time as the British team is out there. At present Captain Guinness is on active service with his regiment and there is no telling how that fact may interfere with his plans for polo.

I don't think you would be going very far wrong if you wrote down this combination as just about the strongest British polo side Americans have ever been called upon to face. Moreover, it will swing into action fortified by the knowledge that it has had longer and more thorough training than any British team before it. What such knowledge can mean we saw last Summer in the case of the British Walker Cup golf side. It went into play well prepared, confident of its own powers, and with the confidence of British golfers behind it. And it gained a gallant victory.

At this stage of the proceedings it is hard to forecast the exact line-up of the 1939 British polo quartet, beyond saying that in Tyrrell Martin it has an extremely fine back. He and Aidan Roark, the most likely choice as No. 2, were far and away the most outstanding players in England last Summer. They were members of C. B. Wrightsman's Texas Rangers, the team that won the major prizes in London polo.

MARTIN KNOWN IN U.S.A.

Tyrrell Martin needs no introduction to the American polo public, for he acquitted himself brilliantly while playing for the Jaguars in the American Open Championship last Fall. Ivor Balding appeared on the victorious team in that tournament. Old Westbury—he came in as substitute for M. R. Phipps—and both Gerald Balding and C. T. I. Roark figured prominently, the former with the Jaguards, the later with Aknusti.

C. T. I. Roark seems to play better under American conditions than he does under British. Last Summer here he was below his best form and had his English handicap reduced to 6. America rates him at 9 and he certainly justifies the compliment by the general high level of his play in the U. S. A. Gerald Balding did not show up too well in the 1938 American championships, he is now coming back into his best vein while playing in India for the Nawab of Bhopal's team.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS

One way and another, the British prospects of victory look bright for the thirteenth struggle for the Westchester Cup. The series began away back in 1886, when certain members of the Westchester Club, U. S.A., subscribed for a silver challenge cup to be known as the International Polo Cup. In 1911, the prize was made over by deed of gift from the Westchester Club to the United States Polo Association. The original rules provided that the Cup should be played for in the country of the holders, but in 1935 America sportingly consented to waive this rule in favor of a system by which Westchester Cup matches are played in the two countries alternately, one series taking place every third year. It was further conceded that any subject of the British Empire should be eligible to play for Hurlingham. So far, Great Britain has won the cup on only four occasions (in 1886, 1900, 1902, and 1914) while the Americans have been successful just twice as often—in 1909, 1911, 1913, 1921, 1924, 1927, 1930 and 1936.

The last series, played at Hurlingham, provided much closer battles than were generally expected. A reflection which supports the theory that Britain has no particular need to be pessimistic regarding the outcome of the 1939 encounters. In their present thoroughness of preparation, the British polo folk have made quite a spectacular break away from precedent.

Miss Colledge Wins Figure Skating Title

Domei Tsushin

LONDON, Jan. 24—Performing before a capacity crowd of more than 9,000 persons who jammed the Erlscourt skating arena, Miss Cecilia Colledge, Britain's foremost figure skater, today retained the Women's European Figure Skating championship by amassing a total of 1848.5 points.

Miss Megan Taylor was second with 1837.4 points while Miss Daphne Walker was third with 1757.6 points.

BRUINS DEFEAT GEORGIA TECH BY 13-0 SCORE

N.Y. Times

BERKELEY, Calif., Dec. 26.—Outplayed for part of the game and tricked at times by old football plays, the University of California rallied in the last period today to score twice and defeat Georgia Tech, 13 to 0.

In two sharp drives the Bears traveled 60 and 66 yards to snatch victory from what looked certain to be a scoreless tie.

Vic Bottari, left halfback, led both touchdown sallies. He went over from the 3-yard line to break the deadlock, and on the second thrust handed the ball to Louie Smith, right half, who banged through the right side of the Tech line for seven yards and a touchdown. Bottari added the extra tally with a drop-kick. A similar try after the first touchdown had been blocked.

OLD PLAYS FOOL BEARS

With superior weight and more power, California held a slight edge in statistics during the first half and last quarter. But in the third period the swift-moving boys from the South put on a show of "fancy-Dan" football that had the Californians running in circles trying to find out who had the ball.

Faked punts of a style of a quarter of a century ago caught the Bears napping several times. Once the invaders made 21 yards from such a play. Earl Wheby, right half, was the principal ball carrier on these stratagems. A number of end-around plays also branching from fake punts resulted in good gains.

Until the two scoring series the ball remained between the 19-yard lines. The Bears reached Tech's 19 in the opening period after Bottari returned a punt 18 yards to the opposing team's 25.

However, the ball reverted to the Engineers on a recovered fumble, Bottari making the error and losing 5 yards in the bargain.

ENGINEERS THREATEN

Tech made two impressive scoring bids in the third quarter, once advancing 33 yards to California's 31 and later 31 to within 19 yards of the Bears' goal.

California's first touchdown started from its 40. Bottari carried the ball seven of eight times for a total of 26 yards, finally scoring. A 15-yard penalty and a 19-yard tackle smash by Smith accounted for the rest of the yardage.

Bottari and Smith divided the ball carrying on the second touchdown march. One pass, from Bottari to Smith, for 17 yards, in the 66-yard drive.

The outcome gave California an edge in the series, with three victories against two for Georgia Tech.

TIGERS FIELDED BEST IN A.L. IN 1938 SEASON

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 26—Compiling the same figures they did a year ago, the Detroit Tigers carried off team-fielding honors in the American League for the fifth consecutive season in 1938, according to the official averages released for publication today.

The Detroiters turned in a percentage mark of .976 to finish a point ahead of the Browns, who are placed second at .975. The Indians are ranked third with .974, while the world champion Yankees were unable to get a better rating than fourth with .973.

Although fielding is not considered among his better accomplishments, Zeke Bonura, the hardclouting first sacker whom the Senators recently traded to the Giants in the National League, nevertheless topped all the regular first basemen in the American loop las season in the individual averages with .993.

MYER TOPS SECOND BASEMEN

Still another member of the Senators, Buddy Myer, captured individual honors, Buddy topping the second basemen with .982, while the lowly Browns made off with the two remaining infield posts. The veteran Ralph Kress heads the shortstops with .965, while his teammate Harlond Clift leads the third basemen with .962.

Pete Fox of the Tigers turned in the best mark among the regular outfielders with .994, the Detroiter making only two misplays in 155 games. Another Tiger, Rudy York, shows the best average among catchers with .990, although Billy Sullivan, who played only one game less than the required 100, also shared that mark.

A total of nineteen pitchers who appeared in thirteen or more games went through the season without an error, Spurgeon Chandler of the Yankees receiving top ranking with the most chances, sixty-eight. When Ted Lyons, brilliant White Sox veteran, committed an error on June 18 it marked his first miscue since Aug. 5, 1934. During that period Lyons had fielded flawlessly in eighty-eight consecutive games, during which he handled thirty-two putouts and 140 assists.

NEW MARK FOR CROSETTI

Although described chiefly as a "hitting circuit," the American Leaguers shattered a number of fielding records during the season. Frankie Crosetti of the Yankees set a new league mark for double plays by a shortstop by taking part in 120 twin killings.

Similarly, Lou Gehrig set a new record for first basemen with 157 double plays to erase the old figures of 150 set by Joe Kuhel with the Senators in 1935. Jimmy Foxx of the Red Sox, with 153 double plays, also surpassed the old mark last season.

Still another Yankee to distinguish himself was Joe Gordon, the dashing young second sacker who, by taking part in five double plays in the first game of a doubleheader against the Browns on July 26, equaled a major league record for second basemen.

SET DOUBLE PLAY RECORD

The American League as a whole bettered its own record for double plays by turning in a grand total of 1,282. The league also broke the record for fewest putouts in a season with 32,235, and fewest assists with 13,851. Both figures replace old marks formerly held by the National League.

The afternoon Bob Feller fanned eighteen Tigers to set a new major league strikeout record, he also helped his Cleveland catcher, Frank Pytlak, to tie the record of eighteen chances accepted and eighteen putouts by a catcher in a single game.

Frank Higgins, recently traded by the Red Sox to the Tigers, tied a rather unenviable record when he committed four errors at third base in a single game.

The Athletics set a new American League record for the fewest chances accepted by a team in a season with 5,610 for 154 games.

GIANT'S CONTRACTS SENT TO 30 PLAYERS

N.T. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 25—The thermometer was doing a nose-dive yesterday as the city shivered in its new cold wave, but in baseball circles the time was thought propitious to think of Spring, and beyond that of the pleasant days of Summer. At least that was the situation in the Giants' headquarters, where Secretary Edward T. Brannick, from the protection of a deep-pile llama-wool ulster, announced the distribution of contracts to the players, old and new.

Thirty documents were mailed to the far-flung four corners of the country. Only Fred Logan, the clubhouse attendant, was overlooked in this legal business, which is an annual Winter reminder of baseball's approaching exodus to the South. Even the formality of forwarding a contract to Zeke Bonura, first baseman recently purchased from the Senators, was observed, although it is an open secret that Zeke agreed to terms reported at $15,000 at the time of his purchase.

Secretary Brannick revealed that the club had discarded the dollar-a-year contract, at lease for this year. Last Winter some of these trick contracts were forwarded as a precaution at the time the regular ones went out. There also was a statement that President Horace C. Stoneham had been "very kind to the boys," that was taken to mean not only were there no reductions but several increases, although the recipients were not revealed.

Burgess Whitehead, second baseman out all last season because of complications following an appendectomy, was among those to whom documents were forwarded, as were George Myatt, recently operated on in Los Angeles; Frank Demaree, Ken O'Dea and Billy Jurges, the trio acquired in a trade with the Cubs.

Louis, 5-1 Favorite To Defeat Lewis

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—Joe Louis, world's heavyweight boxing champion, will have a 20-pound advantage over the contender, John Henry Lewis, sensational negro boxer, when the two meet in a title fight tomorrow at the Madison Square Garden.

Lewis, quarters close to the boxer revealed, planned to build himself up to 185 pounds, but when he finished his final workout, he tipped the scales at only 181.

The "Brown Bomber" who started training at 210, is now down to 202, considered his best fighting weight. The champ, observers said, looks "razor keen." For all his admitted footwork and defensive skill, boxing experts said, Lewis is bound to feel those 20 pounds "everytime Dead-Pan bores in on him."

According to those close to Louis, "Joe swears he is going to bore away every second as he did against Schmeling." Lewis believes he will outpoint the champion. The odds are about five to one in favor of Louis.

JUNIOR BASEBALL IN U.S. GETS $20,000 FUND

Christian Science Monitor

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 31—With 1939 expenses again underwritten by the two major baseball leagues to the tune of $20,000, the American Legion is making ready for the greatest junior baseball season next Summer in the 13-year history of this youth-training nation-wide sports classic.

The outlook is that on June 30 1939, when the enrollment of boys in the program stops, and competition begins, more than 500,000 boys under 17 years of age will be participating. They will form more than 30,000 teams, making the junior baseball program the greatest competitive junior sport in the entire world.

JUNIOR WORLD SERIES

The 30,000 teams will engage in elimination contests until only the two best teams are left, which will meet in the 1939 Junior World Series. The 1938 championship was won by San Diego, Calif.

American Legion posts everywhere sponsor junior baseball teams, providing uniforms, equipment and coaching for the youngsters, and at the same time teaching them good sportsmanship as the character foundation for future good citizenship.

The 1939 grant to the support of junior baseball voter unanimously by the baseball commission at the recent New York City meeting, will be payable in $10,000 instalments to The American Legion on July 1 and Aug. 1, respectively. It will bring to $320,000 the total of the financial aid given junior baseball by the American and National Baseball Leagues since 1928.

The money which the baseball commission contributes annually toward the junior baseball program is earmarked exclusively for the transportation of championship teams to the regional and sectional tournaments and to the junior World Series. The American Legion pays thousands of dollars out of its own founds for other necessary expenses in connection with these tournaments.

Homer L. Chaillaux, National Americanism Director of The American Legion, who has charge of junior baseball, reported to the baseball commission at its New York meeting on the number of junior baseball graduates playing in organized baseball.

The National Americanism Commission, he said, made a survey of 277 clubs in 39 baseball leagues in the United States and Canada during 1938, which disclosed that at least 550 Legion-trained youngsters were making good in organized baseball. Of these, 33 were in the two big leagues. They included such young stars as Bob Feller, pitcher for the Cleveland Indians; Bobby Doerr with the Boston Red Sox, Joe Gordon with the Cubs and others.

Chaillaux also commended the plans of the National Baseball Centennial Commission which will direct the celebration of the 100th anniversary of baseball during 1939. National Commander Stephen F. Chadwick has accepted an invitation from Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Baseball Commissioner, to serve on the centennial commission.

RULES SATISFY COACHES WITH NICE BALANCE

Christian Science Monitor

CHICAGO, Dec. 29—Satisfied that football, rules and all, had enough "kick" for another season, the nation's football coaches passed up major changes and turned today to movies and lectures on the game.

Augmenting the second day of the American Football Coaches Association's eighteenth meeting was a joint sesson with the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

While giving the grid code general endorsement yesterday, the Association's Rules Committee made six recommendations to the N. C. A. A. rules body, which will meet next Monday at Colorado Springs, Colo. Another proposal was made to its own group.

NICE BALANCE REACHED

Lou Little, Columbia coach and rules committee chairman, said: "None of the rules represent radical changes. The coaches feel a nice balance has been reached between offense and defense and we are in for a period of stabilization."

"Recommendations to the N. C. A. A. were

1. When a forward pass strikes an ineligible player on or behind the line of scrimmage, the penalty be loss of down and 15 yards from the point of the previous down. (Coaches felt loss of the ball at point of previous down too severe and believed change would permit more shovel passes.)

2. On a forward pass play all ineligible men must remain on the touched or incomplete. Penalty would be 15 yards from spot of preceding down.

GROUNDED PASSES

3. Greater enforcement of penalties against intentional grounding of forward passes. "The fact a defensive player is near the point where a pass is grounded should not be taken as prima facie evidence the pass was not intentionally grounded."

4. A punted ball touched or grounded by the kicking team no longer be considered a foul. Under present rules fouls on the same play by opposing teams offset each other and do not permit a kicking team, for instance, to decline a penalty to take advantage of a good punt should it ground the ball and the opposition also foul.

5. Penalty giving receiving team ball at spot of foul committed by kicking team while ball is in the air is too severe. A study was requested.

6. Careful study of equipment to reduce injuries reported due sometimes to certain types of cleats or types of protective pads.

The proposal made to its own group was the request to experiment with a change which would permit the team scored upon the same option as that preceding the game—the choice of kicking, receiving, or choosing a goal to defend. The proposal was designed to equalize play on exceptionally windy days.

The First Profile

Antigonus the Cyclops, or Monoftalmus, one of Alexander's great generals (384-301 B.C.), lost one eye in battle. After Alexander's death, he assumed the sovereignty of all Asia. His vanity led to the first profile portraiture. Being sensitive of his defect, he ordered his likeness engraved on coins in profile instead of full face, as was customary until then.

Peter Fick Sets Mark

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Dec. 27—Two world swimming records were bettered Sunday by two Pennsylvania aquatic stars taking part in a Christmas Day meet in the Miami Biltmore pool.

Peter Fick of the Broadwood Athletic Club, Philadelphia, set out to better the 50-meter record but was thrown off his timing when his foot caught in a rope at the last turn on the 25-yard course. The judges determined he exceeded the 50-yard mark but failed on the 50-meter try.

Fick shared the 50-yard record with Duke Kahanomoku and Johnny Weismuller with a time of 21.7 seconds prior to today's try. He clipped the time one-tenth of a second.

Miss Dorothy Evans, also of the Broadwood Athletic Club, covered the 50-meter straightaway course in 30.7 seconds to better a record of 31 seconds set 14 years ago by Ethel Lasky at Coral Gables.

LOUIS DEFEATS LEWIS BY T.K.O. IN FIRST ROUND

Domei Tsushin

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, N. Y., June 25—John Henry Lewis' hopes of lifting the heavyweight boxing crown off the kinky head of Joe Louis were buried in a flurry of right and left hooks which sent the contender to the canvas twice before the referee stopped the bout two minutes 29 seconds after the opening bell of the first round.

Although both fighters boxed cautiously for the first few seconds, the "Brown Bomber" soon opened up with both hands.

A terrific right hook floored Lewis for a count of two and a barrage of lefts and rights sent the contender staggering. A left hook to the body sent Lewis hanging on the ropes and a final flurry of rights and lefts sent him to the floor for a second time.

After counting to five, the referee stopped the fight.

LOUIS TRAINS

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—After seven months of lolling in the so-called lap of luxury, a state he attained by defending his title more often than any other heavyweight champion in modern ring history, Joe Louis Barrow is located at Pompton Lakes, N. J., again, training for his next defense against John Henry Lewis at Madison Square Garden late this month.

Reportedly already toughened up some by virtue of several weeks in the Michigan woods, Louis will work lightly, then begin to take on the customary assortment of animated punching bags in daily sparring sessions. All preparations lead to his going into the ring for a battle after the longest layoff he has experienced since he hit the real big time.

When he was knocked out by Max Schmeling, his handlers immediately attributed the catastrophe to the fact that Louis had been idle too long, but he has fallen into that same error again, being the kind of fighter that must have plenty of action to keep in tune.

However, they already have established him as a 2 to 1 favorite over Lewis, despite his layoff and everything else on the premise that Louis can take the Lewis once a day through the week and twice on Sunday.

ROLE OF PUNCHING BAG

The latter is going through the motions at Summit, N. J., his part in the plot to be the same as that played by the Nathan Manns, Harry Thomases, and others who finally were carted away feet first, challengers for only a moment or two.

Apparently everybody is committed to take the fight without any seriousness whatever, which probably makes sense, at that, considering that Louis is Louis and John Henry is something less than a raging terror.

The latter still is recognized beyond the pale of the New York commission as light-heavyweight champion and critics generally are agreed that he is a pretty good fighter, especially on the boxing side, but he doesn't hit with too much authority and figures to get caught sooner or later. Anyhow, that's what they are saying now two week's ahead of fight.

OUTWEIGHS BY 20 POUNDS

Aside from everything else, the champion, who will scale about 204, will hold a weight edge of about 20 pounds and so much the better of it in punching that there will be no comparison.

The fight is supposed to be merely the first of four defenses planned by Louis this year.

John Henry is considered little more than a good warmup, the only angle to the bout of any interest at all being that it will be the first time two Negroes ever have fought for the heavyweight title in this country and perhaps anywhere else.

McGILL SIX BEATS TORONTO BY 2 TO 1

N.Y. Times

RYE, N. Y., Jan. 2—A pair of goals by Tim Dunn midway in the second period gave the McGill sextet a 2-to-1 victory over an injury-weakened University of Toronto team before a crowd of 1,500 at the Playland Casino tonight. In winning the opening game of the McGill-Toronto-Montreal round-robin here, McGill extended its string over the Blues to thirteen straight.

Goalie Bing Caswell, who made 55 saves, weathered the strong McGill attacks but was caught by Dunn's goals from 20 and 15 feet out, both from near the left sideboard. The first, on a pass from Ian Craig, came at 12:10. The second, at 14:30, was made after Caswell was caught out of position as a pass from Andy Anton was partially blocked and bounced about before Dunn took command.

Toronto's goal came shortly after the start in the third period. Tom Callon took a pass from Tony Cassels, slipped through the defense, skated behind the net, and scored with a backhand flip that slid between Ashton Emerson's legs and the corner post. The time was 1:50.

This tally set the stage for a furious Toronto assault, but Emerson, who finished with 24 stops, picked up where Caswell left off and made brilliant stops to preserve McGill's slim lead.

The line-up:

McGill (2)		Toronto (1)
Emerson	Goal	Caswell
Dunn	Defense	Copp
Dickison	Defense	L'Heureux
Walker	Center	Cassels
I. Craig	Wing	Callon
McConnell	Wing	Ross

First period—None. Second period—1, McGill, Dunn (I. Craig), 12:10; 2, McGill, Dunn (Anton), 14:30. Third period—3, Toronto, Callon (Cassels), 1:50.

LOUIS RATED NO. 1 BOXER OF 1938 IN POLL CONDUCTED BY THE RING

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—Joe Louis, world heavyweight champion, is rated No. 1 pugilist of the year by an international jury whose poll is to be published in a copyrighted article in the February issue of The Ring, boxing magazine, of which Nat Fleischer is publisher.

In a field of almost 2,200 boxers from all over the world who were considered for the rating and of whom 895 survived an elimination process, Louis outranked even the redoubtable Henry Armstrong, only triple titleholder known to boxing, for this distinction in the fourteenth renewal of an annual fixture which originated with the late Tex Rickard.

202 EXPERTS IN POLL

The jury consisted of 202 newspaper men, outstanding promoters, members of various boxing commissions in the United States and abroad and correspondents of The Ring's board of five, of which Fleischer is chairman. Countries figuring in the ratings, in addition to the United States, were England, Finland, France, Germany, Italy, India, New Zealand, Australia, British Guiana, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Argentina, Peru, Mexico and Canada.

Louis was awarded top rating on the strength of his knockout of Max Schmeling last June, in 2 minutes 4 seconds, a record for a heavyweight championship, which was considered having surpassed even the feat of Armstrong in winning the welterweight and lightweight titles, in that order, from Barney Ross and Lou Ambers, respectively to add to the featherweight title he won in 1937 and later relinquished.

The twin titles he won earned Armstrong the runner-up position in the general poll. Like Louis in the heavyweight division, Armstrong is rated alone among the welterweight division, however, this modern ring phenomenon shares Group No. 1 rating with Ambers.

LEWIS AT HEAD OF CLASS

John Henry Lewis is rated No. 1 light-heavyweight. The leader among middleweights is Fred Apostoli despite the fact that only the New York State Athletic Commission recognizes him as champion while the National Boxing Association recognizes Solly Krieger. Both the middleweight and featherweight class titles are declared vacant in the ratings.

For the featherweight leadership Leo Rodak and Pete Scalzo are bracketed in Group 1, Joey Archibald, New York's recognized champion, being shunted to No. 3 position in Group No. 2.

Sixto Escobar, world champion, shares a Group 1 rating among bantamweights with K. O. Morgan of Detroit, but the latter is placed ahead of him. Peter Kane of England, is rated world flyweight champion and grouped with Little Dado and Small Montana, Filipinos, among whom American recognition is divided, and Kid Tanner of the British West Indies.

Great strides in the development of heavyweights, notably the case of Lou Nova were among notable achievements of the year.

Belgian Mermaid Sets New Breaststroke Mark

Domei Tsushin

OSTEND, Jan. 25—A Belgian girl, Miss Yvonne Vandekerchove, today broke the two-year-old record for the women's 500-meter breaststroke, negotiating the distance in 8 minutes and 1/10 seconds.

The former mark was held by Miss Inge Sorensen, of Denmark, who swam the event in 8 minutes 1.9 seconds.

RACING PAID U.S. $9,657,000 IN '38 SEASON

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 1—Horse racing reached a new high in money wagered and profits to the States in 1938, a survey by The Associated Press revealed yesterday.

With California showing the way with $2,645,694.62 received from 4 per cent of the pari-mutuel handle and track license fees, a total of $9,657,070.23 poured into the treasuries of sixteen States, as compared with $9,021,504.10 in 1937. The figures do not include Louisiana, where the State has no control over the sport.

Last year's figures were swelled by $219,109.92 in delinquent collections received by the State of Kentucky.

With California also topping the list, the parti-mutuel handle jumped from $268,500,821 in 1937 to $282,984,700. These figures do not include Louisiana or New York, where there is oral wagering. New York State received 15 per cent of the gate receipts.

During 258 days of racing at major tracks and county fairs, California fans sent $66,142,358 through the mutuels, and increase of more than $18,000,000 over last year, when there were 212 days of the sport.

Illinois, although showing a decrease, held second place in money wagered with $39,280,898, but ranked no better than seventh in the States' shares with ¥553,718.80, because the State's only revenue is from daily license fees, ranging from $500 to $2,500, and tax on admissions.

Massachusetts and Florida both received more than a million dollars while showing increases in money wagered. Massachusetts, with ninety-one days of racing, was second to California with $1,294,549.88, and Florida, with ninety-six days, third with $1,186,511.91.

Altogether eight States showed an increase in money wagered and nine paid more in their treasuries than in 1937. The group comprised California, Massachusetts, Florida, Rhode Island, Delaware, Washington, Arkansas, West Virginia and New York.

Rhode Island's increase from $22,733,492 to $24,362,571 in wagers and from $794,572 to $852,690 in the State's profit can be attributed to the fact there were twenty-seven days more of racing.

New Hampshire, one of the seven States that reported a decline, suffered by Rhode Island's increase. A year ago when the Governor Quinn-Walter O'Hara argument closed Narragansett Park in the Fall, Rockingham Park in New Hampshire took up the slack with twenty-four additional days of racing.

New Hampshire and Maryland, where weather cut short the Fall meeting at Bowie, showed the biggest small in Illinois, Michigan, Kentucky, Ohio and Nebraska. The figures, with number of racing days in parentheses:

MCGILL WINS LAKE PLACID SKIING MEET

By ROBERT F. KELLEY

N.Y. Times

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Jan. 2—For the first time in its history, the Harding Trophy, symbolic of the team victory in the Lake Placid Club's college men's ski meet, will bear the name of the Canadian college, McGill.

Today, in a frigid setting with a snow laden ski slide forming a background for them, the college men jumped the 30-meter hill at Intervale and when they had finished it was obvious that Dartmouth had relinquished its hold on the trophy won last year and that the Canadian youths had come through to a brilliant victory.

Individual honors went to Bob Johannsen of McGill and they were superbly earned. In distance, he yielded to the second jump of his team-mate, Chris Mamen, whose second leap of 36½ meters brought a gasp of astonishment from the crowds watching. But his two jumps, the first of 33½ and the second of 35½ meters, were both accomplished with such superb control and such bird-like grace on the windswept hill there could be no quarrel with the placing of the judges.

EXHIBITS PERFECT CONTROL

Johannsen was the master of the jumpers this afternoon. He was never out of control, in the air, on the in-run or after landing, and his exhibition was one of the most impressive that a college man ever has displayed here. After the youngster's second attempt, a fine combination of grace and distance, the famous Reidar Andersen, Norway's star who gave exhibitions on the big hill this afternoon, rushed out to shake his hand as he worked back to the foot of the hill.

The final team standing gave McGill 499.8 points and a considerable lead over Dartmouth in second place with 458.9. Williams stuck to third place, a fine piece of work standing off the Yale rush that moved them into fourth.

Johannsen, in his victory, upset the little skier from Middlebury who has been one of the stars of this meet, 5 foot 3 Eddie Gignac. Eddie did a great piece of work today, jumping 33½ and 35 meters in his two efforts and doing them with the same crouched, controlled dive down the in-run and the same effortless style in the air and on the out-run. But Johannsen, jumping a bit farther, was a shade ahead of him on the final standing. It was, however, just about as close as it could be, Johannsen's final score being 143.3 points to Gignac's 142.7.

SECOND JUMP WINS ACCLAIM

If Mamen had had just a little more distance with his first effort he might very well have taken the individual honors, for his second jump was really a brilliant effort. On his first, he did only 29 meters, with excellent style and on his second he soared out so that it seemed for a split second he would miss the hill. But he was in control all the way and this second jump made him the star of the afternoon.

When the scores had been computed and it was seen that four of the first six men were from McGill and that Dartmouth had finished no better than seventh place—Don Worden jumped 30½ and 31 to gain seventh—it was known that McGill had come through to the team victory.

Today's skiing provided quite a contrast. In the morning a snowstorm set down wet heavy snow and it appeared probable that the jumpers would have a hard time on the hill this afternoon, but by noon the jumpers had only a high wind to contend with. The wind bothered them at times, particularly right after the take-off.

Mamen of McGill won the combined honors for the cross-country and the jump. His team, so far as balanced effort is concerned, did a remarkaable job, scoring 499.8 out of a possible 500 points. It was one of the best-balanced teams any college had sent here in recent years.

The Ski Meister Trophy, which goes to the best all-around skier of the meet, went to Johannsen, who clinched the award when he took the jump. He also won the handsome Marshal Foch Trophy for the jump. Mamen won the Rumbough Trophy for his victory in the combined.

Shimizu Signs Contract With Nankai Pro Nine

Hideo Shimizu, southpaw of Meiji University, whose scintillating twirling was chiefly responsible for the team's winning of the championship of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league for the last three seasons, has signed a contract to play professional baseball with the newest of the professional teams, the Nankai squad of Osaka. He will join the team in the Spring.

He signed a contract at the all-time high figure of ¥10,000 in Japan, according to the Kokumin Shimbun.

Captain Tsuruoka of Hosei University, who won the individual batting honors in the Fall season last year, will also join the Nankai team in the Spring after his graduation.

The Life Saving Smoke

Lieut. Adolfo Herrera of the Mexican Army was captured by the bandit chief Jacinto Gomez in 1880, and sentenced to be shot. In accordance with Mexican custom, he was granted a last antemortem wish. Lieut. Herrera asked that he be permitted to smoke the solitary cigar he found in his pocket. After the bandit leader gave his assent, the doomed lieutenant smoked his cigar for 9 hours, until a rescue party headed by Captain Gonzalez arrived on the spot, captured the bandits and freed the still smoking lieutenant.

N.T. Times

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 2—Southern California's mighty Trojans, with a sixty-one-yard touchdown drive in the last minute of play, defeated Duke University's eleven, 7 to 3, before 91,000 spectators today.

Wrecking Duke's proud record of no defeats, ties or points scored against it in nine games of the 1938 schedule, U. S. C., celebrating its return to the Rose Bowl after an absence of six years, traveled through the air to victory about forty-five seconds before the final gun.

The overflow throng gathered under bleak skies for this twenty-fourth consecutive Tournament of Roses football spectacle, saw an unheralded substitute and sophomore team spoil the clean standard of the Iron Dukes from North Carolina with four straight passes.

WAITS IN END ZONE

The story-book substitute back was Doyle Nave and the sophomore end Antelope Al Krueger from Antelope Valley. Krueger took Nave's last long pass, good for eighteen yards, as he waited in a corner of the end zone, and there went Duke's hope of victory in its inaugural appearance in the big bowl.

For three quarters it was a battle between the Trojans, fighting for the fifth U. S. C. triumph in the bowl, and Eric (the Red) Tipton, Duke's one-man offensive. For three quarters neither team could get inside the other's 35-yard line, but Duke finally drove to Southern California's 15 after a 23-yard pass from Tipton to George McAfee, and set the stage for the appearance of Tony Ruffa, place-kicking star of the Blue Devils.

With the ball on the 23, Ruffa kicked it high and squarely between the uprights. The 3 points looked big.

U. S. C. suddenly caught fire; Duke seemed caught in the fire. Bob Spangler, safety man, fumbled a Trojan punt, Phil Gaspar recovered it and it was U. S. C.'s ball on Duke's 10. But the Dukes refused to yield and the Trojans tried a field goal from the 25. Gaspar's boot missed.

LANSDELL LEADS ADVANCE

Tipton kicked out to the Californians' 39, and Grenville Lansdell, quarterback and running star, engineered a drive that took the ball into Duke territory. Lansdell made 3 yards, Bob Peoples 1, Lansdell 7 and a first down on the Duke 48. He made 5 more off right end and Krueger picked up 4 on an end-around play. Lansdell fired a short pass over the line to Peoples for 5 to reach the Duke 35.

Howard Jones, U. S. C. coach, suddenly sent in Nave to replace Lansdell. Jones was going by air for that touchdown, and Nave was to pilot the attack. A penalty for too many times out put the ball on the 40 and Nave started to work.

Fading far, keeping out of range of Duke's rushing ends, he passed for 14 yards to Krueger. Changing his direction, he whipped the ball for 10 to Krueger, and still another was completed to Antelope Al, but it lost 2 yards.

The clock was ticking off the seconds, and the huge crowd was roaring with excitement. Nave again called a pass, drifted far back and fired. The ball cut diagonally across the field and was clutched by Krueger.

TIPTON'S PUNTING EXCELLENT

What followed was anti-climax. Gaspar kicked the extra point but few saw it. The gallant Dukes took the kick-off and tried desperately to win the game they thought they had won a minute before. Tipton, whose tremendous kicking should have been the feature of this grueling clash, was tossed for a 12-yard loss. He passed the Duke back toward midfield, but the gun sounded.

The game was over and the Dukes were driven into their first defeat, the first score tallied against them and a long, weary train ride back to Durham, N.C.

Duke was stubborn and as strong as its record foretold, but the Blue Devils went the way of other great undefeated teams—Notre Dame and California—before the slashing, spectacular, persevering Trojans.

It was a brilliant victory for Jones and a sad one for Wallace Wade of Duke. Wade had never been beaten in the Rose Bowl, although one of his three Alabama teams had been tied, but this Blue Devil aggregation, which yielded 13 first downs to 8 and was outrushed 135 yards to 86 and outpassed 84 yards to 53, was up against an unbeatable team today.

Duke in the first half failed to capitalize on a pair of blocked Trojan punts. Aside from Tipton, it hardly presented an offense worthy of the name, but its defensive strength and Tipton's towering punts kept the Trojans in their back yard.

The murky skies sprinkled rain intermittently until late in the game and then the sun peeked through.

Duke's scoring drive was started in midfield. Tipton made 1 yard and passed 13 down a sideline to McAfee. Robbie Robinson made 5 yards to reach the 20 and Tipton made 2. O'Mara, big Duke fullback, crashed over tackle for 3, and on fourth down Ruffa booted his field goal.

Duke won the toss at the start and took the north goal, with Harry Smith booting the ball. Bob Spangler ran back the kick-off from his 7-yard line to the 28. Tipton lost 6 and punted to Lansdell, who ran 13 yards to his 43.

U. S. C. made a first down in midfield on a pass and end run, but Tipton intercepted Lansdell's long toss on his 9. Tipton punted right back to the Trojan 40. Southern California punted out on Duke's 30.

Bob O'Mara and Tipton drove to the 37 before Tipton kicked to the Trojan 25. Two passes to Bob Winslow and Bill Sangster took the ball to the U. S. C. 48.

Lansdell and Sangster advanced to the Duke 45. Another throw to Bob Hoffman took the ball to the 37. Then Lansdell's kick went over the goal line.

Tipton promptly booted back to the Trojan 31. A quick kick and a clipping penalty gave Duke possession again on its 25. A 15-yard penalty gave Duke a first down on its 46. Tipton went to midfield around left end.

After Tipton booted out of bounds on the Trojan 10, Lansdell raced 25 yards. He had to punt and Spangler made a 10-yard return to his 36. Tipton punted to the 18 and Lansdell ran around left end for 21.

KICKING GAME CONTINUES

George McAfee returned Mickey Anderson's punt 7 yards to his 36 as the second quarter opened. Tipton punted to the Trojan 37 and in two sweeps Anderson ran to midfield. He smashed to the Duke 42, but had to punt. Bailey blocked the kick and Duke took over on its 45.

Once more Tipton kicked after two plays failed and U.S.C. swung into action on its 25. Jack Banta sent the ball to the Trojan 40. Anderson's quick kick went out of bounds on the Duke 40.

With a clear field in front, Spangler dropped Tipton's pass. Tipton and O'Mara drove to midfied and a first down. Then Tipton kicked over the goal line.

Perdue blocked Day's quick kick, but it was third down and Day recovered on his 10. He punted to Spangler who raced 14 yards to the Trojan 38. Jones intercepted Tipton's pass and ran to his 29.

Southern California had to kick and Duke started on its 35. On two fake passes, Tipton ran to the Trojan 48-yard line. Duke lost the ball on the Trojan 35 with ten seconds to play in the half.

TIPTON SLIPS NEAR GOAL

The Trojan kick-off went only to the 24 and Bailey ran to the 34. Tipton punted to the Trojan 28. Lansdell broke away for 10. They exchanged kicks, with Duke getting possession on the 10-yard line but punted to the Trojan 36 and Lansdell returned to the Duke 49.

Lansdell had to kick and Duke took over on its 31. Again Spangler dropped Tipton's long pass in the open. Tony Tonelli blocked Tipton's kick but Duke recovered on the 20.

After another boot, Lansdell broke loose to the 36. But Don Hill intercepted Lansdell's pass and ran to U.S.C.'s 45. McNeil intercepted Tipton's paass on his 35.

George McAfee returned a U.S.C. punt 15 to midfield. He caught Tipton's pass on the Trojans' 25. It was the first time the Californians' goal was in danger. Roger Robinson smashed the line for 5. The ball was on the 18-yard line as the third period ended.

O'Mara went to the 15, and it was at this stage that Ruffa kicked his field goal. Then came U.S.C.'s winning drive.

YALE WON 116, LOST 80, TIED 3 VARSITY EVENTS

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 31—Yale's percentage of victories during 1938 was not as high as that recorded in the previous according to figures released by the athletic association. Not taking into account two late Christmas week events played at New York and Peoria, Ill., Yale athletic teams and crews engaged in 402 events against 412 the previous year, winning 245, losing 147 and tying in ten.

Varsity teams especially did not fare so well as in 1937. Of 199 events engaged in there were 116 victories, eighty losses and three ties. During the previous year the varsity teams engaged in 207 events, winning 144, losing fifty-nine and tying four.

This year's recapitulation:

	Events	W	L	T
Varsity	199	116	80	3
Freshmen	145	103	40	2
Junior varsity	33	14	17	2
150-lb. varsity	9	5	4	0

2nd freshmen	11	5	3	3
Total	402	245	147	10

Three national championships were acquired by the Blue. The 150-pound crew, which later went to England to compete in the Royal Henley Regatta, won one of these; the indoor polo team the second, while the third was taken by the squash team, which successfully defended its title for the second consecutive year. Other noteworthy achievements were the capturing of the quadrangular track championship at Boston, the fells championship in the intercollegiates and the national junior saber tea championship in the pentagonal meet by the varsity fencing team.

Baseball, fencing, hockey and squash racquets teams captured Big Three championships from Harvard and Princeton. Freshman teams also defeated Harvard and Princeton in baseball, basketball, golf, hockey, soccer and squash. Another fine record made by the freshmen was the season accomplishments of the baseball team, which won twelve games and lost but one, that a 1 to 0 battle with Andover.

The varsity record against Harvard was twelve won and twelve lost, and against Princeton eleven won, nine lost and one tie, that in tennis.

U.S. Football Given Recognition By Waseda

American football in Japan scored a triumph Friday when the Waseda University Athletic Association added the sport to its formal program. In other words, it means that the American football team at the university will hereafter be managed by the Association and its expenditures defrayed by the latter as well.

For the past five years, the Waseda American football team has been made possible by the activities of the players themselves, who paid for their own equipment.

It is highly probable that Keio, Rikkyo, Hosei and Meiji will follow the precedent set by Waseda.

Yachting was also added to the Waseda University Athletic Association's program, augmenting it to 26 divisions.

BOSTON LOOMS AS THREAT TO YANKEES

By RUD RENNIE

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, Jan. 1—Baseball enters upon its 100th year with radio in all the major league ball parks, night baseball creeping into the American League for the first time, a uniform baseball and high hopes for a most prosperous season.

The world-champion Yankees, the only club in history to win the championship three years in succession, will strive to gain their fourth consecutive American League pennant and tie the record set by the New York Giants who won the National League title in 1921, '22, '23 and '24.

The Chicago Cubs, current National League champions, will be out there, with Gabby Hartnett having his first full year as manager, defending their laurels.

TO SHOOT AT RUTH'S MARK

Hank Greenberg, the Detroit slugger, and Jimmy Foxx, of the Red Sox, will have another year in which to shoot at Babe Ruth's home run record. He was two short of tying it last season with fifty-eight, and Foxx also was that close in 1932.

It will be interesting to see whether some of the great pitchers, who suffered last season with ailing arms, can come back and win. The national game will be that much better if Carl Hubbell, of the Giants, Dizzy Dean, of the Cubs, Bob Grove, of the Red Sox, Johnny Allen, of the Indians, and Schoolboy Rowe, of the Tigers, can pitch with their customary ability.

Once again, the National League is rather more than likely to provide the thrills that come from a close race. The coming campaign is more uncertain than ever.

There is no outstanding team in the National League, as there is in the American, where the lordly Yankees rule the roost. The race in the senior circuit is wide open. One cannot even be sure the Phillies will finish last, because Doc Prothro, their new manager, may turn out to be a magician.

CUBS SWAP WITH GIANTS

The Cubs, in a swap with the Giants, came up with Dick Bartell, Hank Leiber and Gus Mancuso. Dick will be their shortstop, Mancuso will assist Hartnett with the catching and Leiber may fulfill the promises of his major-league lifetime and add power and class to the outfield.

But the Cubs still lack pitching. After Bill Lee and Clay Bryant take their turns, the Hartnett forces haven't a first-class hurler, unless Dean can go for them. In that case they may do all right.

There isn't a club in the National League that is set. The Cubs, in addition to pitching, need a first baseman. The Pirates need another man to drive in runs, but chiefly they need to be infused with fighting spirit.

The Giants, with Jurges, acquired from the Cubs, to play shortstop, and Bonura, brought from the Senators, to play first base, are an "if" club. If Hubbell and Schumacher can pitch, and if Whitehead can play second base they may be the team to beat. But right now it is a question whether they have a second baseman or a strong enough pitching staff.

BROOKLYN'S CHANCES SLIM

The Brooklyn ball club is getting to look more and more like something that belongs in the Coopers-town Hall of Fame where one has to be inactive to be eligible.

Cincinnati has the makings of the best pitching staff in the league, but it still lacks infielders. And to do as well as last year, either Lombardi and McCarthy must have exceptionally good years again, or two other fellows must come through in style. But the Reds caused lots of excitement last season. They may be the team to watch.

The Bees are a tough club to beat, because they play good defensive ball and hustle. Last season they were hampered by injuries. With luck, they may get into the first division this coming year.

And there is no telling what the Cardinals may do. They had raw power last season—power and speed—and that was all. They have a new manager in Ray Blades. If they can get pitching, they may get out of the second division.

ANYBODY'S RACE IN NATIONAL

So that it is anybody's race in the National, but not so in the American.

There, the Yankees should be as strong if not stronger than they were last season when they romped away with the pennant and won the World Series in four straight games.

Only two recruits coming up to the Yankees appear to be sure of making the team. One is Buddy Rosar, a catcher, and the other is Charley Keller, an outfielder. And to make room for Keller, the Yankees will have to let a good man go; so Keller will have to be extra good.

The Boston Red Sox loom at the team most likely to end the Yankee reign of terror. The Sox will need a pitcher to replace Grove if old Moose's arm insists on going on him. They are gambling with Jim Tabor, a recruit, at third base.

HURT BY LOSS OF GROVE

On paper, the Sox are not so good as the Yankees, but the team finished second last season and might have been even closer to the top if Grove's arm had not failed him.

The Indians just don't seem to have what it takes. They had their chance last season and muffer it when face to face with the Yankees. It is not likely they will do better next season.

The Tigers have power, plenty of it, with Hank Greenberg leading the way. But the Tigers also lack pitchers.

Those three teams may challenge the Yankee right to go on winning. Washington and Chicago will be striving to climb into the first division. And the Browns and the Athletic figure to be fighting again to stay out of the cellar.

WASEDA NINE MOST POPULAR IN 1938 SEASON

Receipts of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league, the so-called "Big Six" of Japan, totaled ¥427,383.77 during the year 1938, according to announcement by the league at its first meeting of the year Friday night at its headquarters at the Marunouchi Building.

Waseda University, while it failed to stop Meiji from winning its second and third championships in a row in the Spring and Fall seasons, proved to be the most popular team with the public and drew the largest share of the receipts, its proportion being ¥47,493.22.

Meiji was second with ¥44,315.44 and Keio third with ¥42,804.43.

Tokyo Imperial University, although the perennial cellar-holders of the league, won a larger share than Rikkyo and Hosei universities. The figures were: Tokyo Imperial ¥38,618.42, Rikkyo ¥37,013.29 and Hosei ¥36,833.53.

The distribution to the teams represents a reduction of 30 per cent of that in the past. Even that of the Waseda team showed a reduced figure by ¥10,000 and that of Hosei, the low, by about ¥3,600.

As concerning the disposal of the ¥25,000, representing the 30 per cent clash in the shares of the teams ordered by the Education Ministry, the league will decide on it at a meeting on January 31.

The Spring season will open on Saturday, April 15, according to a decision reached Friday night.

Pineda on Way Here To Battle Horiguchi

Chris Pineda, featherweight boxing champion of the Philippines, sailed from Manila aboard the President Pierce on Thursday for Japan to challenge Tsuneo "Piston" Horiguchi, according to a telegram received by the Fuji Boxing Club.

Self-Protection

A farmer and his wife walked from their farm to the county fair his wife laden down with a heavy lunch basket. Once arrived at the fair, he considerately turned to her and said:

KANTO RUGGERS ROUT KANSAI

KANTO ROUTS KANSAI RUGGERS BY 56-11 SCORE

Kanto proved too good for Kansai in their 12th annual all-stars rugby game Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium and won by the overwhelming score of 56 to 11. It was the former's 12th straight victory.

Kanto's forwards kept the ball almost continuously in Kansai territory, but at that there was a conspicuous absence of teamwork with the players resorting to individual scoring efforts. This too was a factor that weakened the Kansai fifteen

Only in the beginning of the first half was there any semblance of a battle. Kanto led at 11-0 after 11 minutes of play but Kansai rallied with Yura scoring a try after taking a three-quarter pass in 21 minutes. Koizumi kicked goal. Wada followed up a dribble by Takusho and scored a try in the next minute to cut the lead to 11-8. But at this stage of the game, the Kanto forwards really got going. Wada, Niijima and Nabeka were responsible for scores that ended the half 29 to 8 in favor of Kanto.

There might have been a bigger score piled up by the Kanto squad had its backs kept up the same pace with the forwards. As it was, they contributed to only two of the team's 11 tries.

The line-ups were:

Kanto: Yamaji (Waseda), Endo (Meiji), Sakashita (Meiji), Kashima (Meiji), Hatakeyama (Meiji), Nabeka (Meiji), Shinozaki (Tokyo Imperial), Niijima (Meiji), forwards; Fuji (Meiji), Wada (Meiji), halfbacks; Saito (Meiji), Sazawa (Meiji), Suzuki (Waseda O.B.), Tanaka (Waseda), three-quarters; Igawa (Waseda), fullback.

Kansai: Takida (Kyoto Imperial), Kuriyama (Doshisha), Tokita (Kyoto Imperial), Yoshida (Doshisha), Shibata (Kyoto Imperial), Enomoto (Doshisha), Wada (Kyoto Imperial), forwards; Koizumi (Doshisha), Kinoshita (Meiji O.B.), Shirayama (Konan Higher School), halfbacks; Shimizu (Doshisha), Sunada (Doshisha), Yura (Kyoto Imperial), Takusho (Chosen Railway), three-quarters; Kurokawa (Doshisha), fullback.

Pitcher Will Get Pay Even If Treatments Fail to Cure Elbow

CLEVELAND, Dec. 31—Johnny Allen, the Cleveland Indians' he-man umpire-fighter, confessed today he had a lump in his throat.

For the Indians had just told him, Allen said, that he'd get his 1939 salary of $20,000 "if I don't pitch a ball all Summer." Troubled with an elbow ailment which crippled him this year in mid-season, Allen will decide next week whether to undergo an operation.

Surgeons have told him there is a 95 per cent chance that the muscular fracture can be mended; a 5 per cent chance that his arm will never return to the form which won him fifteen straight games in 1937.

Allen said Alva Bradley, Indians' president, informed him the club would make no effort to abrogate his contract if he decided against the operation or if it was unsuccessful.

"How can a man be fairer than that?" the pitcher inquired. "I called my wife to tell her about the situation, and there actually was a slump in my throat."

Tokyo Giants Win Another At Manila

Fifteen thousand fans saw the Tokyo Giants down the Caramba Sugar Plantation team, reputed the strongest ball club in the Philippines, by a 1-0 score in their second appearance at the Rizal Stadium at Manila on Sunday, according to a dispatch to the Yomiuri Shimbun.

A timely hit by First Baseman Nagasawa brought in the Giants' winning run in the first inning.

Scintillating fielding kept the Filipinos from scoring off Kawakami, who pitched the first five innings, and Stalphin who ended the game on the mound.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2—That little giant of the gridiron, David O'Brien of All-America fame, forward-passed Texas Christian University's team to a 15-to-7 triumph over Carnegie Tech today in the Sugar Bowl game.

With the exception of one brief spell in the wildest game of Sugar Bowl history, the Southwest Conference champions monopolized the fifth annual struggle as O'Brien, 152-pound quarterback, directed the nation's No. 1 eleven to a well-earned victory.

Ably supporting O'Brien's devastating aerial attack was the powerful ball carrying of Fullback Connie Sparks and Halfback Johnny Hall behind what was probably the biggest and best line the Southwest has produced.

O'Brien's support on the catching end by Don Looney, Earl Clark and Durward Horner stood out in the attack that saw the Horned Frogs, trailing at the half, 6—7, and on the short end of a score for the first time in eleven consecutive games, come back to win handily.

RIVAL COACH PRAISES LOSERS

Leo R. (Dutch) Meyer, T. C. U. coach, was extremely happy and lost no time praising the Carnegie Tech team, which stopped the great Pittsburgh eleven last Fall.

Texas Christian, which drove to a pair of touchdowns and, in the final period, to O'Brien's field goal, entered scoring territory on three other occasions, only to be checked at the 12, 24 and 19 yard lines. Carnegie Tech, recovering a fumble, was on the T.C.U. 19 just before the half closed, but got no farther.

More than 50,000 spectators sat through a scoreless first period. Scoring fireworks got under way midway of the second frame. The Frogs were the first to tally, driving 76 yards. The 200-pound Sparks slashed through center to score after O'Brien's tosses, interminglied with tackle smashes, carried to the 1-yard stripe.

Carnegie Tech took the kick-off and Halfback Merlyn Condit ran it to the 36. The Tartans went on to their touchdown, which came on a spectacular pass play, with Peter Moroz, like O'Brien, a featherweight ball player, standing at midfield and throwing a lazy, floating, but desperate toss to George Muha 50 seconds before the second period ended.

ADVANCE SPANS 80 YARDS

The Texans lost no time regaining the lead after the intermission. They drove 80 yards in five plays to cross the goal, two beautiful passes by O'Brien leading the way.

Little Davey dropped a 35-yard toss into the arms of Clark, and three plays later flung a bull's-eye to Horner, a tall end, who snared the ball at the Carnegie Tech 26-yard stripe and left everybody behind him.

Early in the fourth period, with O'Brien tossing passes right and left, the Frogs marched to Carnegie Tech's 1-yard line, where on fourth down O'Brien called for a field goal. Fullback Ward Wilkinson knelt at the 9 to hold the ball and Davey booted it through the bars.

Carnegie made a spirited drive midway in the third period, featured by a 17-yard run by Condit, who was pulled down on the T.C.U. 27 by O'Brien after it looked as if he was away to score. The Tartans got 1 yard more on a reverse by Muha but two passes failed and Condit's fourth down toss to Muha was intercepted by Ki Aldrich, all-America center who played a bang-up game all the way.

NAKAGAWA WINS NATIONAL SKI JUMPING TITLE

At the specially built schanze at the Korakuen stadium in the midst of the metropolis, with snow hauled from the North, Masaji Nakagawa of Meiji University won the ski jumping title for men Sunday afternoon in the second annual championship jointly sponsored by the Japan Ski Federation and the Nichi Nichi Shimbun. He leaped 31, 32 and 32 meters in his three jumps for a total of 329.2 points, or 169.2 points for distance and 160 points for form. A total of 23 skiers competed.

An almost capacity crowd of 20,000 saw the contestants sail through the air in the stadium that is usually the scene of the professional baseball games. Staged for the first time in the country was the triple jump by Isamu Sekiguchi, former Olympic athlete, Tokito Sakata of Keio University and Katsuhei Sato of Nihon University.

Placing second was Takaichi Kimura of Waseda University, who leaped the same distances with Nakagawa, but did not so fare as well in form. He was credited with a total of 325.7 points.

Third was Katsuhei Sato of Nihon University with 171.6 points for distance and 149.5 points for form, or a total of 321.1 points. He leaped 31, 33 and 32½ meters.

Hohzo Tatsuta of Waseda established a new distance leap, without falling, of 34 meters in his third jump. He placed sixth with a total of 320.1 points. The battle for third, fourth, fifth and sixth places was especially keen. Fourth was Sadao Kimura of Waseda with 320.9 points, and fifth was Isamu Sekiguchi with 320.4 points.

The same Sekiguchi won the exhibition slalom race covering the entire course within the stadium in 15 seconds.

Miss Kimoto of Otaru won in the women's 90 meter slalom race.

Notre Dame Victor, 48-18

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 2—Notre Dame's fast-breaking offense was a mystery to Cornell's basketball team tonight, the Irish winning, 48 to 18. The visitors were held to six field goals. They trailed at one stage of the first half by 22 to 2.

Coach George Keogan of Notre Dame employed substitutes liberally. With the Irish leading, 34 to 8, early in the second half, the fourth team was sent in and outscored Cornell's regulars, 14 to 10.

Ed Riska and Paul Ducharme tied for scoring honors for Notre Dame with 7 points each. Al Vaughan of the Ithacans accounted for 9.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2—Two great passes gave the West a 14-to-0 upset victory over the East today in the annual football classic played for charity.

Some 60,000 fans jamming Kezar Stadium to capacity sat under leaden skies and intermittent drizzles of rain throughout one of the most thrilling games in the fourteen-year history of the series.

A halfback from Texas, Billy Patterson of Baylor University, and a homebred of the Golden State, Jim Coughlan of Santa Clara, led the Western collegians to the most one-sided triumph since 1936.

Coming in at left half in the second period, Patterson whipped the ball to Coughlan, substituting at right end, and the latter ran ten yards to score. The same combination came back in the last quarter to repeat the pitching-catching maneuver, Coughlan this time snagging the ball over the goal line.

Each time the try for point was converted. Prescott Hutchins, guard from Oregon State College, placekicked the first, and Charles Heilman, Iowa State end, booted the ball through on the second attempt.

The game opened with the East, numbering three all-Americans and other near greats from the other side of the Mississippi, as the 10-to-6 favorite.

EAST THREATENS ONLY TWICE

But the odds proved misleading as the encounter wore on and the West, unawed by the array of talent coached by Andy Kerr and Bernie Bierman, outcharged and out-tricked its rival almost throughout. Except for two rallies, one in the opening period and the other in the last quarter, the East failed to threaten.

The West, aside from scoring twice, made three goalward marches in the second period and missed two field goal tries, both in the last quarter.

Although some of the finest players in the land participated in the contest for the Shriners' Crippled Children's Hospital, the crowd expected a duel for individual backfield honors between Marshall Goldberg, Pittsburgh's all-American, and Vic Bottari, California flash who ranked with the best in the West.

The two were marked men from the start. In the circumstances they played excellent games. Bottari flashed a slightly superior brand of play, gaining 35 yards in nine attempts. Goldberg packed the oval ten times for 23 yards.

They were overshadowed by teammates, however. For the East, John Pingel of Michigan State, who replaced Goldberg at left half, and Howard Weiss, plunging fullback from Wisconsin, were the stars. Western laurels were claimed by Patterson and Bill Paulman, Stanford fullback, who carried the ball eleven times to gain 48 yards through the big Eastern line.

WEISS RECOVERS FUMBLE

The East, taking advantage of a punt fumbled by Bottari, put the ball in play 24 yards from the Western goal. Weiss had recovered the oval. After Goldberg had been thrown for a 7-yard loss, he passed to a Pitt team-mate, Louis Daddio, end, for 10 yards. George Faust, Minnesota quarterback, dropped back to the 26 for a field-goal try from placement which was partially blocked.

The West set the stage for its first touchdown late in the opening quarter. A punt return of 22 yards by Bottari put the ball on the Western 47. Bottari gained 3 yards and Right Halfback Jimmy Johnston of Washington picked up one. Fullback Paulman tossed to Bottari for 10 yards as the period ended.

Patterson replaced Bottari and Coughlan came into the game at one of the flank positions. The ball was on the East's 39. On the first play, Patterson shot one to the far corner, Coughlan snared it on the 10-yard line and dashed over.

From then until the half ended, the West threatened to score three times and each time lost the ball on an intercepted pass. One march, good for 66 yards, ended on the 12; another netted 47 yards to the East's 10, and a third was stopped 22 yards from the goal.

Each side intercepted the ball three times during the period and five of Patterson's tosses were completed in sensational fashion.

PAULMAN AND BOTTARI STAR

In the last few minutes of the third period, the West put on the outstanding line-smashing display of the game. Paulman and Bottari alternated, the former carrying four times for 29 yards and Bottari picking up 19 in the same number of plunges.

As the quarter ended, Paulman passed to Bottari for 5 yards, putting the ball on the East's 21. The two players accounted for 53 yards between them in this drive.

As the fourth period opened, the Westerners moved to the 20, lost 2 yards and Hutchins fell back for a field-goal try from the 25 that failed.

Braga caught a punt, lateraled to Patterson and the Texan was downed after a 32-yard return to the 25. Patterson passed 11 yards to Braga, then whipped the touchdown toss to Coughlan.

Eastern power asserted itself briefly in the following minutes on a 72-yard thrust which ended when the West took possession on its 2 on an illegal pass by Pingel.

Pug Manders, Drake quarterback, intercepted a pass to put the ball on the East's 49, and it was advanced to the 23. From the 35 Walt Nielsen, Arizona back, missed a field goal from placement.

The West now has a decisive margin in the series, with eight victories against five.

132 EVENTS FOR 1940 GAMES BUT HOCKEY, BASKETBALL OUT

Olympic News Service

At the Berlin Olympic Games there were in all 129 events on the program. This number has been increased by three in the Helsinki Games next year and is made up as follows:

Field and track events 33, gymnastics 8, swimming and waterpolo 16, rowing 7, yachting 4, canoeing 9, wrestling 14, weight-lifting 5, boxing 8, shooting 5, fencing 7, modern pentathlon 1, riding 6, football 1, gliding 2.

The Berlin programs also included handball, hockey, polo, basketball, and women's gymnastics. They have been omitted from 1940, but in their place 4 new athletic events have been introduced, namely, 10,000 meters walk, and women's Putting the Shot, broad jump and 200 meters flat; 2 new shooting competitions, the free rifle shooting 3 x 40 shots at 300 meters and miniature rifle 3 x 20 shots at 50 meters. Both gliding events are also new.

In addition to these 132 events, there are 15 art competitions, bringing the total up to 147.

At previous Games the regular events have been as follows: Athens 1896, 44: Paris 1900, 58: St. Louis 1904, 68: London 1908, 97: Stockholm 1912, 102: Antwerp 1920, 141: Paris 1924, 126: Amsterdam 1928, 113: Los Angeles 1932, 118: Berlin 1936, 129.

In the past demonstration events have also been given. Berlin had demonstrations in gliding and baseball and at Athens there were no less than 11 such items. The International Olympic Committee rules now permit only of one item of a national sport and one of a foreign.

BRITAIN THE FIRST ENTRY

The first reply to the invitations sent out in October to 60 countries was received by telegraph six days after dispatch. It was from Great Britain; and four days after this rapid acceptance Mr. Rangell received a letter from Lord Burghley informing him that on the very same day that the invitation had arrived from the Organizing Committee, a meeting of the English Committee had been held and acceptance decided upon.

Denmark's acceptance arrived on 29th. October, Norway's on 2nd. November, Italy's on 3rd., Rumania's on 6th., Switzerland's on 15th., Jugoslavia's on 19th, and Belgium's on 24th. November.

The Palestine Olympic Committee acknowledged receipt of the invitation on November 7th. and stated that notification regarding their participation would be sent later.

Since all the invitations were sent from Finland simultaneously, the more distant countries had not received them by the time the first replies were coming in.

The Finnish Parliament has voted a budget of 200 million Finmarks (approx. £1,000,000 or $5,000,000) for the Games, and the remainder of the sum, 100 million marks (approx. £500,000 or $2,500,000), has been raised in the form of a grant from the Helsinki Municipality.

THE OLYMPIC VILLAGE

The building of an Olympic Village, to an approved design and embracing 29 three-storied houses—some 2,500 rooms in all—has been entrusted by the Town to a building society. The latter will then lease the houses out as private dwellings after the Games. The Village will be built in a wooded area in the suburb of Käpylä, possessing easy and unhampered communication with the city. A separate restaurant will also be constructed in the Village and the Käpylä school, already on the site, will become the Administrative Center.

There is at present also a large trotting-race-course on the site which will be equipped as a training ground for athletics and football.

SALE OF TICKETS

This important question has been under close consideration for the past three months and details of prices of admission to the events will be published in the next number of this bulletin. All that can be stated at present is that 50 per cent of the total number of tickets will be available for sale abroad, but that the Olympic Committee of each country will make its own regulations for the resale of its quota.

ACCOMMODATIONS

Arrangements are being made to board 160,000 guests daily, either in Helsinki or the immediate surroundings, during the whole period of the Games. The lack of hotels will be compensated for by accommodation in private houses and apartments. It is also proposed to board large parties either in schools, etc., or in tents.

Accommodation will be classified and visitors can make their choice accordingly.

SEATS FOR THE PRESS

At the Helsinki Games the Press will have 600 seats reserved for them. The principle of allotment will be the same as in 1936, that is, the Press of each country will receive places in numerical proportion to the number of competitors of its own nationality. The Organising Committee is alloting these reservations by countries only and the various national Olympic committees will redistribute to the newspapers of their own countries.

ORANGE BOWL GAME WON BY TENNESSEE

N.Y. Times

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2.—Tennessee's football team crowned its flawless 1938 record with a bruising victory over Oklahoma by 17 to 0 today before an overflow Orange Bowl crowd of 32,191 persons

Led by the whirling back named George Cafego and a jack-rabbit runner, Babe Wood, the Volunteers ripped through Oklahoma's vaunted defense for two touchdowns and Captain Bowden Wyatt kicked a field goal as the Sooners failed in the last minute to complete their only serious scoring threat.

It was a rough-and-tumble duel, interspersed with frequent penalties and fumbles. The outweighed Vols showed they could withstand that kind of warfare.

QUICK TO SEIZE BREAKS

They pounced on a break to move 27 yards in the first quarter, when Bob Foxx scored through the line from 8 yards out; capitalized on a fumble to get a field goal in the second period, then proved they could tally on a start from scratch. Wood conducted a 73-yard touchdown sortie, scoring from the 19-yard line on an end run behind magnificent blocking

Only in the final minutes did Oklahoma get under way. Bowled over by crushing blocks, the Sooners finally put their passing attack in high gear and moved near the Tennessee goal. There the aerial attack failed.

For a while in the last period it appeared as if the game might end in open hostilities. Gilford Duggan, Oklahoma's all-Big Six tackle, was ejected for taking a poke at Ed Molinski, Tennessee guard. Later Molinski was banished for slugging.

Tennessee lived up to its reputation as an opportunist team. Oklahoma suffered a 15-yard penalty and Hugh McCullough, the Sooner big gun, punted to Cafego, who ran 15 yards to the Oklahoma 27.

TOUCHDOWN IN FIVE PLAYS

Five plays later the Vols had a touchdown. Fullback Leonard Coffman made 12 yards in three bucks and Cafego crashed through tackle for 12 more. Foxx faked a spin and went through a wide hole. Wyatt converted.

Later in the opening quarter Coffman and Cafego led a 34-yard advance that stalled deep in Oklahoma territory.

The Vols, riding on that 7-0 lead, thwarted Oklahoma's every move, waiting for another break. It came midway through the second quarter. Bob Seymour of Oklahoma was tackled hard and let the ball get away. Bob Andridge recovered for Tennessee on the Sooner 27.

One of four passes by Wood was completed. Substitute Ed Ciphers grabbing the ball 4 yards from the double stripe. Wood lost 5 yards in two tries and Wyatt came back into the game for the field goal. With Sam Bartholomew holding the ball on the 22-yard line, Wyatt kicked high over the crossbar.

PUNT RETURN STARTS PUSH

Cafego, flipping passes to Wyatt and Foxx, moved the Vols to the Oklahoma 30 in the third period. Wood returned McCullough's punt 12 yards, dashed 21 yards a moment later as he eluded a cluster of Sooners, ran 14 around end, rifled a 23-yard pass to Jim Coleman and scored from the 19. Foxx place-kicked the final point.

120,000 SEE RANGERS BEAT CELTIC BY 2-1

The Canadian Press

GLASGOW, Jan. 2—The Glasgow Rangers and Celtic made league football history today. Playing in their annual New Year's Day battle, they attracted 120,000 persons—a record in the United Kingdom. The previous high attendance was at their Jan. 1, 1937, contest at Ibrox Park, when 94,811 saw the match.

As the Glasgow rivals marched onto the Ibrox Park pitch today they were greeted by thunderous applause from the overflow crowd. Wild scenes marked the pre-game activities as a clamoring mob of 30,000, unable to gain admission, tried to rush the gates. Mounted policemen held them back.

Many spectators collapsed, while three men were rushed to a hospital suffering chest injuries caused when they were crushed against terraces. Hundreds of "fortunate" seat-holders demanded their money returned when they claimed they couldn't see the game.

Victorious by 3—1 last year on the same date, the Rangers again ran off the field on the top side of the score-sheet. Today's game ended in their favor, 2—1, after some of the most brilliant football seen this season.

The victory stretched the Rangers' lead over the Celts and Hearts to 8 points. Hearts, engaged in an Edinburgh derby with the Hibernians, bowed by 1—0.

LONDON, Jan. 2—Eight games were played in the English League today. Stoke City and Middlesbrough improved first-league status with clear-cut verdicts. Stoke defeated Bolton, 3—1, and the Northerners trounced Liverpool, 3—0.

McGill Defeats Montreal, 6-4 At Ice Hockey

N.Y. Times

RYE, N. Y., Jan. 3—Scoring three times in the first period, twice in the second and once in the third, McGill University defeated a surprisingly stubborn University of Montreal hockey team, 6 to 4, before 1,000 at the Playland Ice Casino tonight.

The triumph gave the Redmen the fourth annual Playland Canadian intercollegiate round-robin "championship." Last night they turned back the University of Toronto, which opposes Montreal here tomorrow in the finale of the eight-game holiday program.

Pau Emile Genier of Montreal and Russ McConnell of McGill each scored twice tonight. Montreal took an early 1-0 lead, then fell behind and rallied to within one goal of a tie.

After Paul Le Cavalier's opening counter at 3:30 on a solo break through the McGill defense, the Redmen countered with goals by McConnell, Andy Anton and Herb Owen for a 3-1 advantage at the intermission. Roger Cagne brought the count up to 3-2 with a spectacular 20-foot shot while stumbling from a hard check, at 9:10 of the second, but Ian Craig and Taylor Kennedy put McGill three in front.

Genier of Montreal scored at 4:17 and 7:45 of the third session, first taking Gagne's rebound, then stealing the puck after Gerard Lebeuf's shot was intercepted. But, on the ensuing face-off, Montreal's hopes for an upset were crushed as Howie Walker got the puck and passed to McConnell, who was in the clear. Anton was then in the penalty box.

The line-up:

Medica Determined To Swim at Helsinki

Jack Medica, 1936 Olympic 400-meter freestyle swimming champion and a great favorite in this country, having made three trips here, has begun training for the 12th Olympic Games at Helsinki, according to the Asahi.

Out of competition since his last visit to Japan two years ago, Medica recently joined the New York Athletic Club and is training conscientiously to make the American team next year. His time in his first comeback meet at the recent A. A. U. carnival at New York was 2 minutes 22.2 seconds for the 200-yard event, which is not impressive.

ONLY 2 CHANGES ADOPTED IN U.S. FOOTBALL RULES

N.Y. Times

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Jan. 3—Only two changes in intercollegiate football rules, both concerning ineligible pass receivers, were adopted by the rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association today.

The committee, in one of its most uneventful and shortest sessions in years, also ordered improvements and changes in football equipment to reduce injuries. The changes, announced by Chairman Walter T. Okeson of Lehigh University, five hours after the committee ended its final session, are:

1. The penalty for a forward pass striking an ineligible player shall be the loss of a down and 15 yards from the point of the previous down, instead of loss of the ball.

2. All ineligible players—usually the center, guards and tackles—must remain on the line of scrimmage until after a pass is thrown. The penalty for violating this will be 15 yards and the play will also count as a down.

RECOMMENDED BY COACHES

Both of these revisions were recommended by the American Football Coaches Association at Chicago last week. Other changes recommended by the coaches, Okeson said, were referred to the standing committee for study.

Okeson said he and others of the committee, as well as football coaches present at the meetings here, believed the new rules would encourage the use of "shovel" passes—short passes behind or to the line of scrimmage.

"However, they may lead to longer runbacks by the opponents on intercepted passes," Okeson said, "because fewer players will now be allowed to go down under a pass."

Okeson's statement said the committee "recognized country-wide" demand for improvements in equipment, especially with regard to clients and thigh guards.

"The protective padding on the outside of the thigh guards has been increased from ⅜ of an inch to ½ inch of thickness, and, more important, officials will be instructed to enforce this regulation strictly because the survey indicated that this protective covering had been omitted altogether in many cases."

NEW CLEAT REGULATIONS

Cleats hereafter must be ½ inch in diameter at the end and "must be in the shape of a truncated cone," to remedy what the committee called "a very serious situation." The committee recommended that "cleats be made of soft rubber carrying a post which screws into the sole of the shoe. Unless some change occurs in the present cleat construction which will prevent cleats from chipping or coming off while in use, the above recommendation will be made mandatory."

The committee also voted to make the wearing of head guards as well as soft knee pads mandatory, and ordered the thickness of knee pads increased to half inch.

The rules changes, which affect thousands of football players on every college field in the country, were adopted after sessions which opened Sunday night at this mountain retreat. The committee finished its deliberation a day ahead of schedule."

PRINCETON SIX TOPS MONTREAL BY 6-3 COUNT

N.Y. Herald Tribune

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 7—An inspired Princeton hockey team scored three goals in less than one minute during the final period of its second International Intercollegiate League game this afternoon and defeated the University of Montreal, 6 to 3. The Canadian and American rivals battled on even terms through the first two frames, and the count stood at 3—all when the burst of Tiger goals, with five minutes left in the game, provided a winning margin.

The Tigers' highly-touted junior line came into its own during the brief foray, and Ralph Wyer and Bob Bordley, right wing and center, each drove in a goal unassisted. The former was high-scorer for the afternoon with a goal and two assists, and the latter tallied twice without help. The third marker during the rally came from Harry Fraker, who rifled in a pass from Wyer to start the bewildering sixty-second seige.

Both teams started off fast and Toots Barnicle, senior wing, shot in a pass from Doug Cochrane to give Princeton its first goal in less than thirty seconds. Five minutes later the Canadian retaliated when Gabriel Le Cavalier, who was brilliant on the attack until forced to retire in the second period with a cut forehead, batted in Leon Derome's relay from the corner.

The score remained even well into the second period, when Montreal took the lead at 2 to 1 on Gerard Le Boeuf's score, driven with assistance from Paul Genier and Captain Roger Gagne. Bordley's unassisted goal, a long shot, again deadlocked the game three minutes later.

In the final period Gagne streaked through the Tiger defense and poked the puck past Zeke Coleman in 2:00. The Canadians held the lead until 10:36, when Dick Purnell, Princeton defense man, bounced the rubber off the pipes and into the nets after a general melee around the cage. At 15:07 Fraker, the other Tiger defense man, put the home team ahead and started the three-goal splurge.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT" - by Ripley

BOBBY RIGGS WILL BE KEY MAN ON U.S. DAVIS CUP TEAM FOR 1939

By FRED HAWTHORNE

N.Y. Herald-Tribune

NEW YORK, Jan. 1—To the average follower of lawn tennis the thought of losing the services of J. Donald Budge on this year's Davis Cup team brings up visions of dire defeat and the loss of the historic cup that Budge's brilliant tennis brought back to this country after a ten-year absence. But to those well acquainted with the situation, both here and abroad, such alarm appears a trifle illogical.

Paying all tribute to the red-headed Californian who was the world's greatest amateur of 1938, I believe our chances of retaining the cup this year are certainly not worse than even. Robert L. Riggs, now of Chicago but born and raised in California the land of great tennis players, is even now the man in the minds of the Davis Cup committee around whom the next team will be built.

LIMITED BY OWN ATTITUDE

Riggs' playing possibilities are limited only by his own mental attitude and if he can once make up his mind to make full use of his many talents as a great player, he should be able to head off any amateur of today, with the possible exception of Australia's John Bromwich.

As the No. 1 singles player on the team, Riggs should be virtually sure of at least one singles match in the Davis Cup competition. As a doubles player, he ranks second to none in this country, and paired with either Gene Mako, of California world's amateur doubles champion last year with Budge, or with Sidney B. Wood jr., of New York, who gained the No. 3 doubles ranking with Joe Hunt, Riggs ought to make a team formidable enough to win against any other combination now on the courts.

As for the second singles man on the team, the choice may lie between Mako, third in the current ranking, or Wood, No. 4. Mako's singles play improved amazingly last season, and, as runner-up to Budge for the national title last September, the Californian must be most seriously considered. Wood, who won the Wimbledon singles crown in 1931 and is only a few months over twenty-six years of age, staged a comeback last Summer that brought him up to fourth place. Wood has never succeeded in producing his best tennis when the stakes were highest, but he will always be a potential threat during the next two or three years, because at his peak, with Budge out of the amateur ranks, he has it in him to defeat any player of the present era. Bryan M. Grant jr., who has had Davis Cup competition; Joe Hunt, Elwood T. Cooke, Gilbert A. Hunt jr. and Frank L. Kovacs are youngsters who will also be observed closely by the Cup Committee when it comes time to pick the team that will face the challenging nation.

GERMANY TO RELY ON HENKEL

With Baron von Cramm definitely out of the game, Germany will have to place her main reliance on Henner Henkel, a great singles and doubles player indeed. But there appears no other German player who measures up to Henkel's ability with a racket. Australia should prove the challenging nation next Summer, with Bromwich, Adrian K. Quist and Vivian McGrath as her team. Bromwich defeated Riggs in the Davis Cup matches at Germantown last year after the series had already been clinched by the United States, and he must certainly be rated among the best two or three amateurs in the world today. He is a splendid match player and probably has not yet reached his peak, but Riggs at his best should not be outmatched in a meeting with the Australian ace.

As for the battle at Forest Hills next September to decide the successor to Budge, as champion, the odds appear to favor Riggs, although Mako, Wood, Joe Hunt and Grant, all have chances of gaining the crown.

16,725 SPECTATORS PAID $47,120 IN BUDGE-VINES FIRST MATCH

By ALLISON DANZIG
N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—The invincibility associated with the name of Donald Budge as the world's foremost amateur tennis player for the past two years was reaffirmed last night with his first appearance in the role of a professional at Madison Square Garden.

In the presence of a capacity gathering of 16,725 spectators, who paid in $47,120, the red-headed giant from Oakland, Calif., the only player in history to make a grand slam of the world's four major tennis titles, administered a crushing defeat to Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, Calif., the recognized professional champion.

Vines did not have the satisfaction of taking so much as a set. An hour and two minutes after Umpire T. Levan Richards had started the match, the first formal meeting on record between the two towering Californians, the decision had been reached in Budge's favor at 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

The great crowd, obviously partial in its sympathies to the player who had restored the supremacy of American amateur tennis, was hardly able to realize the match had come so abruptly to an end. The outcome was totally at variance with preconceived notions, which had established Vines as the favorite in a closely fought match, and in spite of its devotion to Budge's cause, the gallery left the Garden with a deep sense of disappointment.

OFF NIGHT FOR VINES

The match fell far short of expectations. Instead of presenting a spectacular free-hitting contest between two of the hardest sluggers the game has known it developed into an uneven struggle in which one of the contestants was helpless to extricate himself from the morass of errors that marred his play throughout the three sets, to leave him and the spectators shaking their heads in discouragement and perplexity.

Budge, while below his best mark in some respects and particularly in his overhead smashing, was cheered to the echo for a performance that was gratifying to his admirers, considering that he was playing under strange conditions. His service was a tremendous asset, and from the back court, where he made his stand almost entirely, both his marvelous backhand and his forehand kept the ball deep, with good pace and with far better control than his opponent could summon.

A BRILLIANT ASSEMBLAGE

It was a brilliant gathering, including notables from virtually every field of sport, Park Avenue, the stage and the screen, that turned out for the first formal match on record between two of the hardest hitters tennis has developed.

The United States Lawn Tennis Association had a large representation on hand to give its backing to the premiere of the player who brought back the Davis Cup after an absence of ten years and on whom it bestowed its cordial blessing in his professional venture that may cost the United States the cup this year.

President Holcombe Ward of New York, Vice-President Lawrence A. Baker of Washington, Treasurer Russell Kingman, Walter Pate, captain of the Davis Cup team; Walter Merill Hall, chairman of the general Davis Cup committee, and Julian S. Myrick, chairman of the Wightman Cup committee, were among those who had reservations.

Also, Bernon S. Prentice, Louis J. Carruthers, George T. Adee, Joseph Thurston of Hartford, Alric Man, Dr. S. Ellsworth, Davenport, P. Schuyler Van Bloem, Maskel E. Fox, Frank Shields, Sidney Wood, Fred Perry, Vincent Richards, Frank Hunter and Miss Alice Marble.

STRANGE CONDITIONS FOR DON

In fact, there was so large a delegation of tennis notables on hand that Budge must have felt as much at home as if he were playing at Forest Hills, although this was his introduction to the strange conditions of playing indoors under artificial lights on the canvas-covered Garden court.

The big Californian redhead and his opponent received a warm welcome when they walked out on the court, whose gleaming white lines were manned by the same members of the Tennis Umpires Association who sat in judgment upon Budge's matches at Forest Hills. Benjamin H. Dwight, chairman of the association, was in charge of the officiating, and H. Levan Richards was in the umpire's chair.

The two young giants, immaculate in white flannels and pullovers, made an attractive posture of athletic manhood as they stood side by side at the net for the benefit of the huge array of cameras trained upon them.

Little time was lost in formalities. The players took their places upon the court for a short warm-up while cameras clicked and flashlights flared. Then the scene was cleared for action.

Umpire Richards mounted his chair. With the crowd leaning forward in eager expectancy of a great hitting spectacle, the match got under way ten minutes after Richard Skeen of Hollywood had defeated Bruce Barnes of Texas in the curtain-raiser with a brilliant display of all-round offensive tennis, 6-2, 6-4.

Budge started the service and began by committing a double fault. He pulled out the game from 0—30 with the aid of a service ace and two backhand errors from Vines, who was not hitting cleanly.

Budge, concentrating on Vines' backhand, went to 40—15 in the second, but Vines scored on two tremendous forehand drives and made capital of his service to extricate the game and draw level. The professional champion's flat drive took the play away from Budge in the third, to exact a break through service and a 2-1 lead.

VINES SHOWS NERVOUSNESS

Budge retaliated in the fourth as Vines flubbed an easy volley and a short smash and dropped the head of his racquet twice on backhand drives. The Pasadenan was apparently nervous, and his raggedness continued as he failed his return of service in the fifth to put Budge ahead at 3-2.

Vines got a grip on himself and his racquet in the sixth to extract errors from Budge's deadly backhand. He went ahead at 30—0 in the seventh as the Oakland redhead completely missed the ball on an overhand smash, but lost his chance as Budge put on the pressure with his service.

Vines again wasted a big lead in the eighth, when his opponent pulled up from 15—40, and once more in the ninth the professional champion led at 30—0, only to dissipate his advantage. Budge, serving furiously, took the game and the set at 6—3, amid a wild burst of cheering.

The amateur champion was playing the steadier tennis and making bigger capital of his service, to pull out of a succession of holes, while Vines was hitting erratically from the back of the court and failing on most of his volleys.

Budge, after taking the last three games of the first set, added the first two of the second chapter, attacking with so much speed as to compel errors by Vines as the crowd roared. Vines' service thundered in the third and after he had wasted another lead of 40—15 in the fourth to make the score 3—1 against him the professional champion set sail broke down Budge's accuracy and swept through the next three games with the loss of only two points. The amateur champion was giving ground in rapid fashion, and when he missed a short smash and fell behind at 0—30 in the eighth it looked like Vines' set.

But here the professional champion slumped again. He dropped the next four points, yielded his own service in the ninth as Budge trapped him with a drop volley after lobbing to the baseline, and once again "blew" a 30—0 lead in the tenth. Budge, ending with a fusillade of serves, took four successive points again and the set at 6—4, to lead by two sets to none.

Games followed service quickly to 2-all in the third set. Then Budge, sighting with deadly aim in his passing shots, broke through in the fifth. The amateur champion went to 4—2 as he hammered away at Vines' backhand with sweeping drives into the corners.

Cuba, Philippines Enter American Zone

Cuba and the Philippines have newly entered the American zone of the Davis Cup competition for this year, according to a special dispatch to the Yomiuri Shimbun.

Japan, Mexico, Canada and Australia have already filed entries for the American zone, as they did last year.

Entries, which closed on Tuesday, showed China among those countries entering the European zone.

Up to Monday, a total of 27 countries had signified their intention to compete.

ST. MARY'S TOPS TEXAS TECH IN COTTON BOWL

N.Y. Times

DALLAS, Texas, Jan. 2—Power overcame razzle-dazzle in the sun-drenched Cotton Bowl today, St. Mary's Galloping Gaels defeating Texas Tech, 20—13.

In the final eleven minutes, however, an incredible Tech aerial threw 40,000 partisan Texans into a high fever.

Outclassed and smothering under a 20-0 deficit, the Texans bounced back with a shower of long, short, screen and lateral passes that netted two touchdowns and came close to the one needed. One of their many aerials boomeranged, however, and that was St. Mary's margin, a 23-yard touchdown sprint with an intercepted pass.

GAELS MORE POWERFUL

The power drives of St. Mary's with Ed Heffernan and Michael Klotovich in the featured roles, gained an even 200 yards but Tech, with the dramatic ending, counted 193 yards on its overhead game. St. Mary's punched over eleven first downs to Tech's eight.

Bif, 205-pound Jerry Dowd, Gael center, tagged one of the nation's finest kickers, just about moved to the head of the class with an amazing performance that included boots of 73 and 64 yards and earned him a 47.5 average, one of the major items in Tech's defeat.

MAREFOS KICKS POINT

Sent deep into their territory by Dowd's punting, the Tech players opened the way for the first St. Mary's score when George Webb, end, fumbled a lateral and Fullback Herbert Hoover Smith recovered on the 33. Heffernan shot a pass to Mike Perrie on the 9, and on the next play raced around right end for the score in the opening period. Perrie kicked the point.

The Gaels moved to the Tech 21 after a kick exchange. Klotovich passed unsuccessfully three times before running to the 5, from which point he stormed over for a touchdown in the second quarter. Marefos added the point.

Still stifled, Tech tried a pass from deep in its territory near the close of the third period, but Bobby Holmes' wild toss was gathered in by Fullback Smith on the Tech 23 and promptly escorted back to a touchdown. Perrie missed the kick.

From its 20, after a kick over the goal stripe in the final period, Tech opened up, Barnett heaving 30 yards to Webb in midfield. Barnett passed to Marek for 8 and then found Elmer Tarbox hidden on a perfect screen pass, the Tech running star going 33 yards for a touchdown. Marek's kick was good.

From their 35 the Texans moved again, Barnett passing to Tarbox for 13 and to Webb for 20 more. On fourth down Barnett passed from the Gael 32 to End E. J. McKnight, who snagged the ball as he raced across the goal line. Marek's conversion attempt was wide.

The Line-Up:

Pos.	St. Mary's (20)	Texas Tech (13)

STYMIE RULE STANDS IN U.S. PRO GOLF

By KERR N. PETRIE
N.Y. Herald-Tribune

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Wasteful in one respect and saving in another, the annual meeting of the United States Golf Association, held yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria, was based on something of a time paradox. Someone said the annual meeting once was rushed through in six minutes. That being the case, yesterday's session was slow, actually eight minutes behind the record, and all because Archie M. Reid, succeeding himself as president, insisted on saying a few words about other matters than shoe spikes.

Time means money in the affairs of business men, and if it does not mean money to the United States Gold Association, it at least is important in the second qualifying day of those amateur championships. The past tournament at Oakmont was no exception. Under stress of trying to save those few important shots which puts the player into or out of the first match round contestants slow down, dawdle, talk to themselves on the fairways and second guess themselves on the putting greens. And all the while the tournament committee is stewing about the time and daylight left for a play-off, if any.

TO REDUCE FIELD TO 130

Several times it has been too close for comfort. At times daylight has given out and ties have had to play off the next morning. The shades of night had Oakmont backed into the blackness of the Alleghenies during the last play-off, despite a day of warning to speed up. This year the second-day field is to be cut from 150 to 130, and there is nobody to blame for this state of affairs but the players themselves. They had it coming to them. The U. S. G. A. wishes an extra hour to work on and if the contestants will not cooperate the time will be taken from a scorer who otherwise could have qualified.

Harold W. Pierce, chairman of the championship committee, had this to say in his annual report relative to the time problem:

"Something of a problem has arisen in connection with the amateur championship by reason of the need for finishing the second qualifying round and any necessary play-off on the second day of the championship proper. With two rounds of match play on the third day, involving sixty-four qualifiers at the outset, it is almost imperative that all qualifiers be determined before the day's play begins. Therefore, to enable completion of the second day's schedule it is necessary to reduce the original field of 170 after the first qualifying round. In 1938 the matter of reducing the field was left to the discretion of the championship committee. The reduction made was not universally popular, largely because the extent of the reduction was not determined beforehand, to obviate protests, the committee intends to reduce the field in 1939 to the lowest 130 scorers and those tying for 130th place after the first qualifying round."

EX-CHAMPIONS MUST QUALIFY

The committee reiterates its objection to granting automatic qualification to all former champions in the open.

"Places in the championship field are at such a premium in these highly competitive days and the opportunity to play in the championship means so much to up-and-coming professionals that the executive committee believes the field should be determined by current playing ability only."

So says the chairman of the championship committee, adding that former champions always have opportunity to play in the sectional qualifying rounds and, if they compete in the championship proper, they have another chance of qualifying for the ensuing year's championship by finishing among the first thirty and ties.

The championship committee is endeavoring to correct abuse of practice privileges by requesting competitors to limit their play in practice rounds to one ball at a time and their other practice to regular grounds provided for that purpose.

Satisfactory progress was made in many directions during 1938. Membership in the U. S. G. A. is again on the increase and the United States, as indicated by the biennial census of the manufacturers, is spending more on golf than on any other sport.

FAVOR PRESENT BALL

The executive committee is continuing its study of the golf ball and manufacturers now have agreed to produce the ball in accordance with certain specifications. This means that the U. S. G. A. is satisfied with the ball now in use and does not want the manufacturers to add to the distance it can be driven or propelled.

Golfers, both amateurs and professionals, have favorably received the fourteen-club rule. Caddies, naturally, are among the most enthusiastic of all.

The green section, inactive for some time back, is to experience a revival this year under a budget plan. Its publication is to be renewed, new men are to be taken on in Washington and clubs are to be made to realize its value to them.

It was mentioned that the British have adopted the fourteen-club rule and are said to be inclining gradually toward the adoption of a larger ball, similar to that which is now official in the United States. On the question of seeding players in the championships of Great Britain and the United States, especially in those Walker Cup years, the two countries are not yet in complete accord. Such a suggestion was made last year by the chairman of the committee on international relations, J. Frederic Byers, of Pittsburgh. It was suggested however, that the American plan might be laid before the Royal and Ancient for possible action in the future.

The stymie rule will stand for at least another year. While no definite attempt has been made to check up it is believed to have proved satisfactory. Strong sentiment is still noted in certain quarters against a stymie in any form. Others are against tampering with the old stymie rule. While these extremes still exist, the mass of golfers seems satisfied with the present rule which permits the lifting of the nearer ball when within six inches of the cup.

Shimizu Didn't Sign Contract With Pro Club

Hideo Shimizu, ace southpaw of Meiji University, whose brilliant pitching was largely instrumental for the team's winning of the championship of the Tokyo Six University league for the last three seasons, has not signed a contract with the Nankai professional club, it was officially announced by Coach Tanizawa of the Meiji team Tuesday night.

It means that Shimizu, who will be graduated from the "Senmon" or technical division of the university this Spring, will continue his education at the university and will be the pitching mainstay once again for his team.

The Kokumin Shimbun reported that he had signed a contract for ¥10,000, the highest to date in the country.

TOKYO O.O.C. CLOSES DOORS; FURNITURE SOLD

The office at the South Manchuria Railway Building at Tamelke of the Tokyo Olympic Organizing Committee formally closed its doors Tuesday.

Matsuzo Nagai, secretary-general of the O. O. C., expressed farewell at a luncheon at the Asia Restaurant which was attended by the 13 remaining members of the office personnel. Some of them later recalled that the headquarters of the O. O. C. had shifted to the S. M. R. building on April Fool's Day two years ago, also that it was a queer coincidence that 13 persons attended the "Sayonara" luncheon.

At one time, the work of the O. O. C. had increased to such an extent that it occupied the greater part of the fourth floor of the building. Then came July last year when the 12th Olympic Games were returned to the International Olympic Committee due to the emergency situation prevailing in this country in connection with the China Affair. From then on it was a turn to gradual closing of the office.

Office equipment used for the last three years by the O. O. C. in preparation for the 1940 Games in Tokyo was sold Tuesday morning and hauled away.

YANKEES RELEASE 4 TO AA FARMS; O'DEA SIGNS TO CATCH FOR GIANTS

By RUD RENNIE
N.Y. Herald-Tribune

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—The world-champion Yankees sent three pitchers and an outfielder back to the farm yesterday while the Giants welcomed Ken O'Dea, a catcher, into the fold, filing his acceptance in the signed contract department.

So it came to pass that Kemp Wicker, a lefthander, and Paul Andrews and Joe Vance, right handers, were lopped off the Yankee pitching staff, and Buster Mills, the outfielder acquired from the St. Louis Browns in the Hoag-Glenn deal along with Oral Hildebrand, was released before he even had a chance to have his picture taken in a Yankee uniform.

Wicker, Andrews and Mills were released outright to the Newark club of the International League. Vance was returned without strings to the Kansas City club of the American Association.

LEAVE WITH 1,000 MARK

Wicker was up for a while in 1936, 1937 and again last year with the Yankees. He pitched one inning for them last season, and by a happy combination of circumstances received credit for a victory. So he departs with a percentage record of 1.000.

Andrews, a big red-headed fellow from Dora, Ala., goes back to the minors after bouncing around in the American League for the better part of eight years. He started his professional career with Mobile in 1928. He was acquired by the Yankees, but did not pitch for them in 1929.

After being moved around—to Albany, Oakland, Birmingham and Jersey City—he came up to the Yankees again in 1931 and lingered until June in 1932 when he was traded to the Boston Red Sox along with Henry Johnson for Danny MacFayden.

Boston traded him next year to St. Louis along with Smead Jolley for Carl Reynolds. He remained with the Browns until 1937 when they shipped him to Cleveland. Along in August of that year, the Indians asked for waivers on him and the Yankees took him back at the waiver price.

MOST EFFECTIVE PITCHER

Andrews was the most effective pitcher in the American League last year with an earned-run average of 3.00. But he was honored as the league's leading pitcher, because he appeared in only nineteen games and won only one while losing three.

Vance, the other pitcher, got into three games, worked eleven innings, and had no won or lost record. Vance was probably the swiftest runner on the team if not in the league. Whenever possible the Yankees tried to match him against speedy runners on other clubs, but they had no luck getting any one to race him. Vance came up from Kansas City and now he returns.

Mills, whose first name in Colonel, is a right-handed hitter who batted .285 for the Browns last season in 123 games. He hit twenty-four doubles.

The Yankees do not need outfielders. They took Mills in the Hildebrand deal to replenish their Newark farm because, in all likelihood, Charley Keller, the Newark outfielder who is coming up this year, will make good.

O'Dea, the catcher acquired from the Cubs by the Giants along with Frank Demaree, and outfilder, and Bill Jurges, a shortstop, in return for Bartell, Mancuso and Leiber, is twenty-five years old and gives the Giants another player born in New York State. O'Dea comes from Lima, N. Y.

After attending a parochial school and seminary in Lima, O'Dea started his career in organized baseball in 1931 with the Greensboro, N. C. club in the Piedmont League. Next year he was with Keokuk, where he got into 115 games as an outfielder and batted .333.

He finished that year with Columbus. Next year he was with Houston, and in 1934 he was back in Columbus, a member of the Cardinal chain gang.

The Cardinals brought him up and used him in a trade for Pat Malone in 1935. So O'Dea landed with the Cubs. By that time he was a catcher, having worked behind the plate since 1932 when he went to Columbus.

As a catcher with the Cubs, he had Gabby Hartnett always ahead of him. But he managed to get into seventy-six games in 1935, eighty games in 1936 and eighty-three in 1937. And in the last two of those years he batted a little better than .300.

BATTED .263

Last year he got into eighty-six games and batted .263. And he had the pleasure of catching the last game of the World Series and making a two-run homer off Red Ruffing in the eighth inning. Hartnett took himself out, it will be remembered, because he was not hitting. O'Dea's homer was the only hit he made in the game and, even though it was delivered in a lost cause, there was a lot of satisfaction in making it.

In all probability O'Dea and Harry Danning will share the burden of catching for the Giants this year.

With O'Dea in the fold, the Giants now have eight satisfied players, the other being Hubbell, Ott, Bonura, Chiozza, Lohrman, McCarthy and Wittig.

Mel Harder, Cleveland's veteran right-hander who would have been th star moundsman of the 1934 all-star game if Carl Hubbell, of the Giants, had not performed so spectacularly by fanning Ruth, Gehrig, Foxx, Simmons and Cronin in succession, had another tough break last season. He had a bonus contract and lost about $1,000, because he was unable to pitch in the last ten day of the season. His arm went bad on Sept. 24 when he had a 4-to-1 lead over Detroit.

CUNNINGHAM WINS 800 M. RACE TO OPEN HIS 7TH INDOOR SEASON

By JESSE ABRAMSON

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—The amazing Mr. Cunningham flew in from the West, fled over the boards of the 13th Regiment Armory with a turn of record speed and flew out again last night almost before the astonished spectators attending the annual Columbus Council K. of C. indoor meet could catch their breaths.

In short, Glenn Cunningham was flying last night. The 4:04.4 miler, inaugurating his seventh indoor campaign at the ripe old age of twenty-nine, won the 800-meter invitation race. He won it with a blast of characteristic speed. And covered the distance, approximately five yards short of a half mile, in the stunning time of 1 minute 53 seconds. No one has ever run 800 meters as fast on a flat armory floor.

FLASHES FINEST FORM

Cunningham's sensational indoor debut had been foreshadowed by his running last Monday in the Sugar Bowl mile at New Orleans. After a six-month layoff he had unreeled a 4:10.7 mile. Moving onto boards with little or no training between, he flashed his finest form.

The Kansan wonder, now running unattached since the Curb Exchange A.A. disbanded its track team, beat an ancient foe, Gene Venzke. The N. Y. A. C. veteran, starting his tenth indoor season as a headliner, was surprise.

He was beaten three yards and was clocked in 1:53.7. Charley Beetham, of the 69th Regiment A. A., former national champion, placed third in 1:54.4, followed by Sanford Goldberg, the flying fireman of the Millrose A. A., and Leslie MacMitchell, the N. Y. U. freshman, who placed fifth and was unofficially clocked in 1:55.

Where Cunningham carved out an unofficial record, Wesley Wallace, the Fordham junior, chimed in with an official world indoor record, the first of the season.

Bolting to the front at the crack of the gun he went all out to win the Columbus 500-meter fixture in 1 minute 4.4 seconds.

The time sliced six-tenths of a second from a thirteen-year-old record. Alan Helffrich, the old Penn State and N. Y. A. C. flyer, had set the mark of 1:05 in a Brooklyn armory in 1926, and Phil Edwards, the great N. Y. U. runner, had matched that time three years later in Madison Square Garden.

RUN ONLY ONCE

The 500-meter distance, however, is run only once during the indoor season in these Columbus Council games.

Wallace beat a first-rate field, and did it boldly. He went out fast and built up a five-yard lead, and saved half of it before the stretch rush of Lou Burns, of the 69th Regiment; Dick Squires, also of the 69th, a former Ohio State runner, and John Borican, junior national 800-meter champion of the Shore A. C. Jim Herbert, of N. Y. U., winner of this race two years in a row, was sixth. He was never a contender, never better than sixth in a seven-man field. His lack of speed was astonishing, but Herbert declined to explain. "I wasn't fast enough," was all he said.

Despite his defeat, Herbert won the Bishop Molloy Trophy outright. He had clinched the cup last year and in fact he would have retired it then, if the Columbus Council K. of C. had been more generous.

Cunningham's victory in the 800-meter witnessed by a crowd of 3,000 followed the usual pattern of his recent races. He avoided pockets. Last year he had fallen in this race. This time he rated himself off the pace as Howie Borck, of the 69th Regiment, national 800-meter champion, set the early beat. Curtis Giddings, of N. Y. U., moved to the front on the second furlough lap, then Venzke shot to the front and carried the pace smartly.

SLATER AND BORCK FADE

Venzke still can go. Cunningham collared him in the back stretch and won under wraps. Frank Slater, of Fordham, the national 1,00-meter champion, holding third in the backstretch, faded along with Borck and Giddings, all running out of the prizes as Beetham Goldberg and MacMitchell put on their stronger bids in the final hundred.

Marty Glickman, Syracuse Olympian who was hampered by a back injury last year, flashed a return of his old form by taking the sprint series at 60, 80 and 100 meters. Beaten in the 80-meter dash by Columbia's Herbert Weast and big Bob Rodenkirchen, the North Texas state freshman from Jersey City, Glickman came back to win the 60 meters in 6.8 seconds and the 100 meters in 10.9 seconds. Weast was second in both. In the century dash, Glickman nailed Weast in the closing strides and the latter, unable to check his headlong flight, crashed through a door in a corner of the drill shed. He had his breath—what he had left—knocked out of him, but was not injured. These sprints in armories can be a dangerous pastime.

Glickman's two firsts gave him the trophy over Weast, although they were tied in the final standing with five points. Glickman, 1937 winner, also won the cup outright. Rodenkirchen was third with 8 points and Jared Fangboner, N. Y. U. freshman, placed fourth in all three tests.

Don Lash, the Indiana state trooper, who is now devoted to the racing policy of getting his man in wild and wooly finishes, staged a whirlwind stampede at the end of the 3,000-meter invitation to beat his former Indiana college mate, Tommy Deckard, by ten yards. And in the process Lash settled his year-old score with Archie San Romani, who nosed him out in these games in 1938 in record time.

San Romani, unable to match the stirring final sprint of America's distance king, placed third, twenty-five yards behind the winner. Lash, clocked in 8 minutes 28 seconds, missed San Romani's American native record by only six-tenths of a second. He might have done better if he had stuck more closely to the pace.

The race was a pursuit of Deckard most of the way. The slim Hoosier, back in his form of two Winters ago, wrested the lead from Lash on the third of approximately fourteen laps and immediately opened a handsome margin on his seven rivals.

He stretched his advantage to twenty-five yards midway in the race. Most of the time he enjoyed a twenty-yard lead as Bob Conkling Manhattan's I. C. 4-A. indoor two mile champion, San Romani and finally Lash took up the pursuit.

MISS VAUGHN WINS AMATEUR SKATING TITLE

By HARRY CROSS

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—An unusual display of free skating by Miss Jane Vaughn, of Philadelphia, brought her the Eastern amateur senior figure-skating championship at Iceland last night.

Although Miss Charlotte Walther, of this city, national junior champion, had an edge on the judges' score cards in school figures before the free skating last night, Miss Vaughn's brilliant program of interpretative skating overcame this advantage.

The seventeen-year-old girl skated with speed and confidence and the sequence of jumps and spins in her offering were interwoven with a theme of dance steps skillfully executed. Skating to classical music, Miss Vaughn's skates gave expression to a difficult and comprehensive program of free skating which will demand consideration at the national championships at St. Paul later in the month. Miss Walther skated unusually well for the most part, but erratic balance in one or two of her jumps and spins upset the usual easy flow of her graceful skating.

Arthur E. Vaughn jr., the fourteen-year-old brother of the senior winner in the women's, carried off the senior title for the men, when he easily defeated the only other entry, Edward Berkson, of the Manhattan Figure Skating Club of New York. Young Vaughn, like his sister, is a pupil of Gustav Lussi, and gave a varied presentation of spirals, jumps and spins which were skated with poise and control.

In the women's senior, third place went to Miss Phebe Tucker of the Skating Club of New York. The other competitors included Miss Innes K. Druary, Miss Dorothy Lee, Miss Elinor Weiler, all of New York, and Miss Dorothy Snell, of Baltimore. All these skaters gave excellent performances, an encouraging indication of the great strides which the younger generation of skaters is making in this expressive form of ice performance.

A notable achievement in last night's title events was the victory of eight-year-old Yvonne Sherman in the Eastern junior event. This accomplished child not only did many of the difficult steps, jumps and spins which the older skaters perform but she did them with a grace and assurance which were remarkable for a tot of her years. The child is not only an unusual figure skater but has reached a point in her musical education where she gives recitals of the works of Liszt, Beethoven and Brahms and other music masters.

In this junior group Miss Roberta Jenks took second place with a fine performance of free skating and Miss Mary Bendix, of this city, was placed third with her graceful skating.

GRIMSTITCH TAKES TITLE

The junior title for men was won by William Grimstitch, of Philadelphia, with Warren Goodman, of Philadelphia, second and Michael Baumann, of Brooklyn, third.

The first Eastern championships held here by the skating club were a great success and moves this new event to an important place in the season's skating events. There was an unusually large field of competitors, and the performances revealed a number of the younger skaters who have much promise.

There was keen competition in the dance events, and Miss Nettie Prantel and Joseph K. Savage, president of the United States Figure Skating Association, were placed first in both the waltz and ten-step events. Close behind them in the competition were Miss Sandy Macdonald and Harold Hartshorne, and the third couple in the skate dance competition was Miss Marion Natwick and Otto Dallmayr.

The championships last night attracted a capacity crowd, most of the spectators giving up their dinner hour to see the excellent display of artistic skating. The officials directed the affair with prompt supervision and the chairman of the tournament committee was Mrs. Bedell H. Harned.

Newbold Morris, president of the City Council, was referee of the championships.

In their first skating competition as a pair, Miss Nettie C. Prantel and George Boltres won the junior championship. The pair are members of the New York Four of the Skating Club but yesterday was their initial effort in a pair number.

Their program included many well executed lifts and when the pattern of their skating separated the two or when skating together, there was a harmony and coordination about their flow of ice action which attracted the attention of the judges. Of all the pairs in both the junior and senior competition, Miss Prantel and Boltres skated with a musical rhythm.

MEREDITH-KLOTS SECOND

Second place in the junior pairs went to Miss Gertrude Meredith and Alan Klots, of New York, while third place was taken by a pair from Buffalo, Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Wilkenson.

The senior Eastern title was won by the graceful pairs skaters from the Bear Mountain Skating Club, Mr. and Mrs. William Bruns jr. and their program included several [illegible] and [illegible]. Second place went to Mr. and Mrs. Leo Polt, of Rye.

FINAL STANDING OF THE PLAYERS

HASTINGS, England, Jan. 6.—L. Szabo, a 24-year-old bank clerk from Budapest, today emerged as winner of the international masters' tournament of the Hastings and St. Leonards Chess Club, leading by one point Dr. Max Euwe of Amsterdam, former world champion. The brilliant young Hungarian scored a comparatively easy victory in his final game with Sir George Thomas, former British champion, whom he defeated in twenty-six moves.

Szabo finished with a total of 7½—1½. Undefeated in nine games, he won six and drew three. Among those present at the last session was the Mayor of Hastings, Councilor E. M. Ford, who warmly congratulated Szabo on his signal success.

SZABO RISING PLAYER

Except for his participation in the international team matches at Warsaw in 1935 and Stockholm in 1937, Szabo had not figured prominently in international competition previously. He was of material help to the Hungarian teams on both occasions, playing at fourth board at Warsaw, where Hungary finished fourth, and at the second board at Stockholm, where the Magyars were runners-up to the champion United States team.

Dr. Euwe, who recovered from the early setback he suffered at the hands of Dr. S. Landau, also of Amsterdam, made a strong finish by defeating E. Klein of Vienna in a long, drawn-out struggle lasting 62 plays. Dr. Euwe adopted the Nimzowitsch defense to the queen's pawn opening and had a slight advantage at the close of the first session. Subsequently, he handled the difficult position in masterful style and was rewarded with a victory for his fine efforts. Dr. Euwe's total was 6½—2½.

LANDAU LOSES TO PIRC

Landau, on the other hand, did not fare so well and lost his last game to Victor Pirc of Yugoslavia, who thereby tied The Netherlands representative for third place and shared with him the third and fourth prizes. Pirc, playing the Gruenfeld variation in the queen's pawn game, established superiority before adjournment. Later, it required 67 sessions for him to score.

Klein finished in a tie for fifth place with P. S. Milner-Barry of London who was successful in a queen's gambit against H. Golombek of London in 43 moves. The game between the two Englishmen, T. H. Tylor and E. G. Sergeant, another queen's pawn opening, resulted in favor or Tylor in 30 plays.

TORONTO U. SIX ROUTS HARVARD

N.Y. Herald-Tribune

BOSTON, Jan. 7—Toronto's smart, fast-skating hockey forces gave Harvard one of its worst beatings in several years tonight at the Arena, completely overwhelming the Crimson, 11 to 1, as the Canadians romped to their first victory in the International Intercollegiate League race.

CONN DEFEATS FRED APOSTOLI IN BIG UPSET

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—Fred Apostoli ran up against his old bugaboo last night in Madison Square Garden, a fast, shifty fighter, and went down to defeat in one of the biggest upsets of recent years in a Madison Square Garden ring.

Stepping out of his class, the Coast lad, who is recognized here as the middleweight champion of the world, conceded seven and one-half pounds to Billy Conn, Pittsburgh's sensational light-heavyweight, and for his pains received a boxing lesson.

Through ten rounds Conn struck and stabbed, hooked and crossed, almost exclusively with his left, to the face, head and jaw in a catch-weight bout that was exciting and unbelievably fast.

And when the unanimous decision of Referee Billy Cavanagh and Judges George Lecron and Billy Healy went to Conn there was not a dissenting voice among the 10,918 fans who paid a gross of $25,458 to see the battle, which introduced Conn to local rings.

STRIBLING'S STYLE RECALLED

Conn will do. He looks like the late Young Stribling, fights somewhat like him at his best and is a better all-around ring man right now than Stribling was at his peak.

Young Conn was the underdog in the betting for this non-title fight. The betting gentry held him at 13 to 5. But he won by himself, taking eight of the ten rounds to the satisfaction of Apostoli and his manager, Larry White.

Conn had Apostoli, a heavier hitter and sturdier fighter, in such a quandary from a shower of punches that in the fifth round the latter, in desperation, was jabbing with his right, something only a southpaw attempts.

In the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds Conn belted his foe so consistently that his punches dislodged Apostoli's rubber mouth protection.

Apostoli was in such sorry straits that in the eighth round he tripped and fell while charging bullishly as the round ended.

Apostoli won two rounds, the fifth, in which he resorted to right jabs and for a time hurt Conn with stinging body blows and powerful, short jolts to the head, and the tenth, when he threw caution aside and sailed into his rival. In the latter session he disregarded Conn's lightning jabs and deft left hooks as well as an occasional right uppercut.

CONN ANSWERS BARRAGE

But, as if to show that he was not hurt by the punishing blows of a desperate foe who was fighting for a knockout, Conn in the last ten seconds of the fray landed many punches that startled Apostoli more than they hurt. These blows brought the crowd to its feet in wild acclaim.

In the ninth Apostoli was wreaking body damage on his rival until he suddenly went erratic, and two successive fouls cost him the round. But even in this session Conn stood up under his foe's best blows and was fighting back flashingly and willingly at the end.

In most of the rounds Conn gave Apostoli a boxing lesson. Seldom using his right, Conn jabbed his adversary dizzy, almost upset him with a straight left in the opening round and cuffed and stung Apostoli with a barrage of left hooks to which the Coast fighter could not counter.

At times, indeed, Apostoli looked like a tyro against a boxing master.

COLUMBIA TOPS FORDHAM 39-37 AT BASKETBALL

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—Columbia came surging up to tie Fordham with 3 minutes 24 seconds left to play in their annual court battle last night, but the Rams had just enough fight and finesse left at the Morningside Heights Gymnasium to win this contest of unbeaten teams, 39 to 37.

For Ed Kelleher's troupe this was its fifth consecutive victory of the young campaign and for Paul Mooney's lads it was their first setback in three starts. Furthermore, it marked the beginning and the end of the Lions' part in the intracity warfare, their debut and exit march at once, since Fordham is the only local foe that the Light Blue will face all year.

This was not the best played basketball game of the year, but it was one of the most exciting. And for Kelleher it marked a milestone in the Rams' march to the top, because this was Fordham Ed's most important triumph since he resumed the coaching job at Rose Hill.

Only once in a rousing game did Columbia lead, holding an 18-17 advantage 3 minutes from the end of the first half. But even then Fordham was able to come back to take command at the intermission with a 4-point outburst that sent the Maroon out in front by 21 to 18.

LIONS FIGHT STUBBORNLY

But the Rams never were able to break away to what could be termed a comfortable advantage. Columbia always had drive and condition in its favor in the past and again it had those two qualifications as its principal stock in trade. Not once did it lift the pressure. It kept hammering away, at the Ram margin, persistently whittling at it until Captain Tom Macioce dropped in two fouls in a row to tie it up at 36—all.

A crowd of 1,200 went wild with excitement as the ball whipped up and down the court. But then Fordham received a break. Dan McGillicuddy whipped a short pass to Howie Weil, standing clear just to the right of the basket. It was the shortest of set-shots and it swished through the nets to send the Rams ahead, 38 to 36.

But all the drama of this fray was not over. With a scant forty-one seconds left to play, Art Radvilas was given two free throws. The Lion football player had flicked in four in a row at this point. Two more would tie the score again and certainly send this furious battle into overtime. Radvilas made the first and the second teetered on the rim—and dropped out.

That was an unexpected lift for the Rams. Columbia made a deliberate foul five seconds from the end in an attempt to obtain possession of the ball, but Captain Bobby Hassmiller of Fordham caged it for the final point of the game.

HASSMILLER KEEN SHOT

This was a lively game, with Hassmiller the standout performer on the floor. The big Maroon captain was not quite as keen in his passing as he was a year ago, but his shooting was deadly. He registered 13 points, 2 fewer than Weil and 2 more than Albie Myers, the Lion scoring ace.

Fordham showed far more purpose and method in its attack under Kelleher than it ever had before. It is a good team, but far from being a great one. Yet it should be better before the new coach is finished with it.

MCGILL BEATS YALE SEXTET BY 5-2 SCORE

N.Y. Herald-Tribune

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 7—Captain Russ McConnell led a McGill third-period rally tonight that enable the Redmen to turn back a scrappy Yale sextet, 5-to-2, before the largest crowd in local hockey history. It was an International-Intercollegiate League contest. The gathering of over 4,500 was thrilled by the gallant performance of the Bulldogs who battled the Montreal skaters on even terms for two periods and a half before the Redmen clinched the victory. McConnell broke a 2-to-2 tie at 9:27 of the final stanza and then made it, 4 to 2, at 12:39. Walker added the final tally at 14:52.

Yale went into an early lead when Captain Bud Humphrey took a pass from Dud Humphrey and blasted a low drive past Emerson from fifteen feet out at 1:34 of the first period. Billy MacDonald knotted the count on a solo dash. His angle drive from the right lane grazed Holt's shoulder and caught the corner of the net.

Ronney Perowne put the Canadians in the lead for the first time at 0:56 in the middle session but Pete Pierson scored the equalizer for Yale on a pass from Barnes at 5:57.

The line-up:

CIRCULAR COURSE OF 5 MILES URGED FOR MARATHON AT HELSINKI

Olympic News Service

Mr. Pihkala, the well-known Finnish writer on sporting affairs, is disturbed at the lack of facilities, recognized by him however as unavoidable, for the bulk of the Finnish public to see more than a fraction of the national sport of their country unless some readjustment in existing arrangements is made. He points out that the Finnish spectator will not willingly be contented with one flying visit to the Games. On the contrary, as a hardy citizen of the Nurmi type, he will want to sit through them from the first day to the last!

It is impossible to devise a system which will prevent a number of people from doing this and such cases will swell the already huge mass of would-be spectators who will have to content themselves with but one short view of the runners as they go past in the Marathon race; the only other alternative, a Stadium for 200,000, being beyond the realms even a fantasy, let alone of practicability.

MAKES SUGGESTION

He therefore puts forward the suggestion that their disappointment at failure to obtain a Stadium seat should be alleviated by arranging this Marathon race, always a great favorite with the home crowd, in such a fashion that spectators along the course will have the opportunity to view some part of the race a number of times, instead of once or at most twice, as will be the case if the system hitherto in force,—one wide circle or a return one over a long lap—is adhered to. He suggests that it should consist of five laps over a circular course of about five miles through the valleys of the wooded country surrounding the Olympic Stadium. On the hillsides along such a course a crowd of even 200,000 spectators could see the runners go past not only five times, but, over a considerable part of it, at ten or eleven different points.

This would mean that, at any rate on the last day of the Games, the greater part of the Finnish public would actually prefer to station themselves here to occupying Stadium seats, since they would be kept informed of what was happening in the latter by loud-speakers situated along the route.

The advantages in other ways of such an arrangement are various. In the first place he considers that the country road for light traffic and the resilient, if compact, surface of tarred, or at most asphalt-covered, sidewalks would favor a higher standard of running by the competitors. It would also approximate more closely to the meandering path of the classic Marathon-to-Athens race than stone or concrete-covered high-roads built for heavy traffic. The course would be a winding one, the straight stretches being at most one kilometer in length and in many parts not more than 200—300 meters. This would save the runners the monotony and eye strain of gazing at an endless succession of long straight roads. In spite of this, there is only one turning which could be compared to an ordinary street corner, all the others being rounded.

The wind is never strong enough to be troublesome while, unless it is a blazing and absolutely calm day, there are at least three or four glades where there would be a refreshing breeze. Furthermore, a good half of the road along the whole course is in shadow at that time of the day. The difference in maximum and minimum height level of the solitary hill worth mentioning on the route is about 40 feet, and both ascent and descent are gradual ones of one kilometer or more.

The one possible objection might come from reporters and cameramen. There is in point of fact only one section 3 kilometers in length over which the participators can be followed by car and of the cross roads from which the race can be watched on foot, only two are within reach of four-wheeled traffic. This he considers by no means entirely an item on the debit side. On the contrary, the competitors would doubtless much prefer to breathe pure country air than fumes from the exhaust pipe of a car.

AID TO RUNNERS

Finally, the relative shortness of the course would give visiting competitors unacquainted with it a better opportunity of memorizing it than one long lap, enabling them to plan their tactics for the race more easily. The Marathon runners have a long row to hoe and the psychological benefit of such factors should not lightly be denied them.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9—Glenn Cunningham, along with other alarmists, apparently has counted himself out of the footracing picture a bit prematurely. As scornful of the passing years as he is of the fleeting seconds when he pounds around a track, the Kansas veteran on Saturday night clearly demonstrated that he is as good as ever—if not better.

A young upstart from Fordham, Wesley Wallace, attempted to steal some of the Great Glenn's thunder by breaking the world indoor record for 500 meters but only partly succeeded in doing so, for in the light of later and calmer analysis, it was Cunningham who provided the highlight of the Columbus Council, K. of C., games which annually raise the curtain on the indoor track campaign in New York.

HANDICAPS BEFORE RACE

If Cunningham's 4:10.7 mile in the Sugar Bowl after a six-month lay-off was a surprise, his 1:53 performance for 800 meters at the Thirteenth Regiment Armory, after a flying trip from the West and virtually no training on boards, was even more astonishing. The metric half mile never had been run so fast on a flat armory floor.

There was plenty of merit in Wallace's 1:04.4 for 500 meters, which shaved six-tenths of a second from the record set by Alan Helffrich in 1926 and equaled three years later by Phil Edwards, but the distance is virtually the private property of the Columbus Council meet now. Because of this, the Fordham junior, who may well prove the middle-distance man of the year, must stay for the nonce in a back seat, behind Cunningham.

It does not appear that there will be any sweeping revision in the alignment for the mile this Winter after all, for an equally surprising second to Cunningham's surprising first was another familiar figure. Gene Venzke indicated that he must still be counted a strong factor in any footrace by finishing close on Glenn's heels in 1:53.7, brilliant time for a distance too short for his full liking.

LASH'S FEAT NOTABLE

Don Lash was another hardy perennial who was as fresh as ever. He galloped 3,000 meters in the near-record time of 8:28 as Archie San Romani, working gradually into top shape for the midseason miles, failed to come near a repetition of his 1938 upset victory over the Indianan in this meet.

Other high-lights of the K. of C. games: Marty Glickman took the sprint series and looked more like his old self than he has since 1936. . . . Leslie MacMitchel, N. Y. U.'s great freshman prospect, lived up to his high school promise by doing 1:55 in the 800. . . . Lou Burns looked better in the 500 than he did last year at a mile, and probably will concentrate on the shorter routes this season.

RANGERS BEAT AMERICANS, 5-2 BEFORE 15,842

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS
N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 9—A free-scoring third period which saw them tally four times gives the New York Rangers a clean-cut triumph over their city rivals, the Americans, in the National Hockey League game at Madison Square Garden last night. The sextets went into the final period tied at 1—all, but Lester Patrick's blue-jerseyed skaters found the range often enough to fashion a 5-to-2 victory.

Save for the third period, when the Rangers refused to take things easy even though they were well in the van, the game was far from a thriller, and the lack of general excitement proved a disappointment to the 15,842 spectators.

The gathering, incidentally, was the largest to see a National League game in this city this season.

For the first two periods the Americans gave their younger and faster foes a tough time, and they seemed to have an even break in territorial play. The pace told on Red Dutton's athletes in the final frame, however, when they sadly lacked the speed necessary to cope with the swift-skating Ranger puck-chasers.

MURRAY AND BEATTIE OUT

Injuries, too, had a lot to do with the Spangled athletes' downfall. They were playing without Allan Murray and Red Beattie, while two of their mainstays, Art Chapman and Eddie Wiseman, performed despite the fact that they were far from the best of condition.

The Ranger goals were divided among Dutch Hiller, Alex Shibicky, George Allen, Clint Smith and Bryan Hextall, while the American tallies were made by Art Jackson and Joe Jerwa.

The Patrickmen crashed the scoring column in less than five minutes on a neat counter by Hiller. This margin lasted until near the end of the first frame, when Jackson beat Davey Kerr with a short drive.

Through the second session the teams took few chances, and it was then that the action lagged most. In the final period, however, the Rangers took up the aggressive burden and broke the tie on a goal by Shibicky. This was followed by a tally by Allen, but the Americans were kept in the running when Jerwa came through with a short shot.

The Americans' hopes were dimmed, though, when Clint Smith beat Earl Robertson and died when Hextall registered late in the game.

HELLER ADVANCES DISK

Ott Heller paved the way for Hiller's opening goal with a rush the length of the rink. He transferred to his team-mate near the American goal, and Hiller beat Earl Robertson with a fine drive from the left in 4:37.

A penalty to Hiller proved the means of the Americans' making the tying goal. With the Rangers short-handed, the Dutton Dusters sent a five-man attack into their rival's zone and scored in 17:38 when Jackson converted passes from Nels Stewart and Lorne Carr.

Both teams played a tight defensive game in the second frame, and the goalies were called on to do little work. The same condition obtained through the early phases of the third period, until Hooley Smith was banished for tripping Hiller. Then the Rangers broke the tie on a thrust by Shibicky, helped by passes from Neil Colville and Clint Smith, in 6:20.

The sides were even when Allen extended the Rangers' margin in 11:10 by scoring on relays from Cecil Dillon and Clint Smith. They were also even when Jerwa came through with a counter in 11:42 with the assistance of Hooley Smith and Stewart.

Through the rest of the game the Americans abandoned all defense in a desperate effort to overtake their foes. But their strategy proved costly, for Clint Smith broke away to score unassisted in 13:44, and Hiller and Phil Watson advanced to set up the puck for Hextall, who beat Robertson in 18:40.

RANGERS LEAD IN SERIES

The game was the third between the teams this season. The first went to the Rangers, 6 to 1, and the second ended in a 1-to-1 tie.

The penalties called on Hiller and Hooley Smith were the only ones.

A free shot was awarded to the Americans in the first period when Kerr held the puck too long after a save. The try was taken by Sorrell, who drove wide.

The line-up:

YANKS TO PLAY DODGERS 10 TIMES; CHAMPIONS BOOK 34 EXHIBITIONS

By ROSCOE McGOWEN
N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—One point of agreement between the National and American Leagues was reached yesterday. The Dodgers and Yankees released their training trip exhibition game schedules at the same time.

Business Manager Ed Barrow of the Yankees, having in mind the invaluable farm system of Colonel Jacob Ruppert's organization, has dotted the world champions' Spring slate with fourteen contests against minor league clubs, including two each with junior world series contestants, Kansas City and Newark. Twenty games are with major leaguers.

Of thirty-one games to be played by the Dodgers from March 11 until April 16, not one is with a minor loop outfit.

WILL MEET IN FLORIDA

For the first time since 1926, the Yanks and Dodgers will team in a series on the homeward trip from Florida. They will play three games in the Grapefruit League and seven more after leaving Florida. They will meet in Atlanta on April 10 and then, on successive dates, in Greenville, S. C.; Charlotte, N. C., and Norfolk, Va., and end the series with three battles at Ebbets Field on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 14, 15 and 16.

Other major league opponents of the Dodgers include the Tigers, whom they meet nine times; the Reds, four games. Red Sox, two games, and Senators, one. Six of the Tiger meetings will be in Florida on a home-and-home basis between Clearwater and Lakeland, with the remaining three to be staged in Sumter, S. C.; Augusta, Ga., and Macon, Ga., on April 7, 8 and 9.

Evacuation date for the Ruppert boys from the St. Petersburg camp is March 30, and the champions' next stop is the Florida capital, Tallahassee, where they play the local club on the 31st. From there they move in daily jumps to New Orleans, Houston, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Dallas, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Little Rock and thence to Atlanta to combine with the Dodgers.

BARROW CLAIMS DATE

The conflict in dates between the Yankees and Giants in New Orleans for April 1, revealed yesterday, hasn't been straightened out yet. Ed Barrow of the Yanks said he clinched that date with the Pelicans as long as last Sept. 8, and "if anybody's going to be fooled, it won't be me."

Secretary Eddie Brannick of the Giants explained that Cyril Slapnicka, Cleveland business manager, had arranged the Indians-Giants schedule and that it would be necessary to get in touch with him to straighten out the matter.

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW JORK, Jan. 10—Don Lash, the Indiana University alumnus and greatest distance runner the United States has produced, yesterday was named winner of the 1938 James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy that annually goes to the athlete who "by his performance, example and influence as an amateur and a man, has done the most during the year to advance the cause of sportsmanship."

The decision was made by a tribunal of 600 outstanding sports leaders from all sections of the country who had been polled by the Amateur Athletic Union in its search for the No. 1 sportsman of the year. The trophy will be presented to the durable Indiana State policeman at a time and place not yet decided.

TRAILED BUDGE YEAR AGO

Runner-up to Don Budge a year ago, Lash stepped out on his own this time, since precedent has decreed that no winner shall be named twice. The Hoosier drew 459 points for a comfortable margin over Mrs. Katherine Rawls Thompson, versatile swimming star from Miami, and Joe Burk, oarsman, who captured the Diamond Sculls. Their respective totals were 371 and 318. None of the other seven final candidates was mentioned in the notice of award.

The balloting was on the same basis as in the past. The tribunal was asked to name candidates, along with the reasons for each choice. Then the Sullivan committee pared the list (twenty-seven names were submitted this time) to the ten considered most worthy.

CHOICE ON 5-3-1 BASIS

These ten were resubmitted to the tribunal, which was asked to rate the three best after studying the summary of reasons that accompanied each choice. The final tabulation was on a 5-3-1 basis. But from start to finish, the A. A. U. had requested the tribunal to take into consideration acts of sportsmanship, qualities of leadership, excellence of performance, strength of character, force of personality and high ideals of amateurism.

Here are the summaries of reasons for the first three choices that Secretary-Treasurer Daniel J. Ferris submitted to the tribunal for the final balloting:

DONALD LASH

Member of the 1936 Olympic team and best distance runner from one to five miles that America has ever known. Holds the world's record for two miles and has been a member of three world's record relay teams. Won national A. A. U. cross-country championship five times.

Modest and unassuming, he works in an ideal manner with his coaches and team-mates. Possesses great courage, character and sportsmanship and has upheld the amateur code at all times. He is an inspiration to high school boys all over the country, and is an excellent leader and a fine moral influence to his associates.

Unselfish and self-sacrificing for the good of his team-mates. At Randalls Island in the 5,000-meter Olympic tryouts, after leading the race, he dropped back to lend encouragement to a team-mate in order to help him to place in the event and make the Olympic team. He was successful, but almost lost the race in making his fine gesture to a team-mate.

KATHERINE RAWLS THOMPSON

Multiple national champion. A. A. U. long distance, free-style, breaststroke and medley champion of 1938, as well as diving champion. She performed brilliantly, successfully defending her two swimming titles at the national senior indoor championships at San Francisco in April and her four titles at the senior national outdoor championships at Santa Barbara in July, establishing several new records and bringing her total records up to thirty-five since 1931.

Member of the 1932 and 1936 Olympic teams, taking second place in the springboard dive in both Olympic Games.

It is claimed for her that she has done more to advance the sport of swimming than any other girl in the United States. She has a charming personality and unfailing good sportsmanship. She is modest in victory, courageous in defeat, and her consideration of other opponents is marked. She is always willing to give advice and help others. By her example she has stimulated interest in her sport and her qualities of leadership have been an inspiration to young swimmers.

She lives an active, clean, wholesome life, and is willing at all times to do her part to make swimming meets successful.

She toured Japan with an American team and her modesty and ability made her a great favorite wherever she appeared.

JOSEPH W. BURK

Winner of the American and Canadian titles, and the Diamond Sculls of England. Third American to win Diamond Sculls since 1850, and in so doing, lowered by 8 seconds the record of 8 minutes 10 seconds, which had stood for thirty-two years.

Graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, where he rowed in the eight-oar crew and was captain of the varsity crew in his senior year. Despite his successes in rowing, he is the same modest, unassuming, gentlemanly character as before.

A leader among younger oarsmen, his demeanor and the manner in which he has achieved international fame excite the admiration of all who follow his sport. His example to the youth of America, particularly of those who are interested in the aquatic sports, has created a deep impression of high sportsmanship. Indomitable perseverance, self-discipline and an ability to take victory without conceit. In the diamond sculls his behavior and extreme modesty won for him the applause of the spectators over his English competitors. Possesses leadership to a marked degree.

Since 1937 has won twenty-six races without a defeat.

Upon his return home after his Diamond Sculls victory, he was tendered a welcome-home reception at City Hall in New York and Philadelphia; he was greeted by the Mayors of both cities. He has upheld the amateur code in the face of offers to broadcast over the radio, write newspaper and magazine articles and make public appearances.

Has shown a willingness to make any sacrifices in training and practice in order to prepare himself for his contests. He is following a schedule of training which he hopes will bring him the Olympic sculling championship in Helsinki in 1940. He is natural, unaffected and unspoiled.

Max Schmeling Wants To Fight Louis Again

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Feb. 2—Max Schmeling, German heavyweight boxing champion and former holder of the world's heavyweight crown, arrived today aboard the French liner Normandie on a 10-day visit here.

Questioned by reporters, he emphatically denied that he and his wife had had trouble with Nazi authorities, following his defeat at the hands of Joe Louis, negro titleholder, last June.

He declared that he was ready to fight Louis at any time, adding that he wanted to meet one or two of the leading contenders before meeting the Brown Bomber. As to rumors of his intention to retire from the ring, he said that he could not quit without rectifying his past defeat.

PRO FOOTBALL LEAGUE IN U.S. REORGANIZED

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 8—Representatives from six cities today reorganized the American Professional Football League and announced plans for resuming play next Fall.

Jack McBride, who said he would stage the games of his New York Yankees in the Yankee Stadium, predicted ten clubs would participate in the 1939 campaign.

Shortly after the reorganization session McBride held a long conference with Marshall (Biggie) Goldberg and said he was confident Pitt's great star "will be playing in the Yankee Stadium next Fall."

"I had a very satisfactory conference with Goldberg," reported McBride. "We discussed various terms. He's very receptive. I am confident I will be able to satisfy Goldberg financially. He is certain to be a terrific drawing card in Gotham."

DRAFTED BY CARDS

Goldberg has been drafted by the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League. He denied tonight he had received a definite offer from the Cardinals.

"I met Charley Bidwell, owner of the team, in Chicago recently, but we did not discuss terms," he asserted. "I am listening to the various offers, but have not even decided to play pro ball. Everything is indefinite yet."

Drafting of Goldberg by the Cards did not prevent him from negotiating with clubs outside the National League, said McBride. The American's owners said they held a draft of their own today and that they would proceed with plans to bid for any player they thought worth while.

Those who reorganized the circuit insisted they would keep the official name of the American Professional Football League, Inc. They said they had obtained a charter in August, 1936, at Boston and that claims made last week by a Midwest circuit which used the name American League in 1938 would be disregarded. The old American League operated in 1936 and 1937.

TWO DIVISIONS PLANNED

McBride said the League would be divided into eastern and western divisions, with a play-off between the two at the close of the season. He said Providence, Boston, New York, Pittsburgh or Buffalo and Newark or Atlantic City would be included in the East and Pittsburgh or Buffalo, Cincinnati, Kansas City, St. Louis, Louisville or Nashville or Indianapolis and possibly Los Angeles in the West.

Club representatives attending the reorganization session in addition to McBride were Dana King, Cincinnati Bengals; John Slovan, Kansas City; Earl Seick, Buffalo; Myer Saul, who will operate either in Atlantic City or Newark; Richard Guy, Al Gormley and Dr. Jess Quatse, Pittsburgh Amerks.

Wires inquiring about franchises were received from Providence, Boston, Louisville and St. Louis. The circuit's next gathering is scheduled at New York on Feb. 5.

$1,000,000 OFFER FOR MAN O' WAR REFUSED BY GREAT HORSE'S OWNER

By FRED VAN NESS

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—An offer of $1,000,000 for Man of War, the horse of the century while he was racing and the greatest thoroughbred ever developed in this country, has been turned down. This was disclosed yesterday by Samuel D. Riddle, owner of the great horse and of War Admiral and others of the get of the great sire. Mr. Riddle was in the city for a meeting of the Jockey Club.

The offer was made by Louis B. Mayer, Hollywood motion picture producer and owner of a large stable of race horses. The offer and its refusal brought to light the love of an owner for a great horse and the plans he had made for the star of the American turf.

Mr. Mayer dropped in to the offices of the Faraway Farm, where Man o' War has spent many years since he retired from racing, and told the man in charge that he wanted to get in touch with Mr. Riddle.

"I am offering $1,000,000 for Man o' War," said Mr. Mayer. He was told that the horse probably could not be bought at any price.

"I think he can be bought for my price," said Mr. Mayer. "Please get in touch with Mr. Riddle."

It developed that it was not possible to get in touch with Mr. Riddle at that time. But when the offer was finally conveyed to Mr. Riddle, he turned it down instantly.

"Man o'War is not for sale at any price," said Mr. Riddle.

BURIAL ARRANGEMENTS MADE

Then yesterday Mr. Riddle told of the plans he has made for the great horse to insure his future and even his burial. He has taken the same interest in the welfare of Man o' War as he would of a member of his family and has made legal arrangements by which the great horse will be assured of comfort as long as he lives.

"I have made a trust fund for Man o' War," said Mr. Riddle, "by which, in the event that Mrs. Riddle and myself go before him, he will continue to have the same care he has been accustomed to as long as he lives. He has been a great horse, we all love him and he will never leave our care."

Mr. Riddle then told of plans that had been made for the horse's burial. Man o' War is to be interred beneath the statue of his sire, Fair Play, on Elmendorf Farm, owned by Joseph E. Widener, near Lexington, Ky. There, side by side, lie his sire and dam, Mahuba, an obscure mare. The statue of Fair Play, their headstone, is life-size work of bronze. Because it shines in the sunlight it is known throughout the bluegrass country as the "golden statue."

It is sat in what is known as a horse cemetery, but the three places under the statue are reserved for Man o' War and his sire and dam. Mr. Riddle has made arrangements with Mr. Widener by which no change will ever be made in the burial spot as "long as grass grows and water flows."

DEVOTED TO HIS HORSES

Despite the fact it has been said that Mr. Riddle has been seeking money prizes for War Admiral, a son of Man o' War, the owner of the Glen Riddle Farm is probably more devoted to his horses than most owners.

Man o' War, now 22 years old, is something apart from all other horses, not only in the mind of Mr Riddle but with the American public. He is an idol ranking with Babe Ruth and Jack Dempsey as a sports headliner.

The price of $1,000,000 far exceeds any sum ever offered for a race horse or a sire on the American or English turf. The greatest price ever paid for a horse was $300,000 for Call Boy, winner of the Epsom Derby. A price of $265,000 was paid by a South American syndicate for Tracery, owned by August Belmont, chairman of the Jockey Club until his death.

Plans for Man o' War's future had been arranged before the $1,000,000 offer came. But yesterday Mr. Riddle told how he felt about "Big Red," as Man o' War has always been known among those close to him.

"I don't know what Mr. Mayer wanted with Man o' War, but I though he might want to use him in pictures. And I would not want that. They would not know how to treat this old fellow. He is happy and contented where he is and every one knows just what to do for him, and that is the way I want it."

MUSEUM'S REQUEST REFUSED

Then Mr. Riddle revealed that there has been much interest in Man o' War from the time he was a 3-year-old and sweeping everything before him to emerge as the wonder of the turf. The American Museum of Natural History had sought to get his skeleton for the museum. Mr. Riddle would give no answer to this request, and since then has never entertained any proposals for the horse.

Through his racing career as a 2-year-old and a 3-year-old Man o' War won twenty of twenty-one races in which he started. His only defeat came in the Sanford Memorial at Saratoga in 1919, when he was a juvenile. He had many mishaps in this race and was beaten inches by H. P. Whitney's Upset after he had been left at the post and later cut off by other horses as he was working his way up through the pack.

Canadian Cagers Ask To be Invited Here

Through the Japanese Consulate in Canada, the Foreign Office Friday received the formal request from the Western team, basketball champions of Canada, to arrange a series of games in Japan this coming Summer.

The Japan Basketball Association, which had been considering extending an invitation to the Canadian team since learning of the contemplated trip several weeks ago, promptly decided to accept the offer.

If the trip materializes, the Western team, considered the strongest outside of the United States, should give the fans here a royal treat.

FARR BEATEN BY BURMAN OF BALTIMORE

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Youthful Clarence "Red" Burman of Baltimore defeated Tommy Farr of Wales on decision in ten rounds at Madison Square tonight, but the verdict was greeted with a loud chorus of jeers.

The 10,000 spectators who flocked to Madison Square Garden greeted the announcement that Burman had won with catcalls and boos. The young American's victory was highly unpopular with the majority of the spectators who warmly applauded and loudly cheered the tough Welsh miner for his fine display.

SPURT HALTED

Although Farr, known as a "powder-puff" puncher because of his usually ineffective blows, rallied and fought furiously in the closing rounds his spurt was soon halted by the husky American.

The spectators roared their approval as Farr broke loose and lashed out at his foe with both hands. He seemed to have Burman groggy and reeling, but the American recovered just before the final bell and punished Farr with a heavy barrage.

Two judges gave the decision to Burman, while the referee, Pete Bartley, called the fight a draw. United Press correspondents at the ringside were inclined to favor Burman. They gave Burman five rounds and Farr three rounds with two rounds even. Most of the sports scribes gave the fight to Burman.

Burman, a 23-year-old Irish-American protege of Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight champion, tipped the scales at 183½ pounds, while Farr weighed in at 201½ pounds.

Although Farr lost he was much more popular with the crowd than Burman. The tough Welshman was greeted as an idol by most spectators, who firmly believed he won.

The boxing experts of the "New York Times" and the "New York Herald Tribune," however, held that Burman won the fight fairly and squarely.

They said there was no doubt that Burman won the fight against Farr regardless of the jeers of the crowd and the complaints of Farr's manager, Joe Gould.

HEADED FOR OBSCURITY

James P. Dawson, boxing writer for the "New York Times," said, "the decision was fair. The outburst was without justification unless it is attributed to sentiment alone. He added, "Farr seems headed for pugilistic obscurity."

Caswell Adams, boxing writer for the "Hrald Tribune," said, "Farr did not win. He took another real beating and won only four out of ten rounds, one of them, the third, on a low blow."

He referred to the foul blow by saying that it was a "blow to the pit of Farr's stomach." After this, he added, Burman directed his attacks to the head and proved very successful.

Burman was undefeated last year and in 1937 lost only one fight, to Alberto Lovell.—United Press.

YALE SHAPES UP AS FAVORITE IN SWIMMING

Christian Science Monitor

NEW YORK, Jan 10—With Yale installed as favorite and Princeton an unknown, the third annual championship tournament of the Eastern Intercollegiate Swimming League will begin next Friday evening, Jan. 13, when Pennsylvania comes to New York to meet Columbia in the Lion pool.

Yale will not open its schedule until the following week, while Princeton will wait unil next month. Dartmouth will begin on Jan. 21 and Harvard, defending champion, and Navy will open Feb. 11. Altogether 21 dual meets will be contested between now and March 11 and these will be followed by the league's individual championships at Yale March 17 and 18.

PRINCETON POTENT

Princeton looms as a potent contender for its first E. I. S. L. crown mainly because it is rich in veteran material, and what it has is among the best in league competition. Yale has the largest squad and also includes some outstanding talent, notably in its sophomore crop.

Harvard has been hurt by graduation and ineligibility, but may make a staunch defense of its title. Columbia has a veteran team, but is lacking in numbers, which will force several of its outstanding men to double up. The same is true of Pennsylvania, while Navy, which started late, is virtually an unknown quantity.

That's the way the siuation is in a general way, but more specifically, the prospects of the seven contenders in order of their 1938 finish, are:

HARVARD WEAKER

Harvard, which won all six of its meets with league foes, has lost Charlie Hutter and Bill Kendall, who between them usually were good for first places in all the freestyle events; Dario Berizzi is the breaststroke and Graham Cummin in the backstroke. The Crimson still has Russ Greenhood, individual champion in both the high and low-board dives, and Harley Stowell, a good sprinter. Arthur Bosworth is the best sophomore prospect. He competes in the backstroke and sprints.

Princeton, which finished second in the standing, losing only to Harvard, has almost everybody back from last year's team except its divers. The Tigers are led by Al Van de Weghe, backstroke, and Capt. Dick Hough, breaststroke, individual champions in these events. Teamed with Hank Van Oss, they also hold the medley relay title. They also have two potentially great sophomores in Ed Parke and Norman Cosby, freestyle men. Parke holds the national freshman record of 2m. 18.4s. in the 220.

YALE HAS VETERANS

Yale, which finished third in 1938 with four victories and two defeats, again will be strong in the freestyle events, where Capt. John Good, Russ Duncan, Bill Moonan, Eric Perryman, Clive Jaffray and Howie Spendelow are among the returning veterans. The Blue has an outstanding sophomore prospect in Paul Metcalf, who holds the national intercollegiate freshman record of 2m. 29.8s. In the backstroke, Joe Burns and John Brueckel have returned, and Danny Endweiss is back for the fancy dive.

Dartmouth will be led by Capt. Justin Callahan in the breaststroke and John Vergeichik in the sprints. Bob Cushman, Wayne Shrodes, and Juliah Armstrong in the sprints; Art Ostrander in the middle distances and Irving Stein in the backstroke. Of these, only Armstrong is a sophomore, and he looks like the Green's best bet. He has done 23.5s. in the 50 and 52.4s. in the century.

Navy has been hard hit by graduation, but may present exceptional sophomore talent. The Middies, have not been practicing long enough to determine the real strength of their squad.

Pennsylvania again has Paul Williams, the league's individual high scorer last Winter. He is a sprinter and is captain this reason. An outstanding sophomore is Jim Dougherty, in the breaststroke.

FRANCO ARMY ONLY 8 MILES FROM GERONA

Strongly Armed Motorized Units Occupy Caldas de Malavella, Thermal Resort

Domei Tsushin

BARCELONA, Feb. 3—With the collapse of Loyalist defenses at Santa Coloma de Farne, Nationalist troops have thrust the spearhead of their advance toward the Pyrenees and to within eight miles of Gerona, provisional Leftist capital and one of the last Republican strongholds in Catalonia, Nationalist headquarters announced here today.

Employing swift and strongly-armed motorized units, General Franco's forces occupied Caldas de Malavella, hot-spring approximately eight miles south of Gerona, while another mechanized detachment stormed the important junction of Llagostera, ten miles southeast of the city on the Gerona-San Feliu de Guixole highway.

In face of the swift attack designed to cut off their retreat, the Loyalist forces were reported fleeing in panic with many deserters laying down their arms to surrender.

STILL FIGHTING HARD

The Government Army is still intact and is still fighting as hard as its men can fight against such odds, according to a Barcelona dispatch to the New York Times prior to the fall of that city. Fortifications are being built on the new lines and the Nationalists are relatively far from Barcelona.

If one could conceive of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's continuing the attack indefinitely with the same wealth of material and always using fresh troops, there could be no doubt about the issue. But, after all, he has only a certain number of men and there must be some limit to his material, although there is still no evidence of any lack of it.

The writer saw more than sixty of his planes along the Lerida-Barcelona highway today, and the artillery almost never stopped while we were within hearing. Nevertheless, it cannot be kept up indefinitely, it is felt here, and his troops must be dead tired.

DUE TO BE LOST

More ground is bound to be lost by the Loyalists as things are going. Cervera has been captured and obviously Igualda and Vendrell are in difficult situations, but what must be emphasized is that if all these three are lost the battle would still continue indefinitely.

General Franco would have to destroy the Catalan army before he could put an end to resistance in this part of Spain, and it is contended here that only insignificant numbers of Loyalist troops have been captured despite Nationalist claims to the contrary.

If the situation is looked at from the Loyalist side, one can find good possibilities of this offensive's being stopped well short of Barcelona in addition to the reasons given above.

The eventual falling back to prepared and much shorter lines will do much to relieve the shortage of men. When the battle started the troops available had to be spread out to dangerous thinness. For instance, it was often necessary to cover a mile or more with one battalion during the attacks instead of the normal distribution of a battalion every 500 or 600 yards.

NEW MATERIAL REPORTED

Already there is talk of the arrival of new material. The newspaper Frente Rojo mentions it, saying that alone should be enough to make all the difference.

The general mobilization appears to be working out and it should strengthen the government's position enormously. Above all the morale of the Loyalist troops appears to be excellent.

If those troops can get a breathing spell and some material to back them, no one here doubts the government's ability to carry on for many more months. One finds no fear about the army here. The chief worry is the rear and the rest of the world. Thus far the rear is responding well and there is no sign of the so-called fifth column.

More dangerous would be a feeling abroad that the war is all over. General Franco has always been able to give that impression, it is bitterly remarked here, despite the fact that each time the impression has ultimately proved false.

However, it invariably results in pressure from London particularly, but also from Paris, to "mediate". The government has clearly indicated that it does not want mediation; it wants only the right to buy arms and asks Britain and France to insist on the withdrawal of foreign aid from General Franco. Those are still the terms on which this war is being fought here.

No Danger

Bureau of the Finance Ministry is one way of greater popularization of national bonds. The Minister further said that the Deposit Bureau at present has ability to take up ¥800,000,000 of bonds annually.

Interesting in this connection is that the Deposit Bureau at its investment committee meeting Saturday afternoon decided to increase its investments in bonds to ¥800,000,000 for 1939. The Deposit Bureau officials reached this decision on the strength of the recent remarkable increases in postal savings deposits, which constitute the principal sources of the Bureau's operation funds.

The postal savings deposits registered a sharp increase of ¥150,000,000 within the month of January.

Meanwhile, the Deposit Bureau announced that its operation funds at the end of January aggregated ¥6,100,000,000, of which the postal savings deposits represented ¥4,688,475,000, various deposits ¥664,930,000, reserves ¥693,748,000 and other items ¥60,000,000. Of this total funds, ¥5,949,064,000 is invested in national bonds, loans to local governments and other accounts, with cash on hand being ¥158,901,000.

BRITAIN SEEKS MORE TRADE WITH MOSCOW

Maisky Assures London No Truth in Reported Soviet-German Rapprochement

Domei Tsushin

LONDON, Feb. 3—Rumors that Great Britain once again will approach Moscow in an effort to increase its commercial relations with the Soviet Union gained strength today by the unexpected visit of the Soviet Ambassador, Ivan Maisky, to the Foreign Office.

Mr. Maisky called on Foreign Undersecretary Richard Butler reportedly to explain Moscow's reasons for severing relations with Hungary and to reassure Britain that there is no truth whatsoever in current reports that German and Russia are nearing a rapprochement—both politically and economically.

The Ambassador is understood to have emphasized that one of the reasons why his government had broken off relations with Budapest was because of the latter's pro-Nazi leanings.

British political and financial circles, meanwhile, expressed considerable relief at reports that the German economic mission to the U. S. S. R., which is scheduled to be in Moscow next week, will return home from Warsaw instead of proceeding on to the Soviet capital.

High financial quarters are of the belief that Britain favors that strengthening of its economic relations with the U. S. S. R. and will take immediate steps to open negotiations in that direction.

Mr. Nakajima then posed an interpellation to Foreign Minister Arita, expressing a hope to make clear the relations between the cultural business undertaken by the China Affairs Board and matters under jurisdiction of the Foreign Office.

The meeting went into session in camera which ended at 12:40 p.m.

The sub-committee meeting adjourned immediately.

TO SETTLE FOREIGN ISSUES AS SOON AS POSSIBLE

Pending issues involving third Powers shall be settled as soon as possible, stated War Minister Lieutenant-General Seishiro Itagaki, answering interpellations put by Tanizo Koyama, Minseito, at the meeting of the Fourth Sub-Committee of the Budget Committee of the House of Representatives Saturday.

Mr. Koyama asked the opinion of the War Minister regarding the proposed convocation of an international conference with respect to the disposal of the China affair and the solution of issues involving the interests and rights of third powers in China at the meeting of the subcommittee devoted to discussions of matters under jurisdiction of the Ministries of War and Navy.

Stating that he has not in mind the conversation of the international conference, War Minister Itagaki only revealed that he will make further study of the problem.

Referring to the rights and interests in China of third Powers, War Minister Itagaki stated:

"The authorities concerned in China do not dare to impede the projected solution of issues affecting the rights and interests. Though there are many pending issues, we cannot accept so hastily third Powers' requests, from the view point of military necessity. There exists lack of understanding on the part of third Powers of the fact that the hostilities are going on though no war has been declared. The military acts are in accordance with national policy and not beyond actual necessity. The solution as soon as possible of such pending issues is being contemplated.

To Call Conference Of Asiatic Powers To Promote Friendship

Designed to promote spiritual cooperation among Asiatic nations in line with Japan's avowed aim of building up a new Asia, a friendly meeting of nine Asiatic countries will be called here in September by the Japan-Germany-Italy Friendship Society, it was announced here today.

Under the plan prepared by the Society, three each of the cultural, religious and economic representatives of Manchoukuo, Inner Mongolia, China, Siam, India, Burma, French Indo-China and the Philippines will be invited to Tokyo to sit in conference for two days beginning September 20.

Details of the plan will be discussed at a meeting of the Friendship Society under the chairmanship of Viscount Chosei Ogasawara at 2 p.m. next Friday at the Gakushi Kaikan, in Kanda.

N.Y. PAPERS COMMENT ON REVALUATION BILL

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—Observing the British Revaluation Bill introduced by Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to the Parliament on February 1, leading papers here today ventured to comment as follows:

The New York Times firstly interprets:

"It apparently seems that the Government has authorized the Bank of England to depreciate the current sterling value to 75 per cent. From the standpoint of ordinary financial techniques, however, it means only a change of percentage of the monetary reserve against the note issue, placing the British Government in a stronger position in order to protect further depreciations of sterling."

The Journal of Commerce asserts:

"It is particularly noteworthy that the measure does not provide for any fixing of gold content of sterling, and if the gold price declines or the currency in circulation increases following the revaluation, the Bank of England will purchase additional gold from the Equalization Fund.

"While in an opposite case, the Bank of England will sell the excess of gold to the Equalization Fund. It would be a mistake the regard the revaluation as return to the gold standard. It means a rather logical sequel to transfer the gold reserve to the Equalization Fund. The action at the same time has significance in the Equalization Fund accompanying a trend away from the traditional central bank system."

The Wall Street Journal says:

"The measure was taken to sound the hope for an early revival of the international gold standard which, however, will not return until the trade barriers raised by many countries are abolished. There will be no necessary disturbances to the existing major exchanges in what Britain is contemplating."

YOSHINO BACK IN HSINKING; GETS FUNDS

¥30 Million Debentures Will be Taken Up, Says Mangyo Vice-President

HSINKING, Feb. 3—Shinji Yoshino, new vice-president of the Manchuria Industrial Development Company, returned to Hsinking recently after a sojourn of several weeks in Tokyo. Mr. Yoshino, who was accompanied by his family discussed in a press interview the problem of funds, material and the five year industrial program.

"During our stay in Tokyo, we negotiated with the Japanese Government and the banking syndicate on the subject of funds and material," said Mr. Yoshino. "The Manchuria Industrial Development Company was represented by President Aikawa and myself, and the Manchoukuo Government by Naoki Hoshino, director of the General Affairs Board, and a few others. As regards the accommodation of funds, we reached a satisfactory understanding, with both Government authorities and the banking syndicate. Of the debentures to be issued by the Development Company in 1939, ¥30,000,000 will soon be taken up, but this is for the purpose of redeeming the advance loan made by the banking syndicate last year.

"This first batch of debentures will bear interest at the rate of 4.3 per cent per annum, with the issue price at par and with twelve years as the term of redemption. These, I believe, are favorable conditions. As for the accommodation of funds following this first debenture issue, the syndicate will make advance loans, to be turned into debentures at a later stage. There is of course a question as to what percentage of the funds is to be obtained from Japan and what percentage raised in Manchoukuo, but this is a subject to be decided by Government authorities themselves. Of the funds required by the Development Company in 1939, more than ¥90,000,000 will be raised by means other than resort to temporary loans or an increase of capitalization; but this is not a serious problem for the company. As a matter of fact, there are surplus funds awaiting investment, so what really matters is the supply of material itself.

"At a time, when the supply of real resources forms the vital problem, Government measures must of course be thorough-going. The important thing is to carry out, in real earnestness, the policy of developing the economic resources of Japan, Manchoukuo and China as a single unit. There are certain industries which will attain full development when transplanted to Manchoukuo. Of course I am not ignorant of the difficulties, when we come to the problem of transferring Japanese industrial plants to Manchoukuo."

As regards the five year industrial program, Mr. Yoshino expected modifications, more on less extensive.

Off for Manchoukuo

want peace. You have to take active steps to secure it."

It was in that spirit, said the Foreign Secretary, that Prime Minister Chamberlain accepted Premier Benito Mussolini's invitation to visit Rome. The outstanding result of the talks then held, he emphasized, was the definite assurance given by Il Duce that Italy's policy is one of peace.

Lord Halifax said that Premier Mussolini emphatically assured Prime Minister Chamberlain and himself that "once the Spanish conflict is over, Italian military support will be withdrawn from the Nationalists and Italy will have nothing to ask from Spain in the way of territorial concessions."

Britain attaches special value to this assurance, continued the Foreign Secretary, because of France's current anxiety over possible Italian threats to French interests in the the Mediterranean. As long as Franco-Italian relations remain in their present difficult state, he emphasized, "it is bound to cause concern to ourselves."

Going on to defend the Government's adherence to the non-intervention policy in Spain, Lord Halifax said that, even if the system was not respected by all other countries, it was preferable for the maintenance of general European peace that Britain continued to observe its commitments.

"Besides," he added, "it is not certain that any nation which has actively intervened in the civil war will in the long run benefit from its intervention."

After praising President Roosevelt of the United States for finding "cogent expressions" to voice the necessity of freedom and independence for all nations, the Foreign Secretary made a brief allusion to "certain horrible things" which are taking place abroad.

"But whatever we may feel," he declared, "no one who has shared in the direction of this country's international policy ought to forget that the end of all his efforts is to resist the forces which would destroy world peace."

With regard to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's recent speech advocating German friendship with France and Britain, Lord Halifax said he could add nothing to Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement welcoming the speech before the House of Commons. As indicated in that statement, Britain is ready to take part in an international conference to settle European problems, but it would be useless to launch discussions until an atmosphere of mutual confidence exists.

"It is the object of our policy," concluded Foreign Secretary Halifax, "to bring about the confidence and collaboration necessary to make such discussions possible."

KANTO DOWNS KANSAI STARS AT SOCCER, 3-2

Kanto defeated Kansai, three goals to two, in their eighth annual all-stars clash Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium. Greater experience told the tale.

By virtue of this victory, Kanto leads Kansai by one victory, five to four, in their annual competition. At the same time, it was the tituiar tilt in the recent Chosen, Kansai and Kanto tri-district series.

KANSAI SCORES FIRST

Kansai broke the ice in the scoring column after 25 minutes of play in the first half. Left Wing Ono started the movement by passing to Tajima in the right corner of the Kanto goal. Tajima, in turn, passed to the right to Right Wing Ukon, who caromed the ball into the goal with his chest.

Kansai's lead, however, was short-lived. Kanto was awarded a free kick in 26 minutes on the left wing of the Kansai 40-yard line. Takashima's kick dropped in front of the Kansai goal. Kamo and Harima of the Kanto team were on top of it and Harima booted the ball into the net to equalize the score.

The game developed into a battle royal after resumption of play. Once again, Kansai forged into the lead in 22 minutes. Right Wing Ukon dribbled through Oyama of the Kanto eleven and criss-crossed to Ono, who had a free shot to split the goal posts.

Once again, Kanto deadlocked the score within the next minute of play. Kawamoto took hold of the ball in midfieled aand passed it to Ninomiya, who worked it to Abe, and the latter to Harima, who scored from the left flank.

KAWAMOTO SCORES

After furious scrimmaging, Kanto won the game in 43 minutes. Ninomiya, taking possession of the ball in midfield, dribbled down the field. He passed to Harima. The latter and Kawamoto worked the ball deep into scoring territory and Kawamoto scored easily to clinch the game.

The line-ups were:

Kanto: Tsuda (Keio), goalie; Yoshida (Waseda) and Oyama (Tokyo Imperial), fullbacks; Takashima (Keio), Kikuchi (Tokyo Imperial), Tsukasa (Tokyo Imperial), halfbacks; Ninomiya (Keio), Harima (Keio), Abe (Tokyo Imperial), Kawamoto (Waseda O.B.), and Kamo (Waseda), forwards.

Kansai: Okamoto (Kyoto Imperial), goalie; Kasai (Kwansei Gakuin), Nishida (Kansai University), fullbacks; Tanabe (Kwansei Gakuin), Kinoshita (Kobe Commercial), Mita (Kwansei Gakuin), halfbacks; Ukon (Keio O.B.), Okano (Kwansei Gakuin), Otani (Kobe Commercial O.B.), Tajima (Kwansei Gakuin) and Ono (Kyoto Imperial), forwards.

British Prepare For Table Tennis Championships

By R. MAILLARD STEAD

Christian Science Monitor

LONDON—It is a case of "Ladies First" this season in British table tennis. For the organizers of that now universally popular pastime are bending their energies toward the cultivation of fresh feminine talent in view of the 1939 world's championships at Cairo, Egypt, and the tournament there for the Corbillon Cup, emblematic of the world's team championship for the fair sex. These championships are listed to commence March 6 and to finish five days later. I understand that 15 nations propose to be represented, but that the United States, winner of the Corbillon and Swaythling Cups in 1937, is not able to send teams this year.

Last season the English Table Tennis association concentrated upon the coaching of men, with a view to cutting a better figure than usual in the international field. But the result could hardly be described as satisfactory, since only two Englishmen managed to reach the round of the last sixteen in the 1938 world's championships singles.

Mind you, it takes quite an exceptional player, man or woman, to reach that stage in the world's championships these days. Because the tempo and tension of play among the aces has become formidable indeed. "Too old at 26" is a table tennis slogan, and though that is doubtless an exaggeration, it indicates the way things are. Which is unrecognizably different from the way things were, not so many years ago. In the heyday of my playing career, if two small cups and an alarm clock can be said to constitute a heyday nobody ever thought of training for a table tennis match with the aid of a punch-ball, a rowing machine or a skipping rope.

In those days, you found table tennis in the home. Played quite often under handicaps imposed by architectural eccentricities or the lay-out of the family furniture. But the intensification of the game put an end to all that. No longer did people feel that they could be themselves justice with one foot in the fireplace and the other on the pet dog. They adjourned to clubs that they formed, where there was relatively an amplitude of space. Together with such things as standard tables, nets and balls. Thus the merry tap-tap of the celluloid under the old armchair faded away, and the game arose in its fresh form to conquer the world, transformed from "ping pong" to "table tennis," with all the accession of dignity that seems to be implied by the change.

Now, the whole world is at it. International administration is vested in a Federation that boasts a membership of at least 20 countries, and at the top of the international ranking, so to speak, we find the Hungarians, who have shown an exceptional flair and enthusiasm for the game ever since it came into their ken. Their record of success in international engagements is something astounding. Thanks in great measure to the most colorful personality the sport has yet thrown up—Viktor Barna. If I may put it so, he is the Bill Tilden of the green table.

But Barna, alas, is a veteran at thirty, and in his place as champion stands Bohumil Vana, of Czechoslovakia. He was 17, when last season in the world's championship, here, he put out Barna in the semi-final round and defeated Richard Bergman, then of Austria, in the final.

DIPLOMAS TO BIG LEAGUE TEACHERS

ORLANDO, Fla—Joe Stripp, the Brooklyn Dodger veteran, has opened his annual baseball school at Orlando, and to start things rolling, handed out diplomas to—not the pupils—but to the instructors who themselves are big league "greats." Receiving the diplomas here are (left to right) Van Lingle Mungo, Brooklyn pitcher; Johnny Cooney of the Boston Bees; Ducky Medwick, Don Padgett and Bob Wieland of the St. Louis Cardinals.

KAZAMA BEATS GERMAN STAR IN WRESTLING

Eiichi Kazama, Japan's outstanding amateur wrestler, won a decision from Helmut Lehman, visiting star German grappler, Sunday night in an exhibition at the matches held at the Hibiya Public Hall auditorium welcoming the return of the Japanese teams that toured the Philippines and the United States recently. It was Kazama's third victory in as many meetings with the German, who returns soon to his country.

Kazama proved the superior to Lehman in the standing wrestling but the latter almost turned the tables over him by gaining a good hold in the ground wrestling.

The team that competed in the United States, under the management and captaincy of Kazama, triumphed over the aggregation that went to the Philippines by four matches to three.

The results were:

Bantamweights: Ota (American team) decisioned Watanabe (Senshu University). Imai (Philippine team) won by fall from Matsunouchi (American team), 13 minutes 27 seconds.

Featherweights: Michiaki (American team) decisioned Watanabe (Keio).

Lightweights: Kamei (Philippine team) decisioned Tokai (Keio); Inaba (American team) decisioned Hatakeyama (Philippine team).

Welterweights: Kikuma (Philippine team) decisioned Kusubayashi (American team).

Middleweights: Kazama (American team) decisioned Lehman (Germany).

YANKEES DOMINATE ALL-STARS SELECTION

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 10—The American League, with five New York Yankees named, dominates the 1938 all-star team announced today by the Sporting News, national baseball publication. The junior circuit placed eight players, the National League three. Selections were made by 249 members of the Baseball Writers' Association.

The scribes placed Charley Gehringer of the Detroit Tigers in the all-star cast for the sixth successive time, and Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox staged a comeback to win his sixth berth. Their record equals that of Lou Gehrig, Babe Ruth and Al Simmons, but falls one short of Mickey Cochrane and Pie Traynor, who have been honored on seven of the 14 teams picked. This year's choices are:

Left field, Joe Medwick, St. Louis Cardinals; center field, Joe Di Maggio, New York Yankees; right field, Mel Ott, New York Giants; first base, Jimmy Foxx, Boston Red Sox; second base, Charley Gehringer, Detroit Tigers; third base, Robert Rolfe, Yankees; shortstop, Joe Cronin, Red Sox; catcher, Bill Dickey, Yankees; pitchers, Charley Ruffing and Vernon Gomez, Yankees, and Johnny Vander Meer, Cincinnati Reds.

Di Maggio, star slugger of the world champion Yankees, led in the number of votes received, getting a total of 241 for the three outfield positions. Medwick, the National League's most valuable player in 1937, was second with 233 and Ruffing ranked third with 211.

Hank Greenberg of the Detroit Tigers and Floyd Vaughan of Pittsburgh furnished the closest competition among the runner-ups. Foxx beat out Greenberg, 146 to 84, and Cronin nosed out the Pirate shortstop, 116 to 95.

RIGA, Feb. 4—The Latvian speed skating champion, S. Berzins, by taking first and second respectively in the 3,000 and 500 meter races, closed the first day of the 1939 European speed skating championship with a small lead over a field of outstanding rivals. Berzins maintained first place with 97.800 points, while Vasenius, of Finland, was second with 100.860 points, and Charles Mathiessen, the Norwegian champion, was third with 100.870 points.

Berzins won the 3,000 meter event in 5 minutes and 15 seconds, while Mathiessen took second with the time of 5 minutes 24.1 seconds, while Johansen, of Norway was third his time being 5 minutes and 30 seconds.

In the 500-meter event Vasenius won the race in 45.2 seconds. Berzins came in second in the time of 45.3 seconds, while Johansen was third with 46 seconds.

GLIDING ADDED TO 1940 GAMES AT HELSINKI

Olympic News Service

Soaring flight, a demonstration item only at Berlin, now comes into the official Olympic program for the first time and the competition will be held at the Jämijärvi Gliding School, four miles from Jämijärvi village. The latter is a two hour bus ride from Tampere which in turn can be reached from Helsinki by train in 3 hours or by air in 55 minutes.

The School is situated in beautiful surroundings and has a flying field 147 hectares in extent, divided into two by a ridge running northwest to southeast, 219 meters above sea-level and 117 meters above the level of Jämijärvi lake. The thermal strength at ground level is good and the greatest upward current recorded is 12 meters per second.

The following features of the School are worth recording. There are two glider hangars, holding 30—35 gliders, one shed, containing 3 towing planes, a repair shop, store for spare parts, tower for drying and airing of parachutes and a meteorological station. There are also a restaurant for 100 people, living accommodation for 150 students, instructors' quarters and a club-room. Several hundred competitors and their assistants can be boarded in the near neighborhood. Finally it should be mentioned that the school possesses an excellent "sauna", or Finnish steam bath, and that there is fine bathing nearby on a sandy lake shore.

The rules governing the Olympic Soaring Flight competition will be confirmed by the Federation Aeronautique International at its meeing in Paris in January, 1939.

3,000 GLIDING ENTHUSIASTS

Gliding, though still a comparatively young sport in Finland, is already widely practiced and from 1934 onwards many gliding clubs have been in operation in different parts of the country under the control of the Finnish Air Defense Lague. As there are over 3,000 persons actively engaged in the sport and 500 new fliers are trained yearly, it can justly be claimed on Finland's behalf that, after Germany and Poland, gliding is more widely practiced there than anywhere else. Most of the Finnish fliers are trained at the Jämijärvi school and in this connection it is interesting to note that some of the most gifted pupils have been the young ski-jumpers, the same qualities evidently making for proficiency in both sports.

JAPAN'S ENTRY IN DAVIS CUP IS UNCERTAIN

Because Jiro Yamagishi, Japan's No. 1 tennis player, plans to enlist in the Navy next Summer as an intendant officer (he will take the examinations shortly) and will not be available for play, the indications are that the Japan Lawn Tennis Association may scratch its recently filed entry in the American zone of the Davis Cup competition this year, according to the Yomiuri Shimbun.

Funiteru Nakano, who was a member of the 1938 Davis Cup team, accepted the selection of the Association, according to the Yomiuri.

The question confronting the Association is whether it will go through with the competition without the services of Yamagishi, that is whether it will select Yasumine Kuramitsu or some other player to substitute for Yamagishi. Kuramitsu was a member of the 1938 Davis Cup team but he did not get into action in the play against Canada and Australia.

27 NATIONS TO PLAY

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—Divided into three zones, North American, South American and European, 27 nations, including Japan, will vie for the right to meet the United States in the Challenge Round of this year's annual Davis Cup competition, it was decided today after drawings were completed by Holcombe Ward, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, in the presence of consuls of 13 challenging nations.

Japan, which last year was eliminated by Australia in the first round of American Zone play, has been placed in the North American Zone, and along with the Philippines, has drawn a first round bye.

Australia's powerful squad also is in the North American zone and will meet Mexico in the first round. Australia, after whipping Germany in the inter-zone finals last year, lost to the United States in the Challenge Round.

The site of the challenge round, it is understood, will be decided probably at tomorrow's meeting of the U.S.L.T.A. The Davis Cup committee, it was revealed, recommended the Merion Cricket Club near Philadelphia, but it is understood that the Germantown Cricket Club has also put in a bid.

Walter Camp Trophy To T. C. U.'s O'Brien

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—Many of the East's best known sports figures gathered last night to see the Touch down Club present the Walter Camp Memorial Trophy to Davey O'Brien, All-America back.

"America has seen but few football players who have been so genuinely acclaimed by most all of the fans for their outstanding contributions to the game."

The Texas Christian back was accompanied to the capital by Amon Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth Star Telegram and Coach Dutch Meyer. Tad Wieman, head football coach at Princeton, was the principal speaker.

RUPPERT'S DEATH IS MOURNED THROUGHOUT UNITED STATES

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the world champion New York Yankees and president of the Ruppert Brewing Company, died yesterday at his home, 1,120 Fifth Avenue, at Ninety-third Street. He was 71 years old and his health had been failing steadily, due to a complication of ailments, since an attack of phlebitis, an inflammation of the veins, last April.

After a turn for the worse in his condition early this week, Colonel Ruppert received the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church. He awakened after a restful night at 8:15 o'clock yesterday morning and said "good morning" in a weak voice to Albert Brennan, treasurer of the Yankees and the colonel's personal secretary for twenty-seven years.

He was able to drink some orange juice, but was so weak that he was unable to speak to his physician, Dr. Otto Schwerdtfeger, who visited him at 10 o'clock and then left. A few minutes later Colonel Ruppert became unconscious, and remained in a coma until he died at 10:28 A. M.

Those at his bedside when he died were Mr. Brennan; a brother, George E. Ruppert of this city and Rye, N.Y., vice-president of the Yankees and vice-president and secretary of the brewing company; a sister, Mrs. Harry Garrison Silleck Jr. of this city and Greenwich, Conn.; a nephew, H. Garrison Silleck 3d, of Northport, L. I., assistant treasurer of the brewery, and a niece, Miss Anna Schalk, daughter of the late Mrs. Herman Schalk of New York.

RUTH VISITOR AT HOME

Outside of his family and attendants, the last person to see Colonel Ruppert was Babe Ruth, former home-run star of the Yankees, whom the colonel for years paid the largest salary in baseball.

Just out of the hospital himself after a cardiographic examination, Ruth telephoned to Mr. Brennan Thursday evening:

"I want to see the colonel."

"Come right up," was the reply.

When Ruth arrived at the Ruppert apartment, the colonel was in an oxygen tent, in which he had been placed at 4:30 o'clock. He was removed from his tent at 7:15 P. M., and the first thing he said, according to his nurse, Miss Ann McGill, was:

"I want to see the Babe."

"Here he is, right beside you," she said.

The dying man opened his eyes and reached out his hand to Ruth, but was too weak to speak.

Ruth patted his hand.

"Colonel," he said, "you are going to snap out of this, and you and I are going to the opening game of the season."

CALLS TO HIS FORMER STAR

The colonel smiled faintly, but still could not talk. Ruth turned away and started to leave the room, but the colonel summoned up his strength and called to him weakly. Ruth returned to the bedside, and the colonel again held out his hand and murmured the one word "Babe."

"It was the only time in his life he ever called me Babe to my face," Ruth said after he heard the news of the colonel's death. "I couldn't help crying when I went out."

Edward Barrow, vice-president and general manager of the Yankees, was one of the first to be notified. Overcome with grief, he notified Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, "czar" or organized baseball, in Florida; Joe McCarthy, manager of the Yankees, at his home in Buffalo, and others.

Within a few hours of the colonel's death, messages of condolence and tribute to his memory came from all over the country, not only from leading figures in baseball and the world of sports, but also from the brewing industry, in which the colonel was for many years a leader, and from the outside world of business and affairs.

AMONG RICHEST IN COUNTRY

Because the colonel's ownership of the Yankees and his connection with Babe Ruth and other famous baseball players overshadowed his less dramatic activities, it was not generally realized that he was one of the richest men in the country.

Before the depression his fortune was estimated at more than $60,000,000. Contrary to the experience of many other rich men, his wealth grew in recent years until it was estimated at close to $100,000,000. This is said to have been due to the fact that after 1929 he had large amounts of ready cash which enabled him to purchase profitable real estate investments at greatly reduced prices.

Although his baseball investment in the Yankees and in five minor league teams represented only a minor share of his fortune, baseball was his real love. He was more proud of having bought Babe Ruth from Boston for $100,000 and having paid him $80,000 a year, of having built the $2,000,000 Yankee Stadium as the largest baseball arena in the country, of having owned and developed so many world champion teams, and of having been generally recognized as a real sportsman who had done as much for baseball as he had taken from it, than of all his other interests and activities.

What pleased him most was that he had transformed the Yankees from a second division club into a team which won ten American League pennants and seven world series.

In addition to the Yankees, in which he owned 2,990 of the outstanding 3,000 shares of stock, the teams owned by the colonel in his "farm" system were at Newark, N. J.; Kansas City, Mo.; Norfolk, Va.; Binghamton, N. Y., and Akron, Ohio.

Colonel Ruppert was a bachelor. Besides those relatives who were at his death bed, he is survived by a niece, Mrs. Joseph Halloran of Greenwich, Conn.; a niece, Mrs. J. Basil McGuire, of Greenwich, Conn.; a niece, Mrs. Murray Vernon of New York, and a nephew, J. Ruppert Schalk, of Rhinebeck, N. Y., assistant secretary of the brewing company.

From baseball leaders throughout the country, business executives and persons prominent in State and city affairs, including former Governor Smith and Mayor La Guardia, came the following tributes to the late Colonel Jacob Ruppert:

KENESAW MOUNTAIN LANDIS, Baseball Commissioner—The death of Colonel Ruppert is certainly bad news for baseball and everybody interested in it. He was the very embodiment of baseball's competitive spirit. And this spirit, I trust, will ever endure.

GEORGE HERMAN (BABE) RUTH, Former Yankee Star—We have lost the best man baseball ever had. He brought baseball to the top. He helped young players more than any one I know.

MAYOR LA GUARDIA—I am very sorry to hear of the death of Jacob Ruppert. He was a fine sportsman and a fine fellow.

ALFRED E. SMITH, Former Governor—It was with deep regret that I read of the death of Colonel Ruppert. He was one of our outstanding citizens. The community will mourn his loss and I have lost a warm personal friend.

NEWBOLD MORRIS, President of City Council—New York City has lost one of its most colorful figures and the world of sport is deprived of a great sponsor of the spirit of American sportsmanship.

Captain WILLIAM J. PEDRICK, President the Fifth Avenue Association—His death comes as a shock to all of us on Fifth Avenue who knew him so well. The building on the avenue which is named for him will be a constant reminder of the important part he played in the affairs of our city in general and Fifth Avenue in particular.

JOE McCARTHY, Manager of the Yankees—He will be missed by all especially those who were connected with him, as he was very loyal. His place will be hard to fill.

BILL TERRY, Manager New York Giants—Baseball will miss the Colonel; he was one of the grandest men in baseball.

HORACE C. STONEHAM, President New York Giants—Baseball has lost its greatest individual figure, and our club has lost a most sincere friend and business associate.

EDWARD BRANNICK, Traveling Secretary, the Giants—The world of baseball and sports has lost a type of which there are all too few.

EDWARD BARROW, Vice-President and General Manager, the Yankees—He was really a great man and a true friend. Baseball will not see the like of him in a great while.

LOU GEHRIG, Yankee First Baseman—His loss is a great one. He was one of the outstanding sportsmen of the era, and a most loyal friend.

LEO J. BONDY, Vice-President and Treasurer of the Giants—There is no doubt that baseball generally has lost one of its most influential and capable leaders.

CLARK GRIFFITH, President the Washington Senators—He was a great fellow, a credit to his country and our game and the cleanest sportsman I ever knew.

PHILIP K. WRIGLEY, Owner the Chicago Cubs, National League Chmapions—His passing is a tremendous loss to baseball, to which he devoted so many years of tireless activity and loyalty.

WALTER O. BRIGGS, President the Detroit Tigers—Baseball has lost one of its strongest men. It will be difficult to find any one to fill his position in the deliberations of the American League.

ALVA BRADLEY, President the Cleveland Indians—His death is a great loss to baseball.

J. LOUIS COMISKEY, Owner the Chicago White Sox—The nation as well as baseball has lost one of its outstanding men.

DONALD L. BARNES, President the St. Louis Browns—Baseball has lost a great leader, and the world in general has lost a fine sportsman.

WILLIAM HARRIDGE, President the American League—Colonel Ruppert's keen judgment and wise counsel will be greatly missed at future gatherings of the American League.

LARRY McPHAIL, Business Manager Brooklyn Baseball Club—Baseball just canot lose such a figure without it being felt in both major leagues and all down the line.

EDDIE COLLINS, General Manager the Boston Red Sox—His loss cannot be measured in words. Though he made a great deal of money out of baseball, that wasn't his motive for getting into it. He loved the game.

RUDOLPH J. SCHAEFER, Past President the New York Brewers Board of Trade—The death of Colonel Ruppert is an incredible loss. He was the dean of the brewing industry in the city.

HERBERT J. CHARLES, President the United Brewers Industrial Foundation—The brewery industry has sustained a great loss in his untimely death. Its welfare and advancement, as well as its membership, were very dear to his heart.

C. D. WILLIAMS, Secretary United States Brewers Association—His death, although not unexpected, comes as a great shock to those who have been closely associated with him, particularly the officers and directors of this association.

KONGO BEATS ISHIDA OVER EIGHT ROUNDS

Iwao Kongo, up and coming flyweight of the Usuda Boxing Club, proved too strong physically for Takehito Ishida of the Shinko Club, and took the decision in an eight rounder Monday night at the Hibiya Public Hall auditorium. Both weighed in at 109 pounds.

Ishida might have fared better had he resorted to a counter punching fight, with left and right hooks, against a fighter of Kongo's type that keeps boring in consistently. But what he did was to depend too much on his right. The result was that Kongo scored heavily with left uppercuts to the face and rights to the body as he rushed his opponent.

In the other bout of the double eight round main event, Goro Kikuchi of the Shinko Club was forced to quit fighting at the end of the third round because of an injury to his foot against Takeo Miyahashi of Osaka. Miyahashi weighed in at 116 pounds and Kikuchi at 119 pounds.

The results of the six rounders on the card follow:

Sawada (Shinko), 110 pounds, drew with Shibasaki (Nippon Boxing Club), 119 pounds.

Kawashima (Tokyo Boxing Club), 122 pounds, decisioned Hasegawa (Usuda Boxing Club), 125 pounds.

Hayafusa (Usuda Boxing Club), 118 pounds, knocked out Kido (Nippon Boxing Club), 125 pounds, fifth round.

HARVARD CAGERS TOP PRINCETON, 40 TO 39

N.Y. Times

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 14.—Harvard's basketball team staged a story-book finish to nip Princeton's veteran quintet, 40—39, in an Eastern Intercollegiate League game tonight.

Dick Sullivan, substitute, sent the ball through the hoops from a quarter-court angle to score the winning points with five seconds to play.

As the gun terminated hostilities the crowd of 1,200 swarmed on the court.

With less than three minutes of play left, Princeton's big quintet had an apparently safe lead at 38—32. At this point Captain Lupien of Harvard, scoreless until then, tallied on a difficult shot from center court and repeated it.

SINKS FOURTH FOUL SHOT

This whittled Princeton's lead to 38—36. With a minute to go, Ed Green of Princeton was fouled by Lupien. Green scored his fourth foul shot, Princeton had a 3-point lead and the Crimson cause appeared hopeless.

But on a tap play to the left of the basket Charlie Lutz recovered the ball, fed a bounce pass to Fred Heckel and Heckel hooked a basket from under to cut Princeton's lead to 1 point.

Then Sullivan came from nowhere as the timekeeper fingered his firearm and fired the winning shot.

It was Harvard's first league victory in two starts. Princeton made its league season debut in this game.

TALLIES FROM MIDCOURT

Thanks to a midcourt set shot by Eddie Hobler just before the end of the first half, Princeton took a 20-18 lead. In the opening twenty minutes Harvard held leads of 2—0, 12—11 and 18—15.

Harvard's freshman quintet routed Phillips Exeter tonight, 58 to 38. It was the sixth victory in seven starts for one of the best first-year teams in Harvard history.

YALE'S WRESTLERS DOWN COLUMBIA

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 15—A strong Yale wrestling team made its 1939 debut yesterday by overcoming Columbia, 23½ to 6½, in the Lions' gymnasium. Yale won six of the eight bouts to inflict upon the locals their first defeat in four matches.

It was not until the seventh bout, one of the most exciting on the program, that Columbia broke through for its single victory. Robert Taylor, undefeated Lion captain, wrestling in the 175-pound class, pinned Ray Jopling with a bar and half Nelson in 3:13. Columbia's other tally was registered in the 155-pound division by Weldon Booth, who wrestled Jim Bird to a draw in two overtime periods.

The other six bouts went to Atwood Ely, Zeb Malin, Lou Hamman, Dave Gerber, Robert Clark and Larry Pickett, giving the Elis a decisive margin. Four Yale victories were on referee's decisions and two by falls.

Gerber pinned Charles Holt with a half Nelson and body hold in 6:47 in the 145-pound class and Pickett, wrestling in the heavyweight division, pinned Joe Bartolf with a cradle hold in 3:41.

YALE DEFEATED BY COLUMBIA QUINTET, 51-30

By LOUIS EFFRAT

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 15—A scoring spree which surprised even Coach Paul Mooney carried the Columbia basketball team to a 51-to-30 victory over Yale last night in an Eastern Intercollegiate League encounter on the Morningside Heights floor. Paced by Vadim Medvedeff and Albie Myers, the Lions went wild during the second half and buried the Elis under an avalanche of field goals.

For Columbia, engaging in its initial league game, it meant a return to the winning column after successive setbacks by Fordham and Army. If last night's showing may be used as a standard, the Lions may be counted upon for a fine showing in Ivy League competition.

MYERS CAGES FIVE IN A ROW

Medvedeff and Myers, one tall and rangy, the other small and fast, were decidedly "on." The former romped off with scoring honors with an imposing total of 18 points, while Myers, who played only twenty-three minutes, caged six field goals, five in a row, for 12 points.

For a while Yale's zone defense was somewhat of a puzzle to the home team, which was slow getting started. A rally during the closing minutes of the first half, however, sent Columbia ahead and the intermission found the Lions enjoying a 21-to-11 advantage.

For the first few minutes of the second period neither team was able to make much headway. Until then Myers had been hardly noticeable. Then he found the range and Yale could do nothing to stop him.

1,500 ATTEND CONTEST

Five times in succession Myers tallied from the floor, while a crowd of some 1,500 persons looked on in amazement at the remarkable accuracy of this little fellow's set shots. A one-hander by Jack Naylor interrupted the string, but only for a moment, because he bounded right back with another field goal.

Myers was so hot it is doubtful that he missed more than three shots all night. This also was true of Medvedeff, except that he split his scoring between both periods. The sophomore came through with 7 points in the first half and added 11 upon the resumption of play.

Yale missed too many opportunities to make it close and the Elis were in the game only for the first ten minutes, at which point the quintets were deadlocked at 7-all. Then the Lions became the aggressors and their set shots sent them far into the van.

John Cobb, a 145-pound forward, stood out for the Elis, scoring 11 points. But, like his team-mates, he missed easy shots often and the result was more or less inevitable.

It is interesting that Columbia, in passing the half-century scoring mark, already has accomplished what last Winter's team was able to achieve only once. A 58-to-34 triumph over Harvard marked the lone time the Lions turned the trick a season ago.

BERZINS WINS SPEED SKATING FOR EUROPE

Domei Tsushin

RIGA, Feb. 5—S. Berzins of Latvia today walked off with top honors in the European speed skating championships here as another first place in the 5,000 meters plus a third in the 1,500-meter event gave him a total low-point rating of 216,-975, Charles Mathieson of Norway taking second with 220.717.

Already in possession of first and second in the 3,000 and 5,000-meter events respectively, held yesterday, Berzins continued his championship drive by speeding to victory in the 5,000 meters, crossing the finish line 12 seconds ahead of Johansson of Norway while Mathieson was a close third. The winning time was 9 minutes 23.9 seconds.

Mathieson took first in the 1,500-meter event, with Lammie of Finland finishing second, but Berzins again scored by placing third only 1.2 seconds behind the winner. The Norwegian champion was clocked in 3 minutes 6.0 seconds.

Times in both races were slowed down by bad ice conditions. Johansson was third in the final placings with a score of 221.387.

4 SWIMMERS ASKED TO RACE IN HAWAII MEET

Four leading Japanese swimmers will compete in Hawaii in May in an Australia-Japan-Hawaii meet, under the auspices of the Hawaiian Amateur Athletic Union, according to present indications.

The invitation to send a sprinter and long distance star each in the freestyle, one backstroke and one breaststroke swimmer, and a manager was received by the Japan Swimming Federation on February 3 from the Hawaiian A. A. U. through the Nippu Jiji, Japanese-English bilingual newspaper of Honolulu.

TO HONOR KAHANOMOKU

The meet would be held on May 3, 4 and 5 in the dedication of a new natatorium built in honor of Duke Kahanomoku, former Olympic 100-meter freestyle champion and originator of the Hawaiian crawl.

Inasmuch as the dates do not conflict with the local swimming season, the Federation is expected to accept the invitation. It will hold a meeting tonight at its headquarters at the Marunouchi Building with officials of various swimming organizations and reach a decision.

Swimmers from Japan have competed in the past on several occasions in Hawaii and are a great favorite with the sports public there. Katsuo Takaishi, Japan's first Olympic star and Yoshiyuki Tsuruta, who won the 200-meter Olympic championship at Amsterdam, are among those who have competed in Honolulu. Then members of the world champion team to the 10th Olympic Games at Los Angeles gave exhibitions there while pasing through.

Tomikatsu Amano, who last Summer broke Arne Borg's 11-year record in the 1,500-meter freestyle, and Tetsuo Hamuro, Olympic breaststroke champion, may be selected to make the trip to Honolulu. They are presently in the Philippines. They are both students of Nihon University.

Takeshi Sasaki, also of Nihon University, who is with Amano and Hamuro in the Philippines, won the 100-meter freestyle national championship last year and may be named on the team to Hawaii. He too is a student of Nihon University.

KOJIMA MAY BE PICKED

Japan's outstanding backstroke star is Yasuhiko Kojima of Keio University. He would be the logical man to be picked.

It is interesting that Hawaii's outstanding freestyle sprinter today is a Hawaiian born Japanese, Takeshi Hirose, who is presently competing in Australia. He was a member of the All-American swimming team that competed in Europe last year.

VINES CHECKS BUDGE TO TIE SERIES, 4-ALL

N.Y. Times

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 14—Ellsworth Vines, world's professional tennis champion, evened his series at 4-all with Don Budge, former Davis Cup star, by taking a three-set match before 6,000 persons tonight, 2—6, 6—2, 6—4.

The big red-head started the first set by breaking Vines' service twice to win the first four games. Vines rallied to take the next two, but Budge ran out the set in easy fashion. They split the first four games of the second set and then Vines broke Budge's service on the fifth when a net ball dribbled over on game point. The pro champion ran out the next three games.

Twice in the third set Vines won games on net balls that just fell across, giving Budge no chance to return them. Working his ace service ball often, Vines built up a 3-1 lead in the final set and then alternated games at service to the end.

In a preliminary match Bruce Barnes of New York won from Dick Skeen of Hollywood, 6—3, 6—3.

Budge and Barnes teamed to take a three-set doubles match from Vines and Skeen, 6—1, 4—6, 6—4.

Government's Stand On Olympics Asked

The issue of whether or not Japan will compete in the 12th Olympic Games at Helsinki next year was brought before the Imperial Diet Tuesday afternoon.

Katsu Kawasaki of the Minseito interpellated Welfare Minister Hisatada Hirose at the subcommittee meeting of the House of Representatives Budget Committee. He pointed out that China had filed her entry with the Helsinki authorities, according to recent reports, and Japan must needs participate to uphold her dignity as victor in the in the Sino-Japanese hostilities, irrespective of the fact that Tokyo had abandoned the Games last Summer.

Mr. Hirose said the time was yet too early to make a decision and reserved his reply. Upon which, Mr. Kawasaki demanded an answer from the Welfare Minister by today.

DARTMOUTH HALTS PENN FIVE, 35 TO 32

N.Y. Times

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—Dartmouth, 1938 Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League champion, put on a spectacular drive in the last minute and a half of play to defeat Pennsylvania at the Palestra tonight, 35—32, before 8,000 cheering fans.

The Red and Blue, which had scored league victories over Cornell and Yale, led after the first two minutes of play until near the finish, but could not stand off the mighty efforts of the Hanoverians, who were opening their league season.

Gus Broberg, sophomore forward, proved the star by caging his third field goal to break a 31—31 tie when the Red and Blue was tiring. A few seconds later Joe Batchelder, Dartmouth guard, was fouled as he shot from under the basket. He converted both tries. Ross Hahn, forward, made good from the foul line for Penn in the closing seconds.

SCHREIBER LEADS PENN

Bernie Schreiber, sophomore guard who made six field goals, was Penn's outstanding sharpshooter. He sank five long, arching goals, four in the first half.

Batchelder, with four field goals and four straight foul tosses, played a fine game for the Green, his guarding and floor work helping in the uphill victory.

The battle of the two centers, Roger Dudis of Dartmouth, 6 feet 6 inches, and Tony Mischo, made a hit with the crowd. Each had two field goals. Dudis also tossed a foul.

Gerry Seeders, guard, held Broberg to one field goal in the first half but the sophomore ace got loose for a pair in the last half. Seeders went out on four personal fouls just before the end of the game.

FOOTBALL MEN HELP

Bob MacLeod, star football halfback, and Joe Cottone, late starters on the court, helped steady the Green in substitute roles. Each scored 4 points.

A long shot from the side by Cottone and MacLeod's 2-pointer from mid-floor just as the opening half ended enabled the defending champions to cut Penn's lead to 20—17.

Captain Payson Brickley of the Red and Blue made his first appearance of the season, relieving Diven midway in the last half. After tossing a foul and caging a field goal, he was withdrawn because of an injury to his back.

SUNDERLAND BEATS DERBY COUNTY 1 TO 0 IN ENGLISH SOCCER LOOP

LONDON, Jan. 14 (Canadian Press).—Leaders of the four divisions of the English Football League struck an off-day, failing to gain more than one point among them today. Standings remain unchanged, however.

Matches were played on heavy grounds in foggy weather, visibility being bad in some districts. All players wore black armbands and a brief silence was observed in memory of Charles E. Sutcliffe, 72-year-old president of the league, who died Wednesday.

Sunderland proved too strong for Derby County at Roker Park, and the 1-0 defeat left the Midlanders with a three-point margin over Everton in the first division.

SLIM LEAD FOR BLACKBURN

Blackburn in the second division has the slimmest margin of the leading squads. Following their 2-1 defeat at Swansea, the Lancastrians are one ahead of Sheffield United.

In the third division's southern section Newport County suffered the fourth defeat of the current campaign, Northampton Town winning at home, 1—0. But the Welshmen retain a 5-point advantage over Crystal Palace, which defeated Port Vale in London by the only goal of the game.

In an extraordinary match at Hull, the home team ran riot to win by 11—1 from Carlisle United in a northern section, third division match.

While Everton improved its position with a 2-2 victory over Arsenal, a tired Middlesbrough squad surrendered third place in the standing to Liverpool and Wolverhampton Wanderers by losing, 4—2, to Chelsea.

FROST HITS SCOTTISH CARD

Bolton Wanderers and Leeds United drew, 2—2, in strange contest that saw Goslin, Wanderers' right half, perform a hat-trick unique in soccer's history. Goslin converted two penalty kicks, then headed through his own goal allowing Leeds to equalize

Frost again interfered with the Scottish card, forcing postponement of six matches—four in the first division and two in the minor loop.

Held to a 1-1 stalemate at Edinburgh by the Hibernians, the Glasgow Rangers stretched their major league lead to 10 points over Hearts, who were forced to the sidelines.

Kiefer Breaks Record In 100-Yd. Backstroke

Domei Tsushin

CORAL GABLES, Feb. 6—Adolf Kiefer, stellar American aquatic ace who holds numerous records in the backstroke event, established a new world's record for the 100-yard backstroke over a 25-yard pool here Sunday. He was clocked in 1 minute 1.3 seconds.

Kiefer visited Japan two years ago and was invincible in the backstroke, setting a number of international records. Yasuhiko Kojima of Keio and Kiichi Yoshida, Japan's premier backstroke stars, were no match for him. Along with him were his coach, Stanley Brauninger, and Jack Medica, John Higgins, Elbert Root and Miss Katherine Rawls.

Baer Signs to Box Nova on May 25 At Yankee Stadium

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 15—Max Baer, former heavyweight champion of the world, signed articles yesterday with Promotor Mike Jacobs to meet Lou Nova, youthful contender from Alameda, Calif., in a fifteen-round bout at the Yankee Stadium on May 25. The battle was arranged by Jacobs to produce an opponent for Joe Louis, current holder of the heavyweight title, in June.

Although no terms were announced it is generally believed that the greater part of the fighters' purse will be paid to Baer, despite the fact that he has been out of action since last March. In his last bout the former champion gained a clean-cut triumph over Tommy Farr, a feat that has lost considerable luster in view of Farr's subsequent performances. Since then the latter has also lost to Nova and to Clarence (Red) Burman.

LOUIS AGAINST LATE DATE

Baer, naturally, would like a return battle with Louis, who stopped him in four rounds in 1935, but would prefer to meet the titleholder in September, should he get past Nova. Jacobs, too, would rather stage a September contest, but the champion is opposed to so late a date and insists that he fight in June if at all. Nova is unconcerned about his tentative date with the Bomber.

VENZKE WINS BY FOOT FROM 18-YEAR YOUTH

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 15—Gene Venzke had no Glenn Cunningham to challenge him last night, but he received his first real taste of the sprinting abilities of the Cunningham of the future, 18-year-old Leslie MacMitchell, the N. Y. U. freshman.

The picture runner from the New York A. C. won the General Anderson three-quarter-mile special that featured the annual indoor games of the Sixty-ninth Regiment A. A. before 3,000 fans in the armory, but was able to win by only a foot from the youthful MacMitchell in time that shattered beyond all recognition the armory record.

The veteran campaigner caught a tartar in the Violet youngster and had to go all out to triumph. His winning figures of 3:07.2 jammed out of sight Lou Burns' old mark of 3:11.8. The performance proved to be one of the best flat-floor three-quarters ever run.

MADE ON BANKED TRACK

Lloyd Hahn holds the indoor record of 3:03.4, but that was made on the old eight-lap banked intercollegiate track, a surface that automatically chopped countless seconds off the final clocking.

But Venzke, who seems to be better this year than he has been in seasons, came within a fraction of losing to a youth who was just a schoolboy a scant campaign ago. Gliding Gene won, but all the plaudits went to Emil Von Elling's shining pupil.

Not only did MacMitchell give Venzke a big shock but he also beat to the wire a couple of more than county-fair runners. Archie San Romani of the Grand Street Boys, a 4:07.2 miler on his own account, was five yards behind Loping Leslie, while Edgar Howard Borck of the Sixty-ninth, the national 800-meter champion, was fifth, Lieutenant Dick Bauer of the Shore A. S. beating him for fourth position.

Hence the MacMitchell performance, viewed from either in front or in back, was a superb thing. No one can predict what the future holds for him but it is highly promising, to say the least, especially since he will have the canny and clever Von Elling handling him.

NEVER WORSE THAN SECOND

The race itself saw the N. Y. U. freshman ever worse than second. He led the parade until there were four and a half laps to go. Then Venzke fled past him and took command. It was strictly between Gene and MacMitchell the rest of the way. About thirty yards from the finish Venzke clutched at his left leg as though he had pulled a muscle but drove through anyway.

While MacMitchell was bursting into the headlines of major competition for the first time, a slightly older but still young campaigner was doing a grand job on his own. Wesley Wallace, Fordham junior and the creator of a new world 500-meter record a week ago, turned in another magnificent performance.

The Ram runner, seeking permanent possession of the trophy in the Father Duffy 600, came like a bolt in the last 125 yards to overhaul Lou Burns and win pretty much as he pleased in the superb time of 1:13.5 for a new armory mark, well under the figures of 1:14.6 he himself established a year ago.

STEPS UP HIS PACE

The maroon-clad youngster, third at the breakaway behind Martin Witte of N. Y. U. and Burns, moved up behind the ek-Manhattan ace with two laps to go. It was between the two the rest of the way. Wallace stepped up his pace with less than a circuit left, drew up to Burns' shoulder and then fired away in the backstretch.

That was all there was to it. The Fordhamite had a yard advantage as the field slipped around the final turn. Then he really stepped on the gas and opened up his eight-yard margin in the short homestretch. Dick Squires of the Sixty-ninth, one-time Ohio Stater, was third and Jack Harley of the Lenox Hill A. A. fourth.

In another of the features Don Lash, the Indiana State policeman, got his man, as all good policemen should do. Durable Dan overhauled his old Indiana and Olympic teammate, Tommy Deckard, one lap from the finish of the Joyce Kilmer two-mile run and won by six yards in the sound enough time of 9: 17.4.

N.T. Times

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15.—Staging a brilliant finish to a hard-fought game, the champion New York Giants conquered the All-America All-Stars, 13 to 10, in a grand post-season finale to the professional football season today.

Big Ed Danowski of the Giants had just seen his great passing rival, Sammy Baugh, put the All-Stars into the lead with a spectacular toss good for 70 yards. Then Danowski passed the Giants to a touchdown that tied the score at 10—10 in the last quarter.

As the final period wore on, the Giants stopped an All-Star drive led by Johnny Drake deep in their own territory, and a moment later were inside the All-Star 20 after Ed Goddard had rumbled one of Danowski's punts.

With the ball on the 17-yard line Ward Cuff, burly Giant back, won the game with a field goal.

CROWD BELOW EXPECTATIONS

Fifteen thousand fans sat under bleak, cold skies to see the game. Threatening clouds kept the attendance below expectations.

The first quarter produced no scores as play by both teams was ragged, but in the next frame Johnny Karcis set the stage for a Giant score by intercepting a pass in mid-field and running it to the All-Star 13. On the fourth down Feets Barnum rushed into the game and booted the ball over the crossbar for a field goal.

Goddard, former Washington State star, engineered an All-Stars' drive from his own 35 to a spot down field where big Ernie Smith, his tackle, could and did tie the score with a field goal from the 26-yard line with less than 20 seconds of the half to go.

Taking the ball on his 20 in the third period, Baugh fired a bullet pass to Perry Schwartz for ten yards. On second down, with several inches to go for a first down, Baugh crossed the victors by passing down the side line to Lloyd Cardwell, ex-Nebraska back. Cardwell took the ball on the Giants' 45 and raced on to a touchdown. Joe Stydahar kicked the extra point and the All-Stars led, 10 to 3.

BOOTS THE TYING POINT

The Giants were well on their way into All-Star territory as the last quarter began as Danowski's passes gained 5, 8, 10 and 15 yards at a clip. The last one, good for 22 yards, went to Chuck Gelatka, left end, for a touchdown, and Cuff booted the tying point.

An All-Star running attack from their own 32 ended on the Giants' 13, and Ernie Smith's field goal try from the 21 missed. Then came the All-Star fumble and Cuff's winning place kick.

The Giants, outgained both on the ground and through the air, had luck with them to win. With a tie seemingly inevitable and time fast fading, the All-Stars suffered a bad break when Goddard fumbled a punt while vainly trying to elude a horde of Giants and Jim Howell recovered for the winners on the losers' 19, paving the way for the deciding field goal.

The All-Stars packed a tremendous punch with Drake in the backfield and had the Giants on pins and needles whenever Baugh was tossing. Drake, former Purdue ace, received strong support, which he lacked last Fall while playing for the Cleveland Rams, and tore through the right side of the Giants' line for repeated gains.

RETURN JUST IN TIME

The reserve strength of the All-Stars was superior to that of the victors, who had to send some of their regulars back into action to pull the game out of the fire. The second Giant team lacked the defensive strength of the starters, and Coach Steve Owen got enough of his topnotchers back on the field just in time to win the contest.

On fourth down, with two yards to go and only five minutes of play remaining, Cuff kicked a perfect placement and that was the ball game.

In the final quarter, with the score standing at 10—all, Ernie Smith tried another field goal. Chief Johnson, New York center, slipped through the line and managed to tip the ball slightly with his extended hand. It sent Smith's kick slightly wide of the uprights.

MESERVEY WINS SKIING TITLE FOR VERMONT

By FRANK ELKINS

N.Y. Times

WOODSTOCK, Vt., Jan. 15.—One of the largest fields in American ski racing history today participated in the Vermont slalom championship on Suicide Six Hill. Exactly 101 athletes on steel edges representing more than two dozen clubs competed in the first title test of the United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association this season.

For eight hours the skiers whirled in and out of the flag-studded course before a large crowd gathered on the hillsides. When the last runner came roaring down the twisting descent, not one injury had been recorded, a tribute to the fine field.

The national champion and former Dartmouth star, Ed (Rabbit) Meservey, emerged the victor with two splendid exhibitions of technique and nerve. First he negotiated the tricky course in 1:11 and then he eclipsed this mark by 5.2 seconds for the good aggregate of 2:16.8.

But, while last year's Green ace scored decisively, Woodstock observers could not help showing their 21-year-old Bob Bourdon. This talented lad, who two Winters ago had paced a star-studded field for the State downhill crown, surprised again with his flashing work and was placed second.

PERFECT RUNS BY BOURDON

Bourdon skied through the difficult patterns with assurance, not touching a flag. If he had taken the course in the same open manner as Meservey there would not have been much to choose between them. The Woodstock lad had a combined time of 2:22, the result of a 1:15.4 run the first time and 1:06.6 the second.

The next three positions went to Hanoverians. Ed Wells, whose spectacular feats in the Chilean Andes two Summers ago had the South Americans astonished, was third. Harry Hillman, who skied for Dartmouth last year and is the son of the Green track coach, was fourth, eight-tenths of a second ahead of his former team-mate, Ted Hunter.

Eleven sought the women's title, which went to the Amateur Ski Club star, Miss Nancy Reynolds of Montclair, N. J. This member of the women's team that did so well in the world championships at Engelberg, Switzerland, last year, was in a class by herself with a 1:43.4 dash. Miss Margaretta Fisk of Woodstock was the runner-up and Miss Ann Sharples of Great Barrington, Mass., was third.

Although new snow has not fallen for a week the hill was in good condition. The hitherto hard-packed run, surfaced by breakable crust, was soon cut up and the snow was of the type that makes Spring skiing so delightful. Near the end there were several spots where the covering was extremely thin and only the thirty men with the fastest times were permitted to run in the second round.

ELIZABETH RYAN KEEPS TITLE IN 100-YD. FREESTYLE

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—Miss Elizabeth Ryan of the Women's Swimming Association, one of the "babies" of the 1936 Olympic team, yesterday retained her metropolitan A. A. U. 100-yard free style championship in the W. S. A. pool.

The tall, 16-year-old girl won by a body length in the sound time of 1:03.8, two-tenths of a second slower than her winning figures in her semi-final heat. Behind her came Misses Mildred O'Donnell and Lorraine Fischer so close together that the officials had trouble picking second place.

SWEEP FOR HOST CLUB

But Miss O'Donnell, metropolitan junior 220-yard titleholder, finally received the nod over Miss Fischer, national junior ruler at the same distance. Miss Helene Rains, national senior 500-yard titleholder, was fourth. All starters in the final were members of the W. S. A.

It was so much a family party, as a matter of fact, that when Miss Ryan stepped to her place on the starting mark she turned to the other contestants and remarked, "Good luck, kids." Apparently they needed it more than she did. Miss Ryan took the lead right at the beginning and never yielded it.

She was first to the turn at 25 yards, with the others close behind her, almost even. At the next turn the Olympian had a yard lead, with Misses O'Donnell and Fischer breaking away from Miss Rains. The advantage of the pace-setter was even greater at 75 yards, and it was easy going the rest of the way.

HIGH HANDICAP ALLOTTED

The outstanding performance of the handicap races was given by Miss Gloria Callen of the W. S. A. in the 150-yard backstroke. Miss Callen started from scratch, almost 50 yards behind the top handicap girl, Miss Mildred Phillips, and finished fourth, only fifteen feet behind the winner, Miss Phillips.

At the meet were Miss Georgia Coleman, Olympic diving champion, in 1932, and Miss Betty Robinson, Olympic 100-meter track champion in 1928.

The summaries:

100-Yard Swim (Senior Metropolitan A.A.U. Championship)—Won by Miss Elizabeth Ryan, Women's Swimming Association; Miss Mildred O'Donnell, W. S. A., second; Miss Lorraine Fischer, W. S. A., third; Miss Helene Rains, W. S. A., fourth. Time—1:03.8.

Pineda Will Battle Horiguchi Sunday Night

In a bout being ballyhooed for the featherweight championship of the Orient, Chris Pineda, Philippine champion, will clash with Tsuneo (Piston) Horiguchi, king of Japanese fighters, Sunday night at the Kokugikan wrestling bowl at Ryogoku. The fight is slated to go 12 rounds.

It will be the toughest opponent Horiguchi has taken on for a long time and it should be a battle royal.

Matsuo Amino, welterweight known as "The Tiger," will battle Motoshige Murata of the Fuji Boxing Club, in the eight-round semi-windup.

On the card are two other eight rounders, five six rounders and a four round preliminary.

AMERICANS TIE WITH CANADIENS AT MONTREAL

N.Y. Times

MONTREAL, Jan. 14.—A penalty shot goal by Babe Siebert that was disallowed by Referee Norm Lamport enabled the New York Americans to gain a 1-1 deadlock with the Canadiens tonight in a National League encounter. It was the second tie game between the clubs this season, the Americans winning the other two engagements.

Both goals were scored early in the third period of a game marked by ragged play before a crowd of about 6,000. Herbie Cain sent the Canadiens ahead at 7:36 on passses from Paul Haynes and Jimmy Ward. About a minute later Johnny Sorrell equalized for the New Yorkers, with Art Jackson and Leroy Goldsworthy drawing assists.

The nullifying of Siebert's score, with less than two minutes of play remaining in the overtime session, drew a storm of protest from the crowd. Play was halted for several minutes while the fans littered the ice. The teams will play again in New York tomorrow night.

BUSSWELL DRAWS PENALTY

About two minutes of the opening period had elapsed when Busswell was penalized for tripping, leaving the Canadiens short-handed. Blake gave a great exhibition of stick-handling to keep the Americans out until the Habitant rear guard got back into play.

The Canadiens had a marked edge in play when the sides were even, and Wilfie Cude didn't have a single shot to handle in the first seven minutes. Then the New Yorkers took a hand on the offense, and Stewart just missed a pass-out from Jerwa.

Cain had two great chances in a row for the Canadiens. Taking a pass from Haynes, Cain shot right into Robertson's pads and then missed the corner of the net on a second try.

The Flying Frenchmen kept up their forcing tactics, Sorrell's hard drive being the only shot Cube had to stop in the next five minutes. At the sixteen-minute mark Goldsworthy was banished for tripping and the New Yorkers were short-handed for the first time.

Summerhill set up the only dangerous play while Goldsworthy was off, circling New York's net and slipping a nice pass to Siebert, but Robertson kicked out the Babe's hard drive. The bell rang a few minutes later.

WISEMAN'S SHOT STOPPED

Play was spotty in the opening minutes of the second period. Cude picked off Wiseman's try for the far corner nicely.

The pace began to speed up, with heavy body-checking the rule. Stewart was parked just outside the crease when Wiseman passed out, but "Old Poison" fired too soon and missed the cage. Close checking confined play to center ice as the half-way mark in the period was reached.

Chapman fired a backhander and Schriner took two swings at the rebound that came out from the back boards, but Cude was ready each time. A double pass sent Stewart in alone, but he was forced to hurry his shot and missed the net. Several minutes of inept play followed before the bell rang to end the second period with the teams still tied.

Almost four minutes of listless hockey was played in the third before Siebert made a dangerous play. Carrying the puck over New York's blue line, Siebert fired a long backhander that nearly caught Robertson napping, but the Americans net minder got his stick to the disk in time.

A tricky passing play between Haynes and Cain sent the Canadiens ahead, 1—0, at 7:36. Cain took the final pass at New York's blue line and drifted through to beat Robertson from about ten feet out. The Americans protested the play was offside, but to no avail.

The Canadiens' lead was short-lived, Sorrell banging in a pass from Goldsworthy after Art Jackson had started the play. The score came at 8:59.

A penalty to Field gave the Canadiens a chance to jump ahead again, but Robertson saved smartly on the few times the Habitants were able to break through the Americans' tight defense.

Play slowed down again in the fale of some heavy checking in the dying moments of regular time and the teams started the overtime session.

Both teams seemed content with a tie on the night's play, and played carefully in the first half of the overtime period. Cude and Robertson had only long shots to handle.

Robertson saved neatly on Blake's drive from the wing. At the eight-minute mark Goldsworthy pulled Blake down when the Canadien winger was through the defense and drew a penalty. A penalty shot was also awarded the Habitants, Siebert beating Robertson, but Referee Lamport disallowed the score, ruling Siebert had shot after he had crossed the penalty line.

The game was delayed several minutes while the fans littered the ice with papers, programs and hats.

The Canadiens attacked when play was resumed, missing on several close chances. Hooley Smith and Schriner broke from a Canadien attack and had Cude beaten, but Schriner's shot hit the left post and bounded out. The bell rang fifteen seconds later to end the game.

CABINET DEFERS ITS DECISION ON 1940 GAMES

The Government's decision whether or not Japan will participate in the 12th Olympic Games at Helsinki next year will be reserved, to be reached later depending developments.

This will be the reply given by Welfare Minister Hisatada Hirose to Katasu Kawasaki, Minseito, on Friday at the final meeting of the budgetary subcommittee of the House of Representatives.

The reply to the foregoing effect was made by Mr. Hirose to Mr. Kawasaki on Tuesday, when the latter took the stand that Japan should participate as a matter of prestige in view of the fact that China would do so. Mr. Kawasaki thereupon requested Mr. Hirose to consult the Premier and state the Government's attitude.

CONSULTS PREMIER

Mr. Hirose saw Premier Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma Wednesday afternoon after the regular Cabinet Council and the two decided to withhold the decision for the time being.

The Japan Amateur Athletic Federation will decide its attitude after watching developments, but its fundamental principle is to participate in the Helsinki Games, it was made known by Professor Iwataro Suehiro, chief of the directors of the Federation and president of the Japan Swimming Federation.

Of some 14 Japanese sports organizations, the only one which has definitely announced its intention not to dispatch a team to Helsinki is the Japan Equestrian Association because of the impossibility of sending military officers, whose first concern at present is the China Incident. As a matter of fact, the Imperial Army announced the ineligibility of officers for the 12th Olympic Games even before they had been abandoned by Tokyo.

SWIM TEAM TO GO

In the case of the Japan Swimming Federation, although no formal announcement has yet been made, it decided in the Summer of last year to dispatch a team to Helsinki. Even if there is to be a cut in funds, it is determined to send at least three swimmers for each of the men's six events or a total of 18 swimmers with the view to winning the world's championship for the third straight Olympiad. Because of the confidence of placing within the first three in the diving events, the Federation is planning to send at least one or two divers each for the men's and women's competition.

Ski Title to Andersen

CARY, Ill., Jan. 15—Reidar Andersen of Norway won the Norge Ski Club championship today to add another prize to his long list of skiing achievements.

Making his second appearance in the United States, Andersen jumped 172 feet in his first attempt and 181 on his second.

Sverre Fredheim, former St. Paul, Minn., elevator operator, winner of the Norge championship four years ago, took second place with leaps of 171 and 176 feet.

Third place went to Paul Bietila, University of Wisconsin student, with jumps of 165 and 162 feet, and fourth to George Kotlarek of Duluth, Minn., who jumped 160 and 173 feet.

A stiff wind and soft snow on the 100-foot steel slide and on the hill were blamed for failure of the contestants to approach the slide record of 194 feet set by Alf Engen of Salt Lake City three years ago.

HAWAII'S BID TO SWIMMERS IS REJECTED

The invitation from the Hawaiian Amateur Athletic Union to send four swimmers—one each for the short and long distance freestyle, breaststroke and backstroke—and a coach to Honolulu to compete in a Japan-Australia-Hawaii meet next May in dedication of a pool constructed in honor of Duke Kahanomoku, former Olympic 100-meter freestyle champion, was rejected by the Japan Swimming Federation Thursday.

The decision was reached after the Federation had consulted representatives of the Waseda, Keio, Meiji, Rikkyo and Nihon university teams. It was felt that a team of only four swimmers would serve no purpose in competing in Honolulu.

It its stead, the universities will concentrate their full attention on this year's championships with the view to preparing for the 12th Olympic Games next year at Helsinki.

It was pointed out that the Federation had already received an invitation from the Hawaiian A. A. U. three weeks ago to participate in a Japan-California-Hawaii meet in June but it had been rejected.

The decision of the Federation was wired to the Hawaiian A. A. U. Thursday.

WING FORWARD SAID SPOILING RUGBY GAME

By R. MAILLARD STEAD

Christian Science Monitor

LONDON.—Unlike American Football, the British Rugby game permits no interference with a player not actually holding the ball. And that is why so much controversy arises here these days regarding the activities of the ultra-keen "spoiling" wing forward, the specialist who specializes in being so near to breaking the off-side law that the effect on the game is almost the same as if he had actually broken it. Though this type of forward, met in increasing numbers, may not break the law, he certainly does break the continuity of play, and for this reason many people hold that the spoiler is spoiling Rugger as a spectacle.

TACTICS NEGATIVE

You see, his tactics are essentially negative. His particular job starts when he and his fellow-forwards have lost the pushing-match for possession of the ball in the scrummage (which he often helps them to do by failing to shove hard in his eagerness to make a quick breakaway for spoiling purposes) and his concern is just to mess things up for the people whose superior work in the scrum has earned them possession of the ball. This he does by arriving among the enemy half-backs as soon as the ball does.

In theory, a wing forward who remains always behind the ball, as enjoined by the off-side law, cannot reach the opposing fly-half and scrum-half as quickly as the ball does, if those halfbacks' forwards have heeled back cleanly. But in practice he seems able to do it all the same. With the result that back play is woefully cramped, excessive kicking into touch is encouraged, and scrambling "close" work takes the place of the "open" threequarter play—fast running, neat passing, clean tackling—that can make Rugger such a bonny sight to watch.

The argument in defense of the much-criticised marauder—he is always so nearly off-side that the opposition, the referee and the crowd always entertain very grave doubts about him—is that the remedy lies in the hands of the opposing halfbacks. The scrum-half, it is said, should learn to pounce on the ball as it comes out from under his forwards' heels in a scrummage and that, all in one swinging movement, he should pick up the ball and pass it hard and long to his partner, who should be in full stride when the ball reaches him. But that is a counsel of perfection.

Meanwhile, the game suffers and the cry goes up. What can be done about it? So far, nobody has hit upon a conclusive answer to the question. Though the Rugby Union, controlling body for the game, has sanctioned experiments to show how things would work out if a rule were introduced, reading "No player shall advance beyond his own front row forwards until the ball is out of the scrummage." All that these experiments have shown, however, is that, even under the proposed new conditions, a really fast wing forward, if permitted to neglect his duties as a pusher in the scrum, can still persist in his "spoiling."

A VICIOUS CIRCLE

The thing is a vicious circle. Partly because the wing forward is not pushing, his pack loses the ball in the set scrums against eight solid snovers. And because the wing forward is always pitching into the enemy halfbacks or even the three-quarter-backs (if the ball gets thus for) the people who do get the ball have no time in which to do anything constructive with it. Down it goes onto the floor. A jostle of scrabbling humans closes about it. The referee's whistle blows. The whole sorry performance begins again. And, at the end of the game, the spectators go home grumbling.

M'MITCHELL, YOUNG N.Y.U. STAR, SEEN AS 'CUNNINGHAM OF FUTURE'

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—In 1932 a sophomore from the University of Kansas came whirling up in the homestretch of the 1,500-meter run at the final Olympic tryouts and passed Gene Venzke for the third and last place on the American team. Venzke, it will be remembered, was not only an oddson favorite to make the squad but also to win the Olympic championship.

But Glenn Cunningham's rocket-like ascent into track's stratosphere began that bright afternoon at Palo Alto. A fortnight later he was the first American in the Olympic final with a fourth place. Two years later he had broken the world mile record and six years later he had run man's fastest mile, the incredible 4:04.4 at Dartmouth last Winter.

Will history repeat itself? Young Leslie MacMitchell of N. Y. U. would like to know. In 1940 he will be a sophomore, trying for the identical berth that the Kansan sought and attained eight years before. For the 18-year-old MacMitchell is, according to all signs and portents, the Cunningham of the future.

On Saturday at the Sixty-ninth Regiment meet the nice-looking boy from N. Y. U. lost to Venzke by a foot in a brilliant three-quarter-mile race in marvelously fast time for a flat, board track, 3:07.2. Had the initial pace been speedier, MacMitchell could have stayed with it because he was running well within himself against a Venzke who is as good, if not better, than he ever has been.

EXPERT OPINIONS SOUGHT

There can be no doubt about the inherent class of young MacMitchell. But how far will he go? Expert opinions were sought yesterday from two men who might know the answer. One was Venzke and the other Emil Von Elling, the N. Y. U. coach who is as clever a handler of athletes as there is in the business.

Gene gave a surprisingly shrewd analysis of the situation, a serious answer instead of the joshing remark one might ordinarily expect from him.

"Off-hand, I'd say MacMitchell has tremendous possibilities," he said. "But there are so many factors to be considered. How far he goes will depend greatly on his disposition. Any good miler can get down to 4:12, but from that point on it is pretty tough sledding.

"I'd hesitate to compare any one to Glenn because he is a marvel, almost a freak in his relentless perseverance, his perfect mental attitude, his willingness to punish himself, his flawless living habits and his intensity in sticking to a training program even four years after he had been graduated from college. Has MacMitchell that same spark?"

Von Elling thinks he has. "The first thing to keep in mind," declared Von, "is that Leslie is about two years younger than Cunningham at a corresponding stage in his development. As a schoolboy Glenn's best mile, as I recall, was 4:24.7 in the national interscholastics while MacMichell did 4:21.7 with a 4:19 relay mile in addition. Physically they are not far apart. Leslie is still a growing boy, 5 feet 11 inches in height and 155 pounds in weight. He puts on weight rapidly and take it off just as fast—which may answer the question as to whether he will burn out. I don't think he will.

FOLLOWING GLENN'S FOOTSTEPS

"Mentally, he is closer to Glenn than any athlete I have met. He is very intense about his running and this is important, wants to be a great miler. He amazed me with the way he has learned pace. He is not as letter perfect as Glenn in coming within a fraction of a second of whatever time he wants, but he is not far off. Why, he even is taking the same course as Cunningham, health education, and will wind up with the same degree after a seven-year course."

Pete Waters, Tom Greenwald, Johnny Trachy, Carl Merner and others in on the discussion were warm in their praise of MacMitchell. It even developed in the course of the conversation that Leslie will run a two-thirds-mile race against Blaine Rideout, John Borican and other stars in the Millrose meet at the Garden on Feb. 4 in order to get the proper competitive experience for 1940.

But, as Von Elling said, it will be the coming outdoor season that will indicate how far the boy will go. He thinks it will be far. And fortunately for MacMitchell, he could not have picked a better man to handle his destinies than the quiet-spoken, unobtrusive Von. It looks like a grand combination.

FLAHERTY HAS SOME FUN

Mention of the Millrose meet brings to mind an amusing incident that happened yesterday. Judge John J. Flaherty, chairman of the Metropolitan A. A. U. track and field committee, has nothing if not a sense of humor. Yesterday he phoned the excitable Fred Schmertz, director of the Millrose Games, and used a heavy French accent while talking to him.

"M'sieu Schmertz," said Flaherty on the phone, "zis is Josef Mostert of Belgium. I cannot run in ze Millrose Games. Dan Ferris he say it O. K. My cousin, she get married in St. Louis zat day and I go out there."

Schmertz nearly swallowed the telephone. He stammered for words in his excitement and then burst forth with, "Your cousin can't get married that day."

Flaherty had heard enough He hung up.

Kanto O.B. Plays Foreigners Saturday

The season's last rugby game will be played Saturday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium when the Kanto O.B. (graduates of Tokyo universities) fifteen will take on the All-Japan foreigners team. The kickoff is slated for 2:30 p.m.

The foreigners' team will be composed of members of the Y.C.A.C. of Yokohama and the K.R.A.C. of Kobe.

Rule Changes In Canadian Football Opposed by Coach

TORONTO (CP)—Lew Hayman, coach of Toronto Argonauts, Canadian Senior Football Champions in 1937 and 1938, in an address at the club's celebration banquet here recently asked that Canadians fight any attempt to change the rules of the game.

"This is not hokum or hipper-dipper on my part," Hayman, native of Paterson, N. J., told the assemblage of more than 200. "Fundamentally our Canadian game is good. From time to time minor changes are necessary but let us keep what we have now.

"If any changes are to be mace, let them make them across the line (United States). We have a better game and the surface of its possibilities have only been scratched."

Hayman, who came here from Syracuse, N. Y., in 1932 and who formerly played with Syracuse University, visualized crowds of anywhere from 30,000 to 40,000 at Canadian football finals in the future.

"This is my first public word of appreciation to my kids," Hayman said. "A great bunch who won for me a Canadian championship in 1937 and the year just past. Football is my hobby, and I love it."

Hayman said he would like to see a uniform game for Canada. He deplored the fact that the Dominion could not have an intersectional final between the East and the West without one side handicapped by rules foreign to it.

The Argo coach, whose team defeated Winnipeg Blue Bombers to take the Dominion title the past two seasons, was lauded by several speakers.

GOLDEN LAUREL MAY BE VOTED TO DON BUDGE

By GEORGE M. R. HOLMES

Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, Jan. 17—There is still a valuable trophy to be awarded some member of the sports fraternity for the season of 1938. And who will be the winner is to be decided by ballots which were recently sent to 215 voters. This trophy takes in a much broader field than any of those yet given, as it is not only open to athletes, but it is also open to any executive officer who may have rendered conspicuous service to athletics. It is the "Golden Laurel" which is to be presented by the New York World's Fair. The award is to be made soon after the Fair opens April 30.

A POPULAR PASTIME

Awarding trophies and other honors to athletes is becoming more and more popular as the years go on. The James E. Sullivan Trophy for the outstanding amateur athlete, the Heisman Trophy for the oustanding college football player, the Lambert Trophy for the outstanding college football team, the naming of the leading amateur male athlete, the naming of the leading woman athlete, and the leading amateur or professional team have increased interest in every branch of sports, and, we predict that such awards will grow in popularity and number as the years go on.

BUDGE ONLY DOUBLE WINNER

It is interesting to note that Don Budge, the former world's greatest amateur tennis player, is the only athlete ever to win two awards. He was awarded the Sullivan Trophy in 1937 as the leading amateur athlete, and received the award of being the leading amateur or professional athlete of the Nation for 1938. Will he now become a triple winner by taking the "Golden Laurel"? The competition this time will be even more severe than it was in the others; but he certainly has a good chance of taking it, unless it goes to some executive officer.

A DIVERSITY OF VOTES

With so many eligible for the trophy and votes coming from all parts of the country, the ballots are expected to show a wide diversity of opinion. Especially as the year 1938 furnished many ahletic achievements which are worthy of special recognition. The margin of victory promises to be smaller than that by which any of the previous awards have been made, and the ultimate winner may well be regarded as having made the greatest contribution to American sports of every kind during the past year.

A FITTING EMBLEM

The Fair officials are to be congratulated for taking the laurel wreath for this trophy. Centuries ago it was used in the Olympic Games as the symbol of victory, and it is stil awarded to the winners of the events held in the modern Olympics. It reaffirms in a world that is continually getting away from old ideals that a victory gained over honorable opponents in an honorable way is being rewarded today by the same tokens of old.

BUDGE AS A PROFESSIONAL

Don Budge is now well on his career as a professional tennis player. Conditions of play are much different from those which prevailed in the amateur ranks; but he has already shown that he can adopt his game to the new conditions with success. Winning his first two matches from Vines no doubt caused considerable surprise, as it was generally believed that it would take a few matches to reach his best playing under the new condition; but he seems to have mastered the situation at the very start. That he will be able to hold his own against both Vines and Perry already seems assured; but we doubt if he is able to defeat them by any wide margin.

Horio Leaves Hankyu Nine; Returning To U.S.

Jimmy Fumito Horio, center fielder and clean-up hitter of the Osaka Hankyu professional baseball team, will return shortly to California, his contract with the Osaka club having expired.

Domei reports that he will enter the employ of the Standard Oil Company at Los Angeles through the good offices of Bucky Harris, former catcher of the Eagles, who returned recently to the United States.

YANKEES SCOUT SEES GOOD YEAR FOR ROOKIES

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 17—Johnny Nee, talent scout for the New York Yankees these 14 years, today expressed hope for a good crop of baseball rookies.

"This should be a good year," said the veteran who played 29 years in the minors before being signed to the Yankee scouting staff by Miler Huggins. "They seem to run in cycles. But if one boy out of a dozen we send up makes good, why that's almost batting .400 for the season."

Nee said the busines of scouting was getting more complicated each year, and blamed free hitting and the baseball farm system for the complications. Time was when you looked for pitcher who could pitch, he said, but today the pitcher must hit almost equally well with the outfielders if he is to be of full value to his team.

The farm system employed by most clubs also means that likely prospects are tagged long before they are ready for the big time, he declared.

"Why, even the class B clubs in the minors have their own scouting systems, and when you compete against these, the class A's, the class double A's and all the rest of the majors, you run up against the stiffest sort of competition.

"You hear of a good prospect, but unless you get there practicaly the same day you'll find that three other guys have been there before you."

Nee explained that under the Yankee system the scout devotes most of his attention to amateur talent. Nee covers the South. Paul Kirchell scours the East. Gene McCann has the middle Atlantic states, Bill Essick the middle West, Joe Devine the Southwest and Chick Fraser the Northwest.

"Every Spring I make the circuit of the campuses," Nee said, "picking out the lads to watch and occasionally maybe one who is ready for a tryout."

Each scout has other scouts out in the field reporting to him so that a player blossoming anywhere soon is brought to the attention of the New York club.

Nee, who knows a lot of people in organized baseball and receives numerous tips on prospective stars, has had no little success in his work. Such stars as Bill Dickey, Johnny Allen, Tommy Henrich, Dixie Walker, Bill Werber, Spud Chandler, and Sam Byrd were brought into the major league fold by Johnny Nee.

SEKIDO WINS ENDURANCE RACE IN SKIING MEET

Tsutomu Sekido of the Sapporo Railway Bureau, who competed in the Fourth Olympic Winter Games in 1936, won the 40-kilometer endurance race Friday in the opening event of the 17th annual national ski championships at Sapporo in Hokkaido. His time was 3 hours 17 minutes 48 seconds.

Sekido's victory came after a neck and race with Kan Tadano, also of the Sapporo Railway Bureau, the titleholder, whose time was 3 hours 21 minutes 58 seconds.

BLIZZARD BOTHERS ENTRANTS

A strong wind just before starting time plus a snowfall made it most difficult for the contestants. First to leave the mark was Tadano. Sekido followed him. At the halfway mark, Tadano was still in the lead, with Sekido a minute behind. Contestants from the universities and higher schools were left far behind. The course then running through a forest, Sekido displayed his ability, with his experience helping him considerably, and at the 30-kilometer mark, he was leading Tadano by two minutes, and incidentally clinching his victory. Tadano appeared tired from his spurt in the first half of the race.

Chitomi Ebiko of the Toyohara Federation in Karafuto clinched third place in 3 hours 23 minutes 54 seconds for a clean sweep by the contestants reared in the cold North.

The others placing within the first ten follow:

Fourth: Yukichi Murai (Sapporo Communications Office), 3 hours 31 minutes 3 seconds.

Fifth: Ginzo Yamada (Mitsui Sunagawa), 3 hours 31 minutes 42 seconds.

Sixth: Masao Oyanagi (Sapporo Communications Office), 3 hours 32 minutes 41 seconds.

Seventh: Morihiro Azaki (Mitsui Sunagawa), 3 hours 33 minutes 2 seconds.

Eighth: Kanetaro Suzuki (Sapporo Communications Office), 3 hours 36 minutes 20 seconds.

Ninth: Toshio Umeda (Meiji University), 3 hours 37 minutes 17 seconds.

Tenth: Yukichi Kitamura (Toyohara Federation), 2 hours 37 minutes 44 seconds.

DARKHORSE WINS

A darkhorse, Hirohira Kojima of the Takada Middle School won the title in the downhill race in 4 minutes 4.2 seconds.

Shigeo Hashimoto of the Otaru Commercial School and Takeshi Kanya of the Odomari Middle School were tied for second place with 4 minutes 18.2 seconds.

Miss Yoshiko Ishii of the Toyohara Higher Girls School won the women's downhill race in 3 minutes 35 seconds. Setsuko Kimoto of Otaru Higher Girls School and Atsuko Takimoto of the Iwamizawa Higher Girls School were tied for second in 3 minutes 43 seconds. Fourth was Miss Kiyoye Suetake, the former champion of the Otaru Skiing Club in 3 minutes 45.2 seconds.

Connie Mack Thinks New York Yankees Can Be Stopped

FORT MYERS, Fla., Jan. 16—Connie Mack crossed his long legs as he sat on a hard bench in the living room of his winter home here today and declared, without any apologies: "Those Yankees can be beaten."

The dean of managers, whose Philadelphia Athletics in olden years presented him with pennants in bunches, then elucidated:

"There were five teams in the American League last year besides the Yankees who were all pennant contenders. I don't say that St. Louis and the Athletics were in the fight, but they may be this year. And this year you're likely to see any one of those five teams giving the Yankees something to think about. They can be beaten, those Yankees."

It is not beyond the realm of possibility "that either the Indians or the Tigers or the Red Sox," if they fought like they did in 1938, "could give those Yankees a run for their money," he said.

Regarding the A's: "They'll be better than last year" Mack said, smiling. "Some of our veterans didn't hit their stride until mid-season. If they get going early this year, it'll be different. Besides, I've got a fine gang of youngsters and we're going to make trouble for those teams which think the first division belong to them. Why," he added, "I've got 30 rookie pitchers to pick from."

Mack said he was not thinking of disposing of Bill Werber. He might have been once, he added, but dropped the idea when he found he could not get what he wanted for him.

For a number of years, Mack's Athletics trained in Fort Myers, including his best teams in the early '30s. Though the Athletics have since trained in Texas, Mexico and Louisiana, the veteran pilot continues to spend his Winters here.

Budge Widens Lead On Tour With Vines

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 18—Donald Budge, world's amateur tennis champion, stepped out two matches ahead of Ellsworth Vines last night, taking just 40 minutes to blast the world's professional champion, 6—3, 6—3, in the tenth chapter of their cross-continental tour. It was Budge's sixth triumph.

Vines, erratic in dropping his second successive match, found only his service working. His driving forehand shots were long by inches and he netted frequently.

Budge used his superior backhand to good advantage in collecting 71 points to Vines' 50. A crowd of 3,500 saw the match.

Bruce Barnes of Texas defeated Dick Skeen of Hollywood, 6—2, 6—3, in the preliminary. Budge and Vines trimmed Barnes and Skeen in the doubles, 6—1, 6—2.

The troupe's next stop is Louisville, Ky.

BARROW NOW ABSOLUTE BOSS OF YANKEES

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—Edward G. Barrow, a powerful character in every way, is the new president and absolute dictator of the world champion New York Yankees.

As a fitting reward for nearly 20 years of service with the club as its secretary and business manager, Barrow was unanimously named to fill the vacancy created by the passing last Friday of Col. Jacob Ruppert, whose wealth combined with Barrow's baseball wisdom enabled them to create the Yankee empire.

FORTY YEARS IN BASEBALL

An active figure in baseball for more than 40 years and acknowledged to possess one of the shrewdest brains in the business, Barrow is the proper man to carry on the Yankee tradition of victory. Only in the most important matters, like for instance the sale of a Yankee property, will he consult with his three fellow trustees—George Ruppert, Frederick Grant and H. Garrison Silleck, Jr.

"There won't be any real change," he said last night. "I always made the decisions, and it was only very seldom that Colonel Ruppert questioned my judgment. I think we'll rock along about as usual. I wouldn't be surprised if we won another championship this year."

George Weiss, by Colonel Ruppert's express request, will continue as directing force of the vast Yankee farm system which he created and brought to its present perfection. He plans no immediate alterations in the system.

Barrow still is a strong, gusty individual. He was a fighting field leader for many a year before he moved into the Yankee organization. He is a member of the old school of baseball.

DEVELOPED BABE RUTH

Barrow developed two of the greatest stars the game has known, Honus Wagner and Babe Ruth. He considers Wagner, whom he sold for $2,100, the best ball player he ever saw, because "he could play more positions brilliantly than any of the others, including Ruth."

He managed the Babe in 1918 and 1919 when Ruth was with the Boston Red Sox, and was mainly responsible for converting Ruth from a pitcher into the greatest slugger of all outfielders. He handled the Babe with a heavy hand, and it is recorded that when they clashed it invariably was Ruth who backed down. After they both came to the Yankees, Barrow always growled at the huge salaries Ruth argued Ruppert into paying him.

Barrow was born at Springfield Ill., and in his younger days was for a time city editor of the Des Moines Leader at $35 a week. Later he was a highly unsuccessful soap salesman in Pennsylvania before turning up as manager of the Paterson (N. J.) club of the Atlantic League in the middle 90's. That was where he uncovered Wagner.

NIGHT GAME IN '06

"Believe me or not, we played a night game at Wilmington one night in 1906," he recalled. "It must have been one of the first. We used old-fashioned arc-lights, and you couldn't see any too well. Anyway, the opposing pitcher, Doc Almoe, sneaked in with a torpedo nearly as big as a baseball and threw it up to Wagner. Hans hit it, and as soon as he recovered from the explosion he started after Almoe. We never did get the game started again."

As president of the Atlantic League for four years, Barrow recalls proudly that he once had John L. Sullivan, James J. Corbett and a lady pitcher named Lizzie Arlington touring his circuit, playing with first one team then another. He thought the stunt up to keep the League alive during the Spanish-American War. John L. umpired and Corbett played a better-than-fair first base.

Later, Barrow was to manage Toronto, Detroit, Indianapolis and Montreal and hold down the presidency of the International League for seven years before taking over the job at Boston, where Ruppert found him and signed him up.

Kiyohara Elected Rikkyo Nine Captain

Third Baseman Hatsuo Kiyohara will lead the Rikkyo University ball team through the Spring and Fall seasons of the Tokyo Six University league this year. His election as captain was announced by the team Friday.

Kiyohara is a graduate of the Takao Middle School in Taiwan.

Nobu Aoki was elected chief manager of the team with Kyojiro Miyako as his assistant.

MICHIGAN TEAMS DOMINATE IN BIG TEN SPORTS

Christian Science Monitor

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—The return to power last Fall of Michigan's football team served to climax a calendar year in which Wolverine team representatives continued to dominate the Western Conference in all-sports competition and established themselves as leaders in intra-state and inter-sectional competition.

Michigan teams during the past year won three Big Ten championships and tied for a fourth in 10 sports (including indoor and outdoor track meets) and garnished that record with the National Collegiate A. A. swimming championship.

The Conference titles were won by the track team, indoors and outdoors. It also placed third in the national meet, and by the wrestling team, while the hockey team for the second year shared a title with Minnesota on the basis of their four-game series for Conference honors.

Those titles enabled the Wolverines to establish an average ranking of 3.1 in Big Ten championship competition in 10 sports, football, basketball, indoor and outdoor track, baseball, hockey, wrestling, swimming, golf and tennis. Ohio State followed Michigan in the all-sports championship rating.

The Michigan football team tied for second and the swimming team gained a second in the Conference. The Wolverine golf team was third in the annual tournament, the basketball team tied for fifth last year, the baseball team finished seventh and the tennis team eighth.

In dual competition in all sports Michigan teams finished with an average of .661, winning 30 contests and losing 41 during the year. Three engagements were tied.

In Conference dual competition Michigan teams won 30 and lost 23 engagements. Outstanding in dual competition was the intersectional record of 17 wins against five defeats. In intra-state competition Michigan won 18 times while losing seven.

One Stroke Worth $1,200 to Chicago Star at Oakland

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 17—One stroke was worth $1,200 to Dick Metz, Chicago golf professional when he beat Ernest J. Harrison of Oak Park, Ill., in an 18-hole playoff for first money in the third annual Oakland $5,000 open tournament yesterday.

Metz carded a 69, one below par for the Sequoyah course, while Harrison came in with a 70.

The two pros were tied with 274 each when the tournament was supposed to have wound up Sunday, necessitating an extra round. For five days' work the Oak Park shotmaker collected $750.

Metz was out in 34, one below par and came home on the last nine with a 35. Harrison shot 35 on both nines.

One behind at the 18th, Harrison had a chance of forcing the match into an extra hole. He dropped his approach shot within three feet of the cup and Metz's ball landed six feet from the flag. But Metz dropped his putt to take the match.

Both players got an additional $150 each for their troubles when they divided yesterday's gate receipts.

CORNELL BEATS YALE QUINTET BY 41-36 SCORE

N.Y. Times

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 18.—Rallying in the second half and holding the slenderest of margins during the final ten minutes, Cornell's five tonight defeated Yale by 41—36 in an Eastern Intercollegiate League contest. It was Yale's third consecutive league defeat and its sixth of the season in seven starts.

Jim Bennett, with 13 points, and Captain Walter Foertsch, with 12, led the victors in scoring. George Page was top man for the Blue with 10.

Coach Ken Loeffler presented a revised Yale line-up, sending Erickson to forward and Cobb to guard. Zilly, the only Eli substitute of the first half, was switched from forward to center. Yale stepped immediately into a 6-2 lead and then the teams played evenly until the final five minutes of the first half, when a brilliant scoring streak by Kellogg and Cobb gave the Blue a 21—16 advantage.

Page's one-handed distance backhand toss from a bad angle was the most spectacular scoring shot of the half. Cobb, with three field baskets and a foul, led the Yale scorers for the session. Kellogg tallied 6 points. Foertsch's 5 points on a field goal and three fouls topped the Ithacans.

NORTON GOES TO CENTER

Two foul tosses by Erickson opened the second half. On Leonard's and Ramsey's dazzling long heaves from the floor and Leonard's toss from foul, Cornell quickly cut down Yale's lead to 23—22. Kellogg's short basket relieved the tension, but for the first time the Ithacans had the count when Foertsch tossed a clever goal and next a shot from foul, knotting the score at 25—all.

Cornell had a short-lived one-point lead on Ramsey's foul basket, but Erickson's response gave Yale a one-point advantage, 27—26. Stevens retired on four personal fouls and Norton, convalescent from a long illness, went to center for Yale. Foertsch's field and foul baskets again placed the Ithacans ahead. Page's basket cut Cornell's lead to 30—29.

With five minutes left, Byrnes set the Yale crowd cheering with the tying field basket, making it 36—all, but Bennett's under-basket shot broke the knot as they began the final minute with three Yale regulars rushing back into the line-up. Bennett's short toss added 2 points in the last half minute and Polzer's foul gave Cornell a 41-36 Victory.

FUTABAYAMA PICKS BRIDE

The smile above of the usually poker-faced Futabayama, strongest Japanese wrestler in competition today and still only 28 years old, is plenty proof of his happiness in becoming engaged to Miss Sumiko Koshiba, 23, of Osaka, a millionairess in her own right. The engagement, which broke the hearts of thousands of admirers among the fair sex of the good-looking grand champion, was announced Saturday night. Only recently, a vernacular newspaper carried what then seemed a scoop that Futabayama and Miss Chiyoko Okura, movie actress of the Nikkatsu Productions, were to be married shortly. Then there have been rumors that the grand champion would eventually be married to one of the two charming daughters of his teacher and manager, Tachinami.

To the news reporters Saturday night, Miss Koshiba, who presently is making her home temporarily in Tokyo, said she is marrying the man, Futabayama, and not the grand champion. They met last year. They will be married early in May.

Miss Koshiba is a graduate of the Tennoji Girls High School in Osaka. She also finished the whole course at Shoin Women's College.

Mungo Praises Leo Durocher, New Dodger Chief

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 14—Van Lingle Mungo, heir apparent to baseball's holdout crown, spoke his piece today about the Brooklyn Dodgers' "ridiculous" salary offers—but the pitcher had a word of praise for Leo Durocher, the new manager.

"They didn't raise me $11,000 at a clip and they aren't gonna cut me that much in one year," said the big right-hander whose fireball cooled off so much last season he won only four games.

"That much of a cut is ridiculous and some one is guessing wrong if they expect me to sign a $5,000 contract. And what's more, I won't take any more of those bonus contracts, either.

"Get one of those things and what happens? They won't let you work to get your bonus.

"Brooklyn will have to lay it on the line or they can find me at my home in Pageland, S. C., all Summer. I'll just keep sending those contracts back until some one comes across."

Mungo and the Dodgers had the first round of their annual salary fight before he came here from Pageland to become an instructor in Joe Stripp's baseball school.

Brooklyn sent him a contract for $5,000 and the hot-tempered pitcher fired it right back. A second contract, which he put in the mail unsigned last night, was believed to have added an offer of a bonus if Mungo wins a specified number of games.

There was a lot of cheer for the Dodgers faithful in Mungo's assertion that his ailing pitching arm blamed for his disappointing performance last year, is feeling "young and healthy."

"But let me tell you one thing, whether I'm with the club or not when the season opens, I'm pulling all the way for Leo Durocher. He'll make a great manager because he never was a guy to pass the buck.

"If Lippy's wrong he'll admit it where a lot of other guys will call you a dirty so-and-so for something that's their fault.

"Yeah, and let me tell you something else. I mean what I said about Durocher. I ain't trying to soft soap anybody into giving me a raise.

"And I ain't taking any $11,000 cut, either."

ASAKI WINS NATIONAL SKI JUMPING TITLE

Fumio Asaki, a youngster of the Hokkaido Commercial School, is the new ski jumping champion of Japan. He won the supreme honors Sunday in the final day of the 17th annual ski championships at Sapporo by leaping 66 and 67.50 meters for 226.8 points.

Second was Masaji Iguro of the Sapporo Railway Bureau with jumps of 60 and 65 meters for 218.9 points. Third was Matsutaro Wakamoto of the Toyohara Federation of Karafuto with leaps of 59 and 64 meters for 216.7 points.

Asaki's jump of 67.50 meter was the longest without a spill. Kanno of the Odaru Higher Commercial School cleared 71 meters in his second jump but he fell after skiing 20 meters from his landing point.

Tokio Kubo of the Odaru Middle School won the junior ski jumping title with 222.5 meters, with distances of 65.50 and 60 meters. Second was Suyeo Okumura of the Sapporo Commercial School with 213.3 points, leaping 58 and 58.50 meters. Third was Yoshio Murakami of the Hokkaido Middle School with 208.8 points, with jumps of 59 and 63 meters.

The Toyohara Federation won the relay for the second straight year in 3 hours 10 minutes 4 seconds. The times of the team members were: Ito, 49 minutes 21 seconds; Ebiko, 47 minutes 37 seconds; Endo, 47 minutes 15 seconds; Sato, 45 minutes 51 seconds.

Kurao Kuji of Waseda won the combined ski running and jumping event for men for the second straight year with 450.8 points. Tokito Sakada of Keio was second with 448.9 points, and Yutaka Kamegamori of Hokkaido University third with 425.7 points.

Suyeo Okumura of the Sapporo Commercial School was second with 165.2 points, his times being 1 minute 20.8 seconds and 1 minute 24.4 seconds. Third was Kinnojo Wakao of the Takada Middle School with 166.4 seconds with times of 1 minute 21.2 seconds and 1 minute 25.2 seconds.

Tadayoshi Sato of the Toyohara Federation won the men's long distance championship in 1 hour 21 minutes 17 seconds, barely nosing out Shinichi Masuda of Niigata, whose time was 1 hour 21 minutes 48 seconds. Kinsaku Yamada of the Aomori Forestry Club was third in 1 hour 21 minutes 50 seconds.

Miss Keiko Sato of the Asahigawa Higher Girl School of the Hokkaido captured the women's slalom title with the time of 2 minutes 29.6 seconds. Miss Hanaoka of the Odate Girls School nosed out Miss Suyetake of the Otaru Skiing Club, last year's champion, for second place with time of 2 minutes 34 seconds. Miss Suyetake's time was 2 minutes 37.2 seconds.

The combined downhill and slalom title also went to Miss Sato with 362.8 points.

Suyeo Okumura of the Sapporo Commercial School won the title in the men's new combined event with 407.9 points.

BOSTON BEATS TORONTO SIX, 2-1

N.Y. Times

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—Eddie Shore, the National Hockey League's erstwhile "bad man" gave a demonstration of his oldtime rough-and-ready tactics tonight while his Bruins strengthened their hold on first place by defeating Toronto, 2—1, before an overflow crowd of 16,000 at the Boston Garden.

Shore picked his favorite sparring partner, Red Horner, the Leafs' burly defense man, as his opponent for his first fistic battle of the season. They started swapping punches after a first-period bumping match, and both drew major penalties.

Before those turbulent secondaries were banished, Roy Conacher of the Bruins showed them the way to the penalty box after tripping a rival. While he was off, Gordon Drillon counted the Toronto goal by finishing off a combination play that included Syl Apps and Murph Chamberlain.

As Shore and Horner rested, they were joined by Chamberlain and the Bruins, playing five against four, tied the score on Milt Schmidt's accurate shot during the seventeenth minute of play.

The deadlock lasted until the fourteenth minute of the finale, when Ray Getliffe, from five feet out, registered from a long forward pass that Flash Hollet sent from the left side of the Toronto blue line. During the last minutes, a slight fire broke out in one of the electric clocks, causing a short-circuit that put the bell out of commission.

The line-up:

	Boston (2)	Toronto (1)
Goal	Brimsek	Broda
Defense	Portland	McDonald
Defense	Shore	Hamilton
Center	Schmidt	Apps
Wing	Dumart	Davidson
Wing	Bauer	Drillon

Spares

Boston—Cowley, Sands, Getliffe, Clapper, Crawford, Hollett, Weiland, Hill, Conacher, Pettinger.

Toronto—Romnes, Kelly, Jackson, Horner, Kampman, Chamberlain, Metz, Parsons, Mann.

Scoring

First Period: 1, Toronto, Drillon (Chamberlain, Apps) 6:07; 2, Boston, Schmidt (Dumart, Bauer) 16:06. Second Period: No scoring. Third Period: 3, Boston, Getliffe (Hollett) 13:12.

Penalties: Horner, Chamberlain, Hamilton, Hallett, Conacher, Portland, 2 minutes each. Shore, Horner, 5 minutes each. Portland, 10 minutes.

Peak of Generosity

"Is he charitable?"

"Oh, yes. He donates $25 to a worthy charity every time he makes a hole-in-one."

BOOM SEEN FOR HARNESS RACING IN U.S.

By E. ROLAND HARRIMAN
President of Grand Circuit

Light harness horse racing, which enjoyed one of its best seasons in 1938, definitely is headed for bigger and better things in 1939 if for no other reason than it is to be sponsored by one organization for the first time in history.

The formation of the United States Trotting Association during the closing days of 1938 and the early part of this year was the most outstanding forward step ever taken by the light harness sport. It means much more than just the merging of the National, United and American Trotting Register Associations.

Whereas in the past the parent bodies were composed of various track associations alone, the new organization is one that also includes owners, breeders and trainers, all working for the improvement of the sport. I don't see how the sport can fail to prosper with one set of conditions designed to please the public by proper regulation of the conduct of racing and with only one registration cetificate required

IN FAVORED BY UNITS

True, the American Trotting Association has not approved the new set-up, but so many of its individual units have gone on record as favoring the U. S. T. A. that I look for it to come in officially within a short time. Directors have been elected and are serving from the American's territory along with representatives from all our eleven districts, each of which has three members on the board.

In the naming of G. W. Rittenour of Piketon, Ohio, as president and Frank Wiswall of Albany as executive vice-president and secretary, the new association selected wisely. Both men know the sport and have its best interests at heart.

With this set-up and last year's record as a criterion, I look for a prosperous season for the smaller circuits as well as the Grand Circuit. Bidding was lively in the 1938 yearling marts, indicating an increased interest in obtaining a good trotter or pacer.

WILL SEEK BETTER MARKS

Greyhound and Billy Direct, two of the horses responsible for the eight new world records last year, will be back seeking still faster marks. It wouldn't be surprising to me if Billy Direct went below the 1:55 pacing mark he established in 1938 and if Greyhound beat his own world trotting record of 1:55¼.

Although the dates have not been set, I look for the Grand Circuit to have another complete program, with the seventeen stakes sponsored by the Trotting Horse Club of America bringing the best of the horses into action. The Hambletonian has drawn a field of forty-five of the ranking 3-year-olds, with Nibble Hanover the Winter book choice.

However, the 2-year-olds were so evenly matched in 1938 that any one of a cozen might improve enough to take down the major share of the $40,000 purse at Goshen's Good Time Park in August. That's the way it goes in this sport.

HORIGUCHI WINS BY T.K.O. IN 10TH FROM PINEDA

Chris Pineda, Filipino ballyhooed as the featherweight boxing champion of the Philippines, was a terrible disappointment in his bout against Tsuneo (Piston) Horiguchi, Japan's best known fighter, Sunday night at the Kokugikan wrestling bowl at Ryogoku. Horiguchi won on a technical knockout in the tenth round of the scheduled 12 rounder.

The Filipino had no spirit to fight. And he certainly was not the Pineda that made a creditable showing in Japan several years ago. He was guilty of holding and clinching all through the fight. As Horiguchi came boring in with a two-fisted attack, Pineda fell into a clinch and held on to Horiguchi's right arm.

The fight was prolonged longer than expected because Horiguchi, overanxious to put his opponent away as soon as possible, lost some of the kick in his punches by continuously landing punches on Pineda, who covered up in the corner.

Only on two or three occasions did Pineda swing left and right hooks at Horiguchi's face. Some of the ringsiders were of the opinion that the bout should have been stopped at the end of the third round.

Both Pineda and Horiguchi weighed in at 124.5 pounds.

Matsuo (Tiger) Amino, 147 pounds, decisioned Motoshige Murata, 147 pounds, in the eight round semi-final.

Taro Aizawa of the Kansai, 126 pounds, and Toshiro Aoki of the Fuji Club, 126 pounds, fought to a draw over eight rounds.

Takeo Ishida of the Shinko Club, 109 pounds, decisioned Yoshiyasu Kusumoto of the Fuji Club, 112 pounds, in the other eight round bout of the card.

LUCAS GIVEN GATE BY PIRATES

N.Y. Times

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 16—Charles Fred (Ol' Rosebud) Lucas has hit the come-down trail at last.

The Tennessean, who campaigned for fifteen years in the National League, mostly with Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, got his unconditional release today from President Bill Benswanger of the Pirates. Lucas will be 37 years old in April.

In a letter accompanying the release the Pirates' executive wrote that "one of the hardest jobs a fellow in my position has to do is to write like this," and added:

"For several years we have thoroughly enjoyed our association with you and it has been a real pleasure to have you on our club.

"But the life of a ball player is such that all things come to an end and it is with keen and extreme regret that we enclose herewith the official notice of your unconditional release."

Lucas may catch on with another major league club. Down through the years Ol' Rosebud has been pitching and pinch-hitting with the best in the big time and has been one of the most valuable men in a tight ball game baseball has known. Lucas, in his National League career, hung up 157 victories and was on the losing end 135 times.

His best year for victories, was 1929, when he won nineteen for Cincinnati. His top campaign for effectiveness was 1932, when he had an earned run average of 2.84. At the plate Handy-Man Lucas holds a major league record, having made 117 pinch hits in 426 times at bat in 479 games.

The Reds, who traded Lucas to Pittsburgh, should be glad Ol' Rosebud won't be with the Pirates this year. He hurled the Pirates to fourteen straight victories over his former team-mates. It was with Cincinnati that Lucas established a record of pitching 250 1-3 consecutive innings without being relieved. He made that mark from Aug. 13, 1931, to July 15, 1932.

Lucas pitched in 396 games and a total of 2,543 innings in the majors. Last season he won six games and lost three, starting thirteen and completing four.

SAYS HE'S STILL GOOD

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 16—Taking his release from the Pirates in good spirits, Charles Fred Lucas said today he felt he was "good for four or five more years in the majors."

Lucas, a resident of Nashville, declared he was in top physical condition—"in shape to take my turn with any club I happen to sign with."

"I intend to shop around and believe that I will stay in the majors," Lucas said. "I'm open for offers and hope to sell my services to some National League club."

14,000 ON HAND AS SONJA HENIE OPENS 1939 SEASON IN NEW YORK

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK Jan. 17.—Miss Sonja Henie's Hollywood Ice Revue of 1939, the latest in figure-skating entertainment, had a gala presentation, first of the season at Madison Square Garden, last night before 14,000.

One of the most popular personalities in the sport, Miss Henie repeated the success that has marked her appearance in the huge arena on other occasions.

From the moment she appeared in a sparkling costume of silver sequins for an early program of dances until she skated in the colorful "Alice in Wonderland," Miss Henie, as was expected, dominated the show.

NOVELTIES IN FAVOR

As more and more ice carnivals are presented spectators receive more enthusiastically the many novelties that are introduced. Last night's performance marked the first time so great a variety of dances has been seen on a "skating" program.

The waltz and ten-step have long been part of most figure skaters' repertoires. However, Miss Henie's cast contributed something new when eight young ladies in a number called "tropic fantasies" danced the hula-hula to Hawaiian music.

Miss Henie's international skating never included a pair until this present production began its nation-wide tour. Last night was the first occasion that New York has seen Miss Henie and a partner do a specialty. In a tango she and Stewart Reburn, the talented Toronto skater, stopped the show.

They had to give four encores, then the tremendous ovation interrupted the announcer until Miss Henie and Reburn came back to the ice for a final bow.

ACCUSTOMED TO APPLAUSE

It was not a new experience for Reburn despite the fact that he has been a professional skater for only a short while. With Miss Louise Bertram as his partner, Reburn was the hit of the charity figure-skating carnival presented here last Spring.

Last night Miss Henie and Reburn were a grand pair. The rhythm and coordination of their skating stamped this phase of the show as one of the finest bits seen all evening and merited the enthusiastic reception.

Much of the early part of the show followed what might be called a night club pattern. Well-drilled groups gave their version of the Lambeth Walk, the Suzi-Q and the Rhumba. One might have forgot that it was being done on skates.

However, the old-fashioned waltz was not overlooked, for the airs of "The Blue Danube" found familiar, enthusiastic response in a lovely number called "Evening in Vienna." The cast, costumed in white and gold, provided a background for the leading lady, who appeared to skate with more charm than ever.

BALLETS WELL STAGED

Miss Henie's skating to "Liebestraum," always one of her favorites, was done with exquisite grace and was one of the bright spots on the program. The "Snow Maiden" ballet from the opera by Rimsky-Korsakoff was well staged and the maypole scene, with phosphorescent lighting, was striking.

The "Alice in Wonderland" number brought out the entire cast, attired as characters of the Carroll masterpiece, with Sonja as Alice being carried on a red and white throne in the grand finale.

Tiny evergreens bordered the rink, which was trimmed with blue and white to create an appropriate atmosphere of ice and snow.

Although there were some empty seats, many persons made it a point to be present at this first night as standees. The ticket sale, ranging from $4.40 to $1.10 standing room, was acceptable to hundreds who wanted to get their first glimpse of Sonja.

Judging from some of the comments, there were some spectators who had been following Miss Henie's career in motion pictures but who had not seen her skate in person.

One of the comedy skits, the "Merry Widow," evoked laughter, the "widow" and her army officer partner skating a take-off on the other waltz numbers.

In a novel introductory scene the cast was introduced in a fashion revue. The men's outfits were uniform; the women wore colorful ski and skating costumes.

Space Needed

"Hullo, John," said the genial vicar, "out for a stroll?"

BEST PAIR SKATERS IN WORLD

Miss Maxi Herber and Ernst Baier of Germany who recently retained their title as the world's champion pair skaters.

COLLEGE STARS DOMINATE ALL-AMERICA TRACK SQUAD

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The extent to which colleges have displaced athletic clubs as a breeding ground for outstanding track and field performers is emphasized once again with the publication today of the 1938 all-America team selected by Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the National Amateur Athletic Union.

From 60 meters through 5,000, Glenn Cunningham is the only runner not of the current college crop who breaks into Ferris' lineup. The amazing Kansan, as indoor and outdoor champion, naturally gets the 1,500-meter assignment.

JEFFREY EXCEPTION

Seventeen collegians are given 21 of the 38 berths on the all-star team, and all but one of them are National champions either indoor or out. The lone exception is Clyde Jeffrey of Riverside (Calif.) Junior College, named top man at 200 meters despite the fact he got only third place in the Nationals at Buffalo last Summer. He was chosen on his exceptional seasonlong record and his 200-meter victory in a dual meet with Germany at Berlin.

Four of the college stars are nominated for two events each: Ben Johnson of Columbia for the 60-meter and 100-meter sprints, Fred Wolcott of Rice Institute for the 110-meter and 200-meter hurdles, Don Lash of Indiana for the 5,000-meter and cross-country runs, and Irving Folwartshny, blond Rhode Island State giant, for the 35-lb. weight throw and the hammer throw. Wolcott still is in school, while Johnson is teaching in New Jersey, Lash is a member of the Indiana State Police force, and Folwartshny also has been graduated.

Thirteen of the college athletes, some of whom represented clubs in the National championships but still gained their greatest fame in school, were honored doubly by being placed on the all-America and the all-college teams. This group includes Johnson, Ray Malott, Woodruff, Wolcott, Jack Patterson, Bill Lacefield, Frank Ryan, Folwartshny, Pete Zagar, Nick Vukmanic and Joe Scott.

Canada Retains World's Ice Hockey Title

Domei Tsushin

BURICH, Switzerland, Feb. 12—Canada won the world's ice hockey championship today by running roughshod over the United States, four goals to nil, in the finals, to retain its title.

Despite an extra period, the Czechoslovak and Swiss ice hockey teams, in a bitterly-contested match, battled to a scoreless tie in the finals of the European ice hockey championships staged here. Play-off is scheduled for tomorrow.

The winner also will be given third place in the world rankings, and the loser fourth place.

Senators Expect Chief Executive

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—Clark Griffith, President of the Washington Senators, headed south today without signing up his most famous pitcher—Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States.

"I'm not worrying," said Griffith. "He'll be out there throwing the first ball. If we didn't have any more pitching problems than him, we'd be set."

Three months from today, Griffith's going to count heavily on the President to make the first pitch of the 1939 baseball season. It will be Mr. Roosevelt's seventh annual start.

"He's our best pitcher, too," said Griffith. "Look at his record—six times he's pitched for us and we've won 'em all but one."

CANADIENS TIE AMERICANS, 1-1 AT GARDEN

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—Lorne Carr's second period goal saved the New York Americans from defeat in their National Hockey League game with the Canadiens of Montreal at Madison Square Garden last night. The score enabled the Dutton Dusters to draw on even terms and eventually forced proceedings into overtime, which ended with the teams still dead-locked at 1 to 1.

A tally by Abe Blake, also in the middle period, gave the Canadiens an advantage, but they held it only five minutes before Carr came through with a scintillating thrust from the right alley. The Canadiens bitterly protested the goal, mainstaining that it had been preceded by an off-side, but all their arguments were to no avail.

The game was the second between the teams in two nights, they having played to a 1-to-1 tie also in Montreal on Saturday. Last night's battle was witnessed by 11,011 spectators, who derived comparatively little enjoyment from the encounter.

Both teams were obviously tired, and the pace they set was far from torrid. Only in the second period, when the Americans charged savagely in their endeavor to tie, were there any thrill-producing moments.

CANADIENS FORCE ACTION

On territorial play, the Canadiens had a great advantage. They carried the action all through the battle, foreing Earl Robertson to work hard to protect the Americans cage.

It was plain through the third period and the overtime that the New Yorkers were content with the tie, for they made few aggressive moves. The case was different with the Canadiens, however. They wasted few opportunities to rush, and were trying to win until the very last second.

In the first period the Canadiens trained a sustained fire on the Duttonmen's net, coming close to beating Robertson several times. The Americans made only two heavy drives through the period, but were unable to do anything against Wilfie Cude, who was back in the cage for the Northerners.

The invaders continued to force the going through the middle chapter, save for a space when Babe Siebert was in the penalty box. Then the Americans staged a five-man rush and almost capitalized on their advantage on a fast shot by Nels Stewart.

After Siebert's return the Habitants resumed the attack, at length breaking Robertson down. Paul Haynes and Bill Summerhill broke away and skated well into New York ice before transferring to Blake. The latter, in the center, neatly pulled Robertson out of position and drilled the disk into the cords with a short shot in 10:26.

SCHRINER PASSES TO CARR

The marker spurred the Americans to aggressive efforts and they sent five men repeatedly into Canadien ice. Siebert broke up an advance near his blue line but lost the puck to Jerwa, who quickly relayed to Sweeney Schriner on the left. Schriner passed across the rink to Carr, who drove a high shot past Cude in 15:34.

Through the third period the Canadiens had the better of the going. They had several good scoring opportunities, but could not find the net.

Early in the overtime the New Yorkers had a splendid chance when Wiseman skated in alone on the right. He had Cude at his mercy, but released a high drive that struck the Canadien goalie on the head.

Just before the end Herbie Cain was in alone on Robertson. He seemed headed for a certain score, only to see his short thrust from the right miraculously blocked.

The Canadiens were woefully handicapped by injuries, George Mantha, Stew Evans and Johnny Gagnon all being unavailable.

Only four penalties were called, two against each sextet.

PRINCETON, N.J., Jan. 18—An inspired Princeton quintet surprised by toppling Columbia's talented team, 32 to 27, in the second Eastern Intercollegiate League start for both squads in the university gymnasium tonight. Each has a victory and a loss in the circuit.

The Orange and Black started slowly but accumulated a 22-to 16 advantage at half time mainly through the work of the seniors, Captain Giles Scofield and Eddie Hobler, who accounted for 14 consecutive points. The Lions came back strongly, but Scofield warded them off with Deva Lloyd's aid.

Scofield led the scoring with five baskets and two fouls for 12 points. Sam Retano was high for the invaders with 9.

Princeton drew first blood when Scofield sank a foul in the first minute, but the Lions went ahead a moment later on a pair of free shots and a long basket by Retano. Columbia kept its slim lead safe until Ed Hobler hit the netting from the count, 9—all.

RETANO TALLIES AGAIN

Scofield then made three field goals for the Tigers on a pair of pivot plays and a rebound off the boards. Retano added another looping shot for the Lions but Scofield and Hobler kept Nassau in front by nabbing a loose ball to tally and sinking a long shot.

After 15 minutes Princeton led, 19 to 12. Medvedeff made the first Columbia tally in 5 minutes with a long side shot. Stewart intercepted a Lion pass and dashed the length of the court to count a minute later and Retano converted two penalty throws as the half ended with Princeton in the van, 22 to 16.

The Orange and Black's improved defense continued to keep its basket out of danger and strong Columbia guarding left both teams without a floor shoot until Meyerholz caromed a loose ball off the boards after five minutes. Anderson came right back with a one-handed basket for the visitors, but Meyerholz sank a long side shot to make the score 27 to 20.

LIONS STAGE RALLY

The New Yorkers rallied strongly when Macioce tallied his first points from outside the foul circle and Anderson repeated. Green scored from the side for the Tigers, but Columbia continued to force the play.

A field goal and a foul by Myers and a basket by Medvedeff cut the seven minutes to go. The Light Blue fought hard, but both teams went scoreless until the last minute, when a Lloyd-Scofield combination put Princeton out of danger, 31 to 27. Green added a Tiger free shot as the whistle blew.

SONJA HENIE'S MAGIC TURNS ICE INTO GOLD

By HARRY CROSS

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—The magic of Sonja Henie's skating turned ice into gold at Madison Square Garden last week. Gross receipts of $225,000 for six performances prove that she can do marvelous tricks with the yellow metal.

Everybody around the Garden signed with relief when the engagement ended last night before a jammed crowd of 16,000 spectators. It has been a hectic week with the girls on the switchboard establishing a new record of handling 25,000 calls about the ice revue in ten days. One day last week there were 4,000 calls.

NOT AT MADISON SQUARE

The nature of most of these calls showed that the people telephoning were not accustomed to attending Garden affairs. Many wanted to know where Madison Square was and when informed that the Garden wasn't in Madison Square, that didn't clear up matters any.

One of the operators had to explain to an inquisitive woman, "To get to Madison Square Garden, you don't go to Madison Square. Go to Fiftieth Street and Eighth Avenue." Just before the woman hung up, she replied, "Ridiculous."

Yesterday there was a call from a man who seemed to be a bit excited, asking for tickets. "We're sold out," he was told. "How much are those?" he asked as the telephone operator reached for the smelling salts.

Miss Henie slipped and fell on the ice Friday night for the first time in three years. Just to complete the jinx circle of three tumbles two other skaters fell during Friday night's performance.

Last night Miss Katharine Hepburn, who is taking figure skating lessons from Wily Boeckl at the Skating Club, greeted Miss Henie in her dressing room. Miss Henburn didn't quite know whether she as a skater was greeting Miss Henie as a film star, or whether she as a film star was greeting Miss Henie as a skating star.

The real heroine of the Hollywood Ice Revue was Miss Ann Taylor, of Los Angeles, who skated through every performance with a broken toe. One of the boys in the troupe skated over her foot in Cleveland and broke the large toe of her left foot. She could hardly walk when she came to New York.

Although she couldn't walk, she decided that she could skate. A special skating boot was made for her equipment with a plaster cast in which the big toe nestled. So Miss Ann Taylor didn't miss a performance. It was painful at times, but she is too enthusiastic about skating to mind a little thing like that.

NEW ADDITION

Miss Mary Taylor, Ann's sister, is one of the new additions to the revue. Mary Taylor is one of the best figure skaters developed on the West Coast and two years ago, at the nationals in Chicago, she finished well up among the junior competitors of the country.

The addition of accomplished figure skaters made Miss Henie's show this year far better than it has been before. Best of the new skaters is Stewart Reburn, of Toronto, whose tango with Miss Henie proved to be the oustanding offering of the revue. It is the first time Miss Henie has skated in an exhibition pair number and Reburn's smooth, swaying ice dancing harmonized with her musical rhythm.

Last night, as on previous nights, several hundred were turned away from the Garden box office windows. The arena where many and sundry types of sports and entertainment are offered has never before been stampeded with so many people who were anxious to pay $4.40 to enter the portals.

Yesterday Col. John Reed Kilpatrick had a telephone call. "Hello," he answered, "who is this?"

"You ought to know," came a soft pleasant voice, "I've been skating in your Madison Square Garden all week."

It was Miss Henie trying to buy some tickets for her own show and couldn't get them.

SKIING CRAZE HITS AMERICA

The current popularity of skiing in the United States has prompted the Central Branch Y. W. C. A. of New York City to institute a course in skiing for beginners, indoors, without blades or snow. The mysteries of the herringbone, side step, kick turn, snow plow, telemark and Christiana are taught as well as scientific, easy falling. Photo shows them learning how to fall: don't fight your tumble, relax, take it easy.

FRENCH LIKED U.S. FOOTBALL, CROWLEY SAYS

By ROBERT F. KELLEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—James (Sleepy Jim) Crowley, Fordham's football coach, returned to these shores yesterday aboard the United States liner American Farmer after leading the first expedition to France of American college football players. Most of the players returned earlier, Crowley remaining abroad to take a brief trip to Ireland and England before boarding the Farmer in London for the voyage home.

Looking extremely well, Crowley was accompanied by his wife and Glen (Judge) Carberry, his assistant at Fordham who aided in directing the players on the trip. Hubert Schulze, the old Columbia end and punter, remained abroad to study.

"We had a good trip and a very interesting one," said Crowley, "though I must admit we saw plenty of weather. We had a good day in a town called Narbonne, but it rained in Paris and Lyons and snowed in Toulouse and Bordeaux and was colder than the oldest inhabitant could remember in Marseilles. Even so, the boys played to the better part of 75,000 and there was a great deal of enthusiasm."

BACK TO WORK AT FORDHAM

The Fordham coach grinned when asked what his immediate plans were.

"I'm going up to Fordham tomorrow, "and look over the freshmen and get things lined up for a start of Spring practice on March 1. I've had my fun; now I'm going back to work."

Crowley said there were no plans for repeating the trip next year. He added, however, that Jean Galia, who is an outstanding rugby player in France and who was a prime mover in bringing the players to France, was considering the idea of taking an American coach to France early next Fall to teach a team of Frenchmen who might then repay the visit with a tour of this country.

The Fordham coach said his party was disappointed at finding the original plan of playing against French teams had to be abandoned because the French had not learned enough of the game. That left the necessity of splitting the squad into two teams for the exhibitions and there were only two substitutes on hand after this was done.

HAD PLENTY OF FUN

"It was great fun coaching and, I think, playing, because the pressure was all off," Crowley said. "They were good football players and the tackling and blocking was excellent. The backs were good, too, but we tried things that would turn a coach's hair gray if they were attempted in American football. The French liked it, though, and I don't think it is too far from possible that the game might be made to go over in that country."

He had no comment to make on complaints of some returning players that traveling and living conditions were not too good over there, but agreed that it was great to get home.

"I think maybe I'm a little overweight," he said. "But I'll soon fix that when I get back to work. I think we have some good prospects at Fordham, but don't ask me to say anything again after I've looked things over at Spring practice."

In addition to the French cities, Crowley and his party visited Cork and Dublin and spent a few days in London before sailing.

Rikkyo Sextet Favored To Beat Meiji Thursday

Rikkyo and Meiji universities will clash in their third annual ice hockey game at 6:30 p.m. Thursday night at the Shibaura rink.

Rikkyo, intercollegiate and national champions for the current season, is a strong favorite to make it three straight victories over Meiji.

Chief interest in the game is to what extend Meiji's defense will be able to stop Rikkyo's speedy five-man offense.

BETTINA TAKES LIGHTHEAVIES' BOXING CROWN

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Feb. 4—Emilio Bettina of Beacon, New York State, became the holder of the world light heavyweight championship in the eyes of the New York State Athletic Commission when he won by technical knockout over "Tiger" Jack Fox of Spokane, Washington, in the ninth round of their scheduled 15-round bout last night.

A crowd of 10,000 people at the Madison Square Garden saw Bettina floor Fox with a left hook to the jaw in the eighth round, the negro going down for a nine count, with the bell saving him from almost certain knockout.

FOX IS HELPLESS

Helpless before Bettina's savage attack in the following round, Fox took heavy punishment, although he pluckily remained on his feet, before the referee stopped the fight, one minute and 22 seconds after the gong for the ninth.

Fox, up to the eight, when he was knocked down, was doing well as his body attack in the preceding two rounds had enabled him to score heavily on points.

The preliminary rounds were very dull, both being inclined to wild swinging.

Bettina had a slight edge up to the sixth, but thereafter, Fox's effective in-fighting tactics put the scrap on a more even footing.

Fox got home a hard right to Bettina's mouth and drew blood.

While Fox supporters expected their man to press home the advantage he had gained, Bettina made a sudden and totally unexpected "come-back," hitting Fox toward the end of the eighth with a terrific left hook to the jaw to floor the negro for a count of nine.

With the crowd frantic in anticipation of a knockout, Bettina bored in, but before he could get under Fox's guard with a decisive blow, the gong sounded, saving the negro from amost certain knockout.

REFEREE STOPS FIGHT

Bettina beat Fox back relentless with a savage attack in the ninth. The negro was helpless and was saved from further punishment when the referee stopped the fight, awarding it to Bettina on a technical knockout decision.

Bettina weighed in at 169½ lbs, and Fox at 170¾ lbs.

"Tiger" Jack Fox started a 3-1 favorite. He was rated No. 2 in the lightheavyweights rankings, recently issued by the National Boxing Association.

Emelio Bettina was ranked No. 3 by the N. B. A., who named John Henry Lewis as the holder of the world crusier weight title.

Bettina is now recognized by the New York State Athletic Commission as the world champion, but not by the National Boxing Commission.

PRO NINES START TRAINING FOR 1939 SEASON

With the Japan Professional Baseball Federation opening its 1939 season in the middle of next month, most of the teams have started their training to get off to a flying start. First to do so was the Nagoya squad on February 4 with indoor workouts at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium at Kanda.

The Eagles commenced their limbering up exercises at the Korakuen stadium on February 10 and will go over to Odawara on Saturday to go into real training.

SENATORS START TODAY

The Senators were scheduled to assemble at the Shizuoka grounds today for a month of snappy practice.

The Lions were to get going at the Takarazuka grounds today.

Last of the teams in the Kanto division to take the field will be the Nagoya Dolfins, who have selected the Kamiigusa grounds in Tokyo suburbs as their training grounds, and will do so on February 25.

As for the Giants, they have just completed a very successful series in Manila. Incidentally, they will be honored in the opening ceremony of the season at the Korakuen stadium next month in which all nine member teams will participate.

Over in the Kansai, the Tigers, champions of the 1938 season, started limbering up on February 11 but will undertake full training from the 20th at the Koshien stadium.

HANKYU AT NISHINOMIYA

The Osaka Hankyu players got together on February 10 and commenced their training at the Nishinomiya stadium on February 11.

The Nankai squad, which made its debut in the professional circuit last year, started its workout at the Sakaidaihama grounds in the Kansai on February 8 with an addition of four new university players as well as six stars from the middle school ranks.

The Silk Fish

The Silk Fish (Pinna Nobilis) is a bivalve mollusk secreting a large tuft of long filament by which it attaches itself to rocks and other objects. This tuft, called the byssus, is processed into a durable silk out of which stockings, gloves and other garments can be woven. Nea politans, Sicilians and Maltese were formerly engaged in the weaving of this silk, an industry which has partly endured to the present day.

TENNIS GIVEN SEVERE JOLT WITH CUT ON SUPPLY OF BALLS

The man in the street who has been playing tennis as a hobby on Sundays and holidays will find it tough to buy even a single ball under the distribution of balls just reached by the Welfare Ministry under the Government restriction on rubber consumption, according to the vernaculars.

And development of players will be virtually impossible with new balls only available for the tournaments, in the opinion of Tamio Abe, who was last year's Davis Cup team captain for Japan and director of the Japan Lawn Tennis Association.

To alleviate the shortage of sports supplies, the Government, after consultations between the Welfare and Commerce and Industry Ministries, recently allotted use of 2½ tons of rubber each month from February for manufacture of sporting goods. The Welfare Ministry, for the time being decided to have this rubber used only for making soft and hard tennis balls and hard baseballs, set the distribution for each, and notified the sporting organizations concerned on Wednesday.

10 PER CENT OF NORMAL

The output, according to the estimates on the rubber allowance, is 778 dozen hard, 2,126 dozen soft balls for tennis, and 1,587 dozen hard baseballs. These figures do not amount to 10 per cent of the monthly production before imposition of the restriction on raw materials necessitated by the China Affair. Inasmuch as the distribution will be made either by the prefectural governments or responsible organizations, actually it is believed that those without connection with schools or organizations will be unable to get any balls.

As concerning the hard tennis balls, they will be distributed by the Japan Lawn Tennis Association. But the insufficiency of the amount is readily seen when the Association has more than 700 member organizations, with the large ones having used up to this time more than 500 dozens each a month. With only 778 dozens allotted, it follows there will not be enough balls to go around to non-member organizations of the Association.

Allotments of the soft balls for both tennis and baseball will be made to the prefectures and distribution will be under the control of the governors. While the balls will make their appearance first in the sporting goods stores, they will be sold only after permits have been obtained from the governors.

TRAINING IMPOSSIBLE

Interviewed by the Asahi Wednesday night, Mr. Abe had the following to say about the tennis situation:

"Even if we should limit the entrants in the national tennis championships to 64 entrants, we must have 300 dozen balls to stage the tourney. And if the Meiji Shrine games are to be staged on a large scale, it will mean the use of another 1,000 dozen balls at the least. This means that the balls will be used up in the matches alone and there will be none for practice use.

"In the Davis Cup matches, a dozen balls are used for each set. Under the restrictive measure imposed, it is sheer impossibility to develop players for the Davis Cup matches. We have asked the Welfare Ministry to alleviate the restriction in the distribution, and intend to call on public opinion for support in our move."

Kansai Figure Skating Titular Meet, Feb. 19--20

The 14th annual Kansai figure skating championships will be held on February 19 and 20, according to announcement Wednesday.

The school figures will be held at the Asahi Skating rink in Osaka at 9 a.m. on the 19th and the free skating at the Jurakukan Skating rink at Kobe at 6 p.m. on the 20th.

COMISKEY SEEN AS A COMING BOXING CHAMP

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK (By Mail)—The British Board of Boxing Control did not know it, but when it refused a certain young American boxer permission to fight in England late last Summer it deprived itself and the British public of seeing a boy who promises to become heavyweight champion of the world—and at not too distant a date either.

The youthful pugilist is Patrick Edward Comiskey, native of Paterson, New Jersey, the son of a father who came to America from County Cork, Ireland, and a mother who hailed from Manchester, England, and whose name before her marriage was Cotterill.

COMISKEY IS SENSATION

Comiskey is the sensation of the hour in the United States by virtue of the fact that he has fought exactly eight fights—two as an amateur and six as a professional—and has won them all by knockouts within two rounds. Patrick has the makings of a fine boxer, and already carries such a terrific punch in either fist that today he is quite unable to find anyone even willing to practice with him with 12-ounce gloves on in the New York gymnasia.

American sports writers, including some of the best in the profession, are heralding Comiskey as the next champion. The boxing world has relegated Lou Nova to second place in favor of Comiskey as the potential champion. His manager, Bill Daly, who also manages the New Zealand heavyweight, Maurice Strickland, sees large quantities of cash headed his way, in the wake of his new sensation.

When Daly left America for England last Summer with Strickland, he sought permission from the B. B. B. C. to take Comiskey along with him, to act as a sparring partner for Strickland and to engage in one professional bout in the British Isles. The B. B. B. C., however, refused Comiskey a permit to box in England because it did not regard him "as a first-line fighter," Daly said in an interview. Consequently Comiskey was left behind.

"It was all right with me," Daly said, "although actually the British public lost an opportunity of seeing the possible future world's champion rules in England, and the B. B. B. C. no doubt make them in the best interests of the game and it was not for me to dispute them. So I left Comiskey over here."

18 YEARS OLD

Comiskey was 18 years old last October. His ring stance is reminiscent of James J. Braddock's. In his eyes and mouth one sees a resemblance to that other great Irish-American boxer, Jimmy McLarnin, now retired.

It was after Patrick knocked out his brother Bill, who is also a fighter, in a scrap in the gymnasium, that he decided to make boxing his career.

He began sensationally. Fighting two amateur heavyweight bouts he won both of them by knockouts in the first round and was immediately proclaimed amateur heavyweight champion of the State of New Jersey.

Then, turning professional, Comiskey had five fights in New Jersey, every one of which he finished within one round. He made his New York debut on December 16, in a preliminary fight on the Tommy Farr-Lou Nova program, and at once became a sensation. He won his fight on a knockout in the second round, and astounded the public, press and officials in Madison Square garden by the businesslike manner in which he did it and his ring generalship.

LOUIS IS IMPRESSED

Champion Joe Louis, in whose ear someone had whispered a few words about the new heavyweight, arrived early at the Garden, specially to see Patrick. Never one to say very much, Joe admitted that he was greatly impressed with Comiskey, when he remarked after the fight: "He's two years ahead of himself." Asked if he meant that would be two years before Comiskey was any good, Louis replied: "No, I mean he's as good now as he ought to be if it was two years from now. You can figure that out." And that, coming from Louis, is not a remark to be taken lightly.

When Comiskey came to New York for his Garden debut he went first to train at Pioneer Gymnasium, where the famous old fighter, manager and trainer, Jimmy De Forrest, worked for years up to the time of his death a few years ago. There he knocked out three sparring partners and found nobody else willing to take him on even in practice. So he moved to the other famous gym, Stillman's.

There, he promtly knocked his first sparring partner cold, and a general panic ensued among the lads who normally allow themselves to be battered around by boxers better than themselves. No one would put the gloves on with Comiskey, and so he had to go back to New Jersey to finish off his training.

Daly has already received many offers from people anxious to "have a piece of Comiskey," or, in other words, a share in him. One well-known figure in the boxing world offered him $10,000 even at this stage in Patrick's career. But Daly is not talking any offers for a while yet. He is going to wait, meanwhile steering Comiskey along carefully. He feels that there is one thing he must guard against just now, and that is that the deluge of acclaim which his boxer is getting at the moment does not harm him in the future.

Don Bradman Equals Record in Cricket

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 19—Don Bradman yesterday scored his sixth successive century in Australian first class cricket this season, equaling a record established 37 years ago. The Australian captain hit up 135 not out in a drawn Sheffield Shield contest between South Australia and New South Wales, giving him an aggregate of 914 runs, an average of 182.80.

Back in 1901 Charles B. Fry, England and Sussex amateur and a famous all-round athlete, reached the three figure mark in successive innings in English country cricket.

Two days' rain interfered with the match concluded yesterday. New South Wales made scores of 246 and 156 for six, South Australia declaring with four wickets down for 349 runs. Bradman made his runs in 3h. 21m., hitting seven fours.

Unofficial records give Bradman an aggregate of 20,908 runs in first-class cricket since he made his first appearance in 1927. He has batted 248 times, being not out on 32 occasions, for an average of 96.79.

When he carried his total in Anglo-Australian tests last Summer to 3,840 runs, the Aussie skipper eclipsed the record of Jack Hobbs, famous Surrey batsman who made 3,636 runs in tests against Australia before he retired a few years ago.

The world's greatest batsman, Bradman has an average of 91.42 for Anglo-Australian tests, while in all stands at 97.94.

He still holds the world's record score in big-time cricket, 452 not out, made in 415 minutes for New South Wales against Queensland in 1929 and a year ago became the scorer of more runs than any other Austraian.

As a batsman Don is now judged by the standard he himself set. Compared with the speed with which he scored a few years ago, his recent innings may be characterized as slow, but he has shown himself a master against all types of bowling and as captain of Australia in the last two tests has ranked with the great Aussie leaders of the past.

Budge Widens Lead

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 20—Don Budge, California's tennis star, defeated Ellsworth Vines, world's professional champion, in straight sets last night to take an eight-to-four lead in their current tour.

The scores were 6—1 and 6—4. It was Budge's fourth consecutive victory.

GEHRIG SEEN FACING SLASH FROM $39,000

By RUD RENNIE
N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—Ed Barrow, president of the Yankees, finally got the contracts—thirty-eight of them—out and away yesterday to the homes of seventeen pitchers, four catchers, six infielders, eight outfielders and three coaches. Now the business of signing the world champions commences.

The Yankees are sending out their contracts a little later than usual this year because of Col. Ruppert's illness and the press of other affairs upon Barrow following the colonel's death.

It is understood that the salary trend is slightly upward. Only a few players will be asked to take cuts. One of these may be Lou Gehrig, the slugging first baseman, whose batting average fell below .300 last year for the first time since 1925.

It is a coincidence that his 1925 batting average and his average last year are the same, .295. Only twice in his career has he hit under .300.

Gehrig got $39,000 last season. The chances are, even though he acknowledges he did not have a good year in 1938, he will not sign for less than that amount. Ever since Babe Ruth resigned from the Yankees Gehrig has been trying to get up into the important money. Year after year he has held out.

But while Gehrig may be inclined to hold out again this year he has expressed a desire to take full advantage of the Spring training session for the good of his legs. So he probably will try to get a quick settlement on his contract to be with the second squad when it reports March 4.

Joe DiMaggio, the second highest paid Yankee, has been reported from San Francisco as expressing a willingness to sign for $30,000.

MAY OFFER HIM SAME

The Yankee business office thinks that is mighty decent of him after holding out all last Spring for $40,000. But the chances are that DiMaggio will be offered the same salary as last year—$25,000. That was the amount in the 1938 contract, but DiMaggio was docked about $1,500 for reporting late for work. Nor was the $1,500 refunded.

If DiMaggio plays through the Spring exhibition schedule this year and appears in the opening game of the season, it will be the first time he has done so since joining the Yankees in 1936. One year a burned heel kept him out; another year it was tonsillitis. Last year it was nonsignitis.

One player who is almost certain to receive an increase in salary is Joe Gordon, the oustanding rookie of 1938 who, by his fine fielding at second base, made the Yankees a great defensive team, and by his batting added twenty-five home runs to the team's total.

Frank Crosetti, the shortstop, may get a raise and also Bill Dickey, the catcher, who had a good year.

RUFFING MAY GET INCREASE

Nor is it likely that Rolfe, Henrich, Duffing, Gomez, or Pearson will be cut. Gomez was getting $20,000. They may offer him the same. And Ruffing, who was getting a little less, may be brought up to twenty grand.

But most of the increases will be awarded to rookies and young players who were not getting much.

Anyway, the players won't be in suspense long. Contracts were sent to:

Pitchers—Joe Beggs, Marvin Breuer, Spurgeon Chandler, Atley Donald, Wesley Ferrell, Vernon Gomez, Irving Hadley, Jack Haley, Oral Hildebrand, John Murphy, Monte Pearson, Al Piechota, Charley Ruffing, Steve Sundra, George Washburn, Nick Strincevich and Charles Stanceu.

Catchers—Bill Dickey, Arndt Jorgens, Warren Rosar and Chris Hartje.

Infielders—Frank Crosetti, Babe Dahlgren, Lou Gehrig, Joe Gordon, Bill Knickerbocker and Bob Rolfe.

Outfielders—Joe DiMaggio, Joe Gallagher, Tom Henrich, Walter Judnich, Charley Keller, Bill Matheson, Alvin Powel and George Selkirk.

Coaches—Arthur Fletcher Earle Combs and John Schulte.

SEVEN UP FROM NEWARK

Beggs, Donald, Haley, Strincevich, Stanceu, Rosar and Keller are coming up from Newark Rosar and Keller are considered the most likely to make the grade.

Breuer, Piechota, Washburn, Hartje, Gallagher, Judnich and Matheson are farm hands from Kansas City. Hildebrand is an acquisition from the St. Louis Browns.

Excepting the need of a catcher to take Joe Glenn's place, the Yankees are pretty well set. A hard-hitting outfielder can make a place for himself on the team. And there are jobs open for a couple of good pitchers.

There is little likelihood of Yankee Stadium being renamed "Ruppert Stadium." The colonel was opposed to the change. He considered Yankee Stadium a trade mark, and so does Barrow, the new president.

Welcome Is Planned For Tokyo Giants

The Tokyo Giants, who left Manila on Tuesday aboard the Atsuta Maru after a successful series there, will be welcomed with a two-day exhibition affair at the Korakuen stadium at Suidobashi on March 4 and 5, sponsored by the Yomiuri Shimbun.

The doubleheaders for the two days follow:

Saturday: Eagles versus Senators, Giants against combined squad of Eagles and Senators.

Sunday: Giants versus Eagles; Giants against Senators.

BOY, 15, PICKED ON ALL-AMERICA IN TRAPSHOOTING

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 21—A fifteen-year-old Kansas shoolboy today took his place with the nation's leading shotgun shooters on the 1938 All-America trapshooting team chosen by Jimmy Robinson, of Minneapolis, trapshooting editor of "Sports Aficld" magazine.

The Kansas youth, Rudy Etchen, of Wichita, named with nine others—one a woman—to the team, won the junior championship at the Grand American meet last August by breaking 98 out of 100 targets. Young Etchen also won the Kansas State championship, missing only four of 200 targets.

Joe Hiestand, of Hillsboro, Ohio, named captain of the team, took the national trapshooting chamionship at the Grand American with 200 straight and turned in a world's long run of 1,179 registered targets, Robinson said.

Feminine member of the group is Miss Lela Hall, of Strasburg, Mo., who won her fourth consecutive women's title at the Grand American.

As the most improved trapshooter of the season, Robinson selected Vic Reinders, of Waukesha, Wis., winner of the Mid-West event at Grand Forks, N. D., and all-around champion at twelve major shoots in the Middle West.

From the Pacific Coast, Robinson chose Frank Troeh, of Portland, Ore., who had high average honors in that district and won his nineteenth state championship.

Others named by Robinson are a veteran, Mark Hootman, of Hicksville, Ohio, winner of the champion of champions event at the Grand American; Fred Tomlin, of Glassboro, N. J., who ran 714 straight targets for a new professional record; Captain J. B. Grier, of Rockland, Del., world's professional doubles champion; Walter Beaver, of Berwyn, Pa., high registered doubles breaker, and Phil Miller, of French Lick, Ind., who averaged .9898 on 3,050 registered targets.

N.Y. Herald Tribune

ST. PAUL, Jan. 21—Young Robin Lee, of St. Paul just turned nineteen, mounted the throne as the kingpin of United States men fancy skaters for the fifth straight year tonight.

The St. Paul youth put on a superb free skating exhibition in winding up the competition in the senior men's division of the national figure skating tournament, with almost a hundred-point margin over his nearest competitor, Ollie Haupt, of St. Louis.

COMMANDING LEAD

Lee had taken a commanding lead in the school figure phase of the tournament Thursday, and increased his margin tonight. Lee's total was 1,825.48 points, as compared to 1,733.17 for Haupt.

Miss Joan Tozzer, eighteen years old, of Boston, won the women's senior crown for a second straight year, defending the title in one of the strongest fields ever to compete in a national tournament.

Miss Tozzer caried a point advantage from the school figures into her free-skating performance and finished with a total of 2,365.78 with Miss Audrey Peppe, of New York, 1936 United States Olympic team member, in the runner-up position with 2,339.14.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT"- by Ripley

Altrock Looks Back On 42 Years In 'Monkey' Suit

SARASOTA, Fla., Jan. 21—With forty-two years of organized baseball behind him, Nick Altrock now sixty-two, looks back with no regrets and hopes to be able to continue his clowing antics as long as they'll let him wear a baseball uniform.

The gray-thatched, squatty little gag man of the Washington Senators was in a reminiscent mood today, and didn't seem to care that his early exploits as a southpaw pitcher have been overshadowed for instance, by his shadow boxing act, or his leading a world's series band in a top hat.

"I've had plenty or ups and downs," he said, "but if they took that monkey suit away from me, I don't know what I'd do."

Nick began his long career in Greensburg, Ind., in 1896. He doesn't remember the name of the league, but the pay was $45 a month "and cakes." In 1902 he had a good year with Milwaukee, winning nineteen games for a seventh-place club, and was sold to Boston for $450. He rose to his greatest heights as a pitcher, he recalled, with the Chicago White Sox, and was the star of the "hitless wonders" who won the American League pennant in 1906 and then beat the Cubs. Nick pitched two games in that world's series, winning one, but losing the other.

The boxing act started in 1912 when the Senators got Nick from Kansas City. It also started him as a clown.

For years Nick teamed with Al Schacht, another Washington coach, to form baseball's funniest comedy team. Some years ago they split. Nick won't say why; neither will Schacht.

Altrock will join his beloved Washington Senators when they reach Orlando for Spring training. Ball players say, he really knows how to tutor youngsters. But, he will admit, he'd rather clown.

TORONTO ROUTS AMERICANS, 7-2 AT ICE HOCKEY

N.Y. Times

TORONTO, Jan. 21—This Toronto Maple Leafs went on a scoring spree tonight, downing the New York Americans, 7 to 2, in a National Hockey League game. The victory moved the Leafs to within four points of the third-place Americans.

Gordon Drillon led the Leafs' big drive, scoring two goals and helping in three others. The Leafs led, 3 to 2, at the end of the first period and after a scoreless second session, banged in four more in the closing frame.

The first three counters of the game came within one minute and 15 seconds of play in the first period. George Parsons and Drillon were the Toronto marksman in the brief flurry and Nels Stewart netted for the Americans.

Syl Apps, Doc Romnes, Bob Davidson and Pep Kelly were the other marksmen for the winners and Lorne Carr sank the second goal for the Dutton men.

Earl Robertson had one of the busiest nights of his life in the American's nets and had little chance on any of the shots that got by him. His right arm was temporarily paralyzed in the last period when Art Jackson stumbled over him and a crowd of 1,117 fans gave him a big hand as he returned to action.

The Leafs set the pace in the first five minutes. Kelly circled the New York defense, but passed up a scoring chance when he shot wide. Playing wide-open hockey, the Leafs went down five abreast, leaving Broda with no protection. Their charge was stopped on the American blue line. A minute later the Americans were short-handed with Wiseman being thumbed out for checking into boards.

The Leafs ganged, and before Wiseman returned Jerwa was penalized for interference, leaving the Americans two short. On the first play, Parsons scored from close in, Apps and Drillon assisting.

With Jerwa still in the cooler, the Leafs made it 2-to-0, Drillon's shot caroming off Anderson's body. Chamberlain was chased, and for the first time the Americans had an advantage. It didn't take them long to score, Stewart taking a pass from Anderson and beating Broda. The Americans seemed to be running in tough luck, and at 17:45 Romnes' shot went off Goldsworthy's body for the Leafs' third goal.

With les than half a minute to go, the Americans kept in the chase, Carr scoring on a hard drive while Horner was in the penalty box.

Horner was still in the cooler when the second period opened but returned before any damage was done. With Robertson helpless after blocking a shot from Chamberlain, Metz missed an open net by a foot.

Wiseman skidded through the Toronto defense but Broda blocked his shot. Play slowed up as the period drew to a close.

McDonald almost caught Robertson napping with a long shot as the third period started. Wiseman was chased and the Leafs made it, 4 to 2, as Drillon picked up Chamberlain's pass and went right in on the New York goal.

With eight minutes to go, Red Dutton sent out five forwards. Stewart was chased for a ten-minute misconduct penalty and was replaced by Art Jackson. To block what looked like a sure goal Robertson came out to the penalty line to clear the puck.

Jenkins brought Broda to his knees on a long shot. On the return rush Davidson blazed a shot past Robertson and less than a minute later the Leafs made it, 6 to 2, Apps scoring.

Robertson came out of his net to save, but Romnes speared the puck, slid it over to Kelly, who flipped the Leafs seventh marker into an open cage. Robertson was injured and the game was held up as he retired for repairs.

Robertson's arm was temporarily paralyzed as Art Jackson fell over him. The goalie received a big hand from the crowd as he returned to action. The line-up:

SCHROEDER GAINS OLYMPIC BERTH, BREAKING AMERICAN SKATING MARK

N.Y. Times

OCONOMOWOC, Wis., Jan. 22—In a startling reversal of form Eddie Schroeder, Chicago speed skating veteran, today bettered his American mark for 5,000 meters to capture a place on an Olympic team for the third successive time.

Schroeder, an unimpressive third in yesterday's first heat, came back with an 8-minute 55.9-second performance, which gave him an average time six-tenths of a second better than that of Delbert Lamb, Milwaukee Olympic veteran, who placed second in the final standing. Lamb, paired with Charles Liegh-ton of Minneapolis, was clocked in 9:09.4 on wet ice. An overnight slower than his mark of yesterday, when Schroeder did only 9:04.4 on wet ice. An overnight cold snap improved the Fowler Lake Course materially.

WALLACE UNDER OLD RECORD

Second to Schroeder today was George Wallace, machinist estimator from San Francisco, who raced an 8:56.5 heat, also better than Schroeder's mark of 8:57 four years ago, when the Chicago stationary engineer captained the Olympic speed skaters. Aided by 9:11.5 yesterday, Wallace finished fourth.

Third in the final standing was Leighton, who had 8:58.3 today for an average of 9.03.65. George Shimek of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, retained fifth place with 9:07.1 for a 9:11 average.

Schroeder's victory enabled him to duplicate the feat of Valentine Bialas of Utica, N. Y., in gaining a place on the United States Olympic team three straight times. The stocky Chicagoan said before the trial he would go after his record and "get the thing over with, so I can go back to work Monday."

FREISINGER ON TEAM ALREADY

He became the second member of the 1936 team to gain a berth on the 1940 squad. Leo Freisinger, another Chicago speedster, already had made the team with his 500-meter victory.

With their consistent performances, Lamb and Wallace rank as strong favorites for team berths, four of which will be filled after winners in the four trials are established. Lamb was third in the 500 and Wallace second. Both are expected to finish near the top in the 1,500-meter trials Tuesday and Wednesday.

Al Kucera of Chicago was sixth with 9:12.55; Bob Hackenbach of Chicago seventh, 9:15.8; George Hare of Amsterdam, N. Y., eighth, 9:17.6; Lowell Miller of Chicago ninth, 9:18.75; Don Johnson of Minneapolis tenth, 9:20.5, and Marvin Swanson of Minneapolis unplaced.

Thomas King of the Olympic committee said skaters and officials had agreed that yesterday's times be accepted despite poor ice.

FREISINGER WINS

OCONOMOWOC, Wis., Jan. 19—Leo Freisinger of Chicago won the 500-meter race of the United States Olympic ice speed-skating trials today. Thus he assured himself of a place on the eight-man team which will represent the nation at the Olympic Games in Finland next year.

Competing in a field of forty Freisinger, who skated for the United States in the 1936 games in Germany, finished with an average time of 44 seconds flat. He defeated George Wallace of San Francisco by .45 of a second.

In winning the first of two heats held today Freisinger swept around the Fowler Lake 400-meter course in 0:43.7, topping the record of 43.8 set by Jack Shea at Lake Placid, N. Y., in 1932.

Freisinger sped to victory in two of the three trials (one was held yesterday) and finished second to Wallace in the third. Allan Potts, another Olympic veteran, and Wallace turned in identical times of 44.4 seconds in the first trial today. Wallace's time in the second, in which Freisinger did 0:44.8, was 0:44.5.

Next in the standings came Del Lamb of Milwaukee, still another Olympic veteran, with an average time of 44.7 seconds; Potts, with 44.8, and Bob Sherman and Vic Ronchetti, the national, Great Lakes and North American champion, with 45.1 seconds each.

Lowell Miller Chicago just out of the intermediate ranks, tied for ninth and tenth in the point totals with 45.9 seconds. Eddie Schroeder, Chicago veteran of two Olympic teams, was far down the list.

Tomorrow the Olympic hopefuls will be given a day of rest. The 5,000-meter championship trials will be held Saturday and Sunday.

Montanez Knocks Out Logan in 5th Round

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—Fame for Ambrose Logan was short-lived. Fortune was short on dividends, too. Last night in the ring of the Hippodrome the stout-hearted little warrior from New Haven who twice smashed to victory in bouts where he was the underdog in betting came a cropper.

Pedro Montanez, hard-hitting Puerto Rican lightweight, knocked out Logan in five rounds of what was to have been the ten-round feature. A crowd of 4,318 fans paid $6,199 to see the bout.

Referee Johnny Marto stopped the fight after Logan had gone down twice, once for a count of nine and again just a flash before the bell rang to end the fifth round. The bell brought sweet relief with Logan protesting on one knee as Marto tried to help him to his feet.

WINNER'S ATTACK VARIED

Marto acted wisely in stopping the bout. He might have exercised his prerogative earlier, for there was no competition. Montanez so far outclassed Logan as to make the bout boring. It was not edifying to see Montanez hitting Logan at will with every punch known to boxing, while all Logan could do was paw the air and fight back dumbly, albeit with a gameness that commanded admiration.

Logan again was the under dog in betting odds of 5 to 1, and for once the price was right. He never had a chance. Montanez overwhelmed him throughout. He pounded Logan about the heart savagely with right-handers in the first round as he sapped the New Havenite's strength. In the second and third Pedro did about as he pleased with his foe and never got a dangerous return in the punching.

A right to the jaw shook Logan to his heels and almost finished him in the fourth. But in the fifth, when Montanez again cracked that right to the jaw solidly, there was no mistaking it. Logan was draped over the lower ring rope near a neutral corner. He floundered from this position to his knees to take a count of nine.

RIGHT FINISHES LOGAN

Logan was prey for Montanez's terrific punches thereafter until a right put him down just before the bell ended the fifth session and brought the referee's wise intervention.

Logan weighed 139½ pounds, Montanez 139.

Miss Cranz Scores Double Victory In Skiing Meet

Domei Tsushin

ZAKOPANE, Poland, Feb. 15—Leading an imposing field of the world's foremost women skiiers, Miss Christel Cranz, of Germany, scored a double victory today when she captured both the women's slalom and the combination events in the International Ski championships staged here.

In the slalom event, she was timed at 2 minutes 36.2 seconds to win over Miss Margrit Schaad, of Switzerland, and Miss Evy Nilsson, of Sweden, who took second and third respectively, while in the latter event she was the only woman to finish the run without a fall.

Kurikkala, Finnish ace, won the world's championship for the men's long distance contest, negotiating the 18-kilometer course in 1 hour 5 minutes and 30 seconds. Second place went to another Finnish skiier Karppinen, finishing in 1 hour 6 minutes 6.5 seconds, with Pahlin, of Sweden, third.

MEIJI SEXTET TOPS RIKKYO, 4-3 IN UPSET

Meiji University's stick wielders sprung a surprise Thursday night by turning the tables over the Rikkyo University sextet, champions of the Tokyo Five-University league, the national intercollegiate and national open competitions for the 1938-39 season, by four goals to three in their third annual ice hockey game at the Shibaura rink. It was Rikkyo's first victory in their series.

The game was a battle royal all the way and a fitting close to the season.

RIKKYO RALLY TOO LATE

Rikkyo's five men offense, which was instrumental in winning its three titles, was a bit too late in functioning. It came in the third period with Meiji leading four goals to one and there was not time enough to deadlock the count at 4-all. But due credit must be given the stellar fight put up by the Meiji skaters.

Meiji scored first in five minutes in the first period when the younger of the Yehaba brothers (both forwards) shot a goal after picking up the puck which had bounced back from the back fence on Fukumoto's shot. Rikkyo rallied and working the puck down the center of the court, Sunada sent a beauty into the net to deadlock the count at 1-all.

The second period was Meiji's. Nakamura dribbled down from the left flank and passed to Tanaka, who worked the puck in front of the goal and pushed it in. A clever pick-up by Yehaba (younger) in a scrimmage in front of the Rikkyo goal scored for Meiji again in five minutes. Goalie Yamamoto of Rikkyo missed a shot by Tanaka in nine minutes and the period ended with Meiji leading four goals to one.

RIKKYO SCORES

Rikkyo really got going in the third quarter by storming the Meiji goal. Sunada led the attack and Naito sent the disc into the net for the first goal in no time. Then in 14 minutes, Sunada once again dribbled into scoring territory and Tanaka pushed the puck in. Here was a chance for Rikkyo to tie the score by Meiji put up a stonewall defense to prevent further scoring and won.

The line-ups were:

Meiji: Yehaba (younger), Fukumoto, Yehaba (older), Tanaka, Hagino and Nakamura, forwards; Namekawa and Hirabayashi, defense; Yuke, goalie.

Rikkyo: Tanaka, Sunada, Onjkura, Omura, Goto, Takahashi, forwards; Naito and Tani, defense; Yamamoto, goalie.

The Maiden's Prayer

After Franz Goldman died in 1818, his father, an estate owner, turned over the sum of 3,000 marks to the city of Verden, stipulating that the income of 90 marks annually was to be paid to a virtuous maiden who would pray at Goldman's tomb on the anniversary of his death, and be married the next day. On May 10, 1938, the 120th maiden has observed the youth's death anniversary.

65,000 SEE ENGLAND DEFEAT WALES, 3-0 IN RUGBY MATCH

TWICKENHAM, England, Jan. 21 (CP).—Sixty-five thousand spectators saw England defeat Wales, 3 to 0, in the opening match of the 1939 International Rugby Tournament. Playing in a drizzling rain and mist the home team scored a second-half try for victory.

I. E. Teden, Richmond forward, who was representing his country for the first time, scored midway through the second half after a forward rush. J. Heaton, Waterloo center three-quarter, made a grand effort to convert from a difficult angle, but the ball struck the upright and rebounded.

England deserved its victory, mainly because of the brilliance of the forwards, who proved masters in the scrums. For much of the first half the Welshmen were penned in their own territory but their three-quarters, splendidly led by Wilfred Wooller, the Cardiff Flash, got in some deadly tackling.

For a brief period in the second half Wales played without W. Vickery, Aberavon forward, but the home players failed to take advantage of his absence.

The teams:

England—Fullback, H. D. Freakes (Oxford University); three-quarters, R. H. Guest (Liverpool University), J. Heaton (Waterloo), G. E. Hancock (Birkenhead Park), R. S. L. Carr (Old Cranleighans); halfbacks, P. Cooke (Richmond), J. Walker (Royal Air Force); forwards, R. E. Prescott (Harlequins), H. B. Toft (Waterloo), I. E. Teden (Richmond), T. F. Huskisson (Old Merchant Taylors), H. Wheatley (Coventry), J. T. W. Berry (Leicester), R. M. Marshall (Oxford University), J. K. Watkins (Navy).

Wales—Fullback, V. G. J. Jenkins (London Welsh); three-quarters, S. Williams (Aberavon), W. Wooler (Cardiff), J. L. Davies (Swansea), J. J. V. Ford (Harlequins); halfbacks, H. Tanner and W. T. H. Davies (Swansea); forwards, W. J. Travers (Newport), E. Morgan (Swansea), W. E. N. Davies (Cardiff), F. L. Morgan (Llanelly), E. Watkins (Cardiff), F. L. Morgan (Llanelly), E. Watkins (Cardiff), W. Vickery (Aberavon), A. N. Taylor (Cross Keys), C. Chalener (Neath).

EVERTON WINS

LONDON, Jan. 2' (CP).—High scoring marked the fourth round of the English football cup competition today. With few exceptions, favorites gained entry into the next stage, Everton blanking the Doncaster Rovers, 8 to 0, and the Wolverhampton Wanderers triumphing, 5 to 1, over Leicester City, their first-division opponent.

Preston North End, cupholder, shut out Aston Villa, 2 to 0, while Huddersfield Town, finalist at Wembley nearly a year ago, upset Leeds United, 4 to 2. The match was played at Leeds. Another surprise was posted at Middlesbrough where Sunderland won, 2 to 0.

The run of Chelmsford City ended at Birmingham where the Southern League entry was snowed under, 6 to 0. Cardiff City, of the third division, played heads-up soccer at Ninian Park to hold Newcastle United, second division promotion candidate, to a scoreless draw. Chester, also of the third division, drew 1 to 1, at Sheffield against the strong Wednesday eleven.

EAST FIFE ELIMINATED

GLASGOW, Jan. 21 (CP)—East Fife, which last year made history by becoming the only Second Division team to capture the Scottish football cup, bowed out of this year's competition today. Playing at home in the first round, the Methil squad was defeated, 3 to 2, by Montrose, low-placed eleven of the same group.

The annual scramble in which minor league squads, survivors of earlier qualifying rounds, find themselves, battling against formidable opponents, produced a lot of heavy scoring and one outstanding upset. Blairgowrie, little known Perthshire team, humiliated Dumbarton, 3 to 2.

Hearts smashed Penicuik Athletic, 14 to 2, at Tynecastle Park and Celtic won, 8 to 3, over Burntisland Shipyard amateurs at the Fifeshire seaside resort. Kilmarnock, finalist last season, whipped the Berwick Rangers, 6 to 1.

In hard battles between First Division teams, the Glasgow Rangers blanked the Raith Rovers, 1 to 0, at Kirkcaldy and Aberdeen won from the Albion Rovers by the same score at Pittodrie Park.

Alloa, one of the contenders for the Second Division championship, overcame Ayr United, of the First Division, 2 to 1, and in another hard contest Cowdenbeath drew, 3 to 3, with Partick Thistle. Stranraer, another junior eleven, went to the Scottish Capital and played a 3-to-3 stalemate with Edinburgh City, while Babcock and Wilcox and King's Park drew, 5 to 5, on the latter's ground.

12 SATURDAYS AND SUNDAYS GIVEN TO YANKS

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—Twelve Saturday dates, an equal number of Sundays and one holiday, July 4, have been allotted to the world champion Yankees in their quota of home games at the Stadium for the 1939 baseball season, according to the official American League schedule released for publication today.

As was revealed at the major league meetings last month, the Harridge loop will stage another of its familiar stagger-starts next season, with the Senators, according to time-honored custom, holding a lone inaugural in Washington on April 17. The Yankees will provide the opposition that day with President Roosevelt, as the nation's No. 1 fan, tossing out the first ball.

On the following day all the other clubs in the circuit will swing into action, with the Yankees inaugurating the campaign at the Stadium against the Red Sox. On that day the Senators will help the Athletics launch the season in Philadelphia, the Indians will meet the Browns in St. Louis and the White Sox will tackle the Tigers in Detroit.

OTHER OPENERS APRIL 21

The concluding set of inaugurals will be held on April 21, when the Athletics appear in Boston, the Browns in Chicago and the Tigers in Cleveland.

With this year's All-Star game scheduled for the Yankee Stadium on July 11, that date as well as July 10 and 12 have been left open in the championship schedule in order to provide ample time for staging the midsummer classic.

In all other respects the schedule closely follows the pattern in vogue since the adoption several years ago of two and three game series between clubs in place of the former drawn-out four and sometimes five game sets. Each club again will be called upon to make four intersectional trips, with the four Eastern clubs moving westward in the first intersectional clashes of the year.

The Yanks will launch their first Western trip of the year on May 2 in Detroit, after which they will go to Cleveland, Chicago and St. Louis, in that order. The jaunt, a rather short one, will terminate on May 11.

The season's first stand against the West at the Stadium is set for May 16, with the Browns as first callers. The St. Louisans will be followed by the White Sox, Indians and Tigers, the stand coming to a close on May 25.

NIGHT GAMES NOT YET SET

Although night baseball has been sanctioned by the American League for Cleveland and Philadelphia, thereby enabling the Indians and Athletics each to stage seven home games under the lights, the dates when these games are to be played are not designated on the regular schedule and will not be announced until later.

The Yankees will have the Red Sox as their opponents in the July 4 doubleheader at the Stadium. The world champions will be in Boston on Decoration Day and in Philadelphia on Labor Day.

The championship campaign will close on Sunday, Oct. 1, with the Yankees concluding a two-game series with the Red Sox.

BAN ON PITT STARS IN BIG TRACK MEETS

N.Y. Times

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 22—University of Pittsburgh athletes were forbidden today to compete in open meets by the registration committee of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the Amateur Athletic Union.

As a result, Johnny Woodruff and other members of the Pitt track team will not be permitted to participate in the Millrose, New York Athletic Club, Penn A. C. and Boston A. A. indoor meets.

The committee voted, six to one, yesterday to withhold traveling permits or sanctions for Pitt athletes to compete in other sections and said it decided to take such drastic action after, a spokesman reported, Carl Olson, Pitt track coach, failed to return travel permits for meets during the last two indoor seasons.

The spokesman said no action was taken on the A. A. U.'s protest to Pitt authorities and finally Dan Ferris, secretary of the national organization, demanded the rule be invoked which calls for athletes to compete as registered or certified. Pitt's athletes are registered as students and are accepted as such in the large Eastern meets, but at home the university insists they compete unattached.

Athletic Director James Hagan of Pitt wrote to the committee that the faculty committee on athletic policy had ruled "the University of Pittsburgh students may not represent the University of Pittsburgh in outside competition * * *."

The registration committee adopted a motion stating it "accepted" Hagan's notice "and in line with Pitt's policy, the Allegheny Mountain Association will no longer register nor issue traveling permits to any Pitt athletic teams * * *."

Coach Olson, denying he failed to return travel permits, said:

"If the association wants to take such drastic action, we'll have to keep our boys at home."

Tennis Body To Slash Number of Tournaments

Due to the shortage of balls resulting from the Government's restriction on consumption of rubber for manufacture of sporting goods, directors of the Japan Lawn Tennis Association at its first meeting of the year Thursday night at the Mamoji restaurant at Akasaka decided to hold a minimum of tournaments during the current year.

According to the ruling laid down by the Welfare Ministry this week, only 778 dozen of balls, of the hard type, will be available this year.

Wells and Crew Retain American 4-Man Bobsled Title

N.T. Times

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Jan. 22—Racing in a driving snowstorm, Aubrey (Bucky) Wells and his crew of Keene Valley, N. Y., bobsledders today retained their National A. A. U. four-man championship.

A sudden storm left three inches of snow on the Mount Van Hoevenberg run in twenty minutes, but failed to keep Wells from defeating a stellar field, including Donna Fox of New York City, famed Olympic star.

With Warren Martin, Hubert Nye and John Otis as crew, Wells roared four times down the windswept run in 4 minutes 46.41 seconds, but failed to approach his course record of 4:24.90 set a year ago.

FOX BEATEN BY A SECOND

Francis Tyler, Lake Placid patrolman and 1936 U. S. Olympic driver, piloted his Sno Bird crew into second place in 4:47.66, less than a second ahead of Fox, who was at the wheel again for the first time since his crack-up in the world championship races abroad last year.

Riding with Fox were his old crew member, William Duprey of Saranac Lake, N. Y., Tippy Gray of New York City and James Bickford, Lake Placid.

Bob Linney, Lyon Mountain, N. Y., engineer, drove his "Iron Clipper" sled into fourth place after a hazardous run through the worst part of the storm in his final attempt of the day. He piloted his team virtually blindfolded, with his goggles snow-covered.

HELD TO THE TROUGH

He said after the race only the "fool-proof" construction of the run kept his three-quarter ton of sled and crew in the trough.

Wells recorded the fastest heat of the day, negotiating his third attempt in 1:11.01.

The summaries:

First—Keene Valley Athletic Club, Aubrey Wells, driver. Time—1:12.12, 1:11.36, 1:11.01, 1:11.92. Total—4:46.41.

Second—Sno Birds of Lake Placid Club, Francis Tyler, driver. Time—1:12.08, 1:11.56, 1:11.29, 1:12.73. Total—4:47.66.

Third—Adirondack Bobsled Club, Donna Fox, driver. Time—1:12.38, 1:11.56, 1:11.03, 1:13.56. Total—4:48.54.

Fourth—Lyon Mountain Lions, Bob Linney, driver. Time—1:13.34, 1:13.00, 1:13.05, 1:45.98. Total—5:25.37.

HORTON SMITH BEATEN BY METZ IN $5,000 PLAY

N.T. Times

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22—Waging a thrilling uphill battle, Dick Metz of Chicago defeated Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill., 1 up, today in the thirty-six-hole final of the $5,000 San Francisco match play open golf tournament.

The victory was worth $1,000 to Metz and was his second major tournament triumph within a week. Last Monday he won the $5,000 Oakland seventy-two-hole open in an eighteen-hole play-off with E. J. Harrison of Oak Park. That feat netted him $1,200.

For twenty-three holes today Metz trailed Smith, who received $500. Twice he was 3 down, at the fourth and thirteenth holes. At the ninth he was 1 down and at the eighteenth, 2 down.

AHEAD AT TWENTY-SEVENTH

Metz fought on with dogged determination. At the twenty-fourth hole he squared the match, while a gallery of some 3,000 spectators gave him a rousing cheer. He took the next two holes with birdies but lost the twenty-seventh to Smith's birdie, to be 1 up as they passed the three-quarter mark.

He had turned the third nine in 33, two under par for the Lakeside course, and appeared on his way to a certain victory. But the picture changed again. Smith evened matters on the twenty-eight, yielded two more holes to Metz, then squared it again at the thirty-fourth.

The turning point of the match came on the next hole, where Metz hit a five-foot putt into the cup to gain the margin of victory.

Smith dropped a twenty-foot putt for a birdie 4 on the first hole and he was out in front through the morning round.

The second hole was halved in par 4s and Smith went 2 up on the third with a par 3. Smith increased his lead with a par 4 on the fourth, where Metz three-putted, missing a three-footer for the half. Metz took the fifth with a par 4, Smith hitting his second into a trap and blasting out over the green.

The sixth was halved in par 4s and Metz annexed the seventh with a birdie 3 on a three-foot putt. They halved the eighth and ninth in par figures. The tenth and eleventh were halved in par 4s, with Smith going 2 up again on the twelfth with a par 4.

ALMOST A HOLE-IN-ONE

Smith captured the thirteenth with a birdie 2, just missing a hole in one when the ball rolled over two feet beyond the cup. Metz came back with a birdie 3 to win the 420-yard fourteenth. They halved the next four holes in par figures.

Smith finished the round in 35, 35—70, one under par 35, 36—71. Metz had 36, 36—72.

The nineteenth hole was halved in par 5s and Smith took the twentieth with a par 4. Metz won the twenty-first and twenty-second, the former with a par 3, while Smith drove over the bank to the side of the green, and the latter with a birdie 3 as the result of sinking a 25-footer.

They halved the twenty-third in par 4s and Metz squared the match on the next hole with a par 4.

On the twenty-fifth Metz went ahead for the first time. He put his second shot eighteen inches from the pin for a birdie 3. He went 2 up on the twenty-sixth when he dropped a 22-footer for a birdie 2 and the gallery of several thousand warmly applauded.

Smith captured the 425-yard twenty-seventh with a birdie 3, dropping a 25-foot putt.

SMITH SQUARES MATCH

Smith squared the match on the twenty-eighth with a 20-foot putt for a birdie 3. Metz went back into the lead with a par 4 on the twenty-ninth, Smith hitting his drive into the woods and having a bad recovery.

They halved the thirtieth in par 4s and Metz went 2 up on the thirty-first, where Smith's tee shot fell into a trap. The thirty-second was halved in par 4s.

Smith took the thirty-third with a par 3, Metz getting into a trap, and squared things again on the 566-yard thirty-fourth with a birdie 4.

Metz came back to sink a five-footer for a birdie 4 on the 487-yard thirty-fifth which put him 1 up again. Metz got a half on the thirty-sixth to clinch the victory.

Other prize winners were Ben Coltrin, San Francisco $400; Harry Cooper, Chicago, $325; Ben Hogan, White Plains, N. Y.; Harold McSpaden, Winchester Mass.; Leonard Dodson, Springfield, Mo., and Sam Byrd, Philadelphia, $187.50 each.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT" - by Ripley

The Military Experts Scoffed

The only man who accurately foresaw the nature of the World War and predicted its duration and catastrophal effects was not a military leader or a warrior but a Polish businessman, banker and pacifist. He was Jean De Bloch of Warsaw (1836-1902).

In his seven-volume work entitled "The Future War in Its Technical, Economical and Political Relation," published in 1898, he described the World War with almost clairvoyant insight. He said "the war will last so long that it would result in exhaustion and starvation of the warring powers, in revolution and extermination of the losing side." Before the World War, military "experts" scoffed at this prophecy of a non-professional.

Chicago District Defers $5,000 Open Until '40

CHICAGO, Jan. 21—Professional golfers were "out" $5,000 today by virtue of a decision by the Chicago District Golf Association to forego the 1939 Chicago open tournament—but they'll have a chance at the $5,000 again in 1940.

The association decided yesterday against holding the tournament because it wished to lend its full support to the Western open and national amateur events, both of which will be held here next Summer.

The Chicago open started two years ago as a $10,000 event and was won by Gene Sarazen. Last Summer the prize was reduced to $5,000, with Sam Snead taking first money.

GERMANY WINS WORLD SKI MEET; RUUD IS BEATEN IN JUMPING

Domei Tsushin

ZAKOPANE, Poland, Feb. 19—With Josef Bradl of Germany giving a spectacular exhibition of ski-jumping to nose out the famous Birger Ruud of Norway and take first place in the final event, the nine-day international ski championship meet was brought to a close today with Germany clearly the victor.

Besides taking all first places in the women's events, due to the brilliant performances turned in by Miss Christel Cranz, German men skiers scored four wins out of a possible six.

In taking first place in today's ski-jumping event, Josef Bradl displayed championship form. Bradl amassed a total of 224.7 points but was followed closely by Birger Ruud who garnered 224.2 points. Third place went to A. Kongsgaard, also of Norway. Although Ruud registered the longest leap, he lost on form.

Despite the chilly winds which swept down over the jumping course, an estimated 30,000 spectators turned out to watch the final day's competitions. The results of all events during the nine-day meet were as follows:

Downhill—Helmuth Lantschner (Ger.)
Slalom:—Rudolf Rominger (Switz.)
Combination (Downhill & Slalom): Josef Jennewein (Ger.)
Nordic Combination:—Gustl Berauer (Ger.)

Alfons Berzins, of Latvia, who won the recent European speed-skating championships at Riga, captured the 10,000-meter event, negotiating the distance in 19 minutes 0.5 seconds. Second place went to Wasenius, and Mathiesen again took third.

In the final standings, Berzins placed second with 214.072 points and Mathiesen third with 216.448 points. Ivar Ballangruud, of Norway, who captured top honors last year, was fourth.

Danish Girl Breaks 100-Yd. Freestyle Record

Domei Tsushin

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 19—Clipping a tenth of a second off the recognized mark of Miss Willie Den Ouden, of Holland, Miss Ragnhild Hveger, crack Danish girl swimmer, today established a new world's record for the women's 100-yd. freestyle by negotiating the distance in 59.7 seconds.

Miss Hveger already boasts five world's freestyle records, in the 300, 400, 500 and 800 meters and in the 440 yards. Miss Ouden's old mark of 59.8 seconds for the 100-yard freestyle was established here in 1934.

Philadelphia Youngster Wins American Junior Figure-Skating Crown

N.Y. Times

ST. PAUL, Jan. 20—Arthur R. Vaughn Jr., 14 years old, of Philadelphia, captured the men's junior singles title in the national figure-skating championships tonight.

In a virtual deadlock with Bud Brennan of Minneapolis at the end of the school figures competition in the division yesterday Vaughn gave an outstanding performance in the free skating to win. Brennan finished third behind Arthur Preusch of St. Paul.

Championships are no novelties to young Vaughn, who won the men's novice title in 1938. By his victory tonight he advanced into senior competition. He is the present Eastern and Philadelphia men's senior titleholder.

Vaughn scored 733.67 points, Preusch 712.19 and Brennan 706.55.

Miss Gretchen Merrill of the Skating Club of Boston swept to the ladies' junior championship with a brilliant free skating exhibition to retain a point advantage gained in yesterday's school figures.

WINNER BECOMES SENIOR

As a result Miss Merrill, who is 13 years old, will advance to the senior division in future tournaments.

AMERICANS TIE WITH HAWKS, 1 TO 1 ON ICE

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, Jan. 22—The New York Americans overcame an early lead of the Black Hawks tonight to tie the score in the second period, after which both teams repulsed every threat, the game ending in a 1-1 deadlock at the Chicago Stadium.

The regular three periods were featured by fast and rough battling, but the overtime was tame by contrast.

The Hawks, playing their first game in a week, scored in the opening period. Mush March fired the goal. They held this lead until near the end of the second stanza. Then Nels Stewart made the Americans' tally.

SPEEDY THIRD SESSION

The third peiod was fast and furious, but superb defensive work by Goalies Mike Karakas and Earl Robertson thwarted every effort.

The Hawks displayed close to their best form of the season after four days of practice and conditioning exercises in the north woods.

All the Hawks were ready for action except Phil Besler, utility, who has been loaned to the Cleveland team. Beattie, right wing, was out of the American line-up.

Erratic passing prevented either team from seriously threatening early in the game. Two minutes after the start Desilets was penalized for hooking and the Americans put in several fresh players and made a desperate effort to score but the Hawks fought off every advance.

The Hawks came back strong after getting their sixth man back on the ice. Chapman of the visitors was penalized for charging without a stick and shortly afterward, at 7:48, March scored, assisted by Gottselig and Seibert. Less than a minute later Gottselig left the game with an injured arm.

Stewart was penalized for slashing, and just as he got out of the box, his teammate, Sweeney Schriner, was put in for tripping. Furious battling around the Hawk goal, with the Americans trying desperately for a tally, failed, but led to a penalty for tripping to Stewart as the period ended.

AMERICANS START DRIVE

Stewart came out of the penalty box after one minute forty seconds and then the Americans put on a sensational drive that kept the Hawks on the defense for several minutes, but brilliant work by Karakas and the defense pair prevented a score. There was continued rough work by both sides, and March was penalized early in the period when the Hawks were threatening to tally.

The Americans swarmed the Hawk net repeatedly and several times were foiled when Karakas fell on the puck near the goal. The game was held up frequently to clear the ice of debris tossed down from the galleries in protest of decisions by the officials.

Late in the period the Hawks' attack was slowed up when Seibert was penalized for hooking. At one time Shill of the Hawks got by the American defense but missed a goal from a few feet out. With Seibert in the box the invaders instituted a power attack that netted the tying goal at 18:22 by Stewart. He was assisted by Anderson and Wiseman.

Boh teams opened the third session cautiously, neither taking any long chances on dropping behind. The game was remarkably tame as compared to the brisk battling in the first two periods. Both sides concentrated on defensive tactics.

Wild passing ruined many chances for both teams. Midway of the period the sextets opened up their offensives more but neither could score. Jerwa of the Americans was penalized for tripping.

HAWKS LAUNCH ATTACK

Then the Hawks began a power attack. They barely missed breaking the tie several times. When Jerwa returned the teams tried often for long shots but seldom worked the disk into rival territory.

Two minutes after the overtime began Tommy Anderson was penalized for holding Desilets. While he was in the box the Hawks swapped their cautious tactics for a determined attack, but their advantage was soon gone when Bill Thoms was penalized for misconduct.

In the ensuing argument between players and officials Manager Paul Thompson also was sent to the box, leaving the Hawks with four players to the Americans' five.

The officials allowed substitutions for Thoms and Thompson at the end of two minutes, neither team making a serious threat before the Hawks were permitted six men on the ice. There was no more scoring.

CLUB FIVE TOPS FORDHAM BY 34-33 SCORE

By JOHN RENDEL

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—Club basketball as played by the New York A. C. and the Crescent A. C. shaded the college variety in the Fordham University gymnasium last night when the Winged Footers beat Georgetown, 45—43, and the Crescents got a one-point decision over the Maroon, 34—33.

The double-header was held for the benefit of the Shrine of St. Isaac Joques, a seventeenth century New York martyr, and the outcome duplicated the result of last year, when the same club teams turned back the same rivals.

Both victors spent a great deal of their time trailing, then surged to the front at the very end. The Winged Foot team, by virtue of its superior play, was voted the St. Isaac Joques Trophy by the assembled sports writers. Its contest with Georgetown contained all the fireworks and aroused the crowd of 2,500 to a high pitch in the last stages when two shots from the foul line broke a 43-43 tie.

DAVIS, REINACHER HELP

A fiery 25 seconds brought victory to the Winged Footers. The underdog throughout, the club five put on a late drive, with Dick Davis providing three goals in a row and Captain Bobby Reinacher setting the stage with one that knotted the score. In the heated going that followed, Johnny McGowan of Georgetown committed a major foul on Bernie Carnevale, former N. Y. U. ace, and Carnevale sank both free throws.

If the game had ended at almost any point except the finish it would have been on Georgetown's side of the ledger. Only once, late in the opening half, did the Winged Footers get out in front, and that was by 18—17, a single point that didn't last beyond the time required for a Georgetown player to dash across the floor and sink a goal.

In the Crescent-Fordham game the Rams led through the second half after a see-saw first. Ahead at the half by 14—12, the Half-Mooners lost their advantage right at the start of the second session and at one time were trailing by 9 poinst.

THOMAS' SHOT WINS

Then, with the score 29—20 against them, Hannan, Terjesen, Thomas and Blush began finding the range consistently, with Thomas applying the coup de grace a few minutes from the end with a field goal that elevated his side to victory from the wrong end of a 33-32 count.

NAVY DEFEATS NORTH CAROLINA FIVE, 46 TO 38

N.Y. Times

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 21—The Navy won an odd game of basketball from North Carolina today, 46 to 38, the heavy scoring being done in spurts. Navy put on the pressure twice, once in each half, to get the decision.

After Hanley had thrown a floor goal on a long side shot in the first minutes of the game, the visitors, with Branson and Dilworth leading the way, ran up 11 points before Ghesquiere, with half of the period over, shot from the floor for the middies' second field goal.

From that point the Navy gradually pushed ahead, though both Ghesquiere, center, and Captain Laney, left forward, the Navy's heavy artillery in most games, were off in their shooting. Two minutes before the half ended, Laney took a quick side shot and scored to make it 18—18. Severin and Laney followed with two-pointers, so it was 20—20 at the half.

NAVY GOES TO FRONT

The second session opened with Dilworth scoring from the foul line to put the Tar Heels a point ahead. Geis, a few seconds later, evened matters with another from the line. Ghesquiere followed with a one-pointer, and Laney, tapping in a rebound, put the Navy in the lead, 24—21.

After six minutes in the final half McCachren scored from the line, and Branson from the floor, to give North Carolina the lead, 28 to 26. Then Laney took a rebound and caged the ball to start a Navy run. The middies made 13 points in a row, the score mounting to 39—28.

This rapid-fire scoring, in which Ghesquiere led the way, as he did throughout the second half, clinched the game for the Navy, though the margin was cut slightly in the final minutes, chiefly on two long shots by Howard.

Ghesquire accounted for 18 points, of which 11 were tallied in the second period.

PLEBES ARE DEFEATED

Navy's plebe basketball team was beaten by a school team, Seton Hall, 38 to 24. Purzycki, guard, was effective in every period of the game, making a total of 17 points, with seven goals from the floor and three from the line.

Navy's wrestlers made an auspicious start under their new coach, Ray Schwartz, from Oklahoma A. and M., by defeating Virginia Military Institute, 17 to 9. Last year the Virginians won, 15½ to 12½.

Bob Searle, a newcomer on the Navy team, scored the only fall, pinning Jimmy Witt after nearly seven minutes with a body and arm lock. The Navy also won four decisions to three for the cadets.

Navy's boxers opened their season by defeating Cornell, 5—3.

Cliff Lenz, a sophomore, fighting in the varsity ranks for the first time, gave Fred Siemer, Intercollegiate Association champion, one of the hardest fights he has ever had. Lenz did well for two rounds, but strength and experience counted in the last session and Lenz, exhausted but still fighting gamely, was withdrawn by the Navy.

In the 165-pound class, Dave Peace, Cornell, a rushing fighter, scored a technical knockout halfway through the second round when he landed on Charley Kovaleski's midriff.

This was the Navy's first match under the rules amended to afford greater protection to the participants, and they worked well.

SAN ROMANI GIVES AWAY 28 YDS. BUT FAILS BY 12 AND LOSES MILE

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—Archie San Romani gave away twenty-eight yards' handicap to Phil Graves of the New York A. C. in the mile handicap special last night before some 3,000 spectators at the Grover Cleveland-Osceola Club games in the Seventh Regiment Armory, but he could not get them all back.

Ambling Archie, still fighting hard to round into top shape, recouped all but twelve of those yards as he himself was caught in 4:18.4 behind the 4:17.2 of the youthful Winged Footer, who has been something of an in-and-outer for these past four years.

Since this was a handicap affair, the performance of the transplanted Kansan in second place is far more important than the feat of Graves in winning. San Romani was beaten but far from disgraced because anything under 4:20 on the dead boards of the armory is considered better than a fair sort of job.

ACTUALLY AND ADVANCE

This was just the right tune-up for the N. Y. U. post-graduate music student. The cornet player struck a sweeter chord last night than he has in any of his races this year. Second place is actually an advance for him since he took two thirds in 3,000-meter and three-quarter-mile tests in his previous starts.

As scratch man, San Romani was in the ruck all the way, yielding handicaps up to 45 yards (Johnny Chamos, recipient), to four other starters. Archie moved up to fourth with four and a half laps to go, to third two and a half circuits from the wire, and to second on the last whirl of the boards.

Graves jumped Lieutenant Dick Bauer as the gun sounded for the final lap and pulled San Romani along with him. But the tall youth from the New York A. C. had too much sprint left in the battle around the last two turns and was able to head off the ex-Kansan in the home stretch, no mean feat since San Romani has as strong a lift in the final drive as any miler in the business.

MISSES HIS GUESS

Ambling Archie really was fooled in this test. He thought Graves was finished two laps from the wire and calmly told himself that he'd catch the Winged Footer when it came right down to the matching of sprints. "But Graves had it tonight," said Archie, with a shrug of his shoulders. "I had hoped to win this one, but I guess I'm not quite ready yet. However, I'm coming along—if there is any consolation in that."

Perhaps a word on Graves will not be amiss since he looked pretty good on his own account. He is 22 years old, a graduate of Hollywood High School in California, where he was a top-ranking scholastic half-miler in 1935 when he did 1:57. He is still taking extension courses at Stuyvesant in the hope of being able to enter Princeton next year.

The mile invitation developed into the feature of the meet since John Borican of the Shore A. C. had a shoo-in in the 600-yard invitation. The big Negro, who manages to appear better and better every time out, turned in another workmanlike job in the first 600 of his career.

The beautifully striding youth, a certain Olympic prospect next season, won this race pretty much as he pleased, striding through easily in 1:17.1, not very good time, if the truth must be known.

Of course, Borican could have driven seconds and seconds off that figure had he been pressed, but there was no one to force his hand as he won by eight yards from Bob Souvetts of Bethany College, Jack Harley of the Lenox Hill A. A. and Wilbur Kolb of Prudential, who finished behind him in that order.

Borican had intended to romp through the 600 and then take a whirl at the mile against San Romani and Co. But the schedule maker crossed him and put the mile on first. So Big John let that one go by default and concentrated on the 600.

He was jostled in the rush for the pole when Kolb shouldered him off. Borican could have forced the issue had it been necessary and thus held his ground. But there was no need for such tactics. The Jersey runner dropped back, took the lead in the next straightaway and it was clear sailing the rest of the way.

One of the big surprises of the evening was the defeat handed Howie Borck of the Sixty-ninth Regiment A. A., the national 800-meter champion, in the half-mile limited handicap affair. Sanford Goldberg of the Millrose A. A. vanquished the one-time Manhattan ace, but what made it startling was that both were on scratch.

Goldberg was off with a terrific lift until he was midway in the pack in the first lap or so, while Borck lagged behind for most of the journey. Then Howie had to climb and keep climbing. Goldie was able to match the last sprint, doing it with a yard to spare in the very sound time of 1:56.9.

The two-mile handicap saw Joe McCluskey make his indoor debut of the season, taped up like a baseball bat. Fordham Joe, still showing the effects of his fall in the steeplechase at the Sugar Bowl meet, was not at his best, but the victory still stayed in the family.

McCluskey figured that if he won the triumph would be attained by a New York A. C. runner who was a Fordham graduate. And so it was. Jimmy Rafferty, a Ram alumnus and a member of the Winged Foot club, won from Victor Dyrgall of the Millrose A. A. in 9:20.5.

Each of them had a fifty-yard handicap on McCluskey and had at least half of that left at the wire. Joe was limping slightly to starboard with every stride. His right knee was bandaged and so was his left arm, but he did not do too badly with a sixth place.

Team trophies in a handicap meet are likely to head in any given direction but the form chart held up pretty well in spite of that when New York University, winner a year ago, retained possession of the Governor Lehman Trophy with 19 points to 18 for St. John's.

HAWAIIAN-BORN JAPANESE STARS IN AUSTRALIA

Kiyoshi Nakama, Hawaiian born Japanese, who made the All-American swimming team that toured Europe in the Summer of last year, has been adding more laurels to his name with sterling performances in Australia.

Invited by the Austalian swimming organizations, Nakama went to Australia all alone in December. He was hailed there as one of the greatest mermen in competition in the United States today.

Nakama's record Down Under include the following feats, according to a mail dispatch to Domei from Sydney:

January 7: won the New South Wales 440-yard freestyle championship in 4 minutes 52 seconds, equalling the Australian record established by Jack Medica of the United States, at the Olympia pool at Sydney.

January 11: won the New South Wales 880-yard freestyle championship in 10 minutes 12.2 seconds, setting a new Australian record, at the Olympia pool at Sydney.

January 14: was second in the New South Wales 220-yard championship at the Manley Beach pool in 2 minutes 18.6 seconds.

Nakama was then to compete at Brisbane, Melbourne, Tasmania and return to Honolulu toward the latter part of March on the liner Mariposa.

Von Cramm Reported Planning A Comeback

Baron Gottfried von Cramm, one of the greatest amateur tennis players of the world who was kept from competition for the whole of last year because of a prison term in Germany, may after all be a member of the German Davis Cup team this year and present it as the strongest contender for the honors against the defending American team.

Following his release from prison, the Baron had kept away from the courts, but according to a Monte Carlo dispatch to New York, he has obtained permission from the Reich authorities to compete in the Egyptian championships at Cairo in March, says the Yomiuri. Depending on the results and the way he rounds out into form, he may yet be Germany's hope to win the Davis Cup, the report adds.

FROST WINNER OF MILITARY JUMPING EVENT

By HENRY R. ILSLEY

N.Y. Times

WEST POINT, N. Y., Jan. 22—Lieut. Col. Herbert H. Frost, head of the horse show team of the Sixty-first Cavalry Division of New York City, today captured the individual military jumping championship of the annual informal Winter fixture of the West Point Horse Show Association in the drill hall of the military academy. This is always the most interesting competition on the card at the attractive exhibition.

Today's show attracted the largest gathering since the event was inaugurated, the spectators filling the balconies and the grandstand which was erected for the first time along the west side of the huge structure.

Frost gave an outstanding performance over the testing Course B to win the first trophy in a field of exactly two dozen, including representatives of his own outfit, officers stationed at West Point, the New York City Mounted Police and a few members of the first class of cadets. He had the mount on the veteran performer Jeb Stuart.

CAPTURES SECOND TROPHY

The second trophy was awarded to Captain C. K. Darling of West Point after a tie with Captain G. M. Kauffman of the Sixty-first. Fourth was Captain Frank De K. Huyyer, also of the Sixty-first, which thus took three of the four places.

Additional honors were gained by the Sixty-first Cavalry riders when they placed first and third in the jumping event for military teams of three.

Taking first place and the three trophies were Frost, Huyler and Kauffman and their victory was decisive, all three riders turning in perfect scores.

The West Point first team, made up of Captain Darling, Lieutenant S. Sawicki and Lieutenant C. P. Robbins placed second with 15 faults. The Sixty-first riders, on different mounts, finished third with 16 faults, leading the second team of the New York Mounted Police, listed for 24 points.

THIRTY-SEVEN COMPETE

There was intense rivalry among the members of the Second Squadron of the Tenth Cavalry stationed at the academy in the contest for the Sixty-first Cavalry horse show team trophy, presented by Frost for the annual indoor show. It is for enlisted men of the squadron, jumping government-owned horses. In view of the fact that the troopers had only two practice sessions they did some excellent jumping over Course A.

Thirty-seven entered and ten survived the elimination process. There were three individual trophies and four ribbons for the placed riders. First was won by Private S. Ware, with second going to Private E. Smith and third to Private H. W. Johnson.

Special interest was shown in the class for government-owned horses jumped by officers or members of their families. Robbins carried off the trophy in a close contest with Mrs. C. K. Darling. Lieutenant J. J. Heriot gaining the third ribbon.

There was comedy aplenty in the obstacle race for members of the cadet polo team. The event provided jumping for both mounts and riders and the latter also had to crawl through pup tents. Four qualified for the final, Cadet F. W. Boye Jr., winning by a narrow margin from Cadet W. W. West. The third ribbon went to Cadet B. C. Andrus.

HENLEY REGATTA WON'T SEE JAPANESE CREW

Japan will not send a crew to compete in the Henley Regatta on the Thames in June, celebrating its 100th anniversary, according to a decision reached by the Japan Rowing Association on February 18 and made public Tuesday night.

Neither will a crew be dispatched to the European championships for this year.

TO CONCENTRATE ON OLYMPICS

Instead, the Association will center all efforts on the development of crews for the 12th Olympic Games at Helsinki. It emphatically took the stand that for the future of this sport in Japan, it is imperative that Japan participate at Helsinki. If in the event Japan's delegation must be cut to the minimum from consideration of the country's international accounts and other reasons the Association proposes that oarsmen for the races for the fours with coxswain and pairs without coxswain, in which there is hope for victory, be sent to Helsinki.

The Association's final decision so far as competition in the Olympic Games next year will be made after the Government announces its attitude. Welfare Minister Hisatada Hirose, recently in reply to an interpellation at a meeting of the House of Representatives Budget Committee, declared that the Government would watch developments in the future and accordingly decide its attitude.

PAN-PACIFIC REGATTA

It was disclosed at the meeting that the Association is planning the holding of a Pan-Pacific regatta next Autumn to mark the opening of the Toda course which was ordinally meant for the 12th Olympic Games in Tokyo. The invitation of a number of foreign crews is being contemplated.

The Association formally moved to revive the national intercollegiate championships which have been suspended for several years.

In a letter received by director J. W. Rangell, chairman of the Organization Committee, the U.S. confirmed that in all kinds of sport contested according to the program of Helsinki, they are going to start.

WESTERN STYLE OF BASKETBALL SUPPLANTING EASTERN IN AMERICA

By STANLEY FRANK

In a certain sense, Twenty-third Street in New York City is the most famous sports stem in the whole wide world. For nearly forty years the street dictated all basketball theory and teaching.

But the counterman in the ham burger joint on the southwest corner of Ninth Avenue and Twenty-third said he never heard tell of Beckman, Dehnert or Barry. And none of the guests in the chateau creased the blighter's brow with the ketchup bottle when he admitted out loud that he had never even heard of the Original Celtics.

GOTHAM PRODUCTS

A fine thing. The oldest inhabitant of Twenty-third Street doesn't know that the Original Celtics, greatest team basketball has ever seen, was essentially a neighborhood team during the fifteen years it was recognized as the best in the business. Dutch Dehnert, originator of the pivot play, Johnny Beckman, Pete Barry, Chris Leonard, Joe Trippe and Johnny Witty, the Celtics who were to become world champions, were born and raised on Twenty-third Street between Ninth and Tenth avenues. There were important additions later: Nat Holman, basketball's Babe Ruth, and Davey Banks from the teeming East Side; Joe Lapchick from suburban Yonkers, but the Celtics never lost their identity as the neighbors children.

Today the basketball influence of New York is dead and gone. The inquisitive citizen must travel briskly to find the most typical basketball being played this season—and which will be played five years hence. For the sphere of basketball power has moved westward, steadily and irresistibly.

All of which was to be expected. Basketball is played far too extensively and well in every part of the country to be ruled despotically by one street, one city or even one state. The South, perhaps, is the only backward section and Jimmy St. Clair, former S. M. U. coach, foresees a sharp upswing as soon as high-school coaching in the canebrakes improves. There's a lot in what he says. The South once lagged in football and every literate American knows that gladiators from Dixie are very tough gents to shave now. Tories in the East will holler murder at this, but the parade is passing by the East's concept of how basketball should be played and the trend is not determined by the mere winning of games that involve a handful of college kids. If the Number 1 team of the country is the hallmark of sectional superiority, the East led the field last year, anyway. No other team ever completed a picture of national conquest to equal Temple University's trick of defeating Stanford, Illinois, Oklahoma Aggies, Colorado, Southern Methodist, Bradley Tech and N. Y. U., all the big noises in their respective sections.

What matter who wins a few games? The pertinent point is that the basketball that will attract at least twenty million spectators and participants this season is as distinctively Western as the horse opera—without the horses, to be sure, but with all the hell-for-leather action and fury.

Eastern coaches say the Western style is screwy, unorthodox. The customers, by their ecstatic response, say it's swell entertainment and that's why the purists, who once sat in the driver's seat, now are copying the Wild West.

THE FANS DICTATE THE GAME

"Two years ago I thought the deceptive hipper-dipper we always used in the East was the nuts," Clair Bee, Long Island University's astute coach, confesses. "Now I want the drive and speed emphasized by the West. It may not win more games for me, but the fans think it's more exciting, and that's the answer."

"They still play sounder technical basketball in the East," John Bunn cheerfully concedes. Mr. Bunn is the gent who gave us Hank Luisetti, the all-time glamor boy of college basketball, and that large, lovely Stanford team that beat the quivering daylights out of practically everybody in circulation. "They have the better-trained players but we have the better athletes. The West is winning the ball games because we're operating on the theory that basketball is a hard contact game while the East still fools around with that bean-bag, patty-cake stuff."

It was inevitable that the Western style would supplant the Eastern. It couldn't miss, for the basketball evolved on the prairies and in the tall timber appeals to the mob. The West's sock-'em-rock-'em methods have a stronger pull at the box office than the East's finesse-and-fool-'em tactics and, as Mr. Bee suggests, that's the pay-off.

Fundamentally the West sponsors fury over Eastern finesse; drive over deception; speed over shiftiness. The West treasures youths who can run all night like foolish and frightened fawns until they are stopped by (a) the final whistle, or (b) a wall of the building. In the East, a flat-foot floogie who can jockey his opponent out of position is considered a very jewel of a basketball player.

Western kids look for the basket alone and will cheerfully gamble with a laywire heave as long as there is a hoop intact in the arena. Eastern courtmen are taught to look for the smart play and too many coaches are overcome with the sheer horror of it all if a player takes a pot shot at the basket without a 90-10 edge in his favor. The West advocates a whirlwind physical game while the East strived, until a year ago, at least, to retain the characteristics that were making basketball an intellectual pastime resembling animated chess.

The Wild West has routed the sissy East so completely that basketball, as it is being played now, is the nearest approach to perpetual motion in sports. It is estimated a basketball is in play thirty-eight minutes in every forty, a calculation that makes football, with fourteen minutes of actual play in every sixty, a slow-motion exercise by comparison.

When those statistics were made known last Winter, Eastern coaches almost threw a conniption fit in the fear that the flower of American youth would be destroyed by the killing pace. In the thesis for his master degree, Bunn presented evidence showing a 50-second quarter mile, one fast set of tennis or a 440-yard swim took more out of an athlete than a full basketball game. Last year at New Orleans, Loyola and Centenary played a bit of a ball game for themselves. Centenary finally won, 78-72, after a five-minute extra period. The players got along famously, but two spectators fainted in the confusion.

That's the sort of thing near and dear to the heart of the West—lots of running, excitement and scoring. Eastern customers, educated to appreciate tight defenses and precise position play on the floor, always thought their section represented everything fine and beautiful in basketball until they got a load of a real race-horse team from the West two years ago in Madison Square Garden. Manhattan College defeated Utah State, 39-32, to the loud accompaniment of frantic yelps of anguish from the cognoscenti in the house, who shrieked that it was the poorest demonstration of technical basketball ever seen on this footstool. Maybe it was, but they ignored the fact that the Garden was transformed into a huge psychopathic ward with 17,000 happy inmates.

'MUST' REQUISITES IN A PLAYER

The point of today's high scores is: More field goals mean more exertion, which, in turn, means a great emphasis on the purely physical aspects of basketball. This fundamental fact of life is the chief bone of contention between East and West and nothing proved it more conclusively than a simple question propounded to two leading authorities last Winter. The identical question was asked of John Bunn, whose Stanford team won the Pacific Coast Conference title three years in a row, and C. C. N. Y.'s Nat Holman, perhaps the best player of all time and a coaching criterion for the last two decades.

The question: How do you rate, in order of importance, the five "must" requisites you look for in a player?

The answers:

Holman	Bunn
Ball handling	Height
Shiftiness	Drive
Endurance	Team spirit
Shot	Condition
Poise	Experience

A brief analysis of the parallel lists throws more light on the subject than any profound treatise possibly could. Holman wants qualifications that are strictly technical in derivation; endurance is the only physical element he seeks. Bunn's first four requirements are physical attributes and he lumps the technical talents stressed by Holman under the loose, vague classification of experience, the last item.

It is not difficult to understand the divergent viewpoint of each man. Bunn is representative of the new school that came in when college basketball was just beginning to go big-time and capitalize on the feuds and fanfare of football. Experienced basketball players were scarce in most parts of the country and since everybody was starting from scratch, the coaches, in self-defense, placed a premium on height and weight.

BUT SIZE ISN'T EVERYTHING

Holman, like most Eastern-trained veterans, goes back to Twenty-third Street where small men ranked with the best in the business. There was the great Barney Sedran, who never weighed more than 115 pounds and still is rated among the first five pros of all time. Holman himself was not a big man, but he and comparatively little follows such as Benny Borgman, Rody Cooney, Lou Sugarman, Johnny Beckman and Harry Hough regularly made chumps of magnificent lumps of meat, bone and hair by outmaneuvering and outsmarting them.

Finns Win Students' 30-Km. Relay Ski Title

Domei Tsushin

LILLEHAMMER, Norway, Feb. 21—Shooting into the lead with the starting gun, the Finnish relay team today scored an easy victory in the five-man 30-kilometer ski event in the international students' Winter sports championships being staged here. The Finnish squad completed the course in the time of 1 hour 46 minutes and 38 seconds, followed by the Norwegian team which placed second and the Swedish squad which came in third. The French team was disqualified when the first runner took the wrong course.

In the ice hockey competitions, meanwhile, Hungary's smooth functioning squad swamped the Norwegian sextet by the overwhelming score of 11-0.

Events today were held under ideal weather conditions.

RANGERS ROUT CANADIENS, 7-3 AT N.Y. GARDEN

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS

N.T. Times

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—Little difficulty was experienced by the New York Rangers in their National Hockey League game with the Canadiens of Montreal at Madison Square Garden last night. The Blue Shirts, held even in the first period, launched a steady bombardment on their rivals' cage and succeeded in humbling them by the decisive count of 7 to 3.

The game was the first on local ice in a week and attracted 11,113 spectators, who were satisfied with the all-around brilliance displayed by the New York skaters. Also, the contest saw the return to action of Lynn Patrick, the speedy Ranger forward, who had been confined to the sidelines for a month with water on the knee. Lynn scored once against Wilfie Cude, guardian of the Canadien cage.

HAYNES STARTS SCORING

Paul Haynes of the Northerners notched the first tally early in the opening period, but his achievement was equalized by Neil Colville long before the end of the session.

In the middle chapter the New Yorkers went ahead on a goal by Alex Shibicky, but they were overtaken when Armand Mondou tallied. This second deadlock was soon broken, however, and broken with a vengeance, for Mac Colville came through twice in the space of 36 seconds to give the New Yorkers a lead they never relinquished.

Late in the second frame Louis Trudel made the Habitants' last contribution to the scoring column. They tried desperately in the final period, going to the extent of moving all their skaters into Ranger territory, but this strategy proved their undoing, for it enabled the Rangers to catch them off guard often enough to score three more goals by George Allen, Lynn Patrick and Phil Watson.

The Canadiens started at a fast pace and for the first few minutes kept the action in the vicinity of the Blue Shirts' goal. Kerr repulsed several shots, but he had to yield a goal when Haynes, in a neat stick-handling advance, split the defense and drilled the puck into the cords, unassisted, in 3:17.

SIEBERT IS PENALIZED

This lead remained with the Canadiens only a little more than ten minutes. Midway through the period they lost Babe Siebert on a penalty and the Patrickmen lost little time converting their advantage into a score. Shibicky and Art Coulter advanced across the Blue line and set the disk in position for Neil Colville, who released a short drive which flew past Cude in 13:30.

Just before the period ended the Canadiens lost Red Goupille on a penalty, but there was too little time for the Rangers to do anything. When hostilities were resumed, however, the locals sprang into the lead, Shibicky converting passes from Mac Colville and Allen in 0:46.

The sides were even when Mondou scored on relays from Red Lorrain and Trude in 6:00, giving the Frenchmen some hope. When Siebert and Neil Colville were sent off for roughing, however, this hope dissipated through two brilliant coups by Mac Colville.

He accepted a long pass from Heller to beat Cude from the right in 11:30, and followed this by taking the rubber from Babe Pratt on the next face-off and sending it into the net with a straight shot in 12:06.

GAGNON GETS ASSIST

From that point on the Canadiens devoted all their efforts to rushing. They met with some success in 18:41, when Trudel scored with the assistance of Toe Blake and Johnny Gagnon.

Early in the third period the Habitants had a numerical advantage and sought to realize on it. They were caught off guard, though, when Pratt stole the puck and steamed the length of the rink to blast a hard shot off Cude's pads. Cude made a good save, but could not control the rebound which Allen lifted into the goal in 4:52.

Through the remainder of the session the invaders played wide open, aggressive hockey, but with sad results. For in 17:02 Allen and Clint Smith darted away with the puck and set it up for Lynn Patrick, who counted easily, and in 18:56 Hiller stole a pass and gave the rubber to Watson, who fashioned a spectacular tally from the left.

The eighth annual All-Japan inter-city table tennis championships will be held at Keijo on May 20 and 21 under the auspices of the Japan Table Tennis Association.

It will be the first tournament of such gigantic scale to be held outside of Japan proper.

The first round matches will be held in the various districts with the second round tilts to be played off by April 23 at Sapporo, Akita, Sendai, Niigata, Mito, Tokyo, Nagoya, Kobe, Osaka, Hiroshima, Takamatsu, Nagasaki, Keijo and Aomori to determine the contestants in the Keijo championships.

Rin Shoots a 154 To Win Kanto Pros' Tourney at Kawana

Rin Manfuku, Taiwanese who won the national open golf championship last year shot a 154 over 36 holes to win the Baron Okura Invitational Kanto Professional Golfers tournament Wednesday at the Fuji course at Kawana. He registered a 78 in the morning round and a 76 in afternoon to defeat a field of 32 contestants.

Yoshio Uchida of Mukden was second with a 155.

The others within the first five best scores were:

Rokuzo Atomi (Hodogaya) 157; Chin Sei-sui (Musashino) 157; Yoshiichi Murakami (Kawana) 160; Toyoharu Kato (Sagami) 160; Taketo Fujii (Koganei) 161; Seiji Inouye (Sagami), 161.

Passages Are Booked For British Ryder Cup Team to U.S.

LONDON, Feb. 14—Although no move has yet been made toward selecting Great Britain's professional team for this year's Ryder Cup biennial golf match, trans-Atlantic passages have been booked for the men who will travel to America in the Autumn with the object of regaining the trophy.

Commdr. R. C. T. Roe, Secretary of the British Professional Golfers' Association, told Reuter that the match would be held either in the last week of October or during the first week of November, and that traveling arrangements had been made with that period in view.

The last contest in America, in 1935, was held at the end of September, and it was agreed then that Autumn was the most suitable time for playing the event in America, owing to the intense heat.

The United States won the Cup at Southport in June, 1937, scoring the first "away" victory in the series.

700 LICENSED JOCKEYS ACTIVE IN AMERICA

Time

There are some 700 licensed jockeys in the United States. Coming down the home-stretch of the 1938 horse-racing circuit, 28-year-old Johnny Longden of Calgary, Canada, and 24-year-old Johnny Adams of Iola, Kans. led the field in a neck & neck race late in December for the jockey championship of the year. Solemn, sharp-faced Jockey Longden was in front with 222 winners; jolly pink-faced Jockey Adams, last year's champion, close behind with 208. Both were racing at the Tanforan track outside San Francisco, riding six or seven mounts a day, and flying down to Mexico for Sunday racing at Agua Caliente in their attempt to chalk up the most winners by December 31.

For California racing fans, impatiently awaiting the opening of Santa Anita on the last day of the year, the Adams v. Longden rivalry was particularly exciting. Although neither jockey is as well known nationally as Eddie Arcaro, generally considered the best rider in the country, or Nick Wall, No. 1 money winner of the year (some $400,000 for his employers), Johnny Longden and Johnny Adams are great favorites on the West Coast.

Many Californians will never forget the thrill they experienced when Jockey Adams rode six winners in a row (five of them long shots) at Bay Meadows one afternoon last Spring—a feat that only seven U.S. jockeys have ever accomplished. Others who had seen him break a leg during a race at Del Mar last Summer, marveled at his ability to be out in front again after being dismounted for two months. A barrel-chested pee-wee (4 ft. 8 in.) who learned to ride on the Western "bush" tracks (county fairs), still lives in a trailer and looks as clumsy as Ichabod Crane on a horse, Johnny Adams has an extraordinary flair for getting the best out of the cheapest plater.

Unlike Johnny Adams, Johnny Longden has raced on the "big apple" (New York tracks), has matched his skill against the top-notch jockeys of the country at all the Eastern tracks, is the second highest money winner ($250,000) as well as the leading rider. Ever since 1935 when he made his Eastern debut by winning five out of six races on Bert Baroni's Top Row, Johnny Longden has been in great demand. A contract rider for the famed Wheatley Stable until two months ago, he is now under contract to Don Cameron, trainer for the stables of Mrs. John Hertz, Vera Bragg and J. Shirley Riley, at $17,000 a year—highest salary of any U. S. jockey.

In addition to his salary (for first call on his services), Jockey Longden, like most of his colleagues, receives $10 for every race he enters, $15 extra for every race he wins and 10 per cent of the winning purse. His income this year is about $50,000. Although some earn more than many a bank president and others earn less than plumbers, all jockeys complain that they have to spend 50 per cent of their earnings for expenses.

Every jockey has a valet (to carry his tack and help saddle his mounts) and an agent (to get engagements for him). To his valet he must pay $2 every time he races, an extra $1 every time he wins. To his agent he must pay a similar sum plus 10 per cent of his 10 per cent share of the winning purse. A jockey also pays for his saddles (he usually owns two or three of varying weights), whips, boots, breeches and rubber reducing suit—if he has to keep his weight down. Next to losing their bank rolls, jockeys dread gaining weight. Longden and Adams are both so small (105 lb.) that they ned not diet, but most riders count their calories, knowing well that a heavy rider (118 to 125 lbs.) gets infrequent engagements, soon discovers that he must look for a job as jockey's agent or exercise boy.

EUROPEAN CHAMPION

On the shoulders of his second is Tenet, who recently won the middleweight boxing championship of Europe by defeating Christoforidis, in Paris.

RUPPERT TOSSED FORTUNES INTO BASEBALL FOR SOLE PURPOSE OF PRODUCING WINNER

The late Colonel Jacob Ruppert owner of the Yankees, was perhaps the first millionaire to turn to baseball as a hobby. And the thrills and prestige he derived from the game caused other men of wealth to toss fortunes into baseball in recent years primarily for the sporting purpose of producing a winner. Profit was secondary with Colonel Jake and he spent recklessly to buy players who would bring him championships. William Wrigley of Chicago's Clubs, Tom Yawkey of Boston's Red Sox and Walter Briggs of Detroit's Tigers are other wealthy sportsmen who followed Ruppert into baseball.

The high sale prices, big salaries and holdouts of recent years also can be traced to the Yankee brewmaster. Back in 1919 Rupper paid the Boston Red Sox the then fabulous sum of $125,000 for Babe Ruth. Later years saw many players sold for around $100,000, while Yawkey paid $250,000 for Joe Cronin.

Players' salaries began to rise all over the major leagues as word of Babe Ruth's huge pay spread. Athletes gathered new ideas of their own worth as Babe's cheque rose and rose until it reached $80,000 in 1930-31.

Following Babe's lead dozens of the players adopted holdout tactics in the Spring. There had been previous holdouts, stubborn holdouts, but the strategy of the holdout as a publicity stunt as well as a lever to force larger salaries came from Ruth.

Both players and club owners discovered the publicity value of holdout maneuvers as Ruth and Ruppert claimed thousands of sport page columns through their annual disagreements. And the happy picture of the Babe and the Colonel finally reaching an amicable understanding, generally signing a contract under the Florida palms, is familiar to every sport addict.

While intensely interested in and personally acquainted with most of the Yankee players, Ruppert left the operation of the club strictly to his managers, Miller Huggins and later Joe McCarthy, and the business director, Ed Barrow, and backed them unreservedly in their every act.

Canadian Fighter Defeats Italian In Bout in London

LONDON, Jan. 17—Al Delaney, the Canadian heavyweight, did enough to prove that he should be a troublesome challenger for the Empire title in beating Merlo Preciso, the Italian, on points in the N. S. C. program at Earl's Court last night.

A knock-out victory would have been more impressive, but Preciso just would not bend the knee. Twice he went down, but got up before the count could start.

The crowd called for Delaney to finish it off, but it was more than he could do. The Italian is tough.

Delaney was very confident from the start. He had an advantage of a stone, and he threw it into all his punches, but the redness of his face and the look of pain in his eyes was the only signal of distress the Italian showed.

In the fifth round he looked like going, rocked back by a right and left, but he tucked his chin into his chest and weathered the storm. Delaney was relentlessly picking his punches, and in the seventh round followed a right swing with a vicious left hook, but still Preciso stood up.

Delaney was surprised and shaken by a clout he received in the eighth round, but he went on pounding away again without completing his opponent's downfall.

A newcomer to the professional ring, Jim Gully, of Chester, captured the imagination. Over 6ft tall, with proportionate reach, this former Guards' champion pushed his left frequently enough into the face of Ginger Hauxwell to get the verdict, which was some compensation for the loss of a tooth in the second round. His display suggested that he might achieve a lot.

CARDINALS WON BATTING HONORS BUT PLACED 6TH

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—Slugging honors in the National League last Summer went to the St. Louis Cardinals, individually and collectively. Even in the middle of Winter, however, this is an empty reward for the Gashouse Gang, who finished sixth in the standings, while the Chicago Cubs won the pennant without a player in the top ten and finished fifth as a team.

Official figures showed Johnny Mize the leading swatsmith with 326 total bases in 531 times at bat for a slugging percentage of .614. Joe Medwick led in runs batted in with 122—this third consecutive year at the top in this department. The Cards as a unit led the league in both these departments.

Mize's lead was based on 27 triples, most in the league. Mel Ott led in home runs with 36, and led in receiving bases on balls with 118, bringing his record of 100 free trips or more a season to six. He was also hit three times in one game by pitched balls to the a 28-year-old League record.

Cincinnati had three hitters among the slugging leaders—Ival Goodman, Ernie Lombardi and Wallie Berger—finishing one point behind the Giants in slugging.

Miscellaneous marks of the season also included Vince DiMaggio of Boston striking out for the most times for the second consecutive year. His 134 whiffs set a new record. In contrast, Jim Brown of St. Louis struck out fewest times, nine, among players who competed in 100 or more games.

For the third straight year the New York Giants led in getting hit by pitched balls with 33 hit batsmen. But Goodman of the Reds was hit 15 times, and the Reds by having four players hit in one game, tied a 35-year-old record held by the Giants.

The Cubs established a new record for hitting into double plays with 157, beating Boston's mark of 146 made in 1936. Among the individuals, Lombardi hit into 30 double killings to better his own record of 24 made in 1934. Johnny Hudson of Brooklyn hit into three in one game to equal a record held by a number of plays.

The Dodgers received the most bases on balls, 611, of which 119 went to Camilli. To balance the books, the Dodgers also struck out the most times, 615.

Chicago was the best road team and Boston the best home team each winning 45 and losing 30 in the respective classifications.

GALENTO'S RISE RECALLS PAST FAT PUGILISTS

NEW YORK—When the New York Boxing Commission barred Tony Galento, rotund New Jersey heavyweight, from battling in New York State, the reason officially given for such a ruling was that the offender's actions were detrimental to the best interests of boxing. This somewhat cryptic statement was later clarified for the benefit of the press by the Commission's chief, General John J. Phelan, who explained that the ban was put on Tony because he failed to obey the board's edict to train properly for a prospective battle in Madison Square Garden.

Galento, naturally a stout and girthy person, has never been a disciple of the "slimming" cult. Dieting does not appeal to him, as one could easily guess by a glance at his ample waist-line. Even when in training, Tony finds moments of relaxation at the bar of the saloon he owns in Orange, when customers drink his good health and he responds by quaffing flagons of foamy beer.

It was this beer absorbing stunt, duly chronicled by the sport press, and verified by Commission scouts, that put Tony into the bad graces of the Board. Galento himself has always claimed that he was born pudgy, continued to keep a thick, comfortable coat of fat on his framework as he grew up, and is at his fighting best when he eats and drinks whatever he likes, and carries plenty of poundage into the ring.

FAITH IN TONY

In this belief he has the support of thousands of loyal Jerseyites who have great faith in Tony's slugging abilities. They like his rough-house milling methods, which have served him well since he started fighting in 1929. His record lists nearly 100 battles. He dropped a few point decisions and was stopped once in three rounds by Marty Gallagher, but on the other hand he has 38 clean knockouts to his credit.

Not so many years ago, as time flies, a scrapper of Galento's calibre and easy-going habits would not have encountered any difficulty in marketing his fistic wares around New York, or in any part of the Country, for that matter. In the days before boxing commissions functioned, there was little or no fuss made over a fighter's physical condition by promoters. If a battler wanted to carry excess fat on his carcass, that was his own affair.

The powers-that-be of the modern boxing world are more critical and particular in these respects, and unquestionably the precaution they take are all for the good of the game.

It may be, however, that Galento might go along making satisfactory slugging history, if unhampered by official restrictions. Not that the writer wishes to decry the value of hard, earnest training in any branch of athletics. No doubt the obese Jersey boxer would be all the more efficient if he practiced self-denial as regards the consumption of rich food and malt liquors, and stuck closer to orthodox training methods.

Yet fistic history offers some odd examples of fat maulers who ought to have been "scant of breath" and an easy mark for any well-conditioned opponent, but who showed extraordinary endurance despite the handicap of superfluous tonnage. Their performances were amazing.

Probably the most oustanding is that of Ed Dunkhorst, known as "the Human Freight Car," who hailed from Philly and weighed over 300 pounds. Dunk was six feet tall, and was particularly well padded about the abdomen. This wide front extension looked like a regular gift for a stiff puncher.

Yet some of the toughest heavyweights of his day slammed away at the huge chap without seeming to hurt him much. It is worth nothing that Dunkhorst, in spite of his size, was not an abnormal eater, nor did he drink to excess. That is, considering his bulk. But he wasn't the sort of party one would want to board cheaply, just the same!

Gus Ruhlin, whom Billy Madden was grooming with a view to getting a shot at heavyweight champion Jeffries' title, was matched with the big fellow. The Akron Giant, as Ruhlin was called, was not only a good boxer, but could hit hard with either hand, and Gus confidently expected to stop his opponent. They met at Coney Island in 1898.

Ruhlin got the decision in 20 rounds. Though he walloped Dunkhorst's tempting stomach with jarring hooks and jolts, time and again, the blows didn't appear to make much impression on the recipient.

'NATURAL' FAT SUBJECT

The fact of the matter was that Dunkhorst, a "natural" fat subject, possessed unusually hard, steel-like abdominal muscles, under a covering cushion of flesh, and he could consequently stand up under punishment in that region which would have wrecked the average pug.

Joe Choynski was in his prime then, and Joe could punch with the best of 'em. Jeffries once said that Choynski hit him the hardest wallop he ever felt when Joe smashed a right to his jaw in the tenth session of their battle on the coast in 1896, which ended in a twenty-round draw.

Choynski took on Dunkhorst in Chicago a few months after the Ruhlin bout. They went six rounds, and Joe got the decision. But Joe had said prior to the contest that he would kayo the Eastern monster, and he tried his best. But in the second round Dunkhorst landed a right swing behind Joe's ear that nearly capsized the Californian.

Choynski stuck to jabbing tactics after that, and forgot all about his knockingout ambitions. It was safer that way! What puzzled Joe, was what also had puzzled Ruhlin—the fact that though he sunk his right glove up to the wrist in Dunkhorst's stomach several times—the punches never disturbed Dunk in the least.

German Skiers Star In Students' Meet

Domei Tsushin

LILLEHAMMER, Norway, Feb. 22—German athletes took first honors in three of the four skiing events held today in the international students' Winter sports championships now being staged here.

While Harro Cranz of Germany was capturing the men's slalom event in the time of 2 minutes 20 seconds, Miss Elizabeth Hoferer, also of Germany, won the same event in the women's field in the time of 2 minutes 33.8 seconds.

In the Alpine combination downhill and slalom, Olaf Raabe of Norway won the men's event by compiling 366 points while Miss Helga Goedl of Germany won the women's event with 250 points.

In the ice hockey competitions, the powerful Czechoslovak team swamped Norway seven goals to none while Sweden, which tied Czechoslovakia on Tuesday, nosed out Poland two goals to one.

McCarthy's Today Defeats Seabiscuit And Sets Mile Mark

SANTA ANITA, Calif., Feb. 14—Neil McCarthy's Today, a six-to-one outsider in a three-horse field, defeated the great Sea Biscuit of Charles S. Howard by two and a quarter lengths today in a new track record time for the mile.

Sea Biscuit was pulled up lame in his first race since last November and his handlers doubted if he would be able to participate in the classic Santa Anita Handicap on March 4.

Today registered the record track time of one minute 35 3/5 seconds, or one fifth under the former mark set by Top Row two years ago. Marcia finished third.

CANADIAN FIVE DUE JULY 4 FOR 12 GAMES

The Western Club, Canada's championship basketball team for the 1938 season, will definitely arrive at Yokohama on July 4 next aboard the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Hikawa Maru for a series of 12 games in the Empire.

Ten players and two coaches will arrive, according to information received by the Foreign Office Thursday.

During their stay of one month, the Canadians will play in Tokyo, the Kansai, Kyushu, Tohoku and Chosen. They are scheduled to leave from Yokohama on August 3 aboard the Hive Maru.

The Western Club, considered the world's best basketball combination outside of the United States, should furnish the Japanese teams with plenty of competition and Japanese fans are in for a royal treat. At that, they will have to be good to win because the Japanese have improved by leaps and bounds in this sport. And the Japanese Basketball Association has been pushing a three-year program for development of a strong team for the 12th Olympic Games. Unfortunately, the Olympic Organizing Committee at Helsinki has not included basketball in its official program.

From the consideration that the Canadian team is composed of university graduates and school teachers, the Foreign Office officials are of the opinion that their visit will afford them an excellent opportunity of having some firsthand knowledge of Japan, and hence contribute to improving Canadian-Japanese relations.

From Canada too, producer of the world's best ice hockey teams, has come a request for an invitation of a team for competition here next season. In return, Canada would invite two figure skaters from Japan.

The Japan Skating Federation is of the opinion that ice hockey in Japan has just about reached its maximum point and is getting nowhere, and for its further development, it would be a step in the right direction to invite a strong foreign team with the view to learning new technique.

Last time a Canadian team was in Japan in 1935 when a Saskatchewan sextet made a clean sweep in the games.

HARVEY LOOKS AHEAD TO BUSY BOXING YEAR

By LEN HARVEY

LONDON, Jan. 15—I suppose that I can regard 1938 as being a very happy year for myself. Two fights, both for championships, and I won two titles and a brace of Lonsdale belts. That I shall have plenty of work during the next few months is an assured fact, but just how things will turn out is problematical.

As I am my own manager, I shall be quite pleased to consider any reasonable offer which is made to me by other managers or by a promoter, in the usual way.

One proposal I have received is to match me first with James J. Braddock, the former world's heavyweight champion, who lost his title to Louis; then with Tommy Farr, in a bout that would involve the British title; and, finally, with another of the leading American big men, such as Bob Pastor or Max Baer.

For the scheme to be carried right through I have to win all three contests, and, if I am successful, every effort will be made to procure me a title fight with whoever happens to be champion.

Braddock has since accepted the offer to meet me, and I have also agreed to the proposal.

It was hoped that the contest would take place in March, but Joe Gould, who managed Braddock before taking over the affairs of Tommy Farr, has asked for the proposed bout to be put back until May 10 or May 11, as it would be necessary for the American to have two tuning-up fights at home before venturing abroad.

This I regard as a huge compliment.

May is a long way off, however, and just as it is necessary for Braddock to shake off any rust that may have accumulated since his last bout, which was with Tommy Farr nearly 12 months ago, so I shall need a fight or two to keep me in tune.

18 YEARS OF BOXING

The position regarding the offer apparently made by Sydney Hulls—according to the Press—for me to meet Larry Gains has undergone a distinct change during the last few days.

The difficulty here is that my acceptance of a contest for the British Empire title might interfere with the other more ambitious plans I have in mind and upon which I am working at the moment.

In any case, I look forward with pleasure to one of the busiest years of my long career. It is just 18 years ago today that I took part in my first contest at Plymouth, and I then weighed about 6st.

It is generally agreed that at the present time we possess a prolific array of youthful lightweight talent.

In Eric Boou we have a youngster of 19 reigning as champion. His rival, Arthur Danahar—due to fight him next month—is not much older, while the rest of the leading challengers, Jimmy Vaughan, Jack Carrick, Ronnie James, Johnny McGrory, and even Dave Crowley, are all in the early twenties.

In the past some of boxing's greatest heroes have emanated from the ranks of those who battle away at the poundage of 9st. 9lbs.

Freddy Welsh, Benny Leonard, Joe Gans, Battling Nelson, Packy McFarland, Willie Ritchie, Al Wolgast, Tony Canzoneri, and Barney Ross were all magnificent boxers who held the world's light-weight title at one time.

They combined ring science with accurate punching and concise hitting. And their deeds with the gloves will never be forgotten.

For some time the National Sporting Club has paid particular attention to the light-weights. Their own particular protege, Arthur Danahar, has provided the feature item on programs with regularity, and he makes another appearance at the Empress Hall.

His rival is Robert Disch, the Dutch champion, who is no stranger to London, having met a fair number of our leading men at his weight with varying success.

He is a fast-moving performer of considerable experience although up to now he has not given evidence that he possesses a dangerous punch.

We all know that Danahar carries a lethal delivery, but whether he will be able to land it with full effect on the elusive Dutchman remains to be seen.

The fight should be a most interesting one, and give the Londoner a thorough testing, besides adding to his experience.

I wish, however, that the club would not indulge so heavily in foreign talent. These international matches usually provide plenty of entertainment, but they do not get us anywhere so far as our championships are concerned.

Only by finding the best possible man at each weight to wear our native crowns can we hope to discover men good enough to challenge for world honors.

Of the eight world's titles, only one is held this side of the Atlantic, and with the sport enjoying its present-day popularity we should be doing something about bringing home one or two of these great honors.

Miss Taylor Retains Figure-skating Title

Miss Cecilia Colledge (Great Britain) the British and European champion was unable to participate in the competition owing to an injured heel.

PRAGUE, Feb. 13—The scores were: Megan Taylor, England, 373,022 points; Hedy Stenuf, U.S.A., 356.733, Lydia Veicht, Germany, 355.331; Evy Nyklova, Czechoslovakia, 350.636; and Emmi Putzinger, Germany, 349.262.

CONN DEFEATS FRED APOSTOLI OVER 15 ROUNDS

Billy Conn of Pittsburgh defeated Freddie Apostoli, San Francisco claimant to the world middleweight championship, in a savage and thrilling 15-round overweight bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Although no title was at stake, Conn achieved a certain amount of glory by becoming the first boxer ever to beat Apostoli twice. He scored his first victory over the Italian-American, who is recognized as middleweight champion by the New York State Athletic Commission, last month. His initial triumph over Apostoli followed a surprise victory over Solly Krieger, recognized as middleweight titleholder by the National Boxing Association.

WINS ON POINTS

As on the previous occasion, Conn won on points following a brilliant rally in the closing rounds which caused the spectators to rise to their legs and cheer themselves hoarse.

Nineteen thousand spectators watched Conn win the "revenge" fight by a slight margin. The referee and two judges unanimously awarded Conn the decision. Ringside experts and newspapermen, however, believed that the result was doubtful until the final two rounds when Conn staged a furious comeback.

Knocked down for a count, of two in the sixth round, Conn unleashed a stinging left jab attack in the final rounds, clinching the victory. Apostoli, who boasted before the fight that Conn's blows could not hurt him, backed away from the ferocious attack.

The referee gave Conn eight rounds and Apostoli seven. Both judges gave Conn nine rounds and Apostoli five.

Each was inclined to be a trifle wild and lost points on fouls. The Pittsburgh fighter sailed in wildly in the eleven and thirteenth rounds, which he lost because of low blows. Apostoli also was guilty of a low blow. He punched low in the seventh round and thus lost this round.

Conn, whose inability to make the 160-pound limit robs him of claiming the middleweight championship, tipped the scales at 169 pounds tonight, while his foe weighted 161.

BAFFLES APOSTOLI

Using a savage left hook and a crushing right, the former Bell Hop from San Francisco forced the fight in the earlier rounds when he gained a slight lead. Conn, known as a "powder-puff" punched but an excellent boxer, continued to baffle the charging Apostoli with his bobbing and weaving.

Although Conn managed to roll with most blows and block some deadly barrages, a pair of hard rights to the head caused him to drop to the canvas for a count of two in the sixth round.

He rose immediately and firmly met Apostoli's attacks. The blows apparently did not hurt him, for he stated fighting more aggressively than before and the fight became a "thriller."

Conn soon swarmed over his rival and lashed him with stinging left jabs and some excellent rips to the body. With Apostoli failing to send Conn down again after the first knockdown, the San Francisco fighter became wide and allowed Conn to gain a slight margin in the points.

Once Conn gained the slight advantage he never lost it, for he pressed furiously and carried the fight to his hard-hitting foe who continuously tried to send in a knockout blow but found Conn too difficult a traget to drop.

Meiji Athletes Fete Successful Season

Two hundred twenty athletes of Meiji University attended a celebration dinner Friday night at the Gunjin Kaikan and pledged to exert even greater efforts in the future for their Alma Mater.

Meiji had a splendid year in 1938, having captured championships in baseball, fencing, sumo (Japanese wrestling), horsemanship, rugby, American football, skiing, skating, boxing and wrestling.

Pearce Is Named Canada's Outstanding Athlete in 1938

TORONTO, Feb. 7—Bob Pearce, Australian-born world's professional sculling champion, has been named as winner of the 1933 Lou E. Marsh Memorial Medal awarded annually to the year's outstanding athlete chosen by a committee of five.

The committee headed by F. J. Mulqueen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic Committee considered many candidates, professional and amateur, male and female, before Pearce was unanimously voted the winner.

The Lou E. Marsh trophy, put up in memory of the late sports editor of the Toronto Star, was first awarded in 1936 to Dr. Phil Edwards, Montreal's great middle distance runner. Last year it went to Marshall Cleland, of Troy, Ontario, Canada's noted horseman.

The committee took under consideration, as it must under the deed of the gift, "handicaps" overcome by athletes on their way to the top.

The mighty Pearce, unbeaten throughout his career, retained the world's title last Summer only a few days after the death of his wife.

He trained while his wife was desperately ill for his match with Evans Paddon, the Australian champion whom he defeated easily in their three-mile contest at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Before turning professional, Pearce ruled the world's amateur scullers from 1928 to 1933. He won the Olympic championships at Amsterdam in 1928 and at Los Angeles in 1932. He settled in Hamilton, Ontario, after winning the British Empire Games title there in 1930.

Guldhal Challenges Cotton Over 72 Holes

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 13—Ralph Guldhal, winner of the American Open for the last two years, wants to play Henry Cotton, the British 1937 Open winner and one of the best match-play golfers in the world, over 72 holes "home and home."

Cotton has declared his willingness to accept the challenge, which he presumes is intended to mean 36 holes in England and the remainder in America.

Cotton's proposed American tour in the Spring is off, but he may go to the United States after the British Open, though not for one match only.

When informed that Sam Snead and Runyan, two of the leading golfers in America, were also anxious to play him, Cotton remarked: "These fellows must think I am getting easy to beat.

FEET FIRST NEW RULE IN DIVING

By SAM JACKSON

SAN FRANCISCO—The art of diving has been turned upside down—or rather down side up—by a ruling of the governing committee of the 1940 Olympic Games.

For the first time, the American champions and would-be champions are being required to hit the water feet-first instead of head-first.

In vain the divers plead that this is not diving as defined in the dictionary. The Olympic council has spoken, and America's A.A.U.—wishing to be prepared for the 1940 games—has followed suit, made the feet-first dives compulsory for all competitions until further notice.

In Los Angeles, blonde Marjorie Gestring, world champion of the three-meter springboard, is having to learn her specialty all over again. Helen Clenkovich of San Francisco, the second-ranking woman diver, is hard at work, too, on gymnastics she'd never even heard of.

DANGEROUS BUSINESS

"The thing I don't like about it is the danger to the diver," says Phil Patterson, professional diving champion and Helen's coach. "It is a recognized fact that feet-first dives are injurious.

"I have the word of a recognized nose specialist that the continual forcing of water up the nostrils is likely to cause serious and painful sinus trouble. I require every diver I'm coaching to put adhesive tape over the nose and breathe through the mouth."

Competitive diving for men consists of five required dives and five optional ones selected from a recognized list. Women do four compulsory dives and four optional.

For both men and women, new Olympic and A.A.U. rules require two feet-first plunges. The point score for optional dives is such that, in Patterson's opinion, several more feet-first must be selected if the athlete hopes to win.

HELP TO EUROPEANS?

The two new dives that everyone, men and women, must do from now on are the running forward flying single somersault and the backward single somersault layout. In both the feet enter the water first.

"I think the reason for this change is the overwhelming success of American divers in world competition," Patterson says.

"The feet-first stunts are the type of thing done in gymnastics and tumbling which are so popular in Europe. Europeans believe the new dives give the other countries an edge on the United States.

"But the Americans will learn them all right. Don't worry about that."

PRE-OLYMPIC YEAR BOOSTS SPORTS IN U.S.

By DILLON GRAHAM

NEW YORK—It's safe to predict that 1939 will furnish the usual thrills and spills in sports, a full batch of records, astounding upsets and a lot of red faces among the experts—but that's all it's safe to venture.

However, it is not foolhardy to glance over the sports lineups and size up the picture. As is customary, a pre-Olympic year finds unusual interest attached to swimming, rowing, boxing, and track performances, for this year's meets will serve as preliminary trials for the personnel of Uncle Sam's Olympic representatives in '40.

Let's look down the sports trail and get a general outline of what the future may offer:

Baseball: The American league race may be as interesting and closely fought as the National customarily is. With Leu Gehrig and Bill Dickey, Red Ruffing and Lefty Gomez a year older, the Yankees hardly will be as strong as last year. The Boston Red Sox, Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians have all bolstered their attacks, ready to bounce ahead if the Yankees should falter. The Cubs should have a more difficult time repeating than the Yankees. With Lee Grissom and Johnny Vander Meer available for the full season, the Cincinnati Reds will be hard to stop. The Pittsburgh Pirates, Boston Bees and perhaps the St. Louis Cardinals will be serious contenders. And Bill Terry, gambling on the arms of Carl Hubbell and Hal Schumacher, on Hank Bonura at first and Burgess Whitehead at second base, will have the Giants in the thick of the fight if things break well for him.

Football: Southern California, Rose Bowl victor, appears a good bet on the Pacific coast again. Tennessee's powerful team, which retains virtually all of its aces, should be strong again. Alabama will be on the road back. Carnegie, Texas Christian, Oklahoma and Duke lose many valuable cogs. Pitt, as usual, will be strong.

Track: With the Olympic Games only a year away, 1939 will see an upswing in track activities and perhaps in performance, Glenn Cunningham probably will remain the fastest miler, with serious challenges from Archie San Romani, Charles Fenske the Louis Zamperini. Fred Wolcott is in a class by himself as a hurdler. Ben Johnson and Perrin Walker probably will divide sprinting honors. Long John Woodruff still appears the best half-miler with Roy Malott and Wilbur Greer topping the 440-yard racers.

Boxing: Joe Louis heavyweight, and Henry Armstrong, lightweight and welterweight, should retain their crowns. Fred Apstoli likely will become middleweight champion. Melio Bettina is favored to win the light-heavyweight title. Pete Scalzo and Leo Rodak, along with Joey Archibald, the New York state champion, probably will get the featherweight muddle straightened out. Sixto Escobar may have trouble hanging on to his bantamweight honors. The proximity of the Olympic year should increase interest in amateur boxing.

Tennis: Bobby Riggs looks as though he will be a sure nominee for the No. 1 singles berth in Davis cup competition. Gene Mako, who went to the finals of the national singles championships, may get the other spot. However, using him in singles might weaken the country's chances in the doubles. Other singles possibilities are Bitsy Grant, Frankie Parker, Joe Hunt, Elwood Cooke and Frank Kovacs. Australia probably again will face the U. S. for the international trophy and will be at least at 50—50 choice to win.

Swimming: Major swimming meets this year will serve as Olympic preliminaries. Kitty Rawls Thompson again should be the No. 1 swimmer. Marjorie Gestring and Helen Crienkovich should decide the women's diving crown in a personal duel. Al Patnik seems the outstanding male diver. Ralph Flanagan probably will set another bumper crop of records.

Golf: Professional golfers will find it difficult to keep Sammy Snead from winning the National Open although many top-rank stars look for Ralph Gulph to win for a third year. Patty Berg is outstanding among women golfers. The amateur championship and the P. G. A. tournament are such toss ups that Willie Turnesa and Paul Runyan would be the longest of long shots to win again.

Rowing: The east finally took control of intercollegiate racing last year but the west will be back strong at Poughkeepsie. Navy again will be hard pressed by Washington and California.

Canzoneri Beats Pacho in Calif. In Comeback Trial

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7—Tony Canzoneri, former world featherweight and lightweight champion who last month surprised sports experts by beating Eddie Zivic, tonight won his ninth victory in his comeback campaign by taking the decision over Bobby Pacho, local fighter.

The Italian-American scrapper added his ninth victory after a grand spurt in the closing rounds of the gruelling ten-round battle against a savage-hitting Pacho.

GERMANY LEADS ENTIRE EUROPE IN WINTER SPORTS TERRITORY

By CARL J. LUTHER

An element of suspense is found in the experience that one may have in setting forth for a winter journey into a new and unknown region, and of learning there a new knowledge and a greater proficiency in winter sports under new conditions and in fresh surroundings. Germany is fortunately situated for providing just such a winter sport journey, with all its attendant excitement and novelty . . . for Germany with the Austrian Alps and the rolling mountains of the Sudeten-land, and numerous other lesser mountain chains, forms the largest and the most varied winter sports territory to be found anywhere in Europe, and for that matter, anywhere in the world.

Among the many winter sports events in this country, that of the Winter Olympics in Garmisch-Partenkirchen in 1936 attracted the widest attention. The world clearly appreciated that the Olympics of that year achieved an unsurpassed record; and that the organization back of each event moved with absolute precision. The general result of these international winter contests has been to emphasize the natural advantages of Germany as a winter sports land. All German winter sports districts, and not only just Garmisch-Partenkirchen, have profited from this stimulus.

NEW FACILITIES CREATED

The Germans were not content to rest on the achievement of the Winter Olympics. Even in the large cities, new facilities have been created for lovers of winter sports through the construction of numerous new artificial skating rinks. Perhaps this helped bring about the triumph of Maxine Herber and Ernie Baier, German championship fancy skaters, who have been feted in Paris as the most graceful skaters in the world. Sporting associations are bending every energy to encourage young sportsmen and sportswomen Brandl, the famous high jumper, and Christl Cranz, the skier, are proof of this policy. Meanwhile, German winter sports resorts have been completely modernized; nothing, in fact, has been overlooked that would bring complete satisfaction to the most fastidious guest and the most exacting sportsman. Indeed, the traveller may be sure that in whatever district of Germany he may roam, whether in be the lower mountains or the awe-inspiring alps, he will find a welcome as kindly and as friendly as that extended to foreign competitors at the Winter Olympics.

Anyone who is familiar with the western alps realizes the suitability of the German alps for all sorts of winter sports, and especially skiing. And if one considers advantages of weather and climate, then one can say that the eastern alps are perfect for winter sports. They have the advantages of a northern exposure, are strongly influenced by the eastern continental cold zones, are vast in dimension, have a higher altitude as regards skiable surfaces, have glacier formations that are of importance in cold refraction, and lastly, they offer snow that lasts a very long time. It should also be mentioned that they are particularly accessible by railway, mountain railroads and motor highways. For instance, there is the Arlberg Express, connecting Paris and Vienna, and stopping at St. Anton and Innsbruck, the "city" of winter sports, and at Zell-am-See, Kitzbuhel, etc. The Mittenwald, Karwendel, Brenner, Tauern and Semmering railways also lead to countless ideal German sporting centers in this general district.

BEAUTIFUL FORMATIONS

Entirely different are the impressions made upon the visitor coming to Germany's medium altitude mountains, for example, those of the Black Forest, which Norweigan skiers say have a contour similar to the mountains of the northern home-land. And in the Riesengebirge one is entranced by the beautiful formations of hoar frost, the like of which are seldom seen in other regions. Visitors will also find unusually good skiing conditions on the southern slopes of this chain, the Sudeten side; particularly in the vicinity of Spindelmuhle and Petzen.

And then there are the silvery grey peaks of the Harz, the Thuringian mountains, and the Erzgebirge, with their mild climate and luxuriant forest growth. In each of these districts, the traveller will find a welcome and refreshing days. He who tarries here will have the unforgettable experience of learning the symbolism of Germany's time-honored tradition of the Christmas tree. Furthermore, skiing was practised here earlier than anywhere else in Central Europe, and certain folk customs grew out of this usage—for instance, the hospitable one of building comfortable skiing huts or shelters. Thus step by step has grown the interest in winter sports, each step being marked by a higher development of these well-loved sports.

In the Bavarian and Austrian Alps, the stranger enters a skiing land, which, among other things, was the first to introduce the cable railway and ski elevator at the service of winter sports enthusiasts. These labor-saving aids, it may be added, have been important factors in opening the beautiful regions of the western alps. Skiers may come here, and learn how to perfect their technique at skiing schools, which have formed a model for other countries. Beginners, too, may learn this king of sports quickly and under ideal conditions. Here he may learn the technique and art of the "Abfahrt" (downhill skiing), which the great French authority, R. Gelinet, has termed the "daughter of the mountain". And here he will find among the best instructors in the world, whose form of teaching has been generally recognized and approved throughout the world in recent years. Not long can the skier, even the fledging, remain quiet amid such surroundings, so without ado, he hurries to the mountains, and perhaps glides down the same well-known slopes by Innsbruck that have been made famous by Seelos, the FIS racing champion and skiing teacher.

In short, it would be stimulating and inspiring to any skier to come here to enjoy the "loveliest of sports" amid the surroundings where so many epoch-making theories in regard to skiing have been successfully developed.

SAME IN EVERY LANGUAGE

However, there is an even more important argument. Baron Coubertin was instrumental in organizing the Olympic games because he realized their value in cultivating true comradeship. And the skier is particularly receptive to the call of companionship just the merry greeting of "Ski", a word that is the same in every language, is enough to establish a bond of friendship and understanding. As a wanderer and an explorer in often lonely and not undangerous high regions of pure snow, the skier must be a good sport and a good comrade. This spirit was nobly exemplified at the meeting of the two world famous Abfahrt champions, Emile Allais, the French champion, and Christl Cranz, the German champion. At the close of the race, they greeted one another most heartily, and together rejoiced in their greatest triumph of their young lives. This was in 1937 at Chamonix, and it occurred again in 1938 at Engelberg. In the snowy mountains where these famous and kindly sportsmen often meet, play, and speed along together, there is scarcely a dip without its skiing tracks. It is rather inspiring when one stops to think of it—one smooth white blanket of snow covering these mountains all the way from Vienna to the mighty climax, Mount Blanc, the highest mountain peak in Europe! Mount Blanc seems to stand there in its white and pastel-shaded majesty like a challenge and a goal. Comrades of the skis have taken it as their symbol, and wander, travel, and rest among our mountains.

Australia May Drop Butterfly Stroke In Swimming Race

Abolition of butterfly stroke in the swimming race which will, if effected, nullify the Australian record of 2 minutes and 51 seconds in the 220-yard event established by T. G. Davis, is expected to be proposed at the forthcoming general meeting of the Australian Aquatic Sports Federation to be held at Melbourne by the Western Australian Aquatic Sports Society, according to reports reaching here today.

GOMEZ SIGNS FOR $20,000 WITH YANKEES

N.Y. Herald-Tribune

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—Ed Barrow, the new president of the Yankees, is experiencing little difficulty in singing up the recalcitrants of other years. Shortly after Lou Gehrig, supposed to be the No. 1 holdout of the world's championship corps, swung into line, Vernon (Lefty) Gomez was announced as satisfied. His autographed contract arrived yesterday.

The guesses in the Yankee anteroom yesterday when reporters gathered were that Gomez, winner of eighteen games and loser of twelve, but defeated in several tough ones, had signed for the same salary he received last year—$20,000. A year ago Gomez was hauled up from $13,000 to that figure and it is taken for granted that he will be satisfied to slip along at that figure, unless one of his old-fashioned brilliant seasons comes along.

With Gomez's penned agreement in yesterday's mail were also the signed contracts of Jake Powell, the outfielder; Joe Beggs, the pitcher, and Nick Strincevich, a pitcher, who has been recalled but who is not being taken to St. Petersburg. Under a new ruling, all players upon whom options are recalled must be signed by the parent club even if a Southern trek is not planned for them.

While the Yankees were thus making up for lost time in their contract pursuit of the Giants, the Brooklyn Dodgers' front office jumped to the fore with the news they had no fewer than seventeen signed contracts in the Montague Street safe. Leo Durocher, the manager, Bill Killefer and Charley Dressen, the coaches; Tony Lazzeri, Tuck Stainback and Cookie Lavagetto had been announced, but yesterday the Brooklyn news release included the names of Ace Adams, Hugh Casey, Russ Evans John Gaddy, Charles Gassaway, Paul Paynick, Lee Rogers and Sam Nahem, pitchers; Pete Coscarat, second baseman; Bert Haas, first baseman, and Oris Hockett, outfielder.

At the same time, it was said all but two players received pay increases and that Brooklyn expects trouble only with Van Lingle Mungo and Joe Stripp.

Back from the Pacific Coast, Larry McPhail immediately jumped ahead of his fellow club officers by predicting the Dodgers would finish second in the National League. He was quoted as saying (and we couldn't check on it because MacPhail had left the office for a theater to learn a new plot, no doubt) the Chicago Clubs were the only team he feared in the championship chase. All of which up to the usual MacPhail standard of flabbergasting forecasting.

We wish only to quote from a recent coversation we had with the same pophet:

MacPhail (Dec. 29, New York Herald Tribune):

"Do you want to know what I think about the National League pennant race? I'll say it will be a seven-club scramble—and the only teams I wouldn't pick to win are the Giants, Clubs and Phillies!"

Ah, the South!

On the bulletin board in the Harvard Club there recently appeared a letter awaiting a claimant. This was the address, written in a delicate feminine hand:

CUNNINGHAM WINS BOSTON MILE FOR FIFTH TIME WITH 4:15.2

By JESSE ABRAMSON

N.Y. Herald Tribune

BOSTON, Jan. 28—A Republican Governor of Massachusetts had his first chance to start Glenn Cunningham in a mile race tonight. This was the only novel sensation experience by 14,000 who jammed the Boston Garden for the eighteenth annual Prout Memorial meet of the K. of C. as the Kansas automaton reeled off 4:15.2 in winning the mile fixture for the fifth time in five starts.

John Borican shattered the Boston record with a 2:12.6 clocking in the Cheverus 1,000, the Fordham and Holy Cross mile relays cracked another with 3:23.5 and 3,23.9 achievements. Allan Tolmich tied the world indoor record of 5.7 seconds in the forty-five yard high hurdles and Harold Cagle, in his Eastern indoor debut, put up a meet mark of 1:12.6 in the Prout 600. But Cunningham was content merely to beat his field in good but not sensational time.

In his first indoor mile of his seventh Eastern campaign, Cunningham dominated his race as of yore. He dogged the footsteps of Indiana's Mel Trutt for ten of the eleven laps, then the bell clanged for the final whirl. Cunningham responded like the firehorse he is. He bolted to the front in three quickening strides and slammed to a five-year victory over the Rideout identical twins, Blaine and Wayne, who finished second and thrid, almost shoulder to shoulder, with a fine sprint of their own. Trutt faded to fourth. Chuck Fenske, Wisconsin graduate, America's second ranking miler last year, was a disappointing fifth.

TRUTT SETS PACE

Once the field settled into formation on the second lap following the start by Governor Leverett Saltonstall, the order remained the same without change for eight laps, with Trutt, Cunningham, Blaine Rideout, Fenske and Wayne Rideout proceeding in that order, and Roswell Brayton, of Harvard, making a losing fight to stay with the pace. Wayne Rideout was a last-minute starter, getting his place on a switch with Gene Venzke, who moved into the two-mile race.

Cunningham had the race in his pocket all the way. It was the look-alike Rideouts from North Texas State who surprised with their fine running, particularly Wayne, who had not trained for this event. Blaine proved that his close second to Cunningham in the 4:10.7 Sugar Bowl mile was evidence of his improved speed.

The fractional times by quarters were 63.8,67.4 64.2, with Cunningham bettering a minute for the final quarter.

Manhattan's two-mile relay of Bob Hoolahan, George Sheehan, Larry Moriarty and Joseph Moclair, running a fine 7:56.8, won the intercollegiate two-mile relay by five yards in an exciting duel with N. Y. U.'s quartet of Martin Witte, David Urbach, Myron Bresnick and Curtis Giddings. Rhode Island State Holy Cross and Yale trailed far back.

Dave Albritton and Mel Walker, Ohio State's two Negro contributions to the stratosphere heights in high jumping, dueled to a height of 6 feet 6 inches, the former getting the gold medal on four misses to Walker's five. Artie Byrnes, Manhattan's indoor I. C. 4-A. champion, placed third, clearing 6:2.

BORICAN SETS RECORD

John Borican, the portrait-painting all-around track wonder, gave Boston a view of his easy-going form and sensational speed when he romped away with the trophy in the Bishop Cheverus 1,000-yard fixture, running the fastest 1,000 the Hub ever saw.

The Columbia graduate student, of the Shore A. C., covered the distance in 2 minutes 12.6 seconds, two-tenths of a second faster than Lloyd Hahn's time here eleven years ago. The Negro won impressively. He bolted to the front on the first lap after Fordham's Frank Slater had stolen a lead on the ragged start of Sherff O,Dowd. Powerful in action, running without strain throughout, Borican set the pace the rest of the way. When he opened up his last-lap sprint he made a show of the field.

Charley Beetham, of the 69th Regiment, came on fast at the end and placed second, six yards back. The rest were badly distanced. Bill Hendrix, of North Carolina, was third. Slater did not get in the prizes. Borican's performance wiped out Chuck Hornbostel's meet record of 2:14.8, set three years ago.

The return meeting between Jim Herbert and Wesley Wallace, the Bronx rivals, was of only academic interest when they finished in the Prout 600. For Harold Cagle, a green-jerseyed flash from Oklahoma Baptist University, inaugurated his first Eastern board track campaign with a dazzling triumph over Dick Gill, Boston A. A. red-head, as Herbert, the record-holder, and Wallace finished third and fourth behind them.

CAGLE TIMED IN 1:12.6

With a grand lift on the last lap, Cagle came up from third place and beat Gill by a yard in a driving finish. The 1936 Olympian, a compact 47-second quarter-miler, had no difficulty in mastering the boards. He steamed over the route in 1 minute 12.6 seconds, shattering the meet record of 1:14 that Herbert set in his second straight triumph last year. Herbert, fourth most of the way, overhauled Wallace in the stretch and finished third, six yards back of Gill and six ahead of the Fordham star who sustained his first setback of the season tonight. Doug Raymond finished last.

From the staggered start, Wallace sprinted around the outside lane and took the lead ahead of Gill. On the third lap, Gill shot to the front, and then Cagle made his move. He closed a five-yard deficit, whirled past Gill and almost stopped twenty yards from home when he misjudged the finish. But he picked up swiftly and won handsomely.

Fred Schmertz, Millrose A. A. director, beat Cagle to the microphone with an announcement that the Oklahoman's achievement gained him a place in the select field of the Millrose 600 next Saturday.

Wallace and Herbert came back to run on the Fordham and N. Y. U. foursomes that had a two-team duel in a mile relay that broke all Boston indoor records, when the Maroon, with George Leary, Hugh Bennett, Wallace and Frank Slater, returned 3:23.5. This was the same line-up that ran 3.21.2 in Jersey City last week. N. Y. U. sent out Jimmy McPoland, George Hagans, Harrison Marshall and Herbert. It was a ding-dong battle for two legs, with Hagan's turning over a four-yard lead. But Wallace broke up the race on the third stage by beating Marshall twenty yards, and that was the margin at the end.

Picking up where he left off a year ago, Allan Tolmich, of Detroit, equaled Sam Allen's indoor record of 5.7 seconds in winning the forty-five-yard high hurdles. The former Wayne athlete beat Ed Dugger, of Tufts, by a yard. Walter K. Hall, Tufts transfer student, placed third after hitting two of the three hurdles.

STILL AFTER RECORDS

Tolmich broke or tied a variety of hurdles records eleven times a year ago. He is still at it.

Kenny Clapp, Brown University junior, took the fifty-yard sprint in brilliant style, tying Ben Johnson's meet record of 5.4 seconds. He won smartly from Francis Zeimetz, of Boston College, and Eulace Peacock in the final after winning his heat and semi-final.

It was in this meet last year that Clapp, running a close second to Johnson, pulled a tendon that took him out of circulation for the rest of the campaign. Marty Glickman got to the final tonight but hurt his ankle and scratched.

Durable Don Lash, the Indiana state trooper, ran a snappy 9:08.8 in winning the Larrivee Memorial two-mile for the second year. This event comes under the heading of the inevitable these days, like a Joe Louis knockout except that Lash waits until the last lap to execute his coup. Lash trailed his former Indiana teammate, slim Tommy Deckard, to the final whirl, spotting him as much as twelve yards. Lash then ran up to and over Tommy, winning by six yards with a couple of terrific bursts. Deckard led at the mile in 4:33.

Joe McCluskey, who contended with Lash and Deckard for the lead in the early stages, was sixty yards back in third place. Gene Venzke, not trusting a tender muscle in his left thigh, switched his entry from the mile to the two-mile at the last minute. He didn't belong and merely cantered for the exercise. He was a lap and a half in the ruck when Lash snapped the jolly old worsted.

HOLY CROSS WINS RELAY

Still another Boston record went by the boards when the Holy Cross mile relay foursome of Larry McShane, John Wallace, Thomas Cunningham and Charley O'Donnell, all sophomores, beat Manhattan by three yards in a smashing two-team of the freshman championship at race. The Purple runners, winners the Penn relays last Spring, were clocked in 3 minutes 23.9 seconds, eclipsing the Boston record of 3:24.6 and the meet record of 3:25.2 set by Holy Cross eight years ago.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT" - by Ripley

Grave Mistake

Two local physicians were discussing this and that at the annual meeting of medicos.

"Have you ever made a big mistake in attending to a patient?" asked the friend of a well-known surgeon.

"Only once," replied the surgeon. "Was it fatal?"

"It was almost fatal. I charged a man $50 for an operation, and I found that the man had $200."

THREE WORLD MARKS SHATTERED AT N.A.A.U. INDOOR MEET

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—Fourteen thousand cheering spectators jammed the Madison Square Garden tonight to see three world marks shattered and one tied as the cream of the nation's track and field stars performed in the National Amateur Athletic Union's indoor championships.

Individual honors went to Allen Tolmich, New Jersey City, negro flash, who broke one record and tied another. Displaying a timely return to his brilliant 1938 form, Tolmich set a new mark for the 65-meter high hurdles. The previous record was held by Forrest Towns.

The Jersey City negro came back later in the evening to win the 60-meter dash and tie the world mark in that event. Ben Johnson of Columbia, who holds the record at 6.6 seconds, trailed Tolmich by four feet when the latter broke the tape.

In the greatly ballyhooed 1,500-meter event, the veteran Glenn Cunningham, former University of Kansas star who now wears the colors of the New York Curb Exchange, trimmed his rival Gene Venzke of the New York Athletic Club by six yards.

Donald Lash, fleet Indiana long-distance man, retained his title in the 5,000-meter run as did Otto Kotraba, of the New York A.C., in the 1,500-meter walk. Francis Ryan of Columbia retained the 16-lb. shot-put record while Edward Gordon won for the consecutive year in the broad jump.

Sisler Signs for 5 Years As Semi-Pro Chieftain

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 28—George Sisler, the onetime peerless first baseman of the St. Louis Browns, who was elected this week to baseball's hall of fame, signed a contract tonight to serve as high commissioner of the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress.

Ray Dumont, president of the congress, and Mickey O'Connell, its secretary, conferred with Sisler and obtained his signature to a five-year agreement. The salary was not disclosed.

In his new position Sisler will have authority equivalent to that exercised by Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis in major and minor league baseball.

Sisler has been affiliated with the Semi-Pro Congress for several years as director of state tournaments and also as the director of the 1938 national tournament at Wichita. He has acted as temporary high commissioner since last September.

Saxophone Neglected

The saxophone was one of the last instruments—not one of the first—to be adopted by American jazz bands. As late as 1924, several large orchestras did not use a sax, although about 100,000 amateur musicians already owned and played the instrument, which was invented, incidentally, in 1846.

Von Cramm, Former Reich Davis Cup Star, To Compete On Riviera

Domei Tsushin

BERLIN, Feb. 26—Baron Gottfried von Cramm, former German Davis Cup star and world's second-ranking tennis player, who was imprisoned last year on immorality charges, is planning to re-enter international competition abroad this Spring, it was reported here today.

Though he is barred from the German Davis Cup team, it is learned that Baron von Cramm will enter several tournaments on the French Riviera and then plans to go to Egypt. He was released last October after serving only six months of his one-year jail term imposed in April.

With his teammate Henner Henkel, von Cramm in 1937 brought Germany closer than at any time in the past to a Davis Cup victory and was for a time ranked second only to the great British court star, Fred Perry.

GOLFERS SPEND MORE MONEY THAN ALL OTHERS

By KERR N. PETRIE

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—Most sportsmen are by now reconciled to the fact that more money is spent on golf in the course of a year than in any other sport. Figures in Washington substantiate this claim. Herb Graffis, who edits the trade golf magazine "Golfdom," refuses to allow these figures to grow cold. In a recent survey he has discovered a lot of things, among them what has become of the millions of youths who, according to the baseball people, should be buying bats, balls, masks and gloves.

Back on the golf courses of the United States can be found these missing youths. Golf won them because it paid them money. They are the caddies. Graffis has found that they take between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 in fees out of golf every year.

According to Graffis' findings, there are 5,195 golf courses in the United States. The total number of rounds played on these was 65,982,000. It is clear, therefore, that the fifty of sixty millions is no overstatement. Caddies receive a dollar or more on most of the private courses and sometimes come in for substantial tips. On public courses the number of rounds played was 17,000,000.

Almost one thousand square miles of the United States today are devoted to golf. The figure given is 931. The value of this property, with the building thereon is set at $723,000,000.

Golfers belonging to private clubs total 913,000. The total for daily fee courses is given at 203,000 and municipal 260,000. There are 150,000 women golfers in the country. To this must be added 500,000, the estimated total of those who played less than ten rounds a year.

The caddies, some may think, are not worth their salary when they figure that they purchased 26,000,000 balls for those sixty-five million odd rounds. That is tossing a ball away every nine holes or so. No mention is made of the sum the caddies reap by the recovery of lost balls.

New York is the greatest golf state in the country with 441 clubs. Illinois comes next with 340, Ohio third with 271, Michigan fourth with 268, Pennsylvania fifth with 263 and Texas sixth with 227. Massachusetts has, 198; Wisconsin, 195; California, 189; New Jersey, 147; Oklahoma, 110; Florida, 108. These are the leaders.

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK WINTER SPORTS POPULAR

Christian Science Monitor

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Jan. 27—Ice hockey is always spectacular to watch, but up here in the Sierra played outdoors on crisp blue ice beneath the perpendicular granite walls of Yosemite Valley it's more than even Hollywood could strive to portray by the words "gigantic—stupendous!"

I don't know what it is about witnessing a sports event outdoors that makes it more thrilling than indoors, but here perhaps what impressed me most was seeing a game usually played indoors presented in so breath-taking an arena as this beautiful snow-filled mountain valley.

Can you imagine sheer granite walls rising 3,000 feet directly above you, temperature about 24 above zero, bright sun, blue sky with a scattering of fluffy white clouds and two college hockey squads swooping, sliding, racing on singing blades up and down just a corner of a huge ice rink that would hold two more hockey areas?

HOOVER CUP

Well, that's where I was fortunate enough to watch the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Ice Hockey Championships for the coveted Hoover Cup only recently. Only four squads competed—which was a pity. I wish Washington and Oregon schools could have been represented.

The University of Southern California pucksters who have been nationally successful, swept their three foes before them with little difficulty. Loyal of Los Angeles, faced the Southern Californians in the play-off but were turned back in what was a pretty rough game in spots.

University of California at Los Angeles—the "Bruins"—skated fast enough to win the consolation from their elder brothers from the north "The" University of California at Berkeley—the "Bears."

PLAYED AT NIGHT

The championship match was played at night before more than 500 valley residents, and weekenders up to stay for a few days of skating, skiing, dog-sledding, sleigh riding, or just plain tin-pan sliding down snow banks.

Never was there a more brilliant night setting for any hockey match anywhere. The spectators themselves were dressed fiesta-like, warmly barbed in their bright ski and skating costumes, alpine hats with their rough peaks and perky feathers, ski-caps of all colors, and multicolored scarfs which rosy-cheeked girls wore tied over their heads. It was starlight, and a harvest-sized moon slowly rose high over the lip of the valley rim far above, making it bright enough to read our programs when the rink lights were suddenly dimmed.

Had a switch inadvertently been thrown, a fuse blown, or what? None of these.

'FIRE-FALL'

"Look at that!" cried one of the spectators pointing nearly straight up. "It's the fire-fall" And there, 3,000 feet above us, was falling—sure enough—a great waterfall of fire. An old Indian signal, the fire-fall is a Yosemite Valley tradition. A great bonfire is built on the rim of the valley late in the afternoon. By evening a high bed of coals has been gathered and at the appointed time—usually around nine o'clock—it is pushed over the edge and drops, a long stream of golden flickering sparks, about 2,000 feet to a ledge just above the valley floor. It lasts nearly two minutes and may be seen from nearly anywhere in the valley.

This is just one of the many events that go to make Winter sports at the 4,000-foot Yosemite Valley—only six or seven hours' drive from San Francisco—one of the most popular Winter snow and ice playgrounds in the world.

SKI-RUN

Only 45 minutes' drive up onto the rim of the valley, at about 7,000 feet, is one of the best ski-runs of the West at Badger Pass. True, there are some trees along the slopes, but there are none that are in the areas where the novice slews and slides and ends up end-up. But more later, in another article, about Badger and the splendid ski-school that has been worked out successfully over the past few years with some of the West's, and yes, the world's best ski instructors right at hand for novices.

I suppose all this is a bit off the beaten path of sports writing, but it comes down to something like this for what we call a "tag" in writing.

Winter sports—particularly skiing—have grown to the place where they rival, in numbers of persons participating, swimming.

In about five years Winter sports—skiing, skating, sliding, and just snowball throwing and snow-man making—have sky-rocketed from a diversion only imbibed in by the so-called "wealthy" to everybody's sport. Last Winter experts with adding machines estimated that about 2,000,000 people in the 11 western states took part in some way, shape or manner (a good spill in the snow). Now, that's a considerable number of people and yet only in the West.

I know that New England boasts a new record of snow enthusiasts each Winter. Add the New England record; the Adirondacks; the Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan figures; slip in Alaska, which is considering "Snow Boats" by the Alaska Steamship Company, like snow trains, and, yes, even skiing in the mouantins of Hawaii—and you have quite an impressive sports field.

Finnish Girl Cops Women's Speed Skating Crown at Helsinki

Domei Tsushin

HELSINKI, Feb. 26—Miss Verne Lesche, of Finland, today annexed top honors in the world speed-skating championships for women here as a first and third in the 3,000 and 500-meter events respectively gave her a slim margin of two points over her nearest rival.

The fleet Finnish star covered the 3,000 meters in six minutes and 20.3 seconds, easily outdistancing her countrywoman, Miss Tamminen, and Miss Hilgonda Donker, of Holland, who tied for second place. Miss Donker came back to win the 500-meter event in 54.3 seconds, Miss Salmi, of Finland, taking second and Miss Lesche third.

The final point ratings were: (1) Miss Lesche, 119.083; (2) Miss Donker, 121,566; (3) Miss Tamminen, 124.566.

NORWAY WINS STUDENTS' WINTER SPORTS

Domei Tsushin

LILLEHAMMER, Feb. 26—Amassing a total of 134 points and leading its nearest competitor, Germany, by more than 100 points, Norway today emerged victorious in the international student's Winter sports championships which have been held here during the past week. Germany scored 31 points.

Climaxing the week's events, Sigurd Solld, of Norway, today won the ski jumping event by garnering a total of 224.4 points, Nils Eie, also of Norway, took first honors in the combined slalom, downhill, long-distance and jumping competition with a low-point rating of 31.61 points. Olaf Raabe, of Norway, was second with 36.82 points and Walter Ringer, of Germany, third with 96.57 points.

Meanwhile, the Czechoslovak ice hockey team defeated the powerful Hungarian sextet, last year's title-holder, by the score of 1 to 0 in the deciding matches of the ice-hockey competitions staged at Trondheim, to become the new champion. Sweden defeated Norway today by the same score.

Five Skaters In Olympics

OCONOMOWOC, Wis., Jan. 26—A Californian and four middle westerners had berths on the eightman 1940 American Olympic skating squad last night as team trials neared their conclusion.

George Wallace, San Francisco machinist engineer, made the team by capturing the 1,500-meter race, third on the four-event program. He won both heats, the first in 2m. 21.8s and the second in 2m. 27.6s for an average of 2m. 24.7s.

Delbert Lamb of, Milwaukee, a member of the 1936 team, won a place by finishing third in 500-meter race and second in the 1,500. His average for the former was 44.7s., for the latter 2m. 27.55s. He was clocked at 2m. 30.3s. yesterday.

Fifth place on the team went to Charles Leighton of Minneapolis, by virtue of his performances in the 500, 1,500 and 5,000 races. He was eighteenth in the 500 with an average time of 47.1s, fifth in the 1,500 with a 2m. 30.35s. average, and third in the 5,000 in which his average was 9m. 3.5s.

This trip joined the flashy Chicagoans, Leo Freisinger and Eddie Schroeder, on the team. The latter are Olympic veterans. Freisinger won the 500 with an average of 44s. his 43.7s. in the second heat last week breaking the American record, Schroeder took the 5,000-meter race. his 8m. 55.9s. last Sunday breaking his own American record of 8m. 57s.

The 10,000-meter race today will conclude the trials. The winner will make the team.

The other two places will go to the contestant with the best average in the 5,000 and 10,000-meter races, and to the one with the best average time for all four races.

Contestants who have won races or have made the team will not compete today.

Danish Girl Regains Title in 500-Meter Breaststroke

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 26—Miss Inge Sorensen, of Denmark, today regained possession of the world's record for the 500-meter women's breaststroke by clipping 1.7 seconds off the mark established at Ostend only a month ago by Miss Yvonne Vandekerchove, of Belgium.

Miss Sorensen, who previously held the record, was clocked today at 7 minutes 58.4 seconds. Miss Vandekerchove's mark was 8 minutes 0.1 second.

ROWING OLDEST ORGANIZED SPORT AT PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA—Rowing ranks as the oldest organized sport on the athletic curriculum of the University of Pennsylvania, according to an historical survey made by H. Jamison Swarts, Director of Athletics.

In 1854, undergraduates organized rowing by forming the University Barge Club. At first the club was composed exclusively of undergraduates, but after a few years the admission of nonstudents and graduates forced the students out of the organization.

Unorganized sport started with the founding of the University in 1740 by Benjamin Franklin, but actual intercollegiate competition in athletics did not start until 1866, when Pennsylvania met Haverford in cricket. From that year on, undergraduates have been active on the athletic fields, on the water, on the court, in the water, on the mat and in the ring.

TRACK STARTED IN 1873

A track organization was started in 1873 and a year later the first University meet was held. With the exception of one event, the 120-yard hurdles (3 hurdles), which was run in 15 seconds—there is no record to show whether the hurdles were high or low—the times and distances were mediocre as compared with those of today.

For instance, the hop, step and jump was won with a distance of 35 ft. 8½ in.; the hammer (9-pound), with a throw of 72 ft. 10½ in., and the broad jump, with a leap of 14 ft. 1 in.

Baseball, in one form or another, had been played for some years by the students before they engaged in their first game with another college in 1875. The game was played in October, Swarthmore winning 17 to 12.

The first football game, with 20 on a side, was played in 1876, Princeton winning six goals to nothing. The sport started in the late sixties with class games in which frequently the sides were composed of anywhere from 15 to 25 players.

FIRST CREW RACE

In 1877 the first rowing race was held on the Schuykill over a course of 1½ miles. The College Boat Club, composed of undergraduates, met the University Barge Club which had undergraduates, graduates and others in its membership. The College Club four composed exclusively of sophomores, defeated their older opponents.

Wrestling, and boxing had been indulged in by the students for many decades before Pennsylvania students competed in a national event. In 1893, W. D. Osgood won the middleweight wrestling championship of America. A year later Osgood won the national championships in wrestling and boxing as a heavyweight.

In 1892 a Pennsylvania student, Arthur T. Kenny, won national titles in swimming in both the 100-yard dash and the mile. A year later he won the 100 and 440 and in 1894, the 100 and the mile. In 1897, Pennsylvania became the first University to install a swimming pool for its students.

Basketball started in 1897 with a contest with Yale. Tennis and golf started in the nineties while lacrosse and several other sports did not get under way, at least competitively, untile after the turn of the century.

POP WARNER QUITS TEMPLE AS HEAD COACH

N.Y. Times

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 29—Glenn S. (Pop) Warner told The Philadelphia Inquirer by telephone tonight from his home at Palo Alto, Calif., that he had resigned as head football coach at Temple University. He wrote his resignation, addressed to Earl R. Yeomans, the university's athletic director, on Thursday.

"I've decided definitely; I won't reconsider," he said, adding that he had no other plans at present and had not had "a formal offer" to return to Stanford University as "advisory coach."

Warner declared he would be "interested" in an offer from Stanford but would not be receptive to overtures from any Eastern institution.

SALARY PUT AT $15,000

He refused to disclose why he was quitting his post at Temple, where he has received about $15,000 annually for six years.

"I have my own reasons," he said. "I can't say more than that."

Warner had one year to go on a three-year contract, signed at San Francisco in December, 1936, after St. Mary's had beaten Temple.

He said he had recommended Fred Swan, whom he brought here as his line coach, for the head coaching job. He also said he hoped the Owls would retain Charles (Chuck) Winterburn, his other assistant.

Both Swan and Winterburn received three-year contracts at the same time as Warner, so that they are under contract to Temple for one more season.

Warner said he had considered quitting ever since the close of the 1938 season, during which his team, playing one of the hardest schedules of any college team in the country, had lost six of ten games.

Told that press dispatches from San Francisco yesterday had quoted him as looking forward to the 1939 season, Warner said: "They were not correct. I did not authorize them."

"I wrote my letter of resignation last Thursday, but I don't believe it went out in the mail until Friday, so naturally it has not yet been received in Philadelphia," he declared.

Yeomans was not reached for comment, nor was Charles G. Erny, a member of Temple's board of trustees and the man who was instrumental in inducing Warner to quit Stanford for the Temple position.

Robert V. Geasey, Temple's publicity director, said:

"I had a letter from Warner ten days ago and he didn't say anything about quitting then. It's news to me."

HOME NEAR STANFORD CAMPUS

When Warner went from Pittsburgh to Stanford in 1924 he bought a home three blocks from the Stanford campus and has spent his Winters there since.

Although otherwise apparently in good health, he has been troubled for years with a hip injury which necessitates his use of a cane. His wish to remain in California's climate is believed to have been one of the factors prompting his decision to leave Temple.

A few days ago, when Warner was reported to be under consideration by Stanford's athletic board for an "advisory coaching" position, Temple athletic authorities said they would not stand in his way.

KNOWN AS 'OLD FOX'

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 29—Glenn S. Warner, known as the "Old Fox," came to Temple from Stanford University in 1933 as successor to Henry J. (Heinie) Miller. His original five-year contract was cancelled in 1936 and a new three-year agreement, ending in 1939, signed.

Warner won thirty-one games, lost eighteen and tied nine in his six years at Temple. Last year the Owls won three, lost six and tied one.

Warner's best season at Temple was in 1934, when the Owls, paced by Fullback Dave Smukler, now a star with Philadelphia in the National League, emerged undefeated but twice tied in a nine-game schedule. Invited to play in the first annual Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans, they lost to Tulane for their only defeat.

Warner, 68 years old, completed his forty-fourth season as head coach last year. During that time his teams have won 305 games, a record unequaled by any other coach in the country.

A graduate of Cornell University in 1895, Warner supervised pre-season training at Iowa State University and then became coach at the University of Georgia that same year. After piloting the Bulldogs through an undefeated season in 1896, Warner accepted a contract at Cornell, where he coached until 1899.

After five years at the Carlisle (Pa.) Indian School, he returned to Cornell in 1904, but in 1907 went back to Carlisle until 1915, when he became head coach at the University of Pittsburgh. His Pitt teams of 1915 through 1918 were undefeated.

Completing his contract at Pittsburgh in 1923, Warner served as advisory coach at Stanford that same year and in 1924 assumed full charge at the West Coast institution.

Among Warner's star pupils were Jim Thorpe, Carlisle's great all-around Indian athlete; Ernie Nevers, star Stanford fullback, and Smukler.

THROUGH THE ROPES

NEW YORK.—An overhead shot in Madison Square Garden, N. Y., as champion Joe Louis drove challenger John Henry Lewis through the ropes in the first—and only—round of their bout for the world's heavyweight title. Referee Arthur Donovan stopped the fight in 2.29 of the round after Lewis went down for the third time.

THREE PLAYERS ADDED TO BASEBALL'S HALL OF FAME

NEW YORK, Jan. 25—That is a pretty fair ball club they are getting together up at Cooperstown, N.Y. Three recruits showed up today. They were George Sisler, Eddie Collins and Wee Willie Keeler, latest players elected to baseball's Hall of Fame that stands hard by the field where Cadet Abner Doubleday, U. S. M. A., laid out the first playing field 100 years ago.

Sisler, Collins and Keeler got their contracts for the greatest team of all yesterday. Each received more than 75 per cent of the votes in the balloting by the Baseball Writers' Association according to the tabulation.

SISLER HAS 235 VOTES

There was not much doubt about it. Sisler, epitome of ease and grace as a first baseman and one of the great hitters of all time, got 235 votes. Collins, long the beau ideal of second baseman and a remarkable all-around player, was named on 213 of the 274 ballots and Keeler, hitting star of the boisterous Baltimore Orioles of the 'nineties swaggered into the throne room with 207 votes, one more than the minimum necessary for election.

The poll reached a new high of 274 ballots with each voter naming 10 candidates. Twenty-eight nominees drew more than 25 votes each.

There are 19 in the Hall of Fame now. Twelve were elected by the writers: Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Honus Wagner, Christy Mathewson, Walter Johnson, Napoleon Lajoie, Tris Speaker, Cy Young, Grover Cleveland Alexander and the three newcomers. Seven others, pioneers of the game, were added by the baseball centennial committee of Judge K. M. Landis and the American and National League presidents, Will Harridge and Ford Frick. They were George Wright, M. C. Bulkeley, Ban Johnson, John McGraw, Connie Mack, Henry Chadwick and Alexander Cartwright.

The writers have filled every position on a team except third base and catcher. But McGraw was a better than fair third baseman on the Orioles, while Connie Mack was a catcher "way back when."

Keeler was perhaps the greatest player of the colorful crew that made Baltimore one of the strongest clubs in the National League. Contemporary of Hughey Jennings, McGraw and Wilbert Robinson, he was one of the great hitters of his day, a scientific batsman who coined the slogan, "Hit 'em where they ain't."

For 14 years he hit better than .300, this in the days when a man who hit .285 was considered a rattling good batter. His .432 average in 1897 is second only to Hugh Duffy's mark of .438 compiled in 1893.

Keeler played with the Orioles from 1894 to 1898. He was with Brooklyn from 1899 to 1902 and with the New York Highlanders, now the Yankees, from 1903 to 1909. He finished up with the Giants in 1910.

Sisler and Collins still are active in the game. Sisler is high commissioner of semi-pro baseball, while Collins is general manager of the Boston Red Sox.

MICHIGAN SENT SISLER

George Sisler was one of the most notable baseball figures of the twenties. A pitcher at the University of Michigan, he broke in with the St. Louis Browns and soon became the game's No. 1 first baseman, a great fielder, a great hitter. Just when his career seemed brightest—in 1923 after he had hit .420 and been voted the American League's most valuable player in 1922—he was forced out of action for a season. He never played the same again, although he came back with Washington and the Boston Nationals later.

Collins ranks as one of the great second basemen. He broke in with the Philadelphia Athletics fresh from Columbia in 1906 and played with Home Run Baker, Jack Barry, and Stuffy McInnis in the $100,000 infield. When Mack dismantled the club in 1914, Collins went to the Chicago White Sox.

He played the best second base in the business there until 1926, when he was dismissed after two years as manager. He ended his active career with his old club, the A's.

Collins hit .333 for a lifetime average, stole 743 bases and is generally considerd a standout fielding second baseman. He hit better than .400 in three of his seven World Series. Other leaders in this year's poll, with votes received, include:

Rube Waddell 179, Rogers Hornsby 176, Frank Chance 158, Ed Delehanty 145, Ed Walsh 132, Johnny Evers 107, Miller Huggins 97, Rabbit Maranville 82, Jimmie Collins 72, Roger Bresnahan 7, Fred Clarke 59, Mordecai Brown 54, Wilbert Robinson 46, Chief Bender 40, Herb Pennock 40, Ray Schalk 35, Hugh Duffy 34, Ross Young 34, Hugh Jennings 33, Joe McGinnity 32, Home Run Baker 30, Addie Joss 28, Eddie Plank 28, Mickey Cochrane 28 and Frank Frisch 26.

YACHTING OFF BERMUDA GETS WINTER START

Christian Science Monitor

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 25—Yachting has been launched off Bermuda waters with the opening race in the Winter Championship Series for Bermuda's International One Design fleet. The result of this series of races will determine the Bermuda yachts which will sail against the Long Island Sound Internationals in the annual competition in Bermuda in April. These races will be sailed every Thursday afternoon until March 21.

It was decided at a recent meeting at the Royal Bermuda Yacht Club that there would be a minimum of eight races in the series and that in order to qualify—yachts must sail in at least 70 per cent of races schedule. Restrictions were placed on the number of haul-outs that would be allowed each yacht during the season.

International rules have been adopted limiting the size of the sails that may be carried, so that in future all yachts, both local and foreign, will have exactly the same sail area. The fleet is now arranging to get new sails with which to repel the Long Islanders' invasion.

Four persons, the maximum number of hands, are usually carried as crew by the One Designs, although women and children—under 13 years of age—are not counted as crew unless they act as helmsmen.

It is understood that all the usual helmsmen will be handling the "wiggle sticks" this season, with the exception of Eldon Trimingham who has turned his position over to Roddy Williams. Trimingham will be a spectator and a critic of the fleet, and all those who make false maneuvers during a race will receive the benefit of his long racing experience in advice when they come ashore.

Owen Darrell will be chairman of the Regatta Committee and official starter, a post which he has filled for several years in a most competent manner. The chairman will decide whether races are to be sailed. A black ball hoisted at the Yacht Club at 12 noon on Thursdays will denote that a race will take place as scheduled. The following yachts will take part in the series: Zephyr, Number One, Skipper J. E. Pearman; Vixen, Number Two, Skippers Fenton Trimingham and Leslie Howarth; Teaser, Number Three Skippers Vincent Frith and Bert Darrell; Undine, Number Four, Skipper Roddy Williams; Coquette, Number Five, Skipper Bayard Dill.

CORNELL BEATS YALE, 39-28 AT BASKETBALL

N.Y. Herald Tribune

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 28—Cornell's basketball team put together 17 points in a first-half scoring rally and defeated Yale 39 to 28, in an Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League game tonight. Jim Bennett paced Cornell's big spurt in the first half with four baskets and added three more goals in the second half.

Yale jumped into an early lead on Zilly's goal after Krieger netted a free throw, but Cornell pulled up to a 7-to-7 tie, mostly on free throws, in the first seven minutes. A free throw by Foertsch and Leonard's two-pointer put Cornell ahead, 10 to 7, after ten minutes as Yale substituted an entire team.

But the new team failed to halt Cornell, especially Bennett, who scored four goals in Cornell's spurt to a commanding 22-to-7 margin. Erickson's goal broke a Cornell string of 17 points, but Bennett and Foertsch caged goals and Zilly scored a two-pointer for Yale in the last three minutes to give Cornell a 26-to-11 lead at the half.

Cornell held steadily to its margin in the first ten minutes of the second half, at one time stretching its lead to sixteen points, then losing four of these points on two long shots by Cobb. Bennett kept pace in field goals with Cobb, who also scored three points from the freethrow line and with nine minutes to go Cornell led, 32 to 21.

FINNISH STARS SWEEP EVENTS

Domei Tsushin

HELSINKI, Feb. 27—Miss Verne Lesche of Finland, by scoring impressive wins in both the 1,000-meter and 5,000-meter events today walked off with the women's world championship speed-skating crown. The winning time was 10 minutes 27.9 seconds. Miss Tamminen was clocked at 10 minutes 59.2 seconds, while the Polish girl trailed in 11 minutes 9 seconds.

MINNESOTA HOCKEY COACH HAS 14 NATIVES ON SQUAD

Olympic News Service

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan, 24—When Lester Patrick of the New York Rangers declared recently that the best American-born hockey players are natives of the State of Minnesota he seconded a notion that has been a contention of Minnesota Coach Larry Armstrong for some time.

For the past four seasons Armstrong has been taking native Minnesotans and molding teams that have more than held their own against the best collegiate opposition in Canada.

The current season has been no exception. A Minnesota squad whose personnel includes 14 Minnesotans out of 17 men has defeated McMaster University of Hamilton, Ont., 6-3 and 5-2, has divided a pair of games with the University of Manitoba 2-3 and 4-1, and has lost two matches to a decidedly Canadian-complexioned University of Southern California six, 1-2 and 0-4.

STEADY IMPROVEMENT

Last season the Gophers divided games with the University of Toronto and in 1937 they accomplished a similar feat against Manitoba to indicate the steady improvement of Minnesota youth in the Canadian game.

Seven of the 14 Minnesotans on the current University sextet are natives of the Mesabi iron range district, "hotbed" of American hockey and three of them are from Eveleth, home of such American-born stars of the National League as Frank Brimsek of the Boston Bruins and Leo Karakas of the Chicago Black Hawks.

Outstanding among the "Range" products on the Gopher six is the sensational John Mariucci, former teammate of Brimsek on the Eveleth High School team, who has been the leading scorer for the Minnesotans for the past two seasons despite the fact that he has been stationed on the defense.

SALVAGED SKATES

No member of either his own team or the opposition has yet been able to outshine Mariucci for speed, stick-handling and general all-around defensive ability and he has played against some outstanding men over the course of two seasons. In season, he is a football end of more than average ability and played regularly on the 1938 Minnesota eleven.

Appropriately enough, the Minnesota ace salvaged his first pair of skates from the trash barrel and refused to part with them when he discovered that the skates had been discarded by Vic DesJardienes, former Eveleth and National League player.

Two other Minnesota players have been tabbed by Coach Armstrong, a former Canadian star in his own right, as potential major league material. They are Frank St. Vincent of Hibbing and Harold Paulsen of Virginia, both towns adjacent to Eveleth. St. Vincent is a tireless skater and a clever back-checker, which makes him particularly valuable at center ice. Paulsen, a sophomore wing, has both speed and scoring ability.

Another Armstrong contention is that American-born goalies are becoming more proficient than their Canadian brethren because of the baseball training of the boys on this side of the border. Brimsek and Karakas are both catchers during the Summer, he points out, and their activities behind the bat have taught them to shift their feet and handle themselves with dexterity. Martin Falk, 195-pound Minnesota netguardian, is a pitcher in season.

CAPTAIN IS A CANADIAN

Strangely enough, the captain of the predominantly native Minnesota squad is a Canadian, He is Kenneth Anderson, diminutive right wing, and his home is in Fort Francis, Ontario, just across the international bridge from International Falls, Minnesota.

With the collegiate schedule in the midwest at halfway mark, Minnesota and Michigan again stand out in collegiate competition. The Gophers have defeated McMaster, Manitoba, Illinois and have lost to Southern California and Manitoba. The Wolverines have also defeated the Illini, playing only the second season in the conference; Western Ontario and Western Reserve, losing to the London A. C. and tying McMaster.

Minnesota and Michigan met in two games at Ann Arbor on Jan. 19 and 21 and will play two more games at Minneapolis in February with the mythical championship at stake. At the present time Notre Dame and the Michigan College of Mining and Technology are also supporting hockey teams among the larger schools.

1939 DAVIS CUP CHALLENGES FILED BY 27 COUNTRIES

By ALLISON DANZIG

N.Y. Times

With the assistance of consulate representatives of participating nations the United States Lawn Tennis Association conducted the draw for the 1939 Davis Cup matches on Feb. 4 at the Vanderbilt Hotel in New York.

Twenty-seven countries filed challenges for the huge silver bowl, which was reclaimed by the American team led by Donald Budge in 1937, after an absence of ten years, and successfully defended against Australia last year. With its massive accompanying tray, the trophy was on view as the ceremony was carried out in the Far East Room, where the annual meeting of the U. S. L. T. A. will be held.

Twenty nations were drawn in the European zone and six in the American. Brazil, the lone challenger in the South American division, will meet the North American survivor. The winner of this match will play the team qualifying in Europe for the privilege of challenging the United States.

WARD IS IN CHARGE

With President Holcombe Ward in charge of the procedure and Captain Walter L. Pate aiding him, the consuls, in turn, came forward to draw the envelopes containing the names of the challenges from the bowl.

Czechoslovakia, formerly one of the strongest of the European tennis nations but now weakened by the loss of Roderich Menzel through the absorption of the Sudeten territory by Germany, heads the upper half of the draw for the European zone. Germany, whose chances of winning the cup last year were wrecked with the imprisonment of Baron Gottfried von Cramm but since has benefited by the addition of Menzel, is in the lower half.

France and Great Britain are also in the lower division, while Yugoslavia, possibly the strongest team in Europe with Franjo Kukuljevic and Franjo Puncec, is in the upper half, as also is Italy.

AUSTRALIA VS. MEXICO

The American zone draw brings Australia, the most feared of all the challengers, against Mexico and Canada against Cuba in the first round. Japan, which will have to be reckoned with seriously if Jiro Yamagishi is available, will meet the winner of the Canada-Cuba match, and the Phillippines await the winner of the Australia Mexico tie.

The matches in the European zone will begin in May and in the American zone in late June or July. Captain Pate, who led the team that brought back the cup and also the one that defended it last year, expressed the opinion that United States has an even chance of retaining the trophy this Summer despite the loss of Budge. The challenge round will be staged around the first of September.

The draw:

Gehrig's Signed Contract A Help to Other Magnates

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—There should be widespread rejoicing among the major league magnates today because the calm acceptance of a cut by Lou Gehrig, baseball's highest salaried player, apparently signals surrender for most of the holdout troops.

Nearly every incoming mail is bringing signed contracts, to the various clubs and the really recalcitrant hagglers probably can be numbered on the fingers of one hand. These avowed holdouts include Van Lingle Mungo of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who has been asked to work for $5,000 instead of the $15,000 he received last year and Buck Newsom of the St. Louis Browns, who wants $20,000.

There is no question that their positions were undermined by the signing of Gehrig, who in recent years has stood foremost in the ranks of bargainers ambitious to reach baseball's upper pay strata.

Although not announced until yesterday, Gehrig actually signed Tuesday night, which was just one day after he received the contract in the mail. It is debatable how much shearing was covered by President Ed Barrow's statement that the final figure was a "compromise," but usually first sacker probably accepted a $4,000 cut to $35,000.

Whatever the amount, Gehrig's acceptance with nothing worse than a grimace certainly furnished no encouragement to Joe Di Maggio to seek more than offered in his new contract—reportedly $25,000, the same as last year.

Thus the Yankees, whose winning of a world championship for the third straight time might conceivably stimulate some salary problems, seem in a fair way of signing all hands with a minimum of difficulty.

A generally liberal policy on the part of other owners has forestalled friction all along the line.

The Chicago Cubs have signed nine, including Manager Leo (Gabby) Hartnett and Pitchers Bill Lee and Dizzy Dean. William Wrigley renewed Dean's 1938 contract calling for $20,000 even though the big right-hander's arm is in question.

The New York Giants assured Carl Hubbell he would get his full salary, estimated at $24,000, and have signed a total of 16. The Pittsburgh Pirates nearly doubled the pay of Johnny Rizzo and gave Arky Vaughan a lift.

Scattered reports from the American League front carry few hints of trouble. In fact the only storm warnings visible to the naked eye at the moment come from the always dauntless Brooklyn Dodgers. Besides Mungo those dissatisfied include Joe Stripp and Forrest Pressnell.

New 'Stymie' Rule Given More Grace

NEW YORK.—Important decisions were arrived at here recently on the occasion of the United States Golf Association's annual meeting. The Association, for one thing, approved a recommendation of the Executive Committee that the revised stymie rule, which was given a year's trial in 1938, should be given another year's life.

The rule permits lifting the nearer ball when it is within six inches of the hole as well as when it is within six inches of the other ball.

It was also reported to the meeting, by the International Relations Committee, that negotiations were taking place with the object of having a seeded draw in the British and American Amateur Championships when one country's Walker Cup team is visiting the other

14-CLUB RULE

Another matter that has caused great interest and discussion the 14-club rule—came up for review, and the Executive Committee reported that the rule, which was adopted a year ago in the States, but only last Autumn in Britain, had given general satisfaction.

A. M. Reid, who was reelected President of the U.S. Association, announced that the American golf ball manufacturers had at last agreed to adhere to definite specifications designed to limit the ball to present carrying qualities.

SCHMELING, BACK IN U.S., DENIES PUNISHMENT RUMORS IN HOMELAND

Max Schmeling returned to New York recently on the French liner Normandie, accompanied by his friend and trainer, Max Machon.

The German heavyweight, who once held the championship of his division and who still aspires to become the first boxer in history to regain that title, looked paler than usual but still carried himself like the well-conditioned athlete he always has been and was all affability as he received hs callers at the Essex House, where he will make his headquarters in this country.

He at once was asked the reason for his rather unexpected trip. Rumors from Europe had the battler suffering all degrees of punishment for an alleged statement criticizing Dr. Joseph Goebbels, German Minster of Propaganda, but Schmeling lost no time branding these stories as untrue.

NOT AN EXPERT ON POLITICS

With the denial, however, the ex-heavyweight king refused further to comment on politics. "My field is boxing," he explained, "and I'm perfectly willing to talk about that. But I'll leave the discussion of politics to those who know more about it than I do."

He went on to say: "I have been undergoing treatment in Germany for the spine injury I suffered in my fight with Joe Louis, and intend to return there shortly."

When asked his reason for having come to this country on a French boat whereas his many previous trips here were made on German ships, Schmeling, while minimizing the importance of the question, made no answer. Nor did Machon, who sometimes acts as the fighter's spokesman.

LEADERS IN CLASS LISTED

Schmeling led the discussion to boxing and insisted that he and his American manager, Joe Jacobs, were on the best of terms. Jacobs, who manages Tony Galento, was to have flown from Detroit to greet Schmeling, but air conditions prevented his doing so.

A listing of the three leading heavyweights, in his opinion was volunteered by Schmeling who rated Louis tops, Galento second and Max Baer third. He declared that he would have no objections against fighting Galento, despite the fact that both are guided by Joe Jacobs.

Mike Jacobs, president of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club, and his vice-president, Eddie Frayne, were closeted with Schmeling for a half an hour. No indication of what they had been talking about was given by the promoter of the fighter, who explained that he would not make a move until he had spoken with Joe Jacobs.

Schmeling plans to remain in this country about two weeks. He weighs 196 pounds, only four above his best fighting weight.

CONTENDER

Max Schmeling, the former heavyweight champion, returns for a short visit to America. He says he's not out of the ring yet.

DARTMOUTH BEATS YALE

N.Y. Times

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 4—With 2 seconds to play, Captain Moose Dudis sank a field goal that gave Dartmouth a sensational 34-to-32 victory over Yale tonight. This was the fourth triumph in as many Eastern Intercollegiate League games for the leading Indians, while the Elis dropped deeper into the cellar with their fifth setback in six circuit contests.

It was a contest that had most of the thrills packed into the final three minutes, for Dartmouth had been well in front most of the way. But near the close John Cobb sank a foul and then a set shot to tie the score, 30—all, and seconds later Cobb dropped another goal to give Yale a 32-to-30 lead.

ELSE PASSES TO DUDIS

Yale desperately tried to cling to this margin, but could not freeze the ball for more than a minute. Dartmouth peppered the basket and finally Joe Cottone sank a quarter-court shot with 28 seconds to go. In the final seconds, Vin Else sent a pass to Dudis directly under the basket for the winning goal.

Dartmouth played more than half the final period without Gus Broberg, who went out on personal fouls. The Green led, 24 to 17, at the half, but then was held to a single field goal until the final half-minute.

George Page of Yale was the high score, with 13 points, all except one made in the first half.

The first half was fought at a furious pace, with both teams lapsing from brilliant shots and accurate passes to the most ragged variety of basketball. At the intermission, the Indians were ahead, 24 to 17.

For the first ten minutes the lead alternated on nearly every basket. The surprise star of the period was Else, Dartmouth forward, who replaced the veteran Cottone early. Else tossed four important baskets, none of an ordinary nature. One was thrown with his back to the hoop.

SCORE TIED AT 13—ALL

Broberg, the high-scoring Indian sophomore forward, was held to two baskets in the half. Midway through the session Yale tied the score at 13-all on a free shot by Page, but Else's one-handed goal gave Dartmouth a lead it kept for the remainder of the half.

The shot which drew the loudest applause from the crowd of 2,000 was Bob MacLeod's field goal that closed the half. The gun sounded when the ball was in midair.

Germans, Swiss Share Honors at Ski Contest

ZAKOPAN, Poland, Feb. 14—Germany and Switzerland shared honors today in the world championship skiing tournament contested here.

In the combined downhill and slalom team race, the Germans finished first, followed by the Swiss and Norwegian teams respectively.

J. Jonnewein, Germany, won the title in the individual combined downhill and slalom contest, with Willy Walch, Germany, second, and R. Rominger, Switzerland, third. Rominger won the slalom championship, however, with Jonnewein second and Walch third.

U.S. AMATEUR SKI CROWN WON BY AUSTRIAN

By FRANK ELKINS

N.Y. Times

STOWE, Vt.—The 19-year-old Austrian sensation, Toni Matt of Stanton am Arlberg flashed a brilliant exhibition of versatility on steel edges to capture the United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association's open combined downhill and slalom championship recently. Despite hard luck in the obstacle contest in the morning, the Tyrol junior title-holder finished a close second, which, with his first place in downhill, gave him a fine total of 230 points.

The next four positions in the combined had a distinct Green tinge, as two present and two former Dartmouth racers finished in that order. Stocky Eddie Wells was the runner-up with 236 points. Then followed Dashing Dick Durrance with 241, Harry Hillman Jr. with 243 and Ed Meservey with 253. The last two are members of the Dartmouth Alumni Outing Club, organized several weeks ago.

Inasmuch as Matt, who skis with remarkable force, is an instructor, the Eastern amateur combined title automatically went to the first "restricted amateur" to follow him. That of course was Wells, who had given the foreign ace a close tussle for the straight-down honors.

KEEN INTEREST IN SLALOM

While the combined was the important phase of the two-day meet, the slalom commanded considerable interest. Hillman, who had celebrated his twenty-third birthday only two days before, gave a spectacular performance as he led home the star-studded field for both the open and closed titles.

Known as a reckless skier, Hillman gave a beautiful demonstration of running under full control. Notwithstanding the difficult pattern of flags that Arthur Schlatter, Swiss coach of Middlebury, had set, the former Hanoverian weaved in and out of the "gates" and "flushes," particularly the tight one at the bottom of the quarter-mile course that claimed so many victims, at high speed but never without certainty.

He did not spill and incurred no penalty such as those which encompassed the downfall of Meservey, Durrance and Matt in their bids for the slalom title. Hillman was clocked at 1:02.7 in the morning and 1:05.1 in the afternoon. His performances earned a grand ovation from the half-frozen spectators huddled along the mountainside and enabled him to beat Matt by a slight margin.

In an endeavor to get too much speed under his hickory wings, Matt went tumbling near the close of the morning run for a time of 1:07.2. However, he recovered brilliantly in the second trial with 1:01.2, his aggregate of 2:08.4 barely failing to overtake Hillman's 2:07.8.

SIXTY-FIVE SKIERS COMPETE

Ideal snow conditions and a testing slalom lay-out that contained thirty "gates" and several "flushes" of a difficult nature greeted the sixty-five racers. Long before the morning runs there was a large crowd huddled along the course. The turnout was remarkable and the performances were likewise.

Rarely known to pass flags or fall, Durrance straddled a sharp "gate" just after taking off and was penalized six seconds. This prevented him from retaining his slalom crown, as well as from making a better showing for the combined.

ANDERSEN WINS

ST. PAUL,—Reidar Andersen of Norway won the national ski jumping championship here. Andersen, champion of Norway, leaped to first place in the tournament in a field that included the best United States riders. His jumps of 193 and 197 feet, longest of the day, gave him the title by a wide margin.

Andersen's almost perfect form in addition to his long jumps gave him a point total of 234.45 in Class A, compared with 226 points for Alf Engen of Sun Valley, Idaho, the runner-up, Eugene Wilson of Coleraine, Minn., placed third with 223.9, while Sverre Fredheim of St. Paul was fourth with 221.45.

Sig Ulland of Lake Tahoe, Calif., defending champion, finished fifth with 220.05, the result of leaps of 177 and 182 feet. Engen had jumps of 188 and 189 feet.

An accident prevented Paul Bietila of Madison, Wis., 1938 runner-up and present national collegiate champion, from competing in the A division. In a practice leap in the morning he fell and suffered two fractured ribs, a broken jaw and other injuries. He was taken to a hospital.

St. Paul won three of the four national championships awarded at the tournament. Len Soler recently took the Class B crown. Recently Gjardar Iverson of St. Paul won the senior crown and Gene Lewis took the title in Class C, or boys' division.

Soler jumped 165 and 175 feet on his two tries for 204.6 points to beat Bobby Storm of Duluth, Minn., who had 204.5 points. Storm's leaps were 162 and 174 feet.

BALL SCRIBES AT ANNUAL FETE CHEER UMPIRE

Baseball, through its first hundred years, apparently has not yet exhausted its supply of the unexpected for, incredible as it may sound, an umpire was cheered recently until the very rafters of the Hotel Commodore vibrated to the thrills of this most unusual spectacle.

The occasion was the sixteenth annual dinner and frolic of the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association and close to a thousand guests at the affair rose as though somebody had just clouted a home run over the building when William J. Klem, dean of major league umpires, was called upon to receive the scribes' plaque for meritorious services to baseball over a long period of years.

The battle-scarred veteran of more than a quarter century of turbulent warfare on the diamond was visibly affected by the demonstration. The old, old arbitrator, as he is known wherever baseball is played, thanked his admirers for the tribute which, he insisted, could not possibly be meant for him personally but for his entire profession.

AN UNPRECEDENTED FEAT

Two others also were honored. To Manager Joe McCarthy went the outstanding achievement award for his unprecedented feat in piloting the Yankees to three successive world series championships. To James Emory Foxx, first baseman of the Red Sox, went the player-of-the-year plaque for his astounding comeback last year after almost all of the baseball world had definitely relegated him into the discard or major league stars the previous season.

As in the case of Klem, McCarthy, too, received a rousing, spontaneous ovation. It seemed as though the gathering, much as the writers themselves this year, had suddenly awakened to the fact that in this quiet, unassuming leader stood one of the most successful and capable managers of all time.

Before a galaxy of speakers swung into action, Sid Mercer, as toastmaster, read a message from President Roosevelt in which the nation's No. 1 fan expressed his regret at being unable to attend but sent his hearty greetings to all the diners.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

"We should all be grateful to Abner Doubleday," the President's message read. "Little did he, or the group that was with him at Cooperstown, N.Y., in 1839, realize the boon they were giving the nation in devising baseball.

"The rules of the game may have changed since Doubleday and his associates formulated them a century ago. But baseball, through all changes and chances, has steadily grown in popular favor and remains today the great American sport, with its fans counted by the millions.

"General Doubleday was a distinguished soldier in both the Mexican and Civil Wars. But his part in giving us baseball—he was a youth of 20 at the time—shows again that peace has her victories no less renowned than war.

"Please extend to all the diners hearty greetings from one of the fans."

The speakers included Postmaster General Farley, General Hugh S. Johnson, Brother Gilbert, "discoverer" of Babe Ruth; Walter O'Keefe and Grover A. Whalen.

Postmaster General Farley announced for the first time that a new stamp commemorating one hundred years of baseball will be placed on sale this year. The stamp will make its first appearance at Cooperstown when baseball's centennial celebration opens.

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT" - by Ripley

The Roots of Roger Williams

The founder of Rhode Island was buried in 1683 under a small apple tree. The grave was opened in 1860 to move the remains to a new resting place. It was then discovered that the roots of the apple tree had turned out of their way to enter the body at the head. They followed the position of the body, divided and entered both legs. Shooting tender fioers in various directions, the human-shaped roots sought and absorbed the chemicals of Williams' body, to turn what was the great apostle of religious freedom into blossoms and fruit.

He Learned to Dance in an Insane Asylum

Julio Alvarez, in debt at college, accepted a job at the State Insane Asylum, Mattapan, Boston, to earn money with which to pay his creditors. One of the asylum inmates, Alvarez recalls, was a former vaudeville dancer, who taught him the principles of tap dancing. The steps he learned at the asylum later enabled Alvarez to get a job in a New York musical show. This was the start of the career that has carried him to stardom in one of America's leading ballroom dance teams, Florence and Alvarez.

'WE WILL REPEAT' SAYS M'CARTHY YANKEE MANAGER

By JOHN DREBINGER

N.Y. Times

Looking like a man who had come through a great deal but otherwise saw no serious difficulties ahead, Joseph V. McCarthy, manager of the world champion Yankees, arrived in New York recently for his annual February visit to the big town.

He had just shoveled his way out of the snowpiles of Buffalo to attend the sixteenth annual dinner of the New York baseball writers at the Commodore, where he is to receive the scribes' outstanding achievement plaque and for this he expressed himself duly thankful and no little surprised. Also, a trifle worried, for Marse Joe is of a modest sort who really does not like to get up before a cast gathering and make a speech, even if only to say thank you.

CLEAR SAILING FORECAST

Answering a broadside of questions in the Yankee offices, he appeared far more at home. Will the Yankees sail triumphantly on to a fourth straight pennant?

"Right now," said Marse Joe, "I know of no reason why they shouldn't. We had the best team in baseball last year and it should be as strong, if not stronger, next season. The team that beats the Yanks will win the pennant."

What about Lou Gehrig?

"Well, what about Gehrig? Seems a lot of folks are worrying about replacing Gehrig long before such action is necessary. Sure, Lou had what you might call a 'bad season' last year. But it was only a bad season for Gehrig. I know a lot of major league first basemen who would be well pleased to have one season that good. He still drove in well over a hundred runs."

COUNTS ON HILDEBRAND

Regarding the mishap to Spurgeon Chandler, his young right-hander, who fractured a small bone in an ankle in Georgia recently, McCarthy was inclined to see nothing very serious about this.

"I don't know all the details," he said, "but I understand only a small bone was broken and Spud will have ample time to recover before the start of the season. Of course, losing most of the training season will be a handicap, but I'm sure we'll have enough pitching talent to take up the slack until brand to be a real winning pitcher for us, and if Ruffing, Gomez and Pearson go along as last year we will be all set."

What club does he expect will give the Yanks the most serious trouble next season?

"Well, that's one I never like to answer, because at this time of year it's all guesswork. How can any one tell? Last Spring, after the White Sox finished third in 1937, we looked for that club to provide a real threat. Then their heaviest hitter, Luke Appling, broke a leg, other mishaps followed and the Sox were wrecked before the race started.

"However, if you want to pin me down, I'll say the Red Sox, with the Tigers and Indians right behind them. The Red Sox had a great hitting club last year and if they get the pitching they'll be plenty troublesome."

McCarthy expressed the belief Joe Gordon, Joe DiMaggio and Tommy Henrich would be the most improved players with the Yanks this year. Gordon and Henrich, he said, were pound to be better because of their added experience after their brilliant freshman years.

CANADIANS WIN FIGURE SKATING

TORONTO.—Two Canadians, whose schooling in fundamentals repelled the brilliant but belated challenges of United States entries, won the North American figure skating singles championships recently.

Miss Mary Rose Thacker of Winnipeg, a finished skater at 16, won the women's championship despite the magnificent free skating of Miss Joan Tozzer of Bostin, 17-year-old daughter of a Harvard professor. Tall Montgomery (Bud) Wilson of Toronto, who has held the men's title since 1929, won against the competition of Robin Lee of St. Paul.

The United States took two titles Miss Tozzer, United States champion, and Bernard Fox of Boston won the pairs championship and Miss Nattie Prantel and Joseph K. Savage of New York the waltz competition. Wilson and Ralph McCreath teamed with Misses Dorothy and Hazel Caley of Toronto to win the fours title.

Miss Audrey Peppe of New York was fourth in women's singles, Miss Polly Blodgett of Boston seventh and Miss Charlotte Walther of New York eighth. McCreath and Ollie Haupt of St. Louis gave the most athletic performances in the men's free skating to place third and fourth behind Wilson and Lee. Eugene Turner of Los Angeles was fifth.

'QUARTERBACK' WHO GIVES OUT SIGNALS IS MAIN COG OF BASKETEERS AT KANSAS

LAWRENCE, Kan.—The term "quarterback" is nothing new in football, but it has been only the last few years that the term has been introduced into basketball by Dr. Forrest C. Allen of the University of Kansas.

The "quarterback" is a very important unit in Dr. Allen's teams. Since the elimination of the center jump, the Kansas center has been the "quarterback," inasmuch as height is no longer necessary at that position.

The Jayhawk center or "quarterback" starts all the Kansas plays and usually is the man who calls them. Dr. Allen's teams use set plays most of the time, and much of their success depends on the center.

MUST BE GOOD PASSER

The "quarterback," consequently, must be an exceptional passer and ball handler. He must be able to pass the ball through the front line of defense, with a minimum number of interceptions.

This season, the first-string Kansas "quarterback" is Bob Allen, 19-year-old son of the coach. Bob fills the bill in every detail. He has been playing basketball since his kindergarten days and handles the ball smoothly and effortlessly.

Backing him up are Bruce Voran, a junior, and Lester Kappelman, two letter senior. This gives Dr. Allen considerable choice in his selection of the "quarterback." All three centers are six feet tall.

COOLNESS IMPERATIVE

It is not necessary for the "quarterback" to be an outstanding scorer, but if he is, so much the better. The Kansas plays provide the center with freqquent good shots, adding to the desirability of playing the position.

Coolness is imperative at the "quarterback" position, as in football. The center has the ball much of the time and consequently is the target when the defense is playing a rushing game. If his team is trailing and defeat is imminent, it is the "quarterback's" duty to steady the team down.

The cheers of 16,000 racing enthusiasts rang in the ears of unbeatable Glenn Cunningham once again in packed Madison Square Garden as the thirty-second annual Millrose A. A. meet unfolded surprise after surprise, record after record, in a sensational series of heart-pounding finishes on its new track.

Roy Staley, the 1936 Olympian from Southern California, running indoors here for the first time, cracked the sixty-yard high hurdles record three times in a row with 7.3 seconds as Allan Tolmich ran last in the final. Herbert Thompson, of Jersey City, equaled the sixty-yard indoor record of 6.1 seconds as Ben Johnson and Perrin Walker were shut out in the semi-finals. Fordham's Wesley Wallace, never a winner on a banked track before, won the twenty-fifth running of the Millrose 600 by a foot in 1:12.3, second fastest time in the meet's history, as Harold Cagle ran last. Fordham's Frank Slater won the half-mile in 1:54.7 from Olympic champion John Woodruff after Charley Beetham fell on the last turn.

BORICAN CLIPS RECORD

John Borican, the portrait-painting Columbia graduate student painted a self-portrait of a record-wrecker in motion when he cracked a sixteen-year-old indoor record in the two-thirds mile, which hasn't been run in a decade or more but some fine runners have run it in the past. Jimmy Connolly's 2:43.6 was the mark Borican aimed at. Leading every step of the way, smooth as silk in his style, Borican breezed home in 2:39, beating Indiana's Melvern Trutt by two yards, Howie Borck by five and Leslie MacMitchell by ten, as Gene Venzke ran unplaced.

Borican, slicing 4.6 seconds from the record, passed the quarter in 57.4 and the half in 1:59.8.

Mel Walker cleared 6 feet 7⅜ inches in winning the high jump from his former Ohio State mate, David Albritton, who cleared 6.7. Three others cleared 6.6, Artie Byrnes, of Manhattan, taking third prize because he did it on his first try.

In a terrific jockeying brawl, Gregory Rice, from Notre Dame, won the two-mile with a blast of speed in the last lap as Don Lash, coming like the wind with his blow-em-down sprint ran into and knocked Gilbert Dodds, of Ashland College, goofy on the last turn. Dodds had been lapped. Rice was leading Michigan's Ralph Schwarzkopf in the final mad whirl with Lash on their heels.

The first two cut inside Dodds all right, but the Ohioian swerved over into Lash's path and ruined his mighty bid. Lash recovered and caught Schwarzkopf for second place but was beaten five yards by Rice in 9:07.6. Lash must surely have won but for the accident. The race was full of incidents. Joe McCluskey, leading the pack three laps from home, lost his left shoe and faded from the fight.

FINISH THRILLS CROWD

But the wholesale upheaval of form could not touch King Glenn. In another masterful demonstration of his form, speed and power, Cunningham fought off the brilliant challenges of the country's greatest milers and won the Wanamaker Cup for the sixth time in seven starts. Cunningham was clocked in 4 minutes 13 seconds—not the fastest nor the slowest of his many Wanamaker triumphs. But the finish was one of the greatest.

Jumping into the lead at the bell, Cunningham outsprinted Wisconsin's Chuck Fenske by a margin of four feet in an electrifying last-lap drive. Wayne Rideout, of the North Texas State twins, coming from fifth place in the last lap, blew into third place, three yards back of Fenske. Wayne collared Archie San Romani in the closing strides. Blaine Rideout was a close fifth. Far back in sixth place was Lonesome John Munski, of Missouri, and seventh and last was Josef Mostert, the Belgian champion.

Cunningham's victory gave him his outright possession of his third Rodman Wanamaker Trophy. The first quarter with Munski leading, was run in 62 seconds; the half in 2:09; the three-quarter in 3:12.2. This wasn't a record pace, and pace makes records. But the race itself had the crowd on edge from first to last.

MUNSKI IS EARLY LEADER

Mostert broke on top, but Munski flashed past him at the first turn and opened an eight-yard lead. He led for three laps with Blaine Rideout, Cunningham, Fenske, Mostert, San Romani and Wayne Rideout trailing behind him.

Cunningham didn't like the pace. He stepped out in front on the fifth lap as San Romani, running a race to redeem himself, rushed to second. Fenske pushed to the front on the eighth lap, with Cunningham, San Romani and Blanie Rideout running in Indian file behind him. Wayne was ten yards back. The others had faded. This order persisted to the final lap, and then the milers swirled into action all at once.

The Garden became a bedlam as Cunningham jumped Fenske and held his place to the tape. The Wisconsin graduate, who had finished last in the mile at Boston, made a remarkable recovery in a week. He stuck to Glenn's heels all the way around the final lap but did not have the strength to overcome the machine runner in front of him. San Romani also finished strong, but Wayne Rideout had the best sprint of all, considering how far he came in the last two laps to get third.

Another bombshell exploded in the twenty-fifth running of the Millrose 600 when Wesley Wallace, Fordham junior, a flat-floor demon who had never run a great race on a banked track, won by a foot with his last strides. His clocking of 1 minue 12.3 seconds was the second fastest in Millrose history. Bill Fritz, Canadian ace, leading every step of the way until Wallace nailed him five yards from the tape, finished a smashing second. Three yards back in third place was Jimmy Herbert, of N.Y.U., the world record holder and two-time Millrose winner. And Harold Cagle, of Oklahoma Baptist, who had run away from Herbert and Wallace in Boston in his board debut, finished last.

Form was knocked inside out in this finish. Fritz, making his local debut, broke on top, with Herbert fighting him for the lead to the first turn. Wallace was last until the third lap. Seeing an opening inside Cagle, he pushed on to third place and set sail after the leaders. Pulling to the outside, he raced around Herbert and went to the Canadian's heels. Fritz was full of running. He fought off Wallace on the last turn and fought off the Rapid Ram all the way up the straightaway until the last few strides. Wallace, who started the season with a world indoor record at 500 meters on a flat floor, finally crashed into the ranks of the big-time winners.

STALEY SETS HURDLE RECORD

Roy Staley, 1936 Olympian from the Southern California A. A., set foot in the Garden for the first time and proceeded to break the world indoor record for the sixty-yard high hurdles three straight times. To say that Staley was colossal would be a Hollywood understatement. He was perfect. He raced over the five hurdles in 7.3 seconds in his first heat, again in his semi-final, again in the final. Each time he sliced one-tenth of a second from the mark hung up by Allan Tolmich and Spec Towns last year. Tolmich, matching his record in his heat, too, ran last in the final behind Larry O'Connor, Canada's champion, and Elmer Gedeon, Michigan's big Ten champion.

The sixty-yard sprint was notable for the unexpected. Columbia's Herbert Weast was shut out in the heats by Norwood (Barney) Ewell, Penn State freshman, and Syracuse Marty Glickman. Ben Johnson, last year's winner, and Perrin Walker, co-holders of the accepted indoor record of 6.1 seconds, were shut out in the semi-finals along with Glickman. Johnson ran in new red shoes. They didn't help him. In the final, Herbert Thompson, the Jersey City Negro, equaled the record of 6.1 seconds with a slashing victory over Ewell. Kenneth Clapp, Brown University junior, only white boy in the final, placed third, and Eulie Peacock, fourth. Thompson, who had won the sprint from Johnson in the last indoor meet in the Garden a year ago, resumed where he had left off.

N.Y.U. WINS RELAY

New York University, with Martin Witte, David Urbach, Myron Bresnick and Curtis Giddings, scored a hair-raising victory in one of the intercollegiate two-mile relays when Giddings, starting in second place twelve yards behind, nailed Roswell Brayton, of Harvard, by inches with his lunge at the tape. Yale was third, outdistanced, with Columbia and Dartmouth trailing. The Violet, thanks to Giddings' spectacular anchor, was clocked in 7:53.7.

Peter Benson, running third for the Williams mile foursome, cast a shoe soon after he took the baton. Running with one foot bare, he lost none of his big lead and the Purple beat Amherst and Wesleyan easily in the Little Three race.

The first sensational development came in the early running of the half-mile. Frank Slater, Fordham's national 1,000-meter champion, won in the spanking time of 1:54.7; Hard Luck Charley Beetham, last year's winner, tripped and fell while leading thirty-five yards from the tape, and John Woodruff, the Olympic champion, came on and finished second.

Slater had done little this Winter outside of relays to prepare the crowd for the remarkable speed he showed recently. But he would not have won if Beetham had kept his feet. Beetham, running a well timed race for a change, burst into the lead going into the last turn, when suddenly he stepped on the inside curb, or misjudged his stride, and went down in a heap. He looked up helplessly as the field swept by. Slater beat the long-striding Pitt ace by six yards. Sanford Goldberg, the fiying fireman of the Millrose A. A., who paced the field through a 54.6 second quarter, was third, twelve yards back of Woodruff. Arthur Bodeau, debutant from Purdue, was fourth.

Woodruff had finished last in two previous Millrose starts. He was better this time, but not quite ready. He was off nicely in third place, fell back to fourth when Slater jumped Goldberg at the end of three laps, and could not match the sprints of either Slater or Beetham at the end.

The first mile relay, the interscholastic, was runaway for the Seton Hall Prep foursome of Peter Nakoneczy, Lou Collado, Frank Fletcher and Jim O'Hearn, who toured the distance in the fast time of 3:26.7 in beating La Salle Military Academy and West Philadelphia Catholic High by thirty yards. But De La Salle Institute, a non-starter, won the three-year trophy on its 3:22.8 clocking last year.

At 7 o'clock or so the first athletes appeared on the new Millrose track, dug their spikes into it and formally launched the new track. Eleven laps to the mile as the old one, the oval saucer had a coat of battleship gray with a red rim. It made a pretty setting. The North Sea spruce planks were laid crosswise instead of lengthwise, as was the old track. The Millrose may have taken a leaf from the Dartmouth track in this arrangement. The only untoward incident was that the planks had become slightly warped since the track was built in John Wanamaker's store and offered a rippling surface that only the runners could detect.

Shortly after the Garden doors were opened at 6 o'clock the unreserved balcony was filled. By the time the first event started at 8 o'clock the Garden presented its sell-out appearance. All available space on the floor outside the track was jammed and hundreds stood at the rear of the end arena section.

The fastest mile relay of the night was run by the Boston A. A. team of Don Fleet, Robert Folsom, Tiffy Cook and Dick Gill, which took the interclub event in 3:21.8, in beating Lenox Hill by a yard. Fastest of the hair-raising college mile was Ohio State, which beat Fordham by a foot and N. Y. U. by a yard in 3:22 in a thriller where all three took turns in the lead. Running for the Big Ten champions were Bob Lewis, Art Pagel, Jack Sulzman and Harley Howells. Fordham, with St. Pierre, Leary, Wallace and Slater, lost for the first time this Winter. N.Y.U., anchored by Herbert had some consolation. It won outright possession of the John G. Anderson Memorial Trophy because its 3:20.2 performance last year was fastest over the three-year period.

Ohio State was switched into the Fordham-N. Y. U. race when Pitt scratched its entry. Woodruff had pulled a tendon in the 880 three hours before and could not run in the relay.

And still the surprises came. Columbia's slim Dick Ganslen won the polo vault from the world's two greatest vaulters, Earle Meadows, the Olympic champion, and Cornelius Warmerdam, the national outdoor champion. All cleared 14 feet. Ganslen, holder of the indoor national title, who has done 14 feet only two or three times before in his career, cleared the height on his first try and thus placed first ahead of the two Californians. Meadows cleared on his second try, Warmerdam on his third.

Germany Vanquished By U. S. in Amateur Hockey Title Contest

BASEL, Switzerland.—The United States hockey team won its second straight match in the world's amateur championship tournament recently, blanking Germany, 4 to 0. The Americans outclassed the German squad all the way by their speed and teamwork. On the day previous, the United States outfit trounced Italy, 5 to 0.

Czechoslovakia and Switzerland joined the United States in remaining on the unbeaten list through second-round matches. The Czechs, swamped Yugoslavia, 24 to 0, and whipped Latvia, 9 to 0 while Switzerland, 12-to-0 victor over Latvia in its opening engagement, downed Yugoslavia, 23 to 0.

Poland, defeated Hungary, 9 to 0, and England, trounced Belgium, 3 to 1, in their opening games. Italy came up with a victory but outscoring Finland, 5 to 2.

ARGENTINA WINS PAN-AMERICAN SWIMMING MEET

BUENOS AIRES,—Argentina captured two first in the finals of the three-day Pan-American Swimming Meet recently to give the host team victory over the United States, Ecuador, Urugay and Chile.

The Americans also won two individual events, Andrew Clark of Detroit taking the men's 400-meter freestyle and Jeanne Laupheimer of Brooklyn the women's 100-meter backstroke, for a total of eight firsts during the meet. This was two more than Argentina obtained, but the host team claimed eight seconds and six thirds to the United States' three and two.

ECUADOR THIRD

Ecuador finished third, Chile's one man team of Jorge Berroeta fourth and Uruguay fifth.

An exhibition of diving by Mrs. Katherine Rawls Thompson of vitation meet would be held here Miami, Fla., closed the meet to the applause of 8,000 spectators.

Officials announced a special inat which several of the most closely contested events would be repeated.

Jeannette Campbell of Argentina captured the women's 200-meter freestyle in an exciting duel with Mrs. Thompson, who looked like the winner until the last 25 meters. Miss Campbell's time was 2m. 35.9s., not as good as her South American record, but 3.1 seconds better than Mrs. Thompson's effort.

CLARK'S TIME

Steve Wosniak of Buffalo finished third in the men's 400-meter freestyle. Joe Duranona of Argentina was a close second. Clark's time was 4m. 58.1s.

Wosniak and Clark and two Ecuadoreans defeated a team of Chilean and Argentine competitors in the 800-meter freestyle relay, in 9m. 36.4s.

OLYMPIC VILLAGE IS BEST FEATURE OF OLYMPIAD

By R. MAILLARD STEAD

Christian Science Monitor

LONDON—If you were to ask me what I consider the most important feature of the modern Olympic Games, the reply would be, I think, "the Olympic Village." That is where the seeds of international friendship are most truly sown. And friendship among the youth of various countries is clearly something that the world can do with at the present time.

So it comes as good news that the Finns preparing for the 1940 Olympic Games at Helsingfors, are giving much thought to the preparation of an Olympic Stadium, and, according to plans outlined to me, it is to comprise some 30 buildings, with 40 kitchens to cater for the varied gastronomic requirements of the athletes.

AGREEABLE PLACE

Now, believe me, those athletes are going to have a great time. Not only because one always does have a great time living in an Olympic Village, but because Helsingfors is an extremely agreeable place to be in at any time, and never more so than in July, the warmest month of the year there.

That is why the Japanese track and field team went to the trouble of training there for the whole of July, prior to the 1936 Olympic Games at Berlin.

The athletes at the Games of the twelfth Olympiad are going to be grateful for the sanctuary of their Village. For in the ordinary life of Helsingfors, particularly the hotel life, the Olympic period—July 20 to Aug. 4—is going to be pretty congested.

Preliminary calculations furnish 100,000 as the probable number of visitors from all parts of the world, and, of these, only about 6,000 are likely to obtain rooms in hotels. But what seems at first sight to be a hair-raising problem—the housing of a balance estimated at 94,000 visitors—is to be solved by enlisting the cooperation of regular Helsingfors inhabitants, many of whom have declared their preparedness to turn over their best rooms for the use of spectators from abroad.

REALIZING AMBITION

This, I am assured, is typical of the enthusiastic manner in which the Finnish nation is setting about realizing a sporting ambition that it has long cherished—the staging of an Olympic Festival.

All that athletic Finland is concentrating upon on this occasion is flawless organization. Successes in competition, they say, means far less to them than success in thus presenting the Games.

The expense will be heavy. But there will also be a big income, even though it convey no profit. Half of it will come from abroad. Anyway, half the seats at the various competitions are to be reserved for foreigners. And, in case you, yourself, may be wanting a reservation, I will add that booking starts at the beginning of next year. Each country being allotted a quota, according to its size and sporting significance.

NEWS SERVICE

Meanwhile, the Finnish Olympic publicity department is getting almost as warmed up as the "Sauna" (or steam-bath), which is such an integral part of Finish national life. The department's activities range from issuing an Olympic News Service in seven languages (20,000 copies go out every month) to answering queries.

The other day, my informant tells me, the Publicity people at Helsingfors received a question from an American schoolboy, who wrote to say that there was to be a debate in his home town on the subject—Are the Olympic Games a good thing or not? Desirous of saying that they were, he asked the Finnish Press Bureau to tell him why they were, which it did. Not omitting to mention among the reasons, I am sure, the Olympic Village and all that it stands for in the way of encouraging friendships between the young folk of many lands, who at no other time have such an opportunity of getting together informally and spontaneously.

RANGERS DEFEAT MAPLE LEAF, 4-2

TORONTO—The New York Rangers packed too much power for Toronto in a National Hockey League game here and the Blue Shirts handed the Leafs their second successive defeat on home ice before 13,518 fans, 4 to 2.

The loss kept the Leafs bogged down in fourth place while the Rangers drew to within five points of the pace-setting Bruins.

Toronto opened the scoring with a tally in the first, but the Rangers produced a three-goal outburst in the second to assume a lead they never relinquished. Each team scored once in the third.

The game was a wide-open, fast-skating affair with the polished passing of the Rangers baffling the Leafs, while Dave Kerr backed up his teammates with a brilliant performance in the nets.

Neil Colville, Clint Smith, Phil Watson anad Bryan Hextall accounted for the New York goals. Gordon Drillon and Syl Apps scored for the Leafs.

Davidson led two sorties into Ranger territory and on one of them Drillon fumbled a shot after Kerr had been tricked out of position. Hiller came close when his shot streaked across the goal-mouth and hit the far post. Broda didn't even see the puck.

Apps beat Coulter to the puck in the Ranger end and circled around the net. Although Muzz Patrick was checking him the Toronto center kept stick-handling until he got away a pass to Dillon, who was standing at the edge of the crease. Drillon tapped in a goal without trouble to send the Leafs ahead, 1 to 0.

Kampman was chased for tripping Neil Colville. The Ranger power play kept the Leafs bottled behind their own blue line. Broda, however, didn't have one shot to handle and Kampman returned to ease the pressure. Coulter and Horner started a pushing match and Referee Lamport broke it up, only to discover Lynn Patrick and Kampman threatening to fight. Matters were smoothed away without any penalties.

Kelly came out for the second period wearing a helmet to protect an ear injured in the first session. Hetxall appeared to be in for a goal when he grabbed Watson's pass at the crease. Broda's vision was blacked, but he made a sliding save. Hiller had an open net to fire at, the puck striking the far post as Broda sprawled on the ice.

The Rangers tied the score at 8:46 when Shibicky cruised around Horner and Kampman and then passed to Neil Colville, whose shot beat Broda.

Broda stopped Watson's bid for a goal by dumping the Ranger forward. A minute later there was a scramble in front of the Leaf goal and Clint Smith rapped in the puck to send the Rangers ahead.

The Leafs weakened under the continual ganging tactics of the fast skating Blue Shirts and a third Ranger goal came at 15:07 when Watson went in close on Hiller's pass and scored.

Twenty-six seconds after the third period started Apps cut the Rangers' lead when he deflected Hamilton's shot into the New York net. Davidson had carried the puck down and passed it around the net to Hamilton, parked just inside the blue line.

Shibicky and Mac Colville broke clear with only McDonald on the defense. Bucko mussed up the pass. Smith took the Toronto defense into the corner, leaving Allen out in front all alone, but Broda saved.

Watson trapped McDonald behind the Leaf blue line as the Toronto defense man tried to clear the puck and Hextall came in from the side to grab the puck and beat Broda with a snappy shot.

BASEBALL STARS GET AWARDS

PHILADELPHIA.—Jerome Herman "Dizzy" Dean's pitching against the Pittsburgh Pirates last season and his work in the World Series, has made him the choice of the Philadelphia Sporting Writers' Association as the "most courageous athlete" of 1938.

Dean (right) was presented with a plaque. Mickey Cochrane, who was chosen for the award last year when he was manager of the Detroit Tigers, attended the banquet at which the award was made.

Jimmy Foxx, Boston Red Sox slugger, (left) was cited by the sports writers for the outstanding achievement in 1938. Foxx's .349 batting average won him the American League's championship and "Most Valuable Player" award.

LOUIS MAY GO ON EXHIBITION TOUR; TITLE FIGHT CONFERENCE HITS SNAG

Joe Louis has reached the stage in his ring career where he may have to undertake an exhibition tour to get the ring activity he needs.

This prospect developed in a conference among Promoter Mike Jacobs, to whom the heavyweight champion is committed by exclusive contracts, and John Roxborough and Julian Black, Louis's managers.

The possibility of a June struggle between Louis and Two-Ton Tony Galento was reviewed, even to a discussion of June 29 or 30 as the date for a fight in one of the local ball parks. The outlook for another Louis match with Bob Pastor, who out-galloped the champion when Louis was fighting his way to the title, likewise was discussed, as was the likelihood of Louis's defending his crown against the winner of the Max Baer-Lou Nova battle, set for May 25 in the Madison Square Garden Bowl.

MANAGER, PROMOTER CONFER

But little of a tangible nature came from this discussion, according to Promoter Jacobs. With respect to Galento, the talk struck what seems to be an impasse when a five-year contract which Herman Taylor, Philadelphia promoter, holds for Galento's services came up. Joe Jacobs, Galento's manager, was with Promoter Jacobs recently trying to adjust this highly important deatil.

Louis wants nothing more keenly than another joust with Pastor, unless it is fulfillment of his demand for four ring battles this year. But Roxborough and Black are not so keen about this because of the mad dash Pastor made for ten rounds in a previous engagement with Louis. And the Baer-Nova battle is too close to a June date for comfort, especially with the ever-present possibility of injury to the winner.

"We haven't done a thing all day but talk matches," said Promoter Jacobs. "Galento was mentioned. Pastor was talked of and so was the winner of Baer and Nova. Louis wants four fights this year and I want to give them to him. But where are the opponents? And if you get a man who looks as if he might stand up, there are other barriers.

"Maybe Galento would make a good man for June, but he is tied for five years to a rival promoter. That halts talk of a Louis-Galento match, because the man who fights Louis must give me a five-year contract on his services if he wins the title. That's only fair to my way of thinking.

PASTOR BOUT ANALYZED

"We could put Louis in the ring in June or maybe July with the winner of Baer and Nova, but that seems a bit too close to afford protection against possible injury to the survivor of the May bout. And although Louis is eager to box Pastor again, his managers are not inclined to give such a match serious thought for their own reasons.

"If something doesn't develop soon, Louis will be campaigning through the country on an exhibition tour that will lead up to the time he enters training for a June bout. That's the only way we have of keeping him busy, and he must have action."

Joe Jacobs would not comment on the Galento developments, or lack of them, beyond admitting he has been negotiating with Promoter Jacobs.

Lewis Still Champ Despite Knockout By Louis Recently

WASHINGTON.—The National Boxing Association announced recently that it still considered John Henry Lewis the world light-heavyweight champion despite his defeat by the heavyweight ruler, Joe Louis.

"Prior to the last meeting of the championship committee," said Lieut. Col. Harvey L. Miller, chairman of the ratings committee, "Gus Greenlee, manager of Lewis, advised the N. B. A. that Lewis had no intention of relinquishing his light-heavyweight title and would not do so even if he won from Joe Louis."

Miller added that John Henry Lewis weighed 180 pounds for the Louis bout, which indicated he could still make the 175 light-heavyweight classification.

GALENTO KAYOES BROWN IN 4 ROUNDS BUT OFFICIAL THINKS IT A SET-UP

DETROIT — Frank MacDonell, chairman of the Michigan Athletic Board of Control recently described as "silly" the National Boxing Association's recent ranking of Tony Galento as No. 1 contender for Joe Louis' heavyweight title, and imposed restrictions on any bouts Galento might fight here.

At the same time he barred from further competition in the State Natie Brown veteran Washington boxer, who dropped to the canvas ten times before being counted out in the fourth round of a fight with Galento, 234-pound tavern keeper from Orange, N.J., here.

"It was disgusting," said MacDonell. "Brown is all washed up, and I don't believe that Galento can lick me."

The boxing commissioner, who said he weighs 128 pounds, explained Galento's status thus:

"Galento will have to win a fight from an outstanding fighter in some other State before I shall allow him to appear in Michigan again, and then it will be only against a top-notch opponent."

MacDonell's suspension of Brown is effective only in Michigan because the Athletic Board was suspended by the N. B. A. last Sept. 12 for refusing to recognize bans the Illinois Boxing Commission had decreed on Jimmy Adamick, Midland (Mich.) heavyweight; Jack Trammell, Youngstown (Ohio) fighter; Promoter Jack Kearns, Thomas Walsh and James Brady, all of whom were associated in the management of Adamick, and James Buchanan, Trammell's manager.

They were suspended after Adamick knock out Trammell in Chicago last June 8, the Illinois Commission terming the affair "unsatisfactory."

Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey and Mickey Walker, was the promoter of contest. Walsh is matchmaker and aide of Kearns in his Detroit fistic ventures. MacDonell ordered him barred from fighters' dressing rooms some time ago.

Until he met Roscoe Toles, Detroit Negro, here last Fall, Adamick was the No. 1 drawing card for Kearns. Victim of a second-round knockout, Adamick suffered injuries from which he has not yet recovered.

Two members of the Michigan Legislature this week demanded an investigation of Adamick's career in the boxing world to determine whether "he had been sacrificed by gamblers."

Their resolution contended that unscrupulous persons "fixed" fights in order to build a reputation for Adamick, then allowed him to go into the ring while physically unfit for the bout with Toles that ended his ring career.

JACOBS ASSAILS COMMISSION

ORANGE, N. J., Feb. 4—Tony Galento came back to his bar today in a fog as to why any one should find fault with his fourth-round knockout of Natie Brown in Detroit last night.

While he served drinks to the townsfolk, he let his manager, Joe Jacobs, reply to the blast of Frank MacDonell, chairman of the Michigan Athletic Board of Control.

"Regardless of what MacDonell says, he can't knock Galento out of his No. 1 rating," said Jacobs, "because Galento knocks out every one who gets in the ring with him. And as for boxing in Michigan, I would not let Galento fight there again as long as MacDonell is commissioner."

Jacobs said that from what he had learned about politics in Michigan he gathered that MacDonell "is trying to hold his job and so is trying to make a goat out of Galento."

"After the fight MacDonell said everything was O. K., and he ordered the pay-off," Jacobs said. "Now he comes up with this statement that Galento can't fight. Galento knocked out Brown in four rounds. Brown went ten rounds with Joe Louis in the same ring. What does he want?"

19 Nations Sign Up For Finnish Games

LONDON.—Nineteen countries have now intimated their intention of taking part in the 1940 Olympic Games at Helsinki, Finland. Latest acceptances are Holland, Czechoslovakia and Germany.

Norway, according to Helsinki reports, has decided not to take part in the Olympic gymnastic competitions.

The U.S. Olympic committee has announced its plans in connection with the 1940 Olympic Summer Games, and the Winter Olympics (at St. Moritz, Switzerland). A team of 250 athletes will possibly be entered.

The track and field team may number 50 athletes, which is 18 less than in 1936. Other important events for which American competitors are entered include boxing, wrestling, swimming and fencing.

The publicity committee of the American Athletic Union, at its Golden Pubilee Convention, put forward the suggestion that a nation-wide campaign be inaugurated in order to publicize the history of the Games and amass funds and arouse interest in the 1940 Olympics

EVERTON REACHES TOP IN ENGLISH SOCCER STANDING

LONDON.—After setting the pace in English football since Oct. 29, Derby County on February 4 relinquished its hold on the leadership to Everton. The teams are tied with point totals of 38 but the Lancastrians move to the top rung of the league ladder by virtue of a superior goal average.

Leaders in other divisions retained their places, although Newport County, wonder team of the third division's southern section, lost at home, 2—0, to Bristol City.

Derby and Everton both played on foreign soil. The former was held to a 2—2 draw at Blackpool, while the Toffee-Makers blanked the neighboring Liverpool eleven, 3—0.

EARLY LEAD TO DERBY

Immediately after the start against Derby, Daily Duncan put the visitors 1 up after 31 minutes. The lead was short-lived, Jones knotting the count before the interval. The homesters did the bulk of the attacking in the second half and Lewis scored. Hinchcloffe equalized four minutes later.

Everton proved an attractive team at Liverpool, excelling in all departments of the game. Bentham gave the Toffee-Makers a 1-0 lead at the interval and in the second half Lawton tallied twice. There was a good deal of luck about Leicester City's 2—0 verdict over Leeds United, which finished with nine men on account of injuries. Playing without Bryn Jones and Crayston, Arsenal did well to halt Sunderland, 2—0, in London.

HEARTS WINNER BY 14—1

Favorites played up to expectations in second round Scottish Football Cup matches. The Rangers blanked the Hamilton Academicals, 2—0, at Ibrox Park, while Celtic downed Montrose, 7—1, Playing at Tynecastle Park, Hearts trounced Elgin City, 14—1.

With the exception of Clyde, held to a scorceless draw at Dundee, first division teams were successful in matches against clubs of lower status.

Falkirk was expected to overcome the Airdrieonians at Brockville Park, but the 7—0 margin came as a surprise.

A Bizarre Custom

Once a year on St. Catherine's Day, in November, the young women of Ploumanach, in Brittany, France, cross to a little rock islet nearby, where there is a rude wooden statue of the local patron saint, Guirec. Following an old tradition, the young women stick pins into the statue to prod the saint into providing husbands for them before the end of the year. St. Catherine's Day is widely celebrated in France by marriageable spinsters.

ULLAND BREAKS OWN SKI MARK AT WENATCHEE

WENATCHEE, Wash. — Nearly 5,000 thrilled spectators cheered the flying leap of Sigurd Ulland, of Lake Tahoe, Calif., as he broke his own official United States ski jumping distance record at Leavenworth, near here, at the 11th annual ski tournament there recently, with a graceful sweep of 249 feet over a hill that had been packed down with snow hauled from a near-by golf course earlier in the weak.

Ulland won the United States championship title in Vermont last year with a jump of 245 feet, four feet under the mark he set at the Leavenworth tournament. His brother, Olaf, here from Norway to give ski instruction in Wenatchee and Leavenworth the past two years, won second place, only one point behind his champion brother, although his longest leap was only 228 feet. Jumping technique and grace are considered in addition to distance for the final point standings.

Nineteen amateur and professional jumping aces from the Northwest, British Columbia, California, and Chicago competed in the Class A tournament, and local ski authorities expressed their beliefs that a United States record was set for the persentage of jumps that went 200 feet and more. With each participant coming "over" twice, 20 jumps ranged from 200 to 249 feet, and four exhibition jumps after the official competition ranged from 224 to 243 feet.

TAKES THIRD PLACE

Johnny Leeds, of the Copper Mountain, B. C., Ski Club, set the second longest distance with 242 on his second time over, but under the point system he took third place in the meet.

With less snow at Leavenworth (located at the base of the eastern slopes of the Cascades) this Winter than at any time the oldest of oldtimers there can recall, the annual tournament of ski jumping was dependent upon a sufficient fall of snow—and with still no snow even four days before the date set, it was decided to haul some from a near-by golf course, which, because of its protective slope, had retained several inches from an early fall. Several hundred men, with a dozen trucks and special loading machinery soon had the 1,500-foot course packed down so the little city's "big show" could take place as usual.

The tournament more than tripled the population of Leavenworth for the day. Three special trains brought about 1,300 Winter sports fans from Seattle and near-by coast cities, and automobiles brought the balance from all Northcentral Washington and more distant parts of the State.

SEEKING SKI TITLE

It may be just one of scores of ski jumping tournaments held throughout the nation each year, but for the little town of 1,400 population, the Leavenworth contest is more than just a ski affair. It is a tribute to a community that took itself by its bootstraps and climbed from comparative obscurity to national recognition by developing its latent Winter sports resources. Today, there is no longer and, from a jumping standpoint, on finer hill in the United State than that created out of a nicely adapted forest slope by the volunteer labor of a group of public spirited Leavenworth men and youths. The excellence of the Leavenworth hill is a verdict of such noted skiers as the Ulland brothers, and perhaps they should be authorities, since it was Olaf who set a world distance record a few years ago in Italy by jumping 339 feet.

Without making any fuss about it, the Leavenworth Club now has its ambition-eye upon the official national ski jumping tournament at some future time. They'll wait patiently their turn—but they want it.

LARGE-SCALE SPORTS CARNIVALS WILL FEATURE SAN FRANCISCO EXPOSITION OPENED RECENTLY

SAN FRANCISCO—An all-America high in gala sports carnivals featuring headliners in the world of sport brings a swiftly paced 288-day continuous sport-show to the Pacific Coast for the Golden Gate International Exposition which opened here Feb. 18.

There is scarcely an event of which one can conceive that won't be presented in this super-sports-spectacle generated by Art McChrystal, World's Fair Sports Director.

PARADE OF CHAMPIONS

Visitors will be treated to a parade of sports champions—from horseshoes to yachting; from cricket to skiing; from golf to track and crew. Yes, it's to be a continuous sports show day and night for 10 months.

Commencing with the world's 1939 ski-jump championships Feb. 18—the date the Exposition opens—and tapering off following the Pacific Coast Yachting Regatta late in the Autumn, it will be a brilliant panorama of performers. Theme for the Golden Gate International Exposition's sports show certainly should be "Watch the Stars Go By!"

SKI JUMP

The tower from which the foremost ski-jumpers will take off is held by Exposition officials to be the highest man-made ski jump in the world—a couple of feet higher than one recently constructed in Los Angeles. The height here is a few inches over 186 feet.

Not only has this jump been built over on "Treasure Island," the 400-acre fair site in the middle of colorful San Francisco Bay, but a sports arena capable of holding at least 10,000 spectators has been constructed outdoors. The indoor pavilion for basketball and indoor track, bicycle races, roller-derbies and other events will seat some 12,000.

To be able to hold this ski-jumping contest here Sports Director McChrystal has arranged for the importation of over 250 tons of ice in blocks of 300 pounds. Once he gets this ice all hauled over to the Island he'll put it through a grinder and get snow to pack on the runway and jump. This little item will cost about $1,500, so it is reported.

The world's most skilled ski-jumpers have been invited and most of them have indicated they will attend, says Director McChrystal.

BASKETBALL

Then in March there's to be the western division play-offs of the National Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament with all the western, and many mid-western teams represented. From Feb. 25 to March 4 the Exposition sponsors a star-studded indoor track meet that will bring Glenn Cunningham, Archie San Romani, Don Lash, as well as two sturdy and flashy Finnish milers—Maki and Pekuri. The Exposition distance runs with these pace-makers may make indoor track history.

Other high lights are the six-day and individual bicycle races, to begin March 12 with 12 internationally famous teams pedaling for all they're worth. It's called the "World's Championship Bicycle Race"—and with that title some sort of a record ought to be established.

All the yachting races will be held within sight of "Treasure Island"—and the start of the Honolulu race (July 4), particulars of which are not yet made public, will probably be made with more than 20 large sailing yachts leaving from "Treasure Islands'." 65-foot-deep basin "The Port of the Trade Winds" and home base of the giant Pan-American Airways China Clippers.

Furthermore, everyone who has seen one of Sonja Henie's spectacular Ice Ballets, and anyone who wants to see one, will be glad to know that one of the huge buildings on "Treasure Island" is to be transformed into a great Ice Rink with seating capacity for more than 9,000. And charming, Sonja will headline the show.

ICE HOCKEY

Some of the fastest and hardest ice hockey aggregations have been or are in the process of being invited from Canada and the East to come out and play a series of matches in this great arena. Then, of course there will be public skating.

July 1 has tentatively been set as the date of what "Ky" Ebright, diminutive University of California crew coach, and chairman of the Crew Committee for the Exposition, calls the most "representative" rowing regatta ever to be held in the West.

EASTERNERS MAY ROW

The field has been set at present at five eight-oared crews with California, Washington, and Wisconsin already signed up. This race will be over a 2,000-meter course off the edge of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, which overshadows the Island, and will end before bleachers erected on the banks of the "Port of the Trade Winds." Selection of the eastern crews depends on Spring speed trials, and more than five may be invited with Harvard, Yale, Pennsylvania, Navy, Cornell, and Syracuse as possible starters.

These outstanding events will give some idea of what's in store for the sports fan at the Golden Gate Exposition. He can name his sport and pretty nearly have it. A full schedule of all events from the smallest to the biggest will be found in the official Exposition Guide Book.

Here are a few of the more important sports events to be held during the 288-days of the Golden Gate International Exposition which opens here Feb. 18. Most of these events will be held on "Treasure Island" the mid-bay site of the Fair. Where it is impossible with such sports as golf, and polo, the area will be designated in the Official Fair Sports Calender.

Here they are:

Ski jumping from world's highest man-made jump Feb. 18-25.

Indoor track—Feb. 25-March 4.

PIONEER STEPS IN GOLF RULES FOR U.S. OPEN

PHILADELPHIA,—A pioneer step that may lead to changes in golf courses throughout the country will be taken at the National Open Tournament here in June.

For years there has been agitation to make it harder for top-notch amateurs and professionals to break par.

Several months ago officials of the Philadelphia Country Club decided to do something about it. Result: par on the club's Spring Mill course, where the open will be held, has been changed from 71 to 69, making it the first time in history that a National Open will be played with par below 70.

IMPROVEMENT IN BALL

"During the last decade there has been continuous improvement in the golf ball," said a club official. "Also the modern club has been made much more powerful and effective by changes in the swinging weight and improvements in the steel shaft.

"In addition, a new class of golf amateur and professional has developed. The modern professional has achieved unbelievable distance and accuracy because he not only practices intelligently but because he goes into physical and mental training for tournament play.

"In the last 30 years there has been very little change in the rule for determining par for a course, whereas there has been tremendous advancement in the character and play of our best golfers. That's why the par of 69 was established."

COURSE REVAMPED BY FLYNN

The 6,786-yard course was revamped by William Flynn, golf architect, after many days of touring the course with the club's professional, Ed Dudley and his two assistants, Sam Byrd and George Smith.

In what he calls his "Winter prediction" Dudley declares the winner of the open will be "at least eight over par" or 284. Ralph Guldahl's winning score in last year's open.

Dick Metz, of Chicago, who recently won the $5,000 San Francisco and Oakland opens, and who finished second to Guldahl in the '38 open, played the revised course in a practice round last Fall.

"It has one of the most punishing starts I ever saw," he said. "The man who gets the first five holes in par will have a good chance, but a good golfer can easily lose five strokes to par on these first five."

CHANGES

Here are the changes made by Flynn:

1—450 yards, par 4; trap has been placed 230 yards from tee on left side

2—234 yards, par 3; no change.

3—384 yards, par 4; green more diagonal to line of play; more heavily bunkered on right.

4—453 yards, par 4; new traps placed at right of drive forcing tee shot to left on plateau.

5—425 yards, par 4; bunkers placed on left of drive area and green tightened on left.

6—447 yards par 4; traps placed on right of fairway to force drive to left for better position. Green tightened on right.

7—191 yards, par 3; on change.

7—479 yards, par 4; shortened from 526 yards and par changed to 4 from 5.

9—350 yards, par 4; trap on left to force tee shot uphill on right.

10—454 yards, par 4; tee moved to right bringing more into play bunker at right. New bunker at left tightens up drive area.

11—169 yards, par 3; green made more diagonal to line of play and contour slightly modified.

12—480 yards, par 4; shortened from 497 yards and par changed to 4 from 5.

13—206 yards, par 3; green bunkers tightened.

14—394 yards, par 4; bunker placed at right to force tee shot over carrying bunker. Green entrance tightened on both sides.

15—421 yards, par 4; new trap at right of green tightening up entrance.

17—363 yards, par 4; secondary bunker placed at right eapping bunker already there. Forces a 200-yard tee shot carry uphill.

18—558 yards, par 5; new tee adds 35 yards. New trap placed at right of drive area at 250-yard mark. New trap at left of fairway at 450-yard mark, forcing extreme accuracy on a second shot long enough to give chip to hole. Green tightened on both sides.

MILLROSE MEET BRINGS TO FORE UNKNOWN STAR

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

In the N.Y. Times

His name was unnoticed in the advance list of star performers for the recent Millrose A. A. carnival at Madison Square Garden, buried low under the general caption of "among leading entries." That probably was right because he never had competed indoors before.

But when the thirty-first edition of the extravaganza had moved into history the name of Roy Staley was on every lip and, more important, was about to be inscribed on the Rodman Wanamaker International Trophy as that of the outstanding athlete at the meet. A committee of sports writers picked the Southern Californian as the No. 1 performer of the show.

Hence Staley, a virtual unknown in Eastern track circles, moves on the list that has such glamorous names as Paavo Nurmi, Charles Hoff, Glenn Cunningham, Chuck Hornbostel and Ben Johnson. Well did he deserve the award because three times in succession the Coast timber-topper smashed the world sixty-yard high hurdles record.

NOT AN EASY RECORD

It seemed inconceivable that any athlete could turn in the job that this 1936 Olympian did in his first whirl over the sticks indoors. This was no soft touch of a record. There have been some magnificent hurdlers firing away at the clocking over a span of years—Monty Wells, Weems Baskin, Percy Beard, Johnny Morriss, Forrest Towns, Allan Tolmich and all the rest. Yet this novice to indoor running did better than any of them.

This writer picked Staley without hesitation. He had looked up just as the Californian neared the first hurdle in his initial heat. The Coast star was so far ahead that this observer was convinced that he had beaten the gun. When the time was announced at 0:07.3 that guess seemed a certainty.

But Staley was not finished. He was watched all the way in his semi-final, did not beat the gun and again hit that 0:07.3 clocking. And in the final he repeated. So there was no fluke about it. This was the genuine article.

THIRD PLACE TO RICE

When the ballots were collected after the brilliant show was over Staley received three firsts and two seconds for 21 points. John Borican, winner of the two-thirds-mile run in world record time, was second with two firsts and a second for 13 points. Then came Greg Rice of Notre Dame, surprise winner of the two miles, 5, and both Wesley Wallace and Cunningham with 3 each.

If an eyebrow is raised at any of these selections it must be at the absence of Herbert Thompson from the list. This Negro youngster, a home town product (which may account for his being overlooked) merely equaled the world record in the sixty-yard dash with a brilliant 0:06.1 performance that would have been a new mark had it been made a short year before.

In picking the candidates for the Rodman Wanamaker Trophy there was not the clear-cut standout as there had been in some past seasons. The meet was so packed with startling achievements, surprises and upsets that it was not too easy to put the finger on the one-two-three men.

U.S. to Commemorate Baseball Centenary With Special Stamp

NEW YORK — Postmaster General James A. Farley announced at the recent New York Baseball Writers' Dinner that the Post Office Department plans to issue a commemorative stamp this year in honor of Baseball's Centennial. Farley said that to his knowledge no U. S. stamp ever has been issued commemorating a sport.

Mrs. Fabyan Wins

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Feb. 8—With little difficulty, Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of the United States today defeated Peggy Scriven of England in the women's singles final of the international tennis tournament, 6-2, 6-3.

Mrs. Fabyan then paired with Elwood Cooke of the United States and advanced in the mixed doubles by halting the English pair, C. M. Jones and Miss Scriven, 6-0, 6-2.

In the men's singles, Hal Surface of the United States had a hard fight before dowing his countryman, W. Reese, 6-4, 2-5, 6-3. Charles Hare of England reached the semi-finals by routing H. C. Nunes of Jamaica, 6-2, 6-1.

CHICAGO CUBS TO OPEN RACE AGAINST REDS

The Wrigley- owned Chicago Cubs, with Gabby Hartnett doing the driving, begin defense of their National League crown at Wrigley Field on April 18 against the Cincinnati Reds, it was revealed recently by release of the circuit's official 1939 schedule.

As the Reds figure to be strong contenders in the approaching flag race, considerable interest will center on this Chicago series, which goes for three games. If Bill McKenchnie's Redlegs aim at the '39 pennant, they must first win their lengthy series of 22 games with the champs, and Uncle Will can take a long step in that direction by stopping the Bruins at the outset.

This being the Centennial baseball year, and because the old Cincinnati Red Stockings were the first organized professional team, Crosley Field will be the scene of an April 17 inaugural with the Pittsburgh Pirates. On the same afternoon, President Franklin D. Roosevelt will throw out the first ball in the American League opener at Washington. The remaining major clubs embark upon the 1939 adventure the following day.

Like the American, the National League retains the practice of limiting each individual series to two or three days, except, of course, when forced postponements create double-headers late in the race. The All-Star Game, which this year belongs to the American League, will be contested in Yankee Stadium as part of the World's Fair celebration.

Each club, naturally, is favored with 12 Saturday and a like number of Sunday dates. But the holidays are not so evenly distributed. Boston, Brooklyn, New York, Chicago and St. Louis have two holiday assignments at home, where the Phillies, Pirates and Reds are limited to one.

While the Reds and Cubs are starting their pennant fireworks at Wrigley Field, the Phillies will be at Boston, the New York Giants at Brooklyn and the Cardinals at Pittsburgh. On April 21 the scenes change, with the Bees at New York, the Dodgers at Philadelphia and the Cubs at St. Louis. The Pirates continue at Cincinnati April 22. The game scheduled for the 21st was moved ahead to make the April 17 inaugural.

The schedule includes 21 night games—at Brooklyn, Cincinnati and Phillie. Every club takes part in the nocturnal pastime with the exception of the Giants, who once again have refused to follow the leader. The Reads play two games at Brooklyn, and the Dodgers two at Cincinnati. These clubs were allowed to exceed the original limit of a single contest because of New York's refusal. The Cardinals also play twice in Philadelphia for the same reason.

CUNNINGHAM TAKES 2-MILE

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, March 4—Glenn Cunningham, formerly of the University of Kansas, tonight beat Donald Lash, barrel-chested long-distance star from Indiana, by a stride in a special two-mile race, which featured the opening of the 18th annual indoor intercollegiate national championships staged in the Madison Square Garden here. His time was 9 minutes and 11.8 seconds.

The Kansas star, rated one of the world's fastest and most consistent milers, maintained a wide lead up until the last lap when Lash feverishly closed the gap finishing only a foot behind Cunningham at the tape. A crowd of 14,000 gave Lash and Cunningham an ovation as they finished the race.

Gregory Rice, of Notre Dame, was third while Tommy Deekard, Lash's teammate from Indiana, was fourth. Manhattan University led the field in team scoring with 36 points, followed in order by New York University, 20 points; Fordham, 15; Princeton, 14¾; Yale, 12½, and Rhode Island State, 11 1/5.

MEET OPENS

Domei Tsushin

NEW YORK, March 3—Three hundred topnotch track and field athletes representing 28 eastern colleges were prepared today to compete in the 18th annual indoor track and field championships of the Intercollegiate American Amateur Athletic Association to be held tomorrow night at the Madison Square Garden here.

The main feature of the evening will be a special two-mile race with two of America's outstanding distance men pitted against each other. The duel will be between Glenn Cunningham, former Kansas star and rated one of the fastest milers, and Donald Lash, Indiana's long-distance flash.

All favorites were expected to retain their titles. New York University, Fordham, Columbia, Harvard and Dartmouth, were expected to give Manhattan a bitter fight for team honors.

IRELAND WINS INTERNATIONAL RUGBY MATCH

TWICKENHAM, England, Feb. 11—A titanic struggle for the international rugby crown looms as a result of Ireland's great 5-to-0 victory over England today. Wales and England are tied with the Irish at 2 points each in the quadrangular tournament, but the last-named will win the championship if they are successful against Scotland and Wales.

In the first contest of the series England defeated Wales, but the Welshmen gained a well-merited victory over Scotland at Cardiff a week ago.

The famous rugby enclosure was guarded by policemen in view of the series of bombings in other parts of England during the preceding week.

A THRILLING STRUGGLE

Sixty thousand spectators saw a thrilling game. After a scoreless first half the Irishmen staged a great offensive to win by a goal. During the later stages England's players were penned in their territory and only fierce tackling prevented the visitors from adding to the score.

Strong following up by a clever set of forwards led to the Irish score. Following a punt, H. D. Freakes, England's fullback, fell on the ball nine minutes after the interval but it was kicked from under him and crossed the line, where J. W. S. Irwin of North of Ireland had little difficulty in touching down. H. R. McKibben, Instonians three-quarter, converted.

Much of Ireland's aggressiveness was due to the initiative of G. E. Cromey and G. J. Morgan behind the scrum. The halfbacks set their three-quarters going time after time. Slightly inferior in the first period, the Irish forwards improved as the game continued and in the last twenty minutes they harassed the opposite defense continuously.

IRELAND'S EIGHTEENTH VICTORY

It was Ireland's eighteenth victory over England since the series started in 1875. The Englishmen are credited with thirty-seven triumphs, with three matches stalemates.

ENGLAND—Fullback, HO. D. Freakes (Oxford University); three-quarters, R. H. Guest, J. Heaton (Waterloo), G. E. Hancock (Birkenhead Park), R. S. L. Carr (Old Cranleighans); halfbacks, C. A. Walker (Royal Air Force), P. Cooke (Richmond); forwards, R. E. Prescott (Harlequins), H. B. Toft (Waterloo), D. E. Teden (Richmond), T. F. Huskisson (Old Merchant Taylors), H. F. Wheatley (Coventry), J. T. Berry (Leicester). R. M. Marshall (Oxford University), J. K. Watkins (Navy).

IRELAND—Fullback, C. Murphy (Lansdowne); three-quarters, F. G. Moran (Glentarf), H. R. McKibben Instonians). D. Torrens (Bohemians), V. J. Lyttle (Bedford); halfbacks, G. E. Cromey (Collegians), G. J. Morgan (Old Belvedere); forwards, R. Alexander (Royal Ulster Comstabulary). J. W. S. Irwin (North of Ireland), R. B. Mayne (Malone), D. O'Loughlin (Garryowen), J. Ryan (University College, Dublin), H. J. Sayers (Aldershot Services), C. Teehan, D. Tierney (University College, Cork).

BASKETBALL WINS ANOTHER CONVERT

LONDON—The British are to have Basketball. In a quiet sort of way, they may be said to have had some already—notably an exhibition match between Resident Americans and London, played the other day in one of the covered lawn tennis courts at Queen's Club, here—but now the managements of ice rinks are interesting themselves in the box-office aspect of the proposition as a Summer feature, and a Basketball League is in process of formation, to put the thing on a competitive basis calculated to appeal to the public.

The game can be played on boards laid over where the ice surfaces are now, and the players—or at any rate, many of them—can be the Canadian ice hockey stars who make a nice living here as amateurs during the Winter. The Basketball project appears to offer some of them the prospect of a nice living during the Summer, too, and to offer team organizers the opportunity of saving the cost of these players' fares to and from Canada at the end and start of each hockey season.

NO PUBLIC

Basketball is one of the games highly popular in the United States for which Britain has not yet fallen. It is played here to a certain extent—perhaps one should say, rather, an uncertain extent—but it has no public. Maybe that is because the British version is decidedly less dramatic, vigorous, speedy and clever than the American. However, they tell me that there are something like 300 clubs already in the country, so its seems that the prospective organizers have something to work on.

In not being attracted yet to Basketball, Britain is rather out of line internationally. For, at the last Olympic Games, this team game commanded more entries than any other on the Berlin program, though it had never been considered worthy of inclusion before. The countries that sent teams were U. S. A. (the winners—very easily), Canada (the runner-up), France, Estonia, Chile, Turkey, Switzerland, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Italy, Poland, Peru, Egypt, Mexico, Belgium, Latvia, Uruguay, Brazil, Japan, China, and the Philippines.

INVENTOR

What with this Basketball League of Nations on Parade and the tall, sinewy Americans being, literally and metaphorically, head and shoulders above all the rest, this was a mighty proud occasion for the "Father of Basketball," Dr. James Naismith, professor of anatomy at Springfield College (Massachusetts). He was right there to see it. And he told how he came to invent the game 45 years previously.

"It was," he said, "in order to provide a good game at Springfield between Autumn's football and Summer's baseball. The authorities asked me to think up something. I tried. At first nothing happened. Then an idea began to develop, and not long afterward the 13 fundamental rules of basketball were sketched out. The next thing was to see how the the theory worked out in practice. The test was made in the gymnasium. The new game caught on. And here we are."

Since then, the simple game has become a complicated and arduous "high pressure" sport. National interpretations of it vary, and the American one is away ahead of all the others for match-winning efficiency. The "coach," that formidable force in all American sport, has laid his capable hands upon it, intensified the competitive element, brought much thinking to bear on the evolution to technique. Now, so it appears, we are to see what Britain can do. The first thing must be to awaken interest. Which is just what the Basketball sponsors here now are earnestly trying to do.

U.S. COLLEGE BASKETBALL RACE TIGHTENS AS SEASON END NEARS

NEW YORK—Since it has been clearly proved that the leaders of even the best basketball conferences can take a defeat just like any other team, there is a crucial game almost anywhere you look.

Of 10 major groups, only the Eastern Intercollegiate League and the Southwest Conference can boast unbeaten leaders. As for the rest, they have lost one or two games apiece and have reached that stage of the season where another defeat will be serious.

THREE NEW LEADERS

Last week's program showed how close most of the races are by producing brand new leaders for three leagues—Ohio State in the Big Ten, Georgia in the Southeastern Conference and Oregon in the Northern Division of the Pacific Coast Conference. Iowa State in the Big Six and Wake Forest in the Southern Conference dropped from the top, but managed to scramble back agan. The rest of leaders held their places, but Carnegie Tech, Colorado and Oklahoma Aggies all were beaten for the first time in their respective circuits.

Just to start another exciting week off right, Ohio State, which conquered Minnesota, 31-30, in an overtime game to send the Gophers spinning from the Big Ten lead to third place, runs into its closest rival, Indiana.

Indiana also plays Iowa, while Illinois, still within striking distance, takes on Iowa and Purdue.

BIG SIX SCRAMBLE

The Big Six, another mighty court league, has the same sort of scramble in view, with the additional complication that visiting teams apparently cannot win this season. Iowa State lost the lead by bowing to Nebraska, then regained it by downing Missouri. The Iowans will visit Kansas State, while Missouri and Oklahoma, tied for second, clash at Norman, Okla.

Like Carnegie, beaten by Pittsburgh; Colorado, upset by Brigham Young, and Oklahoma A. and M., toppled by the fast-coming Drake team, there is trouble in sight for those two undefeated survivors, Dartmouth and Southern Methodist.

Dartmouth, which barely beat Yale's last-place team, runs up against a dangerous Harvard outfit. If the Indians should lose, Columbia, which plays twice, can tie for the lead.

Last week's only games in the Southwestern race saw Baylor drop two decisions to Arkansas and fall from the lead. Now S. M. U., which has not played for two weeks, takes on the Baylor sophomore and a strong Taxas team. The situation in other loops, briefly, is this:

CARNEGIE IS IDLE

Eastern Conference: Carnegie is idle, while its conqueror, Pitt, and Georgetown, play two games each. Both can overtake the Techmen by winning twice.

Southern Conference: Maryland passed Wake Forest once recently, but dropped back into a three-way tie with Davidson and Washington and Lee for second. W. and L. has played only half as many games. While Wake Forest takes on four rivals in succession. Davidson tackles North Carolina and Duke, and Maryland plays W. and L.

Southeastern Conference: Georgia, with four victories in five starts, moved to the top as Alabama lost to Vanderbilt and went back to third, with Louisiana State second. The Georgia-Alabama tilt is the major battle. While 'Bama plays three other games, it can hardly get to the top without winning that one.

Missouri Valley: Although beaten by Drake recently, Oklahoma Aggies cannot lose the lead without dropping both games with Creighton and St. Louis. Drake and Tulsa, with two losses, can close up the race, but are not likely to forge ahead.

Pacific Coast, Northern Division: Oregon drew far ahead of its field by taking Washington twice recently, and when the Huskies also split with Oregon State, it ruined their title hopes. Oregon has won nine out of 10 so far.

Pacific Coast, Southern Division: California's leaders, idle recently, saw Stanford get into the race with a double victory over U. C. L. A. Stanford and California clash at Berkeley recently, while Southern California, tied for second, meets U. C. L. A.

Rocky Mountain Big Seven: Despite its loss to Brigham Young, Colorado continues to make it a runaway race with six victories in seven starts. The Buffaloes meet Denver and Colorado State, sixth- and seventh-place teams, while Wyoming and Utah State, tied for second, both tackle the tough Utah outfit.

Swedish Ski Jumper Takes Small Lead In Championships

Domei Tsushin

HOLMENKOLLEN, Norway, March 5—Attended by an enthusiastic crowd of 65,000 spectators, including members of the Royal Family, the 1939 Norwegian ski championships today went into their second day with Sven Selaanger of Sweden taking top honors in the jumping.

Selaanger, whose jumps both measured 62 meters, amassed a total of 226 points, nosing out his Norwegian competitors Kaare Wahlberg and Hilmar Myhra. Wahlberg, with jumps of 62 and 60 meters, scored 225.7 points. Myhra was third with a rating of 223.5.

Asbjoern Ruud meanwhile walked off with the junior jumping event, registering leaps of 58.5 and 57.5 meters.

First place in the combined ski event was captured by Olaf Hoffsbaken with a total of 437.5 points. He was closely followed by Torstein Skinnarland with 437.3 points, and third place went to Olaf Odden with 435.3.

SYRACUSE SINKS NAVY BY 42-35

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 11—Navy's quintet launched an early attack against Syracuse today, leading by 12—1 after ten minutes of play and by 19—14 at the end of the first half, but the Orange rallied and emerged the victor, 42 to 35.

Syracuse, after frequent changes in the forward line, finally hit the right combination and, with Twiford and Haller, the latter the third man tried at center, leading the way, tied the score at 24—all, seven minutes after the start of the second half. The visitors soon after went ahead by 31 to 29 when Horn, another third-stringer, ringed a two-pointer.

Throughout the first quarter it looked as if the Orange's string of victories was to be broken at eight, but the hard-fighting middies were not able to contend with the smooth team play of the visitors in the second half, together with the individual brilliancy of Twiford, Haller and Horn.

ORANGE GUARDS STRONG

Then, too the Syracuse guards, Schroeder and Thompson, who lasted for the whole game, played steadily at all times, becoming increasingly harder for the Navy tossers to pass.

Bill Hough's record-breaking performance for Princeton in the 200-yard breast-stroke featured an Eastern Intercollegiate League swimming match which Princeton won from the Navy by the score of 61 to 14.

Making the distance in 2:19.8, Hough set a new record for intercollegiate, national and international competitions. The listed world record, set by Jack Kasley, is 2:22.5.

A new figure for the pool in the 150-yard back-stroke was set by Al Van de Weghe of Princeton, with 1:32.2, which was seven-tenths of a second better than the old mark.

Navy fencers won their third straight victory by defeating the veterans of the Philadelphia Sword Club, 18 to 9. Navy took a good lead, 7 to 2, with the foils, then won with the epee, 5 to 4, and with the saber, 6 to 3. Appleton of Navy won all his three bouts with the foils and Campo of Navy turned in the same performance with the saber.

GRAPPLERS EASY VICTORS

The Annapolis wrestlers won from Harvard, 20½, to 7½ taking two bouts by falls and three by decisions, while the Crimson won two decisions. The other bout was a draw.

Captain Leigh, opposing Richter at 136 pounds, and Tom Taylor, 175 pounds, who wrestled Luncope in his first varsity bout, accounted for the Navy's falls.

Navy's riflemen won from Massachusetts Tech by 1,400 to 1,358, the Navy's score being the highest of the season up to this point. With 282 points out of a possible 300, Midshipman Howard Walker was high gun of the match.

The Navy Plebes broke even in four sports events. Their boxers won from the Freshmen of Virginia Poly, 7½ to ½, and their basketball team conquered Baltimore Poly, 36 to 16. The Plebes lost a wrestling match to the Virgina Military Institute freshmen, 21 to 11, and a gymnastic match to Emerson High School, Union City, N. J., 33 to 21.

Swiss Down Czechs To Gain European Hockey Championship

Domei Tsushin

BASEL, Switz., March 5—Tallying twice after a scoreless first period, Switzerland's powerful sextet today defeated Czechoslovakia, 2-0, in the final of the European ice hockey championships here.

The titlewinners, though unable to crack their opponents' defense in the initial period, unleashed a determined offensive in the second and third, scoring once in each of the two stanzas. The Czechs were meanwhile turned back on every sally into Swiss territory.

The match was a replay of the title contest held last month, when the two teams battled to a scoreless tie.

COLUMBIA WINS 39-33 CONTEST FROM BULLDOGS

NEW HAVEN, Conn.,—Columbia tightened its hold on second place in the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League and Yale came more firmly entrenched in the cellar on Feb. 8 as the Lions achieved a 39-33 victory in the Payne Whitney Gymnasium.

In the opening three minutes the Elis barely managed to keep on even terms with the visitors, then ended the first half with a 6-point deficit, the Lions leading by 24—18. Yale stayed this close only by a rally staged by three substitutes after it had fallen 10 points behind in the second half.

Albie Myers and Vadim Medvedeff, sophomore performers for Columbia, headed the scoring for both fives with 14 and 10 points, respectively. Tom Erickson, with 9, and George Page, with 8, led for the losers.

Naylor of the visitors scored first and then Page knotted the count on a long, one-handed shot. Macioce responded with a duplicate one-hander for Columbia and Kellogg tied the count again with a distance toss from the side. Myers made two shots from foul. Anderson, with two tosses from foul and an angle field basket, and Myers with a looping heave, sent the visitors further ahead. Erickson twice tallied from in close and Stevens once on a foul for the Elis.

TWO ONE-HANDED BASKETS

Columbia moved ahead to a 24-18 lead at the half. Play was marked by two more baskets by Myers, one by Naylor and two by Medvedeff. Page, with two one-handed field baskets and one from foul, and Zilly, with a shot from underneath, kept the Elis in the battle.

Columbia drew away to a 10-point margin with the second half well under way. The scoring was distributed among Myers, Medvedeff, Naylor and Macioce. The Lion attack worked the ball in close against the Yale zone, and the winners counted on short shots.

Cobb, with two long baskets, contributed brilliant additions to the Yale count. With the score 34—24, Erickson made two baskets and a foul shot. A basket and a foul by Medvedeff after Coach Loeffler sent three Yale substitutes into the game and a toss by Naylor again put Columbia 10 points ahead. The losers' final rally included Sullivan's one-handed basket and McKellar's overhead shot.

ELI FRESHMEN VICTORS

Leading throughout, the Yale freshmen scored a 61-to-26 victory over the Newark Preparatory School in a preliminary game. The freshman total was the largest achieved in the team's eight games this season. Captain Chuck Seelbach of the victors, with 17 points, was leading scorer for both fives. McCleery, with 16 points, was Newark's outstanding player.

U.S. Hockey Team Loses to Swiss

BASLE, Switzerland,—The United States hockey team on Feburacy 8 received its first setback in the world amateur championship tournament, losing to Switzerland, 3-2.

Two of Switzerland's goals were kicked into the net by American players, while the third was awarded to the victors by the referee because the cage had been moved.

The winning goal in this weird match, played before 14,000 spectators, came in the seventh minute of the final period. The Swiss forward, Kessler, drove a long shot toward the American goal. At the same moment the cage was bumped aside and, although the puck missed it, the Polish referee, Sachs, allowed the goal to count.

The Americans, on the offensive from the start, tallied twice in the first period. After George Quirk of Providence, R. I., had missed a good chance, Alan Dan of St. Paul drove home the first counter in the seventh minute of play. Six minutes later, Art Bogue of Detroit made it 2-0.

The first Swiss score came in the opening minute of the second period when Delnon shot from the middle of the rink. Dan blocked the puck but kicked it into his own goal. Three minutes later Edward Mako of Marquette, Mich., American goalie, blocked another long shot but he also inadvertently kicked the puck into the cage.

COMING TO JAPAN

These are some of the members of the Championship Canadian Basketball team coming to Japan this Summer at the invitation of the Japan Basketball Association. The invading team will be made up of 12 members including Wally Mayers, coach and Pete Winckler, manager.

CANADIAN CAGERS HAPPY ON GETTING INVITATION TO PLAY HERE IN SUMMER

VANCOUVER, B.C. March 5—The team roster of the Westerns, Canadian basketball champions, which is to sail for Japan soon at the invitation of the Nippon Basketball Federation, has been fixed, according to Domei.

Headed by Manager Pete Winckler, the team will consist of the following:

Wally Meyers, 32, Coach; Art Willows, 25, 5 ft. 9 in.; Jimmy Bosley, 25, 5ft. 11in.; Dick Wright, 24, 5ft. 9in.; W. Beaton, 24, 5ft. 9in.; Ralph Henderson, 24, 6ft. 2in.; Soony Watson, 24, 5ft. 9in.; Joe Ross, 23, 6ft. 4in. Emmett Ritchie, 23, 6ft. 2½in.; Milt Parsons, 23, 6ft. 2½in.; Jack Gordon, 20, 5ft. 11in.

Manager Winckler in expressing his appreciation, today made the following comment:

"We feel exceedingly honored in being given this opportunity to introduce to Japan this game of basketball as played in Canada, affording as it does at the same time a chance for us to see and know better your wonderful country.

"In return for your courtesy, we are hoping to be able to aid in the development of the game in Japan to the best of our ability. In the matter of height, we may be a little taller than you, but I doubt if we can compare with you in speed. At any rate, on the strength of the record that your team made in Manila this year, we are expecting a series of hard struggles.

"We are expecting to sail from here either at the end of April or in the early part of May and on our way back would like to make a visit to the Philippines if possible."

U.S. SIX GAINS IN WORLD HOCKEY

ZURICH, Switzerland, Feb. 11—The United States beat Switzerland, 2 to 1, and Canada shut out Czechoslovakia, 4 to 0, today in the second games of the final "pool" in the world amateur hockey championships. The title will go to the winner of the meeting between the United States and Canada tomorrow.

A crowd of 14,000 fans watched the United States team revenge the defeat it suffered to the Swiss in the semi-final pool.

The battle started evenly, and it was not until the sixteenth minute of the first period that the greater speed of the Americans brought a goal. George (Pud) Quirk of Providence, R. I., a consistent star throughout the tournament, skated through most of the Swiss team to ram home the score.

In a dramatic final period, with the Swiss spectators shouting wildly, Switzerland tied the score. The veteran forward Torriani was replaced by a youngster named Reudi, who counted in the twelfth minute.

The United States retaliated by sending five men down the ice in repeated attacks until Quirk broke through for another goal one minute before the final whistle.

In the United States line-up were Ed Maki of Marquette, Mich., goal; Alan Van of St. Paul and Spence Magnild of Minneapolis, defense; Len Soari of Detroit, Art Bogue of Detroit and Quirk in the first line and Dick Maley of Ridley Park, Pa.; Ralph Dandi of New Haven, Conn., and Ed Nicholson of Cleveland in the second line.

Swedish Skier Wins Long Distance Crown

Domei Tsushin

HOLMENKOLLEN, Norway, March 6—Sven Edin, of Sweden, today triumphed in the 50-kilometer long-distance event in the final day's competition of the 1939 Norwegian ski championships, which have been held here for the past two days.

The winner finished the course in 4 hours 9 minutes and 48 seconds to nose out his competitors Lars Bergendahl, of Norway, and his countryman, Braendstroem. Bergendahl was clocked at 4 hours 10 minutes and 27 seconds, and Braendstroem was timed at 4 hours 11 minutes and 7 seconds.

The concluding event of the day, the 32-kilometer relay, was won by a Finnish team, which finished in 3 hours 8 minutes and 38 seconds. Norway, the only other competitor, followed in 3 hours 11 minutes and two seconds.

MISS COLLEDGE RETAINS TITLE IN ICE SKATING

LONDON.—Brilliant exhibitions of skating were seen recently at the Empress Hall, Earls Court, when the Ladies' Figure Skating Championship of Europe was concluded with free skating for a period of four minutes for each of the 12 competitors.

British competitors took the first three places, Miss Cecilia Colledge, with a total of 1,845.5 points, won the title for the third year in succession, Miss Megan Taylor being second with 1,837.4, and Miss Daphne Walker third with 1,757.6 points. This result stamps British women figure skaters as pre-eminent in Europe.

British girls had held the first three places after the compulsory figures had been skated on the previous day, and it seemed, before the free skating, that the championship rested between Miss Cecilia Colledge, the holder, and Miss Megan Taylor, the World champion. Between these two champions there had been a difference of only 2.1 points scored for compulsory figures, Miss Taylor having the slightly better total of 1.909,2.

MISS TAYLOR FIRST

Miss Taylor was on the ice for her program of free skating before Miss Colledge and the World champion gave a magnificent display, which brought her markings of between 5.4 and 5.8 from the judges. In all Miss Taylor scored 28 marks for contents and 28.2 for performance, but Miss Colledge almost brought the crowd to its feet with a truly wonderful display that brought marks of 28.7 and 28.5 respectively, with no individual marking less than 5.6 (maximum is 6).

When multiplied by the factor, the higher score by Miss Colledge in the free skating more than made up for the slight deficit on points for compulsory figures.

Miss Colledge skated with the realization that she could not afford to make a slip, and the judge's markings were testimony to her excellence in the execution of a most difficult and intricate display.

Miss Taylor, who was in salmon pink, would not admit that her bruised leg had affected her at all, though she confessed that she was conscious of the fact that one fall would have brought about a recurrence of the injury and probably open a gash, but she did not fall.

Little Daphne Walker also gave a grand display. The only falls during the skating were sustained by the two Czechoslovakian competitors.

The final placings were:—

1, Miss Cecilia Colledge (Great Britain) (holder); 2, Miss Megan Taylor, (Great Britain); 3, Miss Daphne Walker (Great Britain); 4, Frl. Hanne Niernberger (Germany); 5, Frl. Emmy Puzinger (Germany); 6, Frl. Angela Anderer (Switzerland); 7, Miss Eva Nyklova (Czechoslovakia); 8, Miss Gladys Jagger (Great Britain). 9, Frl. Martha Musiol (Germany); 10, Frk. Anne-Marie Saethe (Norway); 11, Frk. Britta Rahlen (Sweden); 12, Miss Eva Katzova (Czechoslovakia).

WOLVERHAMPTON GAINS 4-1 WIN OVER LIVERPOOL

LONDON, Feb. 11—Cup soccer proved England's major sport attraction today, and abbreviated list of league matches being forced to take second place. The eight fifth-round English Cup games drew 433,418 spectators, Birmingham's ground record falling when 67,341 persons passed through the turnstiles.

In the hunt for the trophy now held by Preston North End, favorites came through in good style with the exception of Everton, held to a 2-2 draw at Birmingham. Preston, Wolverhampton, Portsmouth and Huddersfield Town qualified for the next stage of the competition, but six other clubs in addition to Everton and Birmingham will be required to replay drawn contests.

Derby County, tied with Everton at 38 points in the league table, lost a great opportunity. With the toffee-makers engaged in the cup, Derby bowed, 2-1, before a home crowd to the lowly Brentford squad.

LUCKY CHARM FAILS

The Wolverhampton Wanderers were established as favorites for the English Cup after racing to an easy 4-1 victory over Liverpool before 55,000. R. Beattie and Mutch scored the goals that gave Preston a 2-1 victory at Newcastle, the match attracting a crowd of 64,000.

The third division lost its only representative when Walsall lost, 3-0, at Huddersfield. The junior team took a lucky charm with them—the ball with which they defeated Arsenal back in 1938—but it failed to work.

Everton was the more dangerous side at Birmingham but failed to make most of its opportunities. Madden scored the home team's two goals, Stevenson and Boyes replying for Everton. Nearly 61,000 saw Chelsea and Sheffield Wednesday draw, 1—1, at Stamford Bridge.

In other cup matches Portsmouth blanked West Ham United, 2—0, at Fratton Park, Sunderland, and the Blackburn Rovers played at 1-1 draw at Roker Park and the Sheffield United-Grimsby Town match proved scoreless.

RANGERS INCREASE MARGIN

The Rangers increased their margin over Hearts at the top of the Scottish League to 11 points by defeating Third Lanark, 2—1, at Cathkin Park. Hearts lost by 4—2 at Motherwell.

While the Light Blues appear certain champions, a big struggle is taking place for second position in the table. Celtic and Aberdeen now trail Hearts by 1 point.

The Celts overcame the neighboring Clyde squad, 2—1, to draw on level terms with the Dons, who lost by the only goal of the game at Saint Johnstone.

CUNNINGHAM STILL KING-PIN IN MILE, WINNING EVENT AT BOSTON A.A. MEET

BOSTON—They are still chasing the peerless Glenn Cunningham. The latest pursuit race over the mile distance took place on February 11 before a capacity turnout of 14,000 at the Garden for the golden jubilee Boston A. A. meet, and the result was as it has been for some time, except that it was closer.

The king of the milers, forging ahead with only a half-lap remaining, staved off a desperate closing spurt by Wayne Rideout of North Texas State Teachers and snapped the tape only two feet in front of the bespectacled Southerner, whose twin brother, Blaine, was an early pace-setter in this exciting Hunter mile.

Fashioning the second fastest eight furlongs ever accomplished on the eleven-lap Boston track, Cunningham was caught in 4:10.8, figures surpassed only by his 4:10 of a year ago. It was the fastest mile of the current indoor campaign, so that placing second to the Kansan added considerably to Wayne's prestige.

SAN ROMANI IS THIRD

Behind Cunnigham, who recorded his fourth straight Hunter Mile victory, and Wayne Rideout trailed Archie San Romani of the Grand Street Boys Association, fifteen yards back; Charles (Chuck) Fenske, the Wisconsin star; Blaine Rideout and Josef Mostert of Belgium. Gene Clark of Harvard also started, but he was in only for the ride.

Mike Devaney, winner of this event in 1915 and 1917, fired the starting gun and San Romani took up the task of setting the pace. He led for three laps before being overhauled by Blaine Rideout, who continued to lead until San Romani went ahead again three laps from the finish.

At the bell Wayne Rideout moved into the helm, with San Romani and Cunningham directly behind him. It was not until the middle of the backstretch that Cunningham caught and passed the others. Opening a slight gap, Glenn appeared to be moving quickly away.

But Wayne refused to yield without a struggle. Calling upon every ounce of stamina he had left, Wayne was almost on the Kansan's heels around the final turn, but Cunningham stubbornly retained the two-foot advantage that was his and they flew over the line in that position.

THRILL FOR SPECTATORS

Late in the evening Cornelius Warmerdam of the San Francisco Olympic Club supplied the thrill of a new world indoor record when he cleared 14 feet 6⅛ inches in the pole vault. It was here in the Hub that the former standard of 14 feet 4⅞ inches was set by George Voroff in 1937.

Oddly enough, Warmerdam, the national outdoor champion, had to break the record to win the event that threatened to go on all night, for he and Earle Meadows of the Southern California A. A. had been matching each other's efforts for hours. After each had achieved a vault of 14 feet 3 inches, the bar was raised to the new championship height. Both then missed their first attempts, but by narrow margins.

On Warmerdam's second vault the hushed spectators watched hopefully and as his body catapulted over the crossbar, without touching it, it was the signal for a terrific outburst. Meadows was the first to rush to his rival and shower him with congratulations. Then he tried to do what Warmerdam had succeeded in doing, but failed.

GAINS AN EASY VICTORY

Don Lash won the Billings two-mile run easily, beating Joe McCluskey by eighteen yards, with Tommy Deckard third and Gilbert Dodds fourth. After a 4:23.8 mile and 6:46.7 mile and a half it appeared that perhaps Lash would lower his own world indoor record of 8:58.

However, Lash had no one to give him that little extra push, though McCluskey tried gamely, overtaking Deckard after making up some forty yards, and the result was a 9:08.4 performance. Incidentally, Lash took no chances on another collision, such as the one that cost him a Millrose victory recently. He went out from the start and soon no one was near enough to bother him.

New York standard-bearers fared rather badly in the Hollis 600, which went to William (Bill) Fritz, the Canadian Olympian, in the commendable time of 1:12.8, after an exciting stretch duel with Harold Cagle of Oklahoma Baptist, whom he conquered by inches.

HERBERT HOME LAST

Then came Dick Gill, the local pride, who showed the way to Wesley Wallace, the Fordhamite, who seems to have cultivated a keen dislike for banked tracks. Wallace was a good distance behind Gill, and the tail-ender's position fell to Jim Herbert of N. Y. U.

Exactly what happened to the pair of New Yorkers was a deep mystery, except that both faded badly in the closing stages of the race. The event was contested from a staggering start and when the runners converged Fritz was in the van, trailed by Cagle, Herbert, Gill and Wallace.

They proceeded in that order until the bell lap, when Fritz and Cagle started to pull away. Gill then passed Herbert, the record-holder for this distance, and Wallace followed suit. But the race had not progressed much farther when it became evident that Herbert was definitely eliminated and Wallace was soon to join him.

ALMOST A DEAD HEAT

Though the burly Gill was still a threat, Fritz and Cagle forgot completely about him as they thundered up the stretch virtually abreast. Together they snapped the tape, with the outcome in doubt until the official announcement gave the victory to Fritz. It was almost close enough to be called a dead heat.

Hub fans caught another glimpse of the current sensation from the Shore A. C., John Borican, in the Lapham 1,000. Showing no ill effects of his mile experience at the Seventh Regiment in New York recently, the Negro star set a new meet record for the distance, 2.13.3, in scoring a three-yard victory over Edgar Howard Borck of the Sixty-ninth Regiment A. A. The winner shaved a half second from the mark established by Chuck Hornbostel in 1936.

Borican accepted Borck's home-stretch challenge for what it was worth and triumphed going away, winning much more easily than the three-yard margin might indicate. Leslie MacMitchell, the N. Y. U. freshman, came on with a burst of speed to take third place away from Campbell Kane of Indiana, who finished ten yards in the rear.

HAS PLENTY TO SPARE

Roy Staley, the Pacific Coast timber-topping ace, whose record-breaking performances at the Millrose games gained for him the special meritorious award equaled the world indoor record for the 45-yard high hurdles test by easily annexing the final in 0:05.7, beating Allan Tolmich of Detroit with plenty to spare.

The final of the 50-yard dash resulted in a clean-cut triumph for Herb Thompson, Jersey City Negro, in 0:05.5. He enjoyed a three-foot margin over Ken Clapp of Brown. The big surprise in this event was the fact that Ben Johnson, the national sprint titleholder, wound up sixth in the field of six, the result of a decidedly poor start, for which only the former Columbia star was to blame. Virtually left at the post, Johnson never had a chance.

RECORD FOR FORDHAM FOUR

New York athletes did themselves proud in the interesting program of relay races, with Fordham's Ralph St. Pierre, George Leary, Wallace and Frank Slater setting an all-time Boston mile record with a sparkling 3:23 victory over Pittsburgh.

N. Y. U., with Jim McPoland, George Hagans, Martin Witte and Herbert, came through with a 3:23.5 mile relay triumph over Manhattan and Rhode Island State. The N. Y. U. freshmen, with MacMitchell running the third leg, turned back the Boston College and Holy Cross yearlings in 3:29.4, and the New York A. C. triumphed over the Boston A. A. in 3:26.7 The local team dropped the baton on the second leg.

Sumo Tournament Starts at Osaka Today

The fifth annual professional sumo (Japanese wrestling) tournament at the Osaka Kokugikan (bowl) was to start today and continue for 13 days.

Champion Mayedayama and two other stalwarts, Banjaku and Kasagiyama, scratched from their bouts today.

Grand Champion Futabayama, who suffered his first defeat in three years last January in Tokyo after hanging up a string of 69 consecutive victories in the official championship bouts, was the winner of the tournament late last month at Nagoya without a defeat.

DARTMOUTH SKIERS WIN CARNIVAL; MCGILL IS SECOND

By ROBERT F. KELLEY

N.Y. Times

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 11—For the fifth year in a row, the ski men of Dartmouth have won the honors of their Outing Club's annual carnival. When twilight brought a close to a warm and sunny day the Green had turned back the gallant fight of McGill of Montreal and retained its team honors with a total of 488.7 points as opposed to McGill's 473.1. The pair had the meet more or less to themselves since the start. New Hampshire, in third place today, had 432.1 points.

While it was balanced and all-around team performance that brought the victory to Dartmouth—the names of Green skiers studding the first ten of each event—it was on the shoulders of the team's co-captains that individual honors rested. Two seniors, tall, slim appearing Howe Chivers and short, stocky Dick Durrance, finished their last carnival as undergraduates and left their names high on Dartmouth's honor roll.

Chivers, placing well in everything he entered, won the cross-country race yesterday and clinched things today when he took the combined honors. Durrance, adding the slalom victory this morning and a fourth in the jump to his triumph in the downhill event yesterday, gave a superb exhibition. When John Litchfield, with a fine piece of work, added the jump victory to Dartmouth's total this afternoon, the Green had finished first in each of the ski events.

CLINGS TO ITS CHANCE

Yet, in the face of this, McGill refused utterly to give up and stuck stubbornly to a chance through the jumping, taking second and third places, but fading when the combined totals were calculated.

There were excellent performances here and there on the part of nearly all the other colleges entered, but the two leaders dominated things and they staged a really brilliant duel that made this year's carnival a memorable one, well worth a high place alongside the twenty-eight which had preceded it.

In contrast to yesterday's gray skies and steady drizzle of fine snow that occasionally turned to sleet, this morning dawned with a summery blue sky across which a few harmless looking clouds drifted on a light wind. The snow of yesterday lay over the top of the old packed surface and made control difficult in spots. The day warmed steadily, so that conditions were not fast, though the slalom was held before the sun had really begun to affect the snow.

EXHIBITIONS ARE STAGED

The course, laid out by Otto Schniebs, the old Dartmouth coach and present head of the American Ski School, was on Oak Hill near the popular ski tow, and the racing was held against a brilliant background of white snow splotched with the gay colors of hundreds of girls' ski clothes. Schniebs, skiing with superb grace and control that marks his school, came down the course to open it, and there were exhibitions by Ed Meservy, national champion, and Harry Hillman, who last week won the Eastern crown. Then the competition started.

It was apparent soon after the start that the race would develop into a duel between Dick Durrance and Bob Johannsen, Dartmouth and McGill captains. The famous Green skier had his best run first, swinging down through the gates and flags superbly, making no mistakes and in complete control all the way. He was timed in 45 seconds flat.

Johannsen's first run was made in 0:48.1 and when the Canadian boy came down in a great display on his second run to match Durrance's 45 seconds, the outcome depended on Dick's second run. Not only was Johannsen dogging his heels, but Doug Mann, another of McGill's fine racers, was well in the picture.

MANN CLOSE THIRD

Durrance followed Johannsen down and, so far as the spectators could see, he had done as fine a job as on his first run, but it was slower, but not slow enough to bring him back to Johannsen. His 0:47 gave him the winning total of 92 seconds. Johannsen finished next with 93.1 seconds and Mann was a close third with 94.1.

Bob Skinner, Amos Little and Ed Wells in sixth, seventh and eighth places, gave Dartmouth three more men in the first ten, but under the I. S. U. scoring the first three places count heavily, so that when the morning had ended and the crowds began converging on the the jump after hasty luncheons, McGill was still very much in the running. The team totals at the end of the slalom gave Dartmouth 94.8 points for the event to McGill's 92.3, leaving Dartmouth still in the lead with 292.4 to McGill's 283.9.

It was a longer lead than the Green had yet enjoyed, but McGill was still within striking distance. Behind the leaders, the only change had been a good showing by Middlebury which pulled it up to the heels of New Hampshire, 261.8 points for fourth place to New Hampshire's 263.8.

The crowd could not have asked for finer conditions than that which prevailed for the jumping. It was a little warm for the competitors, but the tower inrun had been splendidly packed and so had the landing slopes.

The biggest crowd in years, estimated at 3,500, thronged the hillside of the little valley into which men jump and darted about at the foot and at the top on skis, and all afternoon local and State police wrestled with cars. Time and again jumps brought roars of applause and the meet finished on a high note of the spectacular.

MAKES SUPERB EFFORT

Once again, the event developed into a fight between Dartmouth and McGill, and the Canadians certainly put on a superb effort to come back and stop the Green. Little Eddie Gignac, though finally placed second, had the crowd with him by his almost desperately reckless efforts. They produced for him, on his second try, the longest jump of the day, 38.5 meters, which is a really fine effort for this hill and for today's conditions. His first jump had been 34.5. John Litchfield of Dartmouth had a shade the better form, particularly on his first effort, which was almost perfect.

Litchfield, with 35 and 37 meters on his two efforts and with his excellent form, was declared the winner with 203.5 points, while Gignac's points totaled 200.9. Johannsen, fighting to the end, came through with an excellent second effort of 36 meters that gave him third place with 195.9 points, and then, in fourth place, was Durrance, climaxing a great individual performance in which he had annexed two firsts and a fourth.

Durrance has finished as an undergraduate in Dartmouth carnivals, but he certainly finished in a blaze of glory, winning the downhill yesterday morning, the slalom this morning, and jumping 31.5 and 34 meters this afternoon with enough form to take fourth place in the only other event he was entered in.

The first prize for the interfraternity snow sculpture went to Delta Tau Delta for a fine bullock drawing a huge cask of rum. It was designed by John D. Horn and Nathaniel Sample. The dormitory sculpture was won by Russell Sage with "Sunday Noon," designed by Don Sayia, Fred Leopold and Roy Rosenthal. The sculpture throughout was excellent and there was general agreement that the huge statue of Eleazar Wheelock in the center of square was the finest in a good many years.

Dewaminato Beaten As Osaka Tourney Opens

Dewaminato, who won the championship of the professional sumo (Japanese wrestling) tournament last January at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku, Tokyo to the amazement of the fans, had a bad start in the third annual tourney opening at Osaka Wednesday. He was thrown by the handsome Shachinosato.

Grand Champion Futabayama, who suffered three defeats in the January tournament to stop his winning streak at 69 over three years, started auspiciously with a convincing win over Ohshio.

PRO FOOTBALL TIGHTENS RULE ON PASSING

CHICAGO, Feb. 11—The National Football League tightened restrictions on forward passing in making six changes in rules today.

The rule changes, three involving overhead plays, were:

1. The penalty for a forward pass striking an ineligible player at or behind the scrimmage line shall be loss of a down and 15 yards from spot of previous down.

2. The penalty for a forward pass striking an ineligible player beyond scrimmage line shall be loss of the ball at spot of previous down. (A new college rule says the penalty shall be 15 yards and loss of a down regardless of where the ineligible player is when struck by a pass. George Halas, chairman of the rules committee and owner of the Chicago Bears, explained No. 2 was adopted to prevent pro teams from gambling the penalty against long passes.)

3. All ineligible pass receivers must remain on the line of scrimmage until the pass is thrown. This change is identical with the end made by the colleges recently.

4. Any kick-off going out of bounds after being touched by a member of the receiving team goes into play 15 yards in from spot where it crossed sideline. This was adopted to prevent players from knocking the ball out of bounds near the goal line so it would be placed in play on the 45.

5. The referee shall permit only one additional time out for injury in the last two minutes of the second half without penalty. This was adopted to prevent stalling through feigned injuries.

6. Maximum height of tee for kick-off set at three inches.

Halas said no major changes were considered by the committee, explaining that all the coaches appeared well satisfied with present regulations.

The league also planned a schedule, but the slate of games was not expected to be announced until later in the year. The trading of player talent remained at a standstill.

The league yesterday sanctioned one post-season game for pro football. For the nex five years it will be a contest between the current league champion and a collection of pro all-stars, picked in a newspaper poll, in Los Angeles.

Heretofore, players could engage in games here and there if given permission by League President Joe F. Carr. It is reported several palyed without permission in a game in San Francisco late last month. Carr said if his investigation of that game revealed league men participated without permission, the penalty would be automatic suspension for a year.

The pro champions each year will continue to appear in the annual pre-season game at Chicago against the College Senior All-Stars. A Dallas (Texas) committee composed of Southern Methodist University have asked the league to allow each year's runner-up to compete in a similar game against Southwestern All-Stars.

Budge Beats Vines 22-17 as Series Ends

Domei Tsushin

MONTREAL, March 7—Donald J. Budge, former top-ranking amateur tennis star of the world, who turned professional last year, last night trounced Ellsworth Vines in three straight sets in the final match of their continental playing tour here to emerge with 22 victories against 17 for his more seasoned professional rival.

Budge, who lived up to his formidable amateur reputation by leading Vines throughout practically the entire series begun on January 3, again displayed terrific power in last night's match, winning by impressive straight-set scores, of 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

The red-headed Californian will next be pitted against Fredrick J. Perry, great British professional, with whom he will clash in the first of a new series of matches at New York on Friday.

Vines, after last night's contest, failed to confirm recent reports that he would quit professional tennis in favor of golf if the outcome of the series proved Budge the better player.

Ambers Scores Technical Kayo Over Arizmendi

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—Lou Ambers, former lightweight champion of the world, who lost his title recently to Armstrong in the hardest fight of his career, scored a technical knock-out over Baby Arizmendi, also a thorn in the side of the present holder of the title in a non-title bout held today.

The fight was scheduled to last 12 rounds, but the referee stopped it at the end of the tenth owing to Arizmendi sustaining a cut over the eye.—Reuter's Special Sports Service.

Election of Shunichi Kasuga as Captain of Keio University's skiing team for the 1939-40 season was announced Tuesday.

WOULD COMPETE IN NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

The Japan Swimming Federation decided Wednesday night to invite six German mermen to the national championships slated next August.

The action was taken upon receipt of a cable from the American Amateur Athletic Union rejecting the team. The reason was the Union's Federation's invitation to dispatch a policy of keeping home the American swimmers for training purposes during the year immediately prior to the Olympic Games. This policy was reached apparently as a result of the failure of the American team to win at the 11th Olympic Games at Berlin in 1936. In 1935, ranking American stars competed in Japan.

Among the German stars to be invited are:

Helmut Fischer, who placed fifth in the 100-meter freestyle championship at the Berlin Olympic Games.

Joachim Balke, who placed sixth in the 200-meter breaststroke at the Berlin Games, Tetsuo Hamuro, Reizo Koike and Saburo Ito, of Japan, placing first, third and fifth respectively in the race.

H. Schlauch, who failed to place in the 100-meter backstroke in the Berlin Games. But he has been coming along rapidly, as can be witnessed from the fact that he is European champion in this event now with the good time of 1 minute 9 seconds. He should give Yasuhiko Kojima, the Japanese champion, a run for his money.

Erhardt Weiss, German high and springboard diving champion, who placed fifth and fourth in the springboard and high diving competition in the Berlin Games.

Another breaststroke and freestyle swimmer each will make up the contingent, if the Federation's plans materialize.

In preparation for the 12th Olympic Games at Helsinki next year, the Federation voted Wednesday night to stage the following training periods this Spring for swimmers from the "C" class up:

Men's speed swimming and diving: March 15 to 25, April 4 to 20, at the Tokyo Imperial University indoor pool.

Men's water polo: April 21 to 30, at the Tokyo Imperial University indoor pool.

Women's swimming: March 28 to April 3, at the Furitsu Higher Girls School pool.

Meiji Shrine's Baseball Season Opens March 18

In the first game starting at noon, a team of former players will tangle with an aggregation composed of baseball scribes while in the second tiff scheduled for 2 p.m. the College "Old Boys" will meet the Middle School "Old Boys."

MEIJI STARTS TRAINING FOR BALL SEASON

Out to win its fifth championship in a row in the Tokyo Six University Baseball league, Meiji University's ball tossers commenced their workouts at 4:30 p.m. Thursday at the Izumi grounds for the Spring season which is slated to open on April 15. Examinations are not yet over but the players, led by Coach Tamizawa, took to the field, the first of the member teams of the league to do so. The squad is made of 30 players.

The first day out in the open from the long Winter season, practise was confined to limbering up.

Southpaw Shimizu, who at one time was reported to have signed a ¥10,000 contract with the Nankai professional team of Osaka, to join the team this Spring after his graduation from the technical course, will once again be the team's pitching mainstay, and should pitch even better ball.

Then there will be Righthander Kodama, who for the past two seasons was the league's best relief pitcher, winning many a victory for Meiji.

Pitchers Shimizu and Kodama may also take their turns at first to bolster the team.

The graduation of Sugiura, the best shortstop in the circuit, is the hardest blow to the aggregation.

Indications are the team to take the field in the league games will be made up from the following players:

Pitchers: Shimizu, Kodama, Hayashi and Fujimoto.
Catchers: Kamibayashi, Tsukakoshi, Mikoshiba and Matsui.
First basemen: Shimizu, Kodama and Hayashi.
Second basemen: Kameda, Iwao Kamei, Kawanishi.
Third basemen: Ase, Kawanishi.
Shortstop: Ogi, Miyamoto.
Outfielders: Tobita, Ito, Kato and Yano.

Tobita is captain of the team, succeeding Center Fielder Yoshida who will be graduated next month.

Indiana Defeats Chicago, 46-33 For 6th Cage Win

N.Y. Times

CHICAGO, Feb. 13—Indiana's league-leading cagers, held even for three-quarters of a Big Ten game by Chicago, broke loose in the final minutes tonight to defeat the Marons, 46 to 33.

The victory was Indiana's sixth in seven Conference games and the Maroons' seventh defeat in eight games. At intermission the score was 19—17 in favor of Indiana.

EVANSTON, Ill., Feb. 13—Northwestern, hitting its stride after a miserable start in the Big Ten cage race, gained its fourth victory in a row tonight with a 37-to-27 decision over Wisconsin

The Wildcats were paced by Chuck Melchior, who made 14 points. The triumph was Northwestern's fourth in seven Conference games and Wisconsin's fifth loss in seven contests.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 13—Illinois kept alive its slender hopes for the Big Ten basketball championship tonight by vanquishing Michigan, 35 to 28, for a sixth victory in nine games.

Dehner collected 16 points to be high man, followed by Tom Harmon of Michigan with 15. It was Michigan's fifth defeat in seven games.

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 13—Purdue caught Minnesota badly off form tonight to score a 30-20 Western Conference basketball victory and virtually push the Gophers out of any title consideration. It was the Gophers' third defeat in eight games and Purdue's fourth victory in six.

Purdue scored from almost any position, with Robert Igney and Forest Weber specializing on the short shots and Dan Fisher on the long shots. Purdue at the half held a 13-8 advantage.

Galento Knocks Out Brown in 4th Round

DETROIT, Feb. 3—Tony Galento, the Orange (N. J.) bar owner and the National Boxing Association's No. 1 challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight title, moved into the champion's home town tonight and celebrated the occasion by flattening Natie Brown of Washington. The time was 1 minute and 13 seconds of the fourth round.

The roly-ploy Galento had the battle-scarred Brown on the floor ten times before he dropped him with a roundhouse left to the chin.

While Louis watched Galento rushed from his corner in the first, backed Brown to the ropes with a series of lefts, then sent him down with a club-like right to the jaw four more times in the same round. The Washington fighter managed to drag himself back to his feet on each occasion.

The only semblance of an attack Brown showed came in the second, when he rose from the floor and doubled Galento with a series of right-hand smashes to the body.

Galento's jabs and roundhouse rights sent Brown to the floor twice in the third round. The bell saved him. The knockout blow came after a right to the stomach had doubled Brown up.

Louis was introduced from the ring and walked over to Galento, but Two-Ton Tony refused to shake hands with the champion. Louis' only comment after the fight was: "He didn't look so good to me. I think I could take him."

Galento weighed 234 pounds, Brown 207½.

The crowd of 8,547 paid $16,318 to see the scheduled affair for ten rounds.

D'MOUTH ROUTS HARVARD FIVE BY 52-31 COUNT

N.Y. Times

HANOVER, N. H., Feb 11—The Dartmouth basketball team coasted to an easy 52-31 victory over Harvard tonight in an Eastern Intercollegiate League game. A crowd of only 1,500 turned out despite the fact that the contest was a Winter carnival feature.

This was the Green's second league victory of the day, the Dartmouth hockey team having defeated Princeton in overtime, 5—3, in an International Intercollegiate League match played in the afternoon.

Bob McLeod and Gus Broberg were the entire Dartmouth attack tonight. Broberg, the sensational sophomore, dropped in 18 points, many of his baskets being made from difficult angles, while MacLeod accounted for 12 points, his four baskets being quarter-court shots.

After a dull first half, Dartmouth, leader in the league, pulled out in diminutive sophomore forward. Else front through the work of Vin Else, threw four baskets and each one was of the sensational variety. Else also played an outstanding passing game.

MISSES EASY SHOTS

Uysses Lupien and Charley Lutz were the mainstays of the Harvard team, but in general the Crimson was missing set-up shots and the passing game showed faulty timing. Scoring honors were evently divided among the Harvard players.

For the first ten minutes of the first period both teams played cautious basketball, with the scoring at a minimum. Dudis scored the first point and James followed with a foul and a basket. Halfway through the period Dartmouth was protecting a 6-5 lead, with few shots being taken.

From that point, however, until the end of the period, Broberg and MaLeod went to work. Broberg dropped in six baskets, most from quarter-court or difficult angles, while MacLeod was deadly from the foul line with four conversions. Between the two they carried all of the Dartmouth attack except late in the period when Lendo was inserted at a forward position. He proceeded to dump in a basket on a rebound from Dudis and then sank two fouls.

LUTZ IS OUTSTANDING

On the Harvard side the passing and dribbling of Lutz stood out, but in the main the Crimson attack was well proportioned as far as scoring was concerned. Although Dartmouth preserved a 4 or 5 point margin, Ruml, Heckel, James and Lutz all sank baskets which kept Harvard within striking distance.

The score was tied once at 10-10, but from then on Dartmouth showed marked superiority. MacLeod scored a long goal just before the period ended, and Dartmouth led by a 23-17 score.

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

NEW YORK, Feb. 14—Penn upset Columbia, 40 to 35, in an Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League contest at the Morningside Heights gymnasium last night to give a dismal touch to the Lions' alumni day festivities.

Otherwise the Light Blue fared well as its varsity swimmers swamped Colgate, its varsity fencers toppled Yale and its freshman track team vanquished Manhattan while the first-year quintet was turned back by the Jasper cubs. A varsity triumph over the Quakers was calculated to give the Columbians a pleasant day of it.

But Penn refused to be a party to such a well-laid plan. The Quakers, hustling all the way, led from the opening minute and handed the Lions a setback that made Dartmouth's position at the head of the league standings a bit more secure. The Green is the only quintet in the circuit without a defeat and Columbia has dropped into a second-place tie with Cornell, with two defeats in six games for each.

LET DOWN BY LIONS

The Lion alumni were out in force to cheer for a success that would keep Paul Mooney's young men in the thick of the title fight. But they had little to cheer for. The Lions had a bad night, were off in their shooting and, more surprising, off in their aggressive capture of the rebounds.

Penn kept possession of the ball by taking the caroms off both baskets, and that paid rich dividends. Furthermore, the Quakers were extraordinarily accurate in their foul shooting. They made good on eighteen of twenty-three tries, while Columbia converted on seven of sixteen.

This was a rough game, to say the least, with a total of thirty personal fouls called, thirteen against the Philadelphians and seventeen against the home forces. Two of the starters, Gerry Seeders of Penn and John Naylor of Columbia, each went out with four personals before the first half was over. Four others had three when the final gun sounded.

Columbia pressed all the way but never was able either to tie the count or take the lead. Twice the Lions came storming up, only to be stopped by the Red and Blue counter rallies.

SCORE 29—28 AT ONE POINT

In the first half the New Yorkers drew up to 13—12, but Penn made it 19—12 before two quick baskets in the final minute by the Lions brought the count at the intermission to 19—16. In the second session Columbia pulled up to 29—28, but the score was 35—28 before another Lion point dropped through the hoop.

Payson Brickley was the top performer for the Philadelphians with 15 points, while Tony Mischo, a valuable feeder in the pivot post, tallied 12. High man for Columbia was Tom Macioce with 9. Vad Medvedoff made 8 and Albie Myers 7.

What hurt the Columbia cause more than anything else was its completely unsatisfactory work from the foul line. Those nine missed free throws were enough to have won this game, with a few points for good measure.

The defeat came as a happy surprise to Penn, which had lost its previous seven games in a row. And it also enabled the Quakers to draw closer in the series standings. That now finds Columbia with 37 victories and the Philadelphians with 36.

LION CUB FIVE ONLY LOSER

In the other events on this new and fulsome alumni day program at Columbia the Lions did rather well. The Light Blue varsity fencers defeated Yale, always a strong team with the sword, 16 to 11. The swimmers swamped Colgate, 62 to 13, sweeping every first place. The freshman track forces turned back Manhattan, 55 to 42, and the lone Lion defeat of the matinee program was a setback at the hands of the Jasper Cub basketball team, 27 to 21.

The fencing result was something of a surprise as Columbia won at epee and saber by identical scores, 6 to 3, although Yale took the foils, 5 to 4.

The varsity swimming meet, however, went entirely according to form. The Light Blue had too much balance and power for the Maroon. John Vergeichik, the Lions' sprinter, won both the 50 and the 100 to take the day's scoring honors. Ed Kent, Columbia junior, turned in the best performance with 2:22.9 to defeat the veteran Lion ace, Steve Stavers, in the 220-yard free-style. He also swam the anchor, the leg on the winning 440-yard relay team.

Before the athletic activities got under way, two trophy presentations were made at an alumni luncheon. Bob Taylor received the class of '13 football cup for being the gridiron star with the highest academic ranking. The W. S. Bouvier Memorial Cup for the outstanding freshman oarsman went to Arthur S. Clarke, No. 7 in the Cub boat last Spring.

U.S. BASKETBALL GROUP VOTES TO DISBAND

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 13—The 7-year-old Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball Conference, one of the best in the nation, will disband at the end of this season.

The conference directors and representatives of the member teams—Temple, Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech, Georgetown, Penn State and West Virginia—unanimously agreed to terminate the league at a meeting here tonight.

"The conference has been confronted by a geographical problem, one that made the arranging of schedules a difficult assignment," said H. Gabriel Murphy, director of athletics at Georgetown University and president of the Conference.

"In order to stay within regulations concerning the number of days permitted athletic teams to be absent from classes, the member teams have been unable to schedule games with several traditional foes.

"Another problem involved in the drafting of the schedules is the difference in time of the midyear semester examinations of the member colleges."

Murphy said disbandment of the conference has been under advisement for more than a year. Other officials said the recent resignation of Pittsburgh, effective next year, "may have hastened the move."

"While the directors were unwilling to disband," said Murphy, "it was felt that no other course was open."

"The fact all member teams will meet each other at least once during the 1939-40 season clearly proves unanimity."

Present at the meeting, in addition to Murphy, were Neil Fleming of Penn State, Clarence Overened and Max Hannum of Carnegie Tech, Earl R. Yeomans of Temple, Roy Hawley of West Virginia and James Hagan of Pitt.

The conference was formed in 1932 at Philadelphia, when representatives of Pittsburgh, Temple, Carnegie Tech, West Virginia and Georgetown met. Play was started in 1933. The following season Bucknell was added, but after a season's play dropped out. Penn State was voted into the loop in March, 1935, and began conference competition in 1936.

Pittsburgh won the championship three years in succession, 1933, 1934 and 1935, but Carnegie Tech ended the Panther domination in 1936 by turning back Pitt in a play-off game. The Pitt quintet returned to the top rung in 1937 by defeating Temple in a play-off, with Temple gaining its first championship last season.

BETTINA WINS LIGHT-HEAVY FIGHT CROWN

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Feb. 4—Melio Bettina, 23-year-old fighter from Beacon, N. Y., who has been boxing professionally three years, became world's light-heavyweight champion last night in Madison Square Garden—at least so far as the New York State Athletic Commission is concerned.

He scored a technical knockout over Tiger Jack Fox of Spokane, Wash., in 1 minute 22 seconds of the ninth round in what was to have been a fifteen-round struggle. A gathering of 7,947 fans paid $18,189 to view this battle, which was ordered by the commission to determine a successor to John Henry Lewis, who still, incidentally, is N. B. A. champion.

After being just about the most uninteresting, unsatisfactory, disillusioning ring struggle imaginable, the affair was suddenly transformed into a highly dramatic, furious spectacle with the unexpected collapse of Fox under the blows of his foe. And the crowd, particularly the large delegations from Bettina's native Beacon, simply went wild with joy.

Men and women yelled themselves hoarse and at the finish fought to get near Bettina and acclaim him as a conquering hero. Meanwhile a band played martial music.

Fox, winner of the first, fourth and seventh rounds, spent the night fighting languidly until near the end of the eighth. Then he suddenly went down under a fusillade, a left hook to the jaw being the knockdown blow. Fox remained down until nine had been tolled over him, arising wearily to face a blizzard of blows. He seemed helpless and Referee Eddie Josephs acted as if to halt the battle.

But Fox protested and took a count of three standing against the ropes. When the action was resumed Bettina proceeded to claw and belt his foe with reckless abandon until the end of the round.

The bell starting the ninth was the signal for another furious outburst by Bettina. In no time at all Bettina had his rival plastered against the ropes after hammering him about the ring. The Spokane Negro was only partially successful in dodging blows. Over to a neutral corner Bettina pressed Fox, hammering away. And when Fox made no effort to defend himself, because he couldn't or wouldn't Referee Josephs called a halt.

AN UNORTHODOX FIGHTER

About the most charitable thing that can be said of the fight is that the light-heavyweight class is in a sorry condition if these two exponents of the so-called manly art are its leading lights.

Old-timers at the ringside recognized in Bettina a present-day, heavier Al McCoy, of middleweight title notoriety. Melio is a southpaw, an unorthodox as any ever seen. Husky and strong and willing, he still has little idea of boxing skill. He is just a plodder—clumsy and stiff, slow and stodgy.

Fox is more comedian than fighter. He has not the accepted fighting stance and throws blows in haphazard fashion with knee-length swings or complete wind-ups. He fights in spasms—and had few spasms last night. He folded up like an old accordion after being the favorite at 5 to 13.

To Bettina goes all credit for what little competition the battle held. He fought fearlessly, recklessly and with the awkward sincerity that has characterized his previous appearances here.

BETTINA KEEPS MOVING IN

The Beacon idol was shaken in the very first round with a right to the jaw, but shook off the effects of the blow to come back and win the second and third.

In the fourth Bettina staggered again, this time under a left hook to the jaw, but again he came on to fight back fearlessly. And, despite the fact that Fox uppercut his foe until he was arm-weary in the seventh session, Bettina plodded on and on and on, pressing Fox before him, hammering short-arm lefts and rights to the head, face and jaw, always at close quarters.

Maybe it was the cumulative effect of these blows that suddenly and unexpectedly brought about the nine-second collapse of Fox on the floor in the eighth and his three-second period of competitive indecision standing against the ropes. In the ninth, however, Bettina never gave his rival a chance.

Bettina weighed 172½ pounds and Fox 174¾.

In an eight-round bout which followed the main event Teddy Yarosz, Pittsburgher who formerly held the middleweight title, and Eric Seelig, White Plains, fought a draw. Yarosz weighed 165¼, Seelig 160¾.

SKI JUMPING FAST GETTING TO BE 'BIG' SPORT IN U.S.

By FREDERICK GRUIN

Ski jumping is one of Winter sport's most breath-taking spectacles. On towering hillsides in the snow country the jumpers are now matching skill, challenging snow, slope and gravity. Small and overbold they may appear to spectators far below. But mightily they stir the imagination as, with no other aid than waxed wooden runners, they sweep down steep inclines at express speed, take off, fly gracefully through frostly space for hundreds of feet, come to earth again without disaster.

For the jumper himself the sport has a swift, stabbing instant of sensation. From start to stop in a smother of white spray he consumes a few seconds, yet within that brief period he may hit fifty miles or more an hour, span up to 300 feet and even farther.

While he is flashing down the slope and riding the air he is intensely concentrated, busy with control of body and skis, with split-second muscular coordination. Afterward he has time to remember the exhilaration of the flight, the momentary freedom from gravitation's bonds, the physical glow of a hazardous feat well done. The sport which gives a sensation most akin to that of ski jumping, he says, is high diving.

From the tower or starting station where the jumper pushes off, a snow-covered runway, called the "inrun," plunges downhill through dark trees. It ends perhaps 200 feet away at the edge of a wooden platform, the "take-off," from which he shoots out into the empty air. A carefully prepared landing slope and "outrun" to level ground lie below and beyond the platform, but all the jumper can see from aloft is an abysmal rim of snow from which apparently a sheer precipice drops. Far, far down on the valley floor he sees a vari-colored horseshoe composed of moving mites. These are the spectators, and within their semicircle he is to end his flight.

What makes a good ski jump? Distance covered? From the judges' viewpoint that is the last to be considered. Form is the first thing—an easy rhythmic performance whose essentials may best be seen from the judges' stand near the lip of the take-off.

There are tangible and intangible factors. Plain to see is the jumper's carriage as he glides down the inrun. He should crouch well forward, steady, with skis close and parallel. As he leaves the take-off he must snap back his knees, spring vigorously up and out. The judges turn and watch him as he sails into the air. His skis should still be parallel, must not wabble and must have their points slightly tilted up. His body should be streamlined—bent from the hips in a jack-knife or from the ankles. Slowly he rotates his arms, extended like a tight-rope walker's for balance.

The jumper's position in flight is calculated to gain for him as much forward motion as possible through the resisting air. Meanwhile he drops rapidly slopeward. His runners must now be parallel with the landing slope and strike so. As he hits the snow one foot goes forward, the knees bend to absorb the shock, then straighten. Hands may not brush the snow, for that would be "illegal support" (at high speed a finger's touch may restore balance). Steadiness must be maintained down the outrun.

The intangible factors are sensed rather than seen. Does the jumper leap with a sort of eager joy? Does he have exuberance, utter fearlessness, an apparent abandon, yet smooth and complete control? If he does, it is to his credit and his performance will warm the judges' hearts. Does he seem to draw back, hold himself uncertainly too rigidly? If so, his score will suffer.

For years the stellar performers have come from Norway, where the sport originated, and where every child learns to ski almost as soon as he learns to walk. It is axiomatic that the jumper has to know the fundamentals of skiing on the ground before he can take to the air. Incidentally, Americans of Norwegian birth or extraction have long led in ski jumping here, though in recent years youngsters with non-Norwegian names, from the Rockies to the Green Mountains, have come up and the sport's future may well be theirs.

Tomm Murstad, the Norwegian professional, is said to have been put on skis and allowed to tumble down his first slope at the age of 3 or 4. It is common for Scandinavian lads of 12 to jump 150 feet. Birger Ruud of Norway won the 1932 Olympic ski jumping at the age of 17. In fact, after 32 a ski jumper is officially classed as "veteran." Experts like Sig Steinwall, the New York professional, and Carl Stenseth of the Norsemen Ski Club, are in their forties and have been jumping for more than thirty years.

Veteran jumpers will tell you that the moment an inner voice counsels against leaping that day, or caution clings at the elbow, it is better not to ascend the tower. They will point out, jocularly to be sure, that not only advancing age, with its less resilient bones and muscles and more conservative outlook, but marriage and family responsibilities tend to make a man less eager to jump. The wife's whisper to be careful and not get hurt, or the memory of a certain bad fall in the past—these had better not be with one far up on the mountainside.

The developing jumper trains on little or "junior" hills, masters them and gradually ventures to bigger hills. He must guard against the fatal error of trying a slope too steep, a jump too long for his growing ability, lest he experience a nasty fall that would rob future jumping of its zest. In Summer, Spring and Fall he keeps leg muscles and lungs in trim by diving, hiking, gymnastics, bicycling and other exercise. And when snow appears he returns first to the small slopes, sharpening his technique anew.

The time comes when practice, enthusiasm and healthy living have polished the muscular co-ordination and sense of timing and balance so vital to finished ski jumping. The young competitor enters his first meet, and because it is his first he is not permitted to compete against leading jumpers. He is put in "Class B"; and when he has placed first, second or third in a recognized Class B championship contest, he may advance to "Class A."

Long before the starting hour the jumper will be seen testing the waxing of his runners. They must glide smoothly through the snow, whether it be powdery, coarse, wet or frozen. If they stick, out come fresh wax and paraffin to be applied meticulously with palm and cork. A jumper, were he lax in this chore, might lose the extra yard that might win the meet, or, even weightier, might be thrown or otherwise have his form spoiled by the sudden arresting or dragging of a runner.

Now it is time to assemble on the hill. The jumper shoulders his runners (jumping skis are heavier and longer than ordinary skis; the runners weigh from 14 to 18 pounds a pair, average 7¾ to 8½ feet in length, are exclusively of hickory for toughness and triple-grooved underneath to make them run straight). Up the long stairway he climbs to the starting station. He is allowed a practice jump to test the slope and snow, the direction and force of wind.

Bantering is keen among the contestants. They are a lean and sinewy lot, full of high spirits; some are tall, others short, none are fat and all are sturdily built. They promise to beat one another, belittle in a good-natured way and also give sincere praise. "Good jump! Best luck!" they shout to the one pushing off.

A smile may hover on the jumper's lips as he gets ready to leave, but no matter how much his experience, how many the jumps he has achieved, his heart pounds hard, a wryness besets his stomach, a tenseness pervades his body. He tells himself that he must stay within the thin ribbon of snow dropping between the trees to the far-off valley floor.

A bugle sounds the starting signal and he is away. Here is the take-off zooming toward him and beyond nothing but emptiness. Fiercely he lunges into space. This is a crucial moment, a matter of split-second timing from crouch to leap as skis flash across the take-off's lip.

For delectable seconds he floats on the air and rotates his arms. Then the floor of the abyss rushes up. Again a crucial moment as he slides into it, takes the shock of landing with bent knees. As he straightens up and shoots into the flat the wind rips at his eyes, tears blind him. It is only when he has ended his swift journey that he becomes conscious of cheering spectators all around.

Each jumper is allowed two jumps. The judges score each jump separately, first for form, then for distance. Perfect form earns 20 points, which is rarely achieved, the average being 14 or 15. The longest jump of the meet arbitrarily gets 20 points for distance and those that follow are marked in proportion. The totals for form awarded by each judge and for distance are added up into a final sum. With two judges, the score could range up to a perfect 160; with three judges, up to 240.

The perfect score for form on any jump is something to remember when it happens—as, for instance, the spectacular performance of Birger Ruud when he won the national open title at Brattleboro last year. In his first jump Ruud caught a bump in the runway, and though he recovered brilliantly his distance and form were surpassed by Sigurd Ulland, Norwegian expert, now of Lake Tahoe, Calif.

To avert a major defeat it was necessary for Ruud to outdistance Ulland on the second jump and do it well-nigh perfectly. His brother Sigmund, also a first-rate jumper, advised him to leave the take-off from a fresh track (jumpers usually follow the same track down the inrun) on the theory that this might give him more lift. It did. The Olympic champion flew 216 feet—the longest leap of the day— with consummate grace. One judge gave him 20 points for form; the two others each 19½. Ruud's final score was 229.8—.9 of a point higher than Ulland's.

Of course the jump does not always end standing. In seventy Class A flights five may end falling, and the proportion may be larger in Class B. Falls always look more serious than they are, and spectators are perpetually amazed that men moving at such high speeds and tumbling so violently can escape with as little harm as they do. The secret is that the jumper can often tell at the take-off whether he is going to fall. He tries hard to recover, but when he has to bow to the inevitable he seeks a fall on back or side with runners up.

Most dangerous is the forward spill. Even then the jumper would rather fall on chest and face than on ski tips, which would stick in the snow and halt his momentum with shocking abruptness.

A jumper may fall for various reasons. He may be overanxious and leap just a shade too soon at the take-off. A slanting ray of the sun may thaw the snow on some part of the runway and in the softness runners may be braked. Unexpected breezes may upset. In isolated cases fatal accidents have occurred to experts who jumped when not in proper physical condition. The commoner injuries are complete loss of wind, skin scrapes, broken bones, sprains, dislocations. It is important that an injured jumper should go back to the hill as soon as he is able—just as the air pilot who has cracked up should fly again as soon as possible to keep his nerve.

MANCHOUKUO WILL BOOST ATHLETICS

The five-minute overtime developed into a rough session in which Notre Dame counted three fouls to Syracuse's two to gain the decision. Maurice Ziegenhorn made the winning point on a foul toss after the period ended.

Mark Haller, Syracuse center, was top scorer with 15 points, while Riska and Paul Ducharme paced the Irish with 11 and 1, respectively.

RULING SEEN ON STUDENTS JOINING PROS

Student baseball players will be prohibited from joining the professional clubs before their graduation exercises are over, according to a decision reported to have been reached by the Education Ministry. An order to this effect is expected to be sent shortly by the Ministry to the athletic bureaus of the prefectural governments.

The issue came to the fore with the case of Kazuto Tsuruoka, last year's captain of the Hosei University team and who besides playing a creditable game at third base captured the individual batting honors in the season last Autumn. Having signed a contract with the latest of the pro teams to be organized, the Nankai Electric Railway Company's aggregation of Osaka, the latter sought to have the services of Tsuruoka, who will be graduated late this month, as soon as possible. With the Spring season of the professional league opening on March 18, the team desired his presence in its workouts. Hence, a request to this effect was made to the Hosei University baseball officials. The latter contended that up to graduation time, Tsuruoka was still a member of the university's team, and he not only could not play for the Nankai team but practice with it up to that time.

Going over the heads of the Hosei University officials, directors of the Nankai team are then reported to have appealed to the Japan Baseball Federation (new name of the professional league) which sent representatives to the Education Ministry. The latter's athletic bureau upheld the university authorities.

The Japan Baseball Federation made public Friday the following new players signed up by the respective pro teams.

16,500 SEE RANGERS BEAT BRUINS, 3-2

BOSTON, Feb. 12—The New York Rangers regained some of the National Hockey League ground they have lost to the Boston Bruins by defeating the leaders, 3—2, tonight in a loosely played game before a crowd of 16,500 at the Boston Garden.

Although the Bruins outshot Lester Patrick's sharpshooters, 26—12, they were three goals down until the last four minutes of play, thanks to the consistent play of Alex Shibicky and the Colville brothers.

Shibicky, who scored twice, caged his first goal unassisted during the second period and slapped another through Goalie Frankie Brimsek in the third, with the cooperation of the Colville lads. The brothers then combined for the third Ranger tally, Neil counting on Mac's assist.

SCHMIDT AND DUMART TALLY

Threatened with a whitewashing before the largest home crowd of the season, the Bruins managed to catch the Rangers short-handed with four minutes to go and Milt Schmidt rapped in Eddie Shore's assist. The latter and little Bobby Bauer handled the puck before Woody Dumart registered again for the Bruins.

With seventy seconds remaining, the Bruins pulled Brimsek out of the net to throw six forwards into action, but the final bell caught them before they could produce the equalizer.

The Rangers' victory cut the Bruins' lead to four full games, but the Patrickmen have played two games less than the pace-setters. The set-back was the first for the Bruins in their last nine games.

Before the opening face-off, the Bruins' loyal "gallery gods," an organized group of top balcony spectators, made their third annual award to their current favorites, the defense men Shore and Dit Clapper. The galleryites presented wrist watches to their heroes with much ceremony.

HAMILL IS FORCED OUT

Red Hamil of the Bruins, cut near the right eye during a melee in the first period, had to retire from the game. Four stitches were needed to close the wound.

The Bruins were forced to open in sub-par fashion; for three of their dependables were out with injuries, but during the first ten minutes of play Kerr was called upon to stop all of the shots that were fired during that interval.

Brimsek idled because the Rangers drew a penalty at the five-minutes mark, Hiller going off for tripping, and it took some time after his release, for Rangers to organize a decisive rush.

Brimsek was not called upon to make a stop until 14 minutes when, while Coulter was serving a slashing penalty, the Boston goalie turned aside a long shot golfed out of a lively scrimmage near the Rangers' cage.

The line-up:

	Boston (2)	Rangers (3)

Defense	Portland	M. Patrick

PICKED ON U.S. OLYMPIC TEAM

Here is Al Kucera, of Chicago, who finished second in the 10,000 meter race at the ice sports meet in Oconomowoc recently, thereby winning a place on the 1940 U. S. Olympic team. Four of the eight members of the skating team that will represent Uncle Sam in the Olympics are Chicagoans.

MCCARTHY AND KLEM ARE CHOSEN FOR AWARDS BY BASEBALL WRITERS

This being the time when diamond heroes of the past and present are duly mentioned for rewards, it remained for the New York baseball writers to unveil recently two names which, though famous enough for many years, nevertheless seem to have been singularly neglected whenever prizes are distributed.

They are Joseph V. McCarthy, manager of the world champion Yankees, and William J. Klem, dean of the major league umpires and a picturesque figure in the game for the past thirty-five years. Both have been unanimously chosen to receive signal honors at the New York chapter's sixteenth annual dinner and frolic which will draw more than 900 baseball men to the Hotel Commodore.

To McCarthy will go the 1938 plaque for the unprecedented achievement in piloting his Yankees to their third successive world series championship and the fourth world title since coming to New York. And to Klem, the old, old arbiter, will go the award for meritorious services to baseball over a long period of years.

FIRST DOUBLE AWARD SINCE 1935

It marks only the second time since the practice of awarding plaques was instituted ten years ago that the scribes have found it necessary to make two awards. The first time was in 1935 when the venerable Connie Mack and Rabbit Maranville were honored.

McCarthy and Klem thus are added to a distinguished list of names which, in addition to Mack and Maranville, includes such notables as the late William B. Hanna, for years one of baseball's most widely known writers; Miller Huggins, Babe Ruth, Wilbert Robinson, John J. McGraw, Walter Johnson and Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis.

By reason of his retiring nature and the simplicity with which he achieves his greatest managerial feats, Marse Joe McCarthy perhaps has had fewer honors showered upon him in proportion to his achievements than any manager in the history of the game. His continued successes, in fact, have actually become so commonplace most folks have almost come to take them for granted.

Yet in many respects his record is one that stands without parallel in baseball. Although he never played a major league game in his life he has, in his thirteen campaigns as a major league pilot, never placed a club outside the first division. Only twice was he as low as fourth, only once was he third.

In his other ten starts he won five times, placed second five times and in addition to being the first manager to lead a club to three successive world tittles is the only pilot ever to win a pennant in each of the two major loops.

It was in 1926 that McCarthy, fresh from Louisville, took over the last-place Cubs in the National League. His managerial talents were known only to those who keep tabs on minor league affairs, but he was not long in attaining recognition in the majors. In one season he whipped the Cubs from the cellar to fourth place.

He had to be satisfied with another fourth in 1927, but the following year he edged up to third and in 1929 he brought the Cubs home in front to give Chicago its first National League flag in eleven years. In 1930 the Cubs slipped back to second place and as the result of "front office" dissension he was deposed in favor of Rogers Hornsby.

But the dismissal merely served to send him stumbling further up the stairs to greater fame. He was immediately signed to manage the Yankees and after elevating the Yanks from third to second in 1931, bagged his first American League pennant and world series for them in 1932. Three second-place finishes followed, but by 1936 he had welded a baseball machine which still stands as the most powerful and overwhelmingly successful the game has ever known.

Not only have McCarthy's Yanks made a walkaway of three straight pennant races but in winning each of the three ensuing world series they have actually suffered a loss of only three games.

AN 'IRON MAN' UMPIRE

Klem has been officiating in the National League ever since 1905 and in carrying on the traditions of the picturesque Hank O'Day, became himself the most widely known umpire in the history of baseball. He has officiated in more world series than any other arbiter—seventeen in all—and had any record been kept of it, he doubtless possesses an "iron man" mark as amazing as that of Lou Gehrig. For rarely has he ever been called out of service because of illness or accident.

Once he suffered a fractured arm early in a game. He continued behind the plate, holding his injured arm tightly behind his back. A few innings later a foul tip clipped him on the fingers of his other hand. Still he continued and when he called a close one against the Dodgers he engaged in a spirited row with the late Wilbert Robinson.

After the game, Uncle Robbie stormed into Klem's room to continue the harangue but when he saw a doctor and several assistants placing Klem's arm in splints his bluster vanished and he bellowed in open admiration:

"Bill, you're the gamest old warhorse I ever saw."

And that, coming from the redoubtable old Oriole, who so many times had revealed himself impervious to pain, was perhaps the greatest tribute the famous arbiter ever received.

Waseda Alumni Ruggers Down Gakushi, 27 to 6

With a burst of speed in the second half yielding 24 points, the Waseda O.B. (alumni) ran roughshod over the Gakushi (Tokyo Imperial University graduates) fifteen, 27 to 6, Sunday afternoon at the Meiji Shrine stadium. By virtue of this victory, its third straight, Waseda now only has to take the measure of Meiji to win the championship of the Tokyo Five University O.B. rugby league.

Meiji and Rikkyo fought to an 18-all tie in the nightcap. The score at half-time was 15 to 10 in favor of Meiji.

Son of Sun Beau Wins $10,000 Race At Santa Anita Park

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11—Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Impound, son of the immortal Sun Beau, whipped a brilliant field of three-year-olds today to capture the $10,000 added San Vincente Handicap at Santa Anita Park, and immediately became one of the outstanding candidates for the coming $50,000 Santa Anita Derby.

Thirty-five thousand turf fans wagering $153,716 on the outcome, saw Silvio Coucci bring the Vanderbilt colt in to win the seven-furlong event by a nose from William Ziegler jr.'s Our Mat, while Porter's Mite, W. E. Boeing's winner of the Belmont Futurity last year and the choice to win today, finished third in the field of fifteen, beaten by five lengths.

Impound paid off at $19.80, $6 and $3.60 across the board; Our Mat, $5.20 and $3.80, and Porter's Mite $3. Impound was timed at 1:23, three-fifths short of the track record.

Smart-riding Coucci took Impound out of close quarters on the inside early in the race, opened him up on the backstretch and brought him thundering down the stretch to hold off the threat of Our Mat, a colt which Ziegler neglected to nominate for the $50,000 Derby.

The public fancy on the seven-furlong race, last major event before the three-year-olds go into the Derby Feb. 22, rested on the Mite, Mrs. Bessie Franzheim's Xalapa Clown and Our Mat, with Impound merely listed as a dangerous contender, but one beaten by the Boeing colt and several others last Jan. 5.

But the Mite, off to a good start, and Xalapa Clown failed to live up to expectations, both tiring badly. The Clown ran sixth, with Norman Church's Sweep Nancy placing fourth and Mrs. Frank Carreaud's Time Alone fifth.

FUTABAYAMA GIVEN BATTLE BY AKINOUMI

Akinoumi, one of the most promising wrestlers of the Dewanoumi Camp, showed that his victory over Grand Champion Futabayama on the fourth day of the Spring tournament last January at the Kokugikan bowl here to stop the latter's amazing winning streak over three years at 69 victories, was no fluke by engaging in another torrid bout with him Sunday in the fifth day's bouts of the current third annual tournament at Osaka. In what the layman would consider an overtime match, Futabayama finally won to score revenge.

No sooner had they stood up than Futabayama attained his favorite hold of gripping his opponent's girdle on the back with his left arm. But Akinoumi was clever enough and strong enough too for that matter not to allow Futabayama to effect a hold with his right arm. Meanwhile, he maneuvered himself into a strong defensive position by sticking his head at Futabayama's chest. Then he took the offensive by forcing the Grand Champion three times to the edge of the ring as supporters of Futabayama gasped. The latter, however, in the pink of condition as can be witnessed by his undefeated record at the tourney at Nagoya recently, managed to check Akinoumi's drive. The two wrestlers were near exhaustion and the judges called for time. This, of course, only happens rarely when it seems neither one of the contestant is in a position to throw the other.

For a moment, it looked as if Akinoumi would win again when time was called in. He attempted a body throw from the left but Futabayama checked it. He then started pushing Akinoumi and as the latter tried to check it, resorted to a body throw and down went Akinoumi.

Two upsets were registered when Kashimanada threw Nayoroiwa, strong stable-mate of Futabayama, and Yamatonishiki defeated Tamanoumi, ace pupil of the late Grand Champion Tamanishiki.

HARVARD ROUTS PENN IN SWIM MEETING, 56-19

N.Y. Herald Tribune

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 11—Still without the services of its sprint star, Jim Curwen, Harvard's swimming varsity opened the defense of its Eastern Intercollegiate Swimming League title tonight by defeating Pennsylvania, 56-to-19, in the Harvard pool.

Harvard garnered six of the nine firsts, including both relays, for its seventh victory this year.

Capt. Paul Williams, of Pennsylvania, sparked his team's losing cause, coming through to a 2-yard margin in the 50-yard free style, and two events later defeating Frank Powers, of Harvard, in the century. Powers lost by an inch.

For Harvard, Eric Cutler and Arthur Bosworth, sophomore, shone. Showing his usual style, Cutler thrashed home by fifteen yards in the 220 and followed that later by breaking five minutes in the 440, being timed in 4 minutes 59.4 seconds. His quarter-mile eclipsed a teammate, Bob White, by thirty yards, and led the nearest Penn entrant by forty-two.

Bosworth provided the five-yard edge that won the opening medley relay, and then turned in a sterling 150-yard back stroke performance for his second victory, by two yards.

The only visitor besides Williams to win a first was James Daugherty, who won the butterfly breast stroke by ten strokes.

The summaries:

Budge Again Routs Perry in Three Sets

Domei Tsushin

BOSTON, March 11—Donald J. Budge, the latest entry in the professional tennis sport, tonight administered his second successive defeat to Frederick J. Perry, British lion of the courts, in a torrid three-set match here. The scores were 6-0, 6-2, and 8-6.

Tonight's victory by the red-headed Californian convinced American tennis fans that Budge is without a doubt the world's best player. Perry was completely outclassed during the first two sets, managing to eke out only two games, but in the final set forced the champion to go 14 games.

Yesterday at New York, Budge convincingly beat Perry in straight sets much to the surprise of many veterans of the game, the scores being 6-1, 6-3, and 6-0. With the two world's best tennis stars on a continental exhibition tour, the score stands 2-0 with Budge leading.

YALE DOWNED BY MICHIGAN IN SWIMMING

N.Y. Herald-Tribune

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 11—Matt Mann's University of Michigan swimming team tonight clearly demonstrated its superiority over the forces of Yale's Bob Kipkuth with a smashing 53-to-22 victory.

In this year's chapter of one of swimming's most bitter rivalries, Michigan allowed their Eastern visitors only two first places, winning handily in seven of the nine events. The Wolverines won both relays and dominated the individual events except for diving and the 200-yard breast stroke.

For Waldemar Tomski, who regained his eligibility last Wednesday, the meet was a field day. In his first event, the 50-yard free style, Tomski boiled through the pool to tie the national collegiate record of 0:22.9, held by Flackman, of Illinois.

Returning for the century sprint, Tomski again beat the field in 0:52.1, missing the national intercollegiate record, but smashing the pool mark of 0:52.5, held by Ed Kirar, national champion for two years in both sprints.

To top off the evening, the lanky swimmer anchored the free-style relay to victory. Tomski hit the pool a full body length behind John Good, the Yale captain. In twenty-five yards he caught Good, passed him on the return trip, and then forged away to a lead in the last fifty yards.

Another double winner for Michigan was the Wolverine captain, Tom Haynie, of Detroit, voted the outstanding collegiate swimmer in America two years ago. Haynie captured the 220 and 440-yard free style with Jimmie Welsh, making it one-two for Michigan in each of the events.

The Yale bid for victory was headed by Daniel Endweiss, whose diving might have been regarded as spectacular had he not been preceded here by Patnik and Clark, of Ohio State. In the breast stroke powerful Ed Gesner, of Yale, butterfield the entire distance to finish a scant two feet ahead of Michigan's Johnny Haigh.

The meeting evened scores for the two colleges. Yale won in 1928 and 1930, and Michigan beat Yale at New Heaven last year.

The summaries:

200-yard Medley relay—Won by Michigan (Beebe, Haigh and Hutchens). Time, 2:58.2.

220-yard free style—Won by Haynie, Michigan; Welsh, Michigan, second; Duncan, Yale, third. Time, 2:12.4.

50-yard free style—Won by Tomski, Michigan; Barker, Michigan, second; Perryman, Yale, third. Time, 0:22.9 (ties national collegiate record).

Diving—Won by Endweiss, Yale; Benham, Michigan, second; Ferstenfeld, Michigan, third. Winner's points, 101.05.

100-yard free style—Won by Tomski, Michigan; Good, Yale, second; Moonan, Yale, third. Time, 0:52.1

150-yard back stroke—Won by Beebe, Michigan; Burns, Yale, second; Bruekel, Yale, third. Time, 1:04.4.

200-yard breast stroke—Won by Gesner, Yale; Haigh, Michigan, second; Metcalf, Yale, third. Time, 2:29.4.

440-yard free style—Won by Haynie, Michigan; Welsh, Michigan, second; Spendelow, Yale, third. Time, 4:58.8.

400-yard free style relay—Won by Michigan (Holmes, Hutchens, Beebe, Tomski). Time, 3:35.8.

LEIGHTON WINS NORTH AMERICAN SPEED SKATING

N.Y. Times

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 13—Showing the form that won him a place on the 1940 American Olympic team, Charles Leighton of Minneapolis today lifted the North American speed skating crown from the head of Chicago's Vic Ronchetti.

It was a big day for Mid-Western skaters as Miss Maddy Horn of Beaver Dam, Wis., national women's champion, won the senior women's title. Miss Janet Milne, defending champion, failed to score a point.

Leighton scored a grand total of 110 points, taking firsts in the 440-yard and five-mile races, second in the three-quarter and 220 and third in the half mile.

SCHROEDER FAILS TO FINISH

Delbert Lamb of Milwaukee, another Olympic skater, was runner-up with 80 points, which included victories in the mile and half-mile. Tied for third place at 40 points each were Ronchetti, Kenny Bartholomew of Minneapolis, the national champion, and Eddie Schroeder of Chicago. Schroeder failed to compete in the last day's program, which was moved here from near-by Saranac Lake.

The men's title remained in doubt until the finish of the last event, the three-quarter mile, which Bartholomew won. Lamb, who was tied with Leighton for the lead at the end of the second day, failed to place in the three-quarter, Johnny Quigg of St. John, N. B., Canada, taking the third spot, behind Leighton. Leighton won the quarter-mile race today.

It also took the final event, the half-mile, to decide the women's title, which Miss Horn won with 130 points. Miss Mary Dolan of Minneapolis, who had been close to Miss Horn for the lead, won the last event, but the Beaver Dam girl's second place kept her ahead in the final standings.

MISS BAHIL IS THIRD

Miss Dolan totaled 120 points to be runner-up. Miss Helen Bahil of Elmhurst, L. I., the New York State and Middle Atlantic champion, was third with 40 points.

Three new records were established on the final day of the event, all registered by junior and intermediate competitors. Fourteen-year-old Miss Geraldine Neuhfer of Cleveland, who bettered the junior girls' 20 and 440-yard national records in the first two days of the championship, broke the world mark for the half mile today by skating the distance in 1:32.8. The previous record was 1:33.9.

Arthur Van Dyke of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., set a new national mark in the junior half-mile event, 1:23.4, the former record being 1:24 flat.

A new world mark also was claimed for Joe McDonald of Saginaw, Mich., in the intermediate half mile. Officials said his time of 1:16 clipped 2 seconds off the previous mark. McDonald finished second, however, to Leonard Schallehn of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., in the intermediate division.

TWO STARS DISAPPOINT

Performances of both Bartholomew and Ronchetti, who is a former national champion, proved disappointing. Before his victory in the three-quarter, the best Bartholomew could do was to place third in the two-mile. He barely qualified for the three-quarter, sliding across the line on his face to place third in his heat. Ronchetti was able only to earn seconds in the five-mile and the 220.

Don Johnson of Minneapolis won the Val Bialis special three-mile race, which did not figure in the scoring. Tommy Smith of Saranac Lake was second.

GERMAN FEDERATION INVITES 5 JAPANESE TRACK, FIELD STARS

FOUR JUMPERS, ONE SPRINTER ASKED ON TEAM

The Japan Track and Field Federation is expected to accept at its special meeting tonight an invitation received by wire Monday from Dr. Karl Ritter von Halt, president of the German Track and Field Federation, to dispatch five athletes and a manager for competition there from the latter part of July through August this year.

The wire requested that two pole vaulters, and one contestant each in the running broad jump, hop-step and jump, and short distance running competition be sent.

While the German athletes virtually made a clean sweep in the weight events and the javelin throw, they were woefully weak in the pole vault and the hop step and jump in the 11th Olympic Games at Berlin in 1936. In these three events, Japan have always been strong. Naoto Tajima, for instance, won the hop step and jump with a distance of 16 meters for a new world record; Masao Harada was second with 15.66 meters and Kenkichi Oshima, sixth, with 15.07 meters. Heinz Wellner of Germany was fourth with 15.27 meters. In the pole vault, Shuhei Nishida and Sueo Ouye of Japan placed second and third next to Earle Meadows of the United States.

In the broad jump, Jesse Owens of the United States won first place at Berlin with a leap of 8.06 meters for a new world record. Lutz Long of Germany was second with 7.87 meters, nosing out Tajima whose best distance was 7.74 meters.

Germany fared better than Japan in the sprints with Erich Borchmeyer of that country placing fifth in the final of the 100-meter dash.

The invitation from Germany came with the local Federation in the midst of preparations to stage a Germany-Italy-Japan tri-nation meet in the Fall. Director Genzaburo Noguchi said Monday night that the meet could and should be staged even if the Japanese team goes to Germany in th Summer because there will be conflict in dates between the two.

SCHRINER LEADS N.Y. SKATERS TO HOCKEY WIN

By JOSEPH C. NICHOLS

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—Dave (Sweeney) Schriner caged the only goal in the National Hockey League game between the Americans and the Detroit Red Wings last night and his contribution was the only redeeming feature of the slowest and least interesting contest witnessed at Madison Square Garden this season. The New Yorkers' 1-to-0 triumph was well deserved, however, riveting more securely their hold on third place.

The Red Wings, teetering perilously on the brink of the cellar, were committed to a safety-first policy from the opening whistle, and their refusal to take any chances whatsoever—until it was too late—did not rest easily with the crowd.

At first the spectators, numbering 12,058, clamored for action; then they begged for it. With neither of these appeals stirring the visitors to anything resembling a reckless abandon, the fans at length been downright apathetic, and, until Schriner tallied in the third period, an enterprising newsboy could have sold out his stock a dozen times over, so disinterested were they in what was going on before them.

HOME TEAM FORCES ACTION

No blame whatever for the sad spectacle could be attached to the Americans. Mindful that they were playing at home, the New Yorkers tried to make a game of it at every turn. Red Dutton's men, as the encounter wore on, even went so far as to rush five strong with the sides even in an endeavor to stir the crew piloted by Jack Adams into some semblance of aggressive action.

But the Wings would take none of this bait. They hounded the puck continuously as the Americans sought to charge, and when they did come into possession they sent only one skater forward. Rarely did the automobile city skaters seek to charge with two men, while their three-man rushes were scarce indeed.

This policy, of course, was pursued by the Wings just as long as the score was even. After Schriner's tally the visitors, of necessity, enlivened the proceedings by pouring wave after wave of rushes into American ice. Then, however, it came close on several occasions, was too late, and, although they were not able to deprive Earl Robertson of a shut-out.

When the game got under way the Wings sent Herbie Lewis on a one-man rush along the right alley. Lewis drove a fast shot, which Robertson blocked well enough, but, in clearing, the New York cage minder almost batted the disk into his cage.

WING DEFENSE MEN EXCEL

This aggressive action was the Wings' only one for a long time. The Duttonmen advanced the puck time and again over their rivals' border, but so proficient were the Wing defenders that Tiny Thompson in their goal was called on to make few saves, until a penalty rendered his team shorthanded. Then he was in for two minutes of hard work, a task he performed splendidly by stopping sizzling drives sent at him by Schriner, Lorne Carr, Tommy Anderson and Hooley Smith.

Late in the period, when the Americans had Art Jackson in the penalty box, the Wings deigned to charge, but they ceased their aggression when young Jackson re-entered the fray in the first minute of the middle chapter. Through this session the Americans persisted in charging, but they came close to Thompson seldom.

At the same time the visitors, strange as it may seem, almost struck for a score when Eddie Wares, catching the New Yorkers grouped in Detroit ice, flew the length of the rink to rattle a hard shot off Robertson's stick.

When the third period opened the Wings flashed another solo attack, Doug Young skating down the center alley. He drove a hard shot at Robertson, gathered in the rebound and shot again, but the goalie turned him back.

TWO DRIVES STOPPED

The spangled stick-wielders then picked up the attack agian, but they seemed headed for a scoreless tie until Art Chapman and Lorne Carr passed their way to the goal. There Carr bounced a shot off Thompson's stick, and so did Schriner.

The Detroit goalie looked very good on these two drives, but could not control the rebound on Schriner's second effort. The latter immediately seized the disk and netted it in 9:27.

With a minute left to play Manager Adams contemplated taking Thompson out of the cage, but after some reflection thought better of it.

Three penalties were called against the New Yorkers and two against Detroit.

NOTRE DAME BEATS N.Y.U. FIVE, 34 TO 30

BY EVERETT B. MORRIS

N.Y. Herald-Tribune

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—Notre Dame's fast, aggressive basketball team wore down New York University's stubborn resistance in the last ten minutes of a stirring, closely fought game in Madison Square Garden last night and won, 34 to 30, while 18,076 spectators looked on.

The victory was the fourth in a row for the South Bend invaders over their New York foe and their ninth straight since the first of the year.

This unexpectedly tight engagement, in which the beaten Violet acquitted itself with distinction, followed the longest contest ever played on the Garden court, a double overtime period battle in which St. Francis College of Brooklyn, outlasted Manhattan, 53 to 49.

THIRD METROPOLITAN VICTORY

The Terriers' hard-earned triumph was their third over a metropolitan rival this season and placed them at the top of the intracity championship series standing. Incidentally, it was the third time in as many years that St. Francis had played overtime contests as prologues to Notre Dame-N. Y. U. meetings. In previous extra-period tussles, the Franciscans had broken even with Brooklyn College. The switch to Manhattan as an opponent merely resulted in an even longer and more spectacular display of basketball warfare.

Notre Dame's fleet-footed, hard-driving them drove into an early lead over N. Y. U. and never was headed. It never was out of danger, either, and at one stage of the second period the score was tied at 27-all. At this juncture, with eleven minutes left and the throng beside itself with the possibility of an upset, Notre Dame's superior poise asserted itself.

Eddie Riska, the bustling, rugged sophomore who topped the scoring table with an even dozen points, drove in for a lay-up shot on a pass from Paul Ducharme and the tie was dissolved. Two minutes later Earl Brown, Notre Dame football hero, poked in a shot as he was charged by Irv Resnick, N. Y. U. guard. Brown added the free throw and so Notre Dame's lead had grown to 32 to 27.

IRISH SWITCH TO CAUTIOUS GAME

Thereafter, Notre Dame stressed possession of the ball, took no chances and defended smartly against N. Y. U.'s desperate efforts to come back. Ben Auerbach and Red Stevens, the sophomores who were almost all of the Violet's attack reduced the deficit to three points with less than a minute to go but the final score was a free throw by Riska after he had been crashed on a wide open shot by Auerbach.

Neither team's shooting was of major caliber, probably due to the heavy pressure both defenses were exerting and the necessity for getting rid of the ball in a great hurry. Both sides were missing repeatedly underneath, but no one had quite the bad luck on the rim that dogged Stevens. The ball simply would not roll for him. Even so he got ten points, one more than Auerbach, who was shooting well from outside.

Notre Dame outscored N. Y. U., 16 to 14, in the first half and 18 to 16 in the second. Those figures are a reasonably accurate indication of how closely the battle was waged.

NORWEGIAN BREAKS OWN RECORD TO WIN U.S. EASTERN SKI JUMP

By FRANK ELKINS

N.Y. Times

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y., Feb. 13—In one of the finest competitions ever held in the long history of the United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association, fifty talented riders from points along the Atlantic seaboard thrilled a holiday throng in the Palisades invitation jump today. The event was held under ideal conditions.

When the 3,500 enthusiastic onlookers left as dusk settled on this Hudson Valley resort, they departed convinced that it will be a long time before they will see the equal of today's exciting program. In the first place, there was the record-breaking achievement of the 19-year-old Norwegian, Torger Tokle, who shattered the hill's standard for the second time in three weeks.

FIELD REVEALS STEADINESS

Then came the superb demonstrations of steadiness, only eight of the large field failing to maintain their equilibrium upon alighting. But most important of all was the fact that not a single serious injury occurred, a tribute to the Bear Mountain Sports Association officials, who kept the tricky slide in grand shape, and the clean jumping.

During the trial exhibitions it was evident that the participants were out for distance, for they were getting plenty of air under their hickory wings and spilling aplenty. After acquiring the feel of the 800-foot slide, which has been troublesome for even the best Eastern athletes, the jumpers executed flights that surprised themselves as much as the spectators.

Tokle, who has captivated all who have seen him in action, soared majestically for flights of 155 and 162 feet, the two longest of the day. On his second attempt the recent arrival from Lokken Verk in Norway got a tremendous lift at the take-off and landed with such smoothness as to make the sport seem like child's play. Before the announcer's voice boomed, 162 feet, the onlookers broke into cheers for they knew that the visitor had smashed his own mark.

HIGHER RATING LIKELY

Although Torger still competes in Class B, he probably will get a higher rating following today's achievements. He also outclassed the formidable field of Class A stars.

Tokle was credited with 159.6 markers, while Merrill Barber, the 20-year-old American sensation from Brattleboro, Vt., just beat Raymond Lambert of Lebanon, N. H., for the Class A laurels, having 150.4 points. The latter two waged a merry battle for the award as only three-tenths of a point separated them.

Lambert, who won the New York State Class A title yesterday at Salisbury Mills, got five feet more than Barber in this combined flights, but he lost on the Vermonter's last leap of 150 feet, which was a beauty in execution. The Brattleboro entrant cleared 144 feet in the first round, while 19-year-old Lambert had leaps of 150 and 149.

While most of the surrounding hillsides were mud-covered and the weather was typical of Spring, conditions on the white-ribboned hill were good. Only the outrun, which had rivulets, gave the boys any trouble, but a spill at the finish meant a bath.

The "corn" snow was fast, but not sticky and as conditions were virtually the same over the entire descent the field was not caught napping by soft or ice spots. With these conditions, it was little wonder that the skiers did so well and the crowd, a very appreciative one, applauded liberally throughout and did not leave untile the program was completed.

After competing in the hazardous conditions that prevailed in the State event yesterday, the jumpers revealed fine form here. Only one skier fell in Class A; he was the Gardner (Mass.) representative, Ben Stuckey. Seven were unable to hold to their skis in Class B.

TOKLE BROTHERS ONE, TWO

Kyrre Tokle, older brother of the Norwegian star, placed second to Torger in Class B, repeating his feat of three weeks ago. The double jump of Barber and T. Tokle will long be remembered, for both got off for long distances and made faultless landings with hands interlocked. The Chivers brothers, Warren and Howard of Dartmouth fame, were fifth and sixth in Class A, and Roland Chivers was twelfth in Class B.

When one remembers that the hill's speed was reduced considerably, the distances were remarkable. Ingolf (Balboa Helgesen, the Telemark S. C. athlete, who has a large following finally succeeded in standing on both of his flights. Ottar Satre, former holder of many amateur championships and records, opened the meet with an exhibition leap. The near-by ski tow hill was busy all day, snow having been trucked in for several days by park officials. This made limited skiing possible only at that point.

A machine was used to chop the ice-crusted sonw at both the tow hill and ski jump to make skiing possible. Athletes from New York State, New Jersey, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont and Connecticut participated in the competition. Harold Nelson and John Victorin, president of the Norway and Swedish ski clubs, respectively, served as judges.

Japan Decides to Enter World Field Hockey Series

Decision to compete in the world field hockey championships scheduled for next year at Amsterdam was reached by the Japan Field Hockey Association at its meeting Sunday night at its headquarters in the Marunouchi Building, according to announcement Monday night.

As to the team to be sent, 30 candidates will be selected and will go into group training in July at the Tsukijima reclaimed grounds in Tokyo.

The Association's decision was made in view of the fact that field hockey will not be included in the program of the 12th Olympic Games at Helsinki next year.

FORDHAM BEATS TEMPLE, 41-34, IN SWIM MEET

N.Y. Herald-Tribune

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—By virtue of a victory in the 400-yard free-style relay the Fordham University swimming team defeated Temple, 41 to 34, in the Fordham pool yesterday afternoon. The two teams started the last event tied at 34-all, but the Ram relay four of Henry Smith, John Shelly, Bill Prahl and Slyvester Blish was too much, Maroon just out-touching Temple's anchor man in 4:05.6.

William Prahl, second leg of the Ram's winning relay four, was top scorer for the day, taking first place in the 220-yard free-style event by four yards from his teammate, Thomas Mallon, in 2:34.2 and then coming back a half hour later and capturing the 440-yard free style from Mallon by ten yards in 6:40.8. Fordham's only other individual victory came in the 200-yard breast stroke, when William Hagedorn beat out Roger Owens, of Temple.

Edward Spiegel was the visitors' star, capturing both the 50 and 100-yard free-style events.

The summaries:

Akinoumi Defeats Minanogawa at Osaka

Akinoumi, who was the first to throw Grand Champion Futabayama and stop his winning streak in the Spring Sumo tournament last January in Tokyo, defeated Grand Champion Minanogawa Monday in the sixth day's bouts of the tournament at Osaka.

Futabayama, who avenged his defeat at the hands of Akinoumi Sunday, took the measure of Tamanoumi Monday, to score another revenge. The two others to beat Futabayama in the January tourney in Tokyo were Ryogoku and Kashimanada.

ON 1940 U.S. OLYMPIC TEAM

Smiling at you here is Bob Heckenbach, member of the Northwestern Skating Club of Chicago, who won a place on the 1940 U.S. Olympic team at the Winter sports meet recently in Oconomowoc to give Chicago half the places (four out of eight) on the team. Heckenbach finished fifth in the 10,000-meter race.

CUNNINGHAM WINS BAXTER MILE, FOR HIS 19TH MAJOR TITLE

By ARTHUR J. DALEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Feb. 19—To the great surprise of no one at all Glenn Cunningham won the Baxter Mile at the New York A. C. games in Madison Square Garden last night, his nineteenth major indoor mile victory in succession. The old master let go with a withering blast a half lap from the finish to triumph by seven yards over Archie San Romani in 4:12.6.

A gathering of 13,000 thrilled to a race that started out at a dreary pace, gained in excitement as it gained in momentum in the mad rush toward the close, and finally wound up with the fans rocking the rafters with their applause.

When Johny McHugh's gun cracked to send the field of five on the way, the boys promptly put on an Alphonse-Gaston act. It was "after you, my dear Alphonse." The refusal to step out in the lead had five crack milers stumbling all over each other's heels in a most reluctant getaway.

Finally Chuck Fenske of Wisconsin accidentally found himself in front. He dawdled along hoping that some one else would assume the burden. No one would. Cunningham was lodged in second place, the precise spot where he wanted to be.

TIME AT HALF IS 2:10.1

So the lads loafed through a 1:04.8 first quarter and a dull 2:10.1 half, enough to ruin all record pretensions. But the race itself was not ruined. Gene Venzke suddenly came to life around the three-quarter-mile mark and the Baxter feature perked up as though it had had a shot of oxygen.

The picture runner from the New York A. C., looking like the Venzke of old, was out blazing the trail, setting a furious pace and carrying every one with him. Gene showed the way right up to the last half lap. Then Galloping Glenn handed him the crusher.

Once Cunningham sprinted no one could stay with him. He charged around the track in high with Venzke in vain pursuit. San Romani began to move at this same moment and came whirling up in the home stretch, barely nipping the Winged Footer at the wire for second place.

With this victory the cantering Kansan set a Baxter Mile record by winning the event for the fifth time, an unprecedented feat. He also retired his second trophy.

LASH HITS TAPE IN 9:06

The two-mile run was a stirring race that ended just as expected. Iron Man Don Lash breasted the tape in the very sound time of 9:06, a full step in front of Tommy Deckard, with Joe McCluskey five yards farther to the rear.

But that is really too prosaic a description of a great race. Half a lap from the finish Fordham was out in front, fighting with every ounce of strength to stay there. Then from the rear Deckard came whirling past the Winged Footer only to have Lash go outside him for the lead.

For just one instant the three of them were strung across the track like a team of spirited horses. Then it was Deckard past McCluskey and Lash past Deckard, all of it happening in a flash amid a thunderous roar of acclaim.

Once Durable Don sprints no one can stay with him. Little Tommy tried hard but could not do it. Deckard was caught in 9:06.8 and the Winged Footer in 9:08. In fourth position was George De George of the New York A. C. and in fifth was Miklos Szabo, the Hungarian holder of the world outdoor two-mile record of 8:56. Szabo did 9:15 in his indoor debut.

WILL RUN IN TITLE RACE

The European star, an eye-catching performer in baby-blue jersey and trunks, stayed with the leaders until the last couple of laps. Then while he lasted and may find the

Budge Captures Three In Row from Perry

Domei Tsushin

PHILADELPHIA, March 13—Donald J. Budge, former American Davis Cup star who is now winning a fresh series of triumphs as a professional, tonight turned in his third consecutive straight-set victory over Frederick J. Perry, top-flight British court ace, in an exhibition match here. The scores were 6-0, 6-4, 6-2.

Tonight's victory gave the red-headed Californian an undefeated record for the first three matches of the series which he began against Perry at New York last Friday, and which includes appearances in all major cities of the United States and Canada. In only one set out of nine thus far played has Budge even been extended to extra games.

The present tour began a few days after Budge completed a 39-match series against Ellsworth Vines, in which the former won 22 victories to Vines' 17.

he faded to finish some fifty yards behind Lash. He was pretty good while he lasted and may find the experience just what he needs before hooking up with the iron man again in the national championships next week.

The classic Buermeyer 500 had the crowd in an uproar all the way because Johnny Quigley, the De La Salle schoolboy and the idol of the galleries, was the pace-setter for 440 of the 500 yards. But the youngster could not hold up under the drive of the veteran Bill Fritz. The Canadian Olympian caught Quigley with half a lap to go and won from the schoolboy by two yards.

Although he was beaten, Quigley gave a remarkable performance. Fritz triumphed in the exceptionally fast time of 0:57.8, just two-tenths of a second behind the world record. And yet the De La Salle youngster was able to come within two yards of the winner in a race of that sort. Mark him for the future. Young Mr. Quigley really has something.

ONE MORE FOR BORICAN

The great John Borican, unbeaten in six straight races under a mile, continued to reign supreme at the middle distances by winning the Matt Halpin 880 in one of the closest brushes he has had all year. Howie Borck of the Sixty-ninth Regiment A. A. pushed the giant Negro to the limit before capitulating by a two-yard margin.

The time, 1:56, was nothing extraordinary, but it was a rather interesting race to watch because the field of six stayed close together for the entire journey. Borican stepped out in front right at the start and stayed there.

There was little alteration in the order in which they wheeled around the track until the last half lap when Sanford (Cousin) Goldberg, the flying fireman, came charging up from fourth place. He just missed nipping Borck for runner-up honors by inches.

As for Borck, he performed better than he has all year. Lou Burns, fourth, also showed more power and drive. Ross Bush, the Californian, and Charlie Beetham, the ex-Ohio Stater, were lost in the early shuffle and never got into the picture.

JOHNSON IS BEATEN

The sixty-yard dash went according to form when Herbert Thompson remained undefeated by turning back Ben Johnson in 0:06.2, time that equals the meet record and is a tenth behind the new world mark. This was a thriller as John-

SCOTTIES PROVE POPULAR AT N.Y. DOG SHOW

By HENRY R. ILSLEY

N.Y. Times

NEW YORK, Feb. 14—A dog of a size to please the most fastidious fancier, with a body so fashioned that it appealed to the critical terrier expert—that in the outline was Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Stalter's Heather Select, best Scottish terrier in the sixty-third annual dog show of the Westminster Kennel Club, which opened yesterday morning in Madison Square Garden and will continue through tomorrow evening.

Scotties made up the second largest terrier breed in the most notable of America's indoor canine exhibitions and the breed was given the judging ring of honor among the twelve spread over the floor of the big arena. Robert D. Hartshorne of Red Bank, N. J., judged the breed.

Only the foxterriers have a greater hold on the American terrier fanciers, and the equality of the Scottie entry and the reputation of the judge as a breeder, exhibitor and arbiter who places his dogs as he sees them, drew to the ringside a faithful and untiring gallery that remained until the last ribbon had been awarded.

Heather Select is a youngster not yet 3 years old that comes from a faomus line. His sire was the noted Heather Realization and his dam Ch. Heather Glory. Phil Prentice held the other end of the lead and put down Heather Select in grand coat and condition. It was a popular victory in a favorite breed, one of the bright spots of an eventful day.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS

A holiday and a program that presented some of the most famous dogs in the United States and Canada in competition combined to crowd the available spaces about the rings turning both the afternoon and evening sessions. Those that were not particularly concerned with the doing within the fenced areas were content to have a birds-eye view of the proceedings from the arena seats and the boxes, and seldom have these held so large and fashionable a gathering.

During the evening progress was difficult between the rings. At times it was impossible for any save those in favored ringside seats to gain more than fleeting glimpse of the contenders in the more popular breeds.

In the exhibition hall in the basement there was a continuous stream of visitors passing up and down the aisles. Dogs were on their toes during this first day, eager to hurl back the constant challenges of their neighbors and ready to move up to show their paces before the judges.

Two dogs, both tagged by the experts and filling special niches in the hearts of their breed admirers, came through their first day's competitions and should make history in the sporting dog division on the final day. It will be a battle of black champions—a stalwart retriever and a comparatively diminutive spaniel.

MILBANK ENTRY FIRST

It is unfortunate that only one can come through the sporting group, for both have hosts of loyal supporters. The first to gain the coveted best of breed rosette was the Labrador retriever Champion Earlsmoor Moor of Arden, owned by Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Milbank of New York and handled in the ring by Jim Cowie.

Earlsmoor Moor, who has distinguished himself above all other retrievers in American bench show annals, is one of the very few touted as likely to gain Westminster's highest honors. That he was ready to challenge all others in the big ring tomorrow was attested by his carriage and movement under the critical eye of Franklin B. Lord, than whom few have better judgment of a retriever on land, in the water or on the show floor.

No easy road stretches before this upstanding, sound and imperturbable retriever on his journey toward dogdom's highest honors. He must first dispose of a smaller but almost invincible foeman in Champion My Own Brucie.

When Herman E. Mellenthin of Poughkeepsie put Brucie through his paces, the superb son of the great Red Brucie and My Own Lady Huntington paid attention only to the business at hand. It was a triumph that was sweet to his breeder-owner-handler and to spaniel fanciers who have followed attentively and admiringly his show career.

TOP NOTCHER HEAD BREED

Just to make the sporting dog group a little more interesting tomorrow, Champion Milson Top Notcher tossed his lead into the ring last night. Irish setter breeders showed the third largest entry in the group and the attractive red dog had a correspondingly large following. Harry Hartnett had Top Notcher at his best to win and he will be in the battle to the last.

A tense throng of terrier enthusiasts surrounded the ring in the final stages of the judging of foxterriers. It was one of the last decisions of the evening and admirers of the breed never wavered in their loyalty, holding their places while arena and gallery seats were starkingly vacant.

Briefly, Champion Nornay Saddler added just one more best of breed award to that lengthening string of which even his owner and handler are beginning to lose count. This remarkable smooth foxterrier, star of the Wissaboo Kennels of James M. Austin of Westbury, L. I., trotted along with Len Brumby just as confidently as he had on Sunday when he registered his fortieth best in show victory at the foxterrier specialty event.

Moreover, when Stanley J. Halle of New York had finished going over the finalists, had made up his mind and was walking to the judges' table to mark his book, Saddler started to go along with him as if to make sure that the rosette was his. As always he was asking for it.

Champion Pennine Paramount of Prune's Own stepped out yesterday. He showed superbly and certainly he was a different dog from the one that had appeared in the Garden a year ago, when he never had a look-in.

This year Charlie Palmer had the lead and the dog's condition was the result of plenty of road work. Paramount, still in the kennels of Mr. and Mrs. A. Biddle Duke of Tuxedo Park, was good enough to top forty-eight individuals, one of the best pointer entries in a long time.

Thirty-nine English springer spaniels came before Mrs. A. R. Moffit of Poughkeepsie, one of the best-fitted judges of spaniel form, both as to conformation for showing purposes and as adapted for field-trial purposes. Mrs. Moffit has bred both ways, shown on the bench and followed through the field.

Colonel of Audley went through from open dogs to best of breed. This American-bred, owned by T. Norman Morrow of Mountain View, N. J., has been winning right along. He is a white-and-black dog, nicely balanced and built on working lines. He was put down in working condition.

There was a fair entry of Irish wolfhounds to pass before Dr. Charles J. McAnulty, who put up Champion Halcyon Alannah of Ambleside. He had coat, feet and movement over his nearest rival.

LADY ROWENA WINS

Dr. McAnulty also passed on the Bedlington terriers, who came out with an entry of twenty-eight, although the breed had not joined in the terrier specialty exhibition on Sunday. Dr. McAnulty had some very good Bedlingtons before him, but could hardly fault that well-known winner, Champion Lady Rowena of Rowanoaks from the Neary Kennels of Long Island.

Forty-seven cairn terriers paraded before William Prescott Wolcott, the Boston expert. There was a crowded ringside to compare his placings with the awards at the specialty exhibition. Mr. Wolcott went right through and found his best in a homebred.

This was the bitch Pimpernel of Mercia, bred and owned by Mrs. G. W. Hyslop of Brookville, Ont., and handled in the ring by Nate Levine. She came through open bitches to defeat the winning dog, the puppy Shagbark Sparkle, a youngster that appears to have a future for his owner, Helen C. Hunt of Washington, Conn.

A striking difference of opinion on terrier merit became evident with the final award in the Irish terrier competition. Mr. Wolcott had to go through to the bitch puppies before he found what he wanted.

His final selection was Molly Lass, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coll of Greenwich, Conn. This sweet little thing, which will not be a year old until March 15, took the measure of all opposed in her sex and went on to defeat the winning dog. It is interesting that the dog she defeated was also a puppy by a C. D. X. sire.

son seemed to have the dash sewed up tighter than a drumhead at fifty yards.

But then Thompson let go with a shot that seemed to lift him up and sling him over the tape in first place. There was daylight between them at the end, so furious was the closing burst of the Jersey City Negro.

The high hurdles had the upset that the sprint missed supplying. Roy Staley and Allan Tolmich were locked in a grim struggle during the middle of the race but suddenly Larry O'Connor of Canada rocketed past the pair of them over the final hurdles and won in 0:07.2 to equal the world record.

The first of the college two-mile relays resulted in a very easy triumph for the Princeton quartet of W. Jaddin, A. Waterman, Bob Thum and Weymouth Kirkland. The Tiger youngsters showed the way for practically the entire journey, with Yale, Penn and Columbia following in that order. The winning time of Matty Geis' pupils was an ordinary 8:04.2.

Before the other and faster two-mile relay was staged the metropolitan college freshmen had it out over a one-mile distance. Fordham won by five yards from New York University in the very smart time of 3:26.6, a meet record, three-tenths of a second under Manhattan's old figures.

The Ram quartet consisted of R. Fallon, P. Callory, E. Shine and Bob Dorland. It was a superb third leg by young Leslie MacMitchell that tossed New York in the fight because until the miler tried his hand—or feet—the Violet was entirely out of it, MacMitchell gaining more than twenty yards on the leaders. After the Ram freshmen had triumphed so neatly the Fordham varsity necessarily had to follow such an illustrious example. The Maroon two-mile team, Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. champion romped off with its test in the magnificent time of 7:44.6, a meet record and not so far off the seemingly untouchable world indoor mark of 7:41.6. Fordham lined up with Joe Fay, Walter Cary, Wesley Wallace and Frank Slater. Manhattan was fifteen yards behind at the wire.

The fractions on the Fordhamites, by the way, were mighty revealing. Here they are: Fay, 1:59.2; Cary, 1:54.3; Wallace, 1:56.9, and Slater, 1:54.2.

Two of the Ram stars came back later in the evening to team with Ralph St. Pierre and George Leary to run the fastest Eastern mile of the year, a smashing 3:21 achievement. Wallace and Slater ran the last two legs to win from N. Y. U. by ten yards even though Jim Herbert turned in an anchor 48-second quarter. The Ram fractions were 0:50.6 for St. Pierre, 0:50.5 for Leary, 0:50.5 for Wallace and 0:49.4 for Slater.

Other fast relay times were Georgetown's 3:22.4 with J. Motzenbecker, C. Neumeyer, Vin Braun and Mort Alnwick, and the 69th Regiment A. A. Clocking of 3:22.6 with Lou Burns, Charlie Beetham, Dick Squire and Howie Borck.

Reich Track Federation's Invitation Is Accepted

The invitation received from Dr. Karl Ritter von Halt, president of the German Track and Field Federation, on Monday to dispatch five athletes and a manager to Germany from the latter part of July to August was enthusiastically accepted by the Japan Track and Field Federation Tuesday night, and a reply by cable to that effect was immediately sent.

Selection of the athletes will await the receipt of the formal invitation from Germany, and will be based on the showing in the first half of the current season.

The indications are that Germany wants to have two pole vaulters, one broad jumper, one hop, step and jump star, and one sprinter sent by Japan.

FAST TIMES MADE IN U.S. BOBSLED TRIALS

N.Y. Times

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., Feb. 13—Robert Linney of Lyon Mountain, N. Y., an engineer, drove his crew to victory today in the four-man American bobsled tryouts for the 1940 Olympics.

Continuing his fast pace of yesterday, when he led a group of favorites at the halfway mark, Linney piloted his Iron Clipper, all-metal sled designed and built by himself, through a snowstorm and registered a combined time of 4 minutes 37.59 seconds for the four miles.

Francis Tyler, Lake Placid policeman, guided his Sno Bird crew around the icy curves of the Mount Van Hoevenberg run into second place only 68/100 th of a second behind Linney.

FAST TIME BY TYLER

In third place at the conclusion of yesterday's two heats, Tyler recorded the fastest heat today, 1:09.54, to move up a notch in the final standings.

Curtis Stevens of Lake Placid, who with his brother Hubert won the two-man tryouts Saturday, dropped his Olympic champion four into third place when he failed to better 1:10 in either heat.

Aubrey (Bucky) Wells of Keene Valley, N. Y., who monopolized bobsledding honors last year, finished fourth.

None of the drivers equaled the record-breaking performances of yesterday, when all topped the single-heat mark for sleds equipped with ten-millimeter runners. It was Linney's smashing performance of 1:08.40 yesterday that enabled him to remain in front of the field during the two-day trials. The former mark was held by Tyler, who negotiated the distance in 1:09.44 last month.

1940 TEAM SELECTED

After the races, the Olympic bobsled committee, basing its decision on showings made in the tryouts and on general consistency of performance during the last three years, named the members of the United States team which will compete in the Winter Olympic Games at St. Moritz, Switzerland, next February.

Two-man crews selected were the Stevens brothers and the Keene Valley (N. Y.) pair, Ivan Brown and Allen M. Washbond. Named to compete in the four-man races were the teams of Linnney and Tyler.

Alternates recommended, were Wells, Matthew Monahan Jr., of Lake Placid and James Bickford of Saranac Lake.

The committee is headed by Elwood S. Kerr of Lake Placid.

The summaries showing total time of yesterday's two heats, the final two heats and combined time:

First—Lyon Mountain Lions (Robert Linney, driver; William Stacawich, Arthur Keyser, Angus W. Clair, brake). Time—2:17.75, 1:10.17, 1:09.67—4:37.59.

Second—Lake Placid Club Sno Birds Francis Tyler, driver; Hugo Varno, William J. D'Amico, Robert Martin, brake. Time—2:18.80, 1:09.54, 1:09.93—4:38.27.

Third—Olympic Four (Curtis Stevens, driver, Lake Placid; Clifford Gray, New York City; William Duprey, Saranac Lake; James Bickford, Lake Placid, brake). Time—2:18.17, 1:10.12, 1:10.12—4:38.41.

Fourth—Keene Valley A. C. (Aubrey Wells, driver; Warren Martin, Hubert Nye, John W. Otis, brake). Time—2:18.83, 1:10.28, 1:09.73—4:38.84.

Hunter Planning To Bring Football Team to Japan

Herbert Hunter, former American major league baseball player, who brought a group of major league stars on an exhibition tour to Japan several years ago, is planning to bring an American footbal team to this country, according to a special dispatch to the Asahi from New York.

Mr. Hunter's plan is to bring either an all-star professional team or one of university players, the latter group superior to the contingents which were invited to Japan several years ago by the Asashi Shimbun.

If the trip materializes, according to Mr. Hunter, the team would play six games in Tokyo and a number of games in the Kansai. He told the Asahi reporter in New York that the China Incident, on which the Japanese Government is concentrating efforts, is not hindering sports activities in Japan.

'Big Six' League Donates ¥25,000 to Army, Navy

The 30 per cent slash, amounting to ¥25,162.77, in the share of the member teams of the Tokyo Six University Baseball league from gate receipts last year was donated to the Army and Navy Tuesday.

Originally, the league had planned to appropriate it for trips of teams to China to console the soldiers as well as purchase of athletic equipment for their use.

OUT FOR THIRD OLYMPIC TITLE

Swimmers working out Wednesday afternoon for the first time this year at the Tokyo Imperial University indoor pool in preparation for the 12th Olympic Games at Helsinki next year.

SWIMMERS START WORKOUT FOR OLYMPICS; GERMAN MERMEN TO ARRIVE ON AUG. 3

As a part of its campaign to triumph for the third straight Olympic Games at Helsinki next year, the Japan Swimming Federation started its training for the year Wednesday afternoon at the Tokyo Imperial University's indoor pool.

Making their appearance were some 40 swimmers, including stars from Waseda, Rikkyo and Nihon universities. Among them were Tetsuo Hamuro of Nihon University, who won the 200-meter breaststroke race at the 11th Olympic Games at Berlin in 1936, Shigeo Arai of Rikkyo University, current 100 and 200-meter freestyle champion, and Takeshi Sasaki of Nihon University, up and coming freestyle sprinter.

The promising performance of Miyamoto of the Tadotsu Middle School of Shikoku and Koyanagi, Ota and Asano of Chukyo Commercial School of Nagoya, all in Tokyo to take examinations for entrance to higher schools, proved a source of much encouragement to the officials of the Federation.

Beginning today, Yasuhiko Kojima, Japan's premier backstroker, Nario Takahashi, one of the country's leading middle distance stars, and Noboru Terada, Olympic 1,500-meter champion, all of Keio University, were expected to join the workout.

Practise will be continued to the end of the month.

The Japan Swimming Federation was to dispatch a formal invitation through the German Embassy today to the German Swimming Federation to dispatch six swimmers to Japan to the national championships next August in Tokyo. Acceptance is said to be certain.

According to tentative plans, the German mermen will arrive at Kobe on August 3 on the Hakozaki Maru and will appear in two or three exhibitions besides competing in the national championships in the middle of August. They are slated to sail from Kobe on the Hakozaki Maru on August 31.

Futabayama Keeps Win Streak at Osaka

Grand Champion Futabayama and his stable-mate, the up and coming Haguroyama, are the only two undefeated at the end of the eighth day's bouts Wednesday of the 13-day third annual professional sumo (Japanese wrestling) tournament at Osaka.

Haguroyama defeated Ayanobori, who too had been undefeated, after a torrid bout.

Futabayama pushed Ryogoku out of the ring to avenge his setback in the January tournament in Tokyo.

HARVARD BEATS COLUMBIA, 14-12 AT WRESTLING

N.Y. Times

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 18—Recurrence of a chronic knee injury in the midst of the all-important final bout spelled the difference between a tie and defeat for Columbia today and Harvard's grapplers triumphed, 14—12, in the Indoor Athletic Building today.

Setting the stage for a thrilling final, the Lions scored four decisions against Harvard's three. Then the heavyweights stepped to the mat. Harvard's Clarence (Chief) Boston could tie the score with a decision and a fall for him meant victory.

After two minutes, Boston forced the issue, taking Joseph Bartolf to the mat. Just as Bartolf was extricating himself, his leg went limp, and the match was over. A lateral ligament in his left knee had snapped out of place, and Coach Gus Peterson forfeited the bout, despite Bartolf's plea that he could go on.

CANADIENS TOP AMERICANS, 7-2 IN HOCKEY TILT

N.Y. Times

MONTREAL, Feb. 18—The crippled Montreal Canadiens unleashed five third-period goals tonight to rout the New York Americans, 7—2, and climb within three points of a National Hockey League play-off position.

With Toe Blake and Rod Lorrain setting the pace with two goals and an assist apiece, the Canadiens gave their speediest exhibition of the season before a crowd of close to 8,000.

The visitors were ahead only once, in the first period when Lorne Carr banged in Eddie Wiseman's rebound. The Canadiens went scoreless in the opening period, but Blake and Louis Trudel connected in the second.

Blake got what proved to be the winning goal at 1:02 of the third period and breakaways brought the Frenchmen four more as the Americans played five men up all through the period. Lorrain got two and Johnny Gagnon and Herbie Cain the others.

Carr put the Americans ahead at 12:28 when, with Blake serving a penalty, he banged in Wiseman's rebound on a mass play.

Stewart drew a penalty, but Robertson had an easy time while he was off as the New York defense held tight. The Canadiens were at their best in the closing minutes and the American goalie kicked out four shots in succession from close quarters.

Toe Blake, who got four goals the last time the Canadiens played the Americans, stepped through the whole New York team at 2:03 to even the score. It was a beautiful goal on a low backhander to the far side of the net.

The game was getting faster and Cude barely managed to deflect Sorrell's shot over the net after the American winger had taken a pass right at the crease. At the other end Des Smith tested Robertson from a few feet out. The Canadiens went ahead at 6:49, when Trudel lifted Lorrain's rebound over Robertson.

Play moved rapidly up and down the ice with both goalies taking turn about at making brilliant saves. Schriner got in the best shot, a low drive to the corner that Cude just kicked out. As the Americans turned on the pressure Cude got rid of the puck by tossing it over the netting behind the net and a penalty shot was called. Nels Stewart's drive was dead on and low, but Cude got his stick on it.

Just before the end Goldsworthy stepped around Des Smith and seemed to have Cude beaten, but the Canadiens' goalie stopped the puck with his face. He had to go off for repairs and the period ended a minute and half early.

After a long delay Cude came out with a wide strip of plaster across his nose and cheek. It was announced he had suffered a cut under the eye that caused a small hemorrhage. The Americans started right in with a five-man attack and Gagnon, on a breakaway, just missed the corner by inches. The next breakaway clicked, however, and Blake beat Robertson after Gagnon's pass sent him in alone. Haynes also drew an assist on the goal at 1:02.

Cude's dive stopped Sorrell and Schriner hit the post. Then the Habitants swarmed in again and got their fourth goal at 4:15 when Lorrain's shot from behind the net bounced in off Robertson's skate. Trudel and Drouin got assists.

Three minutes later Gagnon made the score 5—1 with a sizzler from twenty feet out that went between Robertson's skates. Haynes and Blake drew assists. The American goalie made a brilliant stop seconds later when three Canadiens got through alone. Jackson took a goal off the margin at 10:21 on a play with Wiseman and Carr, but Cain brought the count to 6 to 2 twenty-five seconds later.

Carr dumped Cain and the Canadiens were awarded a penalty shot, but because of a technicality it was called back just as Lorrain was about to shoot. Carr was penalized, however, and Lorrain batted in the seventh Canadien goal at 11:20. That ended the scoring action.

KAMEDA HITS FIRST HOMER OF SEASON

Ted Tadashi Kameda, ace pitcher of the Eagles imported from Hawaii last year, blasted out the first homer of the professional league's 1939 season when he poled one into the left field stands as a pinchhitter in the last of the ninth, Monday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium here. But the Eagles were shy three runs and the Hankyus eventually won the game with a 4-2 count.

Mitsuhiko Ishida, former Hosei star, of the Hankyus had a good afternoon and checked the Eagles to six hits. Mochizuki worked for the Eagles and was touched for nine hits.

The Senators sent Jiro Noguchi, one of the best twirlers ever developed in recent years in Japan's middle school circles, to the mound against the Dolfins but his fast ball proved a liking to the Dolfins who scored one run in the first canto and two more in the fourth to lead 3 to 0. Then in the seventh, they bunched three hits to garner another run. Meanwhile, Masaki Nakayama had the Senators eating out of his hands to yield but four hits.

The Lions roared again and routed the Nagoya contingent, 4 to 1, in the other game of the tripleheader.

All three games were played inside of an hour and 25 minutes.

HARVARD BEATS PRINCETON, 4-3, IN EXTRA PERIOD

N.Y. Herald Tribune

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 25—Harvard defeated the Princeton hockey team, 4 to 3, in Baker Rink tonight, in a contest for second place on the Quadrangular League ladder. In a wild overtime period the Crimson scored twice and Princeton once.

Joe Patrick, Cambridge leftwing, skirted the cage in 2:03 to break the 2-to-2 tie without help, and two minutes later Captain Austie Harding, high scorer, with three goals, poked in a relay from Patrick. Bob Bordley's goal on a pass from Captain Budge Miller at 6:14 of the ten-minute period raised Nassau hopes but the rally was short-lived.

The Crimson skaters put on the pressure at the start. Win Jameson pulled Bill Johnson out to make the first of several brilliant stops. Vinton Freedley, in the Harvard cage, saved three times as the tide changed, Wyer, Quaker and Bordley drawing him out. Harvard scored the first goal with only ten seconds remining. Jameson bounced the puck off the right boards, where Capt. Austie Harding picked it up, circled the defenders and rifled the rubber past Johnson with a sharp angle shot from the left lane.

BARNICK TIES SCORE

A more coordinated Crimson attack greeted the Tigers in the second frame. Bill Coleman circled the Princeton cage and scored but he was inside the crease and the goal was disallowed. The Nassau six picked up speed, testing Freedley frequently, and at 15:36 evened the count when Toots Barnicle snapped in a rebound from Budge Miller's shot.

Harding collaborated with Patrick and Winslow to give Harvard the advantage again when he cut the cords with a backhand shot in 18:37.

The Orange and Black harried the Cambridge six constantly but refused to send a five-man attack down the ice. Playing close on defense, Harvard was not seriously threatened and the battle degenerated into individual attacks. Harding broke free on a long solo dash but was halted at the crease by Johnston.

TURNER EVENS COUNT

A few seconds later, a Princeton surge at full strength tied the count at 2 to 2 while Harvard was one man short. Dick Purnell fired from the side and Harry Turner knocked in the rebound at 14:07.

The line-up:

Pos.	Harvard (4)	Princeton (3)
G.	Freedly	Johnston
R.D.	Houghton	Miller
L.D.	Jameson	Fraker
C.	Harding	Cochrane

FAMED POLO STAR DIES AFTER FALL

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Captain C. T. I. (Pat) Roark, veteran Irish-born polo star of the Midwick High Goal team, pictured after he fell from his polo pony during a match in Los Angeles on February 19. Eric Pedley, a teammate, holds Roark's head while Elmer Boesche rushes up to help the injured man. Roark was removed in a critical condition to Huntington Memorial Hospital. He died two days later.

ROARK, FAMED IRISH-BORN POLO PLAYER, DIED FROM BRAIN CONCUSSION AFTER FALL

PASADENA, Calif., Feb. 21—Captain C. T. I. (Pat) Roark, 43, internationally known Irish-born polo player and retired British Army officer, died today from a brain concussion suffered in a fall in a polo match Sunday.

Roark, who was formerly captain of Great Britain's International Cup team and for many years a ten-goal star, never regained consciousness.

Members of his family, including his young wife, mother of a five-week-old son, and a brother, Aidan Roark, also a high-goal polo player, were notified at noon that the end was near.

Roark was playing with California's Midwick team against a team of English International Cup players, but both he and his brother were candidates for the British team, which is to take part in the big cup matches at Meadow Brook in June. The invading team members are here for a series of tune-up matches.

PLAYED ON FOUR CONTINENTS

For almost two decades Captain Charles Thomas Irvine Roark, more familiarly known by his nickname of Pat, was considered one of the leading polo players of the world. A celebrated intenationalist who performed brilliantly in topflight competition on four continents in the course of his career, he held ten-goal ranking for several years and at the time of his death was listed at just one notch below that ultra-select circle.

Born in 1893 at Carlow, Ireland, Captain Roark was a natural-born horseman. His father, Thomas Irvine Roark, and his mother both were noted for horsemanship, and Captain Roark rode almost as soon as he was able to walk. It was a common sight during his boyhood, at the hunts near his home, to see the entire Roark family, father and mother, three boys and two girls, out together.

At the age of 9 Roark played his first polo game, and he played every year after that, even finding time for an occasional game while serving in France with the First Life Guards during the war.

EDUCATED IN IRELAND

Educated in Ireland, Captain Roark played Rugby and Cricket at school and kept up his hunting and steeplechase riding. In later years he continued with these sports, but concentrated on polo. He played with his father's teams in the famous county week of polo in Ireland, the week before the Dublin horse show, when that competition was as well known as any in the world.

Leading teams from England came across and before the war started Captain Roark had taken part in three championship tournaments against the leading players of the day. On the day war was declared, the Captain, being then too young for a commission, enlisted with the Royal Irish Rifles. But he soon arranged a transfer to the First Life Guards and a return to horses.

After serving in France throughout the war with this unit, he went to India, carrying a 6-goal handicap in polo and joining the Poona Horse. The climate in India did not agree with him, however, and to save his health he was forced to resign from the army.

Then he began to play with Stephen (Laddie) Sanford, the young American sportsman, on the latter's Hurricane teams, which he helped to win many major tournaments in this country and England. He became well known in this country for the first time in 1926 when he assisted the Hurricanes in capturing the United States open championship.

LED AKNUSTI TO VICTORY

Almost every year thereafter he was a flashing figure on America's leading polo fields, playing with the Hurricanes and other leading teams in the major tournaments in Long Island and on the Pacific Coast. Just last Fall he led the Aknusti quartet, on which he rode at No. 3, to a smashing victory over Old Westbury, the national champions, in the Waterbury Cup tourney.

Riding under the wide, red-striped helmet of the Poona Horse, he twice played at No. 3 for the British team in international series here. That the Army-in-India combination sent across in 1927 and the team he captained in 1930 both lost in three games was not his fault, for he played magnificently in the losing cause.

He had been officially invited to ride with the British team that will meet an American quartet in a resumption of the Westchester Cup international series at the Meadow Brook Club in Westbury, L. I., this June and, as a nine-goal player, the highest-ranked man on the invading squad, was counted to be one of its mainstays.

With his two brothers, Aidan and E. C., and his father, Captain Roark took part in a remarkable family game in London in 1930, defeating the Ashton brothers of Australia in a match refereed by the Miller brothers, well-known English polo pair. The senior Roark was 67 years old on the date of that game.

WAS MARRIED IN 1938

For the last few years of his life Captain Roark lived in California, which, incidentally, was the scene of a near-fatal polo accident for him in March, 1932. He fell from his pony and was out of action for some time.

He married Miss Margaret Ruth Hostetter of Pasadena, Calif., in April, 1938, two years after the death of his first wife in London.

Captain Roark was noted particularly for his superb horsemanship and was generally admitted one of the finest riders anywhere in the game. But he was also a hard and accurate hitter and a splendid leader, handling the field tactics of the Hurricanes and most of the other teams on which he played with a coolness under fire that earned him a reputation as one of the keenest brains in polo.

Futabayama Wins Osaka Tournament Without a Defeat

His worries all over, engaged to a millionaire heiress since the last January tournament in Tokyo when not only was his winning streak of three years broken but he was beaten four times, Grand Champion Futabayama apparently is back in top form and it will be no surprise if he starts again on a long string of victories when the "Summer" season of the professional sumo season opens in Tokyo in May. He threw Champion Mayedayama without trouble Monday at Osaka to win the championship of the third annual tournament there with 13 victories out of as many bouts.

Haguroyama, stable-mate of Futabayama, was high point wrestler among those of the first ranking circle but, excluding grand champions with but one defeat.

Grand Champion Minanogawa, who was forced to enter hospital on the eighth day of the Osaka tournament because of a body injury, was able to leave the hospital Monday afternoon and is expected to be in condition to enter the tournament which starts at Kyoto on Wednesday.

YALE BOWS, 4-2, AS DARTMOUTH SIX WINS TITLE

By ROBERT B. COOKE

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 25—Yale's hockey team, haunted by defeat and misfortune ever since the season began, met a little more of both tonight as Dartmouth downed a belligerent Blue sextet, 4 to 2. By its victory Dartmouth, current leader in the Quadrangular League, carried the title back to the Hanover hills beyond mathematical reach of the other members of the circuit.

Had it not been for the presence of Dan Sullivan, Bud Foster and Harpo Walsh, the Big Green's ace first line, the result might have borne a different hue. Sullivan, scoring two goals in the third period and helping with another, Walsh, with three assists and Foster with one goal and one assist, supplied the offensive necessary to the triumph of the visitors.

YALE SCORES FIRST

Despite this display of power these lively Dartmouth forwards might have been stopped had Yale played according to the correct rules in the third period. Clem Kite, an invaluable player to the Blue all evening, had put his team in front in the first period and had done it again as the final session began.

Kite's second goal had sent the crowd of more than 3,000 persons, many of whom had joined in the festivities at the Yale junior prom last night, into wild vocal unrestraint. Yale was apparently on the verge of winning its first Quadrangular League game. The throng thought so, even the Dartmouth players seemed to think so, but, as the last period began to wane, two penalties abruptly changed the course of the battle.

Three penalties, which came almost simultaneously, put the Blue in a sorry plight. With a huge advantage in man-power Foster Walsh, Sullivan and the Dartmouth defense raced into the Yale end zone. Before Toland had returned, the Big Green was leading, 3 to 2. When Johnny Kelley added another point soon afterward the Yale cause was doomed.

Throughout the first period Yale, carrying the play, outskated their opponents. With the help of Kite's terrific shot from the Blue line, it had taken a 1-to-0 lead. Dartmouth, apparently content to remain on the defensive, had only made spasmodic surges down the ice.

DARTMOUTH TIES SCORE

The visitors continued in this mode of attack for the greater part of the middle session but at 17:14 Foster and his mates grew a little restless and stormed the Yale cage for the tying count. Foster, taking a relay from Sullivan, was responsible for the goal.

Kite had nullified this point in the early minutes of the third period, scoring as he had done before with a drive from the Blue line that no one in the arena, including Goding, over saw.

Before Dartmouth had decided on a five-man offensive the referee had given them the idea. Pierson and Toland were both sent to the penalty box and Dartmouth, an inspired team all season, rose once more to wipe out the Yale lead, finally take the advantage and add to it just before the end.

Its 206 pages tell of the march of an army unit from the south toward Hsuchow for the battle fought there in May 1938. But it is neither a factual record nor fiction. In form somewhat like a diary or a series of letters, it gives the writer's impression of the alien land through which he moved with the unit and what happened to him. The book is in some aspects akin to Colonel T. E. Lawrence's well-known Seven Pillars of Wisdom, in which he wrote of the Arabian campaign in the World War.

CUNNINGHAM, TOLMICH AND LASH STAR IN NEW YORK TRACK MEET

By STANLEY WOODWARD

N.Y. Herald Tribune

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—The 69th Regiment relay team, comprising Dick Squires, Howard Borck, Lou Burns and Charley Beetham, set a world record for the 1,600-meter relay, winning the event in 3:17.2 over the flyers of Fordham and New York University before 14,000 ecstatic track fans who watched the fifty-first annual American indoor track championships in Madison Square Garden last night.

Leading all the way, hanging on stubbornly against the challenge of Fordham's Wesley Wallace and Frank Slater, the regimental runners uprooted one of the toughest records in the books, the 3:17.8 set by the Pennsylvania quartet, which included Bill Carr, in 1931.

The meet record of 3.19.4 had tumbled earlier in the day when Fordham's quartet peeled off the distance in 3.18.7 with Slater, the anchor man, running pulled up. In the final, Fordham, which finished second, also broke the record, registering 3:17.4, and New York University, almost overhauling Fordham on Jim Herbert's final sprint, tied it.

Among the other wonders perpetrated during a hectic evening were a world record performance of :08.5 by Allan Tolmich, of Detroit, in the 65-yard high hurdles, and a new American citizen's record of 14:30.9 in the 5,000-meter run by Don Lash.

The latter and his co-distance champion, Glenn Cunningham, were eminently successful in defending their championships. Lash lapped his field and stormed in, paced by Bob Aldrich, whom he had lapped twice, amid tremendous cheers from the crowd. Cunningham stayed behind for three-quarters of a mile and then romped in as of yore just as every one expected he would to win the 1,500-meter run.

CUNNINGHAM TRIUMPHS

After lesser men had set the pace over the bulk of the distance, the matchless Kansan whipped into the van on "Cunningham Corner," lower end of the backstretch, ran away and beat Gene Venzke by six yards in 3:54.6, pretty ordinary time for a national champion.

The field apparently helped Glenn store up energy for his characteristic closing sprint by setting a desultory pace in the early running. Josef Mostert, the Belgian, led at the end of the first quarter, which was dawdled off in 0:66.3. The half was completed in 2:11.4, with Ernest Federoff, of the Millrose A. A., leading.

With three laps to go, Venzke catapulted into the lead and Cunningham, who had been plugging along in fourth place, paid him the compliment of coming up with him. In the backstretch of the bell lap, Cunningham turned on the whizz and went past Venzke with plenty to spare, increasing his lead to the tape. Charles Fenske, of Madison, Wis., was third and Archie San Romani fourth. Neither of these operatives stood out in the running of the race.

Lash had no such trouble with his field. He took the lead at the gun and ran in front the whole distance, running the mile in 4:31.6, the two miles in 9:16.8, the three miles in 14:05 (breaking Norman Bright's mark of 14:08 for the fractional distance which has stood since last year as a citizen's record). He lapped John Wall, of the San Francisco Olympic Club, who finished second, on the last time around and beat him ten yards plus a lap.

TOLMICH BREAKS RECORD

The 69th team held the lead all the way but was challenged seriously on the third lap when Fordham's Wesley Wallace turned off 400 meters in 47.8, pulling close to Lou Burns as the latter turned over the baton to Beeetham. Slater ran himself dizzy trying to catch the flying Buckeye, faded at the end and was nearly nipped for second place by the closing burst of Herbert. Iowa, winner of the second preliminary heat in the afternoon, was outclassed all the way.

Allan Tolmich, unattached, of Detroit, provided the first big thrill when he set a world record of 0:08.4 in the final of the 65-meter hurdles. Leaping out of his "holes" as if shot from a gun, he led a great field all the way beating Southern California's Roy Staley by four feet. Fred Wolcott, of Rice Institute, who had third in the final after having been beaten by Edward Dugger, Tufts College Negro, in his semi-final. Wolcott squared accounts with Dugger in the final, pushing him back to fourth place.

Tolmich, who has been having a rocky season over the indoor barriers demonstrated that he was hot in his semi-final, equaling the world record of 0:08.5, which he established last year while beating Staley six feet. The Californian ran with a taped thigh as he did in the N.Y.A.C. last week.

BORICAN WINS 1,000-METER

John Borican, the Negro flyer who represents the Shore A. C., played havoc with the field in the 1,000-meter run, metric equivalent of the event in which he recently defeated the incomparable Cunningham, winning by sixteen yards in the good time of 2:28.6 Borican spread-eagled his field and led all the way except on the third-to-last lap when Edward Burrowes, the Princeton freshman, took the lead for a short time. Stanford Goldberg, the fireman who runs for the Millrose A. A., passed Burrowes in the next-to-last lap and finished second. James C. McGilvray, of Montclair State Teachers College, charged into fourth place.

Columbia's Fank Ryan won the shotput title with a sub-par effort of 50 feet 11 inches, which nevertheless put the rest of the field in the shade. Ryan, the defending champion, had the greater part of a foot on his nearest competitor, Edward Beetom, of the University of Pennsylvania.

THOMPSON WINS DASH

Herbert Thompson, unbeaten Jersey City Negro, won the 60-yard dash championship, tying the world record of 0:6.6 in his semi-final as well as in the final, in which he defeated Ben Johnson, the former Columbia University sprinter, by five feet. Eulace Peacock and Perrin Walker were close behind Johnson.

The 600-meter championship was won by Charley Beetham, former Ohio runner who led a clean sweep for the runners of the 69th Regiment A. A. Beetham took the lead at the end of the second lap after Robert Sovett, of Bethany College, and Doug Raymond, of the Boston A. A., had set the early pace. After he had once shot into the lead there was no catching the regimental flier. He finished fifteen yards ahead of his clubmate, Howie Borck, former Manhattan College runner. Dick Squires and Lou Burns, finishing third and fourth, completed a sweep for the 69th. The time 1:21.6, was comfortably slower than the record set by N. Y. U.'s Jimmy Herbert last year.

After a recount by the Judges, Eddie Gordon, of the Grand Street Boys' Association, retained his broad jump championship. It was announced originally that Francis Zeimetz, of Boston College, had won the event with a leap of 23 feet 6½ inches. An hour later they discovered a Gordon jump of 23 feet 10⅛ inches, which they had previously forgotten. Gordon thereupon was reinstated as champion and Zeimetz dropped to second place.

Tommy Deckard, of Bloomington, Ind., who has passed most of the Winter racing Don Lash in the two-mile, reinstated himself as champion in the 3,000-meter steeplechase after a year's defection, catching the N. Y. A. C.'s Joe McCluskey on the back stretch of the bell lap and beating him ten yards in 8:49.4, five seconds off his own so-called world record.

N. Y. U. WINS RELAY

New York University's "A" team won the 1,000-meter medley relay, beating the N. Y. A. C. team in the final in 2:00.5. The Lenox Hill Athletic Association was third and New York University's "B" team, fourth. Martin Witte, trackwise Violet operative who ran the final 200-yard leg, did a great job of fighting off Eddie O'Sullivan, the Winged Foot anchor. Witte carried his man wide on the corners and refused to let O'Sullivan by on the final turn. The latter faded after the last attempt and the Violet runner won handily.

Cornelius Warmerdam, of the Olympic Club, San Francisco, took the pole-vault title, being the only operative to clear the rather prosaic height of 14 feet. He took three shots at 14 feet 5 inches and failed. His nearest competitor, Sumner Gill, of the Boston A. A., could do no better than 13 feet 6 inches.

Henry Dreyer, world record holder in the 35-pound weight throw, regained his national championship after three untitled years and led a delegation of New York Athletic Club "whales" in a clean-up of 11 points in this event when the championships opened in the afternoon in Squadron A Armory.

In regaining the weight-heaving championship, Dreyer dethroned his enlarged fellow alumnus of Rhode Island State, the 245-pound Irving Folwartshny. The latter finished second to Dreyer's 54 feet 5½ inches with a throw of 53 feet 9½ inches. Mike Pappas, former Columbia operative, and Pete Zaremba, once a New York University Violet, finished third and fourth, respectively, completing the New York A. C. sweep and giving the Winged Foot added wings toward its eighth successive team championship.

While the afternoon's heaving at no time threatened the meet record of 52 feet 2 inches, made last year by Folwartshny, nor the world record of 58 feet 4¼ inches held by Dreyer, it was marked by exemplary consistency. None of the "whales" fell below 50 feet on any throw and Dreyer beat 54 feet on two of his.

FOLWARTSHNY HANDICAPPED

No one could remember a previous clean-up in the event, though the ponderous oldtime delegations of the Irish-American A. C. used to come close. Folwartshny, somewhat handicapped by a strained back, fell approximately four feet below the figure whaling conoisseurs had learned to expect from him.

Mel Walker, of Toledo, took the high jump title with a leap of 6 feet 8 inches. The New York A. C. captured the 2,900-meter relay, thus completing a point score of 34 and gaining its eighth successive team championship. Other high team scorers were 69th Regiment, 16; New York University, 10; Grand Street Boys Association, 9; Olympic Club, 8; Shore A. C., 7; Columbia, 7.

Keio Gets 28 Dozen Tennis Balls for Year

Of the 216 dozen tennis balls allotted to the Kanto division of the Japan Students Tennis Federation for the year under the government's raw materials consumption control, the largest amount of 28 dozen will be apportioned to Keio University and the smallest quantity of three dozen to Senshu University.

Officials of the Kanto division met Tuesday for distribution of the balls to its 33 member institutions.

GIANTS BEAT HANKYU, 1-0; KARITA HOMERS

The Tokyo Giants won their third straight game of the 1939 professional baseball season Tuesday afternoon at the Korakuen stadium here by nosing out the Hankyu aggregation, 1 to 0, in the best game of the day's triplebill.

A wild pitch by Michio Shigematsu with a man on third accounted for the Giants' only and winning run in the last half of the eighth inning. Teruzo Nakano, pinchhitting for Nami Goh, gained life at first when his grounder took a bad hop. Eichiro Yamamoto, running for Nakao, went to second on Shigeru Mizuhara's sacrifice and then to third as Shiraishi grounded out in the infield. Then came Shigematsu's wild pitch with the count 2 and 2 on burly Haruyasu Nakajima, homerun king in the 1938 season.

White Russian Stalphin, educated in the Hokkaido, contributed much to the Giants' victory, by checking the Hankyu batters to two hits, garnered by Shortstop Yukio Tanaka and Second Baseman Jinkichi Ito.

The Osaka Tigers, last year's champions, finally broke into the winning column after three starts by taking the measure of the Nankai squad by a 2-1 score. Third Baseman Ryohei Igauye broke up a 1-all tie by singling over short to bring in Misonou from second in the seventh inning. Misonou reached first when Left Fielder Ito muffed his fly, a tough break for Pitcher Ri who had been chucking airtight ball against the Tigers.

The Senators downed the Eagles, 7-3, in the curtainraiser. Whatever chance the Eagles had of rallying in the last half of the ninth with the count 4 to 3 in the Senators' favor at the end of the eighth was killed by Manager Hisanori Karita and Senators' second baseman when he clouted the first pitch of Moundsman Ted Ferukawa in the first half of the ninth with a man on.

Horiguchi will Fight Welterweight Saturday

Tsuneo (Piston) Horiguchi, Japan's best known professional fighter, is determined to be the Henry Armstrong of this country, in other words, he is in quest of the lightweight and welterweight titles in addition to his featherweight crown.

Horiguchi takes on Matsuo (Tiger) Amino, rugged hard hitting welterweight, in a 12 round bout Saturday night at the Kokugikan wrestling bowl at Ryogoku. Though Horiguchi is faster on his feet and a better boxer, Amino is by far the heavier hitter. All the indications are that it will be a whale of a scrap.

A.A.U. LIKELY TO GO BACK TO YDS.-INDOORS

NEW YORK, Feb. 27—The boys didn't know it, but they planked down a fistful of metric records in the A. A. U. championships just in time. It looks as if the United States will be off the metric standard indoors for a long time to come.

The Executive Committee of the Amateur Athletic Union, meeting Sunday with memories of the meet still warm, recommended that future A. A. U. indoor competition be conducted with yards-and-miles measurements. This action is expected to be confirmed at the annual convention in Miami next December.

LAST OUTPOST

Thus will disappear one of the last American outposts of the "international standard" introduced here seven years ago in preparation for the Olympic Games at Los Angeles.

The Intercollegiate A. A. A. A., whose indoor championship next Saturday headline this week's track and field program, already has returned to the yards-and-miles system. The National Collegiate A. A., whose rules govern the Big Ten championships this week, never left it.

This leaves the A. A. U. outdoor championships alone among all the track meets in the United States still on the international standard. There have been frequent suggestions for shift to the American plan, but it is doubtful any change will be made before the 1940 Olympics, if ever.

Daniel J. Ferris, Secretary-Treasurer of the A. A. U., explained the desirability of continuing the use of meters outdoors lay in the chance it gives American athletes to achieve records at internationally recognized distances and to compare their performances with such marks.

Indoor records are not recognized by the International Federation and therefore, he said, there was no point in the A.A.U. adhering to meters when all other races are in yards. American records in all cases are the best indoor marks known and are recognized in this country as world standards.

For these reasons, performances at the 51st A. A. U. championships Saturday night appear destined for posterity.

Included in the exploits to be remembered are these:

Allan Tolmich of Detroit traveled 65 meters over five hurdles in 8.4s., one-tenth better than his own world record.

The 1,600-meter relay team of the 69th Regiment A. A.—Howie Borck, Dick Squire, Lou Burns and Charley Beetham—shaved six-tenths off the world record with a 3m. 17.2s. effort.

The 2,900-meter medley relay combination of the New York A. C.—Ed Stripling, Ed O'Sullivan, Gene Venzke and Phil Graves—did 7m. 08.3s. to cut seven-tenths off the old world record.

Herbert Thompson of Jersey City equalled the world mark for the 60-meter dash in 6.6s.

Don Lash of Indiana lapped the entire field in the 5,000-meter run to set a new record for an American citizen, 14m. 30.9s.

Lash, who was awarded the 1938 Sullivan Trophy yesterday as the athlete who did the most to advance the cause of sportsmanship, will race against Glenn Cunningham, the durable Kansan, in a special two-mile race as part of the I.C.A.A.A. A. jamboree. Cunningham retained his 1,500-meter title Saturday with a 3m. 54.6s. performance.

HARVARD WINS 4-UNIVERSITIES TRACK MEET

BOSTON, Feb. 25—Three meet records were broken and another was established tonight as Harvard's well-balanced track and field forces gained their second victory in four years of quadrangular competition against Cornell, Yale and Dartmouth. The Crimson piled up 49 1-3 points in the fourteen events at the Boston Garden, while the Ithacans were runners-up with 44 1-6 points.

The last event, the pole vault, decided the third-place winner, Dartmouth, which collected 26 1-3 points to Yale's 24.

The Crimson gained five first places, tied for another, and provided two of the record-breakers. Jim Lightbody jr., who ran a 1:22.4 "600," lowered his own mark by 1.4 seconds, while Bill Shallow's winning toss of 55 feet 5 inches, was 7⅞ inches beyond the best previous thirty-five-pound weight performance given by Art Loeb, of Yale, three years ago.

The Cornell relay team turned the mile in 3:24.5, a half second faster than the mark set by the 1937 Dartmouth four, while defeating Harvard by thirty yards. Joe Bradley, of Harvard, was the victor in the first "1,000" raced by these four "Ivy" college rivals, and his time of 2:18.4 was set down as a record.

Cornell, rated as the pre-meet favorite, trailed the Crimson by only a single point, 37 to 36, when the tenth event was completed. This Ithacans, who gained four first places, got off to a poor start when Jim Pender was shut out in the fifty-yard dash. Another Cornell setback came when its two-mile relay team finished third, instead of an expected second, to Harvard.

Army Conquers Navy in Basketball, 46-32

N.Y. Herald Tribune

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 25—Army's basketball team did the expected today in defeating Navy, 46 to 32, with Walter Brinker the big gun for the cadets in this annual service rivalry.

The middies sailed into an early lead of 12 to 5 with a spurt sparked by Joe Hanley, then lapsed while Army scored eight straight points and took command of the contest. Thereafter it was merely a question of the final score. Army led at the half, 27 to 17.

Brinker collected five field goals and made good two free throws, while Riggs Sullivan's accurate shooting was mainly responsible for erasing Army's early deficit.

George Ghesquiere, Navy's center, kept the middies within range in the second period and scored 14 points in all, high for the game.

Berman, Griffiths and Esau, cadet reserves, were inserted in the second half to win their "A-star" letters.

NORWEGIAN SKIING STAR

Torger, Tokle, 19-year-old Norwegian skiing star, who has thrilled Americans with his brilliant performances.

NORWEGIAN WINS SKI JUMP IN U.S.

By FRANK ELKINS

N.Y. Times

BERLIN, N. H., Feb. 26—The biggest crowd in the long history of the United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association, 25,000 persons, braved a swirling snowstorm today to witness the national ski-jumping tryouts to select the American color bearers for the world championships in Norway next year.

Despite the near-blizzard, sixty of the foremost riders in this country gave remarkable performances that kept the onlookers, huddled alongside the towering hill and on the surrounding mountainsides, thrilled throughout. Once again the 19-year-old recent Norwegian arrival, Torger Tokle, who has shown no regard for hill records in his five weeks in this country, excelled with two flights that long will be remembered.

Although not eligible to represent America in the F. I. S. meet, the Norwegian youth stole the show with his almost perfect form in the air and upon landing, as well as for his precision at the take-off. He compiled the high score of 214.3, which included many points for his majestic leap of 232 feet, the longest of the exciting program, on his first effort. He did 225 feet on his second in Class B.

Continuing the custom he established after his arrival from Lokken Verk, where he had excelled in interscholastic meets, Tokle again outscored the Class A winner by a comfortable margin. The dynamic St. Paul jumper, Sverre Fredheim, gained another brilliant triumph in Class A, thus assuring himself of another trip across the seas in the interest of American skiing.

FREDHEIM GRACEFUL SKIER

The 1936 Olympian and two-time winner of the Central Ski Association championship flashed a remarkable Knekk style, with a forward lean from the hip, on his efforts of 225 and 228 feet for 210.7 points. There are few fliers in the world who can surpass Fredheim for style and grace soaring from the take-off.

Another Olympian, 23-year-old Walter Bietila of the Wisconsin Hoofers, was the runner-up in Class A, the same position that his brother, 18-year-old Roy, achieved in Class B.

The hardest sort of struggle developed for the next seven places in Class A, only 1.8 points separating the third-place man, bespectacled Johnny Litchfield of Dartmouth, from the occupant of the ninth position, 16-year-old Crosby Perry-Smith of the Lake Placid Club Sno Birds.

There have been few competitions in the East in which skiers have had to contend with such a storm. All day yesterday the 171-foot-high structure, the work of the National Youth Administration of New Hampshire, had been packed with snow for the event, the most important ski tourney in the country this Winter. Still, those practicing yesterday had found the 1,000-foot incline too icy, needing an inch or two of new snow to make the run ideal.

RECORD NOT ENDANGERED

But today's raging storm left at least five inches before the start of the meet to slow the chute and thus nullify any chance of breaking the American amateur record of 257 feet. It was necessary for the fliers, who hailed from fifteen States, to protect their visibility by using visors and goggles. The slide was somewhat slow and sticky, with the result that spills were numerous on the transition.

Despite the weather, virtually the entire population of this famous skiing city and spectators from many other points in the East watched the spectacular competition. Governor Francis P. Murphy and his party of New Hampshire officials thrilled to the admirable performances.

Nambu will Coach Athletes in Brazil

Chuhei Nambu, who won for Japan the world's running broad jump at the 10th Olympic Games at Los Angeles in 1932, is scheduled to leave Kobe in June to attend the All-Brazilian track and field championships. Then he will coach Japanese-born athletes in Brazil in track and field athletics.

Finland Will Honor Nurmi at Olympics

N.Y. Times

HELSINKI, Finland, Feb. 27—Finland will pay special tribute to Paavo Nurmi, her greatest runner, during the twelfth Olympic Games, starting July 20, 1940.

Nurmi has been asked to lead the "Battalion of Honor," made up of fifty Finns who have won sixty-nine gold medals in Olympic Games since 1906. Of the thirty-seven track and field medals they have collected, twenty-four were in distance events.

Finland's first Olympic winner was Werner Jarvinen, who will be 70 years old when he marches with Nurmi at the head of the procession. Jarvinen was 36 when he won the old-style discus event in 1906, and saw his son, Matti Jarvinen, take javelin honors at Los Angeles in 1932.

Finland is particularly proud of her men who have repeated in the Olympics over a great number of years. Kuston Pihlajamaki, for example, was the youngest Finnish gold medal winner when he captured a wrestling title in 1924, but he repeated again in 1936 at Berlin and now, at 36, he's preparing to compete in his fifth Olympiad.

Nurmi himself won six gold medals. He took the 9,000 and 10,000-meter cross-country and 10,000-meter run in 1920, the cross-country and 1,500-meter titles in 1924 and repeated in the 10,0000-meter run in 1928.

BRUNDAGE COMING HERE ON APRIL 13

Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic Committee and member of the International Olympic Committee, who was Japan's strongest backer at the I. O. C. meeting at Berlin in 1936 when the 12th Olympic Games were awarded to Tokyo and at the I. O. C. convention in March, 1938 at Cairo when not only the Berlin decision was reaffirmed but the 5th Olympic Winter Games were definitely awarded to Sapporo, will arrive at Yokohama on April 13 aboard the Tatsuta Maru from San Francisco.

Mr. Brundage and his wife recently accepted an invitation extended by the Japan Amateur Athletic Federation, Board of Tourist Industry, Tokyo Municipality and the Foreign Office, to visit this country while en route to London where he will attend the general meeting of the I. O. C. in June. The Brundages are scheduled to leave Kobe on April 27 aboard the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Suwa Maru for London.

During his two weeks' visit here, Mr. Brundage will meet not only officials of the sports circles but exchange views with high government authorities and industrial leaders. A firm friend of Japan and one commanding much influence in America, Mr. Brundage's visit is expected to contribute much to understanding of Japan's position in the international situation today.

As a young man, Mr. Brundage represented the United States in the decathlon at the 5th Olympic Games at Stockholm in 1912. His election as president of the A.A.U. (Amateur Athletic Union of the United States) in 1928 was the beginning of a long and brilliant career of leadership of amateur American sports.

It was the strong and able support given to the late Professor Jigoro Kano by Mr. Brundage and William Garland, another American member, that the I.O.C. voted in favor of Tokyo at Cairo despite strong opposition voiced at the time against organization of the Olympic Games in Japan because of the Sino-Japanese hostilities. They held that sports was entirely apart from political considerations.

LOUIS TO STAKE TITLE AGAINST TONY GALENTO

N.Y. Times

DETROIT, Feb. 27—The world heavyweight champion, Joe Louis, will defend his title against Tony Galento, the rotund Orange, N. J., contender, in New York the last week in June, John Roxborough, manager of the Negro star, announced tonight.

Confirming advices from Miami Beach, Fla., that the bout awaited only formal announcement from Promoter Mike Jacobs, Roxborough said he had agreed to the match in a telephone conversation with the promoter.

"I told Jacobs," Roxborough said, "that Joe would fight anybody if conditions were right—meaning if conditions were such that the bout would draw." Roxborough added that Jacobs informed him he believed New York would support the fight.

Fight observers generally have been skeptical of Galento's ability to give the champion a real fight, despite the pudgy one's string of knockouts. The opinion of experts has been that Champion Joe would knock out Tony in a hurry.

In view of this Roxborough indicated he had been lukewarm to the match. He expressed the opinion tonight that "New York is the only place that would support it."

SENDS WORD TO WRITERS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 27—The anticipated heavyweight championship match between Joe Louis and Tony Galento next June awaits only a formal announcement by Promoter Mike Jacobs on Wednesday morning to make it official.

After conferences last night and today, Jacobs sent out word that he would be "at home" to the press at his beach cabana at 10:30 A. M Wednesday and expected to have some interesting news.

Engaged in the conferences here are Promoters Jacobs of New York and Herman Taylor of Philadelphia, Joe Jacobs, manager of Galento, and Sol Strauss of New York, who is Mike's personal attorney and a genius at drawing up foolproof boxing contracts. Strauss flew in last night.

Taylor enters the picture because he holds a contract giving him exclusive rights to Galento's services for five years. Joe Jacobs gave it to him last year in an unguarded moment because Taylor had lost a lot of money when Galento had an attack of pneumonia and was unable to go through with a fight in Philadelphia.

That's what has held up the match. Taylor, naturally, wants his cut on the big fight, and he's going to get it. He and Mike Jacobs have battled for five or six hours about how deep a cut it's going to be.

FIGHTERS ARE WILLING

There's no question about the fighters being ready and willing. Neither Louis nor his managers try to pick their opponents. They fight anybody, and they regard Galento as a particularly soft touch.

While the master minds are working out the details Tony holds constant court and demonstrates to one and all how he will swing his trusty left and win the title. Since his third-round victory over Abe Feldman last Thursday night, Tony, in his own mind, is invincible.

He says he'll really get himself into shape for Louis, knock off maybe fifteen pounds and enter the ring an agile 210-pounder.

Sumo Tournament Extended to 15 Days

The professional sumo (Japanese wrestling) tournaments staged annually in January and May at the Kokugikan bowl at Ryogoku, Tokyo, will be held for 15 days or an extension for two days beginning the tourney in May, it was formally announced by the Japan Sumo Federation Wednesday night.

Action was taken by the Association with the view to giving more of Tokyo residents a chance to see the matches.

The tourney was extended to 13 days from 11 days in 1937 because of popular demand.

DICKEY ACCEPTS YANKEES' TERMS

By JAMES P. DAWSON

N.Y. Times

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 27—The announcement that Bill Dickey, the Yankees' great catcher, had accepted terms for the 1939 season overshadowed the world champions' first workout of the year at Huggins Field today.

In the absence of official disclousure of Dickey's salary, the figure was estimated to be from $19,500 to $23,000. The agreement ended a one-day holdout for the catcher. Dickey was due in camp today.

In announcing by wire from New York that Dickey had come to terms, President Ed Barrow disclosed that the catcher would leave tomorrow for St. Petersburg from his home in Little Rock, Ark. Dental work prevented Dickey's departure earlier.

A gathering of about 1,500 persons saw the Yankees, twenty-two strong, swing into action under the guidance of Coach Art Fletcher. The weather was perfect. Cloudy skies cleared and for one hour and twenty minutes the athletes sweated through a drill that inaugurated the Yankees' fifeenth year here.

Thirteen regular pitchers, three catchers, one infielder, four outfielders and a batting practice hurler worked out today, one of the largest bands to answer the first training call in Yankee history. At 11:00 o'clock they raced on the field, Coach Fletcher at their head, Coach John Schulte lumbering along. Scouts Johnny Nee and Paul Krichell were the rear-guard.

They worked until 12:20 o'clock at warming up, pitching, batting, bunting, going through a rowing exercise and running one lap around the field, in that order.

Lou Gehrig was the lone infielder, working a week ahead of time. The four outfielders were George Selkirk and Jake Powell of the regular line and Charley Keller, from Newark, and Joe Gallagher, up from the Kansas City farm. These two rookies will fight for the leftfield berth.

REICH, ITALIAN SOCCER TEAMS TO BE INVITED

Germany and Italy will be invited to send teams to compete in a Germany-Italy-Japan international soccer series in Tokyo next Summer, according to a decision reached by the Japan Soccer Association at its meeting on Tuesday to draft its program for 1939.

Negotiations will be made by the Association to have the German team included if possible in the KDF or German recreational organ's delegation that is scheduled to visit Japan in the Summer. Negotiations have already been started with Italy.

While the Association has not yet definitely decided whether or not to send a team to the 12th Olympic Games at Helsinki next year, all its activities for the current year will be in the form of preparation for dispatch of a team at anytime.

The home-and-home series with Manchoukuo will be staged this year as usual and a team will be sent to Manchoukuo.

Other principal events of the Association for the year follow:

June 9-11: All-Japan championships at Meiji Shrine stadium, Tokyo.
October-Nov. 3: Meiji Shrine games, Tokyo.
October 10: East versus West students' competition at Meiji Shrine stadium, Tokyo.
December: Kansai versus Chosen match, at Koshien.
December 24: Kanto versus All-Chosen team at Meiji Shrine stadium.
January 28: Kanto versus Kansai All-stars game at Koshien.
March 10, 1940: East versus West O. B. game at Koshien.

COLUMBIA BOWS TO DARTMOUTH QUINTET, 54-48

N.Y. Herald-Tribune

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 25—Paced by Gus Broberg, who scored 25 points, Dartmouth assured itself of at least a tie for the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League championship when it defeated Columbia, 54 to 48, tonight. The victory was Dartmouth's ninth straight in league competition.

Dartmouth has three league games yet to play as has Cornell, the second-place team. Cornell has a record of six victories and three defeats. One victory for Dartmouth or one defeat for Cornell would give the Big Green its second straight league championship.

Gus Broberg, Dartmouth's sensational sophomore, scored twelve of his points by half-time to pace the Green to its lead. The game started off slowly. After two minutes Dartmouth tallied on a field goal by Broberg. Dartmouth scores by Broberg, Roger (Moose) Dudis, Joe Batchelder and Cottone enabled the Big Green to pull away to a 13-to-5 lead halfway through the first half.

Tehn Columbia went on a scoring spree, registering on long shots for the most part until they pulled up to a 17-to-16 count after abount fourteen minutes of play.

But again the Big Green, exhibiting the best passing and most accurate shooting they have shown on the home court this season brought the capacity crowd to their feet with sensational baskets as they pulled away from the Lions. At the half time Dartmouth held a definite advantage, 26 to 19.

The Big Green continued its scoring spree in the second stanza as Broberg added 13 more points to his evening's total. Only one of his points was scored on a foul shot.

Toward the end of the game baskets by Myers and Naylor, who starred for the visitors, had pulled the count up to 47 to 44 in favor of Dartmouth, and the capacity crowd was starting to clamor for more scoring. The Green promptly fulfilled their request and pulled away to a 54-to-45 lead.
